PERIODICAL
NEWELS
.H8E
SHELF #
ZON1.230

v. 2 of 3
1902.

THE

No. 707

MUSICAL TIMES

Price 4d.

FOUNDED 1844

JANUARY 1, 1902.

The Best English Upright Pianos are

THE

"CHALLEN" PIANOS

Testimonials from the Greatest English Musicians, including:—

SIR JOHN STAINER, SIR GEORGE MARTIN,
FRANKLIN TAYLOR, C. HARFORD LLOYD,
FREDERIC H. COWEN, ALFRED GILBERT,
JOHN FRANCIS BARNETT, FREDERIC LAMOND,
FREDERIC CLIFFE, W. H. CUMMINGS,

And other Eminent Members of the Musical World.

HIGHEST INTERNATIONAL AWARDS, 1862, 1877, 1878, 1881, 1886, 1895, 1897.

CHALLEN & SON, 46, Oxford Street, London, W.

ESTABLISHED 1804.

ARCHIBALD RAMSDEN, Ltd.

103, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON;
12, PARK ROW, LEEDS.

SOLE IMPORTER INTO GREAT BRITAIN

Knauss. Gold Medal Pianos.

OF PIANOS

BY

Gaveau. Member of the Jury, Paris, 1900.

SCHIEDMAYER.

Grand Prix, Paris, 1900.

WRITE FOR CATALOGUE.

CAUTION.—The Public are cautioned when purchasing these Instruments to specially note the Trade Mark. The name is "SCHIEDMAYER" only, and must not be confused with that of other makers bearing similar names.

Trade Mark:—SCHIEDMAYER PIANOFORTE FABRIK.

DR. HANS RICHTER writes on September 21st, 1900:—"We unpacked the Schiedmayer Grand Pianoforte yesterday. I played on it all the evening, and am quite delighted with its perfection and exquisite quality of tone."

These Instruments may be had from the Principal Dealers throughout the Kingdom.

KAIM & SOHN,

THE KING OF THE MODERN PIANO.

Call and read the Opinion of Artists of the highest standing, including Jenny Lind, Ella Russell, Marie Engle, Marie Elba, Felix Weingartner, Hermann Zumpe, Bernhard Stavenhagen, Georg Liebling, Stanley Hawley, Barron Berthald, Ffrangcon-Davies, and Hundreds of others.

FOR FURTHER PARTICULARS APPLY TO

KAIM HOUSE (F. Kaim & Sohn),

67, BERNERS STREET, OXFORD STREET, W.

ESTEY ORGANS.

OVER 328,000 SOLD

Unrivalled in Tone and Quality, Beautiful in Model and Finish.

LARGEST ORGAN MANUFACTURERS IN THE WORLD.

WHOLESALE WAREHOUSE:

12, RATHBONE PLACE, OXFORD ST., W.

Paterson, Sons & Co., Sole Agents for Scotland. Thompson & Shackell, Ltd., Sole Agents for South Wales.

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE POST-FREE.

CHAPPELL PIANOS.

AMERICAN ORGANS (by Clough & Warren) from 6 Guineas.
HARMONIUMS (by Alexandre) . . . from 7 Guineas.

Their latest creations of high-class English Pianos are unquestionably the finest that have ever been produced either by an English or Continental maker. Pianinos, 25 Guineas; Full Cottages, 40 Guineas; Upright Grands, 50 Guineas; Horizontal Grands, 135 Guineas. Hire or Instalment system. Illustrated List Post-free. Established 1808.

CHAPPELL & CO., Ltd. { Pianoforte Manufacturers, } 50, New Bond St., London, W.

TO TEACHERS. CHRISTMAS HOLIDAY SESSION.

THE NORMAL OR TEACHERS' COURSE

OF THE

VIRGIL PIANO SCHOOL and SCHOOL OF PUBLIC PERFORMANCE.

A Two Weeks' Course in Technic and Method of Pianoforte Instruction for Teachers and Players.

Term begins Monday Morning, January 6, 1902. Closes Saturday Evening, January 18.

THE COURSE COMPRISES { 6 Hour Private Lessons in Technic. 6 Hour Class Lessons in Technic. 6 Lecture Lessons. 6 Pianoforte Recitals with Technical Demonstrations.

Send for Circular containing full particulars.

"Mr. A. K. VIRGIL.—The method of study and practice which your unparalleled and original Technic Course and the Clavier make possible is deserving of the highest praise.—VLADIMIR DE PACHMANN."

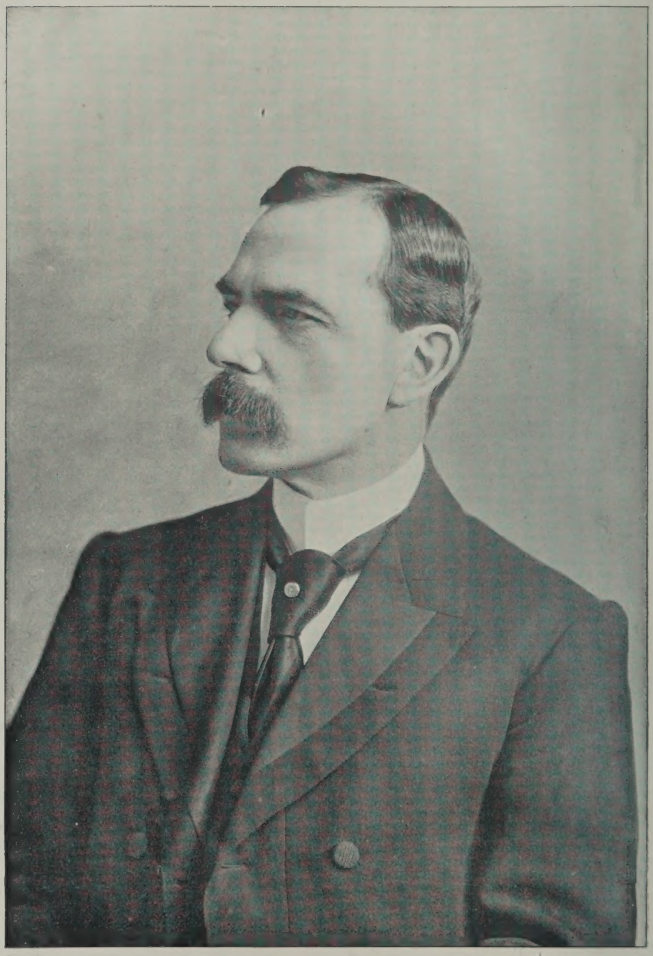
CLAVIER HALL,

12, PRINCES STREET, HANOVER SQUARE, LONDON, W.

THE VIRGIL PRACTICE CLAVIER (BRITISH) CO., LTD. ALBERT BATE, Mng. Director.

N.B.—The Winter Term for Pupils of the Virgil Piano School begins Monday, January 20, 1902.

(From a photograph taken specially for the Musical Times by Mr. H. Jasper Redfern, Sheffield.)



Henry Coward

July 17-1902
Q 93.1902

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.
PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 707.—Vol. 43. JANUARY 1, 1902. Price 4d.; Postage, 1½d.
Registered for transmission abroad. Annual Subscription, Post-free, 5s.

4.41.230
93 1902

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY,

ROYAL ALBERT HALL.

Patron: His Majesty The King.

Conductor: Sir Frederick Bridge, Mus.D.

THURSDAY EVENING, January 23, at 8.

COLERIDGE-TAYLOR'S

"THE BLIND GIRL"

AND SELECTIONS FROM

HANDEL'S "L'ALLEGRO."

Artists:

Madame ALBANI.
Miss MAGGIE PURVIS.
Miss EDNA THORNTON.
Mr. CHARLES SAUNDERS.
Mr. ANDREW BLACK.

BAND AND CHORUS, ONE THOUSAND.

Organist: Mr. H. L. Balfour.

Prices: Stalls, 7s. 6d.; Arena, 6s.; Balcony (Reserved), 5s.; (Unreserved), 4s.; Gallery (Promenade), 1s.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC,

TENTERDEN STREET, W.

Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.
Patron: His Most Gracious Majesty the King.
President: H.R.H. The Duke of Connaught, K.G.
Principal: Sir A. C. Mackenzie, Mus.D., LL.D., F.R.A.M.

LENT TERM begins Thursday, January 9. Entrance Examination therefor, Monday, January 6, at 10.
FORTNIGHTLY CONCERT, January 18, at 8.
Prospectus, Entry Forms, and all information may be obtained from the Secretary.

F. W. RENAUT, Secretary.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

The Christmas F.R.C.O. Examination commences on January 6, 1902. The solo-playing tests are: Passacaglia in C minor, Bach (Vol. I., Peters' ed.; Book X., Novello & Co.: Vol. V., Augener & Co.). Sonata No. 2, in G minor, Op. 42, Merkel (Novello & Co., Augener & Co.). Concert Fantasia in D minor, R. P. Stewart (Novello & Co.).
The A.R.C.O. Examination commences on January 13.
All Candidates, including those claiming exemption from fee, must send in their names for FELLOWSHIP by December 20, 1901, for ASSOCIATESHIP by December 27. In the case of New Members, proposal forms, duly filled up, must be sent in before December 14. No names will be entered after the above dates.
The Book of Examination Papers may be obtained by Members, price 5s., postage 5d.
The College Library is open daily from 10 to 5. On Saturdays the College is open from 10 to 1.
Members desiring practice on the College organ may obtain particulars on application.
The large Hall, and sundry smaller rooms, can be hired for Concerts, Meetings, &c.

E. H. TURPIN, Hon. Secretary.

Hart Street, Bloomsbury, W.C.

THE GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Managed by the Corporation of the City of London.
Principal: William H. Cummings, Mus.D., Dub., F.S.A., Hon. R.A.M.
Pupils can enter at any time.
Individual tuition by eminent teachers at moderate fees. Within three minutes of Ludgate Hill, Fleet Street, and Blackfriars Station (District Railway).
110 Prizes, Medals, and Scholarships,
Giving free and assisted tuition, competed for annually. Subjects taught: Piano, Singing, Organ, Harmony, all Orchestral and Solo Instruments, Stage Training in Elocution, Gesture, Fencing, and Opera. Lady superintendent has charge of all ladies attending the school. Prospectus and form of entry free on application to H. Saxe Wyndham, Secretary, Victoria Embankment, E.C.

MR. ROBERT

NEWMAN'S CONCERTS.

NEWMAN'S

QUEEN'S HALL ORCHESTRA

Conductor:

MR. HENRY J. WOOD.

1901-2.

December 26 to February 1,

at eight nightly,

PROMENADE CONCERTS.

1902.

January 1, at 3,

NEW YEAR'S DAY CONCERT.

January 18, February 1 and 22, and March 8, at 3,

SATURDAY SYMPHONY CONCERTS.

February 12, at 3,

ASH WEDNESDAY CONCERT.

February 15, at 3,

YSAYE AND BUSONI RECITAL.

March 17, at 7.30,

ST. PATRICK'S DAY CONCERT.

March 28, at 3 and 7.30,

GOOD FRIDAY CONCERTS.

April 28 to May 3,

LONDON MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

SUNDAY CONCERTS 9711

Every Sunday Afternoon, at 3.30.

CHEVALIER RECITALS

Daily at 3. Also Thursdays and Saturdays, at 8.30

UNIVERSITY OF DURHAM.

The Examinations for Degrees in Music are held in Durham in March (testamur only) and September.
For particulars, with copies of former Examination Papers, apply to the Secretary of Examinations, or to Dr. Armes, Durham.

BIRMINGHAM AND MIDLAND INSTITUTE.

SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Principal ... ... Granville Bantock.

SESSION 1901-02.

The Session consists of Autumn Term (September 16 to December 21), Winter Term (January 20 to April 5), Summer Term (April 7 to June 21). Instruction in all branches of music. Students' Choir. Students' Orchestra, Fortnightly Rehearsals, Students' Concerts.
Prospectus and further information may be obtained from
ALFRED HAYES, Secretary.

GUILD OF CHURCH MUSICIANS,

42, Berners Street, Oxford Street, London, W.

Patron: His Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury.
President: The Very Rev. Francis Pigou, D.D., Dean of Bristol.

A.G.C.M. and F.G.C.M. Diploma Examination, in April and July, 1902, at the following Centres: London, Birmingham, Liverpool, Manchester, Bristol, Leicester, Leeds, Glasgow, and Belfast.
Annual Banquet and Conference, January 27, 1902.
Annual Membership Subscription, 10s. 6d. Life, £5 5s.
The new Calendar is sent (Post-free) for six stamps.
Free register for Organists requiring appointments.
For further particulars, apply to
Dr. LEWIS, 42, Berners Street, London, W.

VICTORIA COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

(Under the direction of The Victoria College Corporation, Ltd.)

INCORPORATED 1891.

Hon. Patron: His Grace the Duke of Argyll, K.G., K.T.

BOARD OF EXAMINATION.

J. H. Lewis, Mus. Doc., D.C.L. (Principal).
George Prior, Mus. Doc., Oxon., F.R.C.O. (Registrar).
J. M. Bentley, Mus. Doc., Cantab., Hon. F.R.A.M.
(Chairman of the Board).

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT.

Director of Studies: Churchill Sibley, Mus.D.

West-End Premises: 42, Berners Street, Oxford Street, W.
First-class instruction in all musical subjects. Moderate terms.
Provincial Examinations in all subjects, for Certificates and Diplomas, A.V.C.M., L.V.C.M., F.V.C.M., throughout the year.
Metropolitan Examination in April, 1902.
Local Theoretical Examination at all Centres in April and July, 1902.
Holder of the Victoria College Vocal Scholarship, 1901: Miss Lottie L. Wakelin, L.R.A.M.
Gold, Silver, and Bronze Medals are offered for competition.
Local Secretaries required for towns not already represented.
All communications to be addressed as usual to the Central Office, 11, Burleigh Street, Strand, W.C.
GEO. A. STANTON, F.G.C.M., Secretary.

BAKER STREET CHURCH OF ENGLAND HIGH SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, Ltd.,

6, UPPER BAKER STREET, N.W.
(One Minute from the Metropolitan Station.)

The Rev. Canon Francis J. Holland, M.A., Chairman.

PIANO.—Mr. Oscar Beringer, Miss Ethel Boyce, A.R.A.M., Miss Bryant, certificated Frankfort Hoch Conservatoire, Miss Jessie Davies, A.R.A.M., Miss Kate Robinson, certificated Raff Conservatoire, Frankfort, Misses M. Moore and D. Lucas, Miss Barwell, pupil of Miss K. Robinson.
VIOLIN.—Herr Josef Ludwig, Miss L. M. Nunn, R.A.M., Miss Eveleigh, L.R.A.M., Silver Med., R.A.M.
VIOLONCELLO.—Miss A. F. Vernet, L.R.A.M.
ORGAN.—Mr. F. A. W. Docker, A.R.A.M., Organist of St. Andrew's, Wells Street, Professor of the Organ at the Guildhall School of Music, &c.
SINGING.—Mrs. Hutchinson, Miss Margaret Barter.
SIGHT READING and ENSEMBLE PLAYING.—Miss Harrison and Miss Holland: Piano and Strings.
ELOCUTION.—Miss Chute.
HARMONY CLASSES.—Miss Ethel M. Boyce.
ORCHESTRAL AND CHORAL CLASSES during Advent and Lent Terms.

For Prospectus, &c., apply to the Headmistress, Miss Lilla B. Strong, 6, Upper Baker Street, N.W.

ST. ANNE'S, Soho.—BACH'S CHRISTMAS ORATORIO, Fridays, January 3, 10, 17, at 8 p.m. Full orchestra and organ. Tickets required for Body of Church and W. Gallery, can be obtained, gratis, by sending stamped and addressed envelope to Rector, 28, Soho Square. N. and S. Galleries, without ticket, at 7.30.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MISS ETHEL BARNARD (Soprano)
Begs to announce her CHANGE OF ADDRESS to 20, Priory Court Mansions, West Hampstead, N.W.

MADAME CONWAY (Soprano Vocalist)
And Professor of Singing.
444, Moss Lane East, Oxford Road, Manchester.

MISS MARJORIE EATON (Soprano)
"A voice of rare quality and sweetness."—Daily Telegraph.
Concerts, Oratorios, &c., 237, Katherine Street, Ashton-under-Lyne.

MRS. S. FORD (Soprano)
For Oratorio or Miscellaneous Concerts.
For terms, address, Avondale, Park Road, E., Wolverhampton.

MADAME GOODALL (Soprano)
Oratorios and Concerts.
Burley Road, Leeds.

MADAME ANNIE HAYMAN (Soprano)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Thorncliffe, Lowfield Road, Stockport.

MISS BESSIE HOLT (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, Organ Recitals, &c.
Address, Rawstenstall, near Manchester.

MISS ANNIE MAPPLEBECK (Soprano)
Concerts, Oratorios.
32, Burlington Crescent, Goole, Yorkshire.

MISS ETTIE SPICE (Soprano)
MISS EMILY TANNER (Contralto)
Will sing at Concerts, At Homes, &c., for expense fees. Duets a specialty. 19, Tay Bridge Road, Clapham Common, S.W.

MISS AGNES WALKER (Soprano)
Medalist, Diploma, and Exhibitioner.
147, Brockley Road, Brockley, S.E.

MISS KATE GREGORY
(The new Yorkshire Contralto)
Professional Pupil of Albert Jowett, Esq., Yorkshire Training College of Music, Leeds.
Oratorios and Ballad Concerts.
Terms, apply, Doncaster.

MADAME ANNIE GREW (Contralto, Medalist)
Waverley Road, Bradford.

MISS GERTRUDE HEY (Contralto)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Lawn Side, Clarendon Road, Whalley Range, Manchester.

MISS ALICE WOLSTENHOLME (Contralto)
Address, Radcliffe, Manchester.

MR. WRIGHT BEAUMONT (Tenor)
(Bronze and Silver Medalist and Certificate, R.A.M.)
Address, 21, Mysore Road, Clapham Common, S.W.

MR. HENRY PLEVY (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Address, 30, Hamilton Gardens, N.W.

MR. GWILYM RICHARDS (Tenor)
(Of the Queen's Hall Choral and Wagner Concerts; Crystal Palace; St. James's Hall; London Musical Festival).
24, Lavender Gardens, Clapham Common, S.W.

MR. WILLIAM A. SHEEN
(Principal Tenor, The City Temple).
Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 116, High Street, Kingsland, N.E.

MR. HERBERT STANSFIELD
(Principal Tenor, York Minster Choir).
For Oratorios and Concerts. 20, Park Grove; or, the Minster, York.

MR. WILLIAM D. VINCENT (Tenor)
(Late of Farm Street Choir).
For Ballad Concerts, Sunday Recitals. "Specialty," Irish Songs.
Address, 167, Tachbrook Street, Belgrave Road, London, S.W.

MR. WALTER CHIPPINDALE (Baritone)
Oratorios and Concerts. Address, Rawdon.
This season's engagements include "Creation," "Messiah," "Faust," "Maritana," "Bride of Dunkerron," and several Ballad Concerts.

MR. GORDON HELLER (Baritone)
A.R.C.M., Solo Singing and Teaching Singing.
For Concerts, &c. Address, 1, Craven Mansion, Lancaster Gate, W.

MR. AND MRS. WALLIS A. WALLIS
(Baritone, Soprano, and Elocutionists).
Concerts, Lyrical Recitals. Pupils (Resident, &c.). Sharon, Acton, W.

MR. EDWARD COLLYN-EDWARDS
(Bass-Baritone).
For all Concerts: Sacred, Secular, and Select Socials.
Address, 8, The Boulevarde, High Road, Balham, S.W.

MR. EATON COOTER (Basso-Cantante), A.R.C.M.
St. George's and H.M. Private Chapels, Windsor Castle.
Address, The Cloisters, Windsor.

MR. ARTHUR BASSON (Violinist)
For Concerts, &c., Solo or Orchestral; also Lessons.
Address, 35, Swaffield Road, Wandsworth, S.W.

MISS MARY OULD, L.R.A.M. (Solo Violinist)
For Concerts, At Homes, Lessons, &c.
Oakdene, Kilburn Priory, Maida Vale, W.

MR. EDWARD MISDALE (Accompanist)
For Concerts, Private Practice, Tours, &c.
Address, 41, Chepstow Place, Bayswater, W.

MR. VICTOR WHEELER (Accompanist)
Concerts, Dinners, At Homes, &c.
86, Mercers' Road, Tufnell Park, N.

B. E. KENT (Lyric Authoress).
Apply, 155, Rye Lane, Peckham, S.E.

MADAME LOUISE BURNS
(SOPRANO)
Silver Medal, R.A.M.
Erin, Riffel Road, Willesden Green, N.W.

MISS EMILY DAVIES
(SOPRANO)
Oratorios, Operatic and Ballad Concerts, Banquets, At Homes.
Address: Severn House, Finsbury Park, N.

MADAME ADA LOARING
(SOPRANO)
Pupil of Mr. Sims Reeves and Mr. Albert Visetti.
For Oratorio or Ballad Concerts.
18, Halesworth Road, Lewisham, S.E.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS.

MISS KATHERINE NASH
(SOPRANO).
Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c.
"An excellent soprano vocalist. Has always given thorough satisfaction at the many engagements I have given her as a solo singer."—William H. Cummings, Esq., Mus.D., Dub., F.S.A.
Address, 10, Mount Pleasant Mansions, Upper Clapton, N.E.

MISS

BEATRICE PALLISTER
(SOPRANO)
(Pupil of Henry Blower, Esq.)
For Oratorio and Ballad Concerts.

"CREATION," ALBERT HALL.—"Considerable interest was centered on the appearance of Miss Pallister, a Doncaster vocalist of rising fame. Her voice is a bright, full soprano of extensive compass, and in the upper register, of sweet and almost exceptional quality."—Sheffield Daily Telegraph.

"ANCIENT MARINER" AND "LOBGESANG."—"Miss Pallister made a decidedly favourable impression. She has a voice of considerable power and rare purity of tone, while her notes in the higher register are remarkably clear and taken with wonderful ease. Added to this, also, is a refreshingly distinct articulation, which enables the audience to follow her clearly."—West Yorkshire Pioneer.

"MESSIAH."—"Miss B. Pallister, a promising and cultivated vocalist, received an ovation for her fine rendering of 'Rejoice greatly.'"—Yorkshire Post.

Address: Broxholme Lane, Doncaster.

MISS AMY SARGENT
A.R.A.M. (SOPRANO)
39, Blandford Square, N.W.

MADAME RUBY SHAW
A.R.C.M. (SOPRANO)
Desires Pupils and Engagements. Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, Banquets, At Homes. Address, 17, Panmure Road, Sydenham, S.E.

MISS NELLIE WILLIS
(SOPRANO).
Address, 120, Bentley Road, Doncaster.

MISS BERYL CLIVE
(CONTRALTO),
14, Gladsmuir Road, Whitehall Park, N.

MISS

KATHERINE HAWKINS
(CONTRALTO), L.R.A.M.
For Oratorios, Ballad and Chamber Concerts.
Bryn-tirion, Sutton Court Road, Sutton, Surrey.

MISS LOTTIE SWEENEY
(I.S.M., CONTRALTO)
For Oratorios, Ballad and Chamber Concerts.
Address, Miss Sweeney, Vocalist, Armley, Leeds.

MR. HENRY BEAUMONT
(THE EMINENT ENGLISH TENOR).
For Oratorio. All new and standard works.
Address, Principal Agents; or, 83, Maida Vale, W.

MR. SADLEUR BROWNE
(THE SOLO TENOR),
St. Saviour's Collegiate Church, Southwark.

MR. TOM CHILD
(THE YORKSHIRE TENOR).
Winner of the 100 Guineas Prize, London.
Permanent address: The Poplars, Calverley, Leeds.

MR. TREVOR EVANS
(TENOR. HIGHLY COMPLIMENTED BY MADAME PATTI)
"I am delighted with his voice, which I consider charming."—Adelina Patti.
Booking for all the Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Address, 19, Lady Somerset Road, Kentish Town, London, N.W.

MR. FRED. FALLAS
(TENOR)
SOLOIST, SCARBORO' MUSICAL FESTIVAL, 1899.
Terms, &c., address, Horbury, Yorks.

MR. JAMES LEYLAND
(TENOR).
For vacant dates apply, 106, Bolingbroke Grove, Wandsworth Common, S.W.

MR. EDGAR McINTYRE
(TENOR)
Daily Telegraph: "At Steinway Hall a pleasant song recital was given by Mr. Edgar McIntyre, who was well supported. . . . The artist in question has a useful tenor voice, which was agreeably employed in 'I chant my lay' and 'Songs my Mother taught me,' by Dvorák, and in a Hungarian Love Song, by J. L. Roeckel, warm applause greeting his efforts."
Standard: ". . . Was most advantageously heard in two fine gipsy songs by Dvorák."
Stage: ". . . Has an agreeable voice, and rendered with spirit Roeckel's 'Hungarian Love Song.' . . . His other solo was the air, 'How many hired servants,' from Sullivan's 'Prodigal Son.'"
Jewish Chronicle: "An excellent vocalist."

TO CHORAL AND ORCHESTRAL SOCIETIES:
Special Terms will be given for one Introductory Concert.
Extensive Oratorio Répertoire.
Address, 10, Leighton Mansions, Queen's Club Gardens, Kensington, W.

MR. SAMUEL MASTERS
(TENOR),
61, Alexandra Road, Wimbledon, S.W.

MR. JOS. REED
(PRINCIPAL TENOR),
Trinity College, Cambridge.
Terms, &c., apply: 31, Chesterton Road, Cambridge.

MR. DAN BILLINGTON
THE CELEBRATED YORKSHIRE BARITONE (Vide Press)
(Soloist of the Leeds Festivals, Sir Chas. Hallé's and the Principal Provincial Concerts).
34, Hanover Square, Leeds.

MR. JOHN BROWNING
(BARITONE),
SOLOIST, LEEDS MUSICAL FESTIVALS, 1898 and 1901.
Of the leading English and Scotch Concerts,
Principal, Leeds Parish Church, &c.
"ELIJAH."—"The most prominently artistic feature of the performance was the singing of the words and music of the Prophet by Mr. John Browning. Gifted with a magnificent voice of musical sturdiness, cultivated to the highest degree of flexible adaptability . . . he invested the part with a lofty dignity, a dramatic depth and vividness, and a genuine pathos which brought Elijah before the mind's eye with ideal prominence in all his grand impressiveness and power. . . . Mr. Browning's singing of the words and music—each of which had equal attention—was a great triumph of musical and dramatic art."—Huddersfield Examiner, October 29, 1901.
"ELIJAH."—CORK MUSICAL SOCIETY.—"Mr. John Browning created a splendid impression, and sang throughout the oratorio with much skill and effect. . . . He was very warmly received, and more than once the audience desired an encore. . . . Mr. Browning is unquestionably a finished artist, and it is a genuine pleasure to listen to his work in oratorio."—Cork Constitution, November 29, 1901.
DERBY.—CONCERT AT THE DRILL HALL.—"Mr. John Browning made his first appearance in Derby. . . . He has a good presence and a fine voice, and his singing was a great success. We shall be very glad to hear Mr. Browning again."—Derby Advertiser, November 22, 1901.
Address, Marlboro' Grove, Leeds.

MR. EDWARD ILES

(BARITONE).

For Oratorios, Concerts, Song Recitals, &c.

THE TIMES.

The first of two vocal recitals was given in Steinway Hall on Thursday night by Mr. Edward Iles, who has lately made great progress in his art. The voice, a sympathetic baritone of considerable power, has gained many of the qualities which make for effect; and as the singer is a finished musician, his performance of songs of different styles is always pleasant to listen to. Beethoven's "Kuss," Schumann's "Geständniss," Schubert's beautiful "Nacht und Träume," and "Des Einsame" are instances of Mr. Iles's wide knowledge of the classics, and his inclusion of songs by Max Bruch, Eugen d'Albert, Richard Strauss, and Widor, proves him an artist of broad sympathies. He was at his best in Parry's splendidly vigorous Anacreontic "Fill me, boy, as deep a draught" and Stanford's arrangement of "Eva Toole"; and three musicianly songs of his own composition were also given with much success. The first is a charmingly simple and melodious ballad, "As I walked forth," and in the third, "Little soul of disdain" any intelligent singer can hardly fail to make an effect. Miss White's "Montrose's Love Song" ended the recital, and was well sung, although rather faster than usual.

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

A vocal recital was given at St. James's Hall yesterday afternoon by Mr. Edward Iles, a cultivated artist, who, electing to entertain his audience single-handed, succeeded in winning their good opinion and applause. . . . Mr. Iles was entitled to compliment upon his selection of songs and the unfailing earnestness and good taste that characterised his rendering of the various pieces.

STANDARD.

A very interesting and instructive programme was presented by Mr. Edward Iles at his recital in St. James's Hall yesterday afternoon, and it was carried out in a thoroughly artistic manner. Mr. Iles's voice is a baritone, perfectly pure in quality, and entirely under control.

GLOBE.

He sings with great taste and good expression, and is evidently a thorough artist.

DAILY EXPRESS.

The result of his culture and earnestness is very pleasing, and at his recital, yesterday afternoon, at St. James's Hall, he presented a varied and interesting programme that cannot fail to enhance his reputation.

DAILY GRAPHIC.

The song recitals given by Mr. Edward Iles are always interesting, and that which took place at St. James's Hall yesterday afternoon proved no exception to the rule. Mr. Iles is a thoroughly sound musician, and his singing is exceedingly cultivated and refined.

THE STAGE.

In intention and earnestness, Mr. Edward Iles, whose song recital on Friday last must be reckoned among the pleasant musical events, is a great artist.

MUSICAL NEWS.

A vocalist who has not taken long to achieve for himself a high reputation as a singer of taste and culture.

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

Mr. Iles has a voice of sympathetic quality, and he sings with artistic taste and feeling. The programme opened with a group of songs from which we would single out Scarlatti's "La Violette," fresh and graceful as the flower which forms the subject of the poem, and Salvator Rosa's well-known "Star Vicino," both daintily rendered.

LONDON MUSICAL COURIER.

Mr. Edward Iles, in an admirably arranged programme, displayed qualities of voice and style that entitle him to serious consideration.

COURT CIRCULAR.

It is some time since so altogether a pleasing singer as Mr. Edward Iles has made his appearance on the concert platform. His style is eminently good, and his voice beautiful.

MANCHESTER GUARDIAN.

The singer exhibited a fine baritone voice, musical intelligence, and lyrical fervour.

BIRMINGHAM POST.

Mr. Iles has a most sympathetic baritone voice, and sings charmingly.

CAMBRIDGE TIMES.

Mr. Iles has a fine baritone voice; its compass, and his control of it, being little short of marvellous.

Address, 137, King Henry's Road, N.W.

MR. MONTAGUE BORWELL

(BARITONE).

Mr. HENRY J. WOOD (Conductor, Queen's Hall Concerts) writes:—"[illegible], Langham Place, W., Feb. 14, 1901.

"Mr. Montague Borwell is an excellent vocalist.

"He has been most successful both at Queen's Hall, and at my Nottingham and Wolverhampton Concerts, in most difficult and trying rôles, and I consider him one of the most reliable and painstaking baritone vocalists now before the public.

"HENRY J. WOOD."

MISS WINIFRED MARWOOD AND

(Mrs. Montague Borwell—SOPRANO).

Address, 56, Forburg Road, Stoke Newington, N.

MR. BANTOCK PIERPOINT

(BARITONE)

Of Bristol, Bournemouth, Chester, Cheltenham, Tewkesbury, and Norwich Musical Festivals, and principal Concerts in the Kingdom.

Apply, usual Agents; or, 105, Brondesbury Villas, London, N.W.

MR. EDGAR ARCHER

(PRINCIPAL BASS of the City Temple, of the Crystal Palace and St. James's Hall Concerts).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.

Apply, Langdale, Rutland Park, Willesden Green, N.W.

MR. HENRY DOBSON

(BARITONE)

(Of the London, Provincial, and Scottish Concerts).

BIRMINGHAM.—"An artistic début was made by Mr. Henry Dobson, baritone, whose method is distinctly scholarly in every way."—Birmingham Daily Mail, October 7, 1901.

". . . His voice is of a high timbre and well trained, his excellent phrasing being a feature of his singing."—Birmingham Daily Post, October 7, 1901.

"The vocal contributions were of a high standard of excellence, and Mr. Henry Dobson, baritone, is entitled to much distinction for his artistic efforts."—Birmingham Daily Gazette, October 7, 1901.

7, Station Terrace, Hucknall Torkard, Nottingham.

MR. ARTHUR BARLOW

(BASS).

Address, 6, Beech Mansions, West Hampstead, N.W.

Telegrams: "Arthanita, London."

MR. F. G. H. MOORE (A.R.A.M.)

(Walter Macfarren Gold Medalist, R.A.M.).

Solo Pianist and Accompanist, Concerts, At Homes, Lessons.

27, Lady Somerset Road, Highgate, N.W.

MR. HERBERT WALENN

(SOLO VIOLONCELLIST).

Address, 5, Wellington Place, London, N.W.

MISS ELLEN CHILDS

(CHROMATIC HARPIST)

Having studied in Paris under the direction of the Inventor, Miss Childs is prepared to give LESSONS on the NEW CHROMATIC HARP (without pedals). For terms, apply, 170, Belsize Road, N.W.; or, care of Messrs. Pleyell Wolff, Lyon and Co., 79-80, Baker Street, Portman Square, W.

SOLO BOYS.

LONDON TRAINING SCHOOL FOR CHORISTERS,

POLYTECHNIC, REGENT ST., W.

PRESIDENT, MR. ALBERTO RANDEGGER.

PRINCIPAL, MR. JAMES BATES.

Thoroughly trained, experienced Solo Boys, holding positions as Solo Boys at twenty-four of the principal London Churches, can be strongly recommended for Church Festivals, Oratorios, Concerts, Organ Recitals, &c.

Over 100 excellent Chorus Boys also available for all kinds of concerted music.

A special branch for the preparation of scholars (resident or day) for Cathedral or other Choristerships has now been opened. Full particulars of Mr. Bates, as above; or, 7, Blomfield Crescent, Upper Westbourne Terr., Hyde Pk., W. Telegrams—"Musicomane, London."

MR. TANN'S SOLO BOYS.

MR. W. R. B. TANN, Organist and Choirmaster of St. Saviour's Church, Paddington, is prepared to supply well-trained Solo Boys for Oratorios, Festival Services, Organ Recitals, Concerts, At Homes, &c.

A number of excellent Chorus Boys also available.

For terms and vacant dates, address, Mr. W. R. B. Tann, 55, Warwick Road, Maida Vale, W.

THE
12TH ANNUAL MORECAMBE MUSICAL FESTIVAL AND COMPETITION WILL BE HELD ON
APRIL 30, MAY 1, 2, and 3, 1902.
Adjudicators:
Sir ALEXANDER MACKENZIE, Mus.D. (Cantab.), Principal of the Royal Academy of Music, and W. G. MCNAUGHT, Esq., Mus.D. (Cantuar.).
THIRTY-SIX CLASSES: Cash Prizes; Gold and Silver Medals for Conductors.
ONE HUNDRED GUINEAS SILVER CHALLENGE SHIELD CLASS open to Mixed-Voice Choirs (of thirty to fifty voices) in the United Kingdom.
Full particulars in Syllabus, 4d., Post-free.
H. POWELL, Secretary.
Festival Offices, Morecambe.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.

MR. DUTTON (St. Paul's Cathedral) supplies Boys, personally trained and thoroughly reliable, for Church Festivals, Concerts, At Homes, &c. For terms, vacant dates, and further particulars, address, Mr. Henry J. Dutton, 17, Alpha Rd., New Cross, S.E.

ALICE E. JOSEPH
Late Private Secretary to Sir Augustus Harris, Drury Lane Theatre, Royal Opera, Covent Garden,
OPERA AND CONCERT AGENCY,
7A, HANOVER STREET, LONDON, W.
MADAME MELBA and the best Artists have been engaged through above agency.
Telegraphic address: "Alicetta," London.

THE HERBERT SIMMONS CONCERT PARTY.
For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, &c.
MISS CLARIBEL HYDE (Soprano),
Royal Albert Hall and St. James's Hall Concerts.
MR. BERTRAM PEARCE (Tenor),
St. James's Hall Concerts, &c.
MISS HETTY KIMBELL (Contralto),
Late Soloist, American Church, Nice.
MR. HERBERT SIMMONS (Bass),
Queen's Hall, St. James's Hall, and Crystal Palace Concerts, &c.
Address, 38, Vanbrugh Park, Blackheath, S.E.

MR. STEDMAN'S MUSICAL AGENCY
(Established 1877).
Artists for Opera, Theatre, Oratorio, At Homes, Banquets, &c.
Choruses, Choir Boys and Girls.
Singing Lessons and Coaching.
58, Berners Street, W.

LONDON CONCERT & CHOIR AGENCY.
SOLOISTS and CHORUS VOICES for Festivals, Oratorios, Concerts, Glee and Madrigal Societies, At Homes, Banquets, &c.
Mr. JAMES BATES, Polytechnic, Regent Street, W.

MR. W. C. AINLEY, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (1884), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Correspondence. Terms moderate. Eastfield House, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who OBTAINED DEGREES OF MUS.D. AND MUS.B. at Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, London, and Durham Universities. Diplomas of L.R.A.M., A.Mus. L.C.M., L.Mus. L.C.M., F.R.C.O., and A.R.C.O.; Appointments at College and School of Music, and as English Cathedral and Parish Church Organists; Gold Medals, Silver Medals, Prizes, "Honours" and Pass Certificates (of the Colleges of Music) to the number of seven hundred. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Revision of Compositions, by Post, to correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Theory, Singing, Organ, and Pianoforte. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

REVISION OF MUSICAL COMPOSITIONS.
Dr. Horton Allison, Mus.D., 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

DR. ARNOTT, Mus. Doc., Dunelm, Organist to The Honble. Society of Gray's Inn, PREPARES CANDIDATES for all Examinations, and receives Pupils for Pianoforte, Organ, Singing; also, Harmony, Counterpoint, and Composition, personally or by correspondence. Scores revised and compositions scored. All letters to, The Common Room, Gray's Inn.

MR. J. PERCY BAKER, A.R.A.M., Mus. Bac., Dunelm, teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Post. Personal Lessons in Pianoforte or Theory at own or pupil's residence; or, at 60, Berners Street, W. Schools attended. Address, 289, High Road, Lee, S.E.

MR. A. CHATFIELD, F.R.C.O., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., prepares CANDIDATES for MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS, personally or by post. Schools attended. Engagements accepted for Organ Recitals and Accompanist. Address, 4, Granville Road, North Finchley, N., and at 33, Rathbone Place, W.

DR. CUTHBERT HARRIS, Mus. Doc., Dunelm, F.R.C.O., preparation Personally or by Post for Mus. Bac., R.C.O., and all other Exams. Many past successes. Moderate fees. Ardencote, Buckleigh Road, Streatham, S.W.

MR. T. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.R.C.O., L.Mus.T.C.L., gives LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., and prepares CANDIDATES for ARTS and MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Latest successes, Mus.Bac., Oxford and Durham, L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., F.R.C.O., A.R.C.O., &c. Sheppard Street, Stoke-on-Trent.

DR. ATHELSTAN G. IGGULDEN, Mus. Doc. (Dunelm, F.R.C.O., gives LESSONS and prepares for all MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by post. The Dingle, Reigate, Surrey.

OLIVER IVE, Mus. Bac., Oxon.—LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, COMPOSITION, &c., by correspondence or otherwise. Candidates prepared for University and other Examinations, as well as for Preliminary Arts. Moderate terms. Address, 24, Carmalt Gardens, Putney, S.W.

DR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac., Cantab.; Mus. Doc., Trinity College, Toronto; gives LESSONS, Personally or by Post, in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, FORM and ANALYSIS, ORCHESTRATION, ACOUSTICS, &c., and prepares for Musical Examinations. Latest successes: MUS. BAC., DURHAM, 1901, 1900, and all previous years; OXFORD FINAL and FIRST MUS. BAC., 1900; F.R.C.O. and A.R.C.O., 1900 and 1901; L.R.A.M. (Composition and Pianoforte), 1900, 1899, &c.; A.R.C.M. (Theory of Music, Composition, and Pianoforte Teaching); CAMBRIDGE, LONDON, and DUBLIN, MUS. BAC. degrees in recent years; L.Mus. and A.Mus., L.C.M.; L.T.C.L., A.T.C.L., and Special Certificates, 1899, 1900, and 1901; Senior Associated Board. Special and individual attention given to Correspondents. MSS. corrected for publication; Analysis of classical works for Exams. Terms moderate. Address, 70, Parkhill Road, London, N.W.

MR. A. MANGELSDORFF, L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., Pianist, Coaches for DIPLOMAS in PIANOFORTE PLAYING and TEACHING. Paper work, postal. Address, Atherstone.

DR. MARCHANT, Mus.D., Oxon., F.R.C.O., (Author of "500 Fugue Subjects and Answers," Novello's Primers, No. 35), &c., PREPARES CANDIDATES for all Musical Examinations by Post. 10, Glebe Crescent, Stirling, N.B.

MR. H. H. L. MIDDLETON, Mus.B., desires to state that TWENTY-ONE of his Pupils were SUCCESSFUL at the A.R.C.M. EXAM., 1901. Hazelwood, Dollis Rd., Finchley, N.

SPECIAL COACHING for DIPLOMAS by Post. A.R.C.M., 1895-1901, SEVENTY-SEVEN passes, L.R.A.M., 1897-1901, TWENTY-SEVEN passes. Many successes in other Degrees. Lessons in all branches of Theory, Piano, Organ, and Singing. Address, Mr. H. H. L. MIDDLETON, MUS. BAC., F.R.C.O., Hazelwood, Dollis Road, Finchley, N.

MR. ALFRED W. TOMLYN, Mus. Bac., Dunelm, L.Mus.T.C.L., COACHES for EXAMS. Lessons follow closely lines of latest Exam. papers. Terms strictly reasonable. Many years' experience. 58, Comiston Road, Edinburgh.

DR. HAMILTON ROBINSON, Mus. Doc., Dunelm, A.R.A.M., F.R.C.O., Lecturer on Harmony in King's College, Lond., Organist and Choirmaster, St. Stephen's, South Kensington. PIANOFORTE and ORGAN LESSONS, HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, COMPOSITION, &c., Personally or by Correspondence. Preparation for University, R.C.O., and all other Examinations. Classes. 25, Palliser Road, West Kensington, W.

MR. STRETTON SWANN, Mus. Bac., Dunelm, F.R.C.O., gives LESSONS or prepares for EXAMINATIONS Personally or by Post.
New Hydraulic Organ, seven minutes from London Bridge.
181, Longley Road, Tooting, S.W.

MR. ALLEN GILL, A.R.A.M., attends at 60, Berners Street, for LESSONS in VOICE PRODUCTION, SINGING, and for REPERTOIRE. For terms, apply to 21, Cathcart Hill, N.

MR. A. H. ALLEN (the Church of St. Philip and St. James, Oxford) has a VACANCY for an ASSISTANT PUPIL.

DR. J. WARRINER can receive professional and, if desired, resident PUPILS for TRAINING and INTRODUCTION. Voice Culture, Keyboard or Theory. Postal or personal courses for all Exams. Favourable terms for real promise. De Crespigny Lodge, Denmark Hill, S.E.

THE VIRGIL CLAVIER PIANOFORTE METHOD.—Mr. STIEBLER COOK, A.R.A.M., gives LESSONS on the above system (recommended by Paderewski, Von Bülow, De Pachmann). The most rapid and certain means for acquiring a perfect technique. 17, Keppel St., Russell Sq., London, W.C.

VOICES TRAINED (Altos included) and Sight-Singing and the PIANOFORTE TAUGHT by Mr. W. A. FROST (Vicar-Choral of St. Paul's Cathedral), at 16, Amwell Street, Myddelton Square, E.C. Many pupils of Mr. Frost have obtained Cathedral and other Choir Appointments in open competitions.

MISS JEAN HUNTER, L.R.A.M. LESSONS at 60, Berners Street, W., in VOICE PRODUCTION, SINGING, and PIANOFORTE. Letters, 87, Herbert Rd., Plumstead.

PIANO PUPILS.—Lady L.R.A.M., experienced and successful teacher, desires OPENING. PIANO, HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT. Would purchase connection. Address, Piano, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

MADAME EUGENIA MORGAN can receive a few PAYING GUESTS. Highly recommended by Lady Superintendent, Guildhall School of Music. Special arrangements for students. 69, Elgin Avenue, Maida Hill, W.

VACANCY for LADY SOPRANO in City Church. £5 allowed for expenses. Apply, by letter, to E. G. Gough, 69, Allerton Road, Stoke Newington.

WESTMINSTER CATHEDRAL.—WANTED, two ALTOS, two TENORS, and four BASSES (Catholics). Daily services, morning and afternoon. Minimum salary, £70 per annum. A few auxiliary voices (salaried) may be required for Sunday duty. Trial of voices, Jan. 15. Apply, by letter (with testimonials and references), to Musical Director, Archbishop's House, Westminster, S.W.

ALTOS, TENORS, BASSES, WANTED, for the Choir of St. Luke's Church, Chelsea. Salary, £16 and £20 per annum. Applications, stating age and qualifications, to be made by letter, to Everard Hulton, 3, Finborough Road, South Kensington. Date of competition will be communicated to selected candidates in due course.

ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL.—TENOR VACANCY.—An ASSISTANT VICAR-CHORAL will be elected shortly for the above Post. Candidates will send a certificate of birth, and, together with their names, should send a testimonial, from a Beneficed Clergyman to their high moral character, and their having been regular Communicant members of the Church of England. Address, The Succentor, 8, Amen Court, E.C.

THE Dean and Chapter of Saint David's invite applications for the Office of PRIEST-VICAR in the Cathedral. Bass voice. Experience in intoning, and reading Music at sight. Applications, by January 4, to the Dean, Saint David's.

TENOR (studying under best tuition obtainable) offers his SERVICES for Concerts, At Homes, &c., in London and district for expense fees. Address, I. A. J., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

A DEPUTY ORGANIST is REQUIRED for St. Paul's, Portman Square, W. He must play for the Wednesday Evening Service, 8-9, and the practice, Thursday, 8.30-9.30. Preference will be given to applicants who can also attend the three services on Sunday (11, 3.30, and 7) and assist in the choir. The fine two-manual organ (hydraulic) will be available for practice. Full particulars to Edwards, 271, Essex Road, N.

ORGANIST (experienced) desires APPOINTMENT. Used to three-manual organ. Full choral services. Address, E. M. Toy, Rosendale, Littlehampton.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER desires APPOINTMENT. 6 years' experience. Communicant. Good organ essential; to devote all time to Church Choir-training and Recitals. Highest references. Apply, D., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners St., W.

LADY (26, Officer's daughter) seeks post as ORGANIST. Bronze Medal, R.A.M., and Honours Certificate, Assoc. Board R.A.M. and R.C.M. (organ), 1901. Testimonials. C.R.V. 4, Heath Terrace, Leamington.

TUNER.—Messrs. Duck, Son, and Pinker, Bath, have a VACANCY on their Staff for a first-class PIANO TUNER. A comfortable and permanent berth for a steady man. Send photo, stating age and references. A liberal salary and commission paid.

TUNER, for Country, WANTED, well up in repairs. Cyclist. Must have undeniable references and character. Apply, giving full particulars and photo, which will be returned, to Apollo, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

YOUNG GENTLEMAN (good appearance), with over 10 years' experience in a first-class music warehouse, is open for APPOINTMENT. Good general knowledge of trade, buying, keeping books, &c. Part-music a specialty. Wogsalg, Novello and Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

PARTNERSHIP.—A PARTNER REQUIRED at once for old-established MUSICAL CONNECTION in the South of England. A capable and energetic gentleman indispensable. G. A., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—ORGANISTS can PRACTISE on the Grand four-manual Organ by WILLIS (blown by hydraulic engines controlled from keyboard) in the Concert Hall of the Hampstead Conservatoire. The Hall is warmed by hot water. Specification of the organ, and terms of practice on application to the Secretary, Hampstead Conservatoire, Swiss Cottage, N.W.
N.B.—The Conservatoire is eight minutes by rail from Baker Street, Metropolitan Railway. Trains every ten minutes.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals and pedals. One shilling per hour. The South London Organ Studio, 343, Coldharbour Lane, close to Brixton Station.

NEW ORGAN STUDIO, with Three-manual PIPE ORGAN, blown by water. Terms for Practice, 1s. per hour. At Smyth's Music Depôt, 54, London Road, Forest Hill, S.E.

ORGAN STUDIO.—3 manuals, C.O. pedals, 1s. hour. Willis, "Tower Organ Works," 2, Church Row, Aldgate, London, E.C. (Estd. 1827.) Musical Instruments and Fittings.

ORGAN for SALE. Two manuals, Bourdons and pedals, 9 stops, 2 couplers. Blown by gas-engine and special feeders. G. Edmond, 98, St. John Street, Bridlington.

ORGAN FOR SALE.—A First-class Instrument. Specially designed for a Public Hall. Four Manuals, CC to C in alt. Pedals, CCC to F.

Great Organ	...	...	...	...	13 stops	915 pipes.
Swell Organ	...	...	...	...	14	1,025
Pedal Organ	...	...	...	...	8	240
Choir Organ	...	...	...	...	4	244
Solo Organ	...	...	...	...	6	366
Couplers	...	...	...	...	8	—
Tremulants		...	...	...	2	—
					55 stops	2,790 pipes.

Full particulars on application to
E. WILSON, Solicitor, Red Hall, Leeds.

ORGANS (New and Second-hand) for SALE. Various prices. Instruments built for Church or Chamber, from £50, on up-to-date principles, at Bedwell and Son's, Cambridge Organ Works, Cambridge.

ORGANS (Pipe) for SALE. Bargains. Two manuals; in perfect condition. Full compass; pedals. W. B., 9, Burdett Road, Bow, E.

ORGAN for SALE. Three manuals. Thirty-three speaking stops. As now standing in St. Martin's Church, Lincoln. Apply, Rev. E. Akenhead, St. Martin's Vicarage, Lincoln.

9 GUINEAS.—AMERICAN ORGAN (list price, 20 guineas), 11 stops, including two knee-stops and the beautiful solo stops, voix celeste and vox humana; two octave couplers, handsome high case; in use about four months; ten years' warranty; easy terms arranged. Packing and carriage free. Approval. Full price paid will be allowed within three years if exchanged for a higher-class instrument. D'Almaine and Co. (established 116 years), 91, Finsbury Pavement, E.C. Open till 7. Saturdays, 3.

SPLENDID THREE-MANUAL ORGAN, 27 stops, entirely new, now in course of building, for SALE, to suit Church or Chapel; also, two-manual Organ, 12 stops, all latest improvements. A three-manual second-hand Organ, in good condition. W. E. Richardson and Sons, Central Organ Works, Hulme, Manchester.

RELIABLE SECOND-HAND ORGANS for SALE. One, Two, and Three Manuals and Pedals. Prices from £45 to £500. Particulars on application. Gray and Davison, 6, Pratt Street, Camden Town, N.W. Organ Builders to Her late Majesty the Queen and H.R.H. Prince Consort. Established 1750.

MODERN-BUILT ORGANS for SALE.—Three Manuals (CC to G) and Pedals (CCC to F), 34 stops (open for inspection in London Church), £420. Three-manual and Pedal Chamber Organ. Height, 10 ft. 10 inches; part pneumatic. Open to offer. Two manuals and pedals, 15 stops, each, £175 and £150. One manual and pedals, 7 stops, £17. Inspection invited.
EUSTACE INGRAM, Organ Builder,
Only Address, 361, Liverpool Road, London, N.

ORGAN PEDALS to PIANOS.—New method of Attachment by TUBULAR PNEUMATIC. This action surpasses all mechanical actions for prompt and Organ-like Touch. It is less expensive, easier to attach, and does not injure the most delicate Pianoforte. Prospectus and price list free. Apply to Norman and Beard, Ltd., 11, Queen Victoria Street, E.C.

15 GUINEAS.—PIANO ("Empress" Model), solid iron-frame upright grand (list price, 35 guineas); full compass, full trichord, French check action, &c.; in handsomely carved walnut wood case, four feet two inches in height; in use only six months; sent on approval, carriage paid, to any part of the United Kingdom; ten years' warranty; easy terms arranged; full price paid will be allowed if exchanged for a higher-class instrument within three years. D'Almaine and Co. (established 116 years), 91, Finsbury Pavement, City. Open till 7. Saturdays, 3.

COTTAGE PIANO. Full compass, with Organ Pedal Attachment. C. O. Scale. Bargain. W. B., 9, Burdett Road, Bow, E.

FOR SALE.—PEDAL ATTACHMENT to PIANO. Full compass, complete. Price £2 10s., including Organ Stool. A. F. Joscelyne, 39, Peak Hill Gardens, Sydenham, S.E.

CLARINETS, in A, B flat, and C (by LAMY, first quality), for SALE. Two years in use. £7 the set. Fitzroy, 3, Queen Anne's Road, York.

MUSICAL OPINION.—Send 4d. for new number to 35, Shoe Lane, London, E.C. About 250 columns of interesting Musical Literature and Advertisements. Founded 1876.

HUGH SWANTON.

INSTALLATIONS NOW IN OPERATION.

St. Paul's Cathedral.
Norwich Cathedral.
Llandaff Cathedral.
Dundalk Cathedral.
Armidale Cathedral, N.S.W.
Church House, Westminster.
Royal Academy of Music.
St. Cuthbert's Church, Earl's Court, S.W.
St. Andrew's Church, Wells Street, W.
And many others.

INSTALLATIONS NOW IN HAND.

Dublin Cathedral	5 Engines.
Aachen (Germany)—Concert Hall	3 ,,
Betchworth—Residence, Mr. Whittington	1 ,,
Cork—Exhibition of 1902	2 ,,
Gateshead—Christ Church	2 ,,
Horsham—Christ's Hospital Chapel	3 ,,
London—Stepney Parish Church	2 ,,
Merthyr Tydfil—Baptist Chapel	1 ,,
Stockport—Residence, Mr. Bell	2 ,,
Wigan—Parish Church	3 ,,

Stockport	2 Swanton Economizers.
Wigan	3 ,,

HUGH SWANTON,
THE LEADING SPECIALIST IN ORGAN BLOWING
(Agent for Ross Valve Company, New York),
79, WHITEHORSE STREET, STEPNEY, LONDON, E.

Dainty Brochure free for the asking.

The Swanton £50 Challenge is still unaccepted. See current No. of Musical Opinion.

ORGANISTS, &c.

RUMMENS'
Organ Pedal Attachment to Pianofortes
FOR HOME PRACTICE OF ORGAN MUSIC.
STRAIGHT AND CONCAVE, RADIATING AND CONCAVE, Or any other form of Pedal Board.
UNRIVALLED FOR TOUCH, APPEARANCE, DURABILITY, AND PRICE.

Sir JOHN STAINER:—"I can confidently recommend it . . . nothing more valuable."
Sir FREDERICK BRIDGE: "I have tested it . . . successful . . . will give satisfaction."
Sir GEORGE MARTIN: "I think very highly of it . . . clever."
Dr. FROST: "Every organ student should have a set."

Similar Testimonials from the most distinguished Organists and Musicians.

Particulars free. Write or call.
1, WYNNE ROAD, BRIXTON, LONDON, S.W.

THE OLD FIRM.

P. CONACHER & CO.,
Organ Builders,
SPRINGWOOD WORKS,
HUDDERSFIELD.
TWO GOLD MEDALS.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,
ORGAN BUILDERS,
PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.
(ESTABLISHED 1841.)
Specifications and Estimates sent free.

TO COMPOSERS.

MARRIOTT AND WILLIAMS,
MUSIC PUBLISHERS,
92, GREAT PORTLAND STREET, LONDON, W.,

Undertake the Revising, Engraving, and Publishing of Authors' Musical Works in the very Best Style and at the lowest charges. The Finest Paper used and the Best Workmanship in the trade. Estimates free on receipt of MSS. Composers' works included in list without extra charge.

PRIVATE ROOMS FOR PRACTICE AND TEACHING.
Lessons by competent Professors given in every branch of Music, Vocal and Instrumental.

Auction Rooms, specially for the Sale of Musical Property.

MESSRS. PUTTICK and SIMPSON, Auctioneers, 7, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights. Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

TO CHORAL and ORCHESTRAL SOCIETIES.—Several CHORAL WORKS, PART-SONGS, and ORCHESTRAL WORKS for SALE. Applications for lists to Dr. Bunnett, Cathedral Close, Norwich.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS. By A. B. ALLEN.
"Tom, the Piper's son." S.A.T.B. Price 3d.
"Dickory, dickory dock." S.A.T.B. Price 4d.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Fourth Thousand.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS in G. By ALFRED J. DYE. Price 4d.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Fourth Thousand.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in F. By ARTHUR CARNALL, Mus.B., Cantab. 4d. Sample copies, Penge, S.E.

Sixth Thousand.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat. By WILLIAM S. VINNING, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Price 3d.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Sixth Thousand.

BENEDICITE, OMNIA OPERA. Set to music by W. H. HOLLOWAY, L.Mus.T.C.L. Price Twopence.
"A varied and tuneful setting."—Manchester City News.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

KYRIE ELEISON in D flat. By Rev. T. NORMANDALE, B.A. Price 1d. Third Edition.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

GILL'S EASY VOLUNTARIES.—"Messiah," "Judas," "Elijah," "St. Paul," "Creation." 1s. each book.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEW EASY and COMPLETE COMMUNION SERVICE in D. By FRANK ADLAM. Price 6d. NOVELLO & Co., Ltd., London. Written in same style and containing all the features which have made the Composer's famous Service in F so exceedingly popular.

AVE VERUM in G. By FRANK ADLAM. This beautiful Communio, sung for many years at St. Thomas's, Regent Street, is now published (Solo and short Chorus). Price 2d.
London: HART AND CO., Paternoster Row.

Just Published.

THE BLESSED TRINITY VESPER HYMN. To precede or follow the Benediction. Words and music by DAVID W. GREAVES. Price 1d.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

FOR SALE.—BOYCE'S SERVICES and ANTHEMS. Folio. Four Volumes in Two; cloth boards; good condition. Full vocal score, with organ accompaniment. [Novello, 1847.] Price, 25s. H. J., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

REDUCED PRICES
FOR THE UNREVISED EDITIONS.

THE CATHEDRAL PSALTER
THE CATHEDRAL PRAYER BOOK.

The Publishers, having in stock a limited number of the above publications, handsomely bound in Red Basil with Red Edges, but unrevised as regards the recent alterations in the Titles of The Prince and Princess of Wales and in the Accession Service, are prepared to dispose of the remaining copies at specially reduced prices.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Trinity College London (INST. 1872).

President:
THE RIGHT HON. LORD COLERIDGE, M.A., K.C.
Warden:
EDMUND H. TURPIN, MUS.D.

LENT TERM BEGINS JANUARY 16.

The following are the subjects included in the curriculum of the Day and Evening Classes: Organ, Pianoforte, Solo Singing and Voice Production, Violin, Viola, Violoncello, Double Bass, Harp, Flute, Oboe, Clarinet, Bassoon, Horn, Trumpet, Trombone, Timpani, Side Drum, &c.; Harmony, Counterpoint, Canon, Fugue, Composition, Form, Orchestration, Musical History, Transposition, Sight Reading, Elocution, French, German, and Italian.

The College Orchestra and Choir and the various Ensemble Classes are for Students and Non-Students.

The Professors include: Dr. J. Gordon Saunders, Dr. James Higgs, Dr. C. W. Pearce, Miss Florence Higgins, Mus.B., S. Coleridge-Taylor, Dr. E. H. Turpin, Frederick G. Cole, G. E. Bambridge, R. W. Lewis, Dr. John Warriner, Henry R. Bird, Edward d'Evry, and Miss Margaret Carter, F. G. M. Ogbourne, Dr. W. Creser, A. Visetti, Wallace Wells, Frank Swinford, J. T. Hutchinson, R. B. Addison, Madame Hope Glenn, Madame Pauline Rita (Mrs. Radcliff), Cyril Streatfeild, Douglas Powell, F. Rizzelli, Rev. H. G. Bonavia Hunt, Mus.D., F.R.S.E., John L. Child, L. Szczepanowski, Victor Buziau, E. E. Halfpenny, E. Woolhouse, John Reynolds, Madame Josephine Chatterton, J. Radcliff, W. Lewis Barrett, W. M. Malsch, George A. Clinton, Edwin F. James, Albert E. Matt, Thomas R. Busby, John Solomon, V. A. Chaine, Dr. A. H. Walker, B.A., Dr. H. T. Pringuer, L. Ricci, Etienne Ruf, and T. Matthay.

Fees, per Term for the Course, from Five and Six Guineas; from Two Guineas for Single Instrument or Vocal Studies; One Guinea for the Theoretical Class Subjects.

Open Scholarships and Exhibitions are awarded annually.

Prospectus and all information from the undersigned,
By order,
SHELLEY FISHER, Secretary.
Mandeville Place, Manchester Square, W.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC,

PRINCE CONSORT ROAD, SOUTH KENSINGTON, S.W.
Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1883.

Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.
President: H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.
Director: Sir C. HUBERT H. PARRY, D.C.L., M.A., Mus. Doc.
Hon. Sec.: CHARLES MORLEY, Esq., M.P.

THE NEXT TERM begins on January 6, 1902. Entrance Examination, January 3.

The EXAMINATION for ASSOCIATESHIP (A.R.C.M.) will be held in April, 1902.

Syllabus and official Entry Forms, may be obtained at the College, Prince Consort Road, South Kensington.

FRANK POWNALL, Registrar.

JUST PUBLISHED.

LEAD, KINDLY LIGHT

WORDS BY
CARDINAL NEWMAN
SET TO MUSIC FOR
SOPRANO SOLO AND CHORUS OR QUINTET FOR SOLO VOICES
BY
LIZA LEHMANN.

Price Two Shillings net.
Vocal Parts, One Shilling the set.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

John Broadwood & Sons'

LIMITED,
NEW SHORT OVERSTRUNG GRAND
105 GUINEAS.

"MULTUM IN PARVO."

33, GREAT PULTENEY STREET, LONDON, W.

THE LONDON ORGAN SCHOOL

AND INTERNATIONAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC,
22, PRINCES STREET, CAVENDISH SQUARE, W.
Established 1865.
Principal: T. H. YORKE TROTTER, M.A., Mus. Doc., Oxon.

The London Organ School provides a thorough Musical Education in all its branches, either for amateur or professional students. Lessons may be commenced on any date, and students may take a single subject if desired. The School is open till 9 p.m. for those students who cannot attend during the day.

Private Lessons are given in the following subjects:—Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration and Composition; Pianoforte, Organ, Singing, Violin, Viola, Violoncello, Double Bass, Flute, Oboe, Clarinet, Bassoon, Horn, Trumpet and Cornet, Trombone, Harp, Mandoline and Guitar, Zither, Choir Training, Elocution and Stage Deportment, Modern Languages, &c.

The following are some of the Classes:—
HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, COMPOSITION, ORCHESTRATION, and MUSICAL DICTATION (Dr. Yorke Trotter).
QUARTET and ENSEMBLE PLAYING (Mr. Edward O'Brien and Mr. J. Edward Hambleton).
ELOCUTION and DRAMATIC ART (Mr. Charles Fry and Mr. Arthur Payne).
CHORAL (Mr. Henry Beauchamp).
LADIES' CHORAL (Mr. J. Mewburn Levien).

The Full Orchestra, conducted by Dr. Yorke Trotter, and the String Orchestra, conducted by Mr. Edward O'Brien, meet weekly. There are three 3-manual Practice Organs.

Prospectus, on application, from the Secretary.

ŠEVČÍK METHOD.

KOCIÂN CONCERT.

ST. JAMES'S HALL.

THE TIMES: "At the end a 'Paderewski' demonstration took place. An incontestable success."

TELEGRAPH: "His technical skill is indeed great. A facility that was quite remarkable."

STANDARD: "M. Kociân's technique is extremely brilliant. 'Kreutzer' Sonata a remarkable exhibition for so young an artist."

MORNING POST: "An executant of extraordinary skill. 'Kreutzer' Sonata played with much distinction. Juggles at will with harmonics, double-stopping, &c."

DAILY NEWS: "Remarkably fine performance of Beethoven's 'Kreutzer Sonata.' Execution marvellously accurate."

SUNDAY TIMES: "Fairly took his audience by storm."

DAILY EXPRESS: "Well-known musicians waxed enthusiastic over his extraordinary brilliance."

MORNING ADVERTISER: "Another marvel. He has a fuller tone than his popular rival. So it is that he fills the mind with greater expectations than did Kubelik. Sent his audience into fits of enthusiasm."

STAR: "Has a technique as phenomenal as that of Kubelik, and his tone is considerably finer. I have certainly never heard anything like the way in which he ordered about his octaves. A large audience hailed him, and deservedly, with a delighted wonder."

BOSWORTH AND CO., 5, PRINCES ST., OXFORD ST., W.
And at LEIPZIG, PARIS, VIENNA.

THE MUSICAL TIMES
AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.
JANUARY 1, 1902.

TO OUR READERS.

The present issue of THE MUSICAL TIMES appears in new type from cover to cover. Freshness will also be a feature of its literary matter, and no pains will be spared during the present year, as in the past, to make these pages readable and of general interest.

As a means to this end, the Biographical Sketches, with their special portraits—of which nearly fifty have appeared since 1897, and which have met with so much appreciation—will be continued. Starting with Dr. Henry Coward—whose uncommon life-story follows these remarks—the living musicians to be sketched will include Dr. Steggall, Mr. Andrew Black, and Professor Horatio Parker, the distinguished American composer. 'Down among the dead men' has proved to be so rich and acceptable a quarry—if the term may be used—that further diggings in the same direction may reveal something fresh about Dr. Blow, Dr. Crotch, Vincent Novello, Franz Liszt, and old Sam Wesley.

The Coronation is sure to be the watch-word of the year 1902, and therefore, anticipating the national thought and feeling, we give in this our initial issue an article on the Music of Queen Victoria's Coronation. This may be followed by others on the Masters of Musick to the Kings and Queens of England, illustrated with portraits of those gentlemen; a description of the Royal Library at Buckingham Palace and its treasures; and some chit-chat on Monarchs and Music. Other subjects that are down for consideration are: A Brief History of the Madrigal Society, compiled from its ancient records; and Mr. Taphouse (of Oxford) and his remarkable collection of old and rare books on music. In the Church and Organ Music section, something may be said on various old hymn-tunes and their composers, with reprints of the tunes as they first appeared, while 'Dotted Crotchet' may be induced to visit other places besides Newcastle, and record his impressions in special and illustrated articles.

It is very gratifying to find that this old-established journal—which will enter upon its fifty-ninth year in June—is so kindly received and apparently so highly appreciated. Its steadily rising circulation furnishes abundant proof of this pleasant state of affairs, and the generous references to it which appear month by month in the columns of the London and Provincial press are not only full of encouragement, but act as an incentive to increased effort. Moreover, many similar tokens of appreciation are being constantly received from our readers at home and abroad. May we quote two?—both equally spontaneous—The first is from an earnest young conductor in America, whose excellent work we had the pleasure of commending. He writes:—

> I appreciate more deeply than I can tell your assistance to me in giving place to the eloquent tribute to our undertaking, attended with well-nigh insuperable difficulties. By your hearty words you have very greatly encouraged us all. The article was copied by our local newspaper, and has been widely read.

The second is from a veteran reader of nearly four-score years, residing in the old country, and a man of mark in his city and the regions round about it:—

> THE MUSICAL TIMES is an old, old acquaintance, for I, with my comrades—working engravers and lithographers—began taking it in the forties. The first number we ever saw contained, I remember well, 'Here's a health unto his Majesty'—and that is more than half-a-century ago! Many a pleasant, instructive hour did we devote to your admirable publication. Long may it prosper!

Thanks, sincere and appreciative, are tendered to those kind friends who are ever ready and willing to lend their valuable manuscripts and portraits for reproduction, &c., or to hunt up information here and there for the benefit of their fellow readers; to our excellent Own Correspondents, and other contributors in various places at home and abroad for their valued help.

In conclusion, the Editor ventures to anticipate, on this New Year's Day, a certain expression of kindly feeling by most heartily and warmly saying to one and all—

THE SAME TO YOU!

HENRY COWARD, MUS. DOC., OXON.

That which we are, we are,
. . . . strong in will
To strive, to seek, to find, and not to yield.

These words of Tennyson's apply with peculiar aptness to the self-made man of noble aims. He is often misunderstood and even regarded with suspicion, if not jealousy, by certain sections of the community in which he lives, and moves, and has his being, especially if he be of lowly origin and hold a public position. A touch of originality in character and methods may brand him with the mark of eccentricity. But, as John Stuart Mill says: 'Eccentricity has always abounded when and where strength of character has abounded; and the amount of eccentricity in a society has generally been proportional to the amount of genius, mental vigour, and moral courage which it contained.' Eccentricity or no eccentricity—honesty of intention, firmness of purpose, and steadiness of conduct will surely prevail; and the fortunate possessor of this combined character-force — plus a dash of eccentricity (so called)—is one who must rise superior to all obstacles that beset his pathway in life. He will be honoured for all he has done and is doing in making the world better by his work, his influence, and his unswerving devotion to duty. Such an one—esteemed by all who really know him, especially by the people of Sheffield—forms the subject of this Biographical Sketch.

5106

Henry Coward was born at the Shakespeare Hotel, Williamson Square, Liverpool, November 26, 1849. His father, originally a Sheffield grinder, was the landlord of that hostelry—a good singer and a fine banjo player. The child was cradled in music—of a kind. In a concert-room attached to 'the house' music was a nightly feature, one of the players being Charles Blamphin, the harpist. This was not exactly the atmosphere, either morally or physically, for a child of tender years, but the death of his father completely changed the environment of Henry Coward's boyhood. The family removed to Sheffield, and Henry was looked after by an uncle, a good sturdy Yorkshireman and a cutler by trade. The boy finished his education (such as it was) at the age of eight—he had not had six months' consecutive schooling—and as a child of nine was put to the staple trade of Sheffield, the manufacture of cutlery. He served an apprenticeship for twelve years with his uncle at the works of Mr. George Wolstenholme, and ultimately became one of the best workmen in the trade. He spent six months as an improver in the workshop of Mr. W. H. Wragg, a specialist in the best line of cutlery. Throughout his artisan career, Coward was never out of work for a single day. He took many prizes as the result of his skilful craftsmanship, and for the last knives he made he received the sum of £3 per dozen—'a big price.'

'HE USED HIS HEAD.'

Sheffield, to the mere passer by, is a place of smoke. But as if to counteract its griminess, a characteristic of Sheffield 'shops' (workshops) is for their walls to be covered with pictures cut out of the Illustrated London News and similar periodicals. Some representations of old castles that had been dismantled by Cromwell attracted young Coward's fancy. 'How was it that Cromwell could do all this?' he asked a senior fellow-workman. 'He used his 'ead; it's those who use their 'ead that make their way in the world.' This made a very strong impression on the lad—'He used his 'ead': 'Why should I not use my head?' meditated the boy.

He did. A boy who has finished his education at the age of eight is not very fully equipped for scholarship, but Coward's dauntless perseverance manifested itself in those early years. He taught himself to spell by reading the advertisement placards in the streets on his way to work, and learned shorthand during similar peregrinations. The same strenuous perseverance showed itself at the laying of the foundation-stone of the Albert Hall, Sheffield, by the Duke of Norfolk. Young Coward climbed one of the wooden hoardings in order to see what was going on inside. A friend said, 'come down, here comes the bobby.' He did come down—but he descended on the other side of the barricade! Little could he have thought that in years to come he would receive in the erected building the ovations he has so frequently had to acknowledge.

The boy became a marked 'hand' in the workshop. Here is an incident of those cutlery days related by his valued friend of forty years' standing, the Rev. W. Robinson, now residing at Salem, Southern India:—

If Dr. Coward is anything, he is a character, and no one can be in his presence five minutes without finding it out. In a large factory containing a thousand men, this individuality asserted itself, and the boy became affectionately known as 'Bumpy,' from the circumstance of his having read and mastered Fowler's 'Handbook of Phrenology.' Nothing would do but he must feel the bumps of all the men who would submit to his manipulation, and there were seers who prophesied a great future for him as a phrenological lecturer. In time, however, music asserted her rightful place, and phrenology was relegated to the limbo of extinct superstitions.

VIOLINIST AND VOCALIST.

It was formerly the custom in many good English homes to associate music with the devil; music and business could not be understood to run very well together, and thus the art came to be regarded as a handicap in the journey of life. 'Well, my boy, what is your pleasure?' asked Mr. George Wolstenholme, Coward's employer. 'Music's my pleasure, sir.' 'Music! you may as well go to the devil as learn music,' was the discouraging response. Nothing daunted, however, young Coward, by hook or by crook, would be in evidence in the 'top keck' of the old Theatre Royal when an opera company visited the town. He learned all the operas then in vogue. His memory for operatic melodies was phenomenal, and in this way seed was sown for future harvests. He was fortunate at the formative period of his life to come under good influence at the Sunday School attached to Queen Street Chapel. His Sunday School teacher, Mr. John Pease, an excellent musician, had formerly been first fiddle in some of the great theatres in the provinces. A man of magnetic personality, Mr. Pease attracted the boy to him and gained his affection; moreover, he gave him lessons in violin playing—the only tuition in music Coward has ever received. He became fiddle mad, and practised morning, noon, and night. The youth sang in the chapel choir, and there are members who can recall the marvellous power and beauty of his voice. 'I have only heard one other boy's voice that surpassed it,' says an old friend. He joined a Tonic Sol-fa class, but soon became a teacher himself. An interesting side-light on this achievement is furnished by his friend, Mr. Robinson, who must again be quoted:—

The Tonic Sol-fa College certificates were passed one by one. After the Intermediate had been gained, the youth started teaching in the dungeon-like room underneath Queen Street Chapel. It was here I became one of his first pupils, and held the first Intermediate Certificate that he granted to an examinee. His method of teaching was of the lightning order, and there was always a considerable stock of dynamite on hand. The amount of modulator work we did was awful, and would have killed anyone less enthusiastic than teacher and scholars were. The way we schah-lahed up and down that modulator, worked at time exercises, listened to mental effects, got pulled up in the middle of an exercise, and were da-capo-ed back to the start are memories that haunt one still. There was no mistake about the thoroughness of this drill. In a winter or two it told, and we were ambitious enough to give a concert. Locke's music to 'Macbeth' and Root's 'Pilgrim Fathers,' with certain selected songs, was the limit of our ambition. Looking back, I am amazed at the sublime cheek we had in those days. Most of us were 'prentice lads—Coward certainly was—and here we proposed running a concert, and to be its guarantors. Picture it, think of it! Our conductor was eighteen years old, and the others, some were over, some under that age. The concert came off. We had a lovely prima donna in pea-green silk, and a kindly contralto gave us her services.

The success of this concert led to higher flights with a performance of Romberg's 'Lay of the Bell,' but this resulted in a loss of £25, which Coward bore with complacency, and when the amount of the deficiency was paid off, after his apprenticeship, he enthusiastically went in for other ventures. A notice of this 'Lay of the Bell' achievement found its way into the columns of The Musical Times thirty years ago, under the heading Sheffield, in these words:—

On the 6th ult. [November, 1871] the Queen Street Harmonic Choir gave a performance in the Music Hall, Surrey Street, before a large audience. The choir, although the youngest in the town, has, under the able direction of Mr. H. Coward, attained considerable proficiency. Romberg's Cantata 'The Lay of the Bell,' which formed the first part of the programme, was exceedingly well performed, the principal parts being most effectively given by Miss Twigg, Mr. A. Kenningham, and Mr. J. H. Sutcliffe. The band was led by Mr. C. Stokes, Mr. Moxey presided at the pianoforte, and Mr. Coward was the conductor. (The Musical Times, December, 1871.)

HARD LINES AND POETRY.

He had an absolute passion for reading, but his musical and bookish studies received little encouragement at home. It used to irritate his people to see him incessantly poring over books, and out of his scanty pocket money he had to buy the candles which were a necessary aid to his secret studies in his tiny bedroom. Unfavourable environment was his difficulty. He had early grasped the fact that art is a hard mistress, and that it is only by long and arduous application that anything above mediocrity can be attained; but those around him could not understand his early risings and late nights. They were proud enough of it in a way, but they thought it sheer waste of time. As a youth he was immensely fond of nature, and took the greatest delight in the manifold beauties of the lovely country that encircles the smoke-clouded city of Sheffield. Poetry, too, fascinated him, especially Milton, whom he loved chiefly for the sublimity of thought expressed in his lines. The minor poets—Swaine, Gerald Massey—also attracted him, and, mirabile dictu, he became a minor poet himself! 'I wrote lots of poems of various lengths,' he says, 'but on the advice of an older and experienced friend who said that "poetry doesn't pay," I burnt them all.'

SCHOOLMASTERING.

Fourteen years cover the period of Dr. Coward's cutlery, or business life. At the age of twenty-two he decided to leave the bench and start on a scholastic career—in other words, like Cromwell, to 'use his head.' The joy of teaching—teaching for its own sake—decided him to take this step. He was not qualified, but that did not matter; he had made up his mind to become efficient, and he did. Pounds, shillings and pence were of no consideration. He was earning good wages at the bench, and upon leaving the workshops he knew it would take him ten years 'to be equal in money.' 'Learn to labour and to wait' was his twin-motto with 'Fools and children are in a hurry.' His first scholastic appointment was as a pupil-teacher (aged 22) at Zion Attercliffe school, a suburb of Sheffield, at a salary of £20 a year. The head-master was easy going, and Coward soon became 'practically head-master.' His school work was so good and thorough that it attracted Mr. Barrington Ward, one of H.M. Inspectors, who recommended the young man to a mastership of a school at Tinsley. This promotion from the workshop to a head mastership in twelve months was certainly rapid. At Tinsley he remained four months, one of his pupils being Wainwright, the cricketer. Then he held a similar post at Greasborough at a salary of £120 a year, and remained there three years.

A SCIENCE STUDENT.

During these early years of his scholastic period, Coward unweariedly qualified himself for his duties. For five years he only allowed himself five hours for sleep out of the twenty-four. He read incessantly. Science fascinated him. Electricity, magnetism, sound, heat, physiography, physiology, geology, and the rest of the ologies, he simply devoured. He entered examinations just for the fun of the thing. A batch of certificates from Cambridge proves that he was by no means a smatterer in his knowledge pursuits, and a science scholarship at South Kensington (of which he did not avail himself) is a further testimony to his thoroughness and abilities. Picking up, picking up incessantly, entered into his very life blood; and if it serve no other purpose, this sketch of so remarkable a career may furnish a stimulus to young fellows who are taking things easily—merely floating with the tide, regardless of the life-preserver of self-help.

To be appointed head-master of a Board School in Sheffield came as a well-merited promotion to Henry Coward. In this capacity he rendered excellent service, and his teaching powers had fine scope for development. Four years later he occupied a similar position at the Free Writing School, where he had only sixty scholars, £250 a year, and no inspection! This post he held for ten years. As the Charity Commissioners did not consider this home of learning—which formed part of the Grammar School—to be necessary, it was closed, and the head-master (Mr. Coward) received £100 as a solatium. At the age of thirty-nine, after seventeen years' schoolmastering, he made up his mind to leave the scholastic profession, and to 'go into music.'

HIS WORK IN THE SCHOOLS.

Before dwelling upon his professional music career—his 'third period,' if the Beethoven reference may be permitted, and there is a good deal of the 'unbuttoned' in Dr. Coward's nature and methods—allusion must be made to his experiences as an amateur devotee of the art. For fifteen years he was teaching classes and conducting choirs five nights per week without fee or reward. With a few exceptions, he did not receive a penny for all this laborious and valuable musical work, nor did he accept any remuneration till he had obtained his degree of Bachelor of Music at Oxford. Always fond of children, one of his first important successes as a conductor was achieved when the school teachers of Sheffield asked him to conduct a big choral concert for them, at which the bairns of the various schools were to be the performers. For the last twenty-five years he has conducted an annual demonstration by a huge choir of Sunday School children—an event moving and thrilling, such as we do not know in London. The words of a friend, Mr. W. W. Chisholm, may be quoted in this connection:—

> Sheffield prides itself upon its great gathering of Sunday School children on Whit Monday. On that occasion, in the natural amphitheatre furnished by Norfolk Park, some forty to fifty thousand children and teachers sing special hymns. Dr. Coward has been the conductor of this feature of Yorkshire religious life for twenty-five years. In addition to simple hymns—with their overwhelmingly thrilling strains—the Hallelujah Chorus from 'The Messiah,' and the Gloria from Mozart's Twelfth Mass have been sung by these thousands of young Yorkshire choristers, whose parents and friends assemble in their tens of thousands.

An interesting side-light on his school music work is kindly furnished by Mr. Thomas Abbott, Inspector of Church and Voluntary Schools in Sheffield, who writes:—

> As long ago as the year 1884, the Committee of the Church Day School Association felt the need of a better musical training of both teachers and scholars. They thought the best way of providing for this need was to engage Mr. Henry Coward to give a Course of Lessons to Head and Assistant Teachers in 'The Art of Teaching Singing' in Public Elementary Schools. His classes, held in The Church Institute, were attended by nearly 300 teachers. He so roused their enthusiasm that the Tonic Sol-fa system, which up to then had been taught in but eight departments of Sheffield Church Schools, was at once adopted in many other schools, and in a short time in every department within the Borough.
>
> Another consequence followed. Dr. Coward was engaged to give a Series of 'Model Lessons' in Singing to Mixed classes of scholars in Duchess Road Board School before most of the Head Teachers of the town. So effective were these, that the Singing of most of the Sheffield Schools — Voluntary and Board — has been remarkably good; so that it has not been found necessary to employ in either Board or Voluntary Schools special Teachers or Inspectors of Singing.
>
> My next experience of Dr. Coward's influence upon school singing was in connection with the Children's Demonstrations at the Albert Hall. These have always proved most popular and stimulating, leading to the institution of a yearly competition in singing amongst the schools of the town for the honour of holding a beautiful silk banner, presented by Mr. Skelton Cole, former Chairman of the School Board.
>
> I must not forget to mention the spirit aroused amongst such of our teachers as had the honour and pleasure of being amongst the chorus of Sheffield's first Musical Festival. From personal experience and contact with several of the members of that chorus, I can testify to the vivifying results of being there trained. The teachers try to emulate Dr. Coward's methods of producing such enthusiastic devotion to the pleasures of music. That is reflected throughout our schools.

It is impossible to estimate the influence—social, moral, and educational, as well as musical—that Henry Coward has exercised in Sheffield in what may be called his crusade of song. But this is not all. A medical man said to him: 'Do you know, Dr. Coward, what good you have done to the health of the city? It is simply incalculable!'

VARIED ACTIVITIES.

From the year 1878, and for a period of twenty-seven years—till quite recently, in fact—he conducted the Sheffield Amateur Instrumental Society, a body of orchestral players which has done admirable work. The Sheffield Musical Union, also conducted by him, is a development of the Tonic Sol-fa Association, an organization which brought Dr. Coward more than local fame by carrying off a prize at a Crystal Palace competition. He was ambitious to become a composer. For ten years he worked quietly on along this road beloved by musicians not a few. But only as a wayfarer—gathering material by methods of analysis, observation, and so on, as, with the exception of some hymn-tunes, the composition field was allowed to lie fallow. This seed-time resulted in the fruition of Magna Charta, his first important work, which was heard at Sheffield in February, 1882. To this succeeded, in 1885, Victoria and Her reign.

GETTING ON BY DEGREES.

All this was preparatory to taking the degree of Bachelor in Music at the University of Oxford. He still worked on, reading music mentally, and pursuing his contrapuntal and other theoretical studies quite unaided. Self-help and a rigid discipline of mind stood him in good stead during this preparatory period. He never took a holiday till he was forty! But he had first to matriculate before he could go up for his degree examination at Oxford. At that time the conditions were more stringent than at present, as he had to pass the literary test in four subjects. But in eighteen months he had taken his degree. He was examined (in 1889) by three successive Professors of Music at the University—Sir Frederick Ouseley, Sir John Stainer, and Sir Hubert Parry. An incident of the viva voce part of the examination was a question on 'pedal points.' 'They are sometimes very long,' replied the Sheffield candidate, 'as in a recent composition'—the said work being 'Judith,' composed by one of his interrogators, Sir Hubert Parry, and just then published. He got through the examination so well, and received the news of his fate so long before the other candidates, that the late Mr. George Parker, clerk of the schools, greeted him with the words: 'You lucky devil.'

Five years later, under the Professorship of the late Sir John Stainer, the subject of this sketch obtained the degree of Doctor of Music. This was the first time that a Sheffield musician had taken the degree, and it is no wonder that the people of the city he had served so well presented him, at the hands of the Mayor, with the robes appertaining to the doctor's degree, the cost of which had been raised by public subscription. It may be convenient here to complete the list of Dr. Coward's compositions. These include 'The Story of Bethany,' exercise for the degree of Mus. Bac. (1891); 'The King's Error,' exercise for the degree of Mus. Doc. (Crystal Palace Tonic Sol-fa Festival, 1894); 'Heroes of Faith' (Sheffield, 1895); 'Tubal Cain,' choral ballad for chorus and orchestra (Sheffield Musical Union, 1899); 'The Fairy Mirror,' for ladies' voices, with tableaux vivants; in addition to songs, anthems, school songs, hymn-tunes, glees, Sunday School pieces, &c. He has edited two hymnals for the Primitive Methodist denomination, to which he contributed many tunes. One of his many popular tunes is a setting of the words 'Jesu, high and holy,' which, in leaflet form, has reached a sale of over a million copies. For the Sheffield Musical Festival, to be held in October next, he is composing a cantata, entitled 'Gareth.'

A HARD WORKER.

Dr. Coward is in every sense a busy man; in fact it is quite astonishing how he is able to discharge his multifarious duties. He is conductor of the Sheffield Musical Union; Chorus-master of the Sheffield Musical Festival (a world-famed body of 300 splendid voices); conductor of the Sheffield Orchestra, formed of professional players resident in the city; conductor of the St. Cecilia Society, Barnsley; and conductor of the Huddersfield Festival Choral Society. The last named is his latest appointment, and, well as the good singers of Huddersfield think they know The Messiah, they have had to attend no fewer than seven rehearsals of Handel's familiar work under Dr. Coward for the preparation of the recent Christmas performance. Not only have those old Messiahites gladly accepted his readings, but groups of singers have been seen in the streets discussing them, copies in hand, under the lamp-posts! Dr. Coward is teacher at the Sheffield Training College for school teachers; the Royal Grammar School (100 boys); the Sheffield High School (300 girls). He is lecturer on music at University College, Sheffield, and he has given many popular lectures on the art in various parts of Yorkshire. He has adjudicated at many musical competitions, and is engaged to act in that capacity at the Royal National Eisteddfod, to be held at Bangor in the autumn. For a period of fifteen years (till 1898) he held the appointment of musical critic of the Sheffield Independent.

QUEENLY RECOGNITION.

One important event—if not the most important—of his life was the memorable visit of Queen Victoria to Sheffield, on May 21, 1897, in her Diamond Jubilee year. On that never-to-be-forgotten occasion, Dr. Coward conducted upwards of 50,000 children in Norfolk Park. The great heart of our late revered Queen was thrilled as she listened to those sweet songs from her loyal and loving little subjects, and it is no wonder that she gave vent to her heart-stirrings in tears of emotional joy. It was the just due of the skilful conductor of that huge choir that he should have had the honour of being presented (by the Duke of Norfolk, Earl Marshal) to Her Majesty, who expressed her deep gratification at the unique singing to which she had listened. Dr. W. G. McNaught, who was present on that auspicious occasion, has recorded his impressions in the School Music Review, June, 1897, in these words:—

> In order that the conductor, Dr. Henry Coward, should not turn his back upon Her Majesty during the time the children were singing, and, of course, all facing the Queen, it was necessary for him to conduct from a high platform constructed in a corner of the area in which the children were assembled. The view from this standpoint was most impressive, but I confess that I judged it impossible from this distance for a conductor to control such a vast choir. I indulged in interesting calculations as to the velocity of light and the comparative slowness of sound, and assured myself that there was no hope of success. But the result, happily, upset my calculations. When Dr. Coward mounted the stand and a placard invited the children to attend, and buglers sounded warning notes, the critical moment had arrived. Dr. Coward used an immense baton, at the end of which there was a white flag. It was astonishing to witness how the conductor's firm, decided beat controlled and kept together the vast choir.
>
> The Queen was obviously much moved and gratified by the demonstration, and, subsequently, Her Majesty sent a message to the Duke of Norfolk, in which she says: 'I wish also to say how much I admired the children's singing and the admirable way in which everything was arranged.' Thus ended a notable undertaking. It will be with no little satisfaction that Dr. Coward, the school officials, and others will look back to the results of their anxious and arduous labours, and the children will pass the story on to the next generation.

The hold which Dr. Coward has upon the good will of the people of Sheffield is shown in the following incident, contributed by one who is well qualified to speak :—

A few months ago it seemed possible that Dr. Coward would accept the advice of some of his London friends and become a candidate for a Colonial professorship of music, which it was known was practically at his refusal. Directly the news became known, ninety per cent. of musical Sheffield were in a state of great excitement, the tension of which was not relieved until it became known that the possibility of the doctor's leaving the chief scene of his many activities was passed.

THE SHEFFIELD FESTIVAL CHORUS.

The fame of Dr. Coward as one of the greatest chorus-masters of the present day dates from the first Sheffield Festival of 1896. The special correspondent of The Musical Times, in his report of that music-making, said :—

A Committee with money can easily obtain a good orchestra and solo vocalists, but a chorus is another matter. It must be, in the main, a local product, and if the locality cannot produce it, neither can it have a Festival . . . The members [of the chorus] had been trained to the strict observance of every nuance; to proper and simultaneous utterance of words, with due regard to emphasis and expression, and to the attainment, when necessary, of dramatic effect. All this came out in 'Elijah' and 'The Golden Legend,' to the delight, and, in some measure, to the astonishment of at least one listener, who had not looked for anything so perfect at a first Festival. No wonder that the audience applauded the chorus as much as they did the principal singers, or that they said amongst themselves that veteran organizations elsewhere would have to look to their laurels.

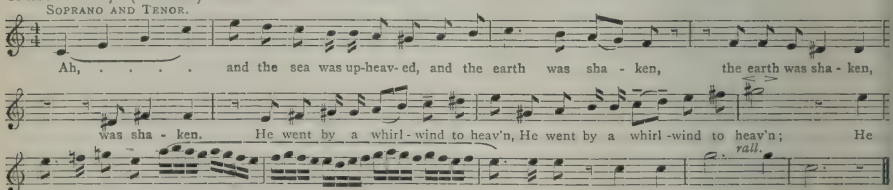
If the attainment of 1896 was good, the achievements of the chorus in 1899 reached the highest water-mark of excellence. The special correspondent of this journal in the latter year waxed no less enthusiastic than the writer of the earlier notice. The methods of Dr. Coward were duly set forth in these columns for November, 1899, and full tribute was paid to his genius for choir training. Only those who were fortunate enough to be present at that memorable Festival can form any idea of the moving power of the perfectly rendered choruses.

HOW THE FESTIVAL CHOIR IS SELECTED.

And now another Sheffield Festival will soon be here—to be held on October 1, 2, and 3 of the present year. In this connection it may not be without interest to give some particulars in regard to the method pursued in forming the chorus, which is chosen afresh for each Festival. No fewer than 650 singers were examined for the 350 places. This operation, which lasted eight weeks, was conducted by a committee seated behind a screen, to whom each candidate was known only by a number. We give specimens of the tests. The first, 'composed' by Dr. Coward at the request of the chorus sub-committee and approved by them, was sent to each applicant for admission to the choir, most of whom learnt it 'off by heart.' The tests for contraltos and basses were practically the same, but in other keys. Those for tune and time were set by Dr. McNaught :—

VOICE TEST.

The chord C will be given, when each Candidate will sing (unaccompanied) the following exercise at the rate of about M = 76 (crotchet) :—



Soprano and Tenor.
Ah, ... and the sea was up-heav-ed, and the earth was sha - ken, the earth was sha - ken, was sha - ken. He went by a whirl - wind to heav'n, He went by a whirl - wind to heav'n; He rall.
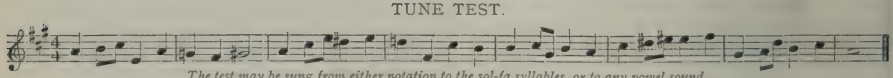
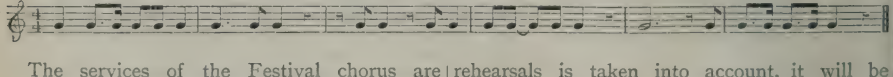
hath tri-umph-ed glo - - - - - - - - rious-ly, tri - umph'd glo - rious - ly.

TUNE TEST.



The test may be sung from either notation to the sol-fa syllables, or to any vowel sound.

TIME TEST.



The services of the Festival chorus are practically voluntary: an honorarium of twenty-five shillings to each lady, and one pound to each gentleman singer, has to cover the cost of all travelling expenses, refreshments, and the necessary music. When the number of rehearsals is taken into account, it will be plainly seen that to sing in the Festival choir is a labour of love. On the last occasion one enthusiastic member of the chorus travelled no less a distance than 1,500 miles to and from the rehearsals! Each singer receives two tickets for the admission of friends to the final rehearsals. It may not be without interest to mention that, of the 300 singers in the Festival chorus, no fewer than 80 have been or are pupils of Dr. Coward, and of these 31 are at present studying under him; moreover, 137 are members of his own choir—the Sheffield Musical Union, though, as we have already stated, he has no influence in getting his friends into the ranks of the chosen few—each member has to pass a most searching examination.

The Sheffield Musical Festival, of 1902, is to be conducted by Mr. Henry J. Wood; but, as on the two previous occasions, the glory of the chorus will, undoubtedly, again be revealed, and will be as a halo round the head of the master chorus-master. It would be a gracious act on the part of the powers-that-be to allow Dr. Coward to conduct one or more of the large choral works in the programme. There is a good precedent for such a course in the Birmingham Festival of 1891, when Dr. Richter handed the baton to the chorus-master (Mr. W. C. Stockley), for the performance of the 'Messiah.' Such a concession would be generally appreciated, not only by Dr. Coward's fellow citizens, but by those—and there will be many—who will come from afar.

PERSONALITY.

The personality of Dr. Coward is one that cannot be adequately described in cold print. Warm-hearted, unconventional, impetuous, he is a born leader of men. His exuberant enthusiasm is in danger of being used against him; but no one can come in touch with him without being greatly struck by the force of his character and his unbounded energy. The marked stratum of perseverance in his rugged nature has amply showed itself in the course of this narrative. His methods as a chorus-master, though decidedly uncoventional, are strongly impregnated with common sense; and then, as he says, 'the public care little about methods, they judge by results.' True, and the results of that Sheffield Musical Festival of 1899 were a triumph for him and his devoted chorus singers. He holds that 'loud singing, without evident control of the tone, degenerates into mere shouting; but loud, louder, even loudest singing, if under the control of the performer, is simply a rich fortissimo, and moreover a legitimate artistic effect.' This is a specimen of his aphorisms. His readings are always accepted by the composers of the works he so conscientiously and thoroughly prepares, and abundant testimony to his wonderful preparation achievements has been borne by Sir Hubert Parry, Dr. Edward Elgar, and Mr. Coleridge-Taylor.

His versatility of illustration may be regarded as a matter of course. He is seldom at a loss, and at times uses the quaintest illustrations; but they are so spontaneous that they never 'jar.' Here is an illustration of how he works up a climax. He wished to make the choir realize that a certain imitative passage in the Messiah should be cumulative in effect. He quietly sang the alto notes to the syllable 'tum-tum'; then the soprano notes, but to a broader vowel; the bass to 'tom-tom'; and finally the tenor notes to the word 'Thomas.' The choir, by quick analogy, realized that it was an indication of how he wished the tenors to add the top-stone of effect to the passage; they all had a hearty laugh, and rendered the passage to the satisfaction of their genial conductor. He is always in a state of 'unprepared preparedness.' When a member of the Committee for the approaching Festival said to him: 'Well, Dr. Coward, you have plenty of work to do; what do you intend to start with?' 'Help, Lord!' was the ready and reverent reply.

A TEMPERAMENTAL MUSICIAN.

The note-correctness of his performances is proverbial, yet he seldom stops his players or singers for a slip at rehearsals. He looks to the performer, and if he sees that he is conscious of his error, nothing more is said. But for developing a point in expression, where the question of evolving the mentality of the band or chorus is concerned, he will repeat a passage many times. For instance, he went over the last nine bars of the Amen chorus fourteen times, patterning between every repetition the manner in which he wanted each part to be sung, so as to bring out the crowning climax to the whole oratorio. The same with the word 'become' in the 'Hallelujah,' while in 'Surely,' the work involved in exampling how to sing the suspended discords, in such a way as to get the effect which four skilled performers in a string-quartet would produce, was very exhaustive and exhausting; and it needed great skill to prevent the singers and players from becoming impatient and restive. He holds the opinion that temperament is the slowest thing to be developed in all music. And here it may be observed that Dr. Coward is, above all things, a temperamental and emotional musician. Would that there were more such!

Finally: no better words could form the conclusion of this biographical sketch of a very remarkable man than those of his life-long friend, Mr. Robinson, who writes:—

'If I were asked to account for Dr. Coward's success in his art I should attribute it to two things—hard work and directness of aim. He knows what he wants, and takes the shortest cut to attain his end. But let no one think his short cuts mean slackness in the matter of work. Careful attention to detail and absolute thoroughness in mastering this has marked him all along the line he has travelled. Sheffield owes him a debt which will never be paid, but then he has his consolation in the fact that he has never sought worldly honour, but has set the music of his life to a very simple key-note—plain living and high thinking.'

A PICTORIAL LIBEL.

There is a well-recognised tendency by which people incline to explain phenomena they cannot understand by any but the most direct and natural explanation. When Paganini burst upon an astonished world with his marvellous powers, so far in advance of anything that had been experienced before him, his technique was not generally accepted as simply the result of genius and industry applied to the development of the art of violin playing, but was in some credulous quarters ascribed to uncanny influences. According to one story, a visitation similar to that which inspired Tartini with his 'Trillo del Diavolo' had endowed Paganini with superhuman powers, while a comparatively matter-of-fact solution of the mystery was afforded by the explanation that he had perfected his technique during a long period of imprisonment, which he suffered for murdering his wife, or some equally revolting crime. Probably Paganini, who seems to have hoarded money for the sake of squandering it, did not discourage tales which, however untrue and discreditable to him as a man, gave him a lurid attractiveness that helped to swell his gains. At the same time it is true that, provoked by the persistence of the slander, which followed him on his first visit to Paris, he wrote a long letter to Fétis, editor of the Musical Review, to show that the only foundation for the story was that another Italian violinist, whose name also ended in "i," had suffered imprisonment as the accomplice of some murderous ruffians in Milan. He ended his letter by expressing a hope that, if not before, at least after his death, the calumny would cease.

That even this modest hope was not to be fulfilled is shown by a song-book which was published about 1840, the year of Paganini's death. The title of the book is—

Bingley's Select Vocalist, containing Songs, Glees, Duets, &c., by Eminent Composers, the Music and Pictorial Illustrations engraved by J. Bingley from drawings by A. Ashley. London: J. Bingley.

On page 117 of the first volume is a song by R. Glindon, entitled 'The Demon Musician.' The tune is virtually the same as that of the well-known old Somersetshire ballad, 'Richard (or Herchard) of Taunton Dean,' which has been incorporated in several recent collections of traditional ballads.

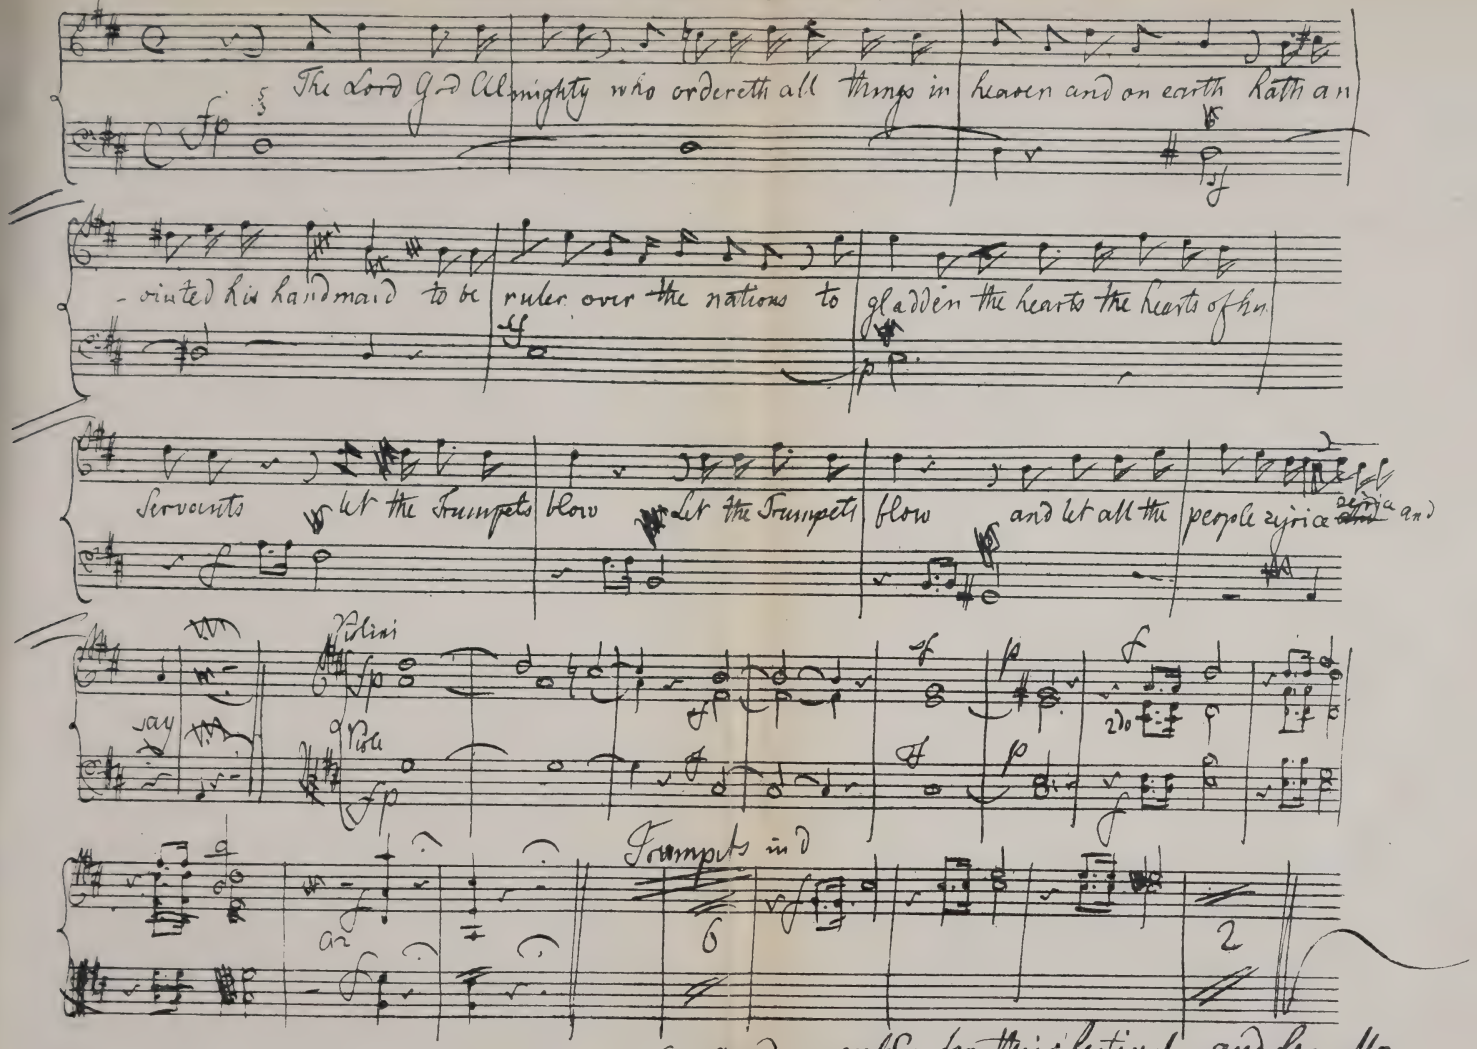
The seven verses of the song begin with an allusion which is obviously suggested by the Paganini stories, and then the song proceeds to illustrate the 'demon musician's' powers as a sort of modern Orpheus and Pied Piper rolled into one. But, if there were any doubt as to the object of this light-hearted lampoon, it is removed by the accompanying steel engraving, in which Paganini's well-known features are caricatured, and his trick of cutting off three strings coram publico, and then playing on the fourth alone, is depicted.

The third and following verses are interrupted by musical phrases, presumably played on the violin by the singer, and intended to add point to the lines. 'Merrily danced the Quaker's Wife,' 'St. Patrick's Day,' and 'We won't go home till morning' are thus introduced, and their appropriateness to the situation will be easily recognized in the reprint of the Song on the opposite page.

H. T.

FACSIMILE OF A HANDELIAN RECITATIVE COMPOSED BY MENDELSSOHN AND SUNG BY MR. CHARLES LOCKEY.

(Reproduced from Mendelssohn's autograph by the kind permission of Mr. John Lockey.)



The Lord God Almighty who ordereth all things in heaven and on earth hath an -ointed his handmaid to be ruler over the nations to gladden the hearts the hearts of his Servants let the Trumpets blow Let the Trumpets flow and let all the people cry a Pifari
Trumpets in D

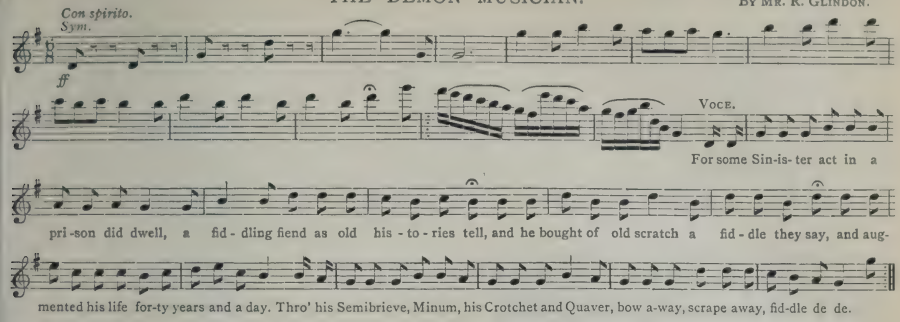
Composed expressly for this festival, and for Mr. Lockey (with many thanks for [illegible]) by me:

Birmingham 28 Aug. 1846

Felix Mendelssohn Bartholdy

THE DEMON MUSICIAN.

By Mr. R. Glindon.



Con spirito.
Sym.
ff
Voce.
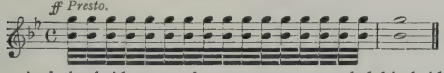
For some Sin-is-ter act in a pri-son did dwell, a fid-dling fiend as old his-to-ries tell, and he bought of old scratch a fid-dle they say, and augmented his life for-ty years and a day. Thro' his Semibrieve, Minum, his Crotchet and Quaver, bow a-way, scrape away, fid-dle de de.

2.

The fiddler's fingers being bony and long,
The crotchets and quavers got quickly among.
From his fiddle at length he produced such a tone,
People's cash left their pockets, to chink in his own.
With his Semibrieve, &c.

3.

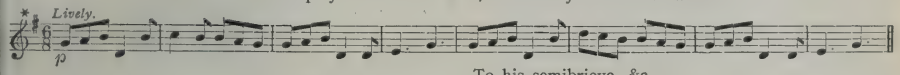
From a wedding returning, a party he spied,
His bow to his fiddle he quickly applied,
When the place of affection by rage was supplied;



And the bridegroom, he very near strangled his bride.
Thro' his semibrieve, &c.

4.

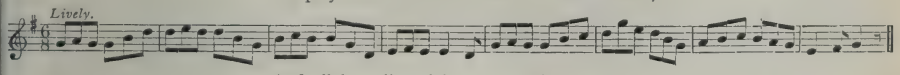
To a meeting of Quakers he went, they say,
Determined a tune on his fiddle to play,
When none being moved by the spirit to speak,
He play'd them this tune, * and they danced for a week.



To his semibrieve, &c.

5.

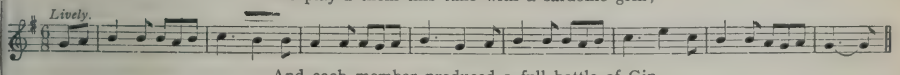
To Ireland then on a visit he wint,
And found Mr. O'Connell collecting his rint,
He play'd him a tune he had oft heard before;



And all he collected he gave to the poor.
Thro' his semibrieve, &c.

6.

A society then for Temperance famed,
The Demon Musician's attention claimed,
He play'd them this tune with a sardonic grin;



And each member produced a full bottle of Gin.
Thro' his semibrieve, &c.

7.

At length the forty years were gone,
With horrible tone the clock struck one,
(Discord ad lib.)
The fiddle turned into a Demon red,
And carried him off by the hair of his head;
And his semibrieve, &c.

MUSIC AT THE LAST CORONATION.

The Coronation of King Edward the Seventh will be an absorbing topic of thought and conversation in Great Britain and the British Dominions beyond the Seas during the next few months. Music, in all probability, will form no inconsiderable part of the stately ceremony. In anticipation of that event, it may not be without interest if we take a peep at the last function of the kind—the Coronation of our late revered Sovereign, Queen Victoria.

This great event in the history of our country took place in Westminster Abbey on June 28, 1838, upwards of sixty years ago. In regard thereto the Spectator facetiously said: 'John Bull seized the present occasion—the weak part of his cranium is still the crown—to give himself a holyday, and he set to work in his usual dogged style.' In the previous March, Thomas Attwood died. As the senior of the two Composers to H.M. Chapels Royal, he had begun the composition of an anthem for the regal ceremony, but its completion was stayed by the hand of the inevitable Reaper. Sir George Smart—Thackeray's 'Sir George Thrum,'—then aged sixty-two, was appointed to succeed Attwood in the office of Composer. Moreover, Sir George was entrusted with the entire direction of the music at the Coronation service. He superseded William Knyvett—who had jointly (with Attwood) held the office for thirty-six years—in the active duties at the Abbey. To quote again from the Spectator: 'The Queen had appointed Bishop; but the intrigues of another Bishop (Charles, of London) and Sir George Smart procured the latter the situation, despite Her Majesty's wish.'

Mr. John B. Sale, 'musical instructor to Queen Victoria,' claimed his seat at the Abbey organ by virtue of his office as one of the two organists of the Chapel Royal (Sir George Smart was the other), but he did not officiate at the coronation ceremony. The organist of the Abbey—James Turle, then aged thirty-six—was dethroned, and Sir George Smart discharged the dual duties of conductor and organist. The appointment of Smart seems to have caused a good deal of discontent, and to have provoked humorous sallies in the newspapers of the day. His composing achievements were stated to have been a hymn-tune and a few glees, while the Musical World, regardless of the law of libel, said:—

> A silly paragraph in the Morning Chronicle, written to puff Sir G. Smart in a character it is well known he ought never to appear in, lays down the position that he (Sir George) can 'play the organ,' and 'give the time to the band' simultaneously. Sir George can do no such thing, and if the writer wishes to know why, we will give him our reasons.

An organ was specially built for the Coronation ceremony by Messrs. Hill and Davison. 'The Abbey organ will be removed,' said the Musical World, 'and a large pedal organ, on the German scale, will be erected at the back of the orchestra, the keys being in front, at a distance of forty or fifty feet.' The instrument formed the extreme background of a special gallery, erected where the present organ screen now stands, but which extended further into the Nave. So far as the present writer can discover, this Coronation instrument was one of the earliest—if not, indeed, the first—English organ to be built to the CC manual compass. This is interesting.* The pedal organ had a compass of two octaves, from CCC. Chief among its six stops was a trombone 'of a very fine quality of tone and immense power.' We are told that 'its [the organ's] solemn and imposing effects appeared to lie in the pedals, on which Sir George Smart is not a dexterous performer, and consequently the instrument was shorn of its splendour.' There were three metal open diapasons in the great organ; and 'superb' and 'magnificent' were the adjectives used in describing the instrument.

The executive instrumental and choral force at the Coronation service consisted of some 400 performers, distributed thus:—

ORCHESTRA.

Violins (1st and 2nd)	36	Bassoons	8
Violas	18	Horns	6
Violoncellos	10	Trumpets	3
Double Basses	10	Trombones	3
Flutes	4	Serpent	1
Oboes	8	Ophicleide	1
Clarinets	8	Drums	1
Total	117 players.

CHORUS.

Sopranos	72	Tenors	68
Altos	64	Basses	84
Total	288 singers

The instrumental performers were 'dressed in scarlet uniform, the male singers in white surplices, and the women in white dresses, the simplicity of which formed an excellent contrast to the gorgeous costumes by which they were surrounded.' If the Musical World—then very much on the war-path—may be trusted, some of the performers were not over-proficient. Here is the accusation:—

> The orchestra looked well—so well, indeed, that the Prince of Putbus actually screamed with delight, and even the heart of the Bishop of London waxed warm, and we thought we could trace in the beam of his eye, as he gazed on the gratifying scene, some abatement of that relentless hostility with which he pursues the high musical service of the Protestant church.

Who was the Prince of Putbus?

The orchestra, as was stated in our last, was large, and held a number of persons, some of whom were misplaced, and others had no business there. Mr. Harper, the flute-player on the trumpet, with whom the military flourish, the fanfare, is a perfect abomination, because he always fails in it, was hoisted up to the other end of the Abbey, there to abide at the imminent risk of losing some part of his reputation, and with the certainty of having lost his coronation uniform. On the other hand, Distin, who is really ignorant of the orchestral business, particularly the trumpet parts of Handel's choral music, was placed in the orchestra, and left with Mr. Irwin to stumble through the symphonies of the anthem, "The Queen shall rejoice." There were eight oboe players, who were unanimous in a sturdy determination to play most villainously out of tune, and in order that they might have a fair field, if not some little favour, the flutes were reduced to four, the clarionets to eight. The bassoons equalled the oboes; some of these gentlemen we never saw before, and even Mr. Hedgeley, the copyist, looked shy upon them, for we saw them at times without any music book. Amongst the instrumentalists lower down were similar novelties, which the exigencies of the times no doubt gave rise to. One gentleman we were told had been diligently inquiring into the character and meaning of the viola cleff, whilst another, who having the advantage of knowing the cleff, but not possessing the instrument, had strung up a violin with the strings of a tenor.

* Unfortunately, Messrs. W. Hill and Son are unable to furnish definite information on this point, as many of their books of that time (when the firm was Messrs. Hill and Davison) perished in a fire which occurred a few years ago.

No less 'wrote sarkastick' is the following, from the same journal, concerning the choir:—

THE CORONATION CHOIR.

Several correspondents have enquired why the Chapel Royal men were turned out of their places in the Orchestra? Why some ladies were necessitated to undergo a trial previous to rehearsal, and not others? Why amateurs were engaged? and several other (we presume equally) important questions. The Chapel Royal singers took their situation in the orchestra by direction of the Dean of the chapel; the lady singers, who had to give evidence of their abilities, were, we suppose, unknown; the amateurs were well known, and certainly quite as useful as many men in the Chapel Royal choir. We know nothing about the clergymen, surgeons, shopmen, actors, sailors, and the like; but surely no one can say the semi-chorus was an inefficient body of vocalists: if so, it must have arisen from the faded voices of the professional singers engaged in it.

Among the orchestral players were F. Cramer, Mori, and Dragonetti; and included in the choir were Mrs. Bishop, Miss Birch, the Masters Coward, Messrs. Braham, Hobbs, Phillips, J. A. Novello, William Horsley, Ignatz Moscheles (the pianist) and James Turle, organist of the Abbey. In addition to the above-mentioned vocalists and others, cherubic aid was rendered by the soprano voice of a Westminster Abbey chorister, Master Walter Macfarren by name, who has kindly sent us the following recollections of the historic event:—

In the second year of my career as a chorister of Westminster Abbey, the death of King William the Fourth occurred (on June 20, 1837), and I am bound to admit that to us boys the event was not one of deep regret, for during the extensive preparations for the coronation of Queen Victoria, the Choir was, for many months, completely dismantled, and divine service, during this protracted period, was held only on Sundays and Saints' days, in Henry the Seventh's Chapel, and this circumstance led to a large number of holidays. There was no organ in that historic Chapel, and I well remember that the late James Turle gave us our key on an old-fashioned and cumbrous pitch-pipe.

As the day of days approached, all was excitement, which was at fever-heat on Tuesday, the 26th of June, the day on which the grand rehearsal took place, and which culminated on the Coronation Day, Thursday, the 28th of June, 1838. On that eventful day we had to be in our places in the orchestra at 8 a.m., and had consequently to be up with the lark, and to make a very early start, and I well recollect the pride with which, over and over again, I exhibited to the police my ticket entitling me to pass to the Abbey, inscribed 'Master W. C. Macfarren,' and signed 'G. Smart, Kt.' By-the-way, the police of those days, in their swallow-tail coats, white ducks, and tall chimney-pot hats, would hardly be recognisable now. The members of the orchestra were attired in scarlet tail-coats, white waistcoats, and knee breeches; the conductor, Sir George Smart, was arrayed in this brave costume with the addition of a gold epaulet on each shoulder, and François Cramer, the leader, was similarly garnished with but one epaulet! The male choristers were clad in surplices which were presented to them for the occasion, and the ladies of the choir—amongst whom were many who afterwards obtained celebrity—were unsurpliced.

SIR GEORGE THOMAS SMART.

MUSICIAN-IN-CHIEF AT THE CORONATION OF QUEEN VICTORIA.

The incidents which occurred in anticipation of the arrival of the Queen, were numerous and amusing enough to keep every one on the qui vive throughout four hours of waiting. Then as the clock struck the hour of noon, cannons were heard announcing the Queen's departure from Buckingham Palace, and on her arrival at the west door, she was greeted by a grand fanfare of trumpeters, who, stationed in a little alcove high up towards the east end of the choir, and headed by the old original Harper (father of the Tom Harper of later days), produced a thrilling effect as their strains echoed throughout the vast building. Then, as the procession made its way up the nave and under the organ screen and orchestra, band and chorus burst forth in the joyous notes of Attwood's Anthem, 'I was Glad.' The sights and sounds of that day, the kaleidoscopic flutter of many colours, the glitter of jewels and ornaments, and above all the fair young form of the principal actress in the scene (who went through a most trying ordeal with charming grace and amazing fortitude), produced an impression on the retina of my youthful mind which will never be effaced so long as I am permitted to live.

The following is the reprint of a document headed 'The Order of the Music, &c., to be performed at the Coronation':—

1. On the entrance of Her Majesty into the Choir, the 1st Anthem, 'I was glad' T. Attwood.
2. At the Recognition, after the general Acclamation, 'God save Queen Victoria,' then the Trumpets sound ('God save the Queen' to be played).
3. The Litany—the choir reading the Responses.
4. At the end of the Litany, and before the Communion Service, the Sanctus and Responses after the Commandments
   Sir George Smart
   (Composer to Her Majesty's Chapels Royal).
   After the Gospel is named, 'Glory be to Thee, O Lord,' to be sung.
5. After the Sermon is ended, and the Queen has taken the Oath, the Hymn, the Grand Chant. (Organ only)—the first line to be read by the Archbishop—
   'Come, Holy Ghost, our souls inspire.'

[This is printed in nine couplets, in order that it might be sung to the Grand Chant! How beautifully *in*appropriate!]

6. After one short Prayer, the 2nd Anthem, 'Zadok the Priest' .. .. .. Handel.
7. When the Queen is crowned, the Trumpets sound.
8. After a short Prayer, the 3rd Anthem, 'The Queen shall rejoice' .. .. Handel.
9. After the Benediction, the 'Te Deum' in A .. .. Dr. Boyce.
10. During the Homage, the 4th Anthem, 'This is the day which the Lord hath made' .. .. W. Knyvett
    (Composer to Her Majesty's Chapels Royal).
11. When the Homage is ended, the Trumpets sound.
12. After the Communion Service, the 5th Anthem, 'Hallelujah' (Messiah) .. Handel.
13. After the Blessing, an Instrumental Piece Handel.

The 'instrumental piece' (No. 13) was Handel's Occasional Overture. In regard to the remainder of the music, Attwood's anthem 'I was glad'—wherein the melody of 'God save the King' is introduced into the opening symphony—was composed for the coronation of George IV. Sir George Smart was responsible for the Sanctus and the Responses to the Commandments. (At the previous Coronation the latter were sung to an arrangement from Jomelli!) Concerning the new anthem, 'This is the day which the Lord hath made,' composed by Mr. Knyvett specially for the occasion and in which he played the organ part, the Atlas said:—

> Mr. Knyvett's anthem does him much credit, not that it contains anything new or particularly striking; but the score is nicely put together, and, as a whole, is effective. Judging from the sound of the orchestra, and in the absence of positive information on the point, we conjecture that some one of more experience in such matters than Mr. Knyvett, has had the arrangement of the instrumental part of the work.

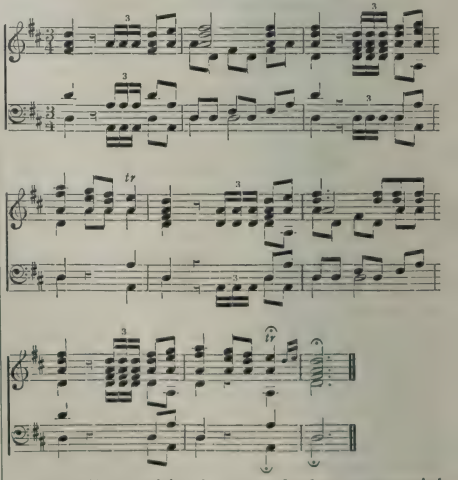
The Queen entered the Choir of the Abbey at 11.52 a.m. 'The musical part of the service,' said the Spectator, 'was a libel on the present state of the art in this country'; therefore, considering its executive state at that time, the rendering must indeed have been found wanting, especially as there was no conductor of that noble four-hundred.

The official order of the ceremony contained this direction:—'At the last Recognition (God save Queen Victoria), the Trumpets will sound and the Drums beat. The Organ and other Instruments all the while playing.'

The Court Journal furnishes information in regard to the trumpetings in these words:—

> Harper and the other State trumpeters were stationed in a small gallery almost touching the roof, at the east end of the choir, where, during the Recognition, and at other points in the ceremonial, they performed sundry of what in military language are termed 'flourishes,' but in musical would be considered a strange medley of odd combinations.

We give the 'flourish' above referred to:—



The 'Recognition' part of the ceremonial was not altogether in the nature of the ultra solemn, and little regard seems to have been paid to the sanctity of the venerable sanctuary, if the following account may be trusted :—

There was some indication of applause occasionally, as Peers of note ascended the steps. The Duke of Wellington was much more applauded than any other Peer. After him the applause given to Earl Grey was the most marked. This ceremony took up a long time, and, as if to relieve its monotony, the Lord High Treasurer amused himself and the company by flinging about coronation medals, the scramble for which scarcely befitted so high a solemnity. Several times there were two or three people rolling on the floor together in the scramble, and ribboned military officers and robed aldermen of the City of London were seen sprawling together, and wrestling like schoolboys. All this, however, was behind the Throne, and of course out of view of the Queen. (Morning Post, Friday, June 29, 1838.)

The copy of the Order of Service used by Sir George Smart has the following annotation in his handwriting: '3 hours and 48 minutes from H. M. entering and leaving the Choir; that is, from the first to the last note of the Music.'

Precedents and perquisites, no less than prelates and peeresses, appear to be no inconsiderable features of a Coronation ceremony. We gather the following from the columns of the Musical World, the only periodical devoted to the art till the birth of the Musical Times, six years later—in 1844 :—

The Coronation Organ becomes the perquisite of the organist, whoever that lucky personage may be; and its value has hitherto been commuted to a very handsome fine, paid from the Earl Marshal's office to the professor who presides at the instrument. It is yet in doubt whether Sir George Smart or J. B. Sale will be the fortunate individual.

An unexpected difficulty arose touching the rights of the Dean and Chapter by reason of the encroachment of the special musicians' gallery into the Nave of the Abbey. The Musical World may again be quoted :—

The Coronation Organ.—The Dean and Chapter of Westminster Abbey have advanced a claim to the organ erected by Hill and Davison for the Coronation, and that portion of the orchestra which extends beyond the Choir. The value is estimated at £1,000. It appears that the Choir of the Church is the Royal Chapel during the day of the Coronation, but that, owing to the increased state of the band and chorus, the orchestra was extended into the Nave, a portion of the building over which the Dean of the Chapel Royal has no control.

A later issue of the paper stated :—

Government have redeemed this instrument, and that portion of the orchestra to which the Dean and Chapter of Westminster Abbey had lain claim, by paying them five hundred pounds as a compensation fee.

An advertisement in the Musical World of July 5, 1838, announced that 'this superb instrument (the Coronation Organ) was for sale. No information is furnished as to who was the fortunate recipient of the proceeds, though, according to precedent, the amount realised probably found its way into the pocket of the organist of the day.

A characteristic Government leisureliness attended the 'settling up' part of the ceremony judging from the following letter which appeared in the Times of November 28, 1838 :—

THE CORONATION.

To The Editor of the Times.

Sir,—Loud complaints have been made by the members of the musical profession at the unwarrantable delay of five months, in remunerating the performers for their services at the coronation in June last, payment having only been made within these few days, after repeated remonstrances from the parties concerned, who in all other engagements are accustomed to receive their salaries immediately after their fulfilment.

The angry feeling, however, to which this delay has naturally given rise, has led to an erroneous impression, that the director of the music had long since received from Government the necessary funds for liquidating those expenses, and that the blame of withholding payment for such a lengthened period rested entirely with him. Now, so far from Sir George Smart having been concerned in the delay complained of, he only received the necessary remittance from Government on the 19th of this month, and on the same day he issued a circular to all concerned.

I have reason to know, also, that Sir George advanced money in some instances from his own private purse before he received the official authority from Government.

Without expressing an opinion as to what particular department is answerable for this manifest breach of faith, certain it is, that many of the less affluent members of the profession, who had calculated upon a settlement within a reasonable period after the coronation, were compelled to mortgage the amount of their engagements for considerably less than their value, and one individual retained in his possession several of these precious relics for presentation on pay-day.

Nov. 26. One of the Choir.

The same correspondent wrote another letter in a similar strain to the Musical World. The Editor, in commenting upon this communication, spared not the Government, when he said :—

As Sir George Smart has been fully exonerated from blame in this affair of the coronation money, no counter statement having either been sent to us, or appeared in any of the newspapers, we should hardly have thought it worth while to insert our correspondent's letter, but for the allusion to the silence of the government authorities, who, standing arraigned for a gross act of official neglect, do not choose to afford the slightest explanation on the subject to those whom that conduct has seriously incommoded and injured in their business. What there is in government money more sweet and precious than in any other money we have always been at a loss to discover; but the manner in which it is paid, or rather, in which it is not paid, is frequently such as to imply the notion, that the services which demand it, are honoured enough in being allowed the claim, and that the payment in addition thereto is an almost superfluous ceremony

The lessons that may be learned from the above information concerning this important function of the most wonderful reign in English history may prove useful to the powers-that-be at the approaching ceremony.

Occasional Notes.

Many happy returns of the day:—

Ben Davies	January 6.
Max Bruch	,, 6.
Xaver Scharwenka	,, 6.
Jean de Reszke	,, 14.
Andrew Black	,, 15.
Fred. Walker	,, 17.
Frederick Corder	,, 26.
Albert Lister Peace	,, 26.
Arthur Hervey	,, 26.
Frederic H. Cowen	,, 29.
Louis Ries	,, 30.
Michael Maybrick	,, 31.

If proof were wanting that oratorio in England is in a very live condition, one had only to be present at the Albert Hall, Sheffield, on the evening of the 9th ult. On this occasion 2,000 people of the cutlery and steel-plate producing city, headed by their Lord Mayor, literally packed the spacious building, and, moreover, hundreds of would-be auditors had to be turned disappointedly away. How that deeply interested mass of humanity hung on every note of Handel's 'Messiah.' With what keen relish they listened to the rendering of the familiar strains. There was a genuineness in their applause unknown to us in London. Even a particularly pianissimo interpretation of the Pastoral Symphony brought forth a storm of approval. To see that vast assemblage, especially as it reverently stood during the singing of the Hallelujah chorus, was in the nature of an inspiration. All the performers, from the distinguished soloists from London, down to the humblest chorus singer, were charged with the enthusiasm of their conductor, Dr. Henry Coward, himself 'one of the people.' The result was a feast of soul and song. It must further be recorded, and to the honour of Sheffield, that, with two exceptions, the band was formed of professional players residing in the city, of whom a young trumpet-player, Colin Williamson by name, especially distinguished himself. The Sheffield Independent of December 10 had, as one of its leading articles, the following 'appreciation,' of the Messiah performance:—

THE POPULAR ORATORIO.

During the Christmas season the number of performances of Handel's 'Messiah,' the largest of which was given last night, will be no less than fifteen or so. This may be a little above the average; but the average is high, and we have constant fresh indications of the extraordinary popularity of this work. Sheffield's fondness for the 'Messiah' does not make the city an exception; for the oratorio is known throughout the length and breadth of the land, and has been known ever since it was first performed, at Dublin and for a charitable object, 159 years ago. The love manifested by the British public for this long classical masterpiece conflicts curiously with the notion that we are an unmusical people. It is not merely as if the 'Messiah' were a favourite among those interested in music and conversant with the subject; its fame is universal, and thousands who rarely hear any other classical composition are familiar with every note of it. This widespread popularity has indeed provoked some musicians into a supercilious attitude towards it; they admit its merit, but are inclined to regard it as hackneyed and stale. But probably no composition has ever fulfilled the highest purpose for which music is intended to the same extent as the 'Messiah,' which since it was first made public has done for millions what many other great pieces of music have only done for thousands. It interprets the loftiest ideas by means of the loftiest melody, and the pleasure that it affords is pleasure of a kind from which debasement is wholly absent. It may be regarded as national music, and the nation which possesses such music and cherishes it cannot be degraded or irreligious. . . . There is no sign that the public will ever weary of the 'Messiah.' Even were classical music better known among the British people, Handel's great oratorio would undoubtedly continue to hold the first place in their regard. The affection in which it is held may be taken as an indication that our countrymen have an ability to appreciate music of the higher order which is not sufficiently catered for. If the public can enjoy the 'Messiah' as it does, then it can enjoy other great pieces which it seldom has the opportunity of hearing. Englishmen are apt in the matter of music to give themselves a bad name which they do not deserve. (The Sheffield Independent, December 10, 1901.)

The Sheffield Musical Festival is fixed to be held on October 1st, 2nd, and 3rd. The following is the outline programme:—

CHORAL.

Oratorio—Elijah	Mendelssohn.
Cantata (new work)—Gareth	Dr. Coward.
Spinning Chorus from Act II. of Flying Dutchman	Wagner.
Triumphlied for eight-part chorus, baritone solo, and orchestra	Brahms.
Sacred Opera in four acts, The Queen of Sheba	Carl Goldmark.
Wandrer's Sturm Lied, for six-part chorus and orchestra (First performance in England)	Richard Strauss.
Requiem Mass	Mozart.
Ode to the Passions	Cowen.
Selection from Israel in Egypt	Handel.
Stabat Mater	Dvorák.
Motet (in five parts), Jesu, priceless treasure	Bach.
Cantata (new work)—Meg Blane	Coleridge-Taylor.
Blest pair of Sirens	Hubert Parry.
Frithjof, for solo voices, male chorus, and orchestra	Max Bruch.
Hymn of Praise	Mendelssohn.

ORCHESTRAL.

Variations on an Original Theme	Edward Elgar.
Symphonic Poem for Organ and Orchestra	Fritz Volbach.
Symphony Pathétique	Tschaïkowsky.
Overture, Leonora, No. 3	Beethoven.

Mr. Henry J. Wood is the appointed conductor, and Dr. Henry Coward is again chorus-master. We are glad to learn that the pitch of the organ in the Albert Hall (where the concerts will be given) is to be lowered. The cost of this important and necessary alteration will be about £1,000, of which sum no less than £800 will, it is understood, be furnished by one gentleman, a true lover of the art in Sheffield. Bravo!

The balance-sheet of the recent Leeds Musical Festival has been issued. The net financial result falls short of that of 1898 to the extent of £566. Increased expenditure—e.g., £335 on the band—partly accounts for these unsatisfactory figures, but not entirely, as the sale of single tickets for the concerts realised £665 less, and that on Saturday night—which should have been a people's night—showed that it fell short by £82. Had it not been for an increased demand for the serial tickets, the result would have been still more gloomy. In the light of this document, it is not surprising to learn from the Report that, as regards the next Festival, 'the Committee are of opinion that some reforms ought to be adopted, and careful consideration should, at an early date, be given to proposals that will be made.' After all, there is some justification for the criticism that was passed on the scheme of the Festival of 1901.

The Chicago Orchestra (conductor, Mr. Theodore Thomas) has issued an attractive programme for its eleventh season—1901-2. An important feature of the scheme is a series of six Historical Concerts, 'illustrating instrumental music from its infancy, and showing the development of the orchestra.' It may not be without interest to give the entire programmes:—

a. Sonata, 'Pian e Forte' } ... ... Giovanni Gabrieli (1557).
b. Canzon à 6 }
'King Arthur': Trumpet Tune. Air. Chacone. Henry Purcell (1658).
'Castor et Pollux': { Gavotte. Tambourin. } Rameau (1683).
{ Air Gai. }
Water-Music: Overture. Hornpipe. Allegro. ... Handel (1685).
Suite No. 3, D major ... ... Johann Sebastian Bach (1685).
Symphony No. 1, D major ... ... C. P. E. Bach (1714).
Recitative and Air, 'Iphigenia in Aulis'... ... ... Gluck (1714).
Symphony, E flat { (Breitkopf & Härtel Edition, No. 1) } Haydn (1732).

Symphony, C major (Köchel 551) ... ... Mozart (1756).
Concerto (Violin) No. 8, 'Gesangscene' ... ... Spohr (1784).
Overture, 'Der Freischütz' ... ... Weber (1786).
Symphony No. 8, B minor (unfinished) ... ... Schubert (1797).
Variations and March, from Suite (Opus 113) Fr. Lachner (1804).

Music to Goethe's 'Egmont,' Opus 84 ... ... } Beethoven (1770).
Symphony, 'Eroica' ... ... }

Wedding March { 'A Midsummer Night's Dream' } ... Mendelssohn (1809).
Scherzo ... ... }
Overture, 'Melusina' ... ... Mendelssohn.
Concerto No. 2, F minor ... ... Chopin (1810).
Symphony, E flat, 'Rhenish' ... ... Schumann (1810).

Symphonie Fantastique, Opus 14a... ... ... Berlioz (1803).
Concerto No. 1, E flat ... ... Liszt (1811).
'Lohengrin' Vorspiel ... ... } Wagner (1813).
'Die Meistersinger,' Vorspiel ... ... }

Symphony No. 4, E minor, Opus 98 ... ... Brahms (1833).
Concerto No. 2, G minor, Opus 22 ... ... Saint-Saëns (1835).
Symphony, 'Pathetic,' Opus 74 ... ... Tschaïkowsky (1840).

Rome, like our own little village on the banks of the Thames, has its County Council Band, or, in the vernacular, 'Banda Comunale.' Under Cav. A. Versalla, Maestro Direttore del Concerti civica di Roma, the band performs some excellent selections of music, doubtless to the delectation of the inhabitants of the Eternal City. Here is a recent programme, short, but highly creditable and interesting:—

1. Mercadante—Marcia Reale, dedicata al Re di Grecia.
2. Beethoven { Allegretto dell' 8a Sinfonia. / Finale 4a Sinfonia.
3. German—Tre Danze nell' opera Enrico VIII.
4. Wagner—Marcia Funebre di Sigfrido nel Crepuscolo degli Dei.
5. Donizetti—Linda di Chamounix Sinfonia.

Dr. Elgar's 'Enigma' Variations were recently performed at Wiesbaden at the second symphony concert of the Royal Theatre Orchestra, under Professor Franz Mannstaedt, and enthusiastically received. The Wiesbadener Tageblatt speaks in terms of warm praise of the originality of the work, of its most brilliant (geistreich) workmanship, and its surpassing technical masterfulness. The critic, Herr Otto Dorn, continues:—

The Variations are not only well scored; they have throughout been orchestrally conceived, each instrument speaking its own individual language. It is said that the composer has in each Variation portrayed one of his friends, and that he has done so with astonishing accuracy. Be this as it may, each Variation is, in any case, remarkable for clearly-drawn outline and strong characterization.

The work fared equally well in Brussels on the 9th ult., under the conductorship of M. Eugene Ysaye. The Brussels critics echo the 'agreeable' surprise of their German colleagues, as well as their genuine appreciation; but they will raise a smile in England by their statement that M. Ysaye discovered 'Dr. Elgar!

Mr. Allen Gill, who has recently conducted 'Hiawatha's Wedding Feast' for the fourteenth time, has, we are glad to learn, been elected a Fellow of the Royal Academy of Music.

The Bristol Musical Festival appears to be in a state of incubation, and there is every prospect of a music-making in the Western city next October. A strong executive committee has been elected and a substantial guarantee fund started. Mr. Walter J. Kidner, the excellent secretary, in sending the above information, says: 'We are to have a Festival next year (1902), there is much enthusiasm in the new committee, and I think we shall have a great success.' May all this be fully realised.

Military bands have a fine field for the exercise of their excellent capabilities in furnishing the accompaniments at oratorio performances. In saying this we refer, of course, to the string band section of our regimental musicians, plus the necessary 'wind.' Our Bristol correspondent gives an instance of the aid thus rendered by the fine band of the Scots Guards.

Music for the people has received an encouraging impetus at the hand of Mr. Carnegie. The scene of his latest good deed in this respect was New York, and the incident is graphically told by Mr. Krehbiel, our special correspondent in that city, on p. 41. How thrilling must have been that pæan of song! And then to think of the good work of the People's Choral Union that made it possible!

The therapeutic power of music is a subject which asserts itself from time to time. But the influence of sweet sounds as a negative potent does not seem to have received the attention it deserves. Many an illness can be traced to the effects of sleeping in a damp, or unaired bed. Such a serious risk, however, probably did not occur to a certain genius many years ago when he invented a musical bed. The chief merits of this necessary article of daily (or nightly) life were two-fold. First: directly the would-be sleeper had comfortably settled himself between the sheets, the bed began to play a lullaby melody, which was to have the effect of soothing the occupant into the arms of Morpheus. Secondly: by an ingenious alarum-like feature of the machinery, the bed could be so wound up that, at a certain time in the morning, a rousing tune would start off in the region of the mattress whereby the sleeper would be pleasantly awakened. But, let it be added, such an invention would serve even a still more useful purpose. The occupant might certainly be sure that it was a well-aired bed.

A correspondent calls our attention to the fact that 'in the new Art Gallery in the city of Glasgow there have been inscribed on the walls of the Central Hall the names of the great composers, two of which appear as Scarletti and Palestrino.' The writer of the letter asks if there is any authority in support of this spelling. In the absence of any information to the contrary, we can only imagine it to be the Scotch form of those great composers' patronymics. Any disavowal of that theory consonant with the truth we will gladly insert in our next number.

The ways of indexers are often curious. In the Zeitschriftenschau of the Zeitschrift der Internationalen Musikgesellschaft, an article which appeared in The Musical Times above the pseudonym 'Dotted Crotchet,' is indexed as having been written by Crotchet, D.

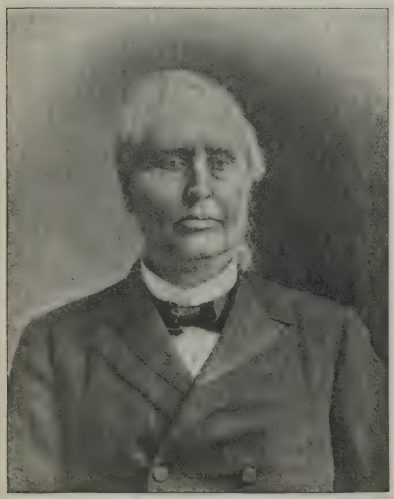
A NEWCASTLE MUSIC-MAKING.

'Lovely place, and lovely company,' said John Wesley, a century and-a-half ago, of Newcastle-on-Tyne. If to-day the eminent divine's statement be challenged in regard to the ethereal loveliness of the prosperous city, no one with an appreciation of the picturesque can fail to be struck with the unique view obtainable from its wonderful High-Level bridge, more especially after nightfall. The 'lovely company' still goes on in the kind-hearted folk of Newcastle, who extend warm hospitality to the stranger within their gates—and Gateshead!

> Hear Avison! He tenders evidence
> That music in his day as much absorbed
> Heart and soul then as Wagner's music now.

Thus wrote that true lover of music, Robert Browning. The words will be found in 'Parleyings with certain people of importance in their day.'



MR. JOHN PATTINSON, J.P.

PRESIDENT OF THE NEWCASTLE AND GATESHEAD CHORAL UNION.

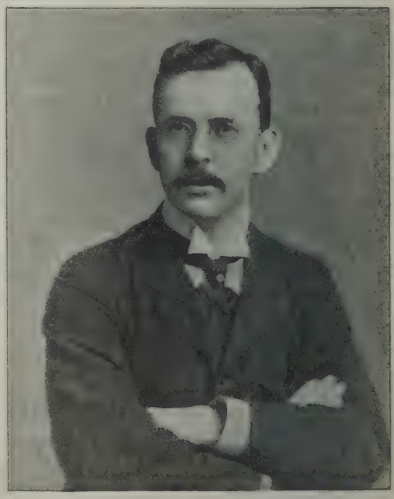
(Photograph by Mr. Frank, Gateshead-on-Tyne.)

One of Browning's 'certain people' is Charles Avison (1710?-1770), who became, in 1736, organist of St. Nicholas Parish Church, which in 1884 became Newcastle Cathedral. To antiquaries musically inclined, Avison is known as the author of 'An Essay in Musical Expression,' published in 1752, a treatise which attracted much attention. The art of music, even in those long-ago days, was a cultured force in the hearts and souls of Avison and his Newcastle friends. But a lesser poet than Browning made the name of Avison known the world over by a simple strain of music. Thomas Moore is his name. He wrote a poem which begins 'Sound the loud timbrel.' This he adapted (in 1816) to a movement—or, to be more exact, a portion of a movement—from a concerto by good Charles Avison. Mr. Moore appended a curious foot-note to his 'Sound the loud timbrel' derangement. It reads thus:—

> I have so altered the character of this Air, which is from the beginning of one of Avison's old-fashioned Concertos, that, without this acknowledgment it could hardly, I think, be recognised.

The tinkering fraternity rarely acknowledge their maltreatments with such frankness.

The visitor to the spacious sanctuary of St. Nicholas, where, it will be remembered, Avison was organist, cannot fail to notice the fine east window. He will be interested to learn that it was restored and fitted with stained glass in the year 1860, and at a cost of £500, as a memorial to Dr. Thomas Ions, organist of the church from 1834 to 1857. It is seldom one finds in a church so noble a tribute to the life-work of its chief musician. Dr. Ions was succeeded by his brother, Mr. William Jamson Ions—thus the organistship was worthily held by the two brothers for a period of sixty years. The Avison family—Charles, his son, and grandson—held the post for forty-eight years, though not successively.



MR. JAMES M. PRESTON.

CHORUS-MASTER OF THE NEWCASTLE AND GATESHEAD CHORAL UNION.

(Photograph by Ruddock Ltd., Newcastle-on-Tyne.)

Another peep into the musical past of the capital of the coal country is afforded by the 'Northumberland, Durham and Newcastle-upon-Tyne Grand Musical Festival,' held in the year 1824. This much-titled Festival consisted of six performances—and a ball! We are told that 'the whole was contracted for by Madame Catalani, who engaged to take and pay all—allowing to the charitable institutions of the counties one-fifth of the receipts.' The financial result was such that the great singer put into her own pocket the comfortable sum of £1,000, while the charities had to be contented with £769 4s. It appears that Madame Catalani—who could embrace 'every variety, from the comic base and the simplest style of English ballad to the Italian bravura'—'very properly surrendered the opening of "The Messiah" to Mr. Braham.' That was exceedingly condescending on her part; but she did not fully pursue the even tenor of her soprano ways, for she sang 'He was despised'—transposed into the key of G! The chorus of 'The Lord shall reign' (Israel in Egypt) was transposed into B flat 'to accommodate Madame Catalani.' Sir George Smart conducted the Festival, and the 'whole performance was certainly very respectable.' At a subsequent Festival (in 1842), also conducted (doubtless respectably) by old Smart, 'merry-faced Lindley, the violoncellist, took his accustomed pinch of snuff amid the cheers of his audience.' From the knightly conductor's 'private' (and much self-annotated) programme of that Festival, now in the British Museum, I find that the alto part in the choruses was sung entirely by men. The Duke of Cambridge attended the Messiah performance, a fact duly noted by the punctilious Sir George thus:—

H.R.H. remained for the whole performance. He went out of the Church at the end of the second part to ——— for Refreshments and returned in 20 m.

The particular location of the royal refreshment-room is not stated.

ST. NICHOLAS CATHEDRAL, NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.

(Photograph by Ruddock Ltd., Newcastle-on-Tyne.)

The same programme contains this curious information, also writ in the conductor's knightly hand:—

Nothing rehearsed but If God be for us—

But it is time to turn away from those old-time curiosities, and to record some impressions of a recent music-making by the excellent music-makers forming the Newcastle and Gateshead Choral Union. It was founded in the year 1888 (as the Gateshead Choral Society) by seven enthusiastic amateurs, all of whom are still associated with the Society. The President is Mr. John Pattinson, a Justice of the Peace for the Borough of Gateshead, and senior partner in the well-known house of Messrs. J. and H. S. Pattinson, one of the oldest and most respected firms of analytical chemists in the North of England. Mr. Pattinson is by no means a mere figure-head of the Society, but one of its most active workers. Music has always been the greatest hobby of his leisure hours, and during a long and useful life he has done a great deal for the promotion of high-class music in the district. For many years he has been an active member of the Committee of the Newcastle Chamber Music Society, one of the most successful societies of its kind in the kingdom, and he is the honorary local representative in Newcastle for the Associated Board of the Royal Academy of Music and the Royal College of Music for Local Examinations in Music. Mr. John Pattinson is a fine type of the cultured amateur of the art he so dearly loves.

Fortunate in its President, the Choral Union is no less to be congratulated upon its efficient Conductor, Mr. James M. Preston. Born at Gateshead, on July 14, 1860, Mr. Preston is a home-grown product. At an early age he studied the violin and pianoforte under his father, Mr. Stephen E. Preston, and when thirteen years old he received some pianoforte lessons from the late Lindsay Sloper, in London. In 1875, ætat 15, Master Preston was appointed organist of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church, Gateshead, where he remained for six years, diligently working at the organ. In 1881 he became one of the earliest students of the Guildhall School of Music,—then located in a warehouse in Aldermanbury—and studied the organ under the late Sir John Stainer, at that time a professor of the School. For the rest,

THE HIGH-LEVEL AND SWING BRIDGES, NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.

(Photograph by Ruddock Ltd., Newcastle-on-Tyne.)

Mr. Preston is entirely self-taught; and his position, as one of the most distinguished organists and choir trainers in the North of England, he owes not a little to those precious qualities of self-help and steady perseverance. For five years (1883-88) he was organist of St. Thomas's Church, Newcastle; but since 1888 he has held the important post of chief musician at St. George's Church, Jesmond (Newcastle). For several years past, Mr. Preston has given an organ recital in his church every Sunday evening, always with great acceptance; the printed catalogue of the pieces he has played bears remarkable testimony to the catholicity of his taste and the wide range of his sympathies. The City of Newcastle is fortunate in possessing so capable a native-born musician as James Moody Preston.

The Society is equally to be congratulated in having an excellent Committee and an enthusiastic body of officials, who all work most energetically to promote the interests of the Society—in other words, who engineer the Choral Union of that engineering city. Without wishing to make any invidious distinction, I would select for 'full marks' in 'honours' the secretary, Mr. James B. Clark. To say of him, 'The right man in the right place' would not be far wrong; but that is not sufficient. Mr. Clark, who, by the way, is organist of Westmoreland Road Presbyterian Church, is an enthusiast with plenty of 'go' in him and unlimited brainy business capacity; moreover, he has the enviable quality of being agreeable to everybody, in fact—to speak in terms of local metaphor—he makes the wheels go frictionlessly round by the oil of his geniality. Mr. Clark told me a little about the history of the Society he serves so well, and which has taken a leading position among similar institutions in the North. He said:—

At first the concerts were held in the Town Hall, Gateshead, but this building soon became too small both for choir and audience. Since 1893 they have been given in Newcastle, latterly in Olympia, but this year in the Town Hall, which, however, is also too small, as it can only accommodate an audience of 1,500 persons. The efforts of the Society to popularise high-class music are very much hindered by the lack of a large hall.

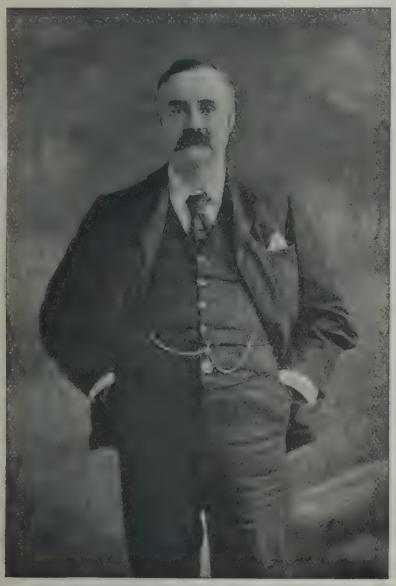
Perhaps the Society's greatest achievement was the first performance in Newcastle of Beethoven's 'Choral Symphony,' under Dr. Richter, on November 24, 1899. The success of that concert was so great that, both last season and this, the Hallé Orchestra has been engaged for all the concerts. The Society has now a reserve fund of £250, a financial position which is probably unique.

Among the many works which the Society has performed for the first time in Newcastle may be mentioned Beethoven's 'Choral Symphony,' Mackenzie's 'Jason,' Bach's 'God's time is the best,' Sullivan's 'Festival Te Deum' and 'Golden Legend,' Parry's



MR. JAMES B. CLARK.

SECRETARY OF THE NEWCASTLE AND GATESHEAD CHORAL UNION.
(Photograph by Messrs. Barclay Bros., Newcastle-on-Tyne.)

'Job' (conducted by the composer), Brahms's 'German Requiem,' Elgar's 'King Olaf,' and (this season) Liszt's 'Legend of St. Elizabeth.' Dr. Cowen's 'Ode to the Passions' is to be performed, under the composer's direction, on March 19, 1902.

To come to the particular music-making of which the foregoing is a preliminary. The Newcastle and Gateshead Choral Union inaugurated its fourteenth season, on November 27, by a performance of Liszt's Oratorio 'The Legend of St. Elizabeth,' in the Town Hall, Newcastle, before an audience that completely filled the room. 'St. Elizabeth' is interesting by reason of its national characteristics. As a Hungarian, the subject of the Legend—made familiar to English readers by Charles Kingsley's dramatic poem 'The Saints' Tragedy'—would appeal strongly to the romantic nature of Liszt. No wonder that he took his chief themes from the rich store of Liturgical treasures and folk-songs belonging to his native land. How effectively he has manipulated this thematic material, especially in his treatment of the old church melodies, is made patent to all who have ears to hear. The work has many touches of beauty, and the interest of the story it musically illustrates is well maintained. Two interesting performances of the oratorio may be recalled—those given by the Novello Choir, under Sir (then Dr.) Alexander Mackenzie, in the year 1886, during the memorable visit of the great pianist to England.

The Newcastle performance was conducted by Dr. Hans Richter, and the band was that of the Hallé Orchestra, from Manchester. The solo vocalists were Miss Agnes Nicholls, Miss Ethel Wood, Mr. Fowler Burton and Mr. Francis Harford. Miss Nicholls, who more than maintained the good impression she made at the Leeds Festival, sang the music assigned to the heroine with tenderness and natural feeling, and in such a manner as to mark her as a soprano singer who is rapidly making her way. Miss Ethel Wood, as Landgravine Sophie, infused much dramatic fervour into her part; but this gifted young artist needs to be cautioned against unduly taxing her strength by an unrestrained enthusiasm.

The honours of the evening, however, fell to the chorus. Their performance on this occasion was particularly meritorious, when it is remembered that, owing to indisposition, Dr. Richter was unable to attend the chorus rehearsal which had been arranged for him. Purity of tone, refinement, clear enunciation of words, and, above all, intelligence, were some of the good qualities which stamped their achievement with the high-water mark of excellence. The greatest credit is due to Mr. Preston for the admirable manner in which he had trained his 400 choristers, a body of singers of which any city might be proud.

Dotted Crotchet.

The following letter from Professor Stanford, which appeared in the Times of the 7th ult., on the subject of the tempi of Elijah, will be read with interest:—

I had always heard from certain of Mendelssohn's pupils whom I knew that he was most careful and precise in his metronome marks; and not long before I visited Mr. Lockey I rehearsed the oratorio with an orchestra which would scarce believe that my tempi were sane, until I produced a metronome to verify them. The general tendency has been to sentimentalize the andantes, and to reduce the fiery speed of the quick movements. When I saw Mr. Lockey I asked him to hum for me the most obvious cases as nearly as he could recall in the composer's tempi, and in every instance his pace was that of the metronome. The most striking modern lapses are in the contralto airs 'Woe unto them' and (especially) 'O rest in the Lord.' The latter air was sung in 1846 by Miss Williams, who afterwards married Mr. Lockey. He told me that Mendelssohn impressed upon her the importance of singing this song quite simply and without dragging. It is now frequently reduced to nearly half-speed. He also mentioned the prodigious pace of the final Baal Chorus and of the song 'Is not his word like a fire'; two movements of which (as my father told me), 'Mendelssohn's conducting was like whipping cream.' I then told Lockey of the modern fashion, beloved of solo tenors, of making a sweeping portamento at the return of the theme in 'If with all your hearts,' and asked him if it was traditional. Lockey threw up his hands in horror at the idea, and told me that Mendelssohn impressed upon him again and again the vital importance of perfect simplicity in singing this air. It may be of interest to place these few notes on record, as anything which helps to preserve a composer's intentions must be valuable to conductors who have not been in touch with them.

[Miss M. B. Hawes, not Miss Williams, sang 'O rest in the Lord,' at the first performance of the oratorio at Birmingham, in 1846.—Ed. M. T.]

THE ORIGINAL TENOR IN MENDELSSOHN'S ELIJAH.

CHARLES LOCKEY.

As fifty-five years have passed since the production of Mendelssohn's 'Elijah,' it is no wonder that those who took part in that memorable performance are rapidly dwindling away. One of the principal singers on that occasion has, we regret to record, been recently removed by death in the person of Charles Lockey, who drew his last breath at his residence, Lyndhurst, St. Helen's Road, Hastings, on the 3rd ult.

Charles Lockey, the son of Angel Lockey, of Oxford, was born on March 23, 1820, at Thatcham, near Newbury, and not at the latter town, as all the obituary notices have stated. After being a chorister of Magdalen College, Oxford, from 1828 to 1836, he studied music under Edmund Harris, at Bath. In 1842 he became a pupil of Sir George Smart, who gave lessons in singing till he was past eighty, and numbered among his pupils many distinguished singers, who came to him in order to acquire Handelian traditions in oratorio.

The following letter from the worthy knight to Lockey, shows that master and pupil had another interest than that of teaching and acquiring the art of vocalization:—

St. Ann's Hill, Chertsey,
9th May, 1857.

My Dear Sir,

Your kind present of two very good looking and interesting young pigs came safely by the train arriving at Chertsey station this afternoon at 1.40. We found your directions for the feeding of them under the direction card, which will be duly attended to. They seem to be quite at home in their new abode.

We should like to have a full, true and particular account of their Birth and Parentage? Whether they have been named? If not, I suggest that one should be called Lock, the other Key, which would remind us of the donor. When they depart from the Sty into the Larder, we hope that you and Mrs. Lockey will come and partake of them; but joking apart, I beg you to accept my best thanks for the fulfilment of your kind promise.

Believe me, yours very faithfully,
George T. Smart.

To C. Lockey, Esq.

By-the-way, Sir George's terms were 'fourteen shillings per hour, and not less than twenty lessons, payment to be made at the end of every third lesson.'

Mr. Lockey sang in the choirs of St. George's Chapel, Windsor, and of Eton College Chapel. These appointments formed a good stepping-stone to the valuable post of a Vicar Choral of St. Paul's Cathedral, to which office he was elected early in the year 1843. He had a warm supporter in Canon Sydney Smith, who, in a letter to a friend, dated January 13, 1843, said:—

Dear Sir,—I have written to the Dean to say I shall vote for Lockey, and shall be exceedingly sorry if he is not introduced into the choir. I can do no more.

Yours ever,
Sydney Smith.

This letter was followed by one to Mr. Lockey, but written four days later than the above, in these terms:—

Sir,—Without making any absolute promise, I am much inclined to support you, but reserve to myself a full right of voting for whom I please.

Yrs,
Coombe Florey, Taunton, Sydney Smith.
Jany. 17, 1843.

These epistles not only prove that brevity is the soul of wit, but that the jocose cleric had his little bit of fun with the would-be Vicar Choral.

Mr. Lockey had previously made his first appearance in oratorio at Store Street Rooms, in connection with the Melophonic Society, in October, 1842, the work being Rossini's 'Stabat Mater,' then new to this country. In 1848 he was appointed a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal, and for a period of ten or twelve years his services were in frequent request in London and at the various Provincial Festivals. In 1853 he married Miss Martha Williams, an excellent contralto soloist, who predeceased him. Mr. Lockey became one of the most celebrated tenor singers of his day; but, unfortunately, a throat affection deprived the art and the public of an artist who could ill be spared, and about the early sixties he retired from the profession. At his death he had held his Vicar Choralship (on the old Foundation) at St. Paul's for nearly fifty-nine years, of which for forty-three years he had been represented by a deputy—at one time Mr. Fred. Walker, and latterly by Mr. James Barnby. In this connection, when a change of deputy had become necessary, the late William Winn, a fellow Vicar Choral, wrote to his friend as follows, under date April 7, 1870:—

My dear Lockey,—If you have not arranged with anyone to take your deputyship at St. Paul's, the bearer (Mr. Lloyd, now a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal) would like to speak with you respecting it. He is in every way the very man, and indeed St. Paul's and all connected with it would be greatly benefited by the addition of such a member to the choir.

'The bearer' above mentioned was one Edward Lloyd, who took passage in a vessel other than deputyship across the sea of success.

The great event of Charles Lockey's life was his being selected to sing the tenor solos at the first performance of Mendelssohn's 'Elijah' at the Birmingham Musical Festival, August 26, 1846. He was the junior of the quartet of tenors engaged for that occasion, the remaining three being Mario, John Braham, and J. W. Hobbs. At the pianoforte rehearsal of the solos in London, Lockey, with his beautiful and sympathetic voice, immediately won Mendelssohn's golden opinion. The two tenor airs had been previously assigned to Mr. J. W. Hobbs, the father-in-law of Dr. Cummings, who generously relinquished them in favour of the younger singer. At the performance, Mr. Lockey sang his two solos 'deliciously,' said a critic. The first 'If with all your hearts' was encored, and 'the smile upon Mendelssohn's face while it was being sung showed how much he was pleased with the chaste execution of this young tenor.' Mendelssohn was so charmed with him that, in a letter to his brother, describing the performance, the composer said: 'A young English tenor, sang the last air ['Then shall the righteous shine forth'] so beautifully, that I was obliged to collect all my energies so as not to be affected.' Again, in a letter to William Bartholomew, his translator, respecting the first performance in London of the revised oratorio, Mendelssohn said: 'Of course Lockey would be quite sufficient for all the tenor solos!' Mr. Chorley, writing of him in the Athenæum, in connection with 'Elijah,' said: 'Mr. Lockey has substantiated his claim to be considered our first English tenor of serious music.' Some important information on the subject of the tempi of Elijah will be found on page 27.

An interesting incident, in which Mr. Lockey took an important part, occurred at this Birmingham Musical Festival of 1846, the details of which may be quoted from the 'History of Mendelssohn's Elijah.'* 'At the concluding concert, on Friday morning, the final chorus of Handel's 'Zadok, the Priest' was set down for performance. Almost at the last minute it was found that there was no music for the preceding Recitative printed in the word-book. The Committee were in a fix, and then they suddenly thought that Mendelssohn might be able to help them in their hour of need. He was sitting in the Vice-President's gallery, enjoying the performance, when the chairman of the Orchestral Committee, the late Mr. J. F. Ledsam, went to him and stated their difficulty. Mendelssohn at once proceeded to the ante-room, and, in a few minutes, composed a recitative for tenor solo, with accompaniment for strings and two trumpets. The parts were expeditiously copied by the indefatigable Goodwin, and the whole recitative was performed primâ vista by Mr. Lockey, a quintet of strings and the two trumpet players. The audience were entirely ignorant of the circumstance of this impromptu composition, and doubtless thought that they were listening to music by Handel.'

JOHN LIPTROT HATTON AND CHARLES LOCKEY.

Mendelssohn presented his manuscript of this unpremeditated Handelian recitative to Mr. Lockey, as a memento of the event, and of his sympathetic rendering of the tenor solos in 'Elijah.' Through the kindness of his son, Mr. John Lockey, we are enabled to present our readers with an exact reproduction of Mendelssohn's autograph, with its very charming inscription. It forms one of our Special Supplements.

* 'The History of Mendelssohn's oratorio Elijah.' By F. G. Edwards. Novello. 1896. p. 93.

Church and Organ Music.

SERVICES TWO HUNDRED YEARS AGO.

Any preconceived idea that early and frequent services are modern features of ecclesiastical life may be dismissed by such a peep into the past as is afforded by an old psalm-tune book, entitled :—

Select | Psalms and Hymns | For the use of the | Parish Church, | and Chappel | of | St. James's Westminster. | The sixth edition.

London Printed by J. Heptinstall, for the | Company of Stationers. | MDCCIV.

On page 58 of this psalmody collection, information concerning the services of the familiar church in Piccadilly is set forth in the following form :—

A Table of the Prayers, Sermons, and Sacraments in the Parish-Church of St. James's, Westminster, throughout the year.

Prayers every day, at Six (in the Winter, at Seven) and eleven in the morning, and at Three and Six in the afternoon.

Prayers and Sermons every Lord's-day at ten and three.

As also prayers at six or seven in the morning, and five in the afternoon.

Every second Sunday of the month ..	Prayers, sermons, 1 sacrament.
Every Sunday, from Palm Sunday to Trinity Sunday	Prayers, sermons, 1 sacrament.
New Year's Day	Prayers, 1 sermon, 1 sacrament.
King Charles's Martyrdom, January 30	Prayers, 1 sermon.
The Queen's Inauguration, March 8	Prayers, 1 sermon.
Ash-wednesday	Prayers, 1 sermon.
Every Thursday after, till the Passion Week	Prayers, 1 sermon.
Palm-sunday	Prayers, sermon, 2 sacraments.
Good-Friday	Prayers, 1 sermon.
Easter-Day	Prayers, sermons, 2 sacraments.
May 29	Prayers.
Whit-sunday	Prayers, sermons. 2 sacraments.
November the Fifth	Prayers, 1 sermon.
Christmas-day	Prayers, 1 sermon. 2 sacraments.
All public Fasts or Thanksgivings..	Prayers, 1 sermon.
Every Festival in the Year besides..	Prayers.
Every Thursday from Michaelmas to Christmas	Prayers, catechising.
Every Thursday from Epiphany to Ash-wednesday	Prayers, catechising.
Every Thursday from after Easter Week to Midsummer Day ..	Prayers, catechising.

If the Thursday be a Festival Day, the catechising for that day is omitted.

Note.—That all Festival-days, when there is a Sermon, Prayers begin as on Sundays. All Fasting-days, the Morning Prayers begin at Eleven, the Evening a little before Three. When there are two Sacraments, the first Morning Service begins at Seven, the second at Ten o'clock. Upon all other Sacrament-days, the Morning Service begins usually a quarter sooner, the Evening a quarter later than upon other Sundays. The daily Morning Prayers, from Michaelmas to Candlemas, begin not till Seven in the morning.

The book contains the well-known psalm-tune 'St. James,' which made its first appearance as long ago as 1697. At some future time we hope to say something about this fine old tune and its composer, Raphael Courteville.

WHERE WAS DR. BLOW BORN?

Modern biographers—with that distrust of previous writers which gives a certain zest to the pursuit—have completely disproved the statement, made over and over again, that Dr. John Blow was born at North Collingham in Nottinghamshire. The registers of that parish contain no reference whatever to him or to his family. Anthony à Wood (1632-1695), in a manuscript account of the composer's life, preserved in the Bodleian Library, Oxford, says: 'Dr. Rogers tells me that John Blow was born in London.' Hearsay information of this kind is poor biographical material as compared with documentary evidence, and some recent writers on Dr. Blow have as readily swallowed the London bait as did the older scribes that of North Collingham, without realizing the risk of being caught.

What seems to throw a new light, and to a large extent furnishes conclusive information on the matter, has recently been discovered by Mr. Thomas M. Blagg, of Newark, who contributed to the Athenæum, of the 7th ult., the result of his investigations in these words :—

I have recently been working at the parish registers of this place (Newark), and I find a Henry Blow and Katharine Langwarth, widow, were married here in 1646. They had three children: Henry, born in 1647; John, baptized February 23, 1648-9; and Katharine, born two years later. The idea immediately occurred to me that this John might be the author of the 'Amphion Anglicus.' Newark is within six miles of North Collingham, his reputed birthplace, and any other connexion with that place—such, possibly, as its being the residence of his mother's relatives—might have given rise to its being assigned as his birthplace.

According to the allegation for his marriage licence, in September, 1674, John Blow was then twenty-six years old, whereas, if this Newark entry relate to him, and if, as would almost certainly be the case, he was baptized within a day or two of his birth, he would be five months short of that age. This discrepancy, however, is so slight that the assumption cannot be dismissed on that ground alone.

Of Blow's family we know very little. His eldest son was named Henry, and one of his three daughters Katharine. If the Newark baptism be really his, what more natural than that his son should be given the same name as was borne by his father and elder brother, and that he should name his daughter after his mother and only sister?

Mr. Blagg concludes his interesting communication with references to the will of Dr. Blow—wherein the old church composer mentions his 'sister Cage' and 'niece Elizabeth Blow'—and to collateral branches of the family. He is of opinion that after the death of Henry Blow (the father) in 1655, the family removed to London, where John became one of the children of the Chapel Royal in 1660.

SPECIAL SERVICES.

The special Advent Service at St. Paul's Cathedral, on the 3rd ult., was of unusual interest, in that the German Requiem by Brahms was performed by the Cathedral choir and a full orchestra, under Sir George Martin's careful conductorship, with Mr. Charles Macpherson at the organ. A very remarkable feature of the service was the singing of the boys, their tone was simply delicious.——The orchestral and oratorio Services at Brixton Church, on Sunday afternoons, continue to be much appreciated. On the 1st ult. a new and effective overture, entitled 'Christiana,' was performed. The work is the composition of Mr. Douglas Redman, organist of the church and conductor of the Brixton Oratorio Choir, under whose direction the overture was impressively performed by the orchestra. On the 15th ult., selections from Mendelssohn's 'St. Paul' were given in the presence of a large congregation.——The performances of Bach's Christmas Oratorio, on Friday evenings, at the historic church of St. Anne's, Soho, are well worth the attention of Bach lovers and earnest-minded church musicians. Mr. E. H. Thorne, the organist and choirmaster, is well serving the art he loves by presenting, as he does so admirably, these old-time masterpieces.—— The same work (Parts i.-iii.) was effectively given, on the 11th ult., at the Parish Church, Kingston-on-Thames, under the conductorship of Dr. Alderson, organist of the church, with Mr. E. Stephenson, of St. Michael's church, Brighton, at the organ, and the co-operation of a professional orchestra of strings and drums.

Mr. H. L. Balfour read a paper before the Incorporated Society of Musicians (London section) on the 14th ult., on 'Organ accompaniments,' a very important subject in these days of overgrown organs.

ORGAN RECITALS.

Mr. James M. Preston, Zion Chapel, South Shields (Fantasia in D minor, Op. 10, Schellenberg).—Mr. H. W. Chuter, Salisbury Cathedral (Fantasia in F minor, Mozart).—Mr. Edwin H. Lemare, St. Margaret's, Westminster (Marche Solennelle, Lemare).—Mr. Harry E. Wall, St. Nicholas', Rodmersham (Holsworthy Church Bells, Wesley).—Mr. R. W. Strickland, College Street Chapel, Northampton.—Mr. R. Sharpe, Salisbury Cathedral (Andante in D, with Variations, posthumous, Mendelssohn).—Mr. Ernest H. Smith, St. Bede's, Liverpool (Canzonet in G, Chipp).—Mr. R. E. Parker, Parish Church, Wilmslow (Sonata da Camera, Peace).—Mr. H. Crackel, Masbro' Chapel (Concert Overture, Hollins).—Mr. Sydney L. K. Crookes, Adam Smith Hall, Kirkcaldy (Toccata in A, Best).—Mr. T. H. Collinson, Bonnington United Free Church, Leith (Larghetto from the Clarionet Quintet, Mozart).—Mr. H. Mozart Sheaves, Parish Church, Timperley (Fantasia in E flat, Saint-Saëns).—Mr. Charlton T. Speer, St. Nicholas, Sutton (Concert Fantasia, Stewart).—Mr. G. F. Tendall, Diocesan Training College Chapel, York (Ite missa est, Lemmens).—Mr. J. W. Cheadle, St. Michael's Parish Church, Dumfries (Adagio in E, Merkel).—Mr. E. G. Croager, St. Paul's, Avenue Road, Hampstead (Scherzo in B minor, Lemare).—Mr. A. E. Davies, St. George's, Brockley (March in B flat, Silas).—Mr. Arthur S. Manfield, Canal Street United Free Church, Paisley (Scherzo, Hoyte).—Dr. Keighley, Milton Church, Rochdale.—Dr. Henry T. Pringuer, Presbyterian Church, Stoke Newington (March from 'David,' C. E. Horsley).—Mr. R. H. Turner, Parish Church, Portsmouth (Sonata in C minor, Salomé).—Mr. Maughan Barnett, St. John's, Wellington, N.Z. (Choral Song and Fugue, S. S. Wesley).—Mr. W. Nelson Govier, Parish Church, Ware (Overture in C, Hollins).—Mr. C. J. Brennan, Elmwood Presbyterian Church, Belfast (Intermezzo, Hollins).—Mr. A. Thompson, St. Stephen's, Hounslow (Concerto in B flat, Handel).—Mr. Clarence Eddy, St. Bartholomew's, New York (Fantasia in F, John E. West).—Mr. A. Herbert Brewer, Parish Church, Weston-super-Mare (Dithyramb, Basil Harwood).—Mr. Warren R. Hedden, St. John's, Waterbury, Connecticut (Grand Chœur in A, Salomé).—Mr. J. Gray, Adam Smith Hall, Kirkcaldy.—Mr. J. Weston Nicholl, Victoria Hall, Halifax, who played Rheinberger's last composition, the Organ Sonata No. 20, Op. 196, for the first time in England.

ORGANIST AND CHOIRMASTER, AND CHOIR APPOINTMENTS.

Mr. S. Askham, Parish Church, Lismahagow, N.B.
Mr. Frank Drewett, St. John-the-Evangelist, Drury Lane.
Mr. Edward D. Potter, Berkeley Chapel, Mayfair.

Reviews.

MUSICAL LITERATURE.

Oxford History of Music. Vol. I. The Polyphonic Period. Part I. Method of Musical Art. 330-1330. By H. E. Wooldridge, M.A.
[Oxford: The Clarendon Press.]

This interesting volume is the first fruit of a broad and comprehensive scheme for the survey of the whole field of music in its growth and evolution as an art.

To trace the successive stages through which it has passed, to keep touch with the thread of continuity linking these various stages together—from the early times when consecutive simple sounds formed the melodies of Greek music, through the great polyphonic period when men learned to combine different individual utterances simultaneously, to the marvellous vocal and instrumental structures of harmony and counterpoint of our own days—has been the aim of the authors of this history. In order to secure not only breadth of view, but also complete sympathy with every phase of musical life, the work has been planned in six volumes, which have been placed in the hands of five men, peculiarly qualified to have part in what is really a gigantic and exhaustive musical treatise.

The first two volumes, by Professor H. E. Wooldridge, treat of the music of the Middle Ages, the first (recently published) carrying us up to the period of discant, the second 'tracing the course of modal counterpoint up to the work of Palestrina and his successors; the third, by Sir Hubert Parry, follows the line of the early monodic movement from its origin in Josquin and Arcadelt to its culmination in Purcell; the fourth, by Mr. J. A. Fuller Maitland, deals especially with the music of Bach and Handel, and with the harmonic counterpoint which is peculiarly characteristic of their time; the fifth, by the Editor, Mr. W. H. Hadow, narrates the rise and progress of the Viennese School, and carries from Haydn to Schubert the development of the great instrumental forms; the sixth, by Mr. E. Dannreuther, describes that phase of the art which is distinctively known as Romantic, and discusses the formative conditions which inspired Weber in the theatre, Schumann and Chopin in the concert-room.'

Professor Wooldridge plunges at once into his subject, carrying us back to Greek music in the fourth century, where may be found the germs of polyphony,—for the singing of a melody by mixed voices or in unison no doubt suggested inquiry into the reason of its being so much more pleasant to the ear than the singing of the same melody by equal voices. The magadis, a many-stringed instrument which permitted the striking each note of a melody in octaves, led to the singing of the concord of the octave being known as magadizing, and this, though still belonging to the melodic form, may be looked upon as the origin of polyphony; but before it could develop to any degree, there remained a large step to be taken, namely, the realisation of the possibility of voices singing different notes simultaneously.

The Greeks having carried their technical development to a high point, but having no further creative impulse to sweep music on beyond the stage of melodic beauty it had reached, it was for the Italians to infuse fresh life into the old material. This they did by utilising it for the Hymns and Antiphons of the Ritual of the Latin Church; of these the oldest specimens date from the end of the fourth century. M. Gevaert, in his 'Mélopée Antique dans le Chant de l'Eglise Latine,' has very ably demonstrated how the early Christian music was continued on the same technical lines as the old Greek melodies, certainly until the end of the seventh century, and possibly until about the year 900.

Professor Wooldridge gives examples from Gevaert of all the scales found in the earliest Hymns and Antiphons; these on comparison are found to be exactly the same as the scales used in extant Greek compositions.

In the middle of the ninth century, after an interval of about 250 years, during which the art of music must have been steadily progressing, there appeared the 'Musica

Disciplina' of Aurelian of Réomé, the earliest musical treatise known written by a churchman, presenting in a new form the eight ecclesiastical or 'Gregorian' modes. This treatise shows that the system of authentic and plagal modes was firmly established; and with slight alterations it continued to hold its own for many hundreds of years. Towards the close of the ninth century the first mention of 'organizing,' that is, the simultaneous singing or playing of concords, is to be found, and by the end of the next century it had been realised that concord included such intervals as fourths and fifths, this so-called 'symphonious' singing being known as organum or diaphony. This system is fully recognised in the treatise 'Musica Enchiriadis,' and in the commentary 'Scholia Enchiriadis.' In the beginning of the eleventh century appeared the 'Micrologus' of Guido of Arezzo, which shows the modifications arising from the greater freedom allowed to individual judgment in the choice of sounds other than the traditional concords, and formerly held to be utterly discordant. This resulted in free diaphony as opposed to strict diaphony.

Professor Wooldridge then traces the development of organum through certain examples of the music of that period still left to us—though unfortunately in a writing that is difficult to decipher—it being noted throughout in neumes; as in the case of the Winchester Troper, a most interesting English manuscript. The 'Musica' of Johannes Cotto, written about 1100, and an anonymous treatise 'Ad organum faciendum' in the Ambrosian Library at Milan (printed by Coussemaker), are quoted to show the progress of the new organum: in the latter, be it noted, the vox organalis is above the vox principalis, instead of below, as formerly. As more and more liberty was allowed, resulting in the use of contrary instead of parallel movement, of pleasing discords instead of concords pure and simple, the term discant, a 'double' or 'diverse' song, came to be applied to music.

The next great step to be made in the art was the use of a musical measure. Up till then a metrical measure only had existed, the music of hymns and songs following the metre of the words to which it was set. No attempt had been made to use different kinds of metre in different voices at the same time, but directly such experiments were made, they were bound to result in a keen sense of the necessity of a common musical measure which would include the duple and triple proportions of different metres. The result was a long note ■ divisible into three equal or two unequal parts, known as breves ■; this again was subdivided into three notes or semibreves ♦—from this basis rose the complicated structure of mensural music known as 'Cantus Mensurabilis.'

Its theoretical development in France and in England can be traced in treatises of the twelfth and thirteenth centuries, and by great good fortune Professor Wooldridge has found an extraordinary wealth of illustrations of early mensural music at his disposal in a thirteenth century manuscript, known as the Antiphonarium Mediceum, in the Laurentian Library at Florence. Dr. Wilhelm Meyer (Der Ursprung des Motetts, 1898) identified this manuscript as being a series or part of a series of six volumes of vocal music, in two, three and four parts, compiled by Léonin and Pérotin, belonging to the library of Nôtre Dâme of Paris in the thirteenth century. It is described and had probably been seen by the anonymous author of 'De Mensuris et Discantu,' a treatise in the British Museum. The account given by this anonymous author of individual compositions as examples of various forms, enabled Professor Wooldridge to identify specimens of organum purum of which only a few examples—and of Conductus—of which no example, had hitherto been known; organum communiter sumptum not being described, its exact form still remains rather doubtful. Of the various types of composition called by these weird names, of the Cantilena and Rondel, of the Hoquet or Ochetus, and of the Motet, Professor Wooldridge gives a learned exposition, copiously illustrated by examples drawn largely from the Florence manuscript. These include eight specimens of the different species of organum, and four long examples of the various kinds of conductus, including two by Maître Pérotin. From the photographic facsimiles one can judge of the accuracy and painstaking care with which Professor Wooldridge has transcribed them. He concludes this volume with examples of the motet taken from the Florence manuscript, which are probably some of the earliest ever written.

Enough has been said to show that Professor Wooldridge, far from being overpowered by the great mass of documents and facts to be marshalled and located in their right positions in the slow, puzzling growth of the art of music, has organised the whole with much insight and critical judgment. This first volume gives us an idea of the high level of excellence to which we may expect the following volumes of the Oxford History of Music to attain under the able editorship of Mr. W. H. Hadow.

Cecie Stainer.

A Biographical Dictionary of Musicians. Compiled and Edited by Theodore Baker, Ph.D.

[New York: G. Schirmer. London: Charles Woolhouse.]

The compiler of every new dictionary, biography, or otherwise, owes not a little to previous tillers in the same field. So far as biography is concerned he will find many tares of error that have a tendency to become deep rooted and choke the crop of the good seed of accuracy. In his admirable preface, Dr. Baker says: 'A careful collation of the standard works of reference has resulted in a weeding-out of very many mistakes, due to carelessness or inadvertence, in the biographical matter belonging to past epochs.' He goes on to say that much reliable and valuable information has been obtained by direct correspondence with those biographised, 'though many enquiries remained unanswered.' The Dictionary, which contains nearly six thousand biographies, is specially strong in the notices of living English and American musicians—the omission of Sir George Martin is most probably an oversight—and herein it will be found invaluable as a book of reference, and one that should be on the shelves of every musician who takes an interest in the literary side of his art. Three hundred pen-and-ink vignettes, drawn by the Russian artist Gribayedoff, after authentic portraits, illustrate its pages. Dr. Baker has, in one or two cases, honoured us by extracting his information from the Biographical Sketches which have appeared in these columns, and moreover this conscientious American editor has been good enough to acknowledge his indebtedness to this journal. In so doing he sets not a few British writers on music a good example in manners.

Early Scottish Melodies, including examples from MSS. and early printed works . . . Notes on former Annotators, English and other claims and Biographical Notices, &c. Written and arranged by John Glen.

[Edinburgh: J. and R. Glen.]

Mr. John Glen, who is also author of two other important works on Scottish music, places on the title-page of the present volume this aphorism from Burns:—

'Facts are chiels that winna ding
And downa be disputed,'

which, being interpreted, chiefly means that the author on behalf of his country reclaims a number of Scottish airs assigned by careless or prejudiced commentators as belonging to the Southron. Mr. Glen's deep knowledge of his subject, begot of probably half-a-century's gleanings among the aforesaid facts, certainly cannot lightly be disputed, but upon what particulars he bases his different arguments, and how far he succeeds in justifying his Scottish claim over an English or an Irish one, this brief notice cannot deal. We venture to think, however, that in some cases the matter may be still left an open one. The mere fact of finding an earlier English or Scottish printed or MS. version of an air can scarcely be considered a satisfactory proof of its origin one way or another, and, in addition to this difficulty, we have the fact to contend with, that an air carried traditionally from one country to another quickly gets a flavour or a characteristic of the music of its last resting-place imparted to it.

We English are much less anxious over the guardianship of our claims to our national music than are the Scotch. The Scot lives far more in the glories of his nation's past history, its lore, and its songs than does the average Englishman, and to the latter it is rather a matter of wonder, and sometimes amusement, that the Scot feels so deeply and so individually any aspersion on, or unjust claim in regard to, these things.

Whether one can absolutely accept, in all cases or not, the conclusions come to by Mr. Glen, students of British National Song cannot but thank him for the immense range of fresh facts which he has brought to bear on the question. His book is undoubtedly a necessity to all interested in the enquiry.

Besides the contest of English and other claims, the work forms a running commentary on the well-known collection of Scottish songs, Johnson's 'Scots Musical Museum,' which Robert Burns prophesied would be in 'future ages the text-book and standard of Scottish song and music.'

The volume also contains much interesting biographical matter, with an excellent bibliographical catalogue of music and song books, which contain Scottish lyrics and tunes. It is a handsomely printed book which may be in all points heartily recommended.

CHURCH MUSIC.

Drop down, ye heavens. The Lord is in His Holy Temple. They were lovely and pleasant in their lives. By John Stainer.

(Novello's Octavo Anthems.)

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

It is not too much to say that the above three anthems show the genius of the late Sir John Stainer at its best. The first is intended for the Feast of the Annunciation, and is a fine example of modern church music, in which the skill of the composer as a contrapuntist is prominently shown. The second anthem is designed for the Feast of the Purification. It is laid out in five vocal parts, two of which are for sopranos, and opens with a bold theme given out in unison by the entire choir, a method admirably accentuating the spirit of the sentence, 'The Lord is in His Holy Temple.' Exceedingly happy is the subsequent delivery, at the end of the subject in unison by the organ as well as the voices. The third anthem, for the Feast of St. Simon and St. Jude, is of a more placid character than the preceding compositions. The conclusion, however, consists of a tersely developed fugue built up with a characteristic subject and counter subject. Well-trained choirs will find great pleasure in singing these anthems.

Holy, holy, holy. By F. Cellier.
Deliver me, O Lord. By John Stainer.
Why art thou so vexed, O my soul. Whom the Lord loveth. By Charles Macpherson.
I am not worthy. The Heavenly Word. (Two Introits.) By C. Lee Williams.

(Novello's Short Anthems.)

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

The text of Mr. Cellier's anthem forms part of the Communion Service, and the climax suggested by the words is effectively worked up by the music. The late Sir John Stainer's setting of 'Deliver me, O Lord,' is not one of his latest compositions, but as a fine expression of masculine devotion, it merits honourable mention. Mr. Macpherson, in his music to 'Why art thou so vexed, O my soul?' has adopted what may be termed the 'interludial' form, the phrases delivered by the voices being divided by short passages for the organ in the nature of commentary. The anthem is an admirable example of modern church music. The voice parts of 'Whom the Lord loveth,' by the same composer, are continuous, and for the most part the accompaniment merely doubles the vocal writing. This anthem is charged with real musical interest. The two Introits by Mr. Lee Williams are simply but impressively set. The first opens with a soprano solo, the melody of which is subsequently taken up by the choir. The second is the more important, and contains a section intended to be sung as a quartet unaccompanied, and forms an effective contrast to the boldness and vigour of the opening of the finale.

PART MUSIC, &c.

Cupid, look about thee. By John Stainer.
Good night, beloved. My Dearie. When through the Piazzetta. By Myles B. Foster.

(The Orpheus.)

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

Sir John Stainer was always happy when writing for male voices, and the part-song, 'Cupid, look about thee,' is a bright example of his skill in treating them. Many may hold that the exhortation to the god of love is quite unnecessary, but this cannot be said of the music, which would form a valuable addition to the repertory of any male-voice choir.

Longfellow's 'Good night, beloved' seems to possess irresistible attraction to composers. Mr. Myles Foster's setting has melodic charm, and breathes the confidence of the lover assured of his dearly beloved's affection. The music is grateful to sing, especially that for the first bass, who has been much favoured by the composer. The same writer's setting of Robert Burns's exquisite little lyric, 'My Dearie,' is most expressive, and sung by a well-balanced choir would prove to be very effective. 'When through the Piazzetta' affects a different style. The words are chiefly sung by the altos, while the other voices supply a bouche fermé accompaniment in imitation of a guitar, one of those happy touches so characteristic of the composer.

To Harmony. The Water-Lily. The Bells are ringing. Composed by Nicolai von Wilm.

(Novello's Trios and Quartets for Female Voices.)

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

Nicolai von Wilm is a composer who possesses the gift of melody; moreover, he writes gratefully for the voice, with a keen sense of contrast and manifest knowledge of what is effective in choral music. The German text has been translated into excellent English by Miss Georgina E. Troutbeck, and with that deftness which characterised the efforts of her father in this particular field.

Seven Songs of Ireland. By St. John Lacy.

[E. Ascherberg and Co.]

The words of three of these songs are translations of Irish ballads, and the others are equally instinct with the sentiment of the Emerald Isle. The composer writes easily in the musical idiom of his countrymen, and the collection is worthy of the attention of all vocalists.

Twelve Short Songs. By Mabel Jennings.

[Weekes and Co.]

It is not often that a song leaves a feeling of regret that it is too short, but this impression is made by the majority of this lady's series of vocal compositions. This is caused not only by the felicitous manner in which the spirit of the text is echoed in the music, but by a freshness of treatment that excites the esteem and admiration of the musician. The above remarks apply in particular to the first two songs, settings of Mr. Austin Dobson's 'Love is a swallow' and 'Oh, love's but a dream,' which are most dainty and tasteful trifles. It should be added that the songs are designed for a contralto or a baritone voice.

Idyll for Violin and Pianoforte. By S. Coleridge-Taylor.
Mazourka for Violin (Op. 49, No. 3). By Emile Sauret.
Chant sans paroles for Violin. By Edwin H. Lemare.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

This serious composition of Mr. Coleridge-Taylor demands two able executants for its performance. It is an earnest and moreover musicianly work of great interest. A violin solo by Emile Sauret is sure to be well written for the instrument, and worthy the attention of a good performer. The present example is an admirable piece of brilliant and effective writing; the player should have command of the finger-board and a good staccato bow. Mr. Lemare's charming little piece may be played entirely in the first position, and so is well within the reach of a young player with an expressive touch. It is sure to find many admirers.

JAROSLAV KOCIÂN.

A NEW VIOLINIST.

The biography of Jaroslav Kociân is one that may be told in a very few words. He was born at Wildenschwert, in Bohemia, February 22, 1884, therefore he is not yet eighteen. He began to play the violin when only three-and-a-half years of age—a mere baby, in fact. His father, a schoolmaster by profession, was his first teacher. At the age of twelve the boy entered the Prague Conservatorium of Music, and studied the violin in that institution under Sevčik—the master of Ondriček and Kubelik. He had an equally good teacher for composition in Antonín Dvorák. He left the Conservatorium only in July last, and since then he has been giving concerts in Brünn, Prague, and Vienna with the greatest success.

M. Kociân has given two recitals during the past month at St. James's Hall—on the 9th and 20th ult. Beethoven, of all composers, is the strong test of an artist's sensibility to the hidden depths of profound feeling. In the slow movement of that great master's pianoforte and violin Sonata in C minor, young Kociân showed that he was the fortunate possessor of a soul. Tenderness, poetry and faultless intonation combined to make this a true poem that came from the heart and went to the heart. His interpretation of the exacting Chaconne of Bach was a magnificent achievement—worthy of one of the greatest masters of the instrument. In listening to young Kociân one could hardly realise that he was a stripling of eighteen. What may he not become? We shall see. In the meantime his future career will be watched with the keenest interest.

A word of praise is the just due of Miss Marguerite Elzy, an excellent English pianist, for the admirable manner in which she shared with M. Kociân the success of the Beethoven Sonata above referred to, and for her delicate playing of some Chopin pieces. Mr. Wilfred Bendall was an able accompanist

ELGAR'S DREAM OF GERONTIUS IN GERMANY.

(BY TELEGRAM FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

Düsseldorf, December 20, 1901.

Professor Julius Buths, most enthusiastic and eclectic of musicians, deserves all honour for the splendid interpretation of Dr. Elgar's 'Dream of Gerontius,' which it was my good fortune to listen to in the Tonhalle of this place last night. The Professor had taken enormous pains over the rehearsals, and trained the chorus in a masterly manner; the result was such splendid tone, colour, precision, and intellectuality as exceeded all expectation. The semi-chorus, of professional voices, soared clearly and beautifully above the main chorus, producing an ethereal effect beyond description. The whole of the choral portion was admirably sung and made a great impression, the concluding bars dying away in serenest peace.

In regard to the soloists, Dr. Wuellner gave quite an ideal reading of the part of Gerontius. He had thoroughly grasped the spiritual significance of the music. The audience were deeply moved. Fräulein Antonie Beel, with her clear, musical voice, and Herr Willy Metzmacher, in his deep declamatory tones, did full justice to the music assigned to them. The orchestra, led by Herren Otto Reibold and Eugen Adorjan, reached almost perfection, the prelude especially being superbly played, and a sudden pianissimo, following a great climax, skilfully managed. Professor F. W. Franke was an efficient organist.

(Photograph by Thom. Lantin, Düsseldorf.)

PROFESSOR JULIUS BUTHS.

Dr. Elgar was enthusiastically called at the end, and the orchestra and organ greeted him with the great honour of an instrumental Tusch; moreover, he was presented by the chorus, coram publico, with an enormous laurel wreath amidst most appreciative applause by an audience of 2,000 people.

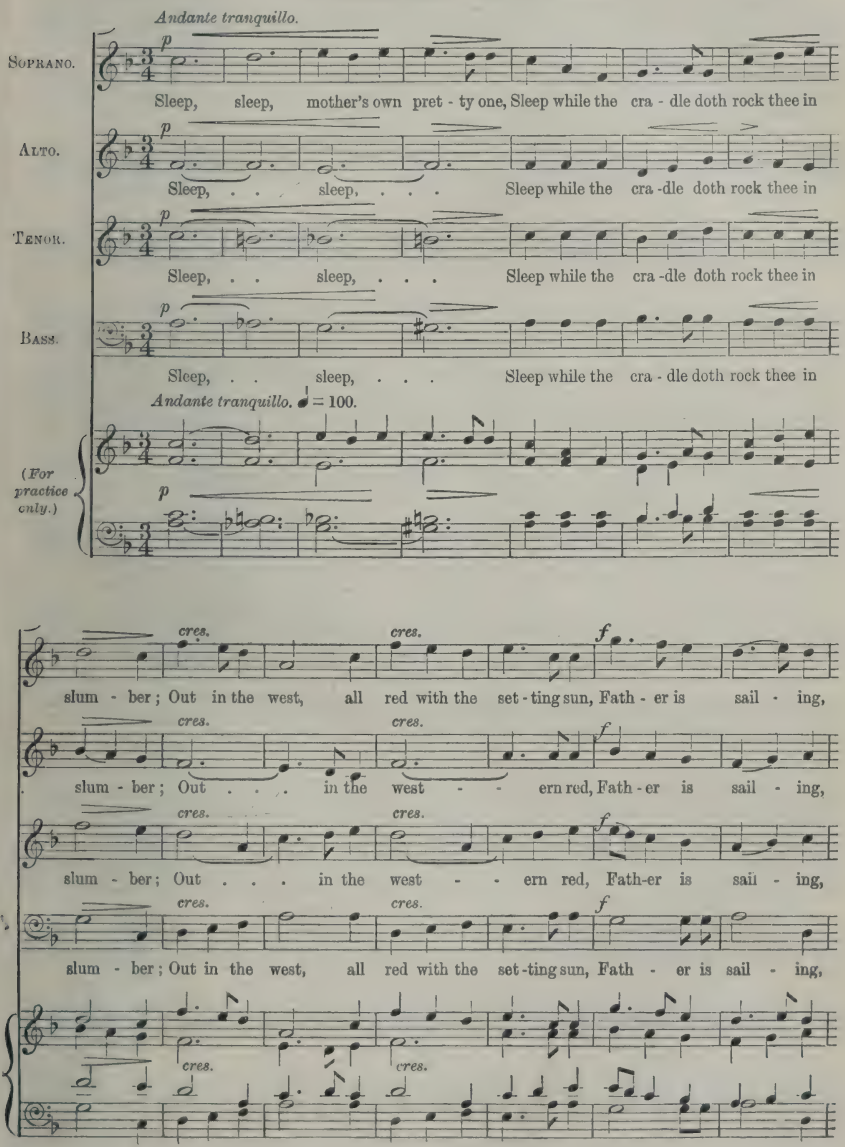
One and all—performers and listeners—seemed to be greatly impressed at the production in the Fatherland of this English masterpiece. Professor Buths, who translated Newman's words into German, and to whom all praise is due, frequently expressed delight at the success of the work and this triumph of English music. It was an evening that will be long remembered, and one that may have a far-reaching influence upon the progress of British music in foreign lands.

Sleep, sleep, mother's own pretty one.

LULLABY FOR FOUR VOICES.

Words Anon. Composed by W. H. Bell.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited; and NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., New York.



Andante tranquillo.
Soprano.
Alto.
Tenor.
Bass.
p
Sleep, sleep, mother's own pret - ty one, Sleep while the cra - dle doth rock thee in Sleep, . . . sleep, . . . Sleep while the cra - dle doth rock thee in Sleep, . . sleep, . . . Sleep while the cra - dle doth rock thee in Sleep, . . sleep, . . . Sleep while the cra - dle doth rock thee in Andante tranquillo. ♩ = 100.
(For practice only.)
cres.
f
slum - ber; Out in the west, all red with the set - ting sun, Fath - er is sail - ing, slum - ber; Out . . . in the west - - ern red, Fath - er is sail - ing,
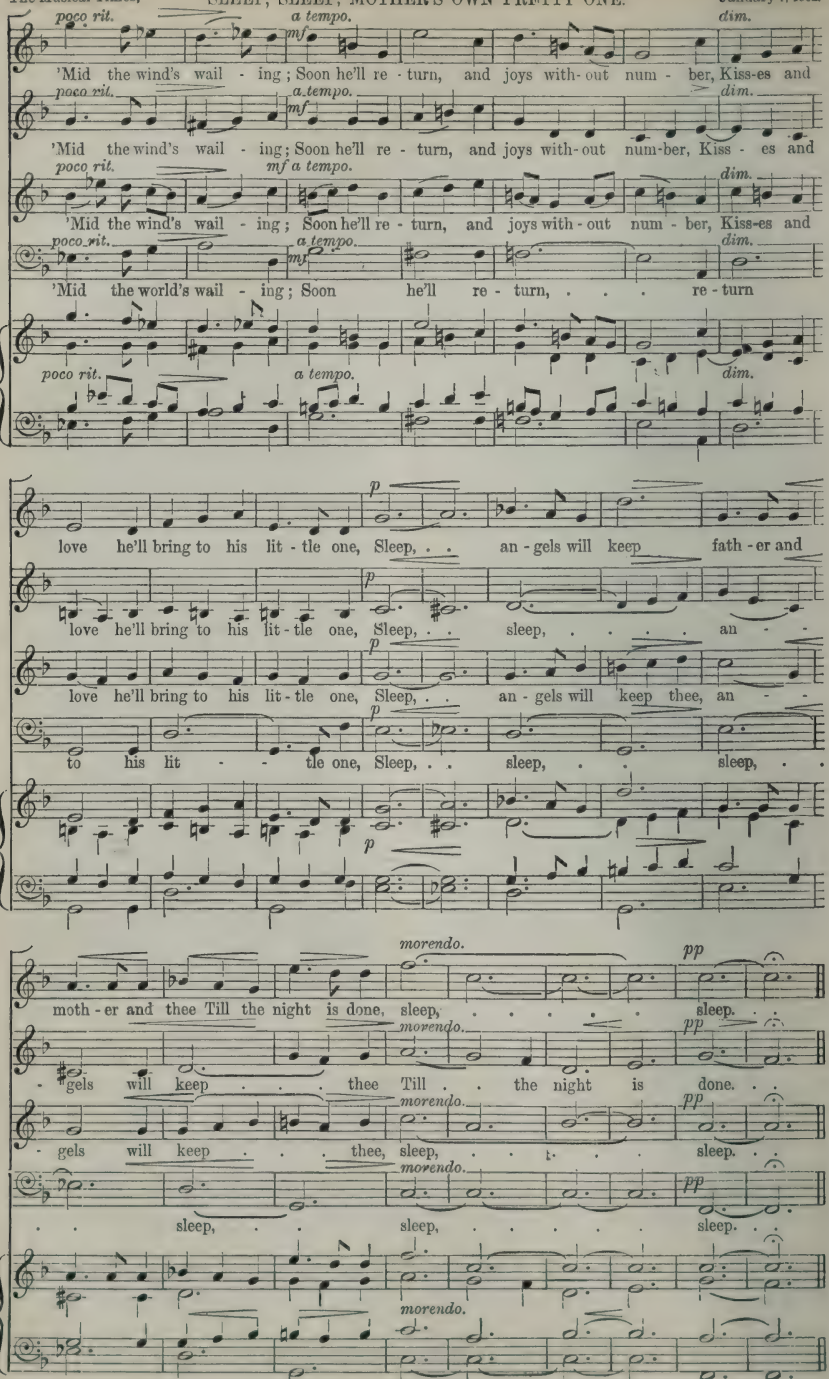
slum - ber; Out . . . in the west - - ern red, Fath-er is sail - ing,
slum - ber; Out in the west, all red with the set - ting sun, Fath - er is sail - ing,

Copyright, 1901, by Novello and Company, Limited.



poco rit.
a tempo.
dim.
'Mid the wind's wail - ing; Soon he'll re - turn, and joys with - out num - ber, Kiss - es and
'Mid the wind's wail - ing; Soon he'll re - turn, and joys with - out num - ber, Kiss - es and
'Mid the wind's wail - ing; Soon he'll re - turn, and joys with - out num - ber, Kiss - es and
'Mid the world's wail - ing; Soon he'll re - turn, . . . re - turn
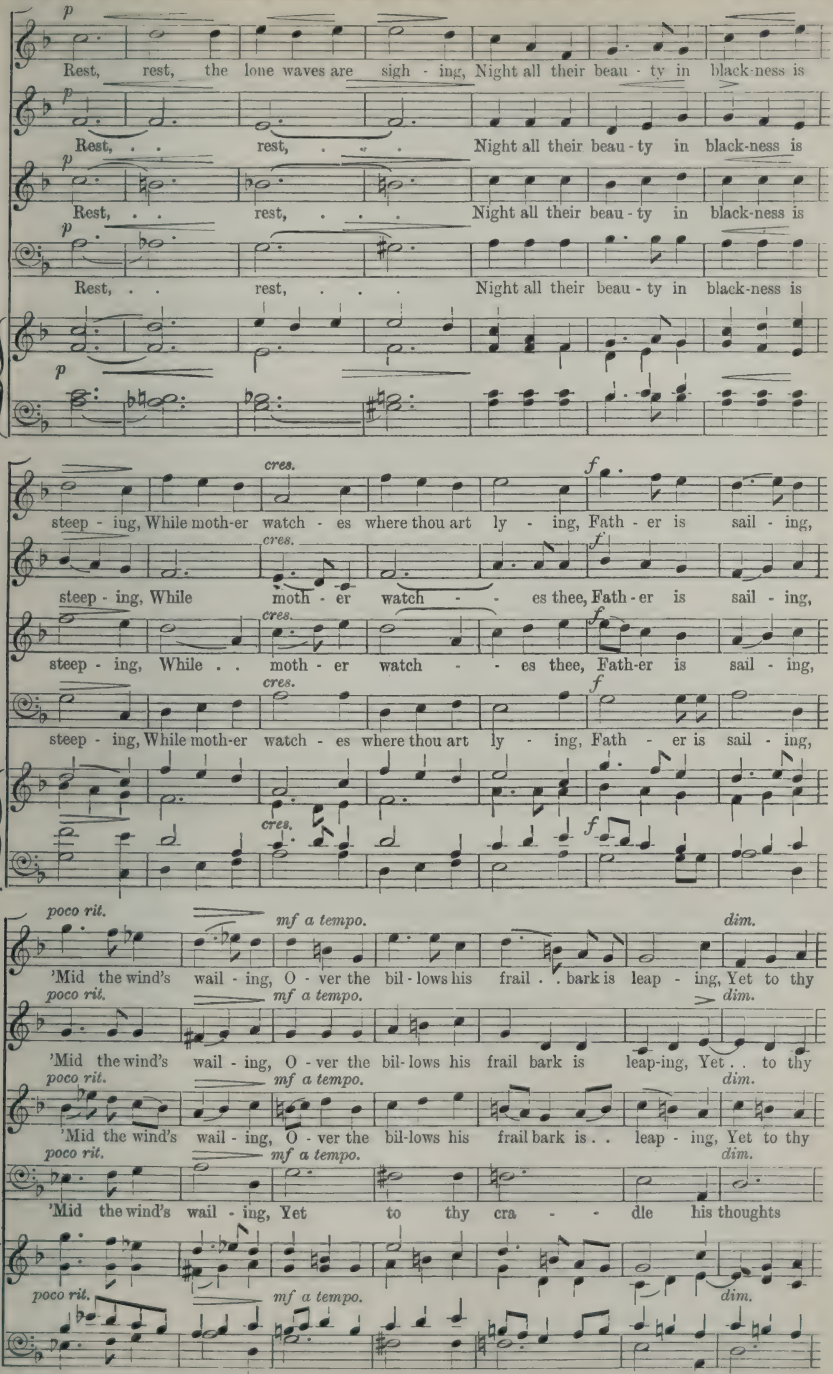
p love he'll bring to his lit - tle one, Sleep, . . an - gels will keep fath - er and love he'll bring to his lit - tle one, Sleep, . . sleep, ... an - .
love he'll bring to his lit - tle one, Sleep, . . an - gels will keep thee, an - .
to his lit - - tle one, Sleep, . . sleep, . . sleep, . .
morendo.
pp
moth - er and thee Till the night is done, sleep, ... sleep. . .
- gels will keep . . . thee Till . . the night is done. . .
- gels will keep . . . thee, sleep, ... sleep. . .
sleep, . . sleep, ... sleep. . .



p
Rest, rest, the lone waves are sigh - ing, Night all their beau - ty in black-ness is Rest, . . rest, . . . Night all their beau - ty in black-ness is Rest, . . rest, . . . Night all their beau - ty in black-ness is Rest, . . rest, . . . Night all their beau - ty in black-ness is cres.
f
steep - ing, While moth-er watch - es where thou art ly - ing, Fath - er is sail - ing, steep - ing, While moth - er watch - - es thee, Fath - er is sail - ing, steep - ing, While . . moth - er watch - - es thee, Fath-er is sail - ing, steep - ing, While moth-er watch - es where thou art ly - ing, Fath - er is sail - ing,
poco rit.
mf a tempo.
dim.
'Mid the wind's wail - ing, O - ver the bil - lows his frail . . bark is leap - ing, Yet to thy
'Mid the wind's wail - ing, O - ver the bil-lows his frail bark is leap-ing, Yet . . to thy
'Mid the wind's wail - ing, O - ver the bil-lows his frail bark is . . leap - ing, Yet to thy
'Mid the wind's wail - ing, Yet to thy cra - - dle his thoughts

p cra - dle his thoughts home are fly - ing, Rest . . an - gels blest, keep him and cra - dle his thoughts home are fly - ing, Rest, . . rest, . . . an - .
cra - dle his thoughts home are fly - ing, Rest, . . an gels blest, . . an - gels home are fly - - - ing, Rest, . . rest, . . rest, . .
morendo.
thee, Now the day is dy - ing, Rest, ... rest, . .
- - gels keep . . thee, Now . . the day is dy - ing,
blest, keep . . thee, Rest, ... rest, . .
. . rest, . . rest, ... rest, . .
ppp perdendosi. rall. pppp
rest, . . rest, . . rest, . . rest, rest.
Rest, . . . rest, . . . rest, . . rest, rest.
rest, . . . rest, . . . rest, . . rest, rest.
rest, . . . rest, . . . rest, . . rest, rest.

PHILIPP WOLFRUM'S WEIHNACHTSMYSTERIUM.

The first English performance of this work, which has already attracted a great deal of attention in Germany, took place at Worcester on the 12th ult., and the credit of introducing it to England belongs to Dr. Elgar and the Worcestershire Philharmonic Society.

There is much in the work that is at variance outwardly with our preconceived notions of the devotional in music, but in its true inwardness it is profoundly reverential, and essentially German, and it seems safe to predict that the essential kinship between the two great nations will enable English music-lovers to overlook the strangeness and appreciate at its full worth the spirit, so closely akin to our own, which underlies it.

Dr. Wolfrum has not written an oratorio, but he has attempted to compose the music to an old mystery play in a style which takes into account all the most recent developments of music. His text is taken from old musical plays, from traditional religious songs, and from the Gospels; and many of his themes are well-known devotional folk-songs and chorales. Thus, the text of the most beautiful scene in the work—where the Virgin soliloquises by the side of the sleeping Child, and sees a vision of the Passion, and prays to Him for His intercession in the hour of her death—is taken from an old poem found at Mosburg, near Klagenfurt; and, as she concludes, an angelic choir softly repeats her last words, singing the first phrase of the well-known hymn 'O Haupt voll Blut und Wunden,' which occurs of course in Bach. Again, in another scene, the Virgin and St. Joseph are represented as singing the cradle song 'Joseph lieber, Joseph mein,' the ancient 'Resonet in laudibus' (which is used by Brahms in the second of his two songs with viola obbligato) as a duet, while a chorus of angels sings a Gloria, the whole being an elaborate movement of great contrapuntal complexity and ingenuity. And so it is in all the ten scenes of the Mystery, in some of which the chorales are, as in Bach, conceived as the utterances of the 'Ideale Gemeinde,' or the Christian Community. It might be said in other words that Dr. Wolfrum has treated the sacred music of the People in the same way as Humperdinck treated Children's ditties in 'Hansel und Gretel.' His orchestration is still more elaborate than Humperdinck's, and his power in handling polyphony even greater. Dr. Wolfrum has, moreover, a very keen sense of beauty in orchestral tone colour, a very fine instinct for dramatic appropriateness, and above all a genuine melodic gift. He has welded the apparently conflicting elements of old and simple tune and new and complicated treatment into a homogeneous whole of beauty and power; and he has contrived so to contrast the spiritual and the realistic, the divine and the very human, that each only serves as a foil to the other, and we have no sense of discrepancy when, for example, pastoral music of the most uncompromisingly imitative kind follows directly on the angels' song just mentioned.

In conclusion, it may be mentioned that the writer heard the work rehearsed in the morning and performed in the afternoon of the same day—a very severe test—and was far more deeply moved by the second playing than by the first.

Miss Adèle Haas (pupil of Mr. Willem Coenen) gave a pianoforte recital with much success at the Club Hall, Sevenoaks, on the 5th ult. Miss Haas played Beethoven's Sonata, Op. 27, No. 2, pieces by Karl Nawratil, Schütt, Godard, Liszt, and Schumann, with much delicacy and refinement, and was specially excellent in the Prelude and Scherzo in B flat minor by the last-named composer. Mr. Coenen was associated with her in Scharwenka's Scherzo for two pianofortes, given with much effect. Miss Helen Pattison contributed among other songs Coenen's 'Thou wilt remember us,' very successfully.

The Suite in F (for small orchestra) by Mr. F. Cunningham Woods, found a place in the concerts of the Handel Society and the Metropolitan College of Music, on the 13th and 16th ult. respectively, when on both occasions it was conducted by the composer.

The Music Schools.

THE ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

The concert given by the students, on the 12th ult., at Queen's Hall, testified to much talent and good training. The first movement of a Symphony in G, by Yorke Bowen, proved an exceptionally meritorious composition, and two sketches respectively named 'Sunset' and 'Sunrise,' by Paul W. Corder, witnessed to poetical conception and considerable command of musical expression. A pleasing feature of the afternoon was the brilliant pianoforte playing by E. Gladys Law in Sir Alexander Mackenzie's 'Scottish' Concerto; and other soloists who deserve mention were May Friedeberg, violinist, and Arthur E. Newstead, pianist. The vocalists included Ethel Wood, Florence J. Hoole, and Gale Gardener. The first-named of this trio has already won distinction in our concert-rooms, and the two latter are exceptionally promising young singers. Sir A. C. Mackenzie conducted with his usual skill.

The following prizes and scholarships have been awarded: Heathcote-Long Prize (pianoforte playing) to Oscar Franklin.—The R.A.M. Club Prize (violin playing) to Spencer Dyke.—The Sainton-Dolby Prize to Amy A. Joyner.—The Rutson Memorial Prize to Margaret Llewellyn.—The Thalberg Scholarship (pianoforte playing) to Rosamond Ley.—The Bonamy Dobree Prize (violoncello playing) to Lionel E. Horton.—The Battison Haynes Prize (composition) to Marion White.—The Ross Scholarship (wind instrument players) to Henry Horatio Smith.—The Westmorland Scholarship (vocalists) to Katie E. B. Moss.—The Hine Prize (composition) to Amy M. Inglis.—The Potter Exhibition (pianoforte playing) to Felix Swinstead.

ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

An unusually interesting concert was given by the students on the 13th ult., under Professor Stanford. It is not often an English orchestral work is heard in the beautiful concert hall attached to the College, wherefore we hailed with delight the prospect of a performance by a students' orchestra of Dr. Elgar's splendid 'Enigma' Variations. The work is no child's play to even the most capable orchestra in the world; how then would Sir Hubert Parry's clever young people fare over its difficulties? We are glad to report that they came out of the ordeal with flying colours. There was no mistaking the enthusiasm of those young players; and their admirable interpretation was greeted with quite exceptional warmth. Hermann Goetz's very beautiful setting for chorus and orchestra of Schiller's 'Nœnia' received a much less satisfactory interpretation. The singers were none too sure of their notes, and the orchestra played in a somewhat rough-and-ready style. The lovely music (why are Goetz's works so rarely heard?) could scarcely make its proper effect under such circumstances. Schumann's 'Genoveva' overture and the fascinating 'Schatz Walzer' of Johann Strauss—an excellent feature even in a classical programme—completed the orchestral selection. Harold Samuel played Beethoven's B flat Pianoforte Concerto, and Seth Hughes and Florence Macnaughten sang.

The performance, under the composer's direction, of Professor Stanford's opera, 'Much ado about nothing,' at the Lyceum Theatre, on November 29, furnished proof of the capabilities of the students, of whom Kate Anderson, as Beatrice, made her mark.

GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

The chief feature of the Students' Orchestral Concert of the Guildhall School of Music, held on the 11th ult., at the City of London School, was a 'Suite Espagnole' by Henry E. Geehl, a vivacious and cleverly scored work, consisting of four movements, which are well worthy of publication. An Overture in C, by H. Condon Finucane, proved a meritorious student effort, and two songs, respectively named 'On the breeze so softly stealing' and 'Century's Dawn,' by A. J. Spencer, were well sung by Thomas E. Rainger. The Suite was conducted by its composer, but the remainder of the concert was ably directed by the Principal, Dr. W. H. Cummings.

London Concerts, &c.

Two Choral Performances, at the Queen's Hall, call for special mention: (1), that of Sir Arthur Sullivan's 'Golden Legend,' on November 22, by the Wolverhampton Festival Choir, with Madame Lillian Blauvelt, Madame Kirkby Lunn, Mr. John Coates, Mr. Ffrangcon-Davies, and Mr. Frederick Ranalow as soloists, by whom a most effective interpretation of the impressive music was secured; and (2), the rendering of Mendelssohn's 'Elijah,' on the 12th ult., by the Nottingham Sacred Harmonic Society, an exceptionally well-balanced body of choristers, whose singing reflected the greatest credit on their trainer, Mr. Smallwood Metcalfe. The performance gained memorable distinction by the exceptionally impressive embodiment of the prophet by Mr. Ffrangcon-Davies, whose reading entitles him to be placed in the highest rank of vocalists. The other principal singers were Madame Lillian Blauvelt, Miss Ada Crossley, and Mr. Lloyd Chandos. Both performances were most skilfully conducted by Mr. Henry J. Wood.

The first performance in London of Dr. Frederic Cowen's orchestral poem, 'Phantasy of Life and Love,' was given at Mr. Robert Newman's Symphony Concert, at Queen's Hall, on November 23, when it was admirably interpreted under the direction of Mr. Henry J. Wood. At the succeeding concert, on the 7th ult., the novelty was the first performance in England of M. Saint-Saëns's concert-room arrangement of the overture to his latest opera, 'Les Barbares,' originally produced at the Paris Opera House, on October 23 last. Although styled overture, the form of this piece is that of the modern prelude. With two exceptions the themes are taken from those occurring in the opera. Their development presents a mixture of style, and the most effective portion is that toward the conclusion. An extra Symphony Concert was given by Mr. Newman, on November 26, to bring into prominence Herr Becker's skill as a violoncellist.

The second and third of Mr. Robert Newman's 'Festival Orchestral Concerts' at the Royal Albert Hall, took place respectively on November 30 and the 14th ult. The programme of the former consisted entirely of music by Wagner, but at the latter the selection included Tschaïkowsky's well-worn Pathetic Symphony in B minor. The performances bore added testimony to the great skill of Mr. Henry J. Wood as a conductor, by reason of the remarkable precision, delicacy, and expression he obtained from so exceptionally large a body of instrumentalists.

A very enjoyable dramatic and violin recital was given on the 11th ult. at the Bechstein Hall, by Miss Ellen Bowick and Miss Nettie Atkinson. The excellent elocution and dramatic perception of the former were admirably shown in a new and pathetic little piece entitled 'After the ball,' by Mr. Parry, and furnished with an effective musical accompaniment by Mr. Stanley Hawley. Miss Atkinson's excellent violin playing was manifestly enjoyed.

Mr. Arthur Chappell, at his farewell concert given at the Royal Albert Hall, on the 18th ult., received the tribute due to one who has so skilfully directed the 'Pops,' for upwards of forty years. Madame Albani, Madame Clara Butt, and Mr. Santley (in splendid voice) sang; Lady Hallé and M. Paderewski played upon their respective instruments, and Mr. Henry Bird faultlessly accompanied. The concert bore upon it the mark of success from every point of view.

Mr. Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha' was sung for the third time in its complete form, by the Royal Choral Society, on the 5th ult., at the Albert Hall, under the conductorship of Sir Frederick Bridge. The soloists were Madame Ella Russell, Mr. William Green, and Mr. Andrew Black. There was a large audience, and the beautiful music made its usual impressive effect.

The concert given by the Strolling Players' Orchestral Society, on the 11th ult., at Queen's Hall, was conducted by Mr. William Shakespeare, the successor to Mr. Norfolk Megone. A feature of the evening was the first performance of 'Three Bavarian Dances,' as recently re-written by Dr. Edward Elgar. We shall hope to hear these charming compositions again shortly.

Miss Louisa White gave a concert of her own compositions, on November 26, at Steinway Hall. Several of the smaller pianoforte pieces were expressive and pretty, and the songs entitled 'A Lament,' 'Mist,' and 'The Wind and the Sea,' testified to refined taste. The vocalists were Miss Evelyn Downes and Mr. Frederick Ranalow.

A pleasing duet for violin and pianoforte, by Mr. W. A. Hurlstone, was played for the first time by the composer and Miss Lucy Stone at her and Mr. Sterling Mackinlay's concert at St. James's Hall, on November 29. The work entitled 'English Sketches' consists of three movements, the last of which is particularly bright and spirited.

The Bar Musical Society provided a pleasant afternoon's music, on the 7th ult., in the stately Inner Temple Hall. The chief feature of this Ladies' Concert was the excellent singing of the choir (male voices) under the careful conductorship of Mr. A. H. D. Prendergast, whose pleasing serenade, 'When for the world's repose,' received a well-merited encore.

Miss Adela Verne is to be greatly commended for giving a pianoforte recital of little-known compositions by British composers, on the 10th ult., at the Salle Erard. Her selection included a 'Theme and nineteen variations' of masterly character by Sir Hubert Parry, which deserves the attention of all cultured pianists.

The popular concerts at St. James's Hall have been well attended, but no new works having been brought forward, it is only necessary to say that the Quartet Party, on November 23 and on the 7th ult., was led by M. Sauret, on November 30, by Herr Carl Halir, and on the 14th by Lady Hallé.

The Stock Exchange Orchestral and Choral Society opened its nineteenth season on the 10th ult., at Queen's Hall, under the conductorship of Mr. Arthur W. Payne. The programme included a revival of Litolff's 'Maximillian Robespierre' Overture, and Beethoven's Fourth Symphony.

Mr. Harold Bauer's Pianoforte Recital at St. James's Hall on the 6th ult., was distinguished by probably the first performance in London of a remarkably fine work, consisting of a Prelude, Aria, and Finale, written in 1888 by Cæsar Franck. Mr. Bauer played in a most masterly manner.

Miss Fanny Davies introduced some pleasing music by British composers, at her recital on the 2nd ult., at St. James's Hall, notably an 'Allegretto grazioso,' by Mr. Norman O'Neill; a 'Humoresque,' by Mr. Coleridge-Taylor; and 'a new piece' by Dr. Edward Elgar.

The programme of the North London Orchestral Society's Concert, held at Portman Rooms, on the 5th ult., contained a new orchestral ballad, entitled 'The Mill,' by M. S. Szczepanowski, a melodious and neatly scored work.

At a recital, given by the Misses Bush on the 2nd ult., at the Bechstein Hall, was sung for the first time three new duets of pleasing character, severally entitled 'Klagelied,' 'Wiedersehn,' and 'Jubelbrug,' by Mr. Emanuel Moor.

Mr. Richard J. Kay, described as the 'American boy violinist,' gave much promise of future attainments at his recital, on November 28, at Steinway Hall.

Signor A. Bocchi gave a concert at the Grafton Galleries on the 13th ult., with a very interesting programme.

Other concerts worthy of record are:—

QUEEN'S HALL.

Princess Adolph de Wrède, concert, November 25.
Signor Busoni's pianoforte recitals, Nov. 29 and 10th ult.

ST. JAMES'S HALL.

Mr. D. F. Tovey's Chamber Concert, November 28.
The Kruse Quartet, the 10th ult.
Herr Wilhelm Backhaus, pianoforte recital, 2nd ult.
Miss Fora Hwass, pianoforte recital, 3rd ult.
Signorine Cerasoli's concert, 5th ult.

BECHSTEIN HALL.

Professor Carl Friedburg and Mr. Laurence Rea's pianoforte and song recital, November 27.
Miss Elizabeth Patterson's concert, 3rd ult.
Dr. Theo. Lierhammer's vocal recital, 3rd ult.
Mdlle. Sandra Drucker, second pianoforte recital, 4th ult.
Miss Marjorie Lutzen's chamber concert, 5th ult.
Mr. Walter Ford's second historical recital of German song, 9th ult.
Miss Frances McCulloch, vocal recital, 12th ult.

STEINWAY HALL.

Miss Noral Nicolas's chamber concert, November 28.
Mr. Edgar M'Intyre, vocal recital, 6th ult.
Miss Mary Willis's concert, 10th ult.

SALLE ERARD.

Madame Marie Dulcken, concert, November 28.
Miss Manson, song recital, 12th ult.
The Misses Griffiths' concert, 17th ult.

MUSIC IN AMERICA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

New York, December 10, 1901.

MR. CARNEGIE AND POPULAR MUSIC.

The weeks which have sped since my last report of musical doings in America was written have witnessed many things of interest, but nothing quite so significant, from one point of view, as that under the fresh influence of which I am now writing. The Oratorio Society of New York gave the first concert of its twenty-ninth season in November, and performed Mendelssohn's 'Elijah.' For fifteen years, or thereabouts, Mr. Andrew Carnegie has been President of the Society. I mention his name as one that has by this time achieved a familiar sound on both sides of the Atlantic. The latest of his acquired titles, I believe, is that of Lord Rector of St. Andrew's University. When 'Elijah' was sung, Mr. Carnegie was out of the city, and on his return he expressed a wish that the concert (one of the most admirable that the Society had put to its credit for a long time) might be repeated. Mr. Frank Damrosch, the conductor of the Society, is also the founder of the People's Singing Classes and the People's Choral Union, two phases of a wonderfully successful movement for carrying vital musical instruction into the masses of the people, and also supervisor of music in the public schools of New York. At his suggestion, Mr. Carnegie, for himself and his wife, undertook a repetition of the oratorio, and invited the People's Choral Union and the music teachers of the New York public schools to occupy the audience room of Carnegie Hall as his guests. An auxiliary to the People's Choral Union is the People's Singing Classes, and the members of these classes were also included in the invitation, and placed in the upper galleries of the hall. The ground floor was set apart for the members of the Choral Union, who numbered about 2,000. The significance of this detailed recital will appear when relation is made of the unique demonstration which Mr. Damrosch had planned to show the scope of the movement which he founded nine years ago. Just before the last chorus of the oratorio was sung, the leader addressed the audience, and suggested the propriety of the thanks meet for the occasion taking the form of a 'song of glory,' in which the listeners should join with the singers on the platform. Those not in the secret supposed, naturally enough, that there would be an unusually fine performance of the National Hymn; instead, the orchestra intoned the 'Hallelujah' Chorus from 'The Messiah,' and two thousand men and women rose to their feet, not to listen standing as is the Yule-tide custom, but to sing the stirring strains.

It was an incident without parallel in the history of music in America, and spoke eloquently of what has been accomplished in the way of popular choral culture by the movement established in 1892. Mr. Damrosch began with a class in sight-reading, which used to meet on Sunday afternoons. The class was recruited among the working people (as the phrase goes), but was preserved in dignity by a weekly charge of a nominal sum of ten cents. It grew till the hall in which it met could no longer contain it, and then was subdivided and assistant teachers called in to help. In a few years the advanced members were organised into a Choral Union, a body of singers which has several times attested its ability to sing first-class oratorios. There are now a dozen of the primary classes, which meet once a week in different portions of the city's boroughs. A celebration of the tenth anniversary of the foundation of the movement is contemplated for next June, when about 2,000 voices will be united in a performance of 'Israel in Egypt.'

The conductors of our permanent concert orchestras are showing zeal in the production of novelties. Three weeks ago, Dr. Edward Elgar's overture 'Cockaigne,' by a coincidence, was played almost simultaneously in Boston and Chicago. In New York, the hitherto conservative Philharmonic Society is showing a kindly disposition towards the strenuous young radicals of Germany, and though we have had but two concerts, we have already heard Siegmund von Hausegger's 'Barbarossa' and Max Schilling's Prelude to 'Œdipus'—and more is promising, threatening, or impending.

H. E. Krehbiel.

MUSIC IN VIENNA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

Vienna, December 16, 1901.

The former practice of dexterous executants to write their own concert pieces has been gradually abandoned, and the number of additions to this special branch of musical literature is becoming increasingly smaller in consequence. This is to be regretted, although the phenomenon may be easily accounted for. On the one hand, the standard of modern virtuosity has been raised so enormously, that the labour of attaining and maintaining it is in itself almost sufficient to fully occupy an artist's life. While, on the other hand, in proportion as the general art-conception is deepening, higher demands are being made by the public upon the virtuoso as a composer. His compositions, in short, are nowadays judged entirely upon their own merits. To this difficult test, two distinguished artists, Scharwenka and Sauer, recently submitted themselves, each one with a new pianoforte concerto, and both these in minor keys—Scharwenka's in C sharp and Sauer's in E minor. The work of the former, like his playing generally, is substantial and exemplary, if somewhat too academically correct. The Sauer concerto proved a brilliant composition, rather superficial, perhaps, which latter qualification, however, was lost sight of in the verve and fire of his interpretation, and he was greatly applauded. Of course, it will be a somewhat more difficult matter for another pianist to score a similar success with Sauer's concerto. A Polish composer, M. Melcer, who played the pianoforte parts in some of the compositions introduced by him, is to be judged from a somewhat different standpoint. In his case, the virtuoso element was almost completely absent, his concertos not being written brilliantly enough for the purpose of display. They are compositions, however, which have been awarded first prizes at competitions, and they were distinctly interesting examples of their kind. Melcer is a very able composer and earnest musician, whose technical acquirements as a pianist are evidently looked upon by him only as a means to an end.

The Concertverein scored a distinct success recently with Tschaïkowsky's Fourth Symphony in F minor. It seems strange that this beautiful work, so compact in form, so clear and pregnant in expression, should have been so long neglected, at a time, too, when the Tschaïkowsky cult is almost being overdone. We must be grateful to Herr Loewe for having been the first to introduce the work to us. The performance was a most excellent one, and the impression it produced upon the audience most marked. At the Philharmonic concerts, a little-known composition by Richard Heuberger, viz., the Variations on a Theme by Schubert, attracted much favourable notice. Paraphrases rather than variations, these little pieces are charmingly effective, and received a con amore interpretation under Hellmesberger's direction. Richard Heuberger, by-the-way, is not only a very able composer, but also an author of considerable merit. He has published two interesting volumes of essays on modern music and musicians, and a Schubert biography from his pen, tastefully illustrated, has just issued from the press.

The Gesellschaft der Musikfreunde gave a performance of the ever-welcome 'Creation' of Haydn. Familiar as we all are with every detail of the work, its charm remains undiminished, despite the hundred years of its existence. Amongst the solo interpreters was Frau Herzog, of Berlin, an excellent vocalist and true artist, who made her début in Vienna on this occasion, and also proved herself a charming interpreter of songs, both old and modern, at a recital given by her.

At the Opera the prevailing scarcity of remarkable new works has led to a revival of one of Offenbach's. His fantastic opera 'Hoffmann's Erzählungen' (Les Contes d'Hoffmann), sumptuously mounted and prepared, musically, with his usual admirable care for every detail, by Director Mahler, is being greatly appreciated by lovers of light, easily-to-be-understood music. Offenbach's strains are the manifestation, not so much of an original talent, but of a ripe and subtle theatrical experience, and presented as it is in the present case, with such absolute perfection, its powers of attraction upon the public here are considerable.

Amongst those who have appeared in Vienna lately must be mentioned, in the first place, the violinist Hubermann, whose precocious talent we had occasion to admire some years ago, and who now presented himself once more as a ripening young artist of the first order. His playing is superb, technical difficulties do not exist for him, and his soulful interpretations prove him to be a born musician. Another violinist, more advanced in years and experience, Richard Sahla, court-capellmeister of Bückeburg, delighted us, inter alia, with a masterly interpretation of Beethoven's Violin Concerto. Joachim, too, the king of violinists as he is most justly called, paid us a visit, with the artists forming his quartet, and aroused the enthusiasm of his audience to even a greater degree—if that be possible—than in preceding years.

Mandyczewski.

MUSIC IN ABERDEEN.

(from our own correspondent.)

The musical pulse of Aberdeen continues to beat somewhat languidly. Since the autumn a chamber concert or two by local members of the profession, a visit from the Scottish Orchestra, a performance of 'The Messiah' by the Musical Institute, and two Harrison concerts of the customary type express the musical vitality of this capital of the North. Two considerable choral societies exist—the Choral Union and the Philharmonic. The former is to perform 'The Messiah,' the latter is at work upon 'Athalie.' Is there not enough enterprise or appreciation in Aberdeen to encourage an occasional hearing of modern choral literature? We lag a generation or so behind our musical betters. In that regard, the performance of Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha,' by Mr. A. Collingwood's Church Choir is an event to be chronicled.

MUSIC IN BELFAST.

(from our own correspondent.)

The Philharmonic Society made a new departure by giving, on November 27, a popular orchestral concert. By 'popular' was meant: firstly, cheap, for admission was one shilling or sixpence; secondly, there were a number of light and attractive pieces combined with a Symphony, the No. 1 of Beethoven; and thirdly, there was a vocalist to avert monotony. The orchestral items were very creditably performed under the baton of Dr. Francis Koeller by a band of fifty-eight local professional and amateur players. The singer was Miss Beatrice McCready, who is possessed of a very fine and well-trained contralto voice. There is not much risk in prophesying that this young lady will 'go far.' The approval of those present at the concert was so marked and general that in all probability the next concert of the series will attract a much larger audience.

On the 6th ult., Dr. Laurence Walker gave his second Chamber Concert of the season, and had, as usual, a large attendance. He himself undertook the larger part of the work, and played, with his accustomed skill, selections from the works of Schumann (second and third movements of Fantasia, Op. 17), and Chopin (Etude in A flat, Op. 25, No. 1). Mr. Dettmar Drepel was the violinist, and performed Bach's 'Chaconne' (with Dr. Walker) and Beethoven's Kreutzer Sonata. Miss W. Kisack contributed a number of well-selected songs.

The majority of the inhabitants of this city are Presbyterians, and as such are closely allied to the Scottish Churches. Like the dwellers North of the Tweed, they have long held conscientious objections to the introduction of organs into their churches, and the use of instrumental music in public worship. But they have suddenly begun to follow the lead of their Scottish brethren in the matter of the use of the kist o' whistles. As a case in point, an organ by Messrs. J. W. Walker and Sons, of London, was opened at Fisherwick Church, on the 9th ult., by an admirable recital, given by Mr. Alfred Hollins. The selection of music performed included a number of the most effective modern works for the instrument, as well as a 'Theme with variations and fugue' by the organist himself, performed for the first time, although it was written for the late Mr. Frederic Archer's recitals in the Carnegie Music Hall, Pittsburg. Mr. Hollins showed to the utmost the fine quality of the organ.

MUSIC IN BIRMINGHAM.

(from our own correspondent.)

The third concert of the Halford Society took place in the Town Hall, on November 26. The programme included Borodine's Overture to 'Le Prince Igor,' given for the first time in England. M. Ysaye was recalled four times after his splendid rendering of Beethoven's Violin Concerto, but no encores are allowed at these concerts. At the fourth concert the novelties were Granville Bantock's 'Helena' Variations, finely performed under the composer's direction, and cordially received, and Volkmann's Violoncello Concerto, with Mr. Willy Lehmann as soloist. Mr. Halford's conducting was all that could be desired.

The City Choral Society performed 'Elijah,' on the 14th ult. The principal vocalists were Miss Agnes Nicholls, Miss Gertrude Macaulay, Mr. James Leyland, and Mr. Charles Tree; Mr. F. W. Beard conducted. The City Choral Society consists of a very fine body of singers, and is meeting with very great success. The Festival Choral Society gave a magnificent performance of the 'Faust' of Berlioz on the 5th ult., when Dr. Sinclair brought out the choral effects with masterly skill. Madame Alva, Mr. Robert Cunningham, and Mr. Watkin Mills represented the personages of the 'Legend.'

An impressive performance of Spohr's 'Last Judgment' took place in St. Martin's Church, on the 3rd ult., under the direction of Dr. W. John Reynolds, organist of the church. The choir was strengthened by members of the St. Martin's Choral Society, the soloists being Master William Mayall, and Messrs. W. Bolton, Thomas Brown, and Horace Reid. Mr. A. Davies ably rendered the accompaniments on the organ.

The Chamber Concert Society began its season in the New Temperance Hall on November 27. Borodine's String Quartet in D was the chief feature of the programme. Chamber music seems at last to be receiving proper support in Birmingham, to judge by the audienc assembled at this concert.

On the 16th ult., the Birmingham Amateur Orchestral Society gave an excellent concert before the members of the Midland Institute. Gluck's Overture to 'Alceste' (Weingartner's arrangement), Schumann's Concertstück (Op. 92) for pianoforte and orchestra, and the instrumental portions of Mendelssohn's music to 'A Midsummer Night's Dream,' were well performed. The pianist was Mr. Herbert Fryer, who met with a cordial reception. On November 28, Miss A. M. Trickett, a young local violinist, gave a concert in the Masonic Hall, when she introduced Miss May Mukle, who made a successful début here as a violoncellist. Miss Trickett's principal solo was Max Bruch's Scottish Fantasia. The concert-giver was assisted by Miss Ella Freeman-Smith (solo pianist), and Miss Alice Lakin (vocalist), and Dr. Rowland Winn accompanied. Miss Rosa Blackmore gave a concert in the same room on the 4th ult. Her associates were Madame Siviter (vocalist), and Miss Fanny Woolf (violinist). Miss Blackmore is a brilliant pianist, and was formerly a pupil of Dr. Winn, who assisted at her concert.

Saturday Evening concerts in the Town Hall deserving notice were those given by Mr. Randell's Choir, and the Glasgow Select Choir. At the former artistic function, Mr. John Dunn contributed violin solos in his best style, and at the latter the Glasgow Choir gave their Scottish part-songs in their characteristic fashion.

Miss Constance Bache gave three interesting lectures on Russian music at the High School for Girls, Edgbaston, concluding on the 11th ult. The vocal illustrations were admirably given by Miss Cicely Gleeson-White.

MUSIC IN BRISTOL AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

At the first concert of the season of the Bristol Choral Society, held on November 30, at Colston Hall, 'The Golden Legend' and a miscellaneous selection were given. The soloists were Miss Amy Perry and Miss Clara Aldersley, both members of the choir (who acquitted themselves creditably), Mr. William Green, Mr. Andrew Black, and Mr. William Thomas (Bristol Cathedral). The band (with Mr. Henry Lewis holding the principal first violin) and choir numbered about 600 performers, and Mr. George Riseley conducted.

A performance of the 'Messiah' was given on the 2nd ult., in St. Paul's Church, Portland Square, under the direction of Mr. James Bending, organist of the church. There was an efficient choir of eighty voices, principally from the Choral Society, and an orchestra of twenty-five players, with Mr. F. S. Gardner as principal first violin, rendered the accompaniments effectively. Mr. C. W. Spear (Church of the Holy Nativity, Knowle) was at the organ. The soloists, all residents of Bristol, were Miss Edith Evans, Miss Sylvia Tippett, Mr. J. W. Boddy, and Mr. J. Barker.

There was a large attendance at the Victoria Rooms on the occasion of the Ladies' Night of the Society of Bristol Gleemen, on the 6th ult. Mr. W. J. Kidner conducted, and among the excellently sung pieces was a setting by him of Longfellow's 'Into the Silent Land,' composed in memory of Mr. E. G. Clarke, the vice-president of the Society, who had died since the concert of 1900. Miss Kate Cherry was the solo vocalist.

The societies which Mr. Edward Cook conducts at Clevedon and Weston-super-Mare have given concerts. The Clevedon Philharmonic Society, considering their limited resources, gave a highly creditable interpretation of 'Elijah,' on the 4th ult. The Weston-super-Mare Society, on the 12th ult., performed 'The Messiah,' the instrumental accompaniment being furnished by the string band of the Scots Guards.

At Bristol Grammar School concert, on the 19th ult., Sir Hubert Parry's 'Ode on St. Cecilia's Day' was given under the direction of Mr. C. W. Stear.

Mr. W. H. Hadow is announced to deliver a course of four lectures at the Royal Institution, at 3 p.m., on Saturday afternoons, the 18th and 25th inst., and the 1st and 8th prox., his subject being 'On landmarks in the History of Opera: Gluck, Mozart, Weber, Wagner.'

MUSIC IN DUBLIN.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The first performance given by the Dublin Orchestral Society was in every respect worthy of the traditions of the Society. A most thoroughly satisfactory performance of Beethoven's Symphony No. 8 was given. Some lighter music by Saint-Saëns and Dvorák, and Wagner's early work, 'Eine Faust Overture,' made up a fine programme. The second concert was chiefly remarkable for the Tschaïkowsky Pianoforte Concerto in B flat minor, the solo part of which was magnificently played by Miss Annie Lord. Haydn's B flat Symphony, and Beethoven's 'Coriolan' Overture, were well rendered by the band, and Signor Esposito conducted with his usual ability.

At the first concert given by the Dublin Musical Society, Sullivan's 'Golden Legend' and some miscellaneous items were included. The chorus was strong and bright, but the performance as a whole was not altogether satisfactory, owing to what appeared to be insufficient rehearsal.

The University Choral Society gave a concert performance of 'Oberon,' which suffered by having only a pianoforte accompaniment throughout. Mme. Shellard sang the chief soprano music very finely, and redeemed an otherwise mediocre performance by her clever and brilliant singing.

The St. Cecilia Festival took place on the last Sunday in November in the Pro-Cathedral, Marlborough Street, the work selected for performance being a Mass for five voices by the Spanish 16th century composer, Moralès. The Martyn Palestrina Choir, conducted by Mr. Vincent O'Brien, performed this beautiful music most admirably, and the music was greatly appreciated by an immense congregation.

The syllabus of the Feis Ceoil Competitions has been issued. The adjudicators are: For composition, Dr. C. V. Stanford; for choral singing, &c., Mr. Ivor Atkins; for solo singing, Mrs. Hutchinson and Mr. Denis O'Sullivan; for stringed instruments, Mr. Simon Speelman, of the Brodsky Quartet; for pianoforte, Mr. Oscar Beringer; and for wind instruments and bands, Mr. Ord Hume.

MUSIC IN EAST ANGLIA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The second of the interim concerts undertaken by the Norwich Festival Committee was given in St. Andrew's Hall, on the 12th ult., Handel's 'Israel in Egypt' being the work performed. Much to the disappointment of all concerned, Dr. A. H. Mann, the chorus-master, who had devoted much time to training the chorus, was prevented by illness from conducting, but happily a worthy substitute was found in Mr. G. H. Betjemann. With only one rehearsal under his guidance, this gentleman was enabled to secure a capital performance of the work. The solos were sung by Miss Emily Davies, Miss Edith Nutter, Mr. Joseph Reed, Mr. Robert Radford, and Mr. Bantock Pierpoint, while a capable band, led by Mr. F. W. B. Noverre, ably played the accompaniments.

The Great Yarmouth Musical Society selected for their opening concert of the season, on the 5th ult., Sullivan's 'Martyr of Antioch.' The principals were the Hon. Margaret Henniker, Madame Marie Hooton, Mr. Edward Branscombe, and Mr. J. B. Smith, who proved to be an excellent quartet. Mr. Haydon Hare conducted one of the most successful concerts ever given by the Society, both chorus and band being highly efficient.

The King's Lynn Musical Society gave their first concert of the season on the 4th ult., when Handel's 'Messiah' was performed, the principal vocalists being Miss Hilda Howard, Miss Edith Hands, Mr. Samuel Masters, and Mr. Arthur Barlow. The chorus, about 120 strong, were conducted by Mr. A. H. Cross, and acquitted themselves remarkably well. The accompaniments were played by a small orchestra, led by Mr. F. W. B. Noverre, with Mr. F. Dewberry at the organ, and Mr. J. H. Pratt at the pianoforte. With the assistance of many who took part in the above, the performance was repeated on the following evening by the Hunstanton Choral Society, at that seaside resort.

The Diss Choral Society, conducted by Mr. T. M. Pullen, gave a performance of Handel's oratorio 'Judas Maccabæus,' on the 12th ult. The principal parts were taken by Madame Annie Norledge, Miss Ulrikka Wiley, Mr. Anderson Nicol, and Mr. W. H. Atkinson. The choruses were well rendered, and the accompaniments were successfully played by an orchestra under the leadership of Mr. T. E. Gatehouse.

The Beccles Choral Society gave a concert, in the Town Hall, on the 9th ult. There was a good attendance, and the performance of Sterndale Bennett's 'May Queen' was greatly appreciated. The solo vocalists were Mrs. J. A. Penfold Wyatt, Miss Delia Woods, Mr. Mandeno Jackson, and Mr. Harold Bealey. In the second part, the choir sang Kingsley's 'Ballad of Earl Haldan's Daughter,' by A. M. Goodhart. A small band, led by Mr. Coote-Tuggit, was responsible for the accompaniments, and Mr. Warder Harvey conducted.

Romberg's 'Lay of the Bell,' was sung by the Sprowston Choral Society at its concert on the 3rd ult. The chorus had evidently been well-drilled by Mr. B. Parkerson. Miss Taylor supported the voices at the pianoforte.

MUSIC IN EDINBURGH.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

At the first of Messrs. Paterson's excellent Orchestral Concerts, the Symphony was Schumann's in D minor, which Dr. Cowen conducted from memory; and Mr. Borwick gave a brilliant and artistic reading of the solo part in Beethoven's Pianoforte Concerto in C minor. At the second concert, Beethoven's C minor Symphony, and the Symphonic Poem of Saint-Saëns, 'Le Rouet d'Omphale,' were the main attractions, and Miss Lilian Blauvelt sang. At the third concert, on the 16th ult., the Choral Union gave an eminently complete and satisfactory rendering of 'Elijah.' Chorus, principals, and band alike did well, but the feature of the concert, and one not to be hurriedly forgotten, was Mr. Ffrangcon-Davies's startlingly fine representation of the part of the prophet. The other soloists were Madame Emily Squire, Mr. Lloyd Chandos, and Miss Lilian Hovey.

Mr. Denhof's Chamber Concerts have reached their sixth season, and seem to increase year by year in artistic value. The performance of Schumann's D minor Trio was an ideal one. Mr. Denhof was assisted by MM. Hans Wessely and Bramsen, with Miss Luisa Sobrina as vocalist, and Mr. Scott Jupp as accompanist.

The Richardson family, a clever body of local musicians, gave their Annual Concert on November 28; and concerts were also given by Mr. Arthur Broadley (violoncellist and viol da gamba player), assisted by Miss E. A. Atkinson and Miss Evangeline Florence, and by Mr. R. de la Haye, assisted by Mr. D. Millar Craig and Mr. David Bayne. The programme placed before the Edinburgh Society of Musicians, on the 7th ult., by Messrs. Gladstone Ball, N. J. Afflick, and Robert Burnett, was alike admirable in quality and rendering, and included piano and violoncello sonatas by Saint-Saëns and Rubinstein.

The first of Professor Niecks's valuable historical concerts took place at the University on November 20. The programme consisted of sonatas for the pianoforte and violin from J. S. Bach to Mozart, and the concert was well attended and thoroughly enjoyed by the students and others who were present. The performers were Mr. Philip Halstead (pianoforte), Mr. Henri Verbrugghen (violin). Miss Simpson sang and Mr. Scott Jupp accompanied.

MUSIC IN GLASGOW.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The season of the Choral and Orchestral Union opened auspiciously on November 26. In some quarters it was feared that the surfeit of music at the International Exhibition during the summer and autumn might adversely affect the attendance at the concerts. It is gratifying to report that so far from that being the case, the number of subscribers to the scheme is larger than formerly, while the support of casual concert-goers is very generous. A large audience assembled at the opening concert, when the Scottish Orchestra, under Dr. Cowen, gave a highly-finished performance. The programme included Beethoven's Coriolan Overture, the prelude and finale from Tristan and Isolde, Liszt's Pianoforte Concerto in E flat (Signor Busoni playing the solo part), Tschaïkowsky's Air and Variations from his Third Suite, and Schumann's Symphony in D minor. On the 3rd ult., the Choral Union, associated with the Scottish Orchestra, gave a capital performance of Dr. Elgar's 'Caractacus,' which was given here for the first time last year. The soloists were Madame Medora Henson, and Messrs. William Green, Robert Burnett, and Andrew Black, all of whom performed their parts excellently. Mr. Bradley ably conducted. The appearance of Madame Lillian Blauvelt, and an excellent orchestral programme, which included Beethoven's Eroica Symphony, attracted a large audience to the concert on 10th ult.

The choir of St. John's United Free Church gave a very carefully prepared performance of Handel's 'Messiah' on November 27. A small orchestra, supported at the organ by Mr. Thomas Berry, supplied the accompaniments, and Mr. J. K. Findlay, organist of the church, conducted.

The members of the Choral Union made only a moderately successful appearance in Berlioz's 'Faust' at the fourth subscription concert on the 17th ult. A smaller and less unwieldy body of singers would have done greater justice to the choral music. The solo music was in the capable hands of Madame Emily Squire, and Messrs. Lloyd Chandos and Ffrangcon-Davies; Mr. Bradley directed the performance with skill. The usual 'popular' orchestral concerts continue to attract large audiences on Saturday evenings, at one of which Dr. Cowen's Concertstück for pianoforte and orchestra in B flat was played for the first time in Glasgow, when Miss Marguerite Elzy gave a brilliant rendering of the solo part.

The Rutherglen Choral Society submitted a good programme of part songs at its first concert on the 18th ult. Mr. J. King conducted. On the same evening Mr. Bogue's choir gave a concert, the programme of which was largely composed of new part-songs, written or arranged for the choir. On the 19th ult. the choir of Adelaide Place Church, under the direction of the organist, Mr. Montague Smith, jun., gave a very creditable performance of Part I. of Gaul's 'Ruth.'

MUSIC IN GLOUCESTER AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The Gloucester Choral Society is fortunate in its President. Since Mr. Joseph Bennett has filled that office it has been his kindly habit during each season to give one lecture on a musical subject for the exclusive benefit of members. That given at the Guildhall, on the 3rd ult., was entitled 'Humour in Music,' and with Mr. Bennett came Miss Fanny Davies as 'illustrator' of the examples of musical humour selected by the lecturer. The lecture concluded with Romberg's Toy Symphony, with Miss Davies at the pianoforte, a small band of strings, while the toys were played by the members of the Committee.

The first concert of the season given by the Cheltenham Festival Society was held in that town on the 9th ult., under the direction of Mr. J. A. Matthews. The chief choral work was a new ballad, composed for the occasion by Dr. Iliffe, entitled 'The power of Sound.' It is based on Schiller's poem, and Dr. Iliffe has built upon it an effective composition. There was also given the third part of Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha' trilogy. To the miscellaneous part of the programme several artists contributed, including Miss Winifred Wynne, Mr. Charles Saunders, and Mr. Montague Borwell (vocalists), Miss Constance Vipan (violoncello), and Miss Isabel Hirschfeld (pianoforte). A competent band was led by Mr. E. G. Woodward.

Miss Amy James gave a concert in Cheltenham on the 4th ult. Her pianoforte playing was much appreciated, and she was assisted by Mr. Lewis Hann (violin), Mr. J. E. R. Teague (violoncello), Miss Florence Norton, and Mr. Ranalow (vocalists), with Mr. George Riseley as accompanist.

The greatest credit is due to Mr. A. H. Gibbons, organist of Cirencester Abbey Church, for his successful efforts for music in that town and neighbourhood. He has quite a good choral society, and on the 11th ult. there was given in the Abbey a capital performance of Spohr's 'Last Judgment.' Mr. Gibbons was at the organ, and the solo parts were sung by Master Leyland, Master Sampson, Mr. C. Eynon Morgan, and Mr. H. Millar.

The Gloucester Orpheus Society paid a visit to Stroud, on the 12th ult., to help in the good cause of raising money for the Hospital there. Mr. Brewer conducted his enthusiastic glee-men, to the number of sixty, through one triumph after the other. In all six part-songs were given:—'A Toast: Gentlemen! The King!' and 'A Ballad when at Sea' (Brewer); 'Fly to my mistress' (Lloyd); 'The Song of the Pedlar' (Williams); 'The long day closes' (Sullivan); and 'Bold Turpin' (Bridge).

The Gloucester Choral Society gave their first concert this season at the Shire Hall on the 19th ult., when Elgar's 'Black Knight' and Stanford's 'Revenge' were admirably performed under Mr. Brewer's competent conductorship. A feature of the evening was the performance by the band of Elgar's two Military Marches. The 'Black Knight' is an excellent choral ballad that, apart from its interest in being a composition of Dr. Elgar, is well worthy the attention of choral societies.

MUSIC IN LIVERPOOL AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The fifth concert of the Philharmonic Society's season took place on the 3rd ult., when Saint-Saëns's Poëme Symphonique 'La Jeunesse de Hercule,' an Air and Variations from Suite III. (Tschaïkowsky), and the Overture to 'Der Freischütz' (Weber), were the prominent orchestral items; and Madame Blauvelt sang. Mr. Harold Bauer, as solo pianist, admirably rendered Schumann's Introduction and Allegro Appassionata in addition to Liszt's 'Todtentaz.' At the sixth concert of the same Society, reliance was placed upon Mendelssohn's 'St. Paul.' As nine years have elapsed since the premier organisation turned its attention to this work—which, by-the-way, was originally performed for the first time in England in this city—it was small wonder that the revival created unusual interest in musical Liverpool. Mr. Andrew Black sung the music ascribed to the Apostle with marked power and distinction. The other principals were Madame Laura Haworth and Miss Florence Oliver. The chorus acquitted themselves of their task with special distinction, and Mr. H. A. Branscombe—the chorus-master—deserves an especial word of praise. Dr. Cowen conducted.

Mr. Ernest Schiever's first concert of chamber music took place on the 14th ult., when the quartet party was led by Mr. Schiever, who had as companions Mr. Vasco Akeroyd, Mr. C. Courvoisier and Mr. Walter Hatton. Mr. Louis H. Edger, who played pianoforte solos by Schumann and Saint-Saëns, and who is being heard much in Liverpool just now, is a pianist of high attainments. At Mr. Theodore Lawson's concert on the 10th ult., given at the Philharmonic Hall, the string quartet was that of Hans Wessely, and the vocalist was Madame Sobrino with Senor Sobrino at the pianoforte.

The Liverpool Musical Society gave 'Elijah' on the 26th November in St. George's Hall, the principals being Madame Squire, Miss Sidney Bushnell, Mr. Henry Plevy, and Mr. Charles Tree. The chorus was conducted by Mr. D. O. Parry, whilst Dr. Peace was at the organ.

A splendid performance of the 'Messiah' was given, by the Orpheus Concert Union, on the 14th ult., with Madame Bertha Rossow, Miss Marie Brema, Mr. Ben Davies, and Mr. Andrew Black as principals. The chorus, largely drawn from the ranks of the Liverpool Philharmonic Society, did especially well. The annual concert of the Garston Philharmonic Society took place on the 16th ult., when the 'Messiah' was performed under the direction of Mr. Percival H. Ingram. The North Liverpool Choral Society also put forward the 'Messiah,' on the 10th ult., with Mr. F. J. Routledge as conductor. Bennett's 'May Queen' was sung at the Philharmonic Hall on the 12th ult.

MUSIC IN MANCHESTER.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The performance of the great B minor Mass of Bach, on November 28, was distinctly a triumph for the Hallé Choir and their trainer, Mr. R. H. Wilson. The choral difficulties were well mastered; the bright fresh voices of the sopranos and the sonority of the basses being particularly remarkable. The solos were entrusted to students of our local college—Misses Wormald and Bolton, and Mr. Fowler Burton, who with Mr. Webster Millar (also a resident artist), acquitted themselves well in the discharge of very onerous duties. On the following Thursday, Miss Macintyre was the singer, Mr. Berber played the Brahms Violin Concerto, and the 'Burns Rhapsody' of Sir A. C. Mackenzie occupied the place of honour at the commencement of the second part of the programme. The concert of the 12th ult. was rendered remarkable by the introduction of a MS. orchestral suite by Mr. Cyril Scott, and to a yet greater degree by Miss Brema's declamation of the closing scene of 'Die Götterdämmerung.' In the following week the two annual performances of the 'Messiah,' conducted by Mr. Wilson, attracted immense gatherings, as did also the renderings of the same work on the 14th ult. by the Nonconformist Union under Mr. Granville Humphreys, and that on the following Saturday by the Philharmonic Choir of Mr. Lane.

During the month we have been unusually favoured in the matter of chamber music. Mr. Max Mayer was wise when he secured the assistance of Lady Hallé, and afforded his friends so good an opportunity of listening to four violin and pianoforte duets of different schools from Bach and Brahms.

Lady Hallé appeared again on the 11th ult., to grace the recital of her sister, Miss Olga Neruda, who showed a very genial sympathy and appreciation of the talent of her fellow artist on the College staff—Mr. Dayas—by introducing, with the assistance of Mr. Carl Fuchs, his Sonata for Pianoforte and Violoncello. But no feature of the programme was so delightful as the Bach Concerto, which Lady Hallé and Mr. Brodsky played magnificently.

The second meeting of Dr. Watson's Vocal Society was rendered particularly pleasant by the juxtaposition of the two settings of the 114th Psalm, by the elder Wesley and by Mendelssohn. The dignity and solidity of 'In exitu Israel,' and the more dramatic and exciting setting of 'When Israel out of Egypt came,' by the great German master, were admirably contrasted. Of course the latter suffered through the absence of its splendid orchestration; but the choral rendering of both works was excellent. Moreover, the 'Psalm of Thanksgiving' of the conductor was, for the first time, undertaken by his own choir.

MUSIC IN NORTHUMBERLAND AND DURHAM.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The Sunderland Philharmonic Society, on the 3rd ult., brought to a first hearing in this district Mr. Coleridge-Taylor's latest cantata, 'The Blind Girl of Castél-Cuillé.' The work, produced at the recent Leeds Festival, is dedicated to Mr. N. Kilburn, the conductor of the Society, and it was appropriate therefore that it should be selected for performance at the first concert of the season. The soloists were Miss Agnes Nicholls and Mr. Ivor Foster, both of whom sang remarkably well. The choir and orchestra also acquitted themselves very creditably, and the performance as a whole was distinctly successful. Mr. Kilburn conducted with his usual resourcefulness. At the same concert, Mozart's Clarinet Concerto in A, and Beethoven's 'A Calm Sea and a Prosperous Voyage,' were performed.

Sir Frederick Bridge's 'Callirhoë' was the work selected by the National Telephone Vocal Society for its first concert of the season, given in the Town Hall, Newcastle, on the 4th ult. This organization is distinctly progressive in its aims, and the success which has hitherto attended its efforts should encourage its promoters to still greater achievements in the future. The solos on the present occasion were admirably sung by Miss Perceval Allen, Miss M. Bowmaker, and Mr. Fred. Fallas. Mr. Yeaman Dodds presided at the organ, Mr. H. M. Renwick at the pianoforte, and Mr. George Dodds conducted.

A very successful concert was given on the 5th ult., in the Town Hall, Durham, by the Durham Amateur Orchestral Society, under the conductorship of Mr. Sigmund Oppenheim. The principal items in the programme were Mozart's Symphony in B flat, Schubert's Unfinished Symphony, and Max Bruch's Violin Concerto, in which Miss Milly Turner was the soloist.

The performance of Mendelssohn's 'Elijah' in the Town Hall, Gateshead, on the 10th ult., was the most ambitious undertaking which the Gateshead Vocal Society has hitherto attempted. It is very satisfactory to record that the result justified the time and attention which had been bestowed on the preparation of the work. The soloists were Miss Ethel Bird, Miss Anna Hope, Mr. Joseph Hanson, and Mr. Joseph Lycett. Mr. Newton Laycock conducted.

The Newcastle Chamber Music Society gave its ninety-seventh concert in the Assembly Rooms, Newcastle, on the 11th ult. Brahms's Quartet in B flat (Op. 67), and Schumann's in A (Op. 41, No. 3), played by Messrs. Kruse, Schilsky, Ferir, and Walenn, were the principal attractions. Mrs. Helen Trust was the vocalist, and Mr. J. M. Preston accompanied.

Also on the 11th ult., the South Shields Choral Society gave a performance of Gounod's 'Faust,' in the Royal Assembly Hall, South Shields. This was quite a new departure for the Society, and the recital was apparently much appreciated and eminently successful. The principals were Miss Lillie Wormald, Miss Muriel Foster, Mr. Reginald Brophy, Mr. Watkin Mills (who made an admirable Mephistopheles), Mr. W. Thornton, and Mr. W. Tone Allan. The band and chorus both did excellent work, and Mr. M. Fairs conducted with much skill and discretion.

Mendelssohn's 'St. Paul' was very successfully performed, on the 12th ult., in the Town Hall, Newcastle, by the Newcastle Amateur Vocal Society, under the direction of Mr. J. E. Jeffries. The standard oratorios appear to have been somewhat neglected in this district during recent years, and to many present at this concert it was quite a pleasure to listen once more to Mendelssohn's familiar music. The choruses were well sung, and the soloists were Madame A. Jackson, Miss Emily Forster, Mr. G. W. Riley, and Mr. Charles Knowles.

Mr. J. F. Barnett's 'Building of the Ship' was selected for performance in the Town Hall, Spennymoor, on the 17th ult., by the Spennymoor Musical Society, of which the Rev. Canon Firth, of Durham Cathedral, is the conductor. The work was very successfully performed with the aid of Miss Janet Reed, Mr. H. W. Kemp, and Mr. W. Dobson as soloists, and a small orchestra led by Mr. F. Lonsdale. On the same evening the Tynemouth Amateur Vocal Society gave a very interesting concert in the Albion Assembly Rooms, North Shields, at which Dr. Elgar's 'Banner of St. George' and Mendelssohn's 42nd Psalm were successfully performed, under the direction of Mr. M. Fairs. Miss Perceval Allen was the solo vocalist.

The Auckland Musical Society performed Sullivan's 'Golden Legend' and the 'Song of Destiny' (Brahms) on the 12th ult., when the choir sang with excellent feeling and sympathetic appreciation of these works. The solo vocalists were Miss Agnes Nicholls, Miss Margaret Thomas, Mr. Harold Wilde, and Mr. Ivor Foster. Mr. Kilburn conducted with his customary skill and care.

The Jarrow Philharmonic Society gave, on the 18th ult., in the Mechanics' Institute, Jarrow, a performance of Sir Frederick Bridge's 'Callirhoë,' with Madame Annie Norledge, Miss Cissie Soulsby, and Mr. Fred. Fallas as principals. Mr. J. E. Jeffries conducted, and Miss E. Todd accompanied.

The performance of Liszt's 'St. Elizabeth,' in the Town Hall, Newcastle, by the Newcastle and Gateshead Choral Union—the principal musical event in this locality during the past month—is referred to on p. 24.

MUSIC IN NOTTINGHAM AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

A successful performance of Handel's 'Jephtha'—too late for notice in my last letter—was given at Grantham, on November 20, under the baton of Mr. H. P. Dickenson.

The Nottingham Orchestral Society, conducted by Mr. Henry J. Wood, gave their first concert on the 13th ult., when the chief items of interest—Dvorák's 'New World' Symphony, Tschaïkowsky's Nutcracker Suite (by desire), and Liszt's first Hungarian Rhapsodie—were most carefully rendered. Madame Kirkby Lunn was a most acceptable vocalist.

The Mansfield Choral Society, at their first concert this season, on the 16th ult., performed Handel's 'Acis and Galatea' and Mendelssohn's 'Hear my Prayer.' Mr. Liddle, organist of Southwell Minster, conducted, and the soloists were Miss Lillie Wormald, Mr. Lacey Parker, and Mr. T. H. Wood.

At Derby, Mr. Harold Henry's Orchestral Society gave the initial concert of their tenth season on the 17th ult., under the baton of Mr. Sydney Sadler. Cowen's Four English Dances, German's 'Little Minister' Overture, Minuet and Romanze (Dvorák), and the Prelude to the second act of Mackenzie's 'Manfred' were performed. Mr. Henry was the solo violinist, and Miss Ethel Bird sang.

MUSIC IN OXFORD.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

We have had a good deal of music this term, some of it of the truly miscellaneous kind, and therefore it will only be possible to chronicle some of the more serious and artistic performances.

The first concert of note took place in the Town Hall, on October 24, under the auspices of the Musical Club, when the Kruse String Quartet gave a capital chamber concert. The principal works constituting the programme were Beethoven's Quartet in E flat major (Op. 74), and Schubert's Quartet in G major (Op. 161). The next day, in the same building, Mr. Leonard Borwick and Mr. Plunket Greene gave a concert, Mr. Borwick playing very delightfully, as the first item, Schumann's Sonata in F sharp minor (Op. 11) dedicated to Clara Wieck—and in the second part of the programme, several pieces from ancient as well as modern composers. Mr. Greene contributed a number of songs, no less than thirteen being placed in the programme.

On November 13, the professor of music, Sir Hubert Parry, discoursed in the Sheldonian upon 'The Differentiation of Style in Music,' giving us a thoroughly admirable lecture.

The Ludwig String Quartet, under the auspices of the Musical Union, gave an excellent all-round concert in the large room of the Examination Schools, on November 18, the chief items being Beethoven's F minor Quartet and Haydn's Quartet in C (Op. 33). On the 28th, in the Town Hall, Mr. Borwick again appeared with Herren Carl Halir, Hugo Becker, and Mr. Hobday as colleagues, giving Dvorák's Trio in F minor (Op. 65) and Brahms's Quartet in G minor (Op. 25) as the chief items of a genuinely good concert.

On the 19th ult., the Oxford Gleemen gave a concert in the Town Hall, when the principal item was Grieg's beautiful and picturesque 'Landerkennung.' Perhaps I should mention that we have been visited during the present term by the little Albertini and the great Mr. Sousa.

MUSIC IN SHEFFIELD AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The principal event of a busy month has been a performance of 'The Messiah,' on the 9th ult., by the Sheffield Musical Union. The Albert Hall was crowded, and the concert was a triumph for the Society and its conductor, Dr. Henry Coward. The achievements of the chorus dwarfed even the splendid singing of the principals, and the really excellent playing of the orchestra—local, be it observed, almost to a man. The choristers infused so much character into their rendering of the familiar music—new points, and legitimate ones withal, were so effectively made—that the entire work carried with it something of the freshness of novelty, and strains listened to scores of times as mere music became invested with new interest when sung by this fine choir. The principals were Madame Emily Squire, Miss Ada Crossley, Mr. William Green, and Mr. Plunket Greene. Owing to the high pitch of the organ—soon to be lowered—'The trumpet shall sound' was taken by Mr. Joseph Lycett. Already a singer of more than local reputation, Mr. Lycett proved himself capable of taking rank among the leading oratorio soloists, and his success on this occasion was complete. Mr. W. S. Jessop at the organ played with rare judgment and effect, and Mr. John Peck led an orchestra of more than average ability. Dr. Coward, who conducted, conveyed much of his own enthusiasm and personality into the work of his forces, and is to be congratulated on the result.

Another concert which aroused considerable interest was that given by the Sheffield Male Glee and Madrigal Society, under Mr. J. A. Rodgers, on the 3rd ult. In an excellent programme, which was designed to exemplify various types of English male-voice music, from Horsley and Beale to Sullivan and Lee Williams, the members of this virile Society won fresh laurels. Despite the counter attraction of Mr. Pachmann's 'farewell' recital at the Albert Hall on the same evening, the audience was a large one.

One of the most enterprising of the smaller local choral bodies is the St. Peter's (Abbeydale) Choral Society, which, under Mr. W. Gadsby's energetic direction, does excellent work of the right sort. Mendelssohn's 'Hymn of Praise,' given on the 10th ult., can be credited to the Society's records as another success. Madame Norledge, Mr. W. H. Burrows, a local singer of exceptional attainments, and Miss Alice Gadsby, were the soloists.

Mr. Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha' (complete) was given, for the first time in Sheffield, on the 17th ult., by the Amateur Musical Society. The Society did full justice to the composer's effective choral writing, the quality of the tone being especially excellent. Miss Margaret Cooper, Mr. H. Brearley, and Mr. J. Lycett formed a capable trio of soloists, and a fine band was led by Mr. J. Peck. To Mr. J. W. Phillips at the organ, and Mr. Schöllhammer, who conducted, warm compliments on the success of the concert are due.

An epidemic of 'Messiah' performances has broken out in the district, something like a score having taken place during the past month. Among others are to be noted those by the Chesterfield Harmonic Society (Mr. G. A. Seed), the Penistone Choral Society (Mr. J. Cooper), the Hoyland Common Choral Society (Mr. G. M. Coates), and the Norton Lees Choral Society (Mr. H. Reynolds).

The Brincliffe Musical Society, still developing under Mr. J. H. Parkes, gave a concert, at which Beethoven's Symphony No. 4 was capitally played.

The Eckington Choral Society (Mr. Geo. Harrop) and the Walkley Musical Society (Mr. Henry Brown) have also done progressive and appreciated work during the past month. The Sheffield Orchestra gave a concert on the 19th ult., under Dr. Coward, playing Mozart's Symphony in G minor, Wagner's 'Walkurenritt,' Mackenzie's 'Manfred' Suite, Liszt's symphonic poem, 'Mazeppa,' and other works. Miss Maggie Jaques was the vocalist. A recital by M. Paderewski, under Miss Foxon's auspices, fittingly rounded off the month's feast of good things.

The interesting and well-interpreted pianoforte recital given by Mr. Frederick Dawson, at Montgomery Hall, on November 15, was inadvertently omitted to be noticed in my letter of last month.

MUSIC IN STAFFORDSHIRE.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE Hanley Glee and Madrigal Society gave their Annual Performance of 'The Messiah,' in the Victoria Hall, on the 12th ult., the spacious room being filled in every part. The principal vocalists were Madame Ella Russell, Madame Kirkby Lunn, Mr. Fred W. Norcup, and Mr. Charles Manners. The band and chorus numbered 350. The chief honours of the performance rested with the chorus, who sang splendidly. The band, under the leadership of Mr. T. Shaw, was full and complete in every department, and the trumpet obbligato was well played by Mr. R. Bell. Mr. A. J. Jackson presided at the organ, and Mr. J. Garner conducted.

The Stafford Choral Union, under the conductorship of Mr. Drury, gave its first concert of the season, on the 17th ult., in the Borough Hall. The first part consisted of Rossini's 'Stabat Mater,' the principal vocalists being Madame Carrie Siviter, Miss Marguerite Gell, Mr. Charles Saunders, and Mr. Walter Dodds. The band and chorus numbered 100 performers, Mr. H. J. Freeman, of Birmingham, being the leader and solo violin.

MUSIC IN YORKSHIRE.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

LEEDS.

At the highly interesting subscription concert on November 20, Glazounow's Sixth Symphony was finely played by the Hallé band; but the most striking proof of Dr. Richter's unabated power was in the 'Good Friday's Spell' extract from 'Parsifal,' played with an intimate sympathy and a realisation of its melodic beauty, that made even so familiar a piece seem fresh. The Philharmonic chorus sang two extracts from the last act of 'Die Meistersinger' with superb force and tone, and, under the conductorship of Mr. Fricker, their trainer, were heard in a not very interesting Psalm by Franz. The feature of the Carl Rosa Company's visit was the production of 'Siegfried' for the first time at Leeds, on November 22. On November 27, the Choral Union gave a capital all-round performance of Saint-Saëns's 'Samson and Delilah.' Miss Brema was, of course, the centre of interest, but Mr. Brearley, a local tenor, was vocally most satisfactory as the hero, and Messrs. Charles Tree and Foxton Ferguson were also efficient in their respective parts. The chorus and orchestra, under Mr. Alfred Benton, were all that could be desired. Glazounow had, on the 4th ult., a second hearing at Leeds, his 'Five Novellettes' for string quartet being played at the second Bohemian chamber concert by Messrs. Elliott, Wright, Haigh, and Giessing, and proving very charming, varied music, wrought with conspicuous mastery. On the 10th ult., an interesting experiment was made by Mr. C. Wilkinson, who gave a lecture-recital on Grieg and his music, accompanied by a large selection of lantern-slides depicting Norwegian scenery, and therefore illustrative of Grieg's compositions, which owe so much to National features.

On the 13th, the Leeds Symphony Society gave a concert, at which Grieg's Pianoforte Concerto, with Mr. Percy Richardson as soloist, formed the chief feature of the programme. Mr. A. Grimshaw conducted. The following evening, Mr. Bernard Johnson's humorous cantata, 'Love the Logician,' a clever piece in the Gilbert and Sullivan vein, based on a whimsical libretto by Mr. H. L. Johnson, was performed with success, the co-operation of many well-known Leeds musicians in an orchestra of appropriately eccentric character, adding to the zest of the performance. The same day there took place the first of a series of 'Free Orchestral Concerts,' organized and conducted by Mr. Edgar Haddock, who has succeeded in obtaining funds from some local philanthropists, and in securing the sanction of the Corporation. From that august body, which gives pecuniary help to brass bands in the Leeds parks in the summer months, no subsidy has been procured; but they have graciously granted the use of the Town Hall without charge, while indemnifying themselves by reserving for their own use the shillings paid for admission to the gallery, the area being free. While it is to be regretted that the concerts are thus left on a purely charitable basis, it is something to have obtained from a municipal corporation a bare recognition of orchestral music, and it will be interesting to watch the development of this undertaking. At this opening concert, Miss Pauline Sant Angelo played Liszt's E flat Pianoforte Concerto most brilliantly, and the orchestra, though leaving something to be desired in quality in certain directions, showed the result of Mr. Haddock's painstaking drill, and played the Rienzi and William Tell overtures, the instrumental movements from the 'Hymn of Praise,' and other pieces, with remarkable and praiseworthy precision. It is worth while to mention that the large 'free' audience seemed most appreciative.

BRADFORD.

At the subscription concert on the 13th ult., Verdi's Requiem was sympathetically given, with Miss Blauvelt, Miss Brema, Mr. W. Green, and Mr. Andrew Black, as principals, the Festival Society's chorus, the Hallé orchestra, and Dr. Cowen as conductor. The worst fault was an inclination to tameness and timidity, the best virtue, a conspicuous refinement on the part of both chorus and orchestra. Dr. Cowen's clever 'Phantasy of Life and Love' and Parry's beautiful 'Blest Pair of Sirens,' in which the serene beauty of Milton's verse is so happily echoed by the music, were included in this interesting programme. The Bradford Permanent Orchestra gave concerts on November 23 and the 7th ult., also under Dr. Cowen's able direction. On the former occasion a Suite from the 'Castor et Pollux' of Rameau, and Max Bruch's beautiful but well-worn Violin Concerto in G minor (brilliantly played by Miss Maud Powell), were the chief features of the programme. Mr. Herbert Brown, a young bass who is making his way in the West Riding, was the vocalist. On the latter occasion there were three things of interest—a delightful Haydn Symphony, No. 13, in G; Schumann's Pianoforte Concerto, very artistically played by Mr. Frederick Dawson; and Tschaïkowsky's 'Nutcracker' Suite, which, if it demanded rather more virtuosity than the orchestra could command, at least after such exiguous rehearsal, went with much spirit. Miss Edna Thornton was the vocalist. On November 29, Mr. S. Midgley gave a very interesting concert of chamber music, introducing a learned Pianoforte Quartet in G, by Dr. Culwick, played by the Brodsky Quartet and the concert giver. Mrs. Midgley was the vocalist. On the 2nd ult., Miss Annie Robinson, a young pianist (still the pupil of Mr. Charles Henrich), gave a recital in which she showed herself to be the possessor of a thoroughly sound style, as well as great natural taste.

OTHER YORKSHIRE TOWNS.

At Halifax, the chamber concerts were resumed on November 26, when Mr. Rawdon Briggs' Manchester Quartet and Mr. H. F. Webster played Dvorák's Pianoforte Quartet in E flat and a Beethoven String Quartet, Miss Edith Wehner being the vocalist. Two days later the Halifax Madrigal Society, under Mr. Shepley, gave 'Hiawatha's Departure,' which is certainly heard to greater advantage when it does not come after the two preceding scenes of Mr. Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha' trilogy. The principals were Madame Goodall, Mr. Horsfield, and Mr. Tree, and the performance, though lacking something in power, was generally creditable. At Huddersfield, on the 10th ult., the Glee and Madrigal Society, under Mr. Ibeson, gave one of its concerts, several of Bishop's works—not often performed nowadays—being the feature of the occasion.

The Dewsbury Choral Society, of which Mr. Fricker, organist of the Leeds Town Hall, has been recently appointed conductor, gave a very enjoyable performance of 'Acis and Galatea,' and Gade's 'Crusaders,' on the 10th ult. The chorus-singing was admirable in precision and tone, showing that the new conductor has secured the full confidence of his choir. The band was of more than average efficiency, and Miss Agnes Nicholls, Mr. W. Green, and Mr. C. Knowles were excellent in the solo parts. On the following evening, the Keighley Orchestral Society, of which Mr. Summerscales is the conductor, gave, among other things, a creditable performance of Beethoven's Fourth Symphony, which has not been heard in the West Riding for many years past. At one of the Wakefield chamber concerts, on November 21, the Leighton House String Quartet party, of which Mr. Bent is leader, played a quartet by Dvorák in highly artistic style, and were joined by Madame Adine O'Neill as pianist in Brahms's F minor Quintet. The Morley Choral Society, on the same date, gave a miscellaneous concert, Mr. Alfred Benton conducting some orchestral pieces, capably played by a small band.

The York Symphony Orchestra, which is so energetically trained and conducted by Mr. Tertius Noble, showed the good results of his teaching, in a concert given on November 20. Mozart's so-called 'Jupiter' Symphony, and Suites by Bizet, Sullivan (the 'Kenilworth' Masque) and Landon Ronald, made up a highly interesting programme, and were very ably played. Mrs. Burrell was the vocalist. On the 4th ult., Miss Edith Wehner gave a most enjoyable vocal recital in York, assisted by Mr. F. Norton, a baritone (who sang some good songs of his own composition) and Mr. Charles Henrich, a highly accomplished pianist. On the 17th ult., the York Musical Society, under Mr. Noble, gave a good account of 'The Death of Minnehaha' and 'Hiawatha's Departure,' the chorus showing a distinct improvement. Miss McLaughlin, Mr. Hyde, and Mr. Iles were the principals.

At Scarborough, on the 9th ult., Dr. Ely's choir gave an ambitious programme, comprising 'Hiawatha's Departure' and the Third Act of 'Tannhäuser,' with considerable success. The principals were Miss Perceval Allen, Mr. Anderson Nichol, and Mr. Ivor Foster.

Performances of Spohr's 'Last Judgment' have been given at various churches during Advent. On the 8th ult., at St. Michael-at-Bowes, Bowes Park, with Mr. Herbert Rolfe, the organist and choirmaster, at the organ; on the 11th ult., at the Presbyterian Church, Islington, under the direction of Mr. H. E. Mackinlay, with Mr. J. S. Macdonald at the organ; on the 15th ult., at All Saints', Hatcham Park, under the direction of Mr. H. T. Couch, the organist and choirmaster. The Advent music from the 'Messiah' was sung at St. Mary-the-Virgin, Primrose Hill, on the 15th ult., with accompaniment of orchestra and organ. The solos were sung by Miss Mabel Thistleton, Madame Blanche Newcomb, Mr. Iver McKay, and Mr Albert West. Mr. S. E. Payne presided at the organ, and Mr. Francis Burgess conducted. On the same date, a selection from Parts I. and II. of Handel's 'Messiah' was given at the Church of St. Michael and All Angels, Stonebridge Park, by the choir of the Church, assisted by a complete orchestra, which accompanied the service (Varley Roberts in C) and the hymns with fine effect. The solos were sung by Miss Mary Wilson, Master Horace Davis, Messrs. Hinde, Wale, and W. T. Carter. Mr. W. J. Hands was at the organ. Mr. W. C. Carter, organist of the Church, conducted.

Choral and Orchestral Societies.

The Windsor and Eton Choral Society, founded in 1841, celebrates its diamond jubilee this season. It has passed through many vicissitudes, but happily it survives them all. It has had the unique honour of being conducted by four musical knights, viz., Sir George Elvey, Sir Joseph Barnby, Sir Frederick Bridge, and Sir Walter Parratt, and of singing before Her late Majesty Queen Victoria on several occasions. Dr. C. Harford Lloyd, who has been a firm friend of the Society, conducted an excellent performance of Bach's 'Christmas Oratorio,' on the 9th ult. With the new year, Sir Walter Parratt has consented to resume the conductorship of the Society, which is doing such good work in the Royal Borough.

A highly interesting programme was provided by the North Suburban Choral Union, Melbourne, on October 29. With the exception of Mendelssohn's 'Hebrides' Overture, which opened the proceedings, the whole of the concert was devoted to Dr. Elgar, whose charming orchestral piece 'Liebesgruss' was given for the first time here. This was followed by 'Scenes from the Saga of King Olaf.' Local reports speak very favourably alike of the choir, orchestra, principal singers, and conductor, Mr. E. A. Jäger, whose enthusiasm for Dr. Elgar's compositions is shown by the fact that the Society has already given his 'Banner of St. George,' and promises his delightful part-song 'Spanish Serenade,' with orchestral accompaniment, at the next miscellaneous concert.

The Worcester Musical Society gave their first concert this season, at the Public Hall, on the 3rd ult. The chief feature of the programme was Sterndale Bennett's 'Woman of Samaria,' in which the choir did excellent service. They were also heard with good effect in the part-songs, 'Maying' (Muller) and 'Hunting Song' (Mendelssohn), and in the march and chorus from 'Tannhäuser.' The orchestra, though small, was efficient, and was specially successful in a new Concert Overture, written by Mr J. W. Austin, who conducted his work. The solo vocalists were Madame Siviter, Miss Marguerite Gell, Mr. F. J. Pardoe, and Mr. W. G. Davies. Much credit is due to the conductor, Mr. W. Mann Dyson, who had trained his forces with admirable results.

'Hiawatha's Wedding Feast' formed the principal item in a selection of 'English Music of the Nineteenth Century,' given in Westbourne Park Chapel, on the 3rd ult., by the Institute Choral Society. In this first concert of the season the society gave a very fair account of itself, singing in the main with considerable spirit the difficult music, with its varying moods. The soloists were Miss Helen Jaxon and Mr. Braxton Smith. A string band, led by Mr. H. S. MacDermott, assisted in the accompaniments, together with the pianoforte, ably played by Mr. F. Maurice Jephson. The concert opened with a sprightly rendering of E. German's Three Dances from 'Henry VIII.' Mr. J. Herbert Williams conducted.

The Lincoln Musical Society inaugurated its sixth season by a performance in the Drill Hall, Lincoln, on the 3rd ult., of Mr. J. F. Barnett's popular cantata, the 'Ancient Mariner.' In this dramatic work the choir had every opportunity of distinguishing themselves, and the result was a ready response to the skilful conductorship of Dr. G. J. Bennett. The principals were Miss Kate Cherry, Madame Amy Dewhurst, Mr. E. Dunkerton, and Mr. Charles Knowles. Mr. Edward O'Brien ably led the band, which effectively performed Mendelssohn's 'Hebrides' Overture and German's Three Dances from the incidental music to 'Nell Gwynn.' Mr. H. S. Trevitt was an efficient accompanist.

Mr. E. J. Quance's Choral Society gave very successful performances of Mr. Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha's Departure,' Sir Frederick Bridge's 'Forging of the Anchor,' and Dr. Elgar's 'Banner of St. George,' at Brixton Hall, on the 10th ult. Miss Kate Cherry, Mr. Fred Norcup, and Mr. Harry Dearth were the solo vocalists. There was a small professional band, and Mr. Frank Grant rendered valuable assistance at the organ. Sir Frederick Bridge conducted his own work, this being its first performance in London, and both the cantata and its composer—who made a genial speech to the audience—were received with enthusiasm.

The re-organisation of the Bach Choir has been steadily proceeding since the beginning of last year. The result, as regards balance of voices and quality of tone, is very encouraging, and the number of singers at present enrolled is about 120, of whom nearly half are new members. It is proposed during the forthcoming season to double the number. Rehearsals are now being held on Tuesday evenings at the Lecture Theatre, South Kensington Museum. We understand that a concert of unaccompanied music will be given in the spring, at which a Mass of Palestrina's and a Motet by J. S. Bach will be performed.

Mendelssohn's 'Forty-second Psalm,' Schubert's 'Song of Miriam,' Mackenzie's 'The Bride,' and Sir Frederick Bridge's 'Flag of England' (conducted by the composer), formed a capital bill of fare at the concert of the West Norwood Choral and Orchestral Society, given at the Public Hall, on the 10th ult. The soloists were Miss Maude Ballard and Mr. Harold Wilde, while Mr. E. Bongers led a very capable orchestra. Not the least satisfactory part of the performance was the excellent singing of the choir under the enthusiastic sway of their conductor, Mr. Percy S. Bright.

The Ealing Philharmonic Society held the first soirée of the season on November 30, at the Victoria Hall, Ealing. The orchestra gave excellent performances of Mendelssohn's 'Military' Overture (Op. 24), Schubert's Unfinished Symphony, and German's 'Nell Gwynn' Dances; and Gade's cantata, 'The Erl King's Daughter,' was very creditably performed by both choir and orchestra, the solos being sung by Miss Mary Lund and Mr. Leo Wilson. Mr. E. Victor Williams conducted with care and skill.

The Maze Pond Choral Society performed Mendelssohn's 'St. Paul,' on November 28, in Maze Pond Chapel, Old Kent Road, when the well-balanced choir maintained the high standard which has characterised its previous efforts. The soloists were Miss Edith Potter, Miss E. Coombes, Mr. Harry Stubbs, and Mr. Harry T. Bull. Mr. T. H. Smith led the band, and Miss M. Tyrer and Mr. E. Partridge were at the pianoforte and organ respectively. Mr. W. Dexter Miller conducted with his usual efficiency.

The Bow and Bromley Choir, directed by Dr. W. Lemare, gave a concert, on the 7th ult., at the Bow and Bromley Institute, when the chief features were Sullivan's 'Prodigal Son' and Dr. E. H. Turpin's cantata 'Jerusalem' (conducted by the composer). The choir had evidently devoted much care to their share of these works, and the orchestra was efficient. The solo vocalists were Miss Kate Cherry, Miss Windsor Locke, Madame Edith Hands, and Messrs. Branscombe, Webber, and Daniel Price.

The Catford Choral Society's first concert this season was given in St. James's Public Hall, Forest Hill, on the 10th ult., when Hermann Goetz's cantata 'Nœnia,' 'The Challenge of Thor' chorus from Elgar's 'King Olaf,' and a selection of madrigals and part-songs were performed. The solo vocalists were Madame Lulu Gillespie, Mr. Harry Marriott, and Mr. George Hodgson. Miss Ethel M. Brissenden was solo pianist and accompanist, and Mr. Harold Hewitt conducted.

The West Ham Choral Society performed Mendelssohn's 'Elijah,' at the Town Hall, Stratford, on the 3rd ult. The principal solo vocalists were Miss Adele Kuhn, Madame Edith Hands, Mr. Charles Ellison, and Mr. Arthur Walenn. The orchestra and choir numbered 135 performers, and Mr. W. Harding Bonner conducted.

The Devonshire Square Church Choral Society (Stoke Newington) opened its second season on the 3rd ult., when Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha's Wedding Feast,' and a selection of part-songs were rendered by the choir, with songs by Mrs. Lindsay-Blee, Mr. W. H. Fothergill, and Mr. Whorlow Bull. Recitations were given by Miss Edith Peck, and pianoforte solos by Miss Edith Wells, who also accompanied. The conductor was Mr. G. Ernest Arundel.

The Stephens Memorial Hall Choral Society selected Handel's 'Samson' for performance at their Hall, North Finchley, on the 12th ult. The solo vocalists were Miss Lilian Turnbull, Miss Gertrude Macaulay, Mr. Wills Page, and Mr. Robert Grice, and the conductor was Mr. G. H. Powell.

The Mundania Choral Society, Honor Oak, gave a concert on the 6th ult., when the programme included excerpts from Haydn, Mendelssohn, Schubert, and Handel, and Nichol's 'Ode to Music.' The orchestra was under the leadership of Mr. A. H. Coe, and Mrs. Hammond and Mr. J. Anderson were at the pianoforte and organ respectively. Mr. F. W. A. Drake conducted.

Miscellaneous.

Her Majesty Queen Alexandra has graciously consented to continue her patronage to the Westminster Orchestral Society (conductor, Mr. Stewart Macpherson), and Mr. W. Hugh Spottiswoode has been elected to the office of chairman of the council, in succession to Sir Alexander Mackenzie. During the coming season the Society proposes to perform the latter's 'Coriolanus' music and a work by Sir Hubert Parry. After sixteen years of honorary work, Messrs. Algernon Rose and William Horn have resigned the secretaryship and treasurership of the Society, but they will continue their interest in it as supernumerary members of the council.

The admirably prepared and illustrated prospectus of the Stratford Musical Festival of 1902 is a document full of interest, and poetical withal, to those competitively inclined, and who reside in the county of Essex and the East and North East districts of the metropolis. As about 200 prizes and certificates are awarded yearly in singing, pianoforte, violin, theory, composition, chorus, &c., there is a fine field for amateurs to show 'what like' they are—to use a Scotch expression. Among the adjudicators are Mr. Oscar Beringer, Mr. G. H. Betjemann, Dr. Harford Lloyd, Dr. McNaught, Mr. Fountain Meen, Sir Walter Parratt, and Mr. Randegger, while Mr. John Graham (70, Dacre Road, Upton Manor), as in past years, ably discharges the duties of secretary.

A concert specially interesting to lovers of glee singing was given by Mr. W. A. Everington's Male Voice Double Quartet party, at St. Luke's Institute, Bromley Common, on the 12th ult. The programme included the following glees, part-songs, and madrigals, which met with enthusiastic approval:—'The hunt is up' (Hatton), 'As it fell upon a day' (Coward), 'Queen of the Night' (Smart), 'At her fair hands' (Elliott), 'Turn Amaryllis' (Kearton), 'Sweet and Low' (Barnby), 'Bold Turpin' (Bridge), 'The Image of the Rose' (Reichardt), 'Peaceful slumb'ring' (Coward), 'Maiden fair, O deign to tell' (Haydn), 'When hands meet' (Pinsuti), 'The Bells of St. Michael's Tower' (Stewart), 'Go, Rose' (Beale), and 'The long day closes' (Sullivan). Mr. Everington's party comprised Miss Amy Bean and Miss Fanny Everington, Messrs. Shiner, Adams, Everington, Simmonds, Jeffery, Russell, Hughes, and Nussey.

Dr. Charles W. Pearce gave a most interesting lecture on 'Christmas Carols,' on the 2nd ult., at the monthly meeting of the Christ Church Literary and Debating Society, in the Parish Hall, Crouch End. The illustrations were sung by a select choir of ladies and gentlemen, under the direction of Mr. Alfred J Dye, organist of Christ Church. Amongst the illustrations may be mentioned a Trio, 'Ah! my dear Son, said Mary,' (traditional); 'Jam Radix,' by the late Dr. Hopkins; 'Benedicamus Domino,' by Dr. Charles Vincent; together with 'The Bell Carol,' composed by the lecturer.

Mr. Joseph Ivimey's Hundredth Chamber Concert, at the Assembly Rooms, Surbiton, took place on the 14th ult. An interesting programme was presented, including Schubert's String Quintet in C major (Op. 163), and Schumann's Pianoforte Quintet in E flat (Op. 44), the pianoforte part in the latter being played by Miss Fanny Davies, who also gave Bach's Prelude in A minor, Brahms's Cradle Song, and a Staccato Study by Rubinstein. The other instrumentalists were Messrs. Joseph Ivimey, Edgar Shelton, Alfred Hobday, J. E. Hambleton and H. Trust, and Madame Marian Mackenzie sang.

The second concert of the sixth season of the Dulwich Philharmonic Society was given at the Crystal Palace on the 14th ult., when Sullivan's somewhat rarely heard cantata 'Kenilworth' was the main feature of the programme. This beautiful work received an adequate rendering. The choruses were well sung, and the solo vocalists, Miss Ethel Pender-Cudlip, Madame Eleanor Cleaver, Mr. Whitworth Mitton, and Mr. A. H. Gee, were in all respects satisfactory. Mr. Arthur Fagge was at his usual post as conductor.

A new and original comic opera, entitled 'Princess Una,' composed by Mr. T. F. Dunhill (one of the music masters at Eton College) was performed, on the 11th and 12th ult., by an amateur company in the Royal Albert Institute, Windsor. Mr. Dunhill, who has also written his own libretto, is credited by the local press with the possession of gifts of melody and facility of orchestration, and was warmly congratulated on the result of his efforts. The solo performers, chorus, and orchestra alike contributed their share to a successful performance.

Messrs. Bayley and Ferguson have nearly ready for publication a volume entitled 'The Minstrelsy of England,' which will consist of two hundred songs, edited by Mr. Alfred Moffat. Not the least interesting feature of the book will be the historical notes to each song, contributed by Mr. Frank Kidson, the result of original research. Many songs by Purcell, Arne, Carey, and others not at all well known, will be included in the collection, which does not go beyond 1760-70.

Stainer's cantata 'The Daughter of Jairus' and Mendelssohn's '42nd Psalm' were performed at Union Chapel, Islington, on the 13th ult., by the members of the Psalmody and Choral Class, under the direction of Mr. G. H. Betjemann, with Mr. Fountain Meen at the organ. The solo vocalists were Miss Osborne Williams, Mr. Henry Plevy, and Mr. Arthur Barlow.

At the moment of going to press we have received the prospectus of the Seventeenth Annual Conference of the Incorporated Society of Musicians, announced to be held in London on December 30 and 31 (1901), and 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and 4th inst. The subjects to be discussed are, on the whole, disappointing in their scope, and the agenda compares unfavourably with similar meetings of other professions—e.g., clerical, medical, and engineers. The orchestral concert, at which a number of the compositions of members will be performed, is certainly a redeeming feature, but the social element seems to be the predominant partner in this gathering. All the meetings, except a function at the Mansion House, will be held at the Hotel Cecil.

Foreign Notes.

Antwerp.—The first performance, on November 30, of a new opera by Jan Blockx, the successful composer of 'La Princesse d'Auberge,' was an event which attracted an audience from all parts of Belgium, interested in the progress of the Neo-Flemish movement inaugurated by the late Peter Benoit. The new work, 'De Bruid der Zee' ('The Bride of the Sea'), is very dramatic in parts, its musical themes being either directly representative or happily imitative of the traditional Flemish folk-song, and, aided by a good performance, a complete success was scored.

Bayreuth.—Beethoven's 'Missa Solemnis' was heard, for the first time in Bayreuth, last month, when a most impressive performance of the great work was given, under Herr Julius Kniese's direction, and with highly efficient interpreters of the solo parts.

Barcelona.—Felipe Pedrell, the distinguished musical savant and critic, has completed the score of a dramatic trilogy, entitled 'The Pyrenees,' the book of which has been furnished him by the recently deceased poet, Victor Balaguer. The work has a patriotic tendency, and its musical setting is said to be of a very elevated order. Its first production, at the Liceo Theatre, is being eagerly anticipated.

Brussels.—The Conservatoire has just acquired by purchase the valuable musical library, containing many rare volumes and early manuscripts, formerly in the possession of the late Dr. Wagener, a well-known Brussels bibliophile.

Budapest.—Wagner's 'Tristan und Isolde' was performed for the first time at the Royal Opera, on November 28. The performance, with the Countess Vasquez in the part of Isolde, was a highly creditable one to all concerned therein; Herr Kerner being the conductor.——A new string quartet by Ernst Dohnanyi, the gifted young Hungarian artist, was produced with much success at one of the recent concerts of the Hubay Quartet party.

Cologne.—A new work by Th. Müller-Reuter, for chorus and orchestra, entitled 'Hackelberend's Begräbniss,' the libretto founded upon Julius Wolff's novel, 'The Wild Huntsman,' achieved a great success on its first performance at the third Gürzenich concert of the season. A very favourable reception was also accorded to a new 'orchestral legend,' by Jean Sibelius.——At the Stadt Theater, a new three-act opera, 'Lorenza,' by Edvardo Mascheroni, has been brought out, for the first time in Germany, with marked success. During an interval the composer was publicly presented by the president of the 'Beethoven Haus' with the diploma of honorary membership of that institution.

Darmstadt.—At a recent concert of the Kirchengesang Verein, the programme included the first performance of a new motet, 'Ich steh in meines Herren Hand,' by Arnold Mendelssohn, the conductor of this excellent society.

Dresden.—The long-expected first performance of Richard Strauss's new one-act opera, 'Feuersnoth,' took place on November 21, at the Royal Theatre, under Capellmeister von Schuch's direction, with good success. The libretto, by Ernst von Wolzogen, deals with an old Netherlandish legend, which is made the vehicle of some satirical allusions to the composer's treatment by the authorities in Munich during his conductorship at the Royal Theatre. The music, as might have been expected, is highly realistic, exceedingly clever in its orchestration, and charming in its more lyrical portions. The composer, who, together with many other distinguished musicians and critics from all parts of Germany, witnessed the performance, was the object of much flattering attention on the part of the audience.

Elberfeld.—A new music drama by Hans Pfitzner, entitled 'Die Rose vom Liebesgarten,' attracted much favourable notice on its recent first production at the Stadt Theater.

Hamburg.—A new oratorio, 'Crœsus,' by Adolph Lorenz, was produced, last month, by the Musik Verein, under Herr Spengel's direction, and very well received, the work being distinguished by skilful and melodious choral writing and able characterisation of the solo parts.

Helsingfors.—A performance was given recently, at the Finnish Theatre, of Hauptmann's fairy drama, 'Hannele,' with some highly characteristic incidental music by Erkki Melartin, a native composer. Frau Agathe Backer-Groendahl has given two concerts here, in which she introduced herself most favourably, both as a pianist and composer for that instrument, as well as of some charming songs.

Leipzig.—A new Pianoforte Trio by Ernst Heuser, the talented young Cologne composer, was produced and very favourably received, at the Chamber Concert of the Gewandhaus, on November 30.——By the Riedel Verein, under Dr. Göhler's zealous direction, excellent performances have been given recently of Beethoven's 'Missa Solemnis,' and of Mozart's C minor Mass, as completed from Mozartian themes, by Herr Schmitt, of Dresden.——At one of the recent concerts of the Bohemian Quartet, Fräulein Eva Lessmann, of Berlin, made her début in Leipzig as a concert singer, with good success.

Ludwigshafen-on-Rhine.—A very impressive first performance was given last month by the Cecilien Verein, with the co-operation of the Heidelberg Orchestra, of Liszt's oratorio, 'St. Elizabeth.' Frau Maria Wilhelmj, of Wiesbaden, was amongst the very efficient interpreters of the solo parts.

Milan.—The new opera entitled 'Chopin,' by the young Italian composer Giacomo Orefice, the libretto by Orvieto, was brought out at the Teatro Lirico, last month, where it proved a distinct success. This rather curious lyrical stage-work represents four poetically elaborated episodes in the life of the Polish master, terminating with his death in the presence of his friend, Elio, and of Stella, his first love. The music has been inspired almost throughout by themes taken from Chopin's works.

Munich.—An excellent first performance was given, on the 3rd ult., by the Porges'sche Gesangverein—at present under the direction of the Berlin conductor, Herr Siegfried Ochs—of Liszt's 'Missa Choralis' and of three sacred cantatas by Bach, much enthusiasm being displayed, on the occasion, by the audience.——At the fifth Kaim Concert of the season, a remarkable new Symphony (the fourth) by Herr Mahler, of Vienna, obtained its first hearing under the composer's direction. The work is in four movements, the final one culminating in a setting, for soprano solo, of a poem contained in a standard collection of German Volkslieder, known as 'Des Knaben Wunderhorn.' The reception accorded to the new Symphony was, on the whole, a somewhat frigid one.——At a recital given by the distinguished organist, Herr Carl Straube, several interesting organ compositions by the gifted young composer, Max Reger, were included in the programme.

Nuremberg.—A symphony entitled 'Bismarck,' and intended to illustrate, in its four well-constructed movements, the character of the Iron Chancellor, was successfully produced recently by the Philharmonic Orchestra. The composer is a retired army officer, Major Hutter, who has already become favourably known by a choral cantata and other meritorious compositions.

Paris.—Under the denomination of 'Conte lyrique,' a new three-act opera, with a prologue, entitled 'Griselidis,' the music by M. Massenet, has been brought out recently with considerable success at the Opéra Comique. The book is an imitation of the old French mystery plays, being an operatic version, from the pen of M. Eugène Morand, of the late Armand Silvestre's drama 'Griselidis.' The musical setting is distinguished by many of the composer's most graceful and impressive qualities, and is very effective in its instrumentation. Many numbers, including the symphonic prelude to the second act, were re-demanded. The excellent orchestral concerts conducted by M. Colonne have been, since the beginning of the present season, partly devoted to performances illustrative of the development of the symphony, while those of a more general character, given under his conductorship on Thursdays, are rendered specially interesting to earnest amateurs this season by including in the programmes, in chronological order, examples, instrumental and vocal, ranging from the seventeenth to the twentieth century. The first concert of the latter series, on November 28, included a spirited performance of the Overture to Purcell's 'Ode to St. Cecilia,' which was greatly applauded. At the first concert of the season of the Conservatoire, now under the direction of M. Georges Marty, a hitherto unknown overture by Mozart was introduced. The work, the orchestral parts only of which were recently discovered amongst some old music stored away in the Conservatoire library, bears the inscription 'Ouverture à Grand Orchestre, par Mozart,' and was probably written by the master during his stay in Paris in the year 1778.

Prague.—Paderewski's new opera 'Manru' met with a very favourable reception on its first production, on November 24, at the German Theatre, under Herr Leo Blech's direction, and in the presence of the composer. ——A new symphonic poem entitled 'Wald-Wanderung,' by Leo Blech, recently produced by the Philharmonic Society, proved a very interesting and skilfully elaborated composition.

St. Petersburg.—On November 21, the anniversary of the death of Anton Rubinstein, a chapel dedicated to his memory and containing his bust, life size, was consecrated. It is placed in the vicinity of the grave of the distinguished artist.——A new opera 'The Bride of the Czar,' by Rimsky-Korsakow, has been produced with considerable success at the Imperial Opera.

Schwerin.—A representation took place recently, at the Court Theatre, of Gluck's 'Iphigenia in Tauris,' in the revised version by Richard Strauss, which includes a new and greatly improved German translation of the libretto. The performance, under Court capellmeister Prill's direction, was not only excellent, but greatly contributed to the complete success of an interesting revival.

Weimar.—A somewhat remarkable 'dramatic tone poem,' entitled 'Manfred,' the book as well as the music by Hans von Bronsart, was successfully brought out at the Court Theatre, last month, under Capellmeister Kryzanowski's direction, and in the presence of the author. The very poetic, tragic subject of the piece (which has but a very slight connection with Byron's drama) has been very ably treated, musically, by the poet-composer, whose new work produced a most marked impression.

Obituary.

JOSEPH RHEINBERGER.

The well-known composer, Joseph von Rheinberger, died at Munich, on November 25, at the age of sixty-two. He was born at Vaduz, in the little principality of Liechtenstein. When only seven years of age he was competent to act as assistant-organist at the church. In 1859, he was appointed to the professorship of counterpoint and composition at the Munich Conservatorium, which he held with much distinction until within the last few months. Among his more recent pupils may be mentioned Max Schillings, and Ludwig Thuille, two young German composers of the advanced school, notwithstanding the somewhat ultra-conservative principles of their teacher. As a composer, Rheinberger enjoyed a considerable reputation not only in his native Germany, but also in this country and in America. His numerous compositions include symphonies and chamber works, several operas and choral cantatas—amongst them 'Wittekind' and 'The Star of Bethlehem'; a Requiem, and, last, but not least, a large number of very fine compositions for the organ, which greatly enjoy the favour of English organists.

JOHN GEORGE PATEY.

We regret to record the death of John George Patey, who died at Falmouth on the 4th ult., aged sixty-six Born at Stonehouse, Devonshire, in 1835, the son of a clergyman, he was educated for the medical profession, but forsook it for music. After studying at Paris and Milan he appeared, in the year 1858, at Drury Lane Theatre as a baritone singer in an English version of 'Martha.' He was a capital actor, and for several seasons he took leading operatic parts as a member of the Pyne and Harrison Company, and did useful work in oratorio and on the concert platform. He married, in 1866, Miss Whytock, who, as Madame Patey, owed not a little to the vocal teaching of her husband. In 1888, Mr. Patey joined Mr. Willis in founding the music-publishing firm bearing their joint names. Since the tragically sudden death of Madame Patey at Sheffield, February 28, 1893, Mr. Patey had lived in comparative retirement.

Mr. George Frederick Tendall, Organist of Christchurch Cathedral, New Zealand, died in October last, aged fifty-six. He was formerly a pupil of Sir John Stainer's, and succeeded his fellow-pupil and friend, Sir George Martin, as organist to the Duke of Buccleuch at Dalkeith Palace. After holding a similar post at St. Peter's Church, Edinburgh, and taking his degree of Bachelor of Music at Oxford, Mr. Tendall, from considerations of health, emigrated to New Zealand twenty years ago, where he did excellent work and was most highly esteemed.

On the 4th ult., at his residence, 109, Belsize Road, N.W., after months of suffering borne with exemplary patience, Edwin Barnes, for thirty-nine years Organist and director of the choir at Holy Trinity Church, Paddington, and for forty-five years Professor of Music at the Asylum for the Blind, St. John's Wood, aged sixty-eight.

Correspondence.

HANDEL'S ORGAN CONCERTOS.

TO THE EDITOR OF 'THE MUSICAL TIMES.'

Sir,—There can hardly be a more interesting study than that of the well-known 'Six Concertos for the Organ and Harpsichord' by Handel; not only on account of the intrinsic beauty of the compositions themselves, but also by reason of the illustration afforded of the style of that age, and of the composer in particular. I name these first six concertos, because they seem to have been the only ones grouped together for publication by the composer, the other concertos having probably been collated by Mr. Best from scattered and adapted sources. These first six concertos were formerly, according to Dr. Burney, the works upon which, for a long period, the best organ players in England chiefly subsisted. The original edition and subsequent issues copied from it are mere 'skeleton copies'—for the most part consisting of a single treble and bass, with a few figures scattered here and there, but no attempt at a continuous figured bass. Upon the issue of Mr. Best's reading in three staves, at a time when organs of the C compass had been thoroughly accepted by English players, these six concertos became widely known. I should like to call attention to what appear to me to be discrepancies in this edition, which seems to be in use not only for solo performance, but also when an orchestra is combined with the solo instrument. I do so with the idea of eliciting the opinions of some who are well qualified to judge, rather than as an endeavour to advocate my own view of the matter.

I will take only Concerto No. 2 in B flat, the best known of the set, having before me the original edition published by Walsh (which I will call No. 1), and Best's edition (which I will call No. 2). In edition No. 1, in the second movement, Allegro, bar 2, on the first and third beats, I submit the intended chords to be 6-3; but in edition No. 2 these chords are both displayed as 4-2 (hardly according with Handel's practice so well as the 6-3); the same in the piano reiteration of the passage in bar 15; also in bar 34, with the 'Tutti' in the dominant key; and wherever the same passage occurs. It is to be noted that in bar 74, where, in the key of C minor, the Neapolitan sixth occurs on the bass note F, the use of the 4-2 is precluded. Thus, in this passage (kindred to those previously named), the chord of the sixth has been forced upon the editor of No. 2. In bars 3 and 16, on the last half-beat, No. 2, the held F (a charming modern seventh) seems scarcely Handelian, or authorized in No. 1.

In the fourth movement, Allegro ma non Presto, bar 2 shows the same discrepancy between what I have assumed to be a 6-3 in No. 1 and a 4-2 in No. 2 edition; but in the reiteration of the passage in bar 18, the 6-3 for the first time appears in No. 2. In bar 70, on beat 3, the E is marked natural. Is there any authority in No. 1 for this (the signature remaining uncontradicted), or any musical necessity for the employment of the accidental?

It is possible that some of your readers may add remarks of interest as regards this and the other concertos.—Yours, &c.,

Dec. 13, 1901. T. L. Forbes.

Brief Summary of Country and Colonial News.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this summary, as all the notices are either collated from the local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

Barnstaple.—The Musical Festival Society gave a concert in the Music Hall on the 2nd ult., when Mendelssohn's Psalm 'Come, let us sing' and Stanford's 'The Revenge' were performed. The choir sang with excellent effect, and the orchestra was fully equal to the demands made upon it. Dr. H. J. Edwards conducted with his accustomed ability, and also played the solo part in Mendelssohn's Pianoforte Concerto in G minor, the baton being in this instance in the hands of Dr. Gardner. Miss E. Truscott and Mr. H. Grover were the solo vocalists.

Barrow-in-Furness.—The Choral Society performed Rossini's 'Stabat Mater' and a miscellaneous selection (including Eaton Faning's 'Song of the Vikings,' and Handel's Coronation Anthem, 'Zadok the Priest') in the Town Hall, on November 26. The band and choir consisted of 130 performers, and the solo vocalists were Miss Evangeline Florence, Miss Lones, Mr. William Wild, Mr. S. Garrett, and Mr. F. Gabriel.

Chichester.—The Musical Society gave a performance of Mendelssohn's 'Athalie' and Parry's 'De Profundis' at the Corn Exchange, on the 9th ult. The choir sang with excellent attack and expression, reflecting much credit on the conductor, Dr. F. J. Read; and the orchestra, including, as it did, Mr. Alfred Burnett (leader), Messrs. H. Trust, A. C. White, and other well-known players from London, was admirable. The solo vocalists were Miss Cicely Gleeson-White (who gave a powerfully dramatic rendering of the leading soprano part), Miss Ruth Robinson, and Miss Marian Brown. Mr. Charles Fry recited the verses as on many other occasions.

Chorlton-cum-Hardy.—On the 8th ult., at the Wesleyan Church, Mendelssohn's 'Hymn of Praise' was sung by the united choirs of this and the Congregational Church. The solo parts were effectively sung by Miss Lillie Wormald, Mrs. J. W. Blackstock, and Mr. Robert Cockran. The choir gave a very satisfactory rendering of the choruses. Mr. James Hindle presided at the organ, and Mr. G. F. Walter (organist of the Congregational Church) conducted.

Coventry.—The first annual Choir Festival was held in Holy Trinity Church on November 24. The morning service was Attwood in F, and the anthem Mendelssohn's 'As the hart pants.' At a special afternoon service Brahms's 'How lovely,' Gounod's 'By Babylon's Wave,' and Handel's 'The Lord is a man of war,' was sung. The evening service was Mr. C. H. Moody's Festival Setting in A, and the anthem 'Mendelssohn's 'Hear my Prayer.'——The Festival Choir commenced their third season in Holy Trinity Church, on the 12th ult., with a most praiseworthy rendering of Mozart's 'Requiem.' The principal vocalists were Miss Annie Warden, Miss Florrie Cooper, Mr. T. Green, and Mr. Philip Wilks. Dr. Allen, of New College, Oxford, was the organist, and Mr. B. Lines the pianist. The work was sung in Latin, and both principals and chorus acquitted themselves most ably. Mr. C. H. Moody conducted.

Dover.—A very successful performance of Mendelssohn's 'Elijah' was given by the Choral Union on November 26. The principal solo vocalists were Miss Stanley Lucas, Miss Gertrude Lonsdale, Mr. James Leyland, and Mr. Charles Knowles. The band, with Mr. E. W. Barclay as leader, and chorus numbered upwards of 160. Mr. H. J. Taylor conducted.

Exeter.—On November 28, Dr. Garrett's Cantata 'The Two Advents' was sung at St. Sidwell's Church. The choir acquitted themselves with credit, under the direction of Mr. Allan Allen, the organist and choirmaster. The soloists were Mrs. Cissie Herbert, Miss Amy Graddon, and Dr. Ferris Tozer. A feature of the service was the performance of Merkel's Organ Duet Sonata in D minor by Dr. Ferris Tozer and Mr. Allan Allen.—— The Oratorio Society gave an excellent performance of Haydn's 'Creation' and Stanford's 'Last Post,' at the Victoria Hall, on the 13th ult. The choir and orchestra were worthy of high praise, both in Dr. Stanford's cantata, which opened the programme, and in the oratorio. The solo vocalists in the latter work were Madame Emily Squire, Mr. Gwilym Richards, and Mr. Watkin Mills. Dr. H. J. Edwards, who conducted, had his forces under excellent control throughout.

Hereford.—The Choral Society gave a performance of Handel's 'Acis and Galatea,' in the Shire Hall, on November 26. Both choir and orchestra acquitted themselves admirably under Dr. Sinclair's spirited direction, the choir being specially excellent in the choruses 'Happy we,' 'Wretched lovers,' and 'Mourn all ye muses.' The solo vocalists, Madame Sobrino, Mr. Vivian Bennetts, and Mr. Ineson were a highly capable trio. The miscellaneous selection which followed included a madrigal for six voices, 'Spring, the sweet Spring,' by the Rev. W. D. V. Duncombe, and Beethoven's Romance in F, for violin and orchestra, the solo part being remarkably well played by Miss Evangeline Anthony, a youthful violinist whose efforts were enthusiastically rewarded. The concert was altogether very successful.

Hobart.—The first subscription concert of the newly-formed Philharmonic Society took place in the Town Hall on October 29, when a somewhat ambitious programme was undertaken, including Beethoven's Symphony in C major and Felicien David's 'The Desert.' In the former work the orchestra (led by Mr. W. G. Tucker) came through the ordeal successfully, and both choir and orchestra were fully efficient in David's descriptive cantata. The solo vocalists in this work were Mrs. Holden, Miss Gill, and Mr. James Dean, and the verses illustrating the story were recited by Mr. A. E. Shakespeare. Mr. Bradshaw Major, who conducted, may be congratulated on his efforts to establish good music here.

Horsham.—The Musical Society gave their first concert of the season on November 27, when 'Hiawatha's Wedding-Feast' (Coleridge-Taylor), and 'The Bride' (A. C. Mackenzie) were performed. The tenor solo, 'Onaway, awake,' was finely sung by Mr. Gwilym Richards, who was joined in Mackenzie's cantata by Miss Minnie Cooper. The chorus sung with a great deal of spirit. Mr. A. P. Whitaker conducted.

Inverness.—The first concert given by the newly-established Philharmonic Society took place in the Music Hall, on the 5th ult., when Barnett's 'Ancient Mariner' formed the chief feature. The choir sang with excellent phrasing and expression, and the orchestra was very efficient, both reflecting great credit on their trainer and conductor, Mr. Whitehead. The solo vocalists were Mrs. Munro, Mrs. D. Logan, Mr. J. S. Jackson, and Mr. Alec Sinclair. The second part included Mendelssohn's Pianoforte Concerto in D minor, the solo part being played with much refinement by Mrs. Whitehead.

Leamington.—The Leamington Orchestral Society gave their first concert of the season on the 9th ult., when the following works were performed:—Mozart's Symphony in D major, No. 38; Grieg's Elegiac Melodies for Strings (Op. 34); Schubert's overture, 'Rosamunde'; Bizet's suite, 'L'Arlésienne'; and German's 'Nell Gwynne' Dances. The orchestra was heard to special advantage in the 'Rosamunde' overture. Mr. William Henley was the leader, and contributed two solos to the programme with much success, and Madame Siviter was the vocalist. Mr. Walter Warren conducted with his usual skill.

Llandudno.—On the 13th ult., Miss Margaret Thomas gave her Annual Chamber Concert at the Prince's Theatre, assisted by the following artists:—Miss Ira Aldridge (vocalist), Miss Florence Walton (harpist), M. H. Verbrugghen (violinist), and Mr. J. Walton (violoncellist). The programme included Beethoven's Trio in B flat (Op. 1, No. 1), and Grieg's Sonata in F, for pianoforte and violin.

Norwich.—Mr. W. M. Wait's missionary cantata 'St. Andrew' was excellently sung by the choir, with accompaniment of organ and brass instruments, at St. Andrew's Church, on Advent Sunday evening, the 1st ult., under the able conductorship of Dr. Frank Bates.

Petersham (N.S.W.).—Special services were held at the 31st anniversary of All Saints' Church on November 1, when the choir of the church was augmented by members of the choirs of St. James's, Sydney, St. Aidan's, Annandale, All Saints' Mission Church, and others. The anthems were Ouseley's 'It came even to pass,' and Dr. Gordon Saunders's 'The Lord is in His holy temple.' Gounod's 'Fourfold Amen' was sung after the Benediction. The choirmaster was Mr. W. T. Wood, and the organist Mr. W. Angus.——On the same evening a dedication service was held at St. John's, Ashfield, in connection with a memorial tower and peal of eight bells erected in memory of the late Canon Corlette. The special anthems were Spohr's 'How lovely are Thy dwellings fair,' and Elvey's 'I was glad.' Mr. Albert Fisher presided at the organ.

Portsmouth.—The Orchestral Society gave a concert on the 5th ult., with a very interesting programme which included Grieg's Concert Overture, 'In Autumn,' Rubinstein's Pianoforte Concerto in D minor, No. 4, Mendelssohn's 'Italian' Symphony, Weber's 'Oberon' Overture, and Coleridge-Taylor's Characteristic Waltzes. The orchestra, under the direction of Mr. W. E. Churcher, was excellent throughout, and Mr. Oliver King gave a very fine rendering of the solo part in the Concerto. Miss Cecile Elieson de Bobinsky contributed some violin solos, and the vocalists were Madame Hetta Stearn and Mr. Robert Maitland.——The Philharmonic Society's first concert of this season was signalized by the performance of Coleridge-Taylor's 'Scenes from the Song of Hiawatha' (complete) for the first time in this locality. The orchestra was fully efficient, and the singing of the choir reflected much credit on the training of Mr. Mark Gould, who conducted. The solo vocalists were Miss Maggie Purvis, Mr. Samuel Masters, and Mr. Frederic Ranalow.

Scarborough.—At the Concert of the Choral Union, November 26, Sir Frederick Bridge's 'Cradle of Christ' and Weber's 'Preciosa' were the chief features. The principal vocalists were Miss Teresa Blamy, who also recited the melodrama, and Mr. Joseph Lycett. Miss Ethel Horsley was the solo pianist. The programme included German's 'Coronation March' (Henry VIII.), and Mr. R. J. Pitcher conducted.

Stonehouse.— Mr. Frank Winterbottom's second Symphony Concert was given at the Town Hall on the 16th ult. The programme comprised Massenet's Overture, 'Phedre,' and Scènes Napolitaines; Bovet's String Quartet in D minor (Op. 14); Tschaïkowsky's Symphony 'Pathétique'; and Elgar's 'Chanson de Nuit' and 'Chanson de Matin.'

Tonbridge.—The Choral Society gave a performance of Van Bree's 'St. Cecilia's Day' on the 3rd ult., under the conductorship of Mr. H. J. Taylor. The miscellaneous part included several orchestral pieces and part-songs. Miss Esmé Atherden and Mr. Musgrove Tufnail were the solo vocalists.

Truro.—At the Philharmonic and Orchestral Society's concert, on the 12th ult., Coleridge-Taylor's Cantata 'Hiawatha's Wedding Feast' was the chief feature, the tenor solo being sung by Mr. J. C. Truscott. The programme included Mendelssohn's 'Son and Stranger' overture, and the chorus 'It comes from the misty ages' from Elgar's 'Banner of St. George.' The other solo vocalists were Miss Caro Fookes, Mrs. F. C. Perman and Mr. Edgar Butler, and violin solos were given by Mr. R. K. Worth, who also led the orchestra. Mr. Franklin J. Mountford conducted.

Wellington (New Zealand).—The second and third of a series of chamber concerts given by Mr. Maughan Barnett and Herr Max Hoppe, took place on October 3 and 17. The programme of the last concert included a pianoforte and violin Sonata by Hans Huber (Op. 42), Mendelssohn's E flat String Quartet (Op. 12), and pianoforte and violin solos by the concert-givers. Mr. Cyril Towsey acted as accompanist.

Answers to Correspondents.

C. J. B.—(1) Julius Reubke was born at Hausneindorf, Prussia, March 23, 1834, and died at Pillnitz, June 3, 1858. His works, which were published after his death, include a Pianoforte Sonata, a Scherzo in D minor, and Mazurka in E for pianoforte, and songs, in addition to the Sonata in C minor for the organ (the 94th Psalm). He was a good pianist as well as a gifted composer. (2) Organ arrangements of Tschaïkowsky's March Solennelle and the cantabile movement of the Sixth Symphony are published by Messrs. Novello. (3) The Largo of Handel is an arrangement, by Hellmesberger, of the air 'Ombra mai fù,' in the Opera of Serse, where it appears in the key of F, with an accompaniment of strings only. In it the singer invokes protection for her beloved tree, and asks if ever leaves were dearer or shade sweeter? Serse was one of Handel's latest Operas—he wrote 39 in all. He began it on the day after Christmas Day, 1737. Christmas was on a Sunday that year. He finished another Opera called Faramondo, on the Saturday, kept his Sunday and his Christmas Day in one, and set to work again on the Monday. At this time he was fifty-three years old, struggling with debt and difficulty, was a martyr to rheumatism, and had had more than a warning of paralysis.

G. H. T.—The following songs for a baritone voice are 'good in merit and class':—

Rage thou angry storm (Benedict); I am a roamer, from 'Son and Stranger' (Mendelssohn); Sword Song, from 'Caractacus' (Elgar); Come unto me (Coenen); She alone charmeth my sadness, from 'Irene' (Gounod); Don Juan's Serenade (Tschaïkowsky); O Star of Eve, from 'Tannhäuser' (Wagner); Thou'rt passing hence, my brother (Sullivan); The Wanderer (Schubert); Loyal Death (Stainer); A Border Ballad (Cowen).

The following songs have easy accompaniments:—Maiden Mine (Sterndale Bennett); Ould plaid shawl (B. Haynes); Thou whom my heart (Barnby); Rose Marie (Molloy); When I awake (Ellen Wright).

We also give, according to request, the titles of some good-class duets for baritone and mezzo-soprano, or soprano:—

Duets.—Constancy (Schumann); Spring of Love (Sieber); Love and Friendship, and False Love and True (Pinsuti); Still wie die Nacht (Carl Götze).

A Subscriber.—It is not the pitch of the music that has been raised in England during the last fifty years, but the instruments. Half a tone above Handel's pitch is well within the truth. There is happily a general tendency towards the adoption of a lower pitch in this country, except, unfortunately, as regards military bands.

Hoodwinked.—Yes, it is quite possible for an organist at a church to wear a hood which carries no weight with it except the material which forms its constituent parts. Such apparel of adornment has been called a falsehood, and the designation contains a good deal of truth.

J. M. F.—All the three clarinet quintets you name are procurable through Messrs. Novello—A. Romberg, Op. 57 (6s. net); A. Reicha, Op. 107 (5s. net); S. Neukomm, Op. 8 (8s. net)—parts only, not in score.

Violin Student.—We think the Königliche Hochschule für Musik, Berlin, or the Conservatoire at Cologne would be very suitable for the subsequent studies of the young lady in whom you are interested.

Scottish Orchestra.—Your question, on a subject which has naturally exercised a spell over you, is answered in the Occasional Notes section of the present issue.

A Reader.—The first part of 'He was despised' is in the key of E flat major; the second in the key of C minor, ending in G minor, before the repeat of the major section.

A. G.—The duet by Brahms, 'Es rauschet das Wasser' (Op. 28, No. 3), is published with German words only.

F. M. J.—A violin tutor, founded on the Sevcik method, is issued by Messrs. Bosworth and Co.

Baritone.—See reply to G. H. T.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO & CO., LIMITED.

BAIRSTOW, ED. C.—"Blessed be Thou, Lord God of Israel." Anthem. For Soli and Chorus. (No. 724. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 4d.

BAKER, ALFRED S.—"The desire of all nations." An unfinished Sacred Oratorio in Three Parts. The music composed for Solo Voices, Chorus, Orchestra, and Organ. 75 cents.

BELL, W. H.—"Sleep, sleep, mother's own pretty one." Lullaby. For Four Voices (S.A.T.B.). (No. 707. The Musical Times.) 1½d.

BERKELEY, JULIAN C.—(in A flat). Te Deum laudamus. 4d.

BOUNDY, KATE—"The Rival Flowers." An Operetta for Schools and Classes. Book of Words, 15s. per 100.

BREWER, A. HERBERT—"Triumphal Song." (No. 296. Original Compositions for the Organ.) 1s. 6d.

BUSBRIDGE, REV. VERNON A.—"Through the night of doubt and sorrow." Hymn. 1d.

CLEMSON, W. J.—(No. 3, in A flat). Easy Choral Communion Service. (No. 576. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 2d.

COLERIDGE-TAYLOR, S.—Toussaint L'Ouverture. For Orchestra. 1st Violin, 1s.; 2nd Violin, 1s.; Viola, 1s.; Violoncello, 1s. 6d.; Basso, 1s.

COOPER, HILDA—Two Christmas Carols: "Christmas Bells" and "O lovely voices of the sky." 3d.

ELGAR, EDWARD—Mazurka. (Op. 10, No. 1.) For Violin Solo with Pianoforte Accompaniment. Arranged from the Orchestral Score by the Composer. 2s.

FETHERSTON, REV. SIR GEORGE R.—"Soldiers of Christ, arise." Hymn. 2d.

GIBSON, HENRY—"Out of darkness." Trio. For Female voices (S.S.C.) (No. 331. Novello's Octavo Edition of Trios, Quartets, &c.) 3d.

——"Love flew down from the North." Trio. For Female voices (S.S.C.). (No. 332. Novello's Octavo Edition of Trios, Quartets, &c.) 3d.

GREAVES, DAVID W.—"The Blessed Trinity." Vesper Hymn. To precede or follow the Benediction. On Card. 1d.

HARRIS, CUTHBERT—"Sweet, if you love me." Glee. For A.T.T.B. (No. 351. The Orpheus.) 3d.

——"Good-night, good-night." Part-Song. For A.T.T.B. (No. 352. The Orpheus.) 3d.

LEHMANN, LIZA—Lead, kindly Light. Hymn. For Soprano Solo with Chorus. Chorus Parts, 3d. each.

LEMARE, EDWIN H.—Berceuse in D. (No. 13. Original Compositions for the Organ, by EDWIN H. LEMARE.) 1s. 6d.

MATTHEWS, T. R.—(in G). Te Deum laudamus. (No. 578. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 2d.

——(in E). Te Deum laudamus. (No. 579. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 2d.

——(in E flat). Benedictus. (No. 580. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 2d.

MENDELSSOHN-BARTHOLDY, F.—Six Pieces for the Pianoforte. Op. 72. Composed as a Christmas Present for his young friends. Edited and revised by A. ROSENKRANZ, and with Historical Notes by F. G. EDWARDS. 1s.

NOVELLO'S CHRISTMAS CAROLS:—

No. 312. Can man forget the story A. HERBERT BREWER 1d.
,, 313. Who are these from Bozrah faring ARTHUR M. GOODHART 1d.
,, 314. Morning dawns, the flocks are feeding H. DAVAN WETTON 1½d.

ROSSINI, G.—Overture to "William Tell." (No. 21. The Recital Series of Transcriptions for the Organ. By EDWIN H. LEMARE). 2s. 6d.

——"Stabat Mater." Cornetti. (Transposed from Trombe parts.) 1s.

SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW. No. 115. Contains the following Music in both Notations: "Three Kings once lived." Carol for Mezzo-Soprano and Chorus, S.S.A. (arranged). By FREDERIC H. COWEN. 1½d.

SCHOOL SONGS.—Edited by W. G. MCNAUGHT. Published in two forms. A. Voice Parts in Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, 8vo size; B. Voice Parts only in Tonic Sol-fa Notation.

		A.	B.
No. 562.	Manners. Action Song PERCY E. FLETCHER	1½d.	—
,, 584.	Good-night, farewell. Solos and Three-part Chorus ... ... GEORGE GARRETT	1½d.	1d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

TONIC SOL-FA SERIES. Edited by W. G. MCNAUGHT:—

No. 1242. Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, in D and A. From Service No. 2 ... ... J. STAINER 2d.

MACKENZIE, A. C.—"The Procession of the Ark." Choral Scene from the Oratorio "The Rose of Sharon." 9d.

WARRACK, JOHN—Six Songs. 2s.

WENDT, THEOPHIL—Air de Ballet, with Intermezzo. Arrangement for Violin and Pianoforte by the Composer. 2s.

WEST, E. ROBERTS—The National Anthem (Arranged.) On Card. 2d.

WHEELDON, H. A.—"Contemplation." (No. 295. Original Compositions for the Organ). 1s.

WILHELMJ, AUGUST, and JAMES BROWN—A Modern School for the Violin. (Book 4A. Fourth Book of Technical Practice). 2s. 6d.

WINNY, GEORGE F.—Kyrie Eleison, 1d. On Card, 1½d.

DEATH.—On the 3rd instant, at Lyndhurst, St. Helen's Road, Hastings, CHARLES LOCKEY, Vicar-Choral of St. Paul's, and Gentleman of H.M. Chapels Royal (retired). Aged 81. No cards.

NATIONAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC, LTD.

Patrons: THE DUCHESS OF MARLBOROUGH, Madame PATTI, &c.
Warden: Dr. TINDALL, A.T.C.L.
Exams., January. Local (four grades). Diplomas (A.N.C.M., L.N.C.M., F.N.C.M.) and Medals.
Music published practically free through exchanges.
Members wanted; great advantages.
W. J. MOSS, Sec., 192, Sutherland Avenue, Maida Vale, W.

MASTER ARTHUR SMITH
(Prize-Boy Soprano Vocalist)
Winner of Royal National Eisteddfod, 1900, & numerous other Prizes.

MR. J. H. WILLIAMS
The popular Prize-Tenor of the North of England and Scottish Concerts. Terms, &c., 38, St. Domingo Grove, Liverpool.

MR. J. G. BLANCHARD
(Principal Tenor, Italian Church, Hatton Garden).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Address, 41, Savernake Road, N.W.

MR. GEO. H. PERRINS (Tenor)
The Cathedral, Hereford.
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address as above.

MR. CHARLES KNOWLES
(BARITONE)
Of the Leeds, London, Sheffield, and Chester Festivals.
Queen's Hall Promenade and Symphony Concerts.
Crystal Palace and principal Provincial Concerts.

BELFAST PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.—"ST. PAUL."—"Mr. Charles Knowles must have been a delighted surprise to many. If he has not already come he is the coming man. His voice is of rich quality, and his music was excellently interpreted and with fine dramatic effect. . . . An exceedingly fine exposition of the air 'Consume them all' was given by Mr. Knowles; again, in 'O God, have mercy,' he distinguished himself . . . Mr. Knowles sang all his music with such excellent effect that we hope we shall have him back again ere long."—Belfast Newsletter, Nov. 16, 1901.

DOVER CHORAL UNION.—"ELIJAH."—"With the opening recit. by Mr. Charles Knowles we found that he, upon whom fell the bulk of the work, was in splendid voice, singing with magnificent expression and fine effect the music of the Prophet. . . . Mr. Knowles was a host in himself. Over and over again his fine bass voice rang out, and in the air 'Is not His word' particularly did he captivate his audience."—Dover Observer, Nov. 30, 1901.

DUNDEE CHORAL UNION.—"MESSIAH."—"Mr. Charles Knowles created a very favourable impression. His voice is powerful, and he has framed his methods of vocalisation upon excellent models; alike in the tender air 'But who may abide' and the bravura air, 'Why do the nations,' Mr. Knowles proved himself a most capable artist."—Dundee Advertiser, Dec. 17, 1901.

"The bass was Mr. Charles Knowles, who has a fine voice of considerable power, and whose style is manly and straightforward. All his numbers were well sung, notably 'But who may abide' and 'Why do the nations.'"—Dublin Evening Telegraph, Dec. 17, 1901.

"Mr. Knowles sang with all possible point. His 'Why do the nations,' was a fine effort and was much appreciated; and 'The people that walked' was given with distinct effectiveness and success."—Dundee Courier, Dec. 17, 1901.

ABERDEEN MUSICAL INSTITUTE.—"Mr. Charles Knowles was the bass. His strong, powerful voice proved admirable in the air 'Why do the nations.'"—Aberdeen Free Press, Dec. 19, 1901.

"Mr. Charles Knowles was at his best in 'Why do the nations.'"—Aberdeen Daily Journal, Dec. 19, 1901.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE VOCAL SOCIETY.—"ST. PAUL."—"Mr. Charles Knowles has been heard here before, and there is no need to speak of his voice and method. Suffice it to say that his singing was worthy of his reputation."—Newcastle Chronicle, Dec. 13, 1901.

"Mr. Charles Knowles sang the bass solos in excellent voice and with great acceptance."—Newcastle Daily Journal, Dec. 13, 1901.

For terms, &c., address—
24, Acacia Road, St. John's Wood, London, N.W.

CONTENTS.

	Page
To our Readers	9
Henry Coward (with Special Portrait)	9
A Pictorial Libel (Illustrated)	16
Music at the last Coronation (with Portrait)	18
Occasional Notes	22
A Newcastle Music-Making (Illustrated)	24
The Original Tenor in Mendelssohn's 'Elijah' (with Portrait)	28
Church and Organ Music	30
Reviews	31
Kocián Concert	34
Dr. Edward Elgar's 'Dream of Gerontius' at Düsseldorf	34
Dr. Philipp Wolfrum's 'Weihnachtsmysterium' at Worcester	39
The Music Schools	39
London Concerts, &c.	40
Music in America	41
,, Vienna	41
,, Aberdeen	42
,, Belfast	42
,, Birmingham	42
,, Bristol and District	43
,, Dublin	43
,, East Anglia	43
,, Edinburgh	44
,, Glasgow	44
,, Gloucester and District	44
,, Liverpool and District	45
,, Manchester	45
,, Northumberland and Durham	45
,, Nottingham and District	46
,, Oxford	46
,, Sheffield and District	47
,, Staffordshire	47
,, Yorkshire	47
Choral and Orchestral Societies	49
Miscellaneous	50
Foreign Notes	50
Obituary	52
Correspondence	52
Brief Summary of Country and Colonial News	53
Answers to Correspondents	54
Music published during the last Month	55
Lullaby. For Four Voices—'Sleep, sleep, mother's own pretty one.'—W. H. Bell	35
Four-part Song.—'The Singers' (In Memoriam—Arthur Sullivan). —A. C. Mackenzie.—(Extra Supplement).

THREE Extra Supplements are given with this number: (1) A Portrait of Dr. Henry Coward, by Mr. H. Jasper Redfern, Sheffield; (2) Facsimile of a Handelian Recitative in Mendelssohn's Autograph; (3) A Four-part Song, 'The Singers' (In Memoriam—Arthur Sullivan), by A. C. Mackenzie.

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	3	0
Three Lines	0	3	4
For every additional Line	0	0	10
Half a Column	2	0	0
A Column	4	0	0
A Page	7	10	0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.
A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To ensure insertion in proper position Advertisements for the next issue should reach the Office NOT LATER THAN THE TWENTIETH of this Month.

SIR HERBERT OAKELEY'S ANTHEM, "THIS IS THE DAY WHICH THE LORD HATH MADE," was sung at the recent Enthronement of the Bishop of Durham, and, having words containing special reference to such occasions, the anthem was selected for the Enthronement of Archbishop Tait and of the present Bishop of Winchester. SCHOTT AND CO. 8vo, 4d.

EVERY ORGANIST should send for DINHAM, BLYTH & CO.'S Specimens and Price List (free) for Lithographing Anthems, Kyries, Hymn Tunes, &c., from twenty-four Copies and upwards. 27, Fenchurch Street, London. Established 1872.

Now ready. Price 1s. each. Post-free.

THE TENOR VOICE AND ITS TRAINING. By E. DAVIDSON PALMER, Mus. Bac., Oxon. Revealing the Secret of Voice-Production. THE BOY'S VOICE AT THE BREAKING PERIOD. By E. DAVIDSON PALMER, Mus. Bac., Oxon. Showing how Nature develops her best Voices. May be obtained from the AUTHOR, 28, Digby Road, Finsbury Park, N.; or, from Joseph Williams, Ltd., 32, Great Portland Street, W.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

PUBLISHED ON THE 1ST OF EVERY MONTH. Price 1½d. ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION, INCLUDING POSTAGE, 2S.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW FOR JANUARY CONTAINS:—

GENERAL NOTES.
THE HARMONIZATION OF MELODIES IN FOUR VOCAL PARTS. By CUTHBERT HARRIS—(continued).
SIR JOHN STAINER AND TONIC SOL-FA.
SCHOOL CONCERTS.
SCHOOL CHOIR COMPETITIONS AT THE CAPE.
A FRENCH HYMN. By J. STAINER.
SCHOOL SIGHT-SINGING READER—BOTH NOTATIONS.
LECTURE ON THE 1901 CODE (MUSIC).
A DRAWING-ROOM CLASS EXAMINATION.
DEATH OF MR. CHARLES LOCKEY.
CHORAL PIECES CHOSEN FOR 1902 COMPETITIONS.
MISCELLANEOUS.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

THE JANUARY NUMBER CONTAINS THE FOLLOWING MUSIC:—
"BLOW, GENTLE GALES." Arranged for S.S.A. By Sir HENRY BISHOP.
Also, EXTRA SUPPLEMENT, containing "Glory and love to the men of old." Soldiers' Chorus, from "Faust." By CHARLES GOUNOD. (No. 463 of Novello's School Songs. Price 1d.)

The Music and Exercises can always be obtained separately. Price 1½d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

MR. ALBERT DERRICK
(TENOR)
(Pupil of Mr. Albert Visetti, Royal College of Music).
For Oratorio, Concerts, &c.
Address, 448, Harrow Road, W.

MR. ARTHUR SEDGLEY
(BASS).
For Oratorio, Opera, and Ballad Concerts.
For terms, &c., apply, 51, Worcester Street, Wolverhampton.

MISS CHARLOTTE DICKENS (Soprano), (R.A.M., Med., &c.). Concerts, At Homes, Oratorio, Opera, Lessons. 10, Ashchurch Park Villas, Ravenscourt Park, W. "Interpreted the music with skill and confidence."—Daily Telegraph.

MASTER GILBERT HOLDSWORTH, the Yorkshire Boy Soprano (late Soloist at Leeds Parish Church). For Oratorios, Glee Societies, Ballad Concerts, and Church Festivals. Address, 104, Holland Road, Kensington, W.

SOLO TENOR WANTED, for St. Stephen's, South Kensington. Two attendances Sunday. Rehearsal, Friday evenings. Usual Festivals. £30. Address, stating experience, Dr. Hamilton Robinson, 25, Palliser Road, West Kensington, W.

BASS WANTED, for St. Botolph's, Aldersgate, E.C. £10. Apply, W. E. Mansell.

TO VOCALISTS, INSTRUMENTALISTS and CHORAL SOCIETIES.—Miss SLOCOMBE, an experienced Accompanist (and Gold Medalist), accepts Engagements for same in public, or for private practice. Terms, apply to 3, Agamemnon Road, West Hampstead, N.W.

TUNER desires SITUATION. Experienced in out-door work. American Organs, &c. P. F. W., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, an ENGAGEMENT as COMPANION and ACCOMPANIST to Professional Lady. Experienced. Good references. Disengaged third week in January. B. M. E., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

ACCOMPANIST, daughter of Professor of Music, desires ENGAGEMENT, practice or otherwise, preferably with violinist or 'cellist. Has had much experience with violinist. Read anything at sight. Recommendation from Mr. HENRY BIRD. Miss N., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

TWO-MANUAL and PEDAL ORGANS, at Bargain Prices for Cash. A 160-guinea "Bell," 2 manuals and pedals, for 65 guineas; a £276 two-manual and pedal "Mason and Hamlin," 23 stops, 13 sets, 75 guineas; a three-manual and pedal ditto, 21 sets, 30 stops; a two-manual Harmonium, 18 stops, 11 sets, 18 guineas; a two-manual and pedal "Snell" Organ, 21 guineas. Also several large Organs and Harmoniums, by Estey, Bell, Karn, Alexandre, &c., at one-third usual price. Every instrument guaranteed. Packing or carriage free. Inspection invited. Messrs. Stagg and Sons, 56, Red Lion Street, Holborn.

CHURCH ORGAN, by RENATUS HARRIS, 1684, judiciously restored. CC to A. Great, 13 registers; Swell, 12; Choir, 11; Pedal, 6 (pneumatic); Couplers, 7; Composition pedal, 11. Apply, Arthur Glasspoole, Wymondham, Norfolk.

AMATEUR COMPOSERS can have copies of their Compositions lithographed, for private circulation or otherwise, from 24 copies and upwards. Mention specimen required (free). Dinham, Blyth and Co., 27, Fenchurch Street, London. Established 1872.

MUSIC FOR LENT.

THE STORY OF THE CROSS

FOR VOICES AND ORGAN
FOUR SETTINGS
With Short Interludes, giving opportunity for Meditation
THE WORDS BY
THE REV. E. MONRO
SET TO MUSIC BY
J. STAINER
MYLES B. FOSTER
ARTHUR SOMERVELL
AND
J. VARLEY ROBERTS.

Price Threepence each setting. Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.
Words only, price 1s. 6d. per 100.
Large Type Edition, 2s. 6d. per 100.

HANES Y GROES

CYFEITHIEDIG GAN
CANON WILLIAMS (CAERFYRDDIN)
Y GERDDORIAETH GAN
SYR JOHN STAINER.

Threepence, Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.
Welsh words only, 1s. 6d. per 100.
Large Type Edition, 2s. 6d. per 100.

THE CRUCIFIXION

A MEDITATION
ON THE
Sacred Passion of the Holy Redeemer
THE WORDS SELECTED AND WRITTEN BY THE
REV. W. J. SPARROW-SIMPSON, M.A.
SET TO MUSIC BY
J. STAINER.

Vocal Score, paper cover, 1s. 6d.; paper boards, 2s.
Tonic Sol-fa, Ninepence.
Words only, with Hymn Tunes, 2d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.
Words, complete, 10s. per 100; Words of Hymns, 5s. per 100.

THE LAST NIGHT AT BETHANY

A SHORT CHURCH CANTATA
THE WORDS WRITTEN AND COMPILED BY
JOSEPH BENNETT
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
C. LEE WILLIAMS.

Price 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d.
Tonic Sol-fa, One Shilling.
String Parts, 8s. 6d.; Wind Parts, 15s. 6d.; Full Score, MS.
Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

SAVIOUR OF THE WORLD

A SACRED CANTATA
THE WORDS WRITTEN AND ARRANGED FROM HOLY SCRIPTURE BY FREDERIC E. WEATHERLY, M.A.
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
ARTHUR E. DYER,
Mus. Doc., Oxon.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

THE CROSS OF CHRIST

CANTATA FOR LENT AND PASSION-TIDE
WORDS SELECTED FROM THE HOLY SCRIPTURES, INTERSPERSED WITH APPROPRIATE HYMNS, BY
W. MAURICE ADAMS
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
THOMAS ADAMS
(Organist and Director of the Music at St. Alban's, Holborn).

Price One Shilling.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, price Sixpence.
Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

Also, separately from the above,

NEARER, MY GOD, TO THEE

Anthem for Soprano Solo and Chorus.
Price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.

GETHSEMANE

A CHURCH CANTATA
THE WORDS WRITTEN AND COMPILED BY
JOSEPH BENNETT
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
C. LEE WILLIAMS.

Price Two Shillings.
Paper boards, Two Shillings and Sixpence.
Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.
String Parts, 10s. 6d. Wind Parts and Full Score, MS.

IS IT NOTHING TO YOU

AN EASY CANTATA
For use during the Season of Lent, and on Good Friday, specially adapted for Country Choirs
BY THE
REV. E. V. HALL, M.A.

Price Eightpence. Tonic Sol-fa, Threepence.
Words, with Music to the Hymns, price Twopence.

PASSION MUSIC

FROM THE ORATORIO "ST. PETER"
BY
SIR JULIUS BENEDICT.

Vocal Score, One Shilling and Sixpence.

FOR GOOD FRIDAY.

PARAPHRASE

OF THE
ANIMA CHRISTI
"SOUL OF JESU, MAKE ME HOLY"
SET TO MUSIC BY
W. H. STOCKS.

Price Three-Halfpence.

LEAD, KINDLY LIGHT

HYMN BY
JOHN HENRY NEWMAN
THE TUNE COMPOSED BY
C. H. PURDAY.

Price One Penny.

'TIS THE SPRING OF SOULS TO-DAY

FESTIVAL ANTHEM
COMPOSED BY
E. H. LEMARE.

Price, One Shilling.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

NOVELLO'S ANTHEMS FOR LENT.

*All ye who weep	Ch. Gounod	3d.
And Jacob was left alone	J. Stainer	6d.
*Art thou weary	C. H. Lloyd	6d.
*As pants the hart	Spohr	1½d.
Behold two blind men	J. Stainer	3d.
Be merciful unto me	H. Purcell	6d.
Be merciful unto me	E. A. Sydenham	3d.
Be not Thou far from me, O God	F. W. Hird	1½d.
Blessed are they that mourn	A. W. Batson	3d.
Blessed Jesu, Fount of Mercy	Antoon Dvorák	6d.
*Bow down Thine ear	Attwood	1½d.
*Bow down Thine ear, O Lord	W. Beale	1½d.
*Bow Thine ear, O Lord	W. Byrd	3d.
*By Babylon's wave	Ch. Gounod	6d.
By the waters of Babylon	W. Boyce	4d.
By the waters of Babylon	H. Clarke	4d.
*By the waters of Babylon	S. Coleridge-Taylor	3d.
Call to remembrance	J. Battishill	6d.
*Call to remembrance	R. Farrant	1½d.
*Cast thy burden upon the Lord	Mendelssohn	1½d.
*Come, and let us return (Two-part Anthem)	G. A. Macfarren	2d.
*Come, and let us return	J. Goss	3d.
*Come, and let us return	W. Jackson	3d.
Come, let us worship	Palestrina	1½d.
*Come now, and let us reason together	R. Briant	1½d.
Come now, let us reason together	H. W. Wareing	4d.
*Come unto Him	Ch. Gounod	2d.
Come unto Me	J. S. Bach	3d.
Come unto Me	H. R. Couldrey	3d.
Come unto Me	G. J. Elvey	3d.
Come unto Me	H. Hiles	2d.
Come unto Me	M. Kingston	1½d.
Come unto Me	J. S. Smith	1½d.
*Comfort, O Lord	W. Crotch	1½d.
Comfort the soul of Thy servant (A.T.T.B.)	J. E. West	4d.
Create in me a clean heart	Percy J. Fry	3d.
Daughters of Jerusalem	G. J. Elvey	1½d.
Daughters of Jerusalem	H. J. King	3d.
*Enter not into judgment	T. Attwood	1½d.
Flee from evil	W. J. Clarke	3d.
For our offences	Mendelssohn	1½d.
From the deep	Spohr	6d.
Give ear, O Lord	C. Oberthür	1½d.
*Give ear, O Lord	T. M. Wilson	2d.
Give ear, O Shepherd of Israel	A. Whiting	3d.
Give ear unto my prayer	J. Arcadelt	1½d.
God's Peace is peace eternal	Grieg	3d.
*God so loved the world	J. Goss	1½d.
*God so loved the world	M. Kingston	1½d.
*God so loved the world	J. V. Roberts	3d.
*God so loved the world	J. Stainer	1½d.
Grant, we beseech Thee	J. Booth	1½d.
Grant, we beseech Thee	M. Elvey	2d.
Grant, we beseech Thee	J. V. Roberts	3d.
Have mercy upon me, O God	J. Goss	4d.
Have mercy upon me	J. Barnby	3d.
Have mercy upon me	K. J. Pye	3d.
Have mercy upon me	J. Shaw	3d.
Have mercy upon me	J. White	1½d.
*Hear me when I call	King Hall	1½d.
Hear me when I call (A.T.T.B.)	T. Distin	2d.
*Hear my prayer	J. Kent	3d.
*Hear my prayer	Mendelssohn	4d.
Hear my prayer	C. Stroud	4d.
Hear my prayer	Winter	1½d.
Hear, O Lord	J. Goss	2d.
Hear, O Thou Shepherd	J. Clarke-Whitfeld	4d.
Hear, O Thou Shepherd	T. A. Walmisley	4d.
*Hear the voice and prayer	J. L. Hopkins	1½d.
Hear us, O Saviour	M. Hauptmann	1½d.
He in tears that soweth	F. Hiller	1½d.
Hide not Thy Face	K. J. Pye	2d.
How long wilt Thou	Oliver King	2d.
*Hymn of Peace	W. H. Callcott	1½d.
*I came not to call the righteous	C. Vincent	3d.
If any man sin	H. Hiles	1½d.
*Incline Thine ear	Himmel	1½d.
In Thee, O Lord	S. Coleridge-Taylor	3d.
*In Thee, O Lord	B. Tours	3d.
In Thee, O Lord	J. Weldon	3d.
*Is it nothing to you? (S.A.T.B.)	M. B. Foster	3d.
*Is it nothing to you? (for S.A.)	M. B. Foster	3d.
I will arise	C. Wood	1½d.
I will cry unto God	C. Steggall	3d.
*I will look unto the Lord (Two-part Anthem)	G. A. Macfarren	2d.
I wrestle and pray	J. C. Bach	4d.
Jesus of Nazareth (Turbarum voces)	W. Byrd	4d.
*Jesu, Blessed Word of God	Ch. Gounod	1½d.
Jesu, Lord of life and glory	G. A. Naumann	1½d.
Jesu, Saviour, I am Thine	B. Steane	1½d.
*Jesu, Word of God Gounod, Hoyte, Mozart, and White	each	1½d.
Judge me, O God	Mendelssohn	4d.
Judge me, O God	F. A. G. Ouseley	1½d.
Lead, kindly Light	R. Dunstan	3d.
Lead, kindly Light	C. L. Naylor	4d.
*Lead, kindly Light	Pughe-Evans	3d.
*Lead, kindly Light	J. Stainer	4d.
*Lead me, Lord	S. S. Wesley	1½d.
Let my complaint (A.A.T.T.B.B.)	E. H. Thorne	3d.
Let the words of my mouth	J. Barnby	1½d.
Let the words of my mouth	H. Blair	1½d.
Let the words of my mouth	A. D. Culley	3d.
Let us come boldly	C. H. Lloyd	1½d.
Like as the hart	T. Adams	3d.
*Like as the hart	V. Novello	1½d.
*Lord, for Thy tender mercies' sake	R. Farrant	1½d.
Lord, for Thy tender mercies' sake	G. R. Vicars	1½d.
Lord, how are they increased	Kent	2d.
Lord, how long wilt Thou forget me	Mendelssohn	1½d.
Lord, I call upon Thee Ouseley, West, and Culley	each	1½d.
Lord, on our offences	Mendelssohn	1½d.
Lord, teach us to number our days (A.A.T.T.B.B.)	C. H. Lloyd	3d.
Lord, Thou hast searched	A. Whiting	3d.
Make me a clean heart	J. Barnby	3d.
Make me a clean heart	A. W. Batson	5d.
Mine eyes look unto Thee, O Lord God	H. Baker	3d.
My God, I love Thee	G. J. Bennett	3d.
My God, look upon me	J. L. Hopkins	3d.
*My God, look upon me	J. Reynolds	1½d.
My soul is weary	J. C. Beckwith	4d.
*O bountiful Jesu	J. Stainer	1½d.
O come near to the Cross	Ch. Gounod	8d.
O day of penitence	Ch. Gounod	6d.
O God, Thou hast cast us out	H. Purcell	4d.
O God, Whose nature	A. Gray	1½d.
O have mercy	H. Leslie	1½d.
O Jesu! Victim blest	J. B. Powell	3d.
*O Lamb of God	J. Barnby	3d.
O Lamb of God	G. E. Lake	1½d.
*O Lord, correct me	J. Coward	1½d.
O Lord, give ear	W. H. Cummings	2d.
O Lord, God of my salvation (A.T.T.B.B.)	E. Ford	4d.
O Lord God, Thou strength	J. Goss	1½d.
O Lord, look down	J. Battishill	3d.
*O Lord my God	C. Malan	1½d.
*O Lord my God	S. S. Wesley	1½d.
O Lord, rebuke me not	H. Lahee	1½d.
O most merciful	J. W. Elliott	1½d.
O saving Victim	W. A. C. Cruickshank	3d.
O saving Victim	Ch. Gounod	4d.
*O saving Victim	F. Koenig	1½d.
O saving Victim	Rossini	3d.
*O saving Victim	J. Stainer	2d.
O saving Victim	B. Tours	1½d.
*O Saviour of the world	J. Goss	1½d.
O Saviour of the world (A.T.T.B.)	J. V. Roberts	2d.
Out of the deep	F. E. Gladstone	3d.
Out of the deep	G. C. Martin	6d.
Out of the deep	Mozart	1½d.
Out of the deep	J. Naylor	4d.
Out of the deep	H. Walford Davies	4d.
*Ye that love the Lord	S. Coleridge-Taylor	3d.
O ye that love the Lord	F. A. W. Docker	4d.
O ye that love the Lord	J. W. Elliott	1½d.
O ye that love the Lord	G. J. Elvey	4d.
O ye that love the Lord	H. W. Wareing	3d.
Ponder my words, O Lord	A. D. Culley	1½d.
*Remember not, Lord	H. Purcell	1½d.
*Remember now thy Creator	C. Steggall	4d.
Remember, O Lord	T. A. Walmisley	4d.
*Rend your heart	J. Baldwin Calkin	1½d.
Rend your heart	J. Clippingdale	3d.
Rend your heart (Turn ye even to Me)	A. E. Godfrey	4d.
Save me, O God	C. S. Jekyll	1½d.
*Seek ye the Lord	C. Bradley	1½d.
Seek ye the Lord	H. Kinsey	3d.
*Seek ye the Lord	J. V. Roberts	3d.
Show me Thy ways	J. V. Roberts	3d.
Spare us, Lord, most holy	E. A. Sydenham	1½d.
*Teach me, O Lord	T. Attwood	1½d.
*Teach me, O Lord	B. Rogers	1½d.
Teach me Thy way	W. H. Gladstone	1½d.
Teach me Thy way, O Lord	Spohr	1½d.
*The Lord is nigh	W. H. Cummings	1½d.
*The path of the just	J. V. Roberts	1½d.
*There is a green hill far away	Ch. Gounod	4d.
*There is a green hill far away	Lord H. Somerset	1½d.
*The Reproaches (from the "Redemption")	Ch. Gounod	3d.
*The sacrifice of God	H. W. Wareing	1½d.
The sacrifices of God	H. Blair	1½d.
*The Story of the Cross Stainer, Somervell, Foster, and Roberts	each	3d.
Think, good Jesu	Mozart	6d.
Think not that they are blest alone	F. Brandeis	2d.
*Through peace to light	J. H. Roberts	3d.
Thus saith the Lord	G. M. Garrett	6d.
Try me, O God (A.T.T.B.)	A. D. Culley	2d.
Try me, O God	C. Wood	1½d.
Turbarum voces (Jesus of Nazareth)	W. Byrd	4d.
Turn Thee again, O Lord	T. Attwood	1½d.
*Turn Thy face from my sins	T. Attwood	1½d.
Turn Thy face from my sins	C. Steggall	4d.
*Turn Thy face from my sins	A. Sullivan	1½d.
Turn ye even to Me (Rend your heart)	A. E. Godfrey	4d.
Unto Thee have I cried	G. J. Elvey	3d.
Wash me thoroughly	S. S. Wesley	3d.
Watch ye and pray	G. R. Vicars	2d.
*Weary of earth	Ferris Tozer	1½d.
Whom the Lord loveth	C. Macpherson	3d.
Why art thou so vexed	C. Macpherson	2d.
Word of God Incarnate	Ch. Gounod	3d.
Ye who from His ways have turned	Mendelssohn	3d.

*Anthems marked thus * to be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d., 1½d., and 2d. each.*

MUSIC FOR LENT.

*THE PASSION OF OUR LORD. (According to St. Matthew.) J. S. BACH. Octavo, paper cover, 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.

*THE PASSION OF OUR LORD. (According to St. Matthew.) J. S. BACH. Abridged, as used at St. Paul's Cathedral. Octavo, 1s. 6d. Book of Words, with Music to the Chorales, 6d.

*THE PASSION OF OUR LORD. (According to St. John.) J. S. BACH. Octavo, paper cover, 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 4s.

*THE PASSION OF CHRIST. G. F. HANDEL. Octavo, 3s.; paper boards, 3s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 5s.

*THE PASSION OF OUR LORD. (The Seven Words of Our Saviour on the Cross.) J. HAYDN. Octavo 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 4s.

THE PASSION OF OUR LORD. (The Seven Words of Our Saviour on the Cross.) CH. GOUNOD. Octavo, 1s.

*THE PASSION OF OUR LORD. ("Der Tod Jesu.") C. H. GRAUN. Octavo, 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 4s.

THE PASSION OF OUR LORD. HEINRICH SCHÜTZ. Octavo, 1s.

*PASSION MUSIC (from the Oratorio "St. Peter"). By SIR JULIUS BENEDICT. Vocal Score, 1s. 6d.

*OUT OF DARKNESS. (Psalm cxxx.) For Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra. GEORGE HENSCHEL (Op. 30). 2s. 6d.

OUT OF DARKNESS (De Profundis). (Psalm cxxx.) For Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra. Composed by CH. GOUNOD. English or Latin words. Octavo, 1s.; paper boards, 1s. 6d.; Full Score, 15s.; String Parts, 4s. 6d.; Wind Parts, 7s.; Vocal Parts, 3s.

*ZION'S WAYS DO LANGUISH. Soprano Solo and Chorus, from "Gallia" (Motet). CH. GOUNOD. Octavo, 1s.

THE MISERERE, &c., as used in St. Paul's Cathedral Lenten Services. Arranged by J. STAINER. Octavo, 3d.

MISERERE MEI, DEUS. The Music composed by J. BARNBY. Octavo, 3d.

MISERERE MEI, DEUS. Set to the well-known Ancient Chant, as arranged and harmonised by VINCENT NOVELLO; from the Appendix to the Accompanying Harmonies to the Brief Directory of Plain-song, by the Rev. THOMAS HELMORE, M.A. Price 2d.

MISERERE MEI, DEUS. (Chant setting.) The Music composed by EDGAR PETTMAN. Price 1½d.

*Orchestral Parts of the works marked * can be had.*

THE BENEDICITE

SET TO MUSIC BY THE FOLLOWING MODERN COMPOSERS.

E. C. BAIRSTOW (on the plan of the Paragraph Psalter) ...	3d.
GEORGE J. BENNETT (in E flat)	1½d.
GEORGE J. BENNETT (in G)	1½d.
GEORGE J. BENNETT (in D)	3d.
W. T. BEST (in C). (Sol-fa, 1½d.)	3d.
HUGH BLAIR (in G)	1½d.
J. F. BRIDGE, JAMES TURLE, and Dr. HAYES	1½d
H. B. C.	1½d.
J. W. ELLIOTT (in G)	2d.
J. W. ELLIOTT (in G)	4d.
M. B. ELLIOTT (in G)	1½d.
R. B. ELLIOTT (in G)	1½d.
ALFRED J. EYRE (in E flat). (With a Quadruple Chant for the Te Deum)	2d.
ALFRED J. EYRE (No. 2, in F)	1½d.
MYLES B. FOSTER (in F, Chant Form)	4d.
PERCY H. FROST (in D)	2d.
HENRY GADSBY (in G, Chant Form)	1½d
C. R. GALE (in D)	1½d.
F. E. GLADSTONE (Chant Form)	3d.
F. E. GLADSTONE (Unison)	1½d.
A. E. GODFREY (in C)	3d.
A. E. GODFREY (No. 2, in G)	3d.
F. A. J. HERVEY (in A flat). From the Canticles (second set)	1½d.
W. HUGHES (in E flat)	1½d.
FREDERICK ILIFFE (No. 1, in E flat)	1½d.
E. H. LEMARE (in B flat)	3d.
C. HARFORD LLOYD	2d.
G. C. MARTIN (No. 1, in F; No. 2, in E flat; No. 3, in G) each	4d.
T. R. MATTHEWS (in E flat)	1½d.
C. E. MILLER (second setting)	2d.
EDGAR PETTMAN (No. 1, in C; No. 2, set to Double Chants)	2d.
EDGAR PETTMAN (in E flat)	1½d.
J. VARLEY ROBERTS (in B flat)	4d.
BOYTON SMITH (in A flat)	1½d.
CHAS. W. SMITH (in C). S.A.T.T.B., also simplified for S.A.T.B.	6d.
J. STAINER and B. BLAXLAND	1½d.
J. STAINER, R. DE LACY, A. GIBBS, and F. CHAMPNEYS ...	1½d.
J. STAINER, W. WINN, and F. WALKER	1½d.
J. STAINER (in D). From the Canticles (second set) ...	1½d.
C. HYLTON STEWART (on the plan of the Paragraph Psalter)	3d.
J. BARNBY	1½d.
JOHN FOSTER
MONTEM SMITH (two settings)
J. TURLE (two settings)
C. A. WICKES (two settings)
JOHN E. WEST (in G)	4d.
JOHN E. WEST (in C)	1½d.
G. H. WESTBURY (in A)	3d.
W. G. WOOD (in D)	1½d.
G. F. WRIGLEY (in G)	1½d.

MUSIC FOR EASTER.

HYMNS FOR EASTER.

J. BARNBY. CHRIST THE LORD IS RISEN TO-DAY	1½d.
J. LIONEL BENNETT. LIFT HIGH THE CROSS ... ... ((Words, 2/- per 100.)	3d.
W. T. BEST. JESUS CHRIST IS RISEN	3d.
J. B. CALKIN. LIGHT'S GLITT'RING MORN BEDECKS	1½d.
H. J. GAUNTLETT. UNTO THE PASCHAL VICTIM	1½d.
DR. IONS. JESUS CHRIST IS RISEN TO-DAY	1½d.
MENDELSSOHN. ALL BLESSING, HONOUR, GLORY, MIGHT. (Arranged by J. STAINER) (Words, 2/6 per 100)	1d.
V. NOVELLO. JESUS CHRIST IS RISEN TO-DAY	1½d.
NINE HYMNS WITH TUNES FROM "THE HYMNARY" ...	1d.
Christ the Lord is risen to-day ... ... G. J. Elvey.
Far be sorrow, tears, and sighing ... ... C. Steggall.
Welcome, happy morning! age to age shall say A. Sullivan.
Come, ye faithful, raise the strain ... ... A. Sullivan.
At the Lamb's high feast we sing ... ... German.
The day of Resurrection ... ... H. Smart.
Jesus Christ is risen to-day ... ... Ch. Gounod.
O Blessed Trinity ... ... Old Melody.
Soon the fiery sun ascending ... ... German.
J. STAINER. THIS IS THE DAY (Words, 2s. 6d. per 100.) ...	1d.

EASTER HYMN.

(MANE PRIMA SABBATI)

SET TO MUSIC FOR SOPRANO AND TENOR SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA (OR ORGAN)

BY GEORGE J. BENNETT.

Composed for the Festival of the Sons of the Clergy, St. Paul's Cathedral, 1895.

Price One Shilling.
Orchestral Parts, MS.

CAROLS FOR EASTER.

REV. T. HELMORE. CAROLS FOR EASTER-TIDE. Words, 1½d. Melody, 6d. ... ... Vocal score	1s.
J. T. FIELD. FOUR EASTER CAROLS	2d.
The Crown is on the Victor's brow.
Christ is risen!
Welcome, happy morning.
Easter flowers are blooming bright.
E. G. MONK. SING THE BATTLE SHARP AND GLORIOUS. Carol	1½d.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

Thirteenth and Fourteenth Thousand.

ALFRED R. GAUL'S

PASSION SERVICE

NEW SACRED WORK

FOR THE SEASON OF

LENT AND GOOD FRIDAY.

"Scholarly writing, combined with unmistakable talent, and eminently adapted to the purpose for which it was written and composed. The work will probably be largely used, and Mr. Gaul have to be congratulated upon another success."—Sheffield Independent.

"The course of sacred events connected with the Passion is laid out by the writer so as to form a series of six distinct 'scenes.' The subjects of these divisions, each occupied with a particular stage of the Mystery, are respectively—'The Traitor at the Table,' 'The Denial,' 'The Condemnation before Pilate,' 'The Mockery on Calvary,' 'The Shadow of Death,' and 'The Holy Sepulchre.' The style of the composition resembles generally that of Mr. Gaul's previous writings—the same effective, grateful part-writing, and the same expressive and melodious treatment of the solo voice. In those sections, notably that of the Unjust Condemnation, where the realistic element is predominant, the composer has manifested his ability to write with dramatic force and intensity as well as with lyric charm. In this respect the choral writing distinguished itself in comparison with that in the 'Holy City,' and other of the composer's works. Mr. Gaul has not written new hymn tunes for the author's lyrics; the tunes selected are from among those in ordinary congregational use. Altogether considered, Mr. Gaul's new work will, undoubtedly, greatly enhance his already high reputation in the line of sacred composition."—Musical Standard.

Price, paper cover, 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.; scarlet cloth, 4s.
Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.
The loan of Orchestral Parts on application to the COMPOSER.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CHURCH MUSIC

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, MUS.D., CANTAB.

SERVICES.

Te Deum in A. Four Voices	3d.
Benedicite in E and F ... ... each	2d.
Benedictus in A	3d.
Jubilate in A	3d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in A	3d.
Do. do. Tonic Sol-fa	1½d.

ANTHEMS.

Lead me in my trouble (Lent)	3d.
The Story of the Cross (,,)	2d.
The Good Shepherd (Easter)	3d.
If we believe (,,)	4d.
Do. Tonic Sol-fa	1½d.

PART-SONGS.

No. 1. O'er silv'ry waters. Four Voices	3d.
,, 2. Day is dawning. ,, ,, ...	3d.
,, 3. Sing on, sweet birds. ,, ,, ...	3d.
,, 4. Lo! Autumn leaves. ,, ,, ...	3d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Settings of the Vesper Hymn.

"LORD, KEEP US SAFE THIS NIGHT."

ASHTON, A. T. LEE.—In B flat	1d.
BEETHOVEN.—Two Settings in G	1d.
STEANE, B.—In F ... ... (Sol-fa, 1½d.)	1d.
SULLIVAN, A.—In F (with Sevenfold Amen) ... (Sol-fa, 1d.)	1d.
VINCOE, A. L.—In F	1d.

AMENS.

ELLIOTT, J. W.—Sevenfold Amen in D	1d.
GODFREY, A. E.—Sevenfold Amen in G	1d.
GOUNOD, C.—Two Concluding Amens. Threefold and fourfold, in E flat	1d.
LEMARE, E. H.—Threefold Amen in G	1d.
LEMARE, E. H.—Final Amen in G flat (A.T.T.E.B.)	1d.
SOMERVELL, A.—Fourfold Amen, in F	1d.
STAINER, J.—Sevenfold and Dresden Amen in A ... (Sol-fa, 1d.)	1d.
SULLIVAN, A.—Sevenfold Amen in F, with Vesper Hymn (Sol-fa, 1d.) ...	1d.
WEST, J. E.—Threefold Amen in G	1d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEW EDITION. NOW READY.

The very successful Lent Cantata

PENITENCE PARDON AND PEACE

BY

J. H. MAUNDER.

The Musical Times, 1/1/99: "An admirable example of a commendable class of Church music. Consists of writing of that melodious and effective nature for which the composer is so widely famed."
Musical Opinion, 1/2/98: "A fine Church composition."
Musical News, 15/1/98: "We have no hesitation in cordially recommending it."
Musical Standard, 5/3/98: "Deserves considerable popularity."
Organist and Choirmaster, 15/2/98: "For the music we have nothing but praise."
Birmingham Post, 5/3/98: "The music is of a high artistic value."
Liverpool Courier, 2/8/98: "A work of great merit in every respect."
Manchester Courier, 9/3/98: "It will doubtless be used in many 'quires and places where they sing.'"
Newcastle Leader, 23/2/98: "A well-written work."
Western Morning News, 25/3/98: "A good composition. Striking and original."
Chester Chronicle, 16/4/98: "A beautiful work, very tuneful, and exceedingly effective."
Lichfield Mercury, 4/2/98: "Extremely effective, containing some really beautiful music."
Journal of the Incorporated Society of Musicians, 1/2/98: "A well written work. We can strongly recommend it."

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.
Paper boards, 2s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1s. Words, 2s. per 100.

 A Specimen Copy will be sent for six stamps to any Clergyman, Organist, or Choirmaster, on application to J. H. MAUNDER, Hill Top, Belmont Park, London, S.E.

Band Parts may be hired or purchased from Messrs. Goodwin and Tabb, 71, Great Queen Street, W.C.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

TWO HYMNS

FOR

TEMPERANCE MEETINGS.

1. GREAT GOD, WHO MADEST ALL FOR MAN,

The words written by the REV. GODFREY THRING

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

HERBERT STEPHEN IRONS.

2. FOR OTHERS' SAKE

The words written by LOUISA M. S. PASLEY

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

J. BARNBY.

Price One Penny each Hymn.
Words only, 2s. 6d. per 100.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

New Easter & Coronation Music

By CALEB SIMPER.

SPECIMEN COPIES FREE TO CHOIRMASTERS AND THE MUSIC TRADE from the COMPOSER only. Address, Caleb Simper, "Kilbirnie," Barnstaple. Ready about January 10, but applications can be sent at once, and copies will be forwarded as soon as ready.

All these Compositions are exceptionally attractive.

NOW IS CHRIST RISEN. New Easter Anthem, 4d. Tonic Sol-fa 2d.
GRANT THE KING A LONG LIFE. No. 1. Coronation Anthem ... 4d. Tonic Sol-fa 2d.
HAPPY ARE THE PEOPLE. No. 2. Coronation Anthem. O.N. only 3d.
No. 8. ANNIVERSARY SELECTION. Eight striking pieces, including one with special Coronation verses by the Rev. T. D. Hyde, B.A. 2d. Tonic Sol-fa ... ... 2d.

London: WEEKES AND CO., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.
Chicago, U.S.A.: CLAYTON F. SUMMY, 220, Wabash Avenue.

NEW EASTER ANTHEMS.

RECENTLY PUBLISHED.

NOW LATE ON THE SABBATH DAY. By S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR. Price 3d.; Sol-fa, 1½d.

IF YE THEN BE RISEN. By H. M. HIGGS. Price 1½d.; Sol-fa, 1½d.

THE LORD LIVETH. By A. W. MARCHANT. Price 3d.; Sol-fa, 1½d.

HE SHALL SWALLOW UP DEATH IN VICTORY. By F. R. GREENISH. Price 3d.

THE STRIFE IS O'ER. By B. LUARD SELBY. Price 1½d. Sol-fa, 1d.

I AM THE RESURRECTION. By ROLAND ROGERS. Price 4d.; Sol-fa, 1½d.

AWAKE, AWAKE, WITH HOLY RAPTURE SING. By JOHN E. WEST. Price 3d. Sol-fa, 1½d.

O VOICE OF THE BELOVED! By HENRY JOHN KING. Price 3d.; Sol-fa, 1½d.

*Above all praise and all majesty	... ...	Mendelssohn	1½d.
*Alleluia! now is Christ risen	... ...	T. Adams	3d.
*All men, all things	... ...	Mendelssohn	4d.
As Christ was raised	... ...	G. A. Macfarren	2d.
*As it began to dawn	... ...	M. B. Foster	1½d.
As it began to dawn	... ...	C. Vincent	3d.
*As Moses lifted up the serpent	... ...	F. Gostelow	3d.
As we have borne	... ...	J. Barnby	1½d.
At the Lamb's high feast	... ...	E. V. Hall	3d.
At the Sepulchre	... ...	H. W. Wareing	4d.
*Awake, awake, with holy rapture sing	...	John E. West	3d.
*Awake, thou that sleepest	... ...	J. Stainer	6d.
*Awake up, my glory	... ...	J. Barnby	1½d.
Awake up, my glory	... ...	B. Haynes	1½d.
Awake up, my glory	... ...	F. Iliffe	2d.
Awake up, my glory	... ...	M. Wise	3d.
*Be glad, O ye righteous	... ...	H. Smart	4d.
*Behold, the Angel of the Lord	... ...	B. Tours	1½d.
*Behold the Lamb—All glory to the Lamb	...	Spohr	1½d.
*Blessed be the God and Father	... ...	S. S. Wesley	4d.
*Blessed be Thou	... ...	Kent	4d.
Blessing and glory	...	Boyce	1½d.
*Blessing, glory	... ...	B. Tours	4d.
*Break forth into joy	... ...	J. Barnby	1½d.
*Break forth into joy	... ...	T. R. Prentice	6d.
*Break forth into joy	... ...	B. Steane	3d.
*Christ being raised from the dead	... ...	G. J. Elvey	1½d.
Christ being raised from the dead	... ...	S. Webbe	1½d.
Christ both died and rose	... ...	E. W. Naylor	3d.
Christ is risen	... ...	G. B. J. Aitken	3d.
Christ is risen	... ...	J. M. Crament	3d.
*Christ is risen	... ...	G. J. Elvey	1½d.
Christ is risen	... ...	C. W. Jordan	4d.
*Christ is risen	... ...	E. H. Thorne	1½d.
*Christ is risen	... ...	J. V. Roberts	3d.
*Christ our Passover	... ...	J. Goss	1½d.
*Christ our Passover	... ...	E. V. Hall	3d.
Christ our Passover	... ...	G. A. Macfarren	2d.
*Christ our Passover	... ...	B. Tours	1½d.
*Christ the Lord is risen to-day	... ...	E. V. Hall	3d.
Come, ye faithful	... ...	E. V. Hall	3d.
Far be sorrow, tears and sighing	... ...	E. V. Hall	3d.
For it became Him	... ...	Oliver King	1½d.
For us the Christ	... ...	Goss	3d.
*From Thy love as a Father	... ...	Ch. Gounod	1½d.
Give thanks unto God	... ...	Spohr	4d.
*God hath appointed a day	... ...	B. Tours	1½d.
God, Who is rich in mercy	... ...	G. M. Garrett	1½d.
*Great is the Lord	... ...	Hayes	4d.
*Hallelujah!	... ...	Handel	2d.
Hallelujah! Christ is risen	... ...	B. Steane	3d.
*Hearken unto Me	... ...	M. B. Foster	1½d.
*He is risen	... ...	H. Gadsby	1½d.
He shall swallow up Death in Victory	...	F. R. Greenish	3d.
I am He that liveth	... ...	T. Adams	4d.
*I am the Resurrection	... ...	Roland Rogers	4d.
I declare to you the Gospel	...	W. A. C. Cruickshank	4d.
*If we believe that Jesus died	... ...	J. Goss	1½d.
If we believe that Jesus died	... ...	G. A. Macfarren	2d.
If ye then be risen with Christ	... ...	M. B. Foster	3d.
If ye then be risen with Christ	... ...	J. Naylor	3d.
*If ye then be risen	... ...	H. M. Higgs	1½d.
*I heard a great voice	... ...	G. F. Cobb	3d.
*I will alway give thanks	... ...	J. B. Calkin	1½d.
*I will alway give thanks	... ...	J. Clarke-Whitfeld	3d.
I will extol Thee	... ...	C. M. Hudson	4d.
*I will go unto the Altar of God	... ...	C. Harris	3d.
I will greatly rejoice	... ...	W. A. C. Cruickshank	4d.
I will love Thee, O Lord	... ...	M. Kingston	4d.
*I will magnify Thee	... ...	J. B. Calkin	4d.
I will magnify Thee	... ...	B. L. Selby	1½d.
*I will mention	... ...	A. Sullivan	6d.
I will sing of Thy power	... ...	M. Greene	4d.
*I will sing of Thy power	... ...	A. Sullivan	1½d.
Jesus Christ is risen to-day	... ...	Oliver King	4d.
Let God arise	... ...	M. Greene	6d.
Lord, before Thy footstool bending	... ...	Spohr	3d.
Lord Christ! when Thou hadst overcome	... ...	Haydn	1½d.
*Lord, Thy arm hath been uplifted	... ...	Spohr	2d.
*Lo, the winter is past	... ...	B. Farebrother	3d.
Lo, the winter is past	... ...	H. Gadsby	3d.
Magnify His Name	... ...	G. C. Martin	4d.
My beloved spake	... ...	H. Purcell	6d.
My heart is fixed, O God	... ...	W. A. C. Cruickshank	4d.
My heart was glad	... ...	A. Carnall	4d.
Not unto us, O Lord	... ...	H. Gadsby	6d.
*Not unto us, O Lord	... ...	T. A. Walmisley	1½d.
Not unto us, O Lord	... ...	J. E. West	4d.
*Now is Christ risen	... ...	G. B. Allen	1½d.
*Now is Christ risen	... ...	J. E. West	1½d.
*Now late on the Sabbath day	...	S. Coleridge-Taylor	3d.
*Now on the first day of the week	... ...	H. Lahee	1½d.
O clap your hands	... ...	M. Greene	4d.
*O clap your hands	... ...	J. Stainer	6d.
O clap your hands (S.S.A.)	... ...	E. H. Thorne	6d.
O clap your hands	... ...	T. T. Trimnell	3d.
*O come, let us sing	... ...	M. B. Foster	3d.
*O give thanks	... ...	J. Goss	3d.
O give thanks	... ...	S. S. Wesley	4d.
O give thanks to the Lord	... ...	H. J. King	3d.
*O voice of the Beloved	... ...	Henry John King	3d.
*On the first day of the week	... ...	E. M. Lott	1½d.
*Open to me the gates	... ...	F. Adlam	4d.
*Praise His awful Name	... ...	Spohr	2d.
Praise Jehovah	... ...	Mendelssohn	4d.
Praise the Lord, ye servants	... ...	B. Steane	3d.
*Rejoice in the Lord	... ...	J. B. Calkin	3d.
*Rejoice in the Lord	... ...	G. J. Elvey	1½d.
Rejoice in the Lord	... ...	G. C. Martin	6d.
Rejoice, O ye people	... ...	Mendelssohn	1½d.
*Sing praises unto the Lord	... ...	W. A. C. Cruickshank	1½d.
*Sing praises unto the Lord	... ...	Ch. Gounod	6d.
Sing to the Lord	... ...	Mendelssohn	8d.
Ten thousand times ten thousand	... ...	Ferris Tozer	4d.
Thanks be to God	... ...	J. W. Gritton	3d.
Thanks be to God	... ...	Oliver King	3d.
The Day of Resurrection	... ...	E. V. Hall	3d.
*The end of the Sabbath	... ...	A. Carnall	1½d.
*The first day of the week	... ...	B. Steane	3d.
*The Lord hath brought us	... ...	E. H. Thorne	3d.
*The Lord hath done great things	... ...	H. Smart	4d.
*The Lord is King	... ...	J. Pittman	1½d.
*The Lord is King	... ...	T. T. Trimnell	4d.
The Lord is my strength	... ...	S. Coleridge-Taylor	3d.
*The Lord is my strength	... ...	W. H. Monk	1½d.
*The Lord is my strength	... ...	V. Novello	1½d.
*The Lord is my strength	... ...	H. Smart	1½d.
*The Lord is risen	... ...	G. M. Garrett	4d.
*The Lord liveth	... ...	A. W. Marchant	3d.
*The strain upraise	... ...	A. Sullivan	1½d.
*The strife is o'er, the battle done	...	B. Luard Selby	1½d.
*The strife is o'er	... ...	B. Steane	1½d.
*The stone taken away my Lord	...	J. Stainer	1½d.
*This is the day	... ...	S. C. Cooke	3d.
*This is the day	... ...	E. V. Hall	4d.
*This is the day	... ...	E. H. Lemare	4d.
This is the day	... ...	G. A. Macfarren	2d.
This is the day	... ...	A. W. Marchant	3d.
*This is the day	... ...	J. Sewell	2d.
This is the day	... ...	J. Turle	3d.
'Tis the spring of souls to-day (Cantata)	...	E. H. Lemare	1s.
When Christ, Who is our life, shall appear		J. V. Roberts	2d.
When my soul fainted within me	... ...	J. F. Bridge	1½d.
*When the Sabbath was past	... ...	M. B. Foster	1½d.
*Who is like unto Thee?	... ...	A. Sullivan	6d.
*Who shall roll us away the stone	...	G. W. Torrance	1½d.
*Why rage fiercely the heathen?	...	Mendelssohn	6d.
Why seek ye the living?	... ...	A. Alexander	3d.
Why seek ye the living? (Two-part)	...	M. B. Foster	3d.
*Why seek ye the living?	... ...	E. J. Hopkins	1½d.
Why seek ye the living?	... ...	F. Peel	4d.
Worthy the Lamb—Hallelujah!	... ...	Crotch	3d.
*Worthy is the Lamb	... ...	J. F. Barnett	1½d.
*Worthy is the Lamb	... ...	Handel	2d.

*Anthems marked thus * to be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d., 1½d., and 2d. each.*

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

PRODUCED AT THE GLOUCESTER FESTIVAL, 1901.

EMMAUS

(A BIBLICAL SCENE)

The Words written by JOSEPH BENNETT

THE MUSIC COMPOSED FOR

SOPRANO AND TENOR SOLI, CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA

BY

A. HERBERT BREWER.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

Paper boards, 2s.

Full Score and Wind Parts, MS. String Parts, 7s.

THE TIMES.

Mr. Brewer has not only made the most of every opportunity given him, but has succeeded far beyond what might have been expected, and has given us a work of rare sincerity and originality, free from anything like sentimentality, and deeply expressive. The chorus "O love most wonderful" and the final number "Dear Lord, the Bread of Life," are both beautiful in melodic ideas, and the treatment is reverent and scholarly.

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

Nothing in the work suggests seeking after effect for its own sake, but rather only as the narrative implicitly demands it. The composer subordinates his art wholly to the text he illustrates, never wandering from the path it indicates, and in that path doing no more than is absolutely required by the end in view. Such reticence is rare, and most valuable as an example at a time when music is more than ever characterised by effusiveness and exaggeration. A deeply religious spirit pervades the entire work. . . . There is no question concerning the advance of the composer alike in achievement and public appreciation. "Emmaus" has given him a capital starting-off place in the run for still higher things.

STANDARD.

Mr. Brewer opens his work with an introduction for organ and orchestra of tranquil and devotional character, which may be said to express the temperament of the music. This is laid out on long-accepted lines, and, in suave melodiousness and refinement, recalls the style of Mendelssohn.

MORNING POST.

The familiar story of the two disciples who as they walked towards Emmaus met their risen Lord, naturally lends itself to music of meditative, solemn character. There is some good, smooth, refined writing, and, though it is not elaborate, polyphony is by no means excluded. Mr. Brewer has endeavoured to compose a Church rather than a festival cantata—one which with its modest requirements is likely to be of practical use in ordinary church services; and what he has attempted he has achieved.

DAILY NEWS.

The chief feature of the music is its obvious sincerity, for there is no undue striving after effect, and the music seems to grow naturally out of the text. Only two solo voices are employed, the tenor having, among other things, a recitative of remarkable beauty, especially at the line, "Abide with us, the night has fallen," exquisitely sung by Mr. Ben Davies, while there are several short soprano solos, to which Madame Albani did full justice. The choir, too, sang the music of their conductor admirably, and the performance was one of the best of the week. It may be added that Mr. Brewer has written two versions of the finale, one of them a very good fugue.

DAILY CHRNICLE.

It is almost superfluous to add that Mr. Bennett's words are perfectly suited to their purpose. . . . Mr. A. Herbert Brewer's music has the expression, directness, and simplicity appropriate to the theme. There is no straining after effect, but at the same time the composer does not miss opportunites for importing a little dramatic colour to the score. An instance occurs where, with the breaking of bread at "the humble board," the disciples at length recognise the Saviour. The cry "'Tis He, the Christ—our Lord!" started in exultant fortissimo, suddenly lapses into a pianissimo, indicative of awe and wonder. The choral writing is smooth throughout, and the interspersed solos, for soprano and tenor respectively, should be as acceptable to the executants as to the listeners. To sum up, "Emmaus" is a tasteful and sympathetic production, that will enhance the estimation of Mr. Brewer's ability as a composer.

SUNDAY TIMES.

The text is written by Mr. Joseph Bennett with his customary facile command of glowing verse and wealth of religious and poetic fervour. It has been set to music by the Gloucester organist in a fitting vein of serene and exalted expression; and the outcome is a composition that will find acceptance wherever there is a demand for church music of its class. Its interest, too, is not a little augmented by the elegant scoring of Dr. Elgar.

REFEREE.

The music is pervaded by an earnest devotional spirit, and is characterised by Mendelssohnian grace and refinement that excite respect and make the work admirably suitable for church use, for which it is doubtless chiefly intended.

OBSERVER.

The music itself is devotional in spirit and sincere in expression.

YORKSHIRE POST.

Eminently grateful music for the performers.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

ALFRED R. GAUL'S CANTATAS.

["If composers would have their works popular with choral societies, it is only reasonable to expect that they will bestow a fair share of their attention upon the choruses. The old masters knew this, and there is no doubt that the fact has much to do with the long-continued popularity of their works; and there is equally little doubt, we think, that the principal cause of the failure of so many works produced now-a-days is the uninteresting nature of the choruses. Compare the choruses of the three most popular works ever produced —'The Messiah,' 'Creation,' and 'Elijah'—with a large number of modern works, and our meaning will be clear. If we mistake not, such thoughts as these passed through Mr. Gaul's mind when he set himself to compose those works which have placed him in the front rank of English composers—the 'Holy City,' 'Joan of Arc,' 'The Ten Virgins,' &c., and that the public endorse his views is proved by the enormous sale which these works have had."—Newcastle Daily Journal.]

*UNA

SIXTH AND SEVENTH THOUSAND.

PRODUCED AT THE NORWICH MUSICAL FESTIVAL, OCTOBER 4, 1893.

"Into all the places which know his previous compositions 'Una will find a place and become as much a favourite as its forerunners.'—Musical Times.

*THE TEN VIRGINS

Third Edition. Eleventh and Twelfth Thousand.

"The work will certainly go through Saxondom in the wake of its predecessors from the same pen."—London Daily Telegraph.

"Must attain popularity wherever heard. Infinitely superior to any previous effort of the composer."—Liverpool Daily Courier.

PRODUCED WITH THE UTMOST SUCCESS BY THE BIRMINGHAM FESTIVAL CHORAL SOCIETY.

*JOAN OF ARC

Staff Edition. Twenty-sixth to Thirtieth Thousand.

"The Exeter Oratorio Society last night achieved a brilliant success, and it may safely be said, without fear of exaggeration, that never before have they performed a work more satisfactory to themselves or more interesting to the audience than 'Joan of Arc.'"—Western Times.

"One of the most delightful Concerts ever given by the South Shields Choral Society was that of last evening, when the principal piece was 'Joan of Arc.' We cannot speak too highly of Mr. Gaul's work, which is of the most interesting description, and will doubtless soon be a favourite with choral societies."—Shields Daily News.

SEVENTH THOUSAND.

PRODUCED AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE, JULY 9, 1892.

†ISRAEL IN THE WILDERNESS

"The work was given under Mr. Gaul's own direction by some 3,000 singers, accompanied by the Palace orchestra. Mr. Gaul has presented in no previous work better characteristics or more successful efforts than are to be found in 'Israel in the Wilderness.' The popular composer was enthusiastically cheered at the close of the performance."—Musical News.

The above Cantatas have been specially planned to meet the requirements of Musical Societies, the greater portion being choral.

Price, paper cover, 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1s.; Vocal Parts, each 1s. Words only, *7s. 6d.; †5s. per 100.

The loan of Orchestral Parts on application to the COMPOSER, Gillott Lodge, Edgbaston.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

THE VILLAGE ORGANIST

NEW NUMBERS.

BOOKS 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, and 30, NOW READY.

Price One Shilling each.
Or, the Six Books together, forming Volume V., bound in cloth, price Six Shillings.

Detailed List on application.

NOVELLO'S ANTHEM BOOKS

NEW NUMBERS

BOOKS 7, 8, and 9, NOW READY.

Price One Shilling each.
Tonic Sol-fa, Eightpence each.

Detailed List on application.

NOVELLO'S

REVISED LIST OF WORKS SUITABLE FOR

PRESENTS AND SCHOOL PRIZES

Detailed List on application.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOVELLO'S

CLASSIFIED CATALOGUE

OF MUSIC FOR

VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE.

PREFACE.

The Violin music in his Catalogue has been divided into Four Grades, as follows:—

GRADE I.

Pieces within the compass of the First Position.

GRADE II.

Pieces beyond the First, but within the compass of the Third Position.

GRADE III.

Pieces beyond the Third, but within the compass of the Fifth Position.

GRADE IV.

Pieces beyond the Fifth Position, and very advanced.

Each piece has, further, a classifying letter attached to it, indicating a relative difficulty to the particular grade in which it is placed. Pieces which, according to the fingering used, are suitable for two different grades have been included in both, but with a different classifying letter, a lower, or simpler letter being used in the second grade than that given in the first—e.g., pieces marked C (moderately easy) in Grade I. are marked B (easy) if included in Grade II.; pieces marked E (difficult) in Grade II. are marked D (moderately difficult) if included in Grade III., and so forth.

When, in an album of pieces of various degrees of difficulty, a Roman figure is used before the letter denoting the degree of difficulty, it signifies that the piece is more suitable for the Grade indicated by the figure.

EXPLANATION OF LETTERS.

A = very simple. D = moderately difficult.
B = easy. E = difficult.
C = moderately easy. F = very difficult.
G = very advanced.

Copies of the above Catalogue sent Post-free on application.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

MESSRS. W. E. HILL & SONS

BEG TO ANNOUNCE THE FORTHCOMING PUBLICATION OF THEIR IMPORTANT WORK

ANTONIO STRADIVARI:

HIS LIFE AND WORK.

MESSRS. HILL have spared neither time nor expense in seeking to make this book worthy of the subject of which it treats. Many new and hitherto unknown facts will now be published for the first time; and numerous Illustrations, including Chromo-lithographic Reproductions of various celebrated Stradivari Instruments, will be interspersed throughout the text, many of which will prove of very great interest to all lovers of the Violin.

The work, which forms one small Folio Volume containing approximately three hundred and fifty pages, will appear in January, 1902.

THE IMPRESSION IS LIMITED TO ONE THOUSAND, including an Edition de Luxe of one hundred copies, and will be supplied to Subscribers at the following prices:—

EDITION DE LUXE ... £3 3s. net.
(The Edition de Luxe is now exhausted.)

ORDINARY COPIES ... £2 2s. net.

A Detailed Prospectus will be sent on application to

W. E. HILL & SONS,

VIOLIN MAKERS TO HIS MAJESTY THE KING,

140, NEW BOND STREET, W.

Just Published.

THE MUSIC STUDENT'S MANUSCRIPT NOTE BOOK AND PRACTICE REGISTER

ARRANGED BY

C. EGERTON LOWE.

PREFACE.

This book is intended to meet the convenience of Teachers who wish to record clearly for a pupil's guidance the work to be prepared for each lesson or a series. The column headed "Time" is added for the purpose of indicating the number of minutes to be given to the daily practice of each separate subject. (This column is for the Teacher to fill up.)

A few pages of music paper have been inserted for the purpose of writing out turns, trills, &c., and blank pages have been left at the end on which it is suggested that a list of pieces studied should be kept or other memoranda made. The book will be found suitable for students of any instrument.

Price Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

BOOSEY AND CO.'S PUBLICATIONS.

EDWARD ELGAR'S

SEA PICTURES. 4s. net. A Cycle of Five Songs sung by Madame Clara Butt. Separate songs, 2s. each net. Orchestral Score, 12s. net. Set of Band Parts, 15s. net.

EDWARD ELGAR'S MILITARY MARCHES.

POMP AND CIRCUMSTANCE. Nos. 1 and 2, played with immense success at the Promenade Concerts. The following arrangements will be ready shortly: Full score and band parts, arrangements for military band, small orchestra, pianoforte, and organ.

EDWARD ELGAR'S OVERTURE.

COCKAIGNE. Full Orchestral Score, 10s. 6d. net. Complete set of Band Parts, 16s. net. Pianoforte arrangement, 5s. net.

BOOSEY AND CO., 295, Regent Street, London, W.; and 9, East 17th Street, New York.

NEW FOREIGN PUBLICATIONS.

s. d.

BALAKIREW, M.—Tarentelle. For Pianoforte 4 0
GLINKA, M.—Souvenir d'une nuit d'ete à Madrid :—
Full Score ... ... net 2 0 | Miniature Score ... ,, 1 6
Parts ... ... ,, 5 0 | Pianoforte Duet 3 0
—— Caprice brillant sur le thème la Jota Aragonesa. For Orchestra :—
Full Score ... ... net 3 0 | Miniature Score ... net 1 6
Parts ... ... ,, 6 6 | Pianoforte Duet ... ,, 2 6
GRIEG.—Book X. Lyric Pieces. For Pianoforte ... ... ,, 2 2
GULBINS, M.—Sonatas. No. 1. (C minor); No. 2. (F minor). For Organ ... ... each, net 4 0
HALVORSEN, J.—"Mosaik." Five Pieces. For Pianoforte and Violin. 1. Intermezzo orientale, 4s. ; 2. Entr'acte, 4s. ; 3. Scherzino, 3s. ; 4. Chant de Veslemoy, 5s. ; 5. Fête nuptial ... ... net 4 0
HARTMANN, J. P. E.—Fantasie-Allegro. For Violin and Pianoforte ... ... net 3 0
HERMANN, R.—Quartet (F minor). For Pianoforte, Violin, Viola, and Violoncello. Op. 9 :—
Score... ... ... net 10 0 | Parts ... ... net 6 0
HUBER, HANS—Symphonie (E minor). For Orchestra. Op. 115 :—
Full Score ... ... net 40 0 | Parts ... ... net 48 0
JUON, PAUL—Five Pieces. For String Orchestra. Op. 16 :—
Score... ... ... net 6 6 | Parts ... ... net 7 0
—— Trio (A minor). For Piano, Violin, and Cello. Op. 17 ,, 8 0
LIAPOUNOW, S.—Etudes d'execution transcendante. For Pianoforte. Op. 11 :—
Etude I. Berceuse, 3s. ; II. Ronde des fantomes, 4s. ; III. Carillon, 4s. ; IV. Terek, 4s. ; V. Nuit d'été, 4s. ; VI. Tempête, 4s. ; VII. Idylle 3 0
—— Symphonie (B minor). For Orchestra. Op. 12 :—
Full Score ... ... net 20 0 | Parts ... ... net 30 0
Pianoforte Duet ... ... ,, 8 0
LIPPACHER, C.—Five Offertoires. For Organ ... ... net 5 0
—— Five Fantaisies. For Organ ... ... ,, 5 0
—— Preludes and Versets. For Organ ... ... ,, 5 0
MASSENET.—"Griselidis." No. 1. Prelude; No. 2. Entr'acte Idylle ; No. 3. Valse des Esprits. For Pianoforte ... each 4 0
—— The same. Nos. 2 and 3. For Violin and Pianoforte, 5s. ; For Violoncello and Pianoforte 5 0
Full Score ... ... net 8 0 | Orchestral Parts ... net 10 0
MESSERER, H.—Trois Rapsodies Provençales. For Organ net 4 0
MISSA, E.—"Mi Carême enfantine." Suite Carnavalesque. For Pianoforte and Toy Instruments ... ... net 5 0
MOZART—MARTUCCI.—Sixteen Minuets. For Pianoforte. Complete, net, 2s. 6d. In Four Books ... each, net 1 0
PAUL, E.—Trio. For Pianoforte, Violin, and Violoncello. Op. 14 ... ... 6 0
RACHMANINOFF, S.—2nd Concerto for Pianoforte. For Two Pianofortes. Op. 18 ... ... each Part, net 10 0
REINECKE, CARL.—Concerto (B minor). For Pianoforte and Orchestra. Op. 254 :—
Pianoforte Solo ... ... 10 0 | 2nd Pianoforte Part ... 10 0
RHEINBERGER.—Sonata, No. 20. For Organ 8 0
SAINT-SAËNS.—"Les Barbares." Overture. For Orchestra :—
Score... ... ... net 12 0 | Parts ... ... net 20 0
Pianoforte Duet ... ... ,, 4 0
—— The same. Ballet. For Pianoforte Duet ... ... ,, 6 0
SANDRE, G.—1. Bleue Matinée ; 2. Marche de Fête. For Pianoforte (6 hands) ... ... each, net 2 6
SCHUMANN, GEORG.—Pianoforte Trio, No. I. (in F). Op. 25 net 10 0
—— Pianoforte Quartet (F minor). Op. 29 ... ... ,, 15 0
SCHUMANN, ROBERT.—Novellette. For Two Pianofortes. Op. 21 ... ... net 3 6
SINDING.—Légende. For Orchestra. Op. 46 :—
Full Score ... ... net 7 6 | Parts ... ... ,, 8 6
Violin and Pianoforte ... ... ,, 2 6
STRAUSS, RICHARD—Feuersnot, Ein Singgedicht. Op. 50 :—
Pianoforte Score ... net 14 0 | Vocal Score... ... net 18 0
SUK, J.—Suite. For Pianoforte. Op. 21... ... ... ,, 3 0
TANIÉW, A. S.—2nd Suite (F major). For Orchestra. Op. 14 :—
Full Score ... ... net 12 6 | Parts ... ... net 20 0
Pianoforte Duet ... ... ,, 5 0
TOMBELLE, F. DE LA.—3rd Serie, No. I., Organ Pieces. Rapsodie Bearnaise ... ... net 3 0
TSCHAÏKOWSKY.—"Mazeppa." Potpourri. For Pianoforte and Violin 8 0
—— "Maid of Orleans." Potpourri. For Pianoforte and Violin 8 0
VAILLANT, H.—Marche funèbre. For Organ. Op. 15 ,, 2 0
VAVRINECZ, M.—Ungarische Intermezzi. For Pianoforte Solo. Op. 30 ... ... 5 0
—— Ungarische Improvisation. For Pianoforte Solo. Op. 31 4 0
—— Altungarische Bardengesange. For Pianoforte Solo. Op. 32 3 0
VOLKMANN.—Three Pieces. Arranged for Two Pianofortes. Op. 21 ... ... net 3 0
WIDOR.—L'Orgue Moderne. Book 19 ... ... 2 0
WIEGAND, A. — Elevation (A flat) ; Marche Triomphale (E major) ; Berceuse (A flat major) ; Invocation (D flat major). For Organ ... ... each, net 2 0
WINKLER, A.—2nd Quartet. For Strings. Op. 9 :—
Parts... ... ... net 5 0 | Miniature Score ... ,, 1 6
WOLF-FERRARI.—Quintet. For Pianoforte. Op. 6 ... ... 21 0

Sold at half-price, if not marked net.

LONDON : NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

HENRY LESLIE'S PART-SONGS.

PART-SONGS FOR MIXED VOICES.

(S.A.T.B. unless otherwise stated.)

*A dream of calm ... ... 4d.
†A rose of the garden... ... ... 4d.
Arise, sweet love ... ... 3d.
Awake, awake, the flowers unfold... (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.) 3d.
*Bridal Song ... ... 4d.
Charm me asleep (S.S.A.T.B.B.) ... (Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.) 3d.
Daylight is fading ... ... (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.) 1½d.
Down in a pretty valley ... ... 3d.
Evening (also for A.T.T.B., 2d.) ... ... 1½d.
†Golden Slumbers kiss your eyes ... ... 4d.
Hail to the Chief (also as a Song, 2/- ; and as a Trio, S.A.B., 2/6) ... ... 3d.
Homeward (or, as a Song, The day died slowly, 2/-) (Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.) 4d.
How sweet the moonlight ... ... (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.) 1½d.
†Kind Words ... ... 4d.
Ladye fair, thou hast my life ... (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.) 2d.
Land-Ho ... ... 3d.
†Lullaby of Life ... ... 4d.
My love is fair (S.A.T.B.B.) ... ...(Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.) 3d.
My soul to God, my heart to thee ... ... 3d.
Now the bright morning star ...(Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.) 3d.
†O let me play the fool (S.S.A.T.B.B.) ... ... 6d.
*O gentle sleep ... ... 4d.
One morning sweet in May ... ... 3d.
Parting and Meeting. (Volkslied, Mendelssohn) (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.) 1½d.
Raise again the bold refrain. (Russian Melody) ... 1½d.
*Resurgam ... ... 4d.
*Song of the Flax-spinner ... ... 4d.
†The Angel's Visit ... ... 4d.
†The Golden Year ... ... 6d.
The Lass of Richmond Hill ... (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.) 4d.
The Pilgrims ... ... (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.) 3d.
The Primrose... ... ... 1½d.
†The Rainbow ... ... 4d.
The Troubadour (S.A.T.B.B.) ... (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.) 4d.
The Violet ... ... 3d.
Thine eyes so bright (S.S.A.T.B.B.) (Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.) 4d.
This morning, at the dawn of day... (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.) 2d.
Up, up, ye dames ... ... 3d.
†We roam and rule the sea ... ... 4d.
*Welcome, Spring ... ... 4d.
What ho! are all on board asleep ... ... 3d.
*When the shades of eve descending ... ... 4d.
†Who is the Angel that cometh ... ... 6d.
*Ye mariners of England ... ... 4d.

PART-SONGS FOR MALE VOICES.

Evening (A.T.T.B.) (also for S.A.T.B., 1½d.) ... ... 2d.
Pibroch of Donuil Dhu (A.T.T.B.) ... ... 3d.
†Song of the Minne-singers (Come, fill your glasses) (T.T.B.B.) ... ... 4d.
†The red sun is setting. A Lullaby (T.T.B.B.) ... ... 4d.
*The rejected lover (A.T.B.B.) ... ... 4d.

PART-SONGS FOR FEMALE VOICES.

Good-night (S.S.A.) ... ... (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.) 3d.
Hark ! the lark (Dr. Cooke) (S.S.A.A.) (Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.) 3d.
O happy fair ; or, The Loadstars (Shield) (S.S.A.) (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.) 3d.
Rise again, glad Summer Sun (S.S.A.) (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.) 3d.
The Swallow (S.S.A.)... ... ...(Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.) 3d.
The Nightingale (Weelkes) (S.S.A.) (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.) 2d.

* Hitherto published by Messrs. J. B. Cramer and Co.
† Hitherto published by Messrs. Stanley Lucas and Co., Ltd., and E. Hatzfeld.

LONDON : NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

Just Published.

ARRANGED FOR UNISON SINGING
OR FOR
SOPRANOS AND CONTRALTOS

The Soldiers' Chorus from Faust

COMPOSED BY

CHARLES GOUNOD.

Words by HENRY F. CHORLEY.*

Price 1½d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.

* By arrangement with Messrs. CHAPPELL AND CO., Ltd.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ADESTE FIDELES

(No. 33 of NOVELLO'S CANTIONES SACRÆ)

EDITED BY

DOM SAMUEL G. OULD

CONTAINING THE COMPLETE LATIN TEXT

(EIGHT VERSES, NOW PUBLISHED WITH MUSIC FOR THE FIRST TIME)

WITH A

PRELUDE AND VARIED ACCOMPANIMENTS

By the following Composers:—

Præludium by Dr. F. E. GLADSTONE.

I. Stropha	... ...	DOM SAMUEL G. OULD.
II. Stropha	... ...	WILLIAM SEWELL.
III. Stropha	... ...	H. B. COLLINS.
IV. Stropha	... ...	Sir WALTER PARRATT.
V. Stropha	... ...	Dr. A. E. TOZER.
VI. Stropha	... ...	Sir C. H. H. PARRY.
VII. Stropha	... ...	Dr. C. W. PEARCE.
VIII. Stropha	... ...	S. P. WADDINGTON.

Price One Shilling.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

COMPOSITIONS

BY

T. MEE PATTISON.

CANTATAS.	Staff. s. d.	Sol-fa. s. d.
The Ancient Mariner	2 6	0 6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1 0
The Lay of the Last Minstrel	2 6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1 0
May Day	1 0	0 6
The Miracles of Christ (Sacred)	1 0	0 6
ANTHEMS, &c.
All Thy works praise Thee (Harvest)	0 3	0 1
Thou visitest the earth (Harvest)	0 2
I know that my Redeemer liveth (Easter)	0 3
There were shepherds (Christmas)	0 2
Thirteen Offertory Sentences	0 4
Six Kyries	0 2
Te Deum laudamus (in F)	0 3
ORIGINAL ORGAN COMPOSITIONS.
Fifteen Introductory and Concluding Voluntaries		3 6
Five Concluding Voluntaries		1 6

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

A NEW BEAUTIFUL SONG

ABIDE WITH ME

Words by HENRY FRANCIS LYTE

COMPOSED BY

JENNINGS BURNETT

Highly appreciated by

THEIR MAJESTIES KING EDWARD VII. AND QUEEN ALEXANDRA; Madame PATTI, and Madame ALBANI.

Vide Press: "For many decades the eloquent prayer 'Abide with me' has been sung to various settings, but never to any more commensurate with the spirit of the appeal than that which Mr. Burnett's talent has produced. . . .

. . . A singularly splendid effort, containing a noble pathos, well sustained throughout; the bold enharmonic change to 'I fear no foe,' also final development to 'Heaven's morning breaks,' are scholarly written and well worthy of note."—Daily Times.

Price Two Shillings net.

London: WEEKES AND CO., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street.
Chicago, U.S.A.: CLAYTON F. SUMMY CO., 220, Wabash Avenue.

NOVELLO'S

ALBUMS FOR PIANOFORTE AND STRINGED INSTRUMENTS

(Two Violins, Viola, and Violoncello).

The Pieces in most of these Albums are so arranged that if any Part, or Combination of Parts, in addition to the First Violin and Pianoforte is used they will sound complete.

No. 1.

SUITE OF FOUR PIECES

By ARNOLD DOLMETSCH.

Price 2s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 2.

SUITE OF FIVE PIECES

By HENRY PURCELL.

Price 2s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 3.

THREE DANCES

From the Music to "Henry VIII."

By EDWARD GERMAN.

Price 5s. Separate String Parts, 1s. each.

No. 4.

GAVOTTE IN D

By RAMEAU.

Price 2s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 5.

SIX PIECES FROM THE WATER MUSIC

By G. F. HANDEL.

Price 3s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 6.

TWO BOURRÉES

By G. F. HANDEL.

Price 2s. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 7.

BENEDICTUS

By A. C. MACKENZIE.

Price 3s. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 8.

JUDEX FROM "MORS ET VITA"

By CHARLES GOUNOD.

Price 3s. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 9.

WEDDING MARCH

By MENDELSSOHN.

Price 2s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 10.

WAR MARCH ("ATHALIE")

By MENDELSSOHN.

Price 2s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 11.

CORNELIUS MARCH

By MENDELSSOHN.

Price 2s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 12.

FUNERAL MARCH

By MENDELSSOHN.

Price 2s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 13.

GAVOTTE ANCIENNE

By GEORGE ELVEY.

Price 2s. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

Nos. 14—17.

FOUR ENGLISH DANCES

By F. H. COWEN.

Price 2s. 6d. each. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

Nos. 18—21.

FOUR CHARACTERISTIC WALTZES

By S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR.

Price 2s. each. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 22.

ANDANTINO

From the Symphony "The Consecration of Sound."

By L. SPOHR.

Price 3s. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

Just Published.

A MODERN SCHOOL

FOR THE

VIOLIN

BY

AUGUST WILHELMJ

AND

JAMES BROWN.

BOOK 4A.

(FOURTH BOOK OF TECHNICAL PRACTICE.)

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Second Edition.

NARCISSUS AND ECHO

CANTATA FOR CHORUS, SOLI, AND ORCHESTRA

Price 3s.; Choral Parts, 1s. each. Also,

"GOD IS OUR REFUGE" (Ps. 46)

For Chorus, Soli, and Orchestra. Price 1s.

COMPOSED BY

EDWIN C. SUCH,

Mus. Bac., Cantab.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

BALLADE

FROM THE

SYMPHONY IN C MINOR

COMPOSED BY

FREDERIC CLIFFE.

FULL SCORE. Price 5s.
String Parts, 3s. 6d.; Wind Parts, 6s. 6d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

TWENTY-FOUR

POPULAR MARCHES

FOR THE ORGAN

IN TWO VOLUMES.

VOLUME 1.

1. Marche Triomphale ... ... F. Archer.
2. The Bride's March, from "Rebekah" ... J. Barnby.
3. Harvest Thanksgiving March ... J. B. Calkin.
4. March for a Church Festival ... ... E. T. Driffield.
5. Imperial March ... ... E. Elgar.
6. March to Calvary, from "The Redemption" Ch. Gounod.
7. Religious March ... ... G. A. Macfarren.
8. March, from "Abraham" ... ... B. Molique.
9. March in B flat ... ... E. Silas.
10. Festive March in D ... ... H. Smart.
11. March in G ... ... B. Tours.
12. March in D minor ... ... Agnes Zimmermann.

VOLUME 2.

13. March for a Church Festival ... ... W. T. Best.
14. Processional Wedding March ... ... H. R. Bird.
15. Festal March ... ... J. B. Calkin.
16. Solemn March, from "The Black Knight" E. Elgar.
17. Festal March ... ... G. Elvey.
18. Marche Solennelle ... ... Ch. Gounod.
19. March, from "St. Polycarp" ... ... F. A. G. Ouseley.
20. March, with Pastoral Trio ... ... B. L. Selby.
21. March in G ... ... H. Smart.
22. Jubilant March ... ... J. Stainer.
23. March in F ... ... J. H. Wallis.
24. Commemoration March ... ... John E. West.

Price, Paper, 4s. 6d. each. Cloth, 6s. 6d. each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JUST PUBLISHED.

PRICE FOUR SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.

New Book for Students.

TWO THOUSAND QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

ON

MUSICAL HISTORY, BIOGRAPHY, FORM, INSTRUMENTATION, &c.

BY

WALTER H. PALMER,

Hon. Member and Licentiate of Trinity College, London, and Author of 600 Questions on Musical Theory,

WITH

INTRODUCTION BY PROF. E. H. TURPIN, MUS. DOC.

London: SIMPKIN, MARSHALL AND CO., Limited.
Bristol: W. CROFTON HEMMONS, Stephen Street.

Just Published.

THE GENTLE SHEPHERD

SONG

Words by WILFRID MILLS

MUSIC BY

JOSEPH H. ADAMS.

No. 1, in F. For Contralto or Bass.
No. 2, in A flat. For Soprano or Tenor.
No. 3, in G. For Mezzo-Soprano or Baritone.
Price Two Shillings net.

SUN OF MY SOUL

SONG

Words by JOHN KEBLE

MUSIC BY

JOSEPH H. ADAMS.

No. 1, in D. For Mezzo-Soprano or Baritone.
No. 2, in F. For Soprano or Tenor.
No. 3, in C. For Contralto or Bass.
Price Two Shillings net.

Orchestral Parts to either Song on application to the Publishers.

SUN OF MY SOUL

Arranged as an Anthem by the COMPOSER.
Price 3d.; Sol-fa, 2d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

CONTEMPLATION

FOR THE ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

H. A. WHEELDON.

Price One Shilling.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

AIR DE BALLET

WITH

INTERMEZZO

BY

THEOPHIL WENDT.

ARRANGED FOR

VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE BY THE COMPOSER.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ORCHESTRAL WORKS BY BRITISH COMPOSERS.

		Strings. s. d.	Wind. s. d.	Full Score. s. d.
WILLIAM HENRY BELL	"A Song in the Morning"	7 0	—	—
FREDERIC H. COWEN	Symphony No. 4 (The Welsh)	7 0	13 0	15 0
" "	Four English Dances in the Olden Style	6 0	12 0	10 6
" "	Do. (Small Orchestra)	6 0	9 0	—
" "	Waltz from "The Sleeping Beauty"	2 0	6 6	5 0
" "	Overture, "The Butterfly's Ball"	6 6	14 3	10 6
S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR	Four Characteristic Waltzes (also for Small Orchestra)	6 0	12 0	5 0
" "	Ballade in D minor (Violin and Orchestra)	2 6	—	—
" "	Overture to "The Song of Hiawatha"	5 0	13 6	—
" "	Solemn Prelude	2 6	—	—
" "	Ballade in A minor	4 6	10 6	7 6
" "	Scenes from An Everyday Romance	9 6	—	—
" "	Romance in G (Violin and Orchestra)	2 6	—	—
" "	"Toussaint l'Ouverture"	5 6	—	—
" "	Idyll	2 6	—	—
FREDERICK CLIFFE	Symphony in C minor	11 0	21 0	—
" "	Ballade from do.	3 6	6 6	5 0
EDWARD ELGAR	Variations on an Original Theme	10 0	22 0	25 0
" "	Prelude and Angel's Farewell ("Gerontius")	3 0	—	—
" "	Imperial March	2 0	7 0	In the Press.
" "	Mediation ("The Light of Life")	2 0	5 6	—
" "	Froissart. Concert Overture	4 6	9 0	7 6
" "	Triumphal March ("Caractacus")	2 6	10 6	—
" "	Chanson de Nuit	1 3	1 6	2 6
" "	Chanson de Matin	1 6	1 6	2 6
" "	Three Pieces. 1. Mazurka	2 6	5 0	5 0
" "	2. Sérénade Mauresque	2 6	4 3	5 0
" "	3. Contrasts	2 6	5 3	5 0
" "	Intermezzo ("Dorabella") for strings, woodwind, and drums (from Variations on an Original Theme)	2 3	1 6	3 0
ERNEST FORD	Grand Valse from the "Faust" Ballet	2 6	11 3	—
" "	Scène Bacchanale from the "Faust" Ballet	5 0	—	—
HENRY GADSBY	"The Forest of Arden." Intermezzo and Tantarra	4 0	6 0	7 6
EDWARD GERMAN	"Henry VIII." Overture	3 0	—	—
" "	Do. Prelude, Act II.	2 0	—	—
" "	Do. Prelude, Act III.	2 0	4 3	—
" "	Do. Coronation March	2 0	4 3	In the Press.
" "	Do. Prelude, Act V.	2 0	—	—
" "	Do. Three Dances	4 0	7 6	7 6
" "	"As you like it." Masque (Three Dances)	4 6	10 6	In the Press.
" "	English Fantasia, "In Commemoration"	5 6	—	—
" "	"Gipsy Suite." Four Characteristic Dances	7 0	14 0	In the Press.
" "	"Hamlet." Symphonic Poem	6 6	13 0	—
" "	"The Seasons." Spring	5 0	12 3	—
" "	Do. Harvest Dance (Summer)	5 0	12 6	—
" "	Do. Autumn	2 6	6 0	—
" "	Do. Winter	7 0	16 6	—
" "	Suite in D minor	13 6	26 6	—
" "	Do. Valse Gracieuse	4 0	10 0	In the Press.
" "	"Richard III." Overture	2 6	7 0	In the Press.
" "	"Romeo and Juliet." Prelude	2 6	5 6	In the Press.
" "	Do. Pastorale	2 0	5 6	—
" "	Do. Pavane	2 0	5 6	In the Press.
" "	Do. Nocturne	2 0	5 6	—
" "	Do. Dramatic Interlude	2 0	5 6	—
" "	"Much ado about nothing." Overture	4 6	10 6	—
" "	Do. Bourrée and Gigue	4 0	9 0	In the Press.
BATHSON HAYNES	"Westwood" Gavotte (also for Small Orchestra)	2 0	4 3	—
" "	Idyll (Violin and Orchestra)	2 0	2 9	—
GEORGE HENSCHEL	Incidental Music to Shakespeare's "Hamlet"	7 6	15 0	30 0
OLIVER KING	Concert Overture (No. 1), "Among the Pines"	2 6	7 3	4 0
" "	Concert Overture (No. 2)	2 0	—	—
" "	"Night." A Symphony in F	8 6	—	10 6
ALEX. C. MACKENZIE	Benedictus	1 6	2 0	5 0
" "	"Burns." 2nd Scotch Rhapsody	3 6	6 6	5 0
" "	"Colomba." Prelude	2 0	4 9	4 0
" "	Do. Ballet Music and Rustic March	4 0	9 3	10 6
" "	Concerto for Violin	6 6	10 3	21 0
" "	Highland Ballad	2 6	4 0	—
" "	"Jason." Intermezzo	2 0	5 3	7 6
" "	"La belle dame sans merci"	5 6	11 9	7 6
" "	"The Little Minister." Overture	4 6	10 0	—
" "	Do. Three Dances (also for Small Orchestra)	4 6	11 0	—
" "	"Manfred." "Astarte"	3 0	—	—
" "	Do. Pastorale	4 0	—	—
" "	Do. "The Flight of the Spirits"	5 0	—	—
" "	Morris Dance	2 6	—	—
" "	Fibroch Suite (Violin Solo and Orchestra)	6 6	11 6	—
" "	Processional March	2 6	—	—
" "	"Ravenswood" Music (Prelude and 1st, 2nd, and 3rd Entr'actes)	8 6	—	—
" "	Do. Courante (3rd Entr'acte)	2 0	6 0	—
" "	Rhapsodie Ecossaise (No. 1)	3 6	8 0	5 0
" "	"Story of Sayid." Solemn March	1 6	3 9	—
" "	"Twelfth Night." Overture	6 6	12 0	12 0
HAMISH MACCUNN	"The Land of the Mountain and the Flood"	4 0	8 0	10 6
C. H. H. PARRY	Symphonic Variations	4 6	8 6	10 0
PERCY PITT	Air de Ballet (String Orchestra)	2 6	—	2 0
" "	Ballade (Violin Solo and Orchestra)	2 6	6 0	10 6
" "	Coronation March	2 6	In the Press.	In the Press.
C. VILLIERS STANFORD	The Irish Symphony	11 0	22 6	30 0
" "	Prelude to "Œdipus Rex"	4 0	8 0	6 0
" "	Symphony (No. 4) in F major	11 0	26 0	30 0
" "	Suite for Violin and Orchestra	7 0	12 6	21 0
ARTHUR SULLIVAN	Overture, "In Memoriam"	4 6	8 6	15 0
" "	Overture, "Di Ballo"	5 0	12 0	12 0
" "	"The Tempest." Incidental Music	11 6	19 0	30 0

 MS. copies can be lent on hire in all cases where no prices are inserted.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

VOCAL EXERCISES

WITH MARKS OF EXPRESSION AND PHRASING BY

ALBERTO RANDEGGER.

CONCONE.

50 LESSONS FOR THE MEDIUM PART OF THE VOICE. (Cloth, 3/-).
25 LESSONS. A SEQUEL TO THE FIFTY LESSONS FOR THE MEDIUM PART OF THE VOICE.
15 VOCALISES. A SEQUEL TO THE TWENTY-FIVE LESSONS FOR THE MEDIUM PART OF THE VOICE.
DITTO. ARRANGED FOR MEZZO-SOPRANO OR CONTRALTO.
40 LESSONS FOR CONTRALTO.
40 LESSONS FOR BASS OR BARITONE.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence each.

AUGUSTE PANSERON

FORTY MELODIC AND PROGRESSIVE

VOCAL EXERCISES

FOR SOPRANO OR TENOR. IN TWO PARTS.

PART I. Containing Nos. 1 to 26. PART II. Containing Nos. 27 to 40.
Price Two Shillings each Part.

FORTY-TWO MELODIC AND PROGRESSIVE

VOCAL EXERCISES

FOR CONTRALTO, BARITONE, OR BASS.
IN TWO PARTS.

PART I. Containing Nos. 1 to 29. PART II. Containing Nos. 30 to 42.
Price Two Shillings each Part.

FIFTY VOCALISES FOR TWO VOICES.

(SOPRANO AND MEZZO-SOPRANO, OR TENOR AND SOPRANO, OR TENOR AND BARITONE). IN TWO PARTS.

PART I. Containing Nos. 1 to 30. PART II. Containing Nos. 31 to 50.
Price Two Shillings each Part.

MARCO BORDOGNI

TWENTY-FOUR

VOCAL EXERCISES

FOR MEZZO-SOPRANO.
Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

SONGS FROM THE OPERAS AND ORATORIOS

WITH MARKS OF EXPRESSION AND PHRASING BY

ALBERTO RANDEGGER.

LE NOZZE DI FIGARO.

BOOK 1.
SOPRANO (The Countess).
1. PORGI AMOR. 2. DOVE SONO.
3. AL DESIO DI CHI T' ADORA.

BOOK 2.
SOPRANO (Susanna & Cherubino).
1. DEH VIENI, NON TARDAR.
2. NON SO PIÙ COSA SON.
3. VOI, CHE SAPETE.
4. UN MOTO DI GIOJA.

BOOK 3.
BARITONE (Figaro).
1. SE VUOL BARRARE.
2. NON PIÙ ANDRAI.
3. APRITE UN PO' QUEGL' OCCHI.

BOOK 4.
BARITONE AND BASS (The Count and Bartolo).
1. VEDRÒ MENTR' IO SOSPIRO.
2. LA VENDETTA.

DON GIOVANNI.

BOOK 1.
SOPRANO (Donna Anna and Donna Elvira).
1. NON MI DIR. 2. MI TRADÌ.

BOOK 2.
SOPRANO (Zerlina).
1. VEDRAI CARINO.
2. BATTI, BATTI, O BEL MASETTO.

BOOK 3.
TENOR (Don Ottavio).
1. IL MIO TESORO.
2. DALLA SUA PACE.

BOOK 4.
BARITONE AND BASS (Don Giovanni and Leporello).
1. DEH, VIENI ALLA FINESTRA.
2. FIN CH'HAN DAL VINO.
3. MADAMINA.

Price Two Shillings each.

THE SOLO MUSIC IN "ELIJAH"

SOPRANO, CONTRALTO, and TENOR, each One Shilling and Sixpence.
BASS SOLO MUSIC, Two Shillings and Sixpence.

HANDEL'S SONGS

FROM THE ORATORIOS.

FOUR BOOKS, EACH CONTAINING TWELVE SONGS:

SOPRANO, CONTRALTO, TENOR, BARITONE OR BASS.
Price Two Shillings each.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

REVISED EDITION

INCLUDING THE NEW TITLE OF THE

PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES

AND CONTAINING

THE NEW FORMS OF AN ACCESSION SERVICE FOR JANUARY 22ND.

THE

CATHEDRAL PRAYER BOOK

BEING THE

BOOK OF COMMON PRAYER

WITH THE MUSIC NECESSARY FOR THE USE OF CHOIRS

TOGETHER WITH THE

CANTICLES AND PSALTER

POINTED FOR CHANTING

EDITED BY

SIR JOHN STAINER, M.A., MUS. DOC., OXON.,

AND

WILLIAM RUSSELL, M.A., MUS. BAC., OXON.

EDITIONS.	s.	d.
No. 1. Demy 8vo, 620 pp. large type. With Canticles and Psalter pointed for chanting. Cloth bevelled, red edges	6	0
Red basil, red edges	8	0
Rutland Morocco. India Paper	11	0
Turkey Morocco. ,, ,, ...	15	0
Russia Leather. ,, ,, ...	16	6
No. 2. Demy 8vo, 592 pp., large type. With Canticles and Psalter pointed, set to appropriate Chants (Cathedral Psalter Chants). Cloth bevelled, red edges	6	0
Red basil, red edges	8	0
Rutland Morocco. India Paper	11	0
Turkey Morocco. ,, ,, ...	15	6
Russia Leather. ,, ,, ...	16	0
No. 3. Imperial 32mo, 692 pp., Pocket Edition. With Canticles and Psalter pointed for chanting. Cloth bevelled, red edges	3	6
Red basil, red edges	5	0
Rutland Morocco. India Paper	7	0
Turkey Morocco. ,, ,, ...	9	0
Russia Leather. ,, ,, ...	10	6

The Clergy can be supplied with copies, in quantities of not less than 25, if ordered at one time, at a discount of 20 per cent.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

Just Published.

TRIUMPHAL SONG

FOR THE ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

A. HERBERT BREWER.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

BERCEUSE IN D

FOR THE ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

EDWIN H. LEMARE.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES

WITH SPECIAL SUPPLEMENTARY PORTRAITS

OF THE FOLLOWING

DISTINGUISHED MUSICIANS

HAVE APPEARED IN

THE MUSICAL TIMES

BETWEEN

JULY, 1897 AND DECEMBER, 1901.

MADAME ALBANI	March, 1899.	DR. C. H. LLOYD	June, 1899.
DR. ARNE	Nov. & Dec., 1901.	MR. EDWARD LLOYD	January, 1899.
PROFESSOR ARMES	February, 1900.	*MR. WALTER MACFARREN	January, 1898.
*THOMAS ATTWOOD	December, 1900.	SIR ALEXANDER MACKENZIE	June, 1898.
DR. BOYCE	July, 1901.	MR. AUGUST MANNS	March, 1898.
*SIR FREDERICK BRIDGE	August, 1897.	*SIR GEORGE C. MARTIN	July, 1897.
DR. F. H. COWEN	November, 1898.	PROFESSOR NIECKS	September, 1899.
DR. CROFT	September, 1900.	SIR HUBERT PARRY	July, 1898.
DR. W. H. CUMMINGS	February, 1898.	PROFESSOR PROUT	April, 1899.
MR. EDWARD DANNREUTHER	October, 1898.	MR. ALBERTO RANDEGGER	October, 1899.
MR. BEN DAVIES	August, 1899.	DR. HANS RICHTER	July, 1899.
DR. EDWARD ELGAR	October, 1900.	MR. GEORGE RISELEY	February, 1899.
DR. EATON FANING	August, 1901.	M. EMILE SAURET	January, 1900.
MR. ALFRED GIBSON	April, 1900.	SIR JOHN STAINER	May, 1901.
SIR JOHN GOSS	April & June, 1901.	PROFESSOR STANFORD	December, 1898.
SIR GEORGE GROVE, C.B.	October, 1897.	*SIR ARTHUR SULLIVAN	December, 1900.
MR. GEORGE HENSCHEL	March, 1900.	MR. FRANKLIN TAYLOR	December, 1899.
DR. HENRY HILES	July, 1900.	MR. JOHN THOMAS	November, 1899.
MR. A. J. HIPKINS	September, 1898.	REV. PRECENTOR TROUTBECK	May, 1899.
MR. ALFRED HOLLINS	October, 1901.	VERDI	March, 1901.
*DR. E. J. HOPKINS	September, 1897.	DR. SAMUEL SEBASTIAN WESLEY ...	May & June, 1900.
DR. JOACHIM	April, 1898.	HERR AUGUST WILHELMJ	June, 1901.
PROFESSOR KARL KLINDWORTH ...	August, 1898.	MR. HENRY WILLIS	May, 1898.

THE FOLLOWING PORTRAITS HAVE ALSO APPEARED:—

*MR. BERTHOLD TOURS	April, 1897.	MOZART (At the age of 7)	February, 1901.
*DR. G. M. GARRETT	May, 1897.	DR. WILLIAM POLE	February, 1901.
MR. W. T. BEST	June, 1897.	SIGNOR PIATTI	August, 1901.
REV. SIR F. A. GORE OUSELEY, Bart. ...	November, 1900.	MR. CHARLES SALAMAN	August, 1901.
*BEETHOVEN	January, 1901.	MADAME MALIBRAN	September, 1901.

A limited number of copies of each of the above-mentioned back numbers of the Paper, with the exception of those marked with an asterisk, can still be supplied, price 4d.; postage, 1½d.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

THE ORGAN WORKS

OF

JOHN SEBASTIAN BACH

IN SEPARATE NUMBERS

EDITED BY

J. F. BRIDGE, Mus. Doc., Oxon.

AND

JAMES HIGGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon.

		s.	d.
No. 1.	Fugue in D minor ("The Giant")	1	0
,, 2.	Prelude and Fugue in E minor (the well-known "Short" E minor)	1	0
,, 3.	Prelude and Fugue in C major	1	0
,, 4.	Fugue in G minor (the well-known "Short" G minor)	1	0
,, 5.	Toccata in D minor	1	6
,, 6.	Prelude and Fugue in D major	1	6
,, 7.	Prelude and Fugue in E flat major (the Fugue known as "St. Ann's")	1	6
,, 8.	Prelude and Fugue in A minor (the "Great" A minor)	1	6
,, 9.	Prelude and Fugue in B minor (the "Great" B minor)	1	6
,, 10.	Prelude and Fugue in E minor (the "Great" E minor, the Fugue known as "The Wedge")	1	6
,, 11.	Fantasia and Fugue in G minor (the "Great" G minor)	1	6
,, 12.	The "Great" Toccata and Fugue in C major	1	6
,, 13.	Grand Choral Prelude: "Christ unser Herr zum Jordan kam"	1	0
,, 14.*	Toccata and Fugue (Concertata) in E major	2	0
,, 15.	Grand Choral Prelude: "Vater unser im Himmelreich"	1	6

BACH'S ORGAN WORKS, in Twelve Books. Price 3s. each.

* Also published in the key of C, in Book VIII. of this Edition.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

DER TRAUM DES GERONTIUS

GEDICHT VON

CARDINAL NEWMAN

FÜR

MEZZOSOPRAN-, TENOR- UND BASS-SOLO

CHOR UND ORCHESTER

COMPONIRT VON

EDWARD ELGAR.

(Op. 38.)

DEUTSCHE UEBERSETZUNG VON JULIUS BUTHS.

Preis 6 Mark netto.

Chorstimmen, 8 Mark netto.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

MAZURKA

FOR VIOLIN SOLO

WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT

BY

EDWARD ELGAR.

Arranged from the Orchestral Score by the COMPOSER.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CANTIONES SACRÆ

MUSICAL SETTINGS

OF

THE ROMAN LITURGY

EDITED BY

Dom SAMUEL GREGORY OULD,

Monk of the Order of St. Benedict.

33. ADESTE FIDELES. The complete Text (8 verses), with a Prelude by Dr. F. E. Gladstone, and varied Accompaniments by H. B. Collins, Dom Samuel G. Ould, Sir Walter Parratt, Sir C. Hubert H. Parry, Dr. C. W. Pearce, William Sewell, Dr. A. E. Tozer, and S. P. Waddington 1s.
4. ADORAMUS TE, CHRISTE .. Mozart 2d.
22. ADOREMUS (for Benediction) F. E. Gladstone 2d.
2. ADOREMUS (Motet) .. C. W. Pearce 6d.
10. ALMA REDEMPTORIS MATER W. Sewell 2d.
27. AVE MARIS STELLA S. P. Waddington 6d.
11. AVE REGINA CŒLORUM W. Sewell 2d.
26. BENEDICTA ET VENERABILIS F. E. Gladstone 6d.
6. BENEDICTION SERVICE (Unison) S. Ould 3d.
9. BENEDICTION SERVICE (Unison) J. E. West 3d.
32. BENEDICTION SERVICE (Four-part) Agnes Zimmermann 2d.
29. COMPLINE HYMN .. .. .. S. Ould 3d.
3. DEUS MISEREATUR .. F. E. Gladstone 6d.
12. DOMINE, SALVUM FAC .. A. E. Tozer 2d.
30. DOMINE, SALVUM FAC .. .. E. Silas 2d.
17. HÆC DIES .. .. .. F. E. Gladstone 3d.
7. HODIE SANCTUS BENEDICTUS P. Philips 4d.
20. LITANY OF LORETTO .. F. E. Gladstone 6d.
23. MAGNIFICAT in A .. .. F. E. Gladstone 8d.
1. MAGNIFICAT in B flat .. .. E. Silas 6d.
28. MAGNIFICAT in D .. .. .. E. Silas 1s.
31. MAGNIFICAT in E flat .. .. W. Sewell 4d.
15. MISERERE in F .. .. .. F. E. Gladstone 3d.
16. MISERERE in F sharp minor F. E. Gladstone 6d.
25. MISERERE (Gregorian Chant) V. Novello 3d.
19. O SALUTARIS HOSTIA .. F. E. Gladstone 2d.
8. REGINA CŒLI .. .. .. W. Sewell 2d.
14. RESPONSES AT MASS AND OFFICE Harmonised by S. Ould 3d.
13. SALVE, REGINA .. .. .. Schubert 2d.
5. SALVE, REGINA .. .. W. Sewell 2d.
24. SALVE, REGINA .. R. L. de Pearsall 3d.
18. SALVE, REGINA .. S. P. Waddington 4d.
21. TANTUM ERGO .. .. F. E. Gladstone 2d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE CATHEDRAL

Prayer Book and Psalter

(WITH WELSH WORDS).

		s.	d.
No. 1.	Morning and Evening Prayer, with Responses (Ferial and Festal), Litany, and Chants for the Canticles. Demy 8vo, paper cover ... ... (cloth, 1s.)	0	8
No. 7.	Ditto, ditto, ditto. Tonic Sol-fa ... (cloth, 1s.)	0	8
No. 4.	The Psalter, with Canticles and Proper Psalms, set to appropriate Chants. Demy 8vo, cloth	2	0
No. 10.	Ditto, ditto, ditto. Tonic Sol-fa	2	0
No. 5.	Ditto, ditto, ditto. With Morning and Evening Prayer, &c. Demy 8vo, cloth	2	6
No. 11.	Ditto, ditto, ditto. Tonic Sol-fa	2	6

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

ENGLISH LYRICS

SET TO MUSIC BY

C. HUBERT H. PARRY.

FIRST SET.—Price 2s.

1. My true love hath my heart .. Sir Philip Sidney.
2. Good-night .. .. Shelley.
3. Where shall the lover rest .. .. .. Scott.
4. Willow, Willow, Willow .. .. .. Shakespeare

SECOND SET.—Price 2s.

1. O Mistress Mine .. .. Shakespeare.
2. Take, O take those lips away .. .. ,,
3. No longer mourn for me .. .. .. ,,
4. Blow, blow, thou winter wind .. .. ,,
5. When icicles hang by the wall .. .. ,,

THIRD SET.—Reduced Price, 2s. 6d.

1. To Lucasta, on going to the wars .. Lovelace.
2. If thou would'st ease thine heart .. Beddoes.
3. To Althea, from prison .. .. .. Lovelace.
4. Why so pale and wan .. .. .. Suckling.
5. Through the ivory gate .. .. Julian Sturgis.
6. Of all the torments .. .. William Walsh.

FOURTH SET.—Reduced Price, 2s. 6d.

1. Thine eyes still shined for me .. .. Emerson.
2. When lovers meet again .. Langdon Elwyn Mitchell.
3. When we two parted .. .. .. Byron.
4. Weep you no more .. .. Anon
5. There be none of beauty's daughters .. Byron.
6. Bright star .. .. Keats.

FIFTH SET.—In the Press.

1. A stray nymph of Dian .. .. Julian Sturgis.
2. Proud Maisie .. .. Scott.
3. Crabbed age and youth .. .. .. Shakespeare.
4. Lay a garland on my hearse Beaumont and Fletcher.
5. Love and laughter .. .. .. Arthur Butler.
6. A girl to her glass .. .. .. Julian Sturgis.
7. A Lullaby .. .. C. O. Jones.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

OVERTURE
TO WILLIAM TELL
BY ROSSINI.

TRANSCRIBED FOR THE ORGAN
BY
EDWIN H. LEMARE.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

PRODUCED AT THE QUEEN'S HALL SYMPHONY CONCERTS AND REPEATED AT THE LONDON MUSICAL FESTIVAL, 1901.

THE BUTTERFLY'S BALL
OVERTURE
FOR FULL ORCHESTRA
COMPOSED BY
F. H. COWEN.

FULL SCORE, 10s. 6d.; STRING PARTS, 6s. 6d.
WIND PARTS, 14s. 3d.
PIANOFORTE ARRANGEMENT (in the Press).

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

PLAYED AT THE QUEEN'S HALL PROMENADE CONCERTS.
Conductor, MR. HENRY J. WOOD, September 14, 1901.

CHANSON DE NUIT
BY
EDWARD ELGAR
SCORED FOR
SMALL ORCHESTRA
(Strings, 1 Flute, 1 Oboe, 2 Clarinets, 1 Bassoon, 2 Horns, and Harp or Pianoforte)
BY THE COMPOSER.

Score (8vo)	2s. 6d.	Violin and Pianoforte ...	1s. 6d.
String Parts	1s. 3d.	Viola and Pianoforte ...	1s. 6d.
Wind Parts	1s. 6d.	'Cello and Pianoforte ...	1s. 6d.
Pianoforte Solo	1s. 6d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

PLAYED AT THE QUEEN'S HALL PROMENADE CONCERTS.
Conductor, MR. HENRY J. WOOD, September 14, 1901.

CHANSON DE MATIN
BY
EDWARD ELGAR
SCORED FOR
SMALL ORCHESTRA
(Strings, 1 Flute, 1 Oboe, 2 Clarinets, 1 Bassoon, 2 Horns, and Harp or Pianoforte)
BY THE COMPOSER.

Score (8vo)	2s. 6d.	Pianoforte Solo	1s. 6d.
String Parts	1s. 6d.	Violin and Pianoforte ...	2s. od.
Wind Parts	1s. 6d.	'Cello and Pianoforte ...	2s. od.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOVELLO'S
SERVICES, ANTHEMS, &c.
FOR MEN'S VOICES.

SERVICES.

No.		s.	d.
40.	BLAIR, HUGH.—Communion Service in G. T.B. ...	1	0
14.	COBB, GERARD F.—Magnificat and Nunc dim. in F. T.B.B.	0	6
16.	CORFE, C. J.—Ditto, in E flat. T.T.B.B. (Sol-fa, 1½d.)	0	4
25.	DISTIN, THEODORE.—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in G. A.T.T.B.	0	6
48.	FORD, E.—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E flat. A.T.T.B.	0	4
19.	GARRETT, GEORGE.—Ditto, ditto, in B flat. T.T.B.B.	0	6
23.	HAYNES, BATTISON.—Ditto, ditto, in D. A.T.T.B. ...	0	6
18.	ILIFFE, FREDERICK.—Ditto, ditto, in D. T.T.B.B. ...	0	6
46.	LEMARE, EDWIN H.—Final Amen. A.T.T.B.B. (on Card)	0	1
38.	LLOYD, C. H.—Versicles, Responses, and Litany. T.T.B.B.	0	6
39.	MARTIN, G. C.—Te Deum in A flat, with Benedictus in Chant form. A.T.T.B.	0	6
13.	READ, F. J.—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in D. A.T.B.	0	6
33.	READ, F. J.—Te Deum and Jubilate in B flat. A.T.B. ...	0	6
3.	READ, F. J.—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F. A.T.T.B.	0	6
9.	SELBY, B. LUARD.—Ditto, ditto, in E. T.T.B.B. ...	0	6
35.	SELBY, B. LUARD.—Ditto, ditto, in G. A.T.B.	0	6
37.	STAINER, JOHN.—Ditto, ditto, in D. A.T.T.B.	0	6
49.	STAINER, JOHN.—Te Deum. A.T.T.B.	0	4
50.	STAINER, JOHN.—Benedictus. A.T.T.B.	0	4
52.	STAINER, JOHN.—Communion Service. A.T.T.B. ...	1	0
45.	STAINER, JOHN.—Versicles and Responses. A.T.B.B....	0	6
26.	STEGGALL, CHARLES.—Te Deum and Benedictus in B flat. A.T.T.B.	0	8
27.	STEGGALL, CHARLES.—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in B flat. A.T.B.B.	0	6
32.	WEST, JOHN E.—Ditto, ditto, in C. A.T.T.B.	0	6
21.	WEST, JOHN E.—Ditto, ditto, in E flat. A.T.B.B. ...	0	6
41.	WEST, JOHN E.—Te Deum laudamus and Benedictus in E flat. A.T.B.B.	0	8

ANTHEMS.

17.	BARNBY, J.—Lord of all power and might. A.T.T.B. ...	0	2
34.	BARNICOTT, R. S.—O worship the Lord. A.T.T.B. ...	0	3
31.	BENNETT, W. STERNDALE.—God is a Spirit (The Woman of Samaria). A.T.T.B.	0	6
15.	CALDICOTT, A. J.—Behold, how good and joyful. A.T.T.B.	0	3
24.	CULLEY, ARNOLD D.—Try me, O God. A.T.T.B. ...	0	2
20.	DISTIN, THEODORE.—Hear me when I call. A.T.T.B.	0	2
54.	DVOŘÁK.—At Thy feet in adoration (Fac me vere), from the Stabat Mater. Tenor Solo and T.T.B.B. ...	0	3
42.	ELGAR, E.—Seek Him that maketh the seven stars (The Light of Life). T.T.B.B.	0	6
7.	FORD, ERNEST.—O Lord God of my salvation (Domine Deus). T.T.B.B.	0	4
44.	GLADSTONE, F. E.—Almighty and everlasting God. A.T.B.	0	3
1.	GOUNOD, CH.—As the hart pants. T.T.B.B.	0	3
30.	HANDEL.—The Lord is a man of war (Israel in Egypt). B.B.	0	1½
22.	ILIFFE FREDERICK.—Jesu, Lover of my soul. A.T.T.B.	0	2
43.	LLOYD, C. H.—Lord, teach us to number our days. A.A.T.T.B.B.	0	3
4.	MENDELSSOHN.—The word went forth (Festgesang). T.T.B.B. ... ... (Sol-fa, 1½d.)	0	4
5.	MENDELSSOHN.—For ever blessed (Beati mortui.) T.T.B.B.	0	3
6.	MENDELSSOHN.—The righteous living for ever (Periti autem). T.T.B.B.	0	3
29.	MENDELSSOHN.—The Lord hath commanded (Psalm 42). T.T.B.B.	0	4
8.	READ, F. J.—My soul, wait thou still. A.T.T.B.	0	4
51.	READ, F. J.—Sing we merrily unto God. A.T.B.	0	2
47.	READ, F. J.—Why art thou so heavy. A. Solo and A.T.B.	0	1½
28.	ROBERTS, J. VARLEY.—O Saviour of the world. A.T.T.B.	0	2
10.	SAWYER, F. J.—Ponder my words. A.T.T.B.	0	2
2.	SCHUBERT, F.—Great is Jehovah. T.T.B.B.	0	4
11.	THORNE, E. H.—Let us now praise famous men. T.T.B.B.	0	3
12.	THORNE, E. H.—Let my complaint come before Thee. A.A.T.T.B.B.	0	3
36.	WEST, JOHN E.—Whom have I in heaven but Thee. A.T.B.B.	0	3
53.	WEST, JOHN, E.—O tarry thou the Lord's leisure. A.T.B.B.	0	2

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

THE

DREAM OF GERONTIUS

BY

CARDINAL NEWMAN

SET TO MUSIC FOR

MEZZO-SOPRANO, TENOR, AND BASS SOLI, CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA

BY

EDWARD ELGAR.

PRICE THREE SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.

Paper boards, 4s.; cloth, gilt, 5s. Vocal Parts, 1s. 6d. each. String Parts, 20s.
Wind Parts and Full Score, MS.
Vocal Score, with German and English words, price 6 marks. Chorstimmen (German words only), 8 marks.

THE TIMES.

In a work so elaborately disposed for voices and orchestra it is impossible to do more than point out certain parts that call for special commendation. The choir is divided into semi-chorus and full chorus, and some of the concerted numbers in which these are used antiphonally or together are in the highest degree successful. A kind of litany sung by the "assistants" at the death-bed, with the lovely recurrence of "Amen," is beautiful and impressive, and the commentatory utterance of the priest, "Proficiscere, anima Christiana," is worked up into a really splendid climax.

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

"The Dream of Gerontius" advances its composer's claim to rank amongst the musicians of whom the country should be proudest.

STANDARD.

The design and scoring of this Prelude are singularly clear and rational, and its effect is most impressive. . . . The second portion opens with a short but beautiful movement intended to suggest the peace of the Soul as it is borne through space. The next few pages of the score are occupied by music of fascinating grace and tranquillity, in which the Soul and its Guardian Angel converse on their way to the Judgment. . . . The conclusion of the work soon follows, and consists of a beautiful and finely-written chorus, with super-imposed solo part for the Angel, expressive of the serenity of the Blessed.

MORNING POST.

"The Dream of Gerontius" is a composition in which are revealed very great qualities, imagination and poetical feeling, besides a remarkable capacity in dealing with the resources of the orchestra.

DAILY NEWS.

That "Gerontius" shows Mr. Elgar in a stronger light as a musician and a thinker than anything he has before done will be generally admitted. Sometimes, indeed, the work reveals real genius. . . . From first to last it is stamped with sincerity, with true religious fervour.

DAILY CHRONICLE.

"The Dream of Gerontius" presents Mr. Elgar as a musician whose power of expression is equal to his faculty of imagination. There are passages in the work, particularly at the beginning of the second part, that whether as regards endeavour to suggest the mysteries of a future state or mastery of the technical attributes of the highest form of music, would reflect credit upon the greatest composers of the past. . . . The end is worthy the beginning. Higher commendation could not be bestowed upon this musical embellishment of one of the most thoughtful poems published during the century.

DAILY GRAPHIC.

Mr. Elgar has dealt with his lofty theme in a thoroughly legitimate and artistic manner. For the most part he has avoided anything like an attempt to depict the actual scenes through which the soul of Gerontius passes. He suggests rather than illustrates. He appeals to the imagination rather than to the senses of his hearers. Herein he shows a true appreciation of the limitations of art, and his discretion has carried him securely through difficulties which at first sight might seem insurmountable. . . . The "Dream of Gerontius" has a right to be called a masterpiece. Such passages as the solo of The Angel of the Agony and the whole of the closing scene—to mention only two of the many noble passages in the work—bear the indisputable stamp of genius. Here we find a lofty inspiration allied with technical ability to a degree such as is within the powers of very few living composers.

WESTMINSTER GAZETTE.

The finest example of the modern British school. . . . His choruses are effective and some of them quite genius-like in their sincerity. His orchestra discourses eloquently, and his themes are striking. To the full he has carried out the realism of Newman's poem, to the full he has conveyed the tenderness underlying it. . . . In its way, it is certainly a masterpiece.

ATHENÆUM.

The great chorus and semi-chorus of female voices, "Praise to the Holiest in the height," in which there are some magnificent movements, such as the section "Glory to Him," and after the più mosso, which is worked up with great intensity, the massive burst of sound when all voices and instruments unite in a pæan of praise to the Holiest. . . . The concluding Andante tranquillo, for solo (the Angel), chorus and semi-chorus of Angelicals, and chorus of Souls, is a marvel of beauty, tenderness, and serenity. . . . A work into which a composer has put his whole strength of heart and head; it is one, indeed, that deserves and demands many hearings.

MORNING LEADER.

We heard enough of his work to appreciate it as the finest achievement of British music.

GLOBE.

There can be no question that the work is one of great power, full of beauty. . . . Especially beautiful is the final scene of the entrance of the soul of Gerontius into Purgatory. The solo of the Angel, "Softly and gently, dearly-ransomed soul," with its accompaniment of whispered chorus of souls in Purgatory, and its echoes of the Angelical Hymn, is admirably conceived and carried out with consummate art. If it was only for these pages the "Dream of Gerontius" would entitle its composer to a very high place among contemporary musicians. Their exquisite pathos is alone sufficient to make the present Festival memorable.

PALL MALL GAZETTE.

I am about to speak words which may seem exuberant and enthusiastic; but I have thought over them carefully before setting them down for the public eye, and I will venture to say that, since the death of Wagner, no finer composition (I am quite remembering Tschaïkowsky and his great Symphonies) has been given to the world. I am proud that Mr. Elgar is an Englishman, for he has justified Purcell's early career; in a word, he has produced a genuine masterpiece.

GUARDIAN.

The many points of interest and beauty with which the work abounds will secure for it a place among the most remarkable productions of English music. The chorus, "Be merciful, be gracious," is the first which displays the composer's fine sense of choral effect and his notable skill in part-writing; but more remarkable still is the elaborate passage which occurs just before the death of Gerontius. . . . Then follows the noble commendation of the departing soul by the priest, which is taken up fortissimo by the whole chorus at the words, "Go, in the name of Angels," with thrilling effect, and gradually worked up to a solemn and impressive climax. . . . At the words of the Angel, "Softly and gently, dearly-ransomed soul," a melody of haunting loveliness is introduced, enriched with fine harmonies and delicate orchestration. Soon the chorus enter with a softly breathed chant in unison, which, gradually gathering in volume and intensity, ascends to a climax of the noblest beauty.

YORKSHIRE POST.

There can be no doubt that it is the most powerful and profound utterance of one of the most individual composers. . . . It is a noble work, and in nearly every respect indicates an advance on all Mr. Elgar has done before. . . . The simple touching beauty of the actual departure of Gerontius is quite incapable of description; as of the highest efforts of art, it can only be said that it is just right; how or why one neither knows nor cares. . . . The last passage to which attention must be called is among the most beautiful in the whole work. It is that in which the Angel plunges the soul of Gerontius into the waters of Purgatory, and is instinct with a tender and serene beauty that is incapable of analysis, but carries immediate conviction.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited
AND
NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

Printed by Novello and Company, Ltd., at the Novello Works, Scho, and published at 1, Berners St. (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen St. (E.C.).
Sold also by Simpkin, Marshall, Hamilton, Kent and Co., Ltd., Paternoster Row (E.C.).—Wednesday, January 1, 1902.

(From the portrait by Closterman, in the possession of Dr. W. H. Cummings, and reproduced by his kind permisssion.)

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 708.—Vol. 43. FEBRUARY 1, 1902. Price 4d.; Postage, 1½d.
Registered for transmission abroad. Annual Subscription, Post-free, 5s.

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY,

ROYAL ALBERT HALL.

Patron: His Majesty The King.

Conductor: Sir Frederick Bridge, Mus.D.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, February 12, at 8.

GOUNOD'S "REDEMPTION."

Artists:

Madame SOBRINO.
Miss MAGGIE PURVIS.
Mdlle. GIULIA RAVOGLI.
Mr. BEN DAVIES.
Mr. IVOR FOSTER.
Mr. DANIEL PRICE.

BAND AND CHORUS, ONE THOUSAND.

Organist: Mr. H. L. Balfour.

Prices: Stalls, 7s. 6d.; Arena, 6s.; Balcony (Reserved), 5s. (Unreserved), 4s.; Gallery (Promenade), 1s.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC,

TENTERDEN STREET, W.

Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.
Patron: His Most Gracious Majesty the King.
President: H.R.H. The Duke of Connaught, K.G.
Principal: Sir A. C. Mackenzie, Mus.D., LL.D., F.R.A.M.

LENT HALF-TERM begins Thursday, February 20. Entrance Examination, Monday, February 17, at 2.
FORTNIGHTLY CONCERTS, February 1 and 15, at 8.
Prospectus, Entry Forms, and all information may be obtained from the Secretary.

F. W. RENAUT, Secretary.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

The Book of Examination Papers may be obtained by Members, price 5s., postage 5d.
The College Library is open daily from 10 to 5. On Saturdays the College is open from 10 to 1.
Members desiring practice on the College organ may obtain particulars on application.
The large Hall, and sundry smaller rooms, can be hired for Concerts, Meetings, &c.

E. H. TURPIN, Hon. Secretary.

Hart Street, Bloomsbury, W.C.

THE GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Managed by the Corporation of the City of London.
Principal: William H. Cummings, Mus. D., Dub., F.S.A., Hon. R.A.M.
Pupils can enter at any time.
Individual tuition by eminent teachers at moderate fees. Within three minutes of Ludgate Hill, Fleet Street, and Blackfriars Station (District Railway).
110 Prizes, Medals, and Scholarships, giving free and assisted tuition, competed for annually. Subjects taught: Piano, Singing, Organ, Harmony, all Orchestral and Solo Instruments, Stage Training in Elocution, Gesture, Fencing, and Opera. Lady superintendent has charge of all ladies attending the school. Prospectus and form of entry free on application to H. SAXE WYNDHAM,
Victoria Embankment, E.C. Secretary.

SIR FREDERICK BRIDGE'S GRESHAM COLLEGE MUSIC LECTURES.

February 10.—D. Scarlatti.
" 11.—Purcell's Sonatas.
" 13.—Orchestral Studies—The Percussion.
" 14.—Handel's Orchestral Music.
The first lectures in Gresham College, the others in the City of London School, at 6 p.m.

ST. ANNE'S, Soho. BACH'S PASSION MUSIC (St. John), with full Orchestra, on Fridays in Lent at 8 p.m. (Good Friday, at 4 p.m.). Tickets for body of Church and West Gallery can be had (gratis) by sending stamped addressed envelope to the Rector, 28, Soho Square. North and South Galleries free.

MR. ROBERT

NEWMAN'S CONCERTS.

NEWMAN'S

QUEEN'S HALL ORCHESTRA

Conductor:
MR. HENRY J. WOOD.

1902.

February 1 and 22, and March 8, at 3,
SATURDAY SYMPHONY CONCERTS.

February 8, at 3,
MARK HAMBOURG PIANOFORTE RECITAL.

February 11, at 8.30,
MISS ALICE NIELSEN'S CONCERT.

February 12, at 3,
ASH WEDNESDAY CONCERT.

February 15, at 3,
YSAYE AND BUSONI RECITAL.

March 28, at 3 and 7.30,
GOOD FRIDAY CONCERTS.

April 28 to May 3,
LONDON MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

SUNDAY CONCERTS
Every Sunday Afternoon, at 3.30.

CHEVALIER RECITALS
Daily at 3. Also Thursdays and Saturdays, at 8.30.

Full particulars may be obtained at
ROBERT NEWMAN'S BOX OFFICE,
Queen's Hall, Langham Place, W.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

METROPOLITAN EXAMINATION, CHRISTMAS, 1901.

The following CANDIDATES have passed:—

IN SINGING.

As Teachers.—Claude Percival Landi, Jessie M. Soga.

As Performer.—Isabella Laurence.

Examiners.—Messrs. Francis Korbay, Alberto Randegger, Arthur Thompson, and Fred Walker.

IN PIANOFORTE PLAYING.

As Performers and Teachers.—Harriet Holroyd Carter, Annie Isabel Chubb, Frances Dodd, Catherine Stapledon Hiley, Nella Elise Mew, Nettie Mowat, Ada Jeannie Oliver, Leonard Pegg, Florence Pertz, Agnes Fleming Pirrie, Mabel M. Prestwich, Kathleen Mabel Rosie Salmon, Constance Emily Shorting, Violet Louise Stewart, Violet Penelope Munro Thomson, Adelaide Frances Wagner.

As Teachers.—Edith Alexander, Nora Waldegrave Alexander, Gertrude Dennis Allen, Annie Ashcroft, Amy Atkinson (Mrs. Klein), Dorothy Jeanne Badcock, Louise Baintón, Edith Maud Baker, Elsie Beatrice Bate, Isabella Baxter, Rosa Margaret Bayliff, Mary Winifred Bell, Alice May Blyton, Beatrice M. W. Bolton, Edith Helen Bolton, Jessie Boswell, Evelyn Bourke, Eliza C. M. Bower, Ethel Dorothea Budge, W. Bewley Cathie, Robert Alfred Chatterton, Ethel Daisy Chorlton, Sydney Frank Clay, Mary Rose Daly, Cecilia Davies, Florence M. Day, Bertha Mabel Dobbs, Minnie Lucy Doughty, Bertha Margaret Dykes, Mary Winifred Earle, Alice Mary Louisa Edmondson, Isabel Edith Elderton, Mary Ewen, Gertrude A. E. Ford, Minnie Gibb, Edith Burge Gillett, Cecil Glover, Mary Elizabeth Greaves, Mary Mansell Grierson, Ella Gertrude Grundy, Carrie Harms, Daisy Mary Harris, Caroline Edith Heal, Margaret Bell Henderson, Ada Elizabeth Holden, Winifred Lucy Homewood, Ruth Hopkins, Jane Hannah Johnson, Eveline Maud Jones, Gwendoline Catherine Jones, Priscilla Edna Joslin, Ethel Travis Kirk, Isabella Murray Kirkwood, Frances J. M. Krellwitz, Margaret Sophia Lambrick, Mary Etta Mabbett Lansdoune, Senta Laubach, Ella Clare Lazarus, Wm. Edward Carr Lazenby, Marian Lindars, Crissie Kirkhope Logan, Edith Mabel Lowe, Florence Kathleen Lucas, Irene Mary Mackenzie, Eleanor Lizzie Mary Makin, George Henry Manton, Eunice Marsland, M. Constance McCartney, Elsie Minôt, Christine Alice Mitchell, Mary Agnes Mitchell, Edna Lisa Murrell, Mary Hamilton Nairn, Alice Jane Norton, Philip O'Donnell, Jessie Orange, Annie Mary Phillips, Marie Ethel Pickard, Susannah Robinson Porter, Edith Venables Powell, Margaret Leigh Powell, Frederick Pye, Alice Harriet Quirk, Matilda Randall, Ernest Read, James Evander Reid, Edith Roberts, Jane Frances Ross, Gertrude Marian Sanders, Mary Phœbe Sargisson, Mabel Louise Smith, Maud Sowden, Maud Geraldine Spencer, Evangeline Stedman, Maud Sarah Stedman, Lizzie Stocks, Alexandra Marie May Tallant, Ella Tasker, Hilda Taylor, Amy Russell Theodosius Florence Turnbull, Kathleen Blanche Turton, Jemima Mary Robson Vey, Horace Frank Watling, Christina Matheson Watson, Rose Annie Weed, Winifred Yorke Weedon, Harriet Ruth Pritchard Wilkie, Alice Selina Williams, Katharine Louisa Wilson, Frances E. Windsor, Florence Gertrude Woolven, Elsie Wraight.

As Performers.—Sweetie Daglish, Hetty Dams, Marie Lethaby, Alice Neale, Emily Garrett Roseblade, Nellie Sutcliffe, Florence Amy Walton.

Examiners.—Messrs. Carlo Albanesi, Oscar Beringer, Henry R. Eyers, Walter Macfarren, Tobias Matthay, Arthur O'Leary, and Adolph Schloesser.

IN ORGAN PLAYING.

Samuel Bath, William Gould Bennett Fuller, Evelyn Mary Hingston, Edward Dennett Potter, Wilfrid Ernest Sanderson, John Turton Smith.

Examiners.—Messrs. Wm. Stevenson Hoyte, Henry W. Richards, and Charles Steggall.

IN VIOLIN PLAYING.

As Performers and Teachers.—Ruby Rossiter Davy, Evelyne Hamilton Gruner, Amy Morison Inglis, Ella Plaistowe Ivimey, Elizabeth Foster Merriman, Caroline Rose Scale, Francis Oliver Sheard, Norah Christine Underhill.

As Teachers.—Jessie Alice Bowman, Isabel Goodwyn, Thanetta Hofland, Theodore Samuel Holland, Mary Kirk, Ellen Victoria Roden, Fanny Wood.

As Performers.—Constance May Louisa Cumming, Nellie Muriel Gill, Mabel Lalla Lockhart, Ursula Anna Williams.

Examiners.—Messrs. G. H. Betjemann, F. Corder, W. Frye Parker, A. Pezze, and Hans Wessely.

IN BANDMASTERSHIP.

William Short.

Examiners.—Messrs. J. A. Kappey, George Miller, and Ebenezer Prout.

BIRMINGHAM AND MIDLAND INSTITUTE.

SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Principal ... ... Granville Bantock.

SESSION 1901-02.

The Session consists of Autumn Term (September 16 to December 21), Winter Term (January 20 to April 5), Summer Term (April 7 to June 21). Instruction in all branches of music. Students' Choir, Students' Orchestra, Fortnightly Rehearsals, Students' Concerts.

Prospectus and further information may be obtained from

ALFRED HAYES, Secretary.

NATIONAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC, Lim.

Patrons: The Duchess of Marlborough.
Madame Patti.

Warden: Dr. Tindall, A.T.C.L.

Exams. (Local), all grades, and for Diplomas, Medals, Organists' Certificates, April.

Local Secretaries wanted. Composers' Works published. Great advantages. W. J. MOSS, Sec., 192, Sutherland Avenue, W.

UNIVERSITY OF DURHAM.

The Examinations for Degrees in Music are held in Durham in March (testamur only) and September.

For particulars, with copies of former Examination Papers, apply to the Secretary of Examinations, or to Dr. Armes, Durham.

GUILD OF CHURCH MUSICIANS,

42, Berners Street, Oxford Street, London, W.

Patron: His Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury.
President: The Very Rev. Francis Pigou, D.D., Dean of Bristol.

A.G.C.M. and F.G.C.M. Diploma Examination, in April and July, 1902, at the following Centres: London, Birmingham, Liverpool, Manchester, Bristol, Leicester, Leeds, Glasgow, and Belfast.

Annual Membership Subscription, 10s. 6d. Life, £5 5s.

The new Calendar is sent (Post-free) for six stamps.

Free register for Organists requiring appointments.

For further particulars, apply to

Dr. LEWIS, 42, Berners Street, London, W.

VICTORIA COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

(Under the direction of The Victoria College Corporation, Ltd.)

INCORPORATED 1891.

Hon. Patron: His Grace the Duke of Argyll, K.G., K.T.

BOARD OF EXAMINATION.

J. H. Lewis, Mus. Doc., D.C.L. (Principal).
George Prior, Mus. Doc., Oxon., F.R.C.O. (Registrar).
J. M. Bentley, Mus. Doc., Cantab., Hon. F.R.A.M.
(Chairman of the Board).

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT.

Director of Studies: Churchill Sibley, Mus.D.

West-End Premises: 42, Berners Street, Oxford Street, W.

First-class instruction in all musical subjects. Moderate terms.

Provincial Examinations in all subjects, for Certificates and Diplomas, A.V.C.M., L.V.C.M., F.V.C.M., throughout the year.

Metropolitan Examination in April, 1902.

Local Theoretical Examination at all Centres in April and July, 1902.

Holder of the Victoria College Vocal Scholarship, 1901: Miss Lottie L. Wakelin, L.R.A.M.

Gold, Silver, and Bronze Medals are offered for competition.

Local Secretaries required for towns not already represented.

All communications to be addressed as usual to the Central Office, 11, Burleigh Street, Strand, W.C.

GEO. A. STANTON, F.G.C.M., Secretary.

NATIONAL CONSERVATOIRE

Inst., 1895. OF MUSIC, Ltd. Incor., 1900.

Warden: Professor ALEX. PHIPPS, Mus. Bac.

London Office and Educational Department, 60, Berners Street, W.

Musical Examinations in all Towns, April and May. Medals awarded.

Diplomas of Associate, Licentiate, and Fellow, granted to Teachers, Organists, Bandmasters, Conductors, &c. Also Gold and Silver Medals.

Private and Class Lessons all subjects. Staff of 40 Professors.

Branches: The Conservatoire, 5, Hardman St., L'pool, M'chester, &c.

MUSICAL INTERNATIONAL COLLEGE,

Limited.

Principal: Edwin M. Lott, Mus. Doc.

Founded 1878. Incorporated 1893.

Central Office: 113, Great Portland Street, W.

Local Theoretical Examination, May 15, 1902.

Practical Examinations throughout the kingdom.

Winner of the Ashdown Prize, 1901: Florence Eveline Craig, of Liverpool.

W. A. PHILPOTT, Mus. Doc., Secretary.

CORK INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION

(May to November, 1902).

TO BANDMASTERS AND OTHER MUSICIANS.

The Incorporated Cork International Exhibition Association, 1902, hereby offer THREE PRIZES of £50, £30, and £20 respectively for the best original arrangement for Band of a SELECTION of NATIVE IRISH MELODIES.

For conditions of competition apply to R. A. Atkins, Hon. Secretary, Exhibition Offices, Cork.

THE FOURTH ANNUAL COMPETITION between LADIES' CHOIRS will take place at the Kensington Town Hall, on Thursday, March 6. Dr. W. G. McNaught will act as Judge. Entries close on February 6. Full particulars from the Hon. Sec., Miss C. E. Denison, 2, Strathmore Gardens, W.

FOUR PRIZES, of £3 each, for FESTIVAL HYMN TUNES, Manchester Sunday School Union. Send stamp for conditions to F. Womersley, 53, Brown Street, Manchester.

WILL MR. ADDISON PRICE kindly COMMUNICATE with Mr. BRYCESON TREHARNE, The University, Adelaide, South Australia.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MADAME CONWAY (Soprano Vocalist)
And Professor of Singing.
444, Moss Lane East, Oxford Road, Manchester.

MISS MARJORIE EATON (Soprano)
"A talented and accomplished artist."—Oldham Standard.
Concerts, Oratorios, &c., 237, Katherine Street, Ashton-under-Lyne.

MRS. S. FORD (Soprano)
For Oratorio or Miscellaneous Concerts.
For terms, address, Avondale, Park Road, E., Wolverhampton.

MADAME GOODALL (Soprano)
Oratorios and Concerts.
Burley Road, Leeds.

MADAME ANNIE HAYMAN (Soprano)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Thorncliffe, Lowfield Road, Stockport.

MISS BESSIE HOLT (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, Organ Recitals, &c.
Address, Rawstenstall, near Manchester.

MISS ANNIE MAPPLEBECK (Soprano)
Concerts.
32, Burlington Crescent, Goole, Yorkshire.

MASTER ARTHUR SMITH
(Prize-Boy Soprano Vocalist)
Winner of Royal National Eisteddfod, 1900, & numerous other Prizes.

MR. J. H. WILLIAMS
The popular Prize-Tenor of the North of England and Scottish Concerts. Terms, &c., 38, St. Domingo Grove, Liverpool.

MISS KATIE SPANGENBERG (Soprano)
(Pupil of Professor Menze, Berlin).
Oratorios, Concerts, &c. 12, East Road N., City Road.

MISS ETTIE SPICE (Soprano)
MISS EMILY TANNER (Contralto)
Will sing at Concerts, At Homes, &c., for expense fees. Duets a specialty. 19, Tay Bridge Road, Clapham Common, S.W.

MISS AGNES WALKER (Soprano)
(Of the London and Provincial Oratorio and Concerts).
147, Brockley Road, Brockley, S.E.

MISS KATE GREGORY
(The new Yorkshire Contralto)
Professional Pupil of Albert Jowett, Esq., Yorkshire Training College of Music, Leeds.
Oratorios and Ballad Concerts.
Terms, apply, Doncaster.

MADAME ANNIE GREW (Contralto, Medalist)
Waverley Road, Bradford.

MISS GERTRUDE HEY (Contralto)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Lawn Side, Clarendon Road, Whalley Range, Manchester.

MISS MILLIE OLIVER (Contralto)
Concerts, Oratorios, At Homes
For expenses only.
Address, 8, Hanover Street, West Hartlepool.

MISS ALICE WOLSTENHOLME (Contralto)
Address, Radcliffe, Manchester.

MR. CHARLES RAY (Solo Alto)
(Principal Alto, Holy Trinity Church, Sloane Street, S.W.)
For special Church Services, Oratorios, Concerts, Quartets, &c.
"Voice is a sweet and pure natural alto."—City Press.
Address, 13, Fontenoy Road, Bedford Hill, Balham, S.W.

MR. HENRY BEAUMONT (Tenor)
For Oratorio.
Choral bookings include: Birmingham Festival Choral, "Hiawatha," April 10; Birmingham Symphony Concerts, Beethoven's No. 9, &c., April 1; Cardiff Festival Choral, "Alexander's Feast," February 6; Crystal Palace, "Faust," February 8; Finsbury Choral, "Lohengrin" (Act III.) and "Dream of Jubal," February 13; Leicester, "Jephtha," February 27; Hull Harmonic, "Martyr of Antioch," March 14; Chelmsford, "St. Paul," April 9. All standard and new works in répertoire. Address, Principal Agents, or, 83, Maida Vale, W.

MR. WRIGHT BEAUMONT (Tenor)
(Bronze and Silver Medalist and Certificate, R.A.M.)
Address, 21, Mysore Road, Clapham Common, S.W.

MR. J. G. BLANCHARD
(Principal Tenor, Italian Church, Hatton Garden).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Address, 41, Savernake Road, N.W.

MR. SADLEUR BROWNE
(The Solo Tenor),
St. Saviour's Collegiate Church, Southwark.

MR. FRED. NORCUP (Tenor)
AND
MR. BERTRAM MILLS (Bass)
Of Westminster Abbey, are at liberty to accept a Sunday engagement during the Summer months, from Easter Sunday next, owing to the closing of the Abbey for Coronation preparations. Address, 139, Cambridge Street, S.W.

MR. GEO. H. PERRINS (Tenor)
The Cathedral, Hereford.
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address as above.

MR. ALBERT PIPER (Tenor)
For Concerts, At Homes, &c.
Address, 55, Wolfington Road, West Norwood, S.E.

MR. HENRY PLEVY (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Address, 30, Hamilton Gardens, N.W.

MR. GWILYM RICHARDS (Tenor)
(Of the Queen's Hall Choral and Wagner Concerts; Crystal Palace; St. James's Hall; London Musical Festival); Promenade Concerts.
24, Lavender Gardens, Clapham Common, S.W.

MR. WILLIAM A. SHEEN
(Principal Tenor, The City Temple).
Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 116, High Street, Kingsland, N.E.

MR. BURFORD THORP (Tenor)
Of St. James's and Queen's Halls; Soloist of St. Alban's, Teddington.
Address, 13, Greville Road, Kilburn, N.W.

MR. WILLIAM D. VINCENT (Tenor)
For Ballad Concerts, Sunday Recitals. "Specialty," Irish Songs.
Address, 167, Tachbrook Street, Belgrave Road, London, S.W.

MR. GORDON HELLER (Baritone)
A.R.C.M., Solo Singing and Teaching Singing.
For Concerts, &c. Address, 1, Craven Mansion, Lancaster Gate, W.

MR. HERBERT HALL (Baritone)
Pupil of the late Cave. J. P. Goldberg at the Royal Academy of Music.
Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Address, 51, Ashbourne Grove, East Dulwich, S.E.

MR. MUSGROVE TUFNAIL (Baritone)
24, Grove Road, Brixton, S.W.

MR. AND MRS. WALLIS A. WALLIS
(Baritone, Soprano, and Elocutionists).
Concerts, Lyrical Recitals. Pupils (Resident, &c.). Sharon, Acton, W.

MR. EDWARD COLLYN-EDWARDS (Bass-B'tone)
For all Concerts: Sacred, Secular, and Select Socials.
Address, 8, The Boulevarde, High Road, Balham, S.W.

MR. EATON COOTER (Basso-Cantante), A.R.C.M.
St. George's and H.M. Private Chapels, Windsor Castle.
Address, The Cloisters, Windsor.

MISS MARY OULD, L.R.A.M. (Solo Violinist)
For Concerts, At Homes, Lessons, &c.
Oakdene, Kilburn Priory, Maida Vale, W.

B. E. KENT (Lyric Authoress).
Apply, 155, Rye Lane, Peckham, S.E.

MISS CHARLOTTE DICKENS (Soprano), (R.A.M., Med., &c.). Concerts, At Homes, Oratorio, Opera, Lessons. 10, Ashchurch Park Villas, Ravenscourt Park, W.
"Interpreted the music with skill and confidence."—Daily Telegraph.

MISS EMILY VAUGHAN, Soprano (Medalist, Society of Arts), will sing, At Homes, Oratorios, &c., for expense fee. Fernside, 44, Craven Park, Harlesden, N.W.

MISS NELLIE SUTCLIFFE, L.R.A.M., Pianist, will play at Concerts, At Homes, &c. For terms, &c., address, 30, Wilson Street, Clapham Junction.

MASTER GILBERT HOLDSWORTH, the Yorkshire Boy Soprano (late Soloist at Leeds Parish Church). For Oratorios, Glee Societies, Ballad Concerts, and Church Festivals. Address, 104, Holland Road, Kensington, W.

MADAME LOUISE BURNS
(SOPRANO)
Silver Medal, R.A.M.
Erin, Riffel Road, Willesden Green, N.W.

MISS EMILY DAVIES
(SOPRANO)
Oratorios, Operatic and Ballad Concerts, Banquets, At Homes.
Address: Severn House, Finsbury Park, N.

MISS AMY HARDING
(SOPRANO)
(Crystal Palace, St. James's Hall, &c., Concerts).
For photo, testimonials, and critiques, 41, Palace Sq., Norwood, S.E.

MISS ESTELLA LINDEN

(YORKSHIRE SOPRANO)

This Season's engagements include:—

"Flying Dutchman" ... ... Sheffield Musical Union.
"Hymn of Praise" ... ... Beckenham, Kettering, Brixton.
"Creation," "Messiah" ... St. Saviour's Cathedral, Southwark.
"Judas Maccabæus" ... ... Crystal Palace.
"Acis and Galatea," "May Queen" Hull Vocal Union.
"God, Thou art great" ... Brixton Oratorio Society.
"Elijah" ... ... Stafford Choral Society.

Orchestral, Ballad Concerts, "Daisy Chain," &c., London & Provinces.
Address, 35, Lancaster Road, S. Hampstead, N.W.

MADAME ADA LOARING

(SOPRANO)

Pupil of Mr. Sims Reeves and Mr. Albert Visetti.
For Oratorio or Ballad Concerts.
18, Halesworth Road, Lewisham, S.E.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS.

MISS KATHERINE NASH

(SOPRANO).

Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c.

"An excellent soprano vocalist. Has always given thorough satisfaction at the many engagements I have given her as a solo singer."—William H. Cummings, Esq., Mus.D., Dub., F.S.A.

Address, 10, Mount Pleasant Mansions, Upper Clapton, N.E.

MISS

BEATRICE PALLISTER

(Soprano). Broxholme Lane, Doncaster.

MISS AMY SARGENT

A.R.A.M. (SOPRANO)
39, Blandford Square, N.W.

MADAME RUBY SHAW

A.R.C.M. (SOPRANO)

Desires Pupils and Engagements. Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, Banquets, At Homes. Address, 17, Panmure Road, Sydenham, S.E.

MISS NELLIE WILLIS

(SOPRANO).

"A voice of remarkable range, flexibility, and sweetness."—Lancaster Standard.

"Sang with first-rate articulation, good method, and taste."—Huddersfield Examiner.

Address, 120, Bentley Road, Doncaster.

MISS BERYL CLIVE

(CONTRALTO),
14, Gladsmuir Road, Whitehall Park, N.

MISS

KATHERINE HAWKINS

(CONTRALTO), L.R.A.M.
For Oratorios, Ballad and Chamber Concerts.
Bryn-tirion, Sutton Court Road, Sutton, Surrey.

MISS ADELAIDE LAMBE

(CONTRALTO). Principal, Peterboro' Triennial Festival, Queen's Hall, and Crystal Palace Concerts, &c.

Please note change of address: Holmwood, Roxborough Park, Harrow.

MISS

GERTRUDE MACAULAY

(CONTRALTO)

Mr. FRED. WALKER (Hon. R.A.M., Professor of Singing, Royal Academy of Music and Guildhall School of Music) writes:—

"I have great pleasure in stating that Miss Gertrude Macaulay possesses a contralto voice of exceptional power and compass, and is thoroughly reliable in oratorio or ballads. I can strongly recommend her to concert givers."

Address, 73, Carlton Mansions, Maida Vale, W.

MISS ISABELLE WATERS

(CONTRALTO. Med. R.A.M.).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.

"The Last Judgment" (Spohr).—"Miss Isabelle Waters' performance was noteworthy for the excellent way with which she managed to blend a rich, deep contralto with the other artists in the quartets."—The Kensington News, December 20, 1901.

Special terms will be given to Choral and Orchestral Societies for one introductory concert. Address, 34, Defoe Road, Tooting, S.W.

MR. ALBERT EDWARDS

(ALTO).
Address, The Grange, Surbiton Hill.

MR. TREVOR EVANS

(TENOR. HIGHLY COMPLIMENTED BY MADAME PATTI)

"I am delighted with his voice, which I consider charming."—Adelina Patti.

Booking for all the Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Address, 19, Lady Somerset Road, Kentish Town, London, N.W.

MR. TOM CHILD

(THE YORKSHIRE TENOR).
Winner of the 100 Guineas Prize, London.
Permanent address: The Poplars, Calverley, Leeds.

MR. FRED. FALLAS

(TENOR)
SOLOIST, SCARBORO' MUSICAL FESTIVAL, 1899.

FOLLOWING DATES BOOKED IN IRELAND,
March 19, 20, 21, 22, and 23, 1902.

Bookings for February and March include—

Penrith ... ... "Hiawatha's Wedding-Feast."
Leeds ... ... Ballads.
Glasgow (City Hall) ... "Elijah."
Liverpool ... ... Ballads.
Stafford ... ... "Elijah."
Dewsbury ... ... Ballads.
Saltcoats (Scotland) ... "Elijah."
Coatbridge (Scotland) ... "Judas Maccabæus."
Kilmarnock (Scotland) ... "St. Paul."
Batley ... ... Ballads.
Nelson ... ... "Creation."
Bootle ... ... Ballads.
Newark ... ... "Creation."
Royton (Oldham) ... Ballads.
Wakefield ... ... Selections.
&c., &c., &c.
Address, Horbury, Yorkshire.

MR. JAMES LEYLAND

(TENOR).
For vacant dates apply, 106, Bolingbroke Grove, Wandsworth Common, S.W.

MR. EDGAR McINTYRE

(TENOR)

"An excellent vocalist."—Vide Press.
10, Leighton Mansions, Queen's Club Gardens, Kensington, W.

MR. SAMUEL MASTERS

(TENOR),
61, Alexandra Road, Wimbledon, S.W.

MR. JOS. REED

(PRINCIPAL TENOR),
Trinity College, Cambridge.
Terms, &c., apply 31, Chesterton Road, Cambridge.

MR. DAN BILLINGTON

THE CELEBRATED YORKSHIRE BARITONE (Vide Press)
(Soloist of the Leeds Festivals, Sir Chas. Hallé's and the Principal Provincial Concerts).
34, Hanover Square, Leeds.

MR. MONTAGUE BORWELL

(BARITONE).

Mr. Henry J. Wood (Conductor, Queen's Hall Concerts) writes:—

"1, Langham Place, W., Feb. 14, 1901.

"Mr. Montague Borwell is an excellent vocalist.

"He has been most successful both at Queen's Hall, and at my Nottingham and Wolverhampton Concerts, in most difficult and trying rôles, and I consider him one of the most reliable and painstaking baritone vocalists now before the public.

"Henry J. Wood."

AND

MISS WINIFRED MARWOOD

(Mrs. Montague Borwell—SOPRANO).
Address, 56, Forburg Road, Stoke Newington, N.

MR. JOHN BROWNING

(BARITONE),
SOLOIST, LEEDS MUSICAL FESTIVALS, 1898 and 1901.
Of the leading English and Scotch Concerts,
Principal, Leeds Parish Church, &c.

"Elijah."—Cork Musical Society.—"Mr. John Browning created a splendid impression, and sang throughout the oratorio with much skill and effect. . . . He was very warmly received, and more than once the audience desired an encore. . . . Mr. Browning is unquestionably a finished artist, and it is a genuine pleasure to listen to his work in oratorio."—Cork Constitution, November 29, 1901.

Derby.—Concert at the Drill Hall.—"Mr. John Browning made his first appearance in Derby. . . . He has a good presence and a fine voice, and his singing was a great success. We shall be very glad to hear Mr. Browning again."—Derby Advertiser, November 22, 1901.

Cumberland Festival.—"Samson."—"Mr. John Browning is a favourite with the Workington musicians, and his glorious voice and magnificent interpretation of the music fired the hearts of both chorus and people."—Workington News, Jan. 4, 1902.

Re-engaged for Cork Musical Society, March 20, 21, 22. Could take two or three following dates while over in Ireland.
Address, Marlboro' Grove, Leeds.

MR. HENRY DOBSON
(BARITONE)
(Of the London, Provincial, and Scottish Concerts).

Birmingham.—"An artistic début was made by Mr. Henry Dobson, baritone, whose method is distinctly scholarly in every way."—Birmingham Daily Mail, October 7, 1901.

". . . His voice is of a high timbre and well trained, his excellent phrasing being a feature of his singing."—Birmingham Daily Post, October 7, 1901.

"The vocal contributions were of a high standard of excellence, and Mr. Henry Dobson, baritone, is entitled to much distinction for his artistic efforts."—Birmingham Daily Gazette, October 7, 1901.

7, Station Terrace, Hucknall Torkard, Nottingham.

MR. CHARLES KNOWLES
(BARITONE)
Of the Leeds, London, Sheffield, and Chester Festivals.
Queen's Hall Promenade and Symphony Concerts.
Crystal Palace and principal Provincial Concerts.

Queen's Hall Promenade Concerts.—"Mr. Charles Knowles sang 'Honour and arms' with a good deal of force and spirit."—Pall Mall Gazette, Oct. 25, 1901.

"Mention is due to . . . and the admirable singing of Mr. Charles Knowles."—Standard, Oct. 25, 1901.

Edinburgh Choral Union.—"Messiah."—"The contributions of Mr. Charles Knowles, the bass of the quartet of principals, were exceedingly enjoyable. His voice had roundness and excellent quality, and he sang, for example, 'Why do the nations,' in quite a brilliant manner. To the grand air 'The trumpet shall sound,' a telling obbligato on the trumpet was given by Mr. Mortimer, both the singer and the instrumentalist being at the close warmly applauded."—Scotsman, Jan. 2, 1902.

"Mr. Charles Knowles, the bass, also did well. His voice has depth and quality, and he rendered his airs with much expression. 'Why do the nations' was brilliantly declaimed."—Edinburgh Evening Dispatch, Jan. 1, 1902.

Belfast Philharmonic Society.—"St. Paul."—"Mr. Charles Knowles must have been a delighted surprise to many. If he has not already come he is the coming man. His voice is of rich quality, and his music was excellently interpreted and with fine dramatic effect. . . . An exceedingly fine exposition of the air 'Consume them all' was given by Mr. Knowles; again, in 'O God, have mercy,' he distinguished himself . . . Mr. Knowles sang all his music with such excellent effect that we hope we shall have him back again ere long."—Belfast Newsletter, Nov. 16, 1901.

Dover Choral Union.—"Elijah."—"With the opening recit. by Mr. Charles Knowles we found that he, upon whom fell the bulk of the work, was in splendid voice, singing with magnificent expression and fine effect the music of the Prophet. . . . Mr. Knowles was a host in himself. Over and over again his fine bass voice rang out, and in the air 'Is not His word' particularly did he captivate his audience."—Dover Observer, Nov. 30, 1901.

Dundee Choral Union.—"Messiah."—"Mr. Charles Knowles created a very favourable impression. His voice is powerful, and he has framed his methods of vocalisation upon excellent models; alike in the tender air 'But who may abide' and the bravura air, 'Why do the nations,' Mr. Knowles proved himself a most capable artist."—Dundee Advertiser, Dec. 17, 1901.

Aberdeen Musical Institute.—"Mr. Charles Knowles was the bass. His strong, powerful voice proved admirable in the air 'Why do the nations.'"—Aberdeen Free Press, Dec. 19, 1901.

Newcastle-on-Tyne Vocal Society.—"St. Paul."—"Mr. Charles Knowles has been heard here before, and there is no need to speak of his voice and method. Suffice it to say that his singing was worthy of his reputation."—Newcastle Chronicle, Dec. 13, 1901.

For terms, &c., address—
24, Acacia Road, St. John's Wood, London, N.W.

MR. BANTOCK PIERPOINT
(BARITONE)
Of Bristol, Bournemouth, Chester, Cheltenham, Tewkesbury, and Norwich Musical Festivals, and principal Concerts in the Kingdom.
Apply, usual Agents; or, 105, Brondesbury Villas, London, N.W.

MR. ARTHUR WALENN
(BARITONE)
Of the Albert Hall, Queen's Hall, St. James's Hall Popular Concerts, Crystal Palace Saturday Concerts, Walenn Chamber Concerts, &c.
20, Ashworth Mansions, Elgin Avenue, London, W.

MR. EDGAR ARCHER
(PRINCIPAL BASS of the City Temple, of the Crystal Palace and St. James's Hall Concerts).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Apply, Langdale, Rutland Park, Willesden Green, N.W.

MR. ARTHUR BARLOW
(BASS).
Address, 6, Beech Mansions, West Hampstead, N.W.
Telegrams: "Arthanita, London."

MR. HENRY SUNMAN
(BASS),
Licentiate (Artist) of the Royal Academy of Music, of the Gloucester and Cheltenham Festivals, &c.
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c.
Please address, Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford.

MR. ROBERT RADFORD
(BASS).

The following Criticisms refer to a recent Harrison Tour.

"A very fine concert, of which the most remarkable features were the singing of Madame Melba, and the success of Mr. Robert Radford, who is said to be a 'find' of Mr. Percy Harrison; he is rather a 'basso profundo' than a baritone, and therefore just so much more valuable under present circumstances. We believe Mr. Radford can go anywhere, and do anything, and that with average good fortune he will very shortly arrive where there is plenty of room, that is, at the top. His voice is magnificent in sonority, in compass, and best and rarest of all in quality. It has 'timbre,' an agreeable velvety tone which in the higher notes at once reminded us of Santley, twenty years ago."—Birmingham Gazette.

"One of the most interesting new singers we have ever heard."—Glasgow Herald.

"Undoubtedly an acquisition to the Harrison Concerts. Possessed of a remarkably full resonant bass voice of wide range, he delighted his hearers by his powerful yet sympathetic singing."—Aberdeen Journal.

"Commanded one of the greatest demonstrations that have ever been evoked by a male artist in the Albert Hall, Sheffield."—Sheffield Independent.

"Last night's concert introduced an artist who is destined to take a very prominent part in his profession at a not distant date. He has a really magnificent bass voice of unusual register, full of power and of beautiful tone. He quite roused the enthusiasm of his audience."—Newcastle Chronicle.

Address, 6, Morshead Mansions, Elgin Avenue, W.

MR. CHARLES TREE
"Elijah."—Liverpool.—Nov. 26, 1901.

"A beautiful rich baritone voice. He rose to the full height of his opportunities, creating an intense and abiding impression."—Post.

"Achieved a distinctive success."—Mercury.

"Sang with rare dramatic fervour, displaying qualities indicative of the true artist."—Courier.

"Elijah."—Birmingham.—Dec. 14, 1901.

"Truly impressive. Sang with infinite expression and feeling."—Post.

"A sympathetic exponent. Combines dramatic delivery with expressive vocalisation."—Mail.

"Elijah."—Peterhead.—Dec. 18, 1901.

"The finest Elijah ever heard here. Threw his whole powers into the part, producing a most wonderful effect."—Aberdeen Press.

"Superb declamation. He excels in sympathetic modulation and fine phrasing. It is difficult to imagine anything finer."—Sentinel.

"Sang the Prophet's rôle in a manner hardly ever equalled in Peterhead, certainly never excelled."—Observer.

Address, 23, Clifton Road, Maida Vale, London.

MR. F. G. H. MOORE (A.R.A.M.)
(Walter Macfarren Gold Medalist, R.A.M.).
Solo Pianist and Accompanist, Concerts, At Homes, Lessons.
27, Lady Somerset Road, Highgate, N.W.

MISS MABEL PRESTWICH
(L.R.A.M. Pianist and Accompanist).
For Concerts, At Homes, &c.

"A clever, careful, and good Accompanist."—Denham Price.

"Miss M. Prestwich accompanied me most sympathetically"—H. Lane Wilson.

Warmington House, Tottenham, N.

MR. HERBERT WALENN
(SOLO VIOLONCELLIST).
Address, 5, Wellington Place, London, N.W.

MISS ELLEN CHILDS
(CHROMATIC HARPIST)
Having studied in Paris under the direction of the Inventor, Miss Childs is prepared to give LESSONS on the NEW CHROMATIC HARP (without pedals). For terms, apply, 170, Belsize Road, N.W.; or, care of Messrs. Pleyell Wolff, Lyon and Co., 79-80, Baker Street, Portman Square, W.

SOLO BOYS.
LONDON TRAINING SCHOOL FOR CHORISTERS,
POLYTECHNIC, REGENT ST., W.

President, MR. ALBERTO RANDEGGER.

Principal, MR. JAMES BATES.

Thoroughly trained, experienced Solo Boys, holding positions as Solo Boys at twenty-four of the principal London Churches, can be strongly recommended for Church Festivals, Oratorios, Concerts, Organ Recitals, &c.

Over 100 excellent Chorus Boys also available for all kinds of concerted music.

A special branch for the preparation of scholars (resident or day) for Cathedral or other Choristerships has now been opened. Full particulars of Mr. Bates, as above; or, 7, Blomfield Crescent, Upper Westbourne Terr., Hyde Pk., W. Telegrams—"Musicomane, London."

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.

MR. DUTTON (St. Paul's Cathedral) supplies Boys, personally trained and thoroughly reliable, for Church Festivals, Concerts, At Homes, &c. For terms, vacant dates, and further particulars, address, Mr. Henry J. Dutton, 17, Alpha Rd., New Cross, S.E.

MR. TANN'S SOLO BOYS.

MR. W. R. B. TANN, Organist and Choirmaster of St. Saviour's Church, Paddington, is prepared to supply well-trained Solo Boys for Oratorios, Festival Services, Organ Recitals, Concerts, At Homes, &c.

A number of excellent Chorus Boys also available.

For terms and vacant dates, address, Mr. W. R. B. Tann, 55, Warwick Road, Maida Vale, W.

ALICE E. JOSEPH

Late Private Secretary to Sir Augustus Harris, Drury Lane Theatre, Royal Opera, Covent Garden,

OPERA AND CONCERT AGENCY,

7A, Hanover Street, London, W.

MADAME MELBA and the best Artists have been engaged through above agency.

Telegraphic address: "Alicetta," London.

THE HERBERT SIMMONS CONCERT PARTY.

For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, &c.

MISS CLARIBEL HYDE (Soprano),
Royal Albert Hall and St. James's Hall Concerts.

MR. BERTRAM PEARCE (Tenor),
St. James's Hall Concerts, &c.

MISS HETTY KIMBELL (Contralto),
Late Soloist, American Church, Nice.

MR. HERBERT SIMMONS (Bass),
Queen's Hall, St. James's Hall, and Crystal Palace Concerts, &c.

Address, 38, Vanbrugh Park, Blackheath, S.E.

LONDON CONCERT & CHOIR AGENCY.

SOLOISTS and CHORUS VOICES for Festivals, Oratorios, Concerts, Glee and Madrigal Societies, At Homes, Banquets, &c.
Mr. James Bates, Polytechnic, Regent Street, W.

MR. STEDMAN'S MUSICAL AGENCY

(Established 1877).

Artists for Opera, Theatre, Oratorio, At Homes, Banquets, &c.
Choruses, Choir Boys and Girls.
Singing Lessons and Coaching.
58, Berners Street, W.

MR. W. C. AINLEY, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (1884), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Correspondence. Terms moderate. Eastfield House, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who OBTAINED DEGREES OF MUS.D. AND MUS.B. at Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, London, and Durham Universities. Diplomas of L.R.A.M., A.Mus. L.C.M., L.Mus. L.C.M., F.R.C.O., and A.R.C.O.; Appointments at College and School of Music, and as English Cathedral and Parish Church Organists; Gold Medals, Silver Medals, Prizes, "Honours" and Pass Certificates (of the Colleges of Music) to the number of seven hundred. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Revision of Compositions, by Post, to correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Theory, Singing, Organ, and Pianoforte. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

REVISION OF MUSICAL COMPOSITIONS. Dr. Horton Allison, Mus.D., 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

MR. J. PERCY BAKER, A.R.A.M., Mus. Bac., Dunelm, teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Post. Personal Lessons in Pianoforte or Theory at own or pupil's residence; or, at 60, Berners Street, W. Schools attended. Address, 289, High Road, Lee, S.E.

MR. JOHN E. CAMPBELL (Composer of a Series of Organ Pieces, two Humoreskes for Piano, &c.—The Vincent Co.) gives CORRESPONDENCE LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c. Special attention given to Composition. Address, Cuba House, Ramsgate.

MR. A. CHATFIELD, F.R.C.O., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., prepares CANDIDATES for MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS, personally or by post. Schools attended. Engagements accepted for Organ Recitals and Accompanist. Address, 4, Granville Road, North Finchley, N., and at 33, Rathbone Place, W.

MR. T. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.R.C.O., L.Mus.T.C.L., gives LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., and prepares CANDIDATES for ARTS and MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Latest successes, Mus.Bac., Oxford and Durham, L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., F.R.C.O., A.R.C.O., &c. Sheppard Street, Stoke-on-Trent.

DR. CUTHBERT HARRIS, Mus. Doc., Dunelm, F.R.C.O., preparation Personally or by Post for Mus. Bac., R.C.O., and all other Exams. Many past successes. Moderate fees. Ardencote, Buckleigh Road, Streatham, S.W.

DR. HOCH'S CONSERVATOIRE for all branches of Music, in Frankfort-on-the-Main. The Summer Term commences March 1. Director, Professor Dr. B. Scholz. Tuition is given by Messrs. Director B. Scholz, Professor F. Kwast, L. Uzielli, E. Engesser, K. Friedberg, Music Director A. Glück, Frl. L. Mayer, and Ch. Eckel (in Pianoforte); Mr. H. Gelhaar (in Organ); Professor H. Heermann, Professor Naret-Koning and F. Bassermann, A. Hess, A. Leimer, and F. Küchler (in Violin and Viola respectively); Professor B. Cossmann and Professor Hugo Becker (in Violoncello); Messrs. Ed. Bellwidt and S. Rigutini, and Frl. Cl. Sohn (in Singing); Director Dr. Scholz and Messrs. Professor F. Knorr (in Theory and Composition); Mr. Professor K. Hermann (in Declamation and Mimics); Frl. del Lungo (in Italian Language). Prospectus to be had, gratis and Post-free, from the Secretary of the Dr. Hoch's Conservatoire, 4, Eschersheimerlandstrasse. Applications for entry should be made immediately, as only a limited number of pupils will be accepted.—The Management.

DR. ATHELSTAN G. IGGULDEN, Mus. Doc. (Dunelm, F.R.C.O., gives LESSONS and prepares for all MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by post. The Dingle, Reigate, Surrey.

OLIVER IVE, Mus. Bac., Oxon.—LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, COMPOSITION, &c., by correspondence or otherwise. Candidates prepared for University and other Examinations, as well as for Preliminary Arts. Moderate terms. Address, 24, Carmalt Gardens, Putney, S.W.

DR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac., Cantab.; Mus. Doc., Trinity College, Toronto; gives LESSONS, Personally or by Post, in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, FORM and ANALYSIS, ORCHESTRATION, ACOUSTICS, &c., and prepares for Musical Examinations. Latest successes: MUS. BAC., LONDON, Dec., 1901; DURHAM, 1901, 1900, and all previous years; OXFORD FINAL and FIRST MUS. BAC., 1900; F.R.C.O. and A.R.C.O., 1900 and 1901; L.R.A.M. (Composition and Pianoforte), 1900, 1899, &c.; A.R.C.M. (Theory of Music, Composition, and Pianoforte Teaching); CAMBRIDGE and DUBLIN, MUS. BAC., L.Mus. and A.Mus., L.C.M.; L.T.C.L., A.T.C.L., and Special Certificates, 1900, 1901, &c.; Senior Associated Board. Special and individual attention given to Correspondents. Terms moderate. Address, 70, Parkhill Road, London, N.W.

DR. F. J. KARN corrects MSS. for Publication, and writes Analyses of Classical Works for Examinations. 70, Parkhill Road, London, N.W.

MR. A. MANGELSDORFF, L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., Pianist, Coaches for DIPLOMAS in PIANOFORTE PLAYING and TEACHING. Paper work, postal. Address, Atherstone.

DR. MARCHANT, Mus.D., Oxon., F.R.C.O., (Author of "500 Fugue Subjects and Answers," Novello's Primers, No. 35), &c., PREPARES CANDIDATES for all Musical Examinations by Post. 10, Glebe Crescent, Stirling, N.B.

MR. H. H. L. MIDDLETON, Mus.B., desires to state that TWENTY-ONE of his Pupils were SUCCESSFUL at the A.R.C.M. EXAM., 1901. Hazelwood, Dollis Rd., Finchley, N.

SPECIAL COACHING for DIPLOMAS by Post. A.R.C.M., 1895-1901, SEVENTY-SEVEN passes, L.R.A.M., 1897-1901, TWENTY-SEVEN passes. Many successes in other Degrees. Lessons in all branches of Theory, Piano, Organ, and Singing. Address, Mr. H. H. L. MIDDLETON, MUS. BAC., F.R.C.O., Hazelwood, Dollis Road, Finchley, N.

DR. HAMILTON ROBINSON, Mus. Doc., Dunelm, A.R.A.M., F.R.C.O., Lecturer on Harmony in King's College, Lond., Organist and Choirmaster, St. Stephen's, South Kensington. PIANOFORTE and ORGAN LESSONS, HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, COMPOSITION, &c., Personally or by Correspondence. Preparation for University, R.C.O., and all other Examinations. Classes. 25, Palliser Road, West Kensington, W.

MR. STRETTON SWANN, Mus. Bac., Dunelm, F.R.C.O., gives LESSONS or prepares for EXAMINATIONS. Personally or by Post.
New Hydraulic Organ, seven minutes from London Bridge.
181, Longley Road, Tooting, S.W.

MR. ALFRED W. TOMLYN, Mus. Bac., Dunelm, L.Mus.T.C.L., COACHES for EXAMS. Lessons follow closely lines of latest Exam. papers. Terms strictly reasonable. Many years' experience. 58, Comiston Road, Edinburgh.

MR. ALLEN GILL, A.R.A.M., attends at 60, Berners Street, for LESSONS in VOICE PRODUCTION, SINGING, and for REPERTOIRE. For terms, apply to 21, Cathcart Hill, N.

THE VIRGIL CLAVIER PIANOFORTE METHOD.—Mr. STIEBLER COOK, A.R.A.M., gives LESSONS on the above system (recommended by Paderewski, Von Bülow, De Pachmann). The most rapid and certain means for acquiring a perfect technique. 17, Keppel St., Russell Sq., London, W.C.

MISS JEAN HUNTER, L.R.A.M. LESSONS at 60, Berners Street, W., in VOICE PRODUCTION, SINGING, and PIANOFORTE. Letters, 87, Herbert Rd., Plumstead.

ŠEVČÍK VIOLIN METHOD.
Upon which MM. Kubelik and Kocián have been trained.
PROFESSOR HERMAN KOENIG
(Of Prague, Pupil of Herr Ševčík)
AND
MISS ELOISE DAGMAR (Pianist and Vocalist)
Will give Private and Class LESSONS in VIOLIN and PIANOFORTE at the Brinsmead Rooms, Wigmore Street, W. (by kind permission of Messrs. Brinsmead).
The above method for teaching the violin is one that not only assures most rapid progress, but one that gives equal facility to the right and left hand.
For terms, &c., apply to Professor H. Koenig, 5, Chalcot Crescent, Bayswater, W.

TRAINING OF TENORS.—MR. DAVIDSON PALMER, Mus. Bac., Oxon., gives LESSONS at his residence and at the West-End. For terms, &c., address, 28, Digby Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MUSIC TEACHER desires to PURCHASE small CONNECTION or PARTNERSHIP. Prepares for all Exams. Address, Musicus, The Elms, Cargreen Road, S. Norwood.

SINGING, VOICE PRODUCTION, ELOCUTION, RECITATIONS, DEFECTS IN SPEECH, ACCOMPANYING.—For SALE, an old and well-established connection in large provincial town. Specialty Clergymen's sore throats. Income could be doubled by taking resident pupils. Owner retiring. First-class certificates and testimonials required. Address, first instance, Musical, care of Willings, Piccadilly, London, W.

SOLO BOY WANTED, for a Church at Ilford, Essex. Two Services Sunday, and Friday rehearsal. Liberal remuneration. Apply, W. T. Spencer, 2, Cleveland Villas, Cleveland Road, Ilford, Essex.

ST. MARGARET'S, Westminster.—WANTED, FOUR BOYS, with good Treble Voices. Must have some knowledge of Music. Free Education or money payment. Apply, Rev. J. Perkins, 4, Dean's Yard.

WANTED, at once, a SOLO BOY for a private Chapel in the country. Age about 12. Board, lodging, and education free. Evelyn, Countess of Craven, Ashdown Park, Shrivenham.

WANTED, Two SOPRANOS; also ALTO, TENOR, and BASS Voices, for the Choir of the Parish Church, Winchmore Hill, N. Write, stating previous experience and salary required, to Mr. J. Gilmour Laird, O. and C. M., care of R. A. Green, Winchmore Hill, N.

CHOIR SCHOLARSHIP.—VACANCY for BOY, at St. Barnabas, Pimlico, S.W. Education at Westminster City School. Address, Richard Lemaire, Organist.

ALTO WANTED, for All Saints', West Dulwich. Good reader indispensable. Liberal salary to suitable man. Apply, by letter, Hon. Secretary, 40, Thurlow Park Road, West Dulwich, S.E.

ALTO WANTED. £10. Apply, Tuesdays, 7.30. Grosvenor Chapel, South Audley Street, W.

ALTO WANTED, for Holy Trinity Church, Knightsbridge. Good reader essential. £12. Apply, C. S. Knight.

TENOR REQUIRED for Holy Trinity, Tulse Hill, S.W. £12. Sundays, 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Fridays, practice, 8 p.m. Apply, Dr. Walmsley Little, 119, Palace Road, Tulse Hill Park.

ST. ANNE'S, Soho. VACANCY for a voluntary TENOR. Write to the Precentor, 28, Soho Square, W.

RIPON CATHEDRAL. TENOR REQUIRED. Communicant. Stipend to begin at £85. Three original testimonials, with application, to be sent to J. Whitham, Esq., Chapter Clerk, Ripon.

BROMPTON ORATORY CHOIR.—WANTED, DEEP BASS and ALTO. Good readers. Apply, Musical Director.

ST. MARTIN-IN-THE-FIELDS, W.C.—BASS REQUIRED. Apply, Organist.

ALTO.—An experienced Alto, with splendid testimonials, requires POST. Write, Alto, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

MR. HENRY J. B. DART, Org., St. James's, Sussex Gardens, W., Mus. Dir. Boro. Poly. Inst., has VACANCY for ASSISTANT-PUPIL. The course of study offers a complete preparation for the Organists' profession. Choirmastership a specialty. Terms moderate. 14, Kilburn Priory, N.W.

THE ORGANIST of the Parish Church, Wrentham, Lowestoft, has a VACANCY for an ARTICLED PUPIL. Moderate premium. Address as above.

ARTICLED PUPIL.—The Private Organist at Sandringham has a VACANCY for a NON-RESIDENT PUPIL. For full particulars, address A. H. C., Cantelupe House, Dersingham, Norfolk.

MR. RICHARD LEMAIRE, Organist, St. Barnabas, Pimlico, has VACANCY for ARTICLED PUPIL. Fine organ. Daily services, &c. Address, 7, Albany Mansions, Albert Bridge, S.W.

THE ORGANIST of St. Michael's, Paddington, has a VACANCY for a PUPIL-ASSISTANT. Exceptional opportunity for studying Choir-training. Apply, Edmund Rogers, 45, Alma Square, N.W.

WANTED, immediately, ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER for Andover Parish Church. Three-manual organ. £40. Good opening for teaching. Apply, Dr. Joy, Vicarage, Andover.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED, for Willesden Presbyterian Church. Apply, by letter, with all particulars, to Mr. W. Thomson, 21, St. Albans Rd., Harlesden, N.W.

CHOIRMASTER (experienced, and good Boy Trainer) WANTED, for Church in W. suburb. Plain services. One with Alto or Tenor voice preferred. £25. Write, with copy testimonials. Alpha, 18, Nemoure Road, Acton, W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED, for Holsworthy Parish Church, Devon. Salary, £30. Fine Three-Manual Organ. Apply, Rector.

ORGANIST WANTED, for the Welsh Presbyterian Church, Charing Cross Road, W. For particulars, please apply, R. L. Whigham, 22, Brook Street, W.

ORGANIST (Assistant) WANTED. Church, East-end (City). Practice (lessons given) large organ. Assist choir. Tenor voice preferred. State age. Letter only. Organist, 18, Brooklyn Road, Goldhawk Road, W.

A PROFESSOR WANTED, in many towns, to act as Agent. Very good terms. Write for particulars to Professor, 182, Wardour Street, Oxford Street, W.

STAGE.—WANTED, YOUNG LADY APPRENTICE. Must have good voice, figure, and height. For song and dance. Must be educated, industrious. Good living-wage to commence. No premium required. Write, Alastor, care of Brown's Advertising Office, 17, Tothill Street, Westminster.

LADY WANTED, for CONCERTS, &c., to play short Solo and Pianoforte Accompaniments, sing well, and assist in Duologues. Good appearance, and resident in N. London. Visit Provinces occasionally. Good experience for young lady. Terms must be moderate. N. L., Messrs. Novello & Co., Ltd., Queen St., E.C.

PIANO TUNER WANTED for CHINA. Must be able to tone, regulate, and have knowledge of general repairs. Passage paid, and commencing salary £12 to £15 per month (according to abilities) with commission. Good prospects for a steady, reliable man. Full particulars to A. Allison and Co., Pianoforte Manufacturers, Leighton Road, Kentish Town, London, N.W.

FIRST-CLASS TUNER REQUIRED, at once. Send references and photo. S. Hermitage and Sons, Eastbourne.

TUNER.—Messrs. Duck, Son, and Pinker, Bath, have a VACANCY on their Staff for a first-class PIANO TUNER. A comfortable and permanent berth for a steady man. Send photo, stating age and references. A liberal salary and commission paid.

ABROAD.—As TUNER, REPAIRER, SALESMAN. Single. K. B., 99, Darnley Road, Gravesend.

IMPROVER for the General Music Business. REQUIRED a smart, gentlemanly youth. Write, with particulars of age, references, and salary expected (out-doors), to South Coast, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNER seeks RE-ENGAGEMENT. Knowledge of American Organs and Harmoniums. Aged 25. Apply, R. H., 183, Harvist Road, Kensal Rise, London.

TUNER (28) desires ENGAGEMENT. Knowledge of repairs, Organs, and Harmoniums. Smart; experienced; references. Tuner, 25, York Road, Erdington, Birmingham.

TUNER (First-class), 20 years' experience, good firms and for self, with own connection, to fill up time requires EMPLOYMENT every other week, within 50 miles of London. Age 35. Thoroughly reliable. Tuner, Park Cottage, Park Road, Teddington.

RELIABLE TUNER requires RE-ENGAGEMENT as INDOOR TUNER, in Show Rooms or Factory. 15 years' experience and character. Apply, H. C. B., Novello and Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNE YOUR OWN PIANO.—Easy instructions, by professional Tuner (36 years' experience). Postal Order, 1s. J. Bagshaw, 69, Park Road, Blackpool.

WANTED MANAGER for BRANCH in the MIDLANDS. Must be smart, energetic Salesman, with thorough knowledge of Sheet Music, Small Goods, and Instruments. Address, with references, stating experience, age, and salary required to W. W. C., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

Trinity College London (INST. 1872).

President: THE RIGHT HON. LORD COLERIDGE, M.A., K.C.
Warden: EDMUND H. TURPIN, MUS.D.
Director of Examinations: JAMES HIGGS, MUS.D.
Registrar: J. GORDON SAUNDERS, MUS.D.

FIFTY-SEVENTH HALF-YEARLY HIGHER EXAMINATIONS.

Diplomas and Certificates were presented at the Public Distribution by the Warden (Dr. E. H. Turpin), on Wednesday, January 15 last, at half-past eleven, to the following successful candidates:—

LICENTIATES IN MUSIC.—Frank Ellerton, William Ratcliffe, Alleyne John Warren, D. C. Wilson-Ewer, Mus.B.

ASSOCIATES IN MUSIC.—John Armitage, Percy Baker, Lilian Baylis, Lizzie Gertrude Muriel Boggis, Isabelle Beatrice Bond, Gertrude Annie Brookfield, Margaret Beatrix Burden, Laura Lister Cooper, Edith Florence Curtin, John Charles Dunlop, Norman Stanley Hamer, Lilian How, Stanley Dauphin Bunce James, Robert Paterson Macdougall, Ethel McNeille, Jessie Anderson Meredith, Eva Morton, Alfred Edward Potter, Robert Walker Robson, Marianne Adelaide Roff, Thomas Arthur Hollister Sheppard, Eleanor Ruth Sullivan, Mabel Franceys Ta'Bois, Alice Mary Vivian, Lilian Alice Wood, Alfred William Wright.

PRELIMINARY CERTIFICATE (For Associate in Music).—Charles James August Oppermann.

MATRICULATION.—Honours: Nora Beatrice Baldwin, Thomas Booth, Mary Goulden, Robert Paterson Macdougall, Melita Constance Winsloe. Pass: Thomas West Garrett, William Riddick.

PRACTICAL LICENTIATE (ORGAN).—Robert Walker Robson.

PRACTICAL LICENTIATE (PIANOFORTE).—Catherine Stapledon Hiley.

ORGAN ASSOCIATES.—Emily Anna C. Horner, Edith Agnes Richards.

CERTIFICATED ORGANISTS.—Stanley Browne, Roland Gilbert White.

ASSOCIATE VIOLINIST.—Albertha Flahey.

CERTIFICATED VIOLINISTS.—Isabella Kate Bunston, Mary Milverton Drake, Dora Kate Dyer, Mabel Emmeline King, Didi Luhn, Berita Villiers.

ASSOCIATE VOCALISTS.—Lily Harper, Jessie Hughes.

CERTIFICATED VOCALISTS.—Winifred Townsley Hoggett, Harry Ernest Hunt, Selina Maria Yarborough.

ASSOCIATE PIANISTS.—Edith Mary Baldry, Jane Elizabeth Birkett, Winifred Beatrice Critchley, Maud Edwards, Grace Lyall Fraser, Susie Thomas, Charlotte Toone, Lizzie Wheelock.

CERTIFICATED PIANISTS.—Constance Arnold, William James Baker, Miriam H. Benjamin, Lilian Ray Victoria Bland, May Bradbeer, Percy Brier, Edith Florence Bryant, Maude Mansfield Bryant, Ellen Frances Burnett, Evelyn Frances Mary Chapman, Maud Mary Chippendale, Muriel Beauchamp Collisson, Margaret M. Couldrey, Eleanor Margaret Crawford, Ernest Mortimer Cuttle, Ruth Croswella Dawson, May Elliott, Hilda Louise Fay, Jessie Lawson Ferguson, Ethel Fisher, Alice Lizzie Goddard, Mary Ottilie Griess, Priscilla Grubb, Katherine Ann Habberfield-Short, Edith Mary Hadland, George Alfred Harper, Jessie Holland, Linda May Holloway, Florence Larg, Mary Eliza Leaney, Agnes Charlotte Loggin, Sarah McKenzie, Dora Maishman, Ethel Mary Mankellow, Constance Rhoda Martyn, Maud Isabella Hair Masters, Florence Mary Montgomery, Mabel Ellen Malone Oldreive, Geoffrey Molyneux Palmer, Winifred Elizabeth Cheevers Peverley, Edith Shave, Blanche Stephens, Alfred Hoskin Strick, Lucy Stride, Constance Symes, Blanche Louise Thorn, Evelyn Laura Tivy, Maud Mary Trodd, Mabel Charlotte Upton, Helen Warner, Ethel Reaford West.

HARMONY CERTIFICATES.—Honours: Poppie Watts. Pass: Ernest Preston Whitehead.

Number of Candidates, 234. Total number of Passes, 116.

EXAMINERS.—G. E. Bambridge; G. H. Betjemann; Henry R. Bird; Sir Frederick Bridge, Mus.D.; Charles Copland; W. Creser, Mus.D.; A. E. Drinkwater, M.A.; A. J. Greenish, Mus.D.; James Higgs, Mus.D.; Rev. H. G. Bonavia Hunt, Mus.D.; Haydn Keeton, Mus.D.; C. W. Pearce, Mus.D.; Gordon Saunders, Mus.D.; E. H. Turpin, Mus.D.; and A. H. Walker, B.A., Mus.D.

By order, SHELLEY FISHER, Secretary.
Mandeville Place, Manchester Square, W.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC,

PRINCE CONSORT ROAD, SOUTH KENSINGTON, S.W.
Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1883.

Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.
President: H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.
Director: Sir C. HUBERT H. PARRY, D.C.L., M.A., Mus. Doc.
Hon. Sec.: CHARLES MORLEY, Esq., M.P.

THE HALF-TERM begins on Monday, February 10.

The EXAMINATION for ASSOCIATESHIP (A.R.C.M.) will be held in April, 1902. Last day for receiving Forms of Entry, March 8.

Syllabus and official Entry Forms, may be obtained at the College, Prince Consort Road, South Kensington.

FRANK POWNALL, Registrar.

PRIZE COMPETITION.

CHILDREN'S CORONATION SONG.

The Prize offered by the Proprietors of The School Music Review for the best Unison Song for use at celebrations in connection with the Coronation of His Majesty the King, has been awarded to the Rev. CANON TORRANCE, M.A., Mus. Doc.

Published in both notations in Novello's School Songs, No. 676. Price 1½d. It is also given as a Supplement to the February number of The School Music Review.

John Broadwood & Sons'

LIMITED,
NEW SHORT OVERSTRUNG GRAND

105 GUINEAS.

"MULTUM IN PARVO."

33, GREAT PULTENEY STREET, LONDON, W.

THE LONDON ORGAN SCHOOL

AND INTERNATIONAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC,
Established 1865.
22, PRINCES STREET, CAVENDISH SQ., W. (close to Oxford Circus).
Director and Principal: T. H. YORKE TROTTER, M.A., Mus.D., Oxon.
Director of the Violin School: WILHELM SACHSE.

The School is open daily from 9 a.m. till 9 p.m., and provides a THOROUGH EDUCATION for PROFESSIONAL and AMATEUR MUSICIANS. Lessons may begin on any date, and a single subject taken if desired.

PRIVATE LESSONS are given in Harmony, Counterpoint, and Composition; Pianoforte, Organ, Singing, Violin, Viola, Violoncello and Double-Bass; all Wind and other Orchestral Instruments; Choir Training, Elocution and Stage Deportment, Modern Languages, &c.

DAY AND EVENING CLASSES are held in Harmony and Counterpoint, Musical Dictation, Quartet and Ensemble Playing, and in Elocution (Mr. Charles Fry), and Modern Languages.

The School has two Full Orchestras, a String Orchestra, and two Choral Classes.

The CONCERT ORGAN and two other three-manual Instruments are available for practice.

Prospectus on application to the Secretary.

Paper, 1s. / Imitation leather, 2s. } BOSWORTH EDITION, No. 321. { Red cloth & gold letter, 3s. 6d.

CORONATION ALBUM

CONTENTS BEAUTIFULLY ENGRAVED.

1. Coronation March (Meyerbeer), 2. King Edward March (Aletter), 3. Queen Alexandra March (Fliersbach), 4. For King and Country March (Jessel), 5. Tannhäuser March (Wagner), 6. Lohengrin Bridal March (Wagner), 7. Faust Soldiers' March (Gounod), 8. Scipio (Handel), 9. Union Jack (Auld lang Syne) March (Aletter).

OSCAR BERINGER

Daily Technical Studies, 6s. net.
New and enlarged Scale and Arpeggio Manual, 2s. net.

IN THE PRESS.

PIANOFORTE TUTOR

In this work, Mr. Beringer has gone entirely out of the beaten track and produced an elementary method on quite a novel system, the originality and simplicity of which should certainly prove of immense interest to the profession.

BOSWORTH EDITION.

LASSEN, ED. New Songs: Dear Home, Love's Message, Cherished Dreams, Roses of Palestine.

RANDEGGER, A. New Songs: Lover's Thoughts, When you're away, Flower's Message.

GERMER, H. Morceaux Célèbre Album, 2s. net, containing works by Lasson, Kjerulf, Schumann, Tschaikowsky, &c.

ŠEVČÍK METHOD.

KOCIÂN CONCERT, VIENNA, JAN. 22.

BOSWORTH AND CO.
LONDON, LEIPZIG, PARIS, VIENNA.

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

CASES

FOR BINDING THE NUMBERS FOR THE PAST YEAR
VOL. XLII.,
PRICE 1S. 6D.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE MUSICAL TIMES
AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.
FEBRUARY 1, 1902.

DR. JOHN BLOW

(1648-1708).

Two more-or-less important events in the life of this old English worthy have given his biographers some trouble—(1) the place of his birth, (2) the source of his degree of Doctor of Music. The earlier writers, with the exception of Anthony à Wood, give North Collingham, a village in Nottinghamshire, as the place where John Blow drew his first breath; but as no entry of his baptism is to be found in the registers of that parish, such information might reasonably be considered doubtful. Recent research, on the part of Mr. Thomas M. Blagg, of Newark, in the registers of that town, proves that a John Blow was baptized in the Parish Church, Newark, on February 23, $164\frac{8}{9}$. In 1646, one Henry Blow married a Katherine Langworth, and she was a widow: they had three children, Henry, born in 1647; John (above mentioned), and Katherine. As Newark is within six miles of North Collingham, the latter place may probably have been after all the birthplace of Dr. Blow. Perhaps his parents were temporarily residing there, and may there not have been some sentimental reason for the baptisms of those Blow infants to have taken place at Newark? This is the question: Is the John Blow in the Newark baptismal registers our John Blow? The case, as so fully and ably stated by Mr. Blagg in the Athenæum of December 7, 1901, and to which we referred in our last issue (p. 30) is, we must confess, strong. On the other hand, Anthony à Wood (1632-1695), in his biographical notes preserved in the Bodleian Library, states that Blow was born in London, but only on the verbal information of Dr. Benjamin Rogers. Therefore, in the light of the Newark discovery, and until other evidence be forthcoming, North Collingham may be regarded as the birthplace of Dr. John Blow, and the year 1648 as that of his entry into the world.

Nothing is known of his parentage or ancestry, and the first definite knowledge that we have of Master John Blow is that he was one of the Children of the Chapel Royal upon the re-establishment of that sanctuary at the Restoration, in 1660. He must have begun his composing achievements in his boyhood, and during his choristership, as Clifford's 'Divine Services and Anthems'—dated 1663, when Blow was only fifteen—contains three anthems by him: 'I will magnifie,' 'Lord, Thou hast been our refuge,' and 'Lord, rebuke me not.' Among his fellow choristers at the Chapel Royal were Pelham Humphrey—a pupil of Lully's, the composer of some fine anthems and known to everybody as the author of the 'Grand chant,'—and William Turner. These three boys collaborated in the production of an anthem, thereby called the Club Anthem, a setting of the words 'I will always give thanks,' each young gentleman being responsible for one of its three movements. The origin of this anthem is variously stated; but the juvenile joint production doubtless owed its inception to the friendship which existed between this distinguished trio of boys. Pelham Humphrey is said to have composed the first movement, Willie Turner the bass solo, and Johnnie Blow the last chorus. While still a chorister at the Chapel Royal, Blow also set to music Herrick's 'Goe, perjur'd man,' in imitation of Carissimi's 'Dite o cieli,' the result of a challenge made to Master Blow by Charles II. to produce something as good as that by the Italian master.

Pepys—the ever-voluble—furnishes a side-light on Blow as a chorister, that is assuming his spelling of a certain name is not above reproach. The gossiping diarist records, under date of August 21, 1677, the following:—

> This morning come two of Captain Cooke's boys, whose voices are broke, and are gone from the Chapel, but have extraordinary skill; and they and my boy, with his broken voice, did sing three parts; their names were Blaew and Loggins; but notwithstanding their skill, yet to hear them sing with their broken voices, which they could not command to keep in tune, would make a man mad—so bad it was.

The Master of the Children at the Restoration and after, was Captain Henry Cooke, a musician who had obtained his commission for services as a soldier in the Royalist army. He had been a chorister in the Chapel Royal in the reign of Charles I., and subsequently became 'Composer of the King's Private musick for Voices.' Cooke was doubtless one of the teachers in music of John Blow; his other instructors in the art are stated to have been John Hingston, one of the musicians of Charles I., and afterwards organist to Oliver Cromwell, and Dr. Christopher Gibbons.

The great event in the life of our composer occurred in the year 1669, when he became organist of Westminster Abbey, at the age of twenty-one! He succeeded Albertus Bryne, who is described as 'that famous velvet-fingered organist.' Pluralities abounded in those days, as the following extracts from the 'Old Cheque Book of the Chapel Royal' bear testimony, in the case of the young organist of Westminster Abbey:—

> $167\frac{3}{4}$ Mr. Roger Hill, Clearke, one of the Gent of his Majties Chappell, departed this life the 2 day of March 1673, in whos place was sworne Mr. John Blow the 16th day of March.
>
> 1674 Mr. Pelham Humfrey, one of the Gent of his Majties Chappell Royall and Master of the children, departed this life at Windsor the 14th day of July 1674, in whose place as Master of the children came Mr. John Blow, and as Gent of the Chappell was sworne Mr. William Powell, a tennor from Salesbury, the 21 of July 1674.

In the same year (1674), Blow took unto himself a wife in the person of Elizabeth Braddock, a daughter of Edward Braddock, a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal, and clerk of the Cheque to that establishment, and also a member of the choir of Westminster Abbey. The nuptial ceremony took place in St. Paul's, Covent Garden—in the same church wherein John Goss was married some 150 years later—on September 30, 1674.* The Marriage Licence, issued from the Registry of the Vicar-General of Canterbury, was in these terms:—

Blow John of St. Margaret, Westminster gent. bachelor, about 26, and Elizabeth Bradocke of same, spinster, about 20; consent of father, Edward Bradocke gent. at St. Paul's, Covent Garden, St. Margaret Westminster or St. Martin-in-the-Fields, 23 Sep. 1674.

Two years later, while still holding the appointments of Organist of Westminster Abbey, and Master of the Children of the Chapel Royal, he became organist of the latter place in succession to Dr. Christopher Gibbons.

Where did Blow obtain his degree of Doctor of Music? This question has baffled all attempts at a satisfactory answer. Anthony à Wood—and he has been copied by many others,—says it was an honorary degree conferred upon Blow by the Archbishop of Canterbury, the celebrated Sancroft. The University of Oxford has also been named, but unfortunately the names of musicians thus honoured were frequently omitted from the list of graduates. The following entry from the catalogue of music preserved in the Bodleian Library may have been the exercise that Blow composed for his degree:—

The Act song at Oxford 1679 in English: beg. 'Awake my lyre,' composed by Dr. John Blow. The score and partes, Instrumentall and Vocall, of a piece of a Songe composed by Dr. Blow designed for the Act 1678, but that Act being putt off, it was not finisht: the next yeare 1679 it was transcribd and performd as a 2d songe in the Theatre on fryday the 11 of July: with addition onely of a prelude of Mr. Bannisters in the same key, to bringe the songe in.

That our composer was not a stranger to Oxford, is shown by the subjoined titles, &c., of manuscripts in the Bodleian Library:—

The Latin Act song at Oxford 1671: beg. 'Eia eruditum,' in alcaics. These are the wordes of the Songe I composed for the Theatre with Instrumental musick which was performed the 7th of July beinge friday, 1671.

Vocal and instrumental parts of an Oxford Act song, beginning 'Diua quo tendis,' by Dr. Blow.

Here is another puzzling question: Did Dr. Blow resign the post of organist of Westminster Abbey, or was he displaced in favour of his pupil, Henry Purcell? This interrogation has perplexed more than one investigator, and unfortunately no definite reply seems possible. 'But do not the Abbey Chapter Books give authoritative information on this point?' Alas! they do not. Even Purcell's appointment is not recorded. One thing, however, seems certain: that Purcell became organist of the Abbey in 1680, and that he held the post till his death in 1695. During those fifteen years, Blow had more leisure to attend to his Chapel Royal and other duties. What happened at Purcell's death in regard to the Abbey appointment will be told in due course.

It may be convenient at this point to mention that there is no evidence of Dr. Blow's ever having held the organistship of St. Margaret's Church, Westminster, as some biographers have stated. As an organist he was held in the highest repute. With Purcell, he took part in the memorable 'battle of the organs,' at the Temple Church, when Father Smith and Renatus Harris contested for the honour of providing that sanctuary with an organ—Smith engaged Blow and Purcell, then both in their prime, to play, and Harris employed Draghi, organist to Queen Catherine, to 'touch' his instrument — but Smith, who doubtless owed not a little to the skill of Purcell and Blow, came off victorious.

In no less esteem was John Blow held as a great composer. In 1681 he composed the New Year's Ode for the Court, beginning 'Great Sir, ye joy of all our hearts,' and in 1684, the year of the Temple organ contest, he set John Oldham's Ode for St. Cecilia's Day, the second celebration of its kind. It seems that he published the latter work before its performance, being probably influenced thereto by the success which had attended the issue of Purcell's Ode, composed in the preceding year. It may be interesting to give the preliminary announcement of the work:—

ADVERTISEMENT.

There is now in the Press a most excellent Musical Entertainment to be performed at the Musical Feast on St. Cecilia's Day next, Nov. 22, 1684. The words made by the late ingenious Mr. John Oldham, Author of the Satyr on the Jesuits, and other excellent Poems; and set to music in two, three, four, or five parts by Dr. John Blow, Master of the Children, and one of the Organists of His Majesty's Chapel Royal.

This Ode—scored, like Purcell's, for strings only—was first performed at Stationers' Hall, where the festivals were held for many years in succession, and for the use of which a charge of £2 was made.

A curious statement of arrears due from the King's purse to Blow is preserved in the Bodleian Library. Here it is, dated the year in which Bach and Handel were born:—

Arrears due to Dr. John Blow in 1685 as one of the Musicians of Charles II.

To John Blow for his Liverys due at ye sevll feasts of St Andrew 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, each Livery £16 2 6	193 10 0
To him more for keeping and teaching two boys for 6 years at 40 poud	240 0 0
	£433 10 0

Rather a large bill, considering the purchasable value of a sovereign in those days, compared with that of 1902.

* The entry in the marriage register, though apparently dated September 3, is clearly intended for the 30th of that month, as the wedding could not possibly have taken place before the issue of the licence.

Upon the accession of James II., Blow became a member of the Royal Band and composer in ordinary to His Majesty. At the coronation of that monarch he, with Purcell, Child, and Staggins, sang among the basses in the choir. A further addition to his duties dates from the year 1687, when, in succession to Michael Wise, Blow became Almoner and Master of the boys at St. Paul's Cathedral. This post he held for six years, when (in 1693) he retired in favour of his pupil, Jeremiah Clark. An old and mutilated document, dated April 21, 1687, and preserved in the archives of Westminster Abbey, is a lease from the Bishop of Rochester, as Dean of the Abbey, to John Blow, Mus. Doc. It relates to property in the Great Sanctuary—of a cellar, with a loft, edifices and buildings over the same, let to Dr. Blow for forty years at a yearly rental of 6s. 8d.!

The composition by which Dr. Blow is best known is his beautiful anthem, 'I beheld, and, lo, a great multitude,' the date of its composition being assigned to the close of James the Second's reign (circa 1688). An interesting anecdote, on the authority of Samuel Weely, a celebrated bass singer and a pupil of our composer's, is told concerning this anthem. The King had been much struck with an anthem by some Italian composer which he had heard in the royal chapel. His Majesty asked Blow if he could 'make one as good.' The Englishman thought he could, and moreover promised to have the anthem ready by the following Sunday. The promise was fulfilled, and this famous anthem was sung. At the conclusion of the service the King sent Father Petre to inform Blow that His Majesty was greatly pleased with it, 'but,' added Petre, 'I myself think it too long.' 'That,' answered Blow, 'is the opinion of but one fool, and I heed it not.' The priest was so nettled by this expression of contempt that he meditated revenge, and influenced the King to the extent that Blow was suspended, but only for a very brief period, as the Revolution occurred shortly after.

Upon the death of Henry Purcell (November 21, 1695), Blow, after an interval of fifteen years, resumed the organistship of Westminster Abbey, and retained that important office for the remainder of his life. A royal warrant, preserved in the Bodleian Library, is interesting—

30 Novemr. 1695.

These are to require you to swear and admit Dr. John Blow and Mr. Bernard Smith into ye Places & Quality of Tuners of ye Regal, Organs, Virginals, Flutes & Recorders, and all other kind of wind Instruments in Ordinary to His Maty in the place & upon the decease of Mr. Henry Purcell, to enjoy the said Place equally between them, and ye Longer Liver of them to enjoy ye whole Place with all Salaries, Wages & all other Rights, Profits, Privileges, & advantages there-unto belonging in as full & ample manner as Mr. Henry Purcell did enjoy the same, And for so doing so, this shall be your Warrant.

Given under my hand this 30th day of November 1695, in ye Seventh year of His Maties Reign.

Dorsett.

To ye Gentlemen Ushers, Daily Waiters in Ordinary, to His Maties, or one of them.

Blow paid a tribute to the memory of his illustrious pupil in a composition entitled :—

An Ode on the death of Mr. Henry Purcell; Late servant to His Majesty and organist of the Chapel Royal and of St. Peter's Westminster.

The words by Mr. Dryden and sett to Musick by Dr. Blow.

This Ode, which begins 'Mark how the lark and linnet sing,' was published by Henry Playford in 1696. In the following year, Blow was living on an estate at Hampton, where he composed an anthem for the opening of St. Paul's Cathedral, a setting of the words 'I was glad when they said unto me, we will go unto the house of the Lord.' A copy of this unprinted anthem, in the Ely Cathedral collection, bears the following note :—

Dr. Blow, Hampton Town, Oct. ye 15, 1697. 'Anthem for ye opening of St. Paul's Cathedral, 1697.

In the same year he wrote another anthem, 'Praise the Lord,' in celebration of the peace of Ryswick, and the London Gazette of March 14, 1697, announces a music-making in these terms :—

Wednesday next, being the 16th inst., will be performed in York-buildings [Adelphi] a Consort of New Musick, for the benefit of Dr. Blow and Mr. Paisible, beginning at 8.

The name of the latter gentleman—'a famous master of the flute and a composer for that instrument'—is sometimes vegetarianized as Peasable.

Dr. Blow had the distinction of being the first to hold the appointment of Composer to the Chapel Royal. The old Cheque Book records the fact thus :—

1699 Upon a new establishment of a composer's place for the Chapell Royal Dr. John Blow was admitted into it by a warrant from the Right Reverend Dean, and sworn in by mee Ralph Battell S. D., Wittness Edw. Braddock, Clerk of the Checke.

His salary as composer was originally £40 per annum, subsequently increased to £73. An extract from Chamberlayne's 'Angliæ Notitia, or the present state of England, with divers remarks upon the ancient state thereof,' gives the following Whitakerian information, so to speak, in regard to the Chapel Royal appointments of the year 1704 :—

Dr. John Blow, as composer, £73 per annum.
	As Master of Musick, and for teaching Ten Children ..	£240*
	As First Organist	£73
Mr. Francis Pigot, as Second Organist ..		£73

* This sum included the cost of board and lodging of the Children.

From this it will be seen that his Chapel Royal emoluments alone were not inconsiderable, especially when we bear in mind the value of money in those days.

The year 1700 saw the publication of a very important work, prefixed with the composer's portrait drawn by R. White, and entitled:—

Amphion Anglicus | A | Work | of many | Compositions, | for one, two, three, and four | voices: | with several Accompagnements of | Instrumental Musick; | and | A Thorow-Bass to each song: | figur'd for an | Organ, Harpsichord, or Theorboe-Lute | By Dr. John Blow.

London:

Printed by William Pearson, for the Author; and to be sold at his House in the Broad-Sanctuary, over-against Westminster-Abby, and by Henry Playford, at his Shop in the Temple-Change, Fleet-street, MDCC.

The language of the dedication is high-flown: here are some extracts:—

To Her Royal Highness, the Princess Ann of Denmark.

Madame,

The excellent Art of Musick, was thought by many of the Wisest Ancients, to have derived its Original immediately from Heaven; as one of the First, most beneficial Gifts of the Divine Goodness to Mankind: thereby to draw and allure, the old, rude, and untaught World, into Civil Societies; and so to soften and prepare their Minds for the easier reception of all other Accomplishments of Wisdom and Vertue.

. . . . . .

Give me leave, Madame, to tell You, I am preparing, as fast as I can . . . a Second Musical Present . . . my Church Services, and Divine Compositions.

To these, in truth, I have ever more especially consecrated the Thoughts of my whole Life. All the rest I consider but as the Blossoms, or rather the Leaves; those I only esteem as the Fruits of all my Labours in this kind. With them I began my first Youthful Raptures in this Art: With them, I hope calmly and comfortably to finish my days. Nor will my Mind be ever at rest, till I have offer'd them up to God, for the Publick use of the best Church in the Christian World, under the Propitious Authority of your Royal Highness's name.

May it please Your Royal Highness

I am Your most Humble, most Dutiful, and most devoted Servant,

John Blow.

From the foregoing, it will be seen that Blow contemplated the issue of his sacred compositions in a similar form, but this project was never carried out. The 'Amphion Anglicus' contains no less than fifteen laudatory poems, more or less of a doggerel character, in praise of its composer. Some were by old pupils—e.g., W. Crofts (Dr. Croft), organist of St. Ann's, Soho, whose concluding lines are:—

As I my Voice mature in Judgment raise
And Imitate the Beauties now I Praise.

and Henry Hall (Senr.), organist of Hereford Cathedral, who burst into poetry after this manner:—

The art of Descant, late our Albion's boast
With that of Staining Glass, we thought was lost;
Till in this work we all with Wonder view,
What ever Art, with order'd Notes can do,
Corelli's Heights, with Great Bassani's too;
And Britain's Orpheus learn'd his Art from you.

Tom D'Urfey expressed himself in sentiments thus laudatorywise:—

So whilst Apollo's Race can sing
Great Blow will be true Musick's King.

The following receipt, preserved in the Bodleian Library, doubtless refers to the issue of 'Amphion Anglicus,' and shows that payment in advance was not unknown in 1699:—

Received this 7th of July 1699 of Mr. Phil Hart 8s being the first payment of a Subscription to the above mention'd collection of Songs: and upon Payment of four more a Book shall be deliver'd by me to the Bearer hereof.

Jo Blow.

An example of the manner of 'giving out' hymn-tunes on the organ two hundred years ago is furnished in the following extract from an oblong folio book entitled:—

The Psalms by Dr. Blow set full for the Organ or Harpsichord as they are Play'd in Churches or Chapels. [1700?]

Psalm the 100. Proper tune.

Here lies the Body of JOHN BLOW, Doctor in MUSICK
Who was Organist Compofer and Master of the Children of the Chapel
Royal for the ſpace of 35 Years,
In the Reigns of
K. Charles the 2d K. James the 2d
K. William and Q. Mary and
Her preſent Majeſty Q. ANNE:
And alſo Organiſt of this Collegiate Church about 25 Years.
He was ſcholar to the excellent Muſician
Dr Chriſtopher Gibbons
and Maſter to the famous Mr H. Purcell, and moſt of the Eminent Maſters in Muſick ſince
His own Muſical Compoſitions,
(Eſpecially his Church Muſick) are a far nobler Monument to his Memory,
than any other can be raiſed
for Him.

THE MONUMENT TO DR. JOHN BLOW IN WESTMINSTER ABBEY.

Photographed specially for this article by Mr. Thomas J. Wright.

Concerning the royal functions in which he had a share, mention must be made of the two anthems composed by him for the coronation of James II.—'Behold, O God, our Defender' and 'God spake sometimes in visions'—and his participation in the funeral of William III., for which, according to an old document preserved in Westminster Abbey, he received the odd sum of seven shillings and ten pence!

Dr. Blow 'dyed,' as the Cheque Book states, on October 1, 1708, aged sixty. He 'had his full pay for both places to Christmas'—i.e., the Chapel Royal appointments of Organist and Composer, and Master of the Children. We give a complete copy of his will:—

In the name of God. Amen.

The 3rd day of January year 1707 I John Blow of Parish of St Margaretts Westminster county Middlesex Doctor Musick being sick in body, but of sound and perfect mind and memory thanks be given unto God therefore Calling to mind the mortality of my fflesh and knowing it is appointed for all men once to dye Do make and ordain this my last will and testament (that is to say) first and principally I give and recommend my soul into the hands of God who gave it hoping I shall be saved through the merits of death and passion of my Saviour Jesus Christ And as for my body it being of the mass and substance of the earth to the earth I commit to be decently buried at the discretion of my executrickes hereafter named And for such worldly goods and estate as it hath pleased God to bless me with in this life (my debts and funeral charges being first paid and satisfied) I give devise and dispose of the same in manner and forme following (that is to say) Imprimis I give and bequeath unto my daughter Katherine Blow my two messauges or tenements in the Great Sanctuary in Westminster aforesaid which I hold by lease or leases from the Dean and Chapter of Westminster aforesaid and to my daughter Elizabeth Blow my two messauges or tenements in Orchard Street in Westminster which I hold by lease from Sir Robert Pye for and during all the rest and residue of the terme or termes to come in the said lease or leases paying out of the said two last messauges or tenements to her sister Mary Blow Three pounds per annum lawful money of Greate Brittain by quarterly payments without any deduction for taxes.

Item I give and bequeath to my said daughter Elizabeth Blow all that messauge and tenement in the Great Sanctuary Westminster aforesaid now in possession of my father-in-law Edward Braddock Gentleman which I hold by lease from the Dean and Chapter of Westminster aforesaid.

Item I give to my said daughter Mary Blow my three messauges or tenements in Duck Lane in Westminster aforesaid which I hold by lease or leases from Sir Robert Pye for and during all the rest and residue of the terme or termes to come in the said lease or leases.

Item I give and bequeath unto my said three daughters Katherine, Elizabeth and Mary Blow all that my copyhold estate situate lying and being in the towne of Hampton county Middlesex with the appurtenances thereunto belonging to be sold to the best purchaser and the money arising thereby to be equally divided between them share and share alike together with all the goods thereunto belonging.

Item I give unto Elizabeth Luddington my true and faithful servant the summe of one hundred pounds lawfull money of Greate Brittain and Ten pounds of like lawfull money to buy her mourning, also my rings which I wear, all my wearing cloaths, morning gowne, and linnen.

Item I give and bequeath to my sister Cage fifty pounds of lawfull money of Greate Brittain, and ten pounds of like lawfull money to buy her mourning.

Item I give to my Neice Elizabeth Blow fifty pounds of lawfull money of Greate Brittain to be disposed of as my said daughters shall think fitt for her use, and six pounds of the like lawfull money to buy her mourning.

Item I give my said daughters all my arrears that shall become due to me att the time of my decease whatsover to be equally divided amongst them paying the legacies and debts out of the first moneys they shall receive of mine.

Item All the rest and residue of my Estate whatsoever both real and personale plate linnen and household goods I give and bequeath unto my said three daughters Katherine Elizabeth and Mary Blow equally to be divided between them share and share alike.

Lastly I doe nominate and appoint my said three daughters Katherine Elizabeth and Mary Blow executrices of this my last Will, and also do nominate and appoint the Rev. Dr. Ralph Battle sub-dean of her Majestys Chapell Royall (to whom I give a guinea to buy him a ring) trustee of this my last will and testament Revoking and making void all former or other will or wills, legacies bequests or executors by me heretofore named willed or bequeathed Ratifying and confirming this and noe other to be my last will and testament. In witness whereof I hereunto have sett my hand and seale the day and year first above written and in the sixth year of the reigne of our souveraigne Lady Queene Anne of Greate Brittain.

John Blow.

Signed sealed and published and pronounced and declared by the said John Blow to be his last will and testament in the presence of Tho Whitehead Henry Hart Snr Alex Hazelar his servant.

These words being interlined in the sixteenth line—viz. to my daughter Elizabeth Blow.

Dr. Blow was buried, near his pupil, Henry Purcell, in the north aisle of Westminster Abbey, 'against the door going up to the organ,' as the Burial-book records, referring of course to the then location of the Abbey instrument. We give a photograph, taken specially for this article, of Dr. Blow's monument in Westminster Abbey. The celebrated Gloria, from his service in C, engraved thereupon, is said to have been sung at St. Peter's, Rome. Its introduction into the service of that church was due to Cardinal Howard, to whom a copy was given by the Rev. Dr. Battell, Sub-Dean of the Chapel Royal.

His wife predeceased him. Of their five children, John—who died at the age of fifteen, and who was buried in the cloisters—showed great promise of musicianship; in the words of Dr. Busby, 'he was a youth of great towardness and extraordinary hopes.' The last surviving child, a daughter, who died in 1738, was buried in her father's grave. She bequeathed the sum of one shilling to her brother-in-law, besides 'eight guineas which he had borrowed from her servant, if he did not repay her.' It is evident that Miss Mary Blow had a firm belief in the maxim: 'Where there's a will there's a way.'

Dr. Blow was a very voluminous composer. Very little of his music has, however, been printed. The manuscripts are scattered in various places—e.g., the libraries of the British Museum; the Bodleian and Christ Church, Oxford; the Fitzwilliam, Cambridge; the Royal College of Music; St. Michael's College, Tenbury; and in the private collections of Dr. W. H. Cummings, Mr. John S. Bumpus, Mr. T. W. Taphouse, and others. To give a list of the many compositions would serve no useful purpose, even were it possible to do so. The majority were written for the Church. Mr. Myles Foster, in his 'Anthems and Anthem Composers,' gives the titles of upwards of 100 anthems, and no less than fourteen services can be traced. A thematic catalogue of the sacred compositions, made by Vincent Novello, is in the British Museum (ADD. MSS. 33,239 f. 117). Several of the anthems have orchestral accompaniments. As to other compositions, in addition to those already referred to, mention should be made of the Odes, &c., he composed for the St. Cecilia's Day celebrations of 1684, 1691, 1695 (a Te Deum and Jubilate, scored for two violins, two trumpets, and bass) and 1700; several Odes for New Year's Day; an 'Elegy on the much lamented loss of Queen Mary'; many sacred songs and duets (in Playford's Harmonia Sacra, 1688 and 1714, &c.), catches (printed in the Catch Club, the Pleasant Musical Companion), and secular songs, contained in Joyful Cuckoldom (1693) and other collections of the day. His only work for the stage was a setting of Venus and Adonis, the manuscript of which is in the Chapter Library, Westminster.

The instrumental works include organ music and the following published works, both bearing somewhat quaint titles:—

A choice collection of Lessons, being excellently Sett to the Harpsichord, viz., Old Simon the King, Moteley's Maggot, Mortlack's Ground, and several others. By JOHN BLOW, Mus. Doc., and HENRY PURCELL. London. 1705.

A choice Collection of Lessons for the Harpsichord, Spinnet, &c., containing four Setts, As Grounds, Almands, Corants, Sarabands, Minuets, and Jiggs. By JOHN BLOW, Mus. Doc.

In his article on 'Variations' in Grove's 'Dictionary of Music and Musicians' (vol. iv., p. 219), Sir Hubert Parry refers to one of Blow's Grounds.

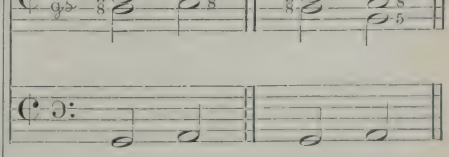
The compositions of Blow were to some extent influenced by those of his fellow-chorister, Pelham Humphrey, who, as a pupil of Lully's, had acquired a certain freedom of expression frowned upon by the old dry-as-dust contrapuntists of the time, and who, like the poor, are always with us. Much of Blow's Church music is written in triple rhythm, and in the verse anthems his frequent use of the alto solo—of which 'I beheld, and lo!' contains a most beautiful example—is greatly and melodiously in evidence. His licences in harmony called forth the severe censure of Dr. Burney. Even in our own day, Ouseley, while admitting that the compositions of Blow contain 'some masterly movements,' says, 'he always appears to have been trying experiments in harmony, and contriving new combinations and discords, and in the majority of cases his attempts were not successful. In his case, as in many subsequent ones, the pursuit of "originality at any price" has interfered sadly with what otherwise might have proved a very brilliant career.'*

Against this must be placed the opinion of Henry Purcell, his pupil, who referred to his master, Dr. Blow: 'as one of the Greatest Masters in the World.' In this connection the following well-expressed words of Mr. W. Barclay Squire, the writer of the article on Blow in the 'Dictionary of National Biography,' merit quotation:—

His compositions have for long been most undeservedly neglected. During his lifetime he was overshadowed by Purcell, and in later years the attack which Burney made upon his music deterred musicians from investigating its merits for themselves. Those who have done so are unanimous in thinking that Burney's strictures reflect more discredit upon his critical acumen than upon Blow's music, which was in many respects far in advance of the age in which he wrote, and displays an extraordinary degree of power and individuality.

Testimony to his organ playing is borne by the Rev. Arthur Bedford, who states in his book, entitled 'The Great Abuse of Musick' (1711), that Blow was 'reckon'd the Greatest Master in the World for playing most gravely and seriously in his Voluntaries.' His fame as a teacher is known by his greatest pupil, Henry Purcell; among others who studied under him were Dr. Croft, John Robinson, and Jeremiah Clark. In this connection it may be interesting to refer to the fact that Dr. Blow may have contemplated a treatise on the theory of music. The British Museum contains a manuscript in his handwriting (ADD. MSS. 34,072), headed 'Rules for playing a Thorough Bass upon Organ or Harpsicon.' We give an extract from this curious old document:—

To all counterpoint notes being a samibreif, minom, or chrochet (unless a 6th), you must play w^th^ your Right hand an 8th, 5th, & 3d, as it shall happen most convenient to your hand: not playing two 8ths or 5ths ascending or descending together. It is a general rule when your Bass ascends to avoid playing 5ths & 8ths in counterpoint, your Treble must descend towards your Bass. But you may play as many 3ds or sixes ascending or descending as you please, they being imperfect cords.



* 'The History of Music.' By Emil Naumann. Cassell: 1886, vol. ii., p. 753. (Sir F. A. Gore Ouseley contributed the chapters on English Music in this work.)

In conclusion, the appearance and personality of the subject of this biography can best be described in the words of Sir John Hawkins, who says: 'Dr. Blow was a very handsome man in his person, and remarkable for a gravity and decency in his deportment suited to his station, though he seems by some of his compositions to have been not altogether invincible to the delights of a convivial hour. He was a man of blameless morals, and of a benevolent temper; but was not so insensible of his own worth as to be totally free from the imputation of pride. Among church composers he has few equals, and scarce any superior.'

For kind help in the preparation of this biographical sketch—the compilation of which has not by any means been an easy task—thanks are due to the following friends:—

Sir Frederick Bridge, Mr. John S. Bumpus, Dr. W. H. Cummings (for kindly lending his Closterman portrait of Dr. Blow for reproduction), the Warden of St. Michael's College, Tenbury (the Rev. John Hampton), and last, but not least, Mr. T. W. Taphouse, of Oxford, for specially valuable aid.

F. G. E.

THE CHAPEL ROYAL.

An old-world environment is a characteristic feature of St. James's Palace. The wayfarer who approaches the venerable building from the street of Clubs—St. James's Street—is struck with the appearance of the Great Gateway, or Henry VIII. Gate, with the clock over it. To the right of that sentry-guarded portal is a large window, which is the window above the altar of the Chapel Royal. The chapel forms part of the Palace, and is entered through the Great Gateway above mentioned. It is only sixty-two feet long, and is arranged like a College chapel. Its roof is of copper, instead of ordinary lead. The most remarkable feature of the interior is the ceiling, quaint in design and exceedingly handsome; the work of Holbein (temp. Henry VIII.), it is an excellent example of his fine taste and skill. There are five galleries to the Chapel—the Royal Closet (facing the altar), the peeresses' gallery, one for the household, another for strangers, and lastly one for the organ.

Though structurally so small, the building has been the scene of great and brilliant ceremonies—for example, the marriage of Queen Victoria to Prince Albert of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, in 1840; that of their eldest daughter, the Princess Royal, to Prince Frederick William of Prussia (afterwards German Emperor), in 1858; and that of the Prince and Princess of Wales, in 1893. The exact period at which Divine Service was first held in this particular 'Royal Peculiar' is unknown, but it certainly dates from the time of Charles I., though the records of a Chapel Royal go back to the reign of Queen Elizabeth.

The history of St. James's Palace, including a full account of the royal sanctuary, has been fully and interestingly told by the present Sub-Dean of the Chapel, the Rev. Dr. Edgar Sheppard, in two sumptuous volumes published in 1894 by Messrs. Longmans. This, with the reprint of 'The Old Cheque Book, or Book of Remembrance of the Chapel Royal, from 1561 to 1744,' edited for the Camden Society by the late Dr. Rimbault, furnish ample material for a few historical notes.

Before treating of the strictly musical part of the subject, we may refer to some quaint customs and curious incidents. First in regard to Royal warrants and 'orders.' In 1622, King James I. decreed that—

> Noe man whatsover presume to wayte upon us to the Chappell in bootes and spurs.

An order of 'Charles the Second, by the Grace of God,' addressed 'To our right trusty and well beloved Cousin and Councillor Edward, Earl of Sandwich, Master of our Great Wardrobe,' included the following among the articles—more or less ecclesiastical—required for the Chapel:—

> Item—two bare hydes of oxe leather.
>
> Item—three thousand of tenterhookes, three hamers, one fire shovle, one pare of tongs, three black jacks, three gispens, two brushes, one perfuming pan of iron, six houre glasses, and a paire of strong iron andirons; and that you content and pay for making the premisses.*

Queen Anne, in 1702, ordered 'the Yeoman of Her Majesty's removing wardrobe' to provide three umbrellas for the Chapel Royal, and two for the Ante-Chapel. Bishop Burnet had previously 'lodged a complaint' with this monarch as Princess Anne against the 'ogling and sighing which was for ever being indulged in at the Chapel Royal; and his lordship in consequence begged that, in order to prevent a recurrence of such scenes, the pews might be raised higher, and made into closets, as in fact they afterwards were.'

George III. was a regular attendant at the services, but the Queen and the Royal Family, dropping off one by one, used to leave the King, the Parson, and His Majesty's Equerry 'to freeze it out together.' Thackeray relates that 'His Majesty used to beat time with his music roll while the anthem was being sung. If the page below was talkative or inattentive, down would come the music roll on the young scapegrace's powdered head.' In 'the order of the King's receiving the Sacrament,' the Gentleman of the Pantry had first to eat a piece of bread before it was offered to the Royal Family; in one document this 'Gentleman of the Pantry' is called the 'Yeoman of the Mouth.' A repartee of Queen Victoria, at the age of nineteen, is recorded in the answer to a question addressed to her after chapel by the Marquis of Normanby. 'Did not your Majesty find it very hot?' 'Yes,' she replied 'and the sermon was very hot too!'

* Black jacks were large cans made of leather, formerly in great use for small beer. A gispen, or gispin, was a small pot or cup made of leather. The perfuming pan of iron was for the incense used in the Chapel Royal upon all special occasions and at coronations. The King's Groom of the Vestry, clad in a scarlet dress, holding a perfuming pan, burning perfumes, 'as at previous coronations,' appeared in the procession at the coronation of George III.

Among the curious customs of long ago, the 'antient annuall Chapel Feast' was not the least important. Formerly 'three fatt buckes' were sent by the King for consumption by the Chapel officials, but in the reign of William and Mary this trio of animals gave place to 'twenty pounds in money,' with 'these perquisites following':—

At the Salsary, fine flower 1bs. 1d.
At the Poultry, butter 36pd.
At the Pantry, Cheat fine 2 doz. Coarse 2 doz.
At the Buttry, beer 1 hhd.
At the Cellar, clarrett 2gs. 2ps.
At the Larder, a sir loyne of beef 46pd.*

One of the most interesting occurrences at the Chapel Royal is the Epiphany ceremony connected with the offering of gold, frankincense, and myrrh. It is of great antiquity, having been observed by the Sovereign of England for a period of nearly eight hundred years. As recently as the reign of George III. the offering was personally presented by the King; now the duty is discharged by deputy. The spice of the Epiphany offering is supplied by the Court Apothecary, but the beaten gold of former times is replaced by twenty-five sovereigns, which are distributed among certain poor in neighbouring parishes. The offering is made at a special Epiphany service 'in one bag of crimson silk, bordered on the outside with plaited gold tissue, to which long strings of the same gold braid are attached.'†

The Bishop of London is, by virtue of his office, the chief of the clerical staff of the Chapel Royal; but the clergyman who is practically at the head of affairs is the Sub-Dean, an important appointment which is now held by the Rev. Dr. Edgar Sheppard. A former Sub-Dean was the Rev. Dr. Charles Wesley, a son of Samuel Wesley ('Old Sam'); he was the last of the Confessors of the Household, which office is now merged into that of Chaplain, and is held by the Sub-Dean. The Rev. Luke Flintoft, composer of the beautiful double chant which bears his name, was a Gentleman (1715) and afterwards Reader of the Chapel Royal. Chamberlayne, in his 'Angliæ Notitia, or the Present State of England,' for 1704 — a kind of Whitaker's Almanack of that day—gives, among the officers of the Chapel Royal, one James Langley, who held the appointment of 'Cock and Cryer,' for which he was remunerated at the rate of £18 5s. per annum. The duties appertaining to this office are not stated, but the post was held as late as 1816, and the salary was £60 a year. Among the articles provided for the Coronation of George IV. was 'a silver gilt badge for the Cock and Cryer.' The office became a sinecure eventually, as the remuneration is entered under the heading of 'Compensation to Persons who have no duties to perform.' Happy Cock and Cryer!

It is now time to turn to the musical side of our subject. Dr. Rimbault tells us that—

> In England the Chapel Royal is the most ancient choir concerning which we have any authentic account. In olden times it was the fullest, best appointed, and the most remarkable for its excellence in the performance of the Choral Service.

And who will deny that the Chapel Royal has provided a wonderful nursery for the development of Church music in this country?

At the present time the musical staff consists of the organist and composer, ten Gentlemen,

THE REV. THE SUB-DEAN OF THE CHAPEL ROYAL.
(Photograph by Mackintosh, Kelso.)

corresponding to lay-clerks of cathedrals; and the Children, or choristers. The Old Cheque Book contains some quaint entries relating to the Chapel musicians. A document headed 'The Tyme of the Chapples Augmentacõn, quinto Decem. 1604'—in other words, a royal decree of James I. for an increase of salaries all round—was considered of so much importance that someone has written in the margin this anathema: 'Cursed be the partie that taketh this leafe out of this booke'! In the early years of the seventeenth century the following clauses occur in the 'Orders for the Attendance of the Gentlemen of his Majestes Chapell':—

6. If any of the gentlemen shall depart out of the chappel in service tyme without leave of the Subdeane,

* The Salsary, i.e., the saucery, a department of the King's household which provided the sauces. Cheat fine and coarse, two kinds of wheaten bread.

† 'Memorials of St. James's Palace.' By Edgar Sheppard, M.A., Sub-Dean of H.M. Chapels Royal. Longmans, 1894. A book of painstaking research, to which we are indebted for much information.

and returne no more that service, he shall incurr the penalty of check of absence from all service.

8. If ther be above two Organistes at once, two shall allwaies attend; if ther be but two in all, then they shall wayte by course, one after an other, weekly or monethly, as they shall agree betwixt them selves, givinge notice to the Subdeane and the Clark of the Check how they do dispose of their waytinge, that thereby it may be knowne who is at all tymes to be expected for the service, and they shalbe subject to such orders, and to such checks, in the same manner as the other gentlemen are.

9. The check for absence from morning prayers, holy dayes, festivall tymes, and sermon dayes, shalbe 4d., from evening prayer uppon such dayes and their festivall eves 3d., for absence from morninge prayer uppon workynge dayes 3d., from eveninge prayer 2d.

DR. WILLIAM CRESER.

LATE ORGANIST, CHOIRMASTER, AND COMPOSER OF THE CHAPEL ROYAL.

(Photograph by Messrs. Elliott & Fry.)

10. The check for late cominge, viz., after the first gloria patri 1d., after the first lesson 2d., after the second as for absent from the whole service.

Two instances of gentle rebuke to the Gentlemen may be given. In 1630—

Admonicon was geven to all the gentlemen in generall that at all tymes of waytinge they bringe their psalters into the Chappell and singe at the Psalmodie, and not be sylent when it is ther duties to use theire voyces.

Again, a hundred years later, in 1728, the rules for 'Decent and Orderly performance of a Divine Service,' included this admonition:—

It is hereby ordered that ye several members of ye Quire do joyn in singing the Psalms, Services, and Choruses with a due application and with a proper and decent strength and extention of voice.

Charles II. introduced a band of two dozen players upon stringed instruments in imitation of Louis XIV. These performers were ridiculed by Tom D'Urfey in the song 'Four and twenty fiddlers all in a row,' and Evelyn was so disgusted at the strange sight that he declared the performance to be 'more fit for the tavern or a playhouse than a church.' Among former officials attached to the Chapel were a lutanist, a violist, and a tuner of the Regals.

The number of Gentlemen—alto, tenor, and bass singers—attached to the Chapel Royal, has varied from time to time. In old days they travelled with and attended the Sovereign everywhere, except at an Institution of the Order of the Garter. In the reign of Edward VI. there were thirty-two gentlemen, each of whom was paid sevenpence a day; among them were such well-known musicians as Richard Farrant and Thomas Tallis. The name of Thomas Morley occurs a little later, and in more recent times the ranks of the Gentlemen included Dr. W. H. Cummings, Mr. John Foster, and Mr. Edward Lloyd. At the present time the ten Gentlemen are—

Altos: Mr. S. Noble, Mr. Walter Coward, and Mr. Ernest Taylor.

Tenors: Mr. Henry Guy, Mr. James Gawthrop, and Mr. David Strong.

Basses: Mr. D. Sutton Shepley, Mr. W. H. Brereton, Mr. Charles Ackerman, and Mr. C. R. Selfe, B.A. (Honorary), Master of the Children.

The Children of the Chapel Royal, in their quaint and gorgeous State robes of gold and scarlet, form a special feature of this royal sanctuary. In the time of Queen Elizabeth they were boarded and lodged in the Palace, and their daily rations consisted of—

2 loaves, 1 messe of greate meate, ij galones of ale: and for wintere seasone, iiij candles piche, iij talsheids, and lyttere for their pallets.

The office of Master of the Children (or Master of the Song) can be traced as far back as Edward IV. (1473-4). Among those who have held this office are Richard Edwards (the composer of 'In going to my lonely bed'), Nathaniel Gyles, Captain Henry Cooke, Pelham Humphrey, Dr. Blow, Dr. Croft, Bernard Gates, Dr. James Nares and the Rev. Thomas Helmore.

To return to the Children. As far back as the time of Richard III., boys and men were pressed into the Royal service as singers. A Commission, 'to take up well-singing boys for furnishing the Royal Chapels,' granted to Dr. Nathaniel Gyles, the Master in 1626, contained this clause:—

'Provided always, and we straightly charge and command, that none of the said Choristers or children of the Chappell, soe to be taken by force of this Commission, shalbe used or imployed as Comedians, or Stage Players, or to exercise or acte any Stage plaies, Interludes, Comedies, or Tragedies; for that it is not fitt or desent that such as should sing the praises of God Almighty should be trained or imployed in such lascivious and prophane exercises.

In the time of George III., and even much later, the Children assisted at various concerts in London. One of the rules and regulations stated, however, that—

When the boys return home from singing at the Oratorios, the Antient Music, or any other concert, public or private, in the evening, they shall have a coach to carry them home, and shall have a good supper—and in winter a fire—at their return.

In a book entitled 'Musical Memoranda,' apparently written by an organist of Lincoln

CHILDREN OF THE CHAPEL ROYAL.
(Photograph by Messrs. Fry, Brighton.)

Cathedral, and now in the possession of Dr. W. H. Cummings, occurs the following extraordinary information (circa 1785):—

The children of the Chapel Royal (8) made Dr. Nares £100 a year by going out [to concerts, &c.] at 10/6 each. He gave them sixpence among them for Barley Sugar. He made of their clothes £50 a year.

And again, referring also to the Children—

They paid half a guinea to the servant for a Christmas Box, Blacking Shoes and cleaning; four guineas a year to the barber for Sunday dressing, which was flour and powder—blue-salt sometimes.

The Children are boarded, clothed, and educated. They are thoroughly well cared for, under the Mastership of Mr. C. R. Selfe, B.A., who is also one of the Gentlemen (Honorary). The boys reside with him at Clapham. When their voices break, they are awarded, after their past good behaviour has been certified, a sum of £30 from the Lord Chamberlain, and a Bible and Prayer Book from the Bishop of London as Dean. A list of the clothing allowed for these half-score of boys may be of interest:—

10 capes, every five years.
10 State coats
10 serge jackets
10 State caps
20 cambric bands
10 lace bands
10 pairs of lace ruffles } every four years.
10 pairs of scarlet breeches, every two years.
30 pairs of gloves
30 white pocket-handkerchiefs
30 pairs blue worsted hose } every year.
10 college caps (now worn in the place of cocked hats)
10 undress suits
10 pairs of shoes } every six months.

The Children take part in the State Concerts, when they appear in the quaint, old-world and gorgeous costumes.

MR. WALTER G. ALCOCK, MUS. BAC.
ORGANIST, CHOIRMASTER, AND COMPOSER OF THE CHAPEL ROYAL.
(Photograph by Messrs. Barrauds, Ltd.)

The names of a few old Chapel Royal boys who attained eminence in English church music may be given—in chronological order:—

John Bull.	Philip Hayes.
Orlando Gibbons.	Samuel Arnold.
Michael Wise.	Thomas Attwood.
Pelham Humphreys.	George T. Smart.
John Blow.	John Goss.
Henry Purcell,	Samuel Sebastian Wesley.
William Croft.	Edward J. Hopkins.
Jerry Clark.	Edmund T. Chipp.
John Robinson.	Arthur Sullivan.
James Kent.

Who will deny that this is a goodly company?

It may serve to give a list of the organists and composers. No comment upon their deeds is necessary—the names speak for themselves:—

ORGANISTS AND COMPOSERS OF THE CHAPEL ROYAL
(From 'Cathedral Organists.' By John E. West.)

	Held Office.
Dr. Christopher Tye (first lay organist)	1562—1580.
Thomas Tallis (or Tallys) .. before	1575—1585.
William Bird (or Byrd)	1585—1623.
William Blitheman	1585—1591.
Dr. John Bull	1591—1613. (?)
William Randall (or Randoll) ..	— —1621. (?)
Arthur (Arter) Cock (or Cocke) ('without pay,' according to the Cheque Book)	1601—1604.
Orlando Gibbons	1604—1625.
Edmund Hooper	— —1621. (?)
Thomas Tomkins	1621—1656.
Thomas Warwick	1625— —
Dr. William Child	1623—1697.
Dr. Christopher Gibbons, Edward Lowe — joint organists	1660—1676. / 1660—1682.
Henry Lawes	1660—1662.
Dr. John Blow (the first composer, appointed 1699)	1676—1708.
Henry Purcell — organist .. / composer ..	1682 / 1683 } -1695
Francis Pigott — organist ..	1697—1704.
Dr. Croft (composer, 1708), Jeremiah Clark .. — joint organists	1704—1727. / 1704—1707.
John Weldon .. — organist .. / composer ..	1708 / 1715 } -1736.
Dr. Maurice Greene — organist and composer ..	1727—1755.
Jonathan Martin — organist ..	1736—1737.
John Travers .. — ,, ..	1737—1758.
Dr. James Nares — organist and composer ..	1756—1783.
Dr. Boyce .. — composer .. / organist ..	1736 / 1758 } -1779.
Dr. T. S. Dupuis — organist and composer ..	1779—1796.
Dr. Samuel Arnold — organist and composer ..	1783—1802.
Charles Knyvett — organist ..	1796—1822.
John Stafford Smith — ,, ..	1802—1836.
Sir George Smart — organist .. / composer ..	1822 / 1838 } -1867.
Thomas Attwood — composer .. / organist ..	1796 / 1836 } -1833.
John Bernard Sale — organist ..	1838—1856.
George Cooper (Junr.) — ,, ..	1867—1876.
C. S. Jekyll, organist, choirmaster, and composer	1876—1891.
William Creser, organist, choirmaster, and composer	1891—1901.
Walter G. Alcock — ,, ,, ..	1902—

The first composer to the Chapel Royal was Dr. John Blow, appointed in 1699. The offices of composer and organist have not always been held by the same person. A change has recently taken place in regard to the Chief Musicianship of this interesting and historic Chapel in the resignation of Dr. William Creser, who has held the post for the past ten years. Mr. Walter Galpin Alcock, Mus. Bac., has recently been appointed to this ancient State office. An account of Mr. Alcock's engineering hobby, with an illustration thereof, was given in the issue of The Musical Times for July, 1899, and in that of December, 1900, a notice appeared relating to his excellent work as organist of Holy Trinity Church, Sloane Street, which appointment he has held for the past six years. Mr. Alcock, who is also assistant organist of Westminster Abbey, thoroughly deserves his promotion.

A LETTER FROM KIESEWETTER TO PEARSALL.

The following letter, the original of which came into my possession about eighteen months ago, was written by R. G. Kiesewetter, the musical historian and antiquary, to R. L. de Pearsall, the English composer. As the former is not much known nowadays, it may not be out of place to state that he was born in Moravia, in 1773, and spent the greater part of his life as an official in the Austrian War Office. From his childhood he was an ardent lover of music and collector of antiquities. In 1803 he studied Thorough Bass and Counterpoint with Albrechtsberger and Hartmann, and gradually came to be a recognised authority on questions of musical archæology. A list of his chief works will be found in the Dictionaries of Grove and Riemann. He died in 1850, at Baden, near Vienna, leaving his collection of musical scores to the Imperial Library. Though his letter to Pearsall is not of much literary value, it seemed to me worth printing, not only for the sake of the very quaint English in which the writer expresses himself, but also as a pleasant illustration of the friendly feeling existing between the veteran Viennese archæologist and the English composer, whose reputation was at that time still in its infancy. The letter is for the most part in the handwriting of a copyist or secretary, but it has been corrected and signed by Kiesewetter. It is here printed exactly according to the original.

W. B. S.

Vienna the 28th February 1838.

My dear Sir!

I return you my sincere thanks for your worthy letter of the 29th January, accompanied of an interesting Series of Madrigals of english composers, delivered to me by Mr. Haizinger.* I am no less flattered Sir, by the remembrance you would preserve me than I am obliged to you for the increase of my collection, and in the mean time for the interesting historical hints touching the fates of a national Musick in England, which, I assure you, gave me better light of the matter, than Burney or Hawkins.

Your reproaching to me to have pass under silence in my Compendium of musical Story† the english composers, who had succeeded Tallis and Bird, is but too well founded. I feel, Sir, that I may have more to repent than to congratulate myself of this book, which I should better have pressed nonum in annum, as Horace says, (had I not well past the sixty;) and you are kind enough making a more than indulgent mention of it. All what I can adduce for excusing the omission, is that in this evidently too compendious work I treated not better a fool‡ of composers, celebrated by their contemporaries, amongst Italians and Germans. However I hope you will have remarked with some pleasure the well merited praises I have attributed to your Tallis and to his well bred disciple Bird, composers, whom I did not hesitate to compare expressely to the best of the period elsewhere. And in this occasion I would you might know, that it was I myself, who required by Mr. Rochlitz for a certain piece serving to a choice collection* to be published (and printed afterwards by Schott at Mayence) has sent him the motets of Tallis, which you can see there, as worth to be exhibited a side of Palestrina or Lasso themselves. The English composers of the XVI Century, not deriving from the Flemings like those of the continent, but arisen of a native country school, had already been very estimable emulators of the Flemings by common prepossession supposed to be the best: Tallis was superior to the best of them, a composer in the very style of Palestrina, who could not have served him for model. The composers of the succeeding period are, I think, to be regarded as sprung of the school of Tallis and Bird: their period was the evening of a bright day. However I find in their madrigals a more pronounced propension to melodious phrases than by the italian madrigalist of this time, as for instance by Marenzio, Monteverde, &c., not to speak of the Principe di Venosa, whom I always found abominable: it is to see, that the English composed for good humoured circles of amateurs, the Italian for learned. And when reading a vista had passed the mode† with the amateurs, the Englishmen, almost [always] disposed to the liberal pleasures of the table with chosen friends for table-talking and occasional singing, never wanted ditties, catches and glees, spirited enough and perhaps better fit for encreasing sociable joys.

I find striking your reflexion belonging the flourishing state of english musick at the time of Queen Elizabeth and its decay under James I. imbibed by his mother with the predelection for italian singing. Regis ad exemplum &c. It is thus, that the Court of Vienna was throughout musical under the reign of the Emperors Ferdinand III, Leopold I, Joseph I and Charles VI (1640-1740) the two first beeing fond of Musick and qualified composers themselves, Joseph a true lover and Charles a perfect practitioner. It would not be difficult to prove the extended influence of them upon the progress of the art in a period, when dramatic style was in it's spring and stept toward perfection; these princes undertained a numerous band of the best musicians and their chapel was even the very school for the art of singing: the idolized Baldasarre Ferri,‡ the first musico of high and general reputation mentioned by the historians, was sprung of the Vienna-school, where he had past his youth and many years (1655-1675) in the service of Leopold I., before he left Vienna to become immediately the delight of Italy and England: though here, as it is to be found in old papers, he was not yet regarded as the first among his fellow-singers of the chapel. Love of music was in this period a necessary part of education amongst high nobility: Among the musical works preserved in the archives left by the Emperors above-named and lastly extraded to the imperial 'Hofbibliothek' (an innumerous [innumerable] mass of nearly two thousand dramatic compositions, viz.,

* Anton Haizinger (1796-1869) a tenor singer, who was long connected with the Karlsruhe Hoftheater. Pearsall lived at Karlsruhe for several years.

† This evidently refers to the writer's 'Geschichte der europäisch-abendländischen oder unserer heutigen Musick,' which appeared in 1834.

‡ Kiesewetter seems here to have neglected to consult his dictionary, and to have concluded that the French 'foule' was identical with the English 'fool'!

* 'Sammlung vorzüglicher Gesangsstücke der anerkannt grössten . . . Meister der für Musik entscheidendsten Nationen, gewählt. . . . von F. Rochlitz.' 3 vols. The Motet by Tallis, 'Verba mea auribus percipe,' is printed in the first volume.

† The writer evidently meant to say 'had come into fashion.'

‡ Baldassare Ferri was a male soprano at the Court of Poland about 1643. From 1655 to 1680 he was a member of the Imperial Choir of Vienna. There seem no records of his having visited England, as stated by Kiesewetter.

Dramas or Operas, Oratorios, Serenatas, Feasts, and Cantatas of greater size, written here or sent to the imperial connoisseur and Mœcenas by foreign composers) there are some, which were performed by persons of the highest nobility; nay I had under my hands an opera in trè atti (by Caldara, 1723) which not only on the stage, but also in the orchestre for the instruments of every kind, and for the ballets, was performed exclusively by gentlemen and ladies of the first families even of the reigning: The names of the performers (about 60) are recorded in the store-book and likewise in the Vienna-Gazette of the year above mentioned. All these facts are unknown till to-day to all historians, as they are still unknown here even to musical literati of Vienna. When Maria Theresia (1740) began a troubled and misfortunated reign under hard embarassments of finances, when the number of musicians and their appointments were reduced, the Court ceased to be musical, and the high classes dispensed themselves from the pains of learning music, finding it more convenient to pay their ticket in theaters or concerts, in the mean time become accessible to every body; the musical art, having penetrated in the middle classes, needed no more the patronage and munificence of a court. The art may change for its fates, but it can never die: And as it is a maxim of œconomy not to produce things, that we find well fit and at a convenable price by the neighbour, it was well done, that the wealthy and industrious England drew the article Musick out of Italy and Germany; and I think, that under this point of view England may have more contributed to the encreasing of the art, than it would have done by fabricating his musick at home, and as for opera-musick it seems we have the same maxim.

Your Countrymen, Sir, I know, always had preserved the esteem and the love for ancient music, more than it may be said of the inhabitants of the continent elsewhere: We never have founded an 'Academy of ancient musick' as it was existing at London; and if in later times we show any preference of Handl [sic], it was excited by the ecstatick encomium attributed to this eminent composer in England. As to elder composers, of the XVII or XVI Century, I may say to have been the first in Vienna to exhibit some of them in the historical concerts in my lodging since 22 years. I am surprized, though not astonished, to hear, that there is in London a Society even for Madrigals of such a high antiquity.* The Series of them, you gratified me with, Sir, is indeed very interesting, and I am the more obliged to you of this present, as my collection was still wanting for composers of the english school.

Now, my dear Sir, as you have the kindness, to express some interest for my musical life, you will permit me, to give you a little account of it. A collector of any thing, may it be medals, pictures, books, musick, watches, boxes, or pipes of taback &c never will have finished, nor want for occupation. As to my historical collection I find ever something to do about it; nevertheless not intentioned to accumulate a mass of musick, and having brought up at least the more celebrated works of the most celebrated authors, besides a sufficient quantity of such of second rang and of autores minores, to show the progress and the very state of musick through all ages, my zeal for encreasing it is now less fervid than it has been still a few years ago. Besides I love to see musical friends with me for performing ex tempore something of old authors, in camera charitatis [i.e., 'for the love of the thing']. Likewise I am arranging greater concerts of ancient musick three or four times a year during the musical Season in my house. Sometimes I am disposed to pen down my remarks or doubts on various themes of musical literature, or a little dissertation, when incited by an accidental question or by a perverse assertion (like the numerous chimerical* hypotheses given for historical facts by Mr. Fétis). To all this acceeds a little correspondence upon similar matters with a few persons that participate the predilection for these specialities. As to my literary essays I am, it seems me, always predestined to dip into problems disdained by men of better learning; as it may be concluded by the articles inserted in the Leipzick Gazette in various times, for instance: the notation of Gregorius M†: or the nota romana‡; the living-period of Franco§; the transposition of the songs of old masters for beeing performed to-day; the different tablatures of practical musicians since the invention of the time-table; and some other not yet published; item the memoir (prize-concurrent) of the influence of the old Netherlanders on Musick. It is thus that late I was induced to treat the musical Systems of modern Greeks; but not finding an editor because of the great number of plates, I laid it aside and wrote a more compendious treatise on the matter, to which I added a refutation of certain erroneous assertions of Mr. Fétis about it, and an additional article of the musick of old Egypt. This work ('Über die Musik der Neugriechen nebst freyen Gedanken über altgriechische und altegyptische Musik') is to be published by Breitkopf and Härtel, who also will publish a little memoir 'Über den weltlichen und volksmässigen Gesang im Mittelalter.' Besides these essays I sent to the Redacteur of the Allgemeine musicalische Zeitung a memoir: 'Über die Lebensperiode Franco's' being a species of Duplic‖ against Mr. Fétis, which I hope will appear in short time.

When here, my dear Sir, perhaps I have spoken too much of my insignificant person and of my still more insignificant writings, pray, Sir, you will ascribe it to the desire, to be known to you, an estimable literate yourself in the matter, indicating the direction and in the same time the limits of my studies; and as to my few publications, never think, Sir, that I may be proud of them, having considered them only as bare essays, not intentioned to teach new things never heard of, but to provoke researches and incite criticism by liberal and sometimes hazarded propositions: and perhaps, that already it was not done quite in vain.

At last, Sir, pray you will pardon me the long and perhaps tiresome talking; but as I had only little moments to profit of your conversation, I was now the more pressed to speak with you epistolary; and when I had the boldness to do it in english, I beg your pardon, because doubting if my bad french, though more practised by me, would have better satisfied you, and I must fear to incommodate you with a german letter, as it was my purpose to write you a great one. Hoping at least you will have understood, what I was intended to say, I am sure your good heart excuses the germanismes or

* The London Madrigal Society was founded in 1741.

* The word 'chimerical' has been added in Kiesewetter's own handwriting.
† i.e., Gregorius Magnus.
‡ Meaning the notation of Plain Song.
§ Franco of Cologne, the celebrated theorist of the 13th century.
‖ Duplik is a German legal expression meaning a rejoinder.

even the solecismes, my letter may abound of, the more as I have nobody to correct my sketch and not having written a line in this idiom since almost half a century.

As the gentleman your Son is pursuing his studies here in Vienna I keep still a little hope to see you again, to profit of your conversation and then to renew personally and by hand-shaking the assurance of the high esteem and true attachment, with which I am, Sir,

Your most affectionate

R. G. Kiesewetter

K. K. Hofrath.

Occasional Notes.

Many happy returns of the day to:—

Madame Clara Butt	February 1
Frederick Niecks	,, 3
James Kendrick Pyne	,, 5
Franklin Taylor	,, 5
Nicholas Kilburn	,, 7
Sir Walter Parratt	,, 10
Madame Adelina Patti	,, 10
Herbert Austin Fricker	,, 12
Bertram Luard Selby	,, 12
Hugo Becker	,, 13
James William Elliott	,, 13
Edward German	,, 17
Tobias A. Matthay	,, 19
Charles Marie Widor	,, 22
Arrigo Boito	,, 24
Philipp Scharwenka	,, 25
Leonard Borwick	,, 26
Mrs. Mary Davies	,, 27
Sir C. Hubert H. Parry	,, 27
Miss Marie Brema	,, 28
Charles Santley	,, 28

IN MEMORIAM. QUEEN VICTORIA.

The music sung at the Memorial Service at the Royal Mausoleum, Frogmore, on the 22nd ult., the first anniversary of the death of Queen Victoria, consisted of the following: Charles Wesley's hymn 'Let saints on earth in concert sing,' to the fine old tune 'Dundee'; Tennyson's 'The face of death is towards the Sun of Life,' and Mr. A. C. Benson's hymn, specially written for the service and founded on Psalm xx., 1-4, 'She hath her heart's desire,' both set to music by Sir Walter Parratt; and Tschaikowsky's anthem 'How blest are they whom Thou hast chosen and taken.' The music at the service, which was attended by the King and Queen and the Royal Family, was sung unaccompanied by the choir of St. George's Chapel, Windsor, under the direction of the organist, Sir Walter Parratt, Master of the Musick to the King. It is not surprising to learn that the service-music was most beautifully rendered.

The King has been pleased to nominate H.R.H. the Prince of Wales to be President of the Royal College of Music in succession to His Majesty.

Sir Frederick Bridge has been appointed by the Earl Marshal to direct the music at the approaching Coronation Service in Westminster Abbey.

Mr. Morton Latham has done an excellent piece of biographical work in his 'Alfredo Piatti, A sketch,' which Messrs W. E. Hill and Sons have recently issued in a dainty little tome. In writing this deeply interesting sketch of the eminent violoncellist, Mr. Latham has wisely refrained from any attempt at a panegyric of his hero. The life-story, and—may we add?—the lively stories, are simply told. 'Mere laudatory phrases,' he says, 'are out of place in the biography of a great artist; they are without interest to those who have not heard him play, and superfluous to those who have.' True, and to this we will only add, also in the words of our author, that Piatti's 'tones will ever live in the memory of those whom they once enthralled.'

The book is so full of good stories and interesting incidents that two extracts, as specimens of the plums contained therein, must suffice. Young students who are making haste to become rich may be encouraged (or otherwise) to know that Piatti began his professional life as a humble 'cellist in a theatre orchestra, at a fee of twopence per night. It is true he was only a boy, and one so small that, as the chairs were too high for him, he had to be seated on the edge of the platform. To quote his biographer:—

> It was the universal practice in Italy, between the acts of the Opera, to interpolate a lengthy Ballet, so that the second part of the Opera commonly commenced as late as eleven o'clock. For a child such performances were most exhausting. On one occasion, while Madame Pasta was singing in Norma, in the last scene with Pollione, the air 'In mia man al fin tu sei,' one of the most touching numbers in the opera, the poor boy, who had fallen asleep, tumbled off his perch and broke his violoncello. Madame Pasta's performance was of course interrupted; but, far from showing any annoyance, she burst out laughing and afterwards generously gave the boy another instrument.

This was at Bergamo, Piatti's native city, of which Johann Simon Mayr was the chief musician. Mayr showed a special fondness for the little Alfredo, and recognised his genius. Of his composing achievements we are told that—

> Mayr produced some seventy operas and a large number of Masses, but it must be admitted that he not infrequently took subjects from works, including those of Beethoven, unknown in Bergamo. Mayr died at Bergamo, and on his monument in Santa Maria Maggiore has been engraved a passage from the Kyrie in one of his Masses. Unfortunately the passage thus selected for a lasting memorial is identical with the opening of Beethoven's Trio in C minor.

Much interesting information is given concerning Piatti's early experiences in England, his adopted home, where at first he had 'many ups and downs, especially downs.' It should not be forgotten that at one time he played in the orchestra of the Opera and the Sacred Harmonic Society. He was an enthusiastic tennis player, and a remarkable judge not only of violoncellos, but also of violins. The pages of this entertaining book bear eloquent testimony to the artistic attributes of the greatest violoncellist of his day, who, as a man, was lovable to a degree. A photographic reproduction of Frank Holl's portrait forms an appropriate frontispiece. He was one of the very few musicians who bore the name of a musical instrument—Piatti being the Italian for cymbals; the only other instance we can recall is that of the composer of 'Cherry Ripe,' with the patronymic of Horn.

It is interesting to hear from such far away readers as dwellers in Corea, especially from one who holds the high office of a Bishop of the Church, and who bears the honoured name of two English cathedral organists of the past. Here is a reminiscent communication which, we feel sure, will be read with pleasure :—

TO THE EDITOR OF 'THE MUSICAL TIMES.'

Corea, November 12, 1901.

Sir,—In common with all lovers of English music, I read with great interest all that has been written about the life and labours of the late Sir Arthur Sullivan. Your issue of March last, which I have just seen in this distant and most unmusical corner of Asia, contains some delightful reminiscences of him by 'An Old Fellow-Chorister.' Although I can claim this privilege for no longer than a single day, I am emboldened to send you a reminiscence which may prove interesting to your readers, and will certainly be appreciated by Mr. Bridgman, who contributes this delightful article upon his old schoolfellow.

On the Feast of St. Michael and All Angels, in 1856, I was one of the senior choristers of St. Michael's College and Church, which had just been built in Tenbury by Sir F. A. G. Ouseley. For the opening services the small school choir had been augmented from various sources. The occasion demanded something better in the way of solo singing than could, at that time, be provided by our local talent. I have never forgotten the prodigious sensation caused amongst us youngsters by the singing of young Sullivan (then of the Chapel Royal) —especially in the soprano part of the verse in 'Praise the Lord' (Goss), which was one of the anthems sung at the Consecration Service on that day. He seemed to us a very old boy to have a treble voice—and such a glorious voice! Apparently, he was sixteen years of age, and we all wondered why his voice had not broken. But such a 'swan's song' I never heard before or since. We ought to have been jealous at having an outsider put over our heads. But we all recognised that in him Sir Frederick had got the right boy in the right place. That 'pure high soprano,' with the true musicianly pathos of his singing, was a never-to-be-forgotten treat.

The day was, of course, full of business and distractions for us boys, and I can remember very little else except that out of church we found him very sociable and free from 'uppishness' of any kind. But there was, I think on the following day, an incident which amazed us still more. To entertain his numerous musical friends, Sir Frederick asked them to his house in the evening. We boys had, of course, to go in order to provide the soprano parts for the concerted music with which he entertained them. Whether Sullivan sang that evening or not I cannot remember—perhaps because all my powers of memory were driven away by the one circumstance which I do remember. We knew, of course, that Sullivan was Mendelssohn Scholar, and that he could play the piano. But I do not think anyone in the room was prepared for what then happened. Suddenly Ouseley, in his joyous and impulsive way, said, 'Sullivan, I challenge you to play an extempore duet with me.' This savoured of the impossible, considering one was a chorister and the other the Professor of music at Oxford. But Sullivan said, very modestly and quietly, 'Very good, Sir Frederick.' The room was pretty still by this time, and every one looked on, prepared to listen with attention, and, I doubt not, an amused curiosity. 'You take the treble, Sullivan, because it will be easier, and I will take the bass.' Forthwith they sat down at the piano, agreed upon the key and the rhythm, and fell to.

Here my story must end abruptly. I remember nothing about the music, and, of course, could not pronounce upon its merits. I stood near Sullivan—behind him—and watched keenly his fingers, and noticed that there was no hesitation. I do not suppose that as music it was very remarkable, but they played on without stopping until the piece came to a natural end; and I thought then, as I have thought ever since that, as a tour de force, it was very wonderful. Boy as I was—just thirteen—I knew that Sullivan, if he lived, would make a great name for himself as a musician.

I never met him again until thirty years after, when, during the interval at a concert in London, I claimed his acquaintance and reminded him of the day when he had opened our eyes with wonder and admiration—in such a fashion that some of us had never been able to close them since. I have never heard Goss's beautiful music to the words 'O pray for the peace of Jerusalem,' without thinking of that gifted boy who now, I doubt not, enjoys himself that peace for which he must so often have prayed.

Charles J. Corfe,
Bishop.

The following letter, written by the late Dr. Gauntlett to the late Sir George Grove on the subject of Mendelssohn's organ playing, may be read in connection with the article on the organ sonatas by that composer in our December issue.

16, St. Mary Abbott's Terrace,
Kensington.
30 Nov., 1874.

Dear Mr. Grove,

Have you any note or record of the time when Mendelssohn first began to study the organ? No one was more surprised than Moscheles at Mendelssohn's playing in Christchurch [Newgate Street] in 1837—he evidently was quite unaware of his mastery over the instrument, for he took me on one side and asked me about it. 'Where did he practise?' 'Could it be gained without practice on the organ?' 'Was it too late for him (Moscheles) to begin?' 'Would I teach him?' It was plain the playing of that morning was an unexpected thing to the pianist. From one of Mendelssohn's letters we may gather what he knew of Bach's organ music at that date, and his resolve to set to work and get him up. And from his remarks upon some hearsay of Schneider's playing at Dresden, we learn his notion of pedal playing was very limited, and that then he had not seen the 'not well-known' organ music of Bach, which Marx, either then or soon after, sent to the press.

I believe when with the Horsleys at this end of the town he had access to a small organ at St. Matthew's—'a crippled' organ as he called the G pedals and keyboard—upon which he might certainly gain some sort of facility.

Pointing to me one day he said, 'But for him there would be no organs to play on,' and hard fight it was, for I had Wesley, Turle, Goss, and the whole guild of organists to battle with, and as you may remember, the £10,000 laid out on the Liverpool organ was spent on the wrong keyboard, Master Wesley carrying it against me. I believe it cost £1,500 to put that organ right.

Believe me, yours faithfully,

Geo. Grove, Esq. H. J. Gauntlett.

The 'Master Wesley' incident, to which Dr. Gauntlett referred at the close of his letter, is confirmed in the Biographical Sketch we gave of Father Willis, the builder of the Liverpool organ, in our issue of May, 1898—the 'wrong keyboard' was of the GG compass, instead of CC.

Mr. Edwin H. Lemare has accepted the important appointment of organist and director of the music at the Carnegie Institute, Pittsburgh, U.S.A., in succession to the late Mr. Frederick Archer. As, however, it is understood that Mr. Lemare will enjoy four months' vacation every year, he may be expected to visit the old country and give some of his popular organ recitals. May all success attend him in his new sphere of work.

As throwing another side-light on Handel's oratorio methods, the subjoined letter from Dr. Arnold, the first editor of the great Saxon's works, will be read with interest. It was addressed to 'Joseph Cator Esq: Beckenham, Kent,' more than a hundred years ago:—

Sir,—With respect to the songs you mention, not in my edition of Handel's works, and to be found in the early editions of Walsh's publication, etc.—it often happened that Handel made additional songs to his oratorios, and operas, to suit particular voices that he might locally engage from year to year, and which he himself never look'd on as belonging to the original work, and were often thrown aside by him after they had performed their duty; and there are also some of his oratorios that underwent such alterations from time to time by himself that it would be impossible to give them to the world in their original state, of which Samson, Israel in Egypt, and Solomon are instances. The former originally took up 4 Hours in the performance. Israel in Egypt was originally called Exodus, and began with the Funeral Anthem, which accounts for there being no overture to it, and Solomon he altered so often, that it was with great difficulty, I could get a complete score, till I found one that had been the property of the present King's father (then Prince of Wales) which I have now in my possession—and that wants a Chorus that I could not obtain, and since the printing of it, I have been presented with some songs and a chorus, that I had never seen in any of the various scores of that oratorio.

From which you will find it almost impossible to give every thing he wrote as additions and alterations to his various works, as they are not in the possession of any one person living.—I am, Sir, your obedt. servt. etc.,

2 July, 1797. S. Arnold.

An interesting article, evidently from the erudite pen of Mr. J. S. Shedlock, on 'Coronation Music of the Past,' appeared in the Athenæum of the 4th ult. It seems that at the coronation of Queen Elizabeth only outdoor music is mentioned. Good Queen Bess proceeded to the Tower, preparatory to the usual procession through the city, in a barge. A part of the floating pageant of that spinster monarch was a 'bachellers barge,' with its 'great and pleasant melodie of instruments, which plaied in most sweet and heavenlie manner.' To delight the Queen of James I. with 'her owne-country musicke, nine trumpets and a kettle-drum did very sprightly and actively sound the Danish march'; and mention is made of a song 'which, to a loude and excellent musicke, composed of violins, and another rare artificiall instrument, wherein, besides sundre severall sounds effused (all at one time), were also sensibly distinguisht the chirpings of birds, was by two Boyes, Choristers of Paule's, delivered in sweete and ravishing voyce.' A facsimile of a piece of music 'ffor his Majestys Sagbutts & Cornettes,' composed by Matthew Locke for the coronation of King Charles II., gives additional interest to a very researchful article.

Dr. Elgar's 'Dream of Gerontius' is to be included in the scheme of the Sheffield Musical Festival, to be held in October next. The work will also be performed at the Lower Rhine Musical Festival, to be held at Düsseldorf, at Whitsuntide, and conducted by Professor Julius Buths—this is indeed a rare and distinguished honour for an English composer. Furthermore, and further afar, it is to be produced at Auckland, New Zealand, and other performances are in contemplation.

Lincoln is to hold a Musical Festival on June 4 and 5. Its main features are to consist of performances of the following works:—Mendelssohn's 'Elijah,' Dvorák's 'Stabat Mater,' Parry's 'Blest pair of Syrens,' Handel's 'Zadok the Priest,' Beethoven's Symphony in A, and Sullivan's 'In Memoriam' Overture (all to be performed in the Cathedral), in addition to Tschaikowsky's Pathetic Symphony, which, with the Tannhäuser Overture and a work by Mr. Edward German, under his own direction, will be played in the concert hall. The novelty of the festival will be the first performance of Sir Alexander Mackenzie's Overture to his new Opera, 'The Cricket on the Hearth,' which the composer will conduct in person. A quartet of first-rate soloists, an orchestra (led by Mr. A. Burnett) and chorus of 500 performers are announced as participating elements — the chorus-singers, in addition to the dwellers in Lincoln, coming from Peterborough, Nottingham, Hull, Gainsborough, and Fulbeck. Dr. Haydn Keeton and Mr. Tertius Noble will preside at the organ, and Dr. G. J. Bennett, Cathedral Organist of Lincoln, will conduct. A guarantee fund of £1,500 has been secured, in addition to donations of over £100 towards the expenses of the concert. Success would seem to be the natural outcome of these promising preliminaries.

The prize of fifty guineas, offered by the Worshipful Company of Musicians for the best Coronation March for full orchestra, has been awarded to Mr. Percy Godfrey, Music-master of King Edward's School, Canterbury. The prize winner was born at Croxall, Derbyshire, on August 16, 1859. He is no relation to the Godfreys of military music fame, nor does he hail from any of the schools of music. He received his first encouragement in music from kind-hearted Sir George Macfarren, and derived much benefit from his intercourse with Mr. Berthold Tours, but he studied privately under Professor Prout. Mr. Percy Godfrey, who graduated as a Bachelor of Music in the University of Durham (1897), is an old hand at prize winning; he obtained one for a song adjudicated upon many years ago by the late Dr. Hueffer, another offered by the South London Musical Club in October, 1893, for a Ballade for male voices, 'The Norman Baron,' and yet another quite recently for the composition of a Pianoforte Quintet, the prize given by Mr. Lesly Alexander. An overture and a symphony show his knowledge of orchestral effect, and he is a skilful performer on the French horn. Mr. Percy Godfrey appeared in The Musical Times of September, 1890, as the composer of a part-song entitled 'The darksome night is gone.' No less than 190 compositions were sent in for the Competition for the Coronation March, and the award of the examiners—Sir Frederick Bridge, Sir Hubert Parry, and Sir Walter Parratt—was unanimous.

The phenomenal success which has attended the performances of those clever young players, Kubelik and Kociân, has stimulated enquiry as to the Ševčík violin-method upon which they have both been trained. Herr Otto Ševčík, who is a professor of the violin at the Prague Conservatorium of Music, bases his method on the semitone-system, 'wherein,' he says in his treatise on the subject, 'the semitones are produced on all the strings with the same fingers, thus giving rise to the same fingering on all the strings,' and that 'the beginner experiences no difficulty in finding the intervals, because all the stoppings are the same on each string, and this materially helps him in acquiring pure intonation,' which, he might have added, 'is a consummation devoutly to be wished.' One of the professor's old pupils, Herr Herman Koenig, has recently settled in London as a teacher of the method.

The prize of ten guineas, offered by the School Music Review for the best Coronation song for school-singing, has been awarded to the Rev. Canon G. W. Torrance, M.A., Mus. Doc., of Kilkenny, who has written the words as well as composed the music. The song appears in the current issue of our contemporary.

A newspaper North of the Tweed, in criticising a certain Philharmonic concert, says:—

With laudable enterprise and economy, the Society had dispensed with the services of wood-wind professionals.

It might be assumed that amateurs took the places of the professionals. Oh, dear no. The organist, 'by his skilful and artistic manipulation of the organ, supplied in himself a whole wind band.' Is not this rather suggestive of a bellowing monster? Considering that the programme contained a good deal of Wagner, in addition to Weber's 'Der Freischütz' and 'Euryanthe' overtures, the matter of economy, so characteristic of dwellers in the 'land o' cakes,' is more evident than any laudable features of the enterprise. What next? A pianola to supersede the strings?

The Era Almanack and Annual for 1902, conducted by Mr. Edward Ledger, and published at the Era office, is, as heretofore, a well-edited and useful book of reference. Among the stories told by various contributors connected with the dramatic and musical profession is one by the veteran conductor, Herr W. Meyer Lutz, who, under the heading of 'Some orchestral notes,' relates the following incident of a country orchestra forty or fifty years ago:—

Conducting once in Bradford, I noticed that the clarionet player, a young but clever and steady lad, jumped up a good deal during the progress of the opera. I found that his father, who played the trombone, sat just behind him, and every now and then he gave his son a kick, with the remark; 'Look out, Sammy! there be a flat a-cumming.'

A customer to an assistant in a music-warehouse: 'I want Mendelssohn's Songs without Words for a bass voice.' (Fact!)

PROFESSOR NIECKS ON SONATAS FOR THE PIANOFORTE AND VIOLIN.

In his scholarly preface to the programme of the Historical Concert given in the University Music Class Room, Edinburgh, on December 18, Professor Niecks thus writes on an interesting phase of chamber music:—

DIFFERENT PHASES OF THE SONATA FOR PIANOFORTE AND VIOLIN.

The Sonata for pianoforte and violin has passed through several phases, not only as regards form and texture, but also as regards the artistic status of the genre and the relative importance of the instruments. In the sonatas of J. S. Bach, with their close contrapuntal and fugal texture, the two instruments are perfect equals. The same equality obtains in C. Ph. E. Bach's less closely-textured compositions, with lighter counterpoint, little fugue, and more of the melodico-harmonic. But in the Haydn-Mozart period, when the modern sonata form and melodico-harmonic texture had gained supremacy, the sonata for pianoforte and violin ceased for a time to be one of the artistic genres in which composers revealed their noblest inspirations, and began to be chiefly an instructive and pleasantly entertaining genre, the impulse to produce coming from without, and the object of production being the encouragement of pupils and the amusement of amateurs. The relative position of the two instruments underwent a complete change, for now the violin became in most cases either a subordinate partner of the pianoforte, or an addition of which the performers might avail themselves or not, at their pleasure. Innumerable 'Pianoforte Sonatas with Violin ad libitum' were published, and the absence of the words ad libitum by no means signified a different state of matters. Indeed, so far was this from being the fact, that composers, when they wrote a violin part of individual importance, often announced on the title-page 'Pianoforte Sonata with Violin obbligato,' or 'Sonata for Pianoforte and Violin obbligato.' Not only Wanhal, Hoffmeister, Pleyel, et hoc genus omne, wrote ad libitum violin parts, but Haydn's violin parts also consist, with comparatively rare exceptions, of do' blings of matter contained in the pianoforte part and non-essential additional accompaniments. Haydn attained in none of his sonatas for pianoforte and violin the high level of his best sonatas for pianoforte solo. Still, notwithstanding his utilitarian aims, he managed to write always freshly, and on the whole delightfully, as, for instance, the G major Sonata played at the first concert satisfactorily proves. Most of Mozart's sonatas for pianoforte and violin are of inferior quality, but in not a few of them he does justice to his genius, and fascinates the hearer with his suave beauty and graceful ease of masterly workmanship. Nowadays neither musicians nor amateurs know, as a rule, how much he has left us that is eternally young and lovely. It was, however, not till Beethoven that composers in the sonata for pianoforte and violin again gave of their best, gave, instead of compositions d'occasion, spontaneous creations without any other ulterior objects than those of realising their own ideals and of appealing to the ideal in their hearers. Although Mozart never soared so high in his sonatas as Beethoven, he had forestalled him in making the violin once more the equal of the pianoforte.

BRIEF SURVEY OF THE PRINCIPAL CONTRIBUTIONS TO THIS DEPARTMENT OF THE ART.

Of J. S. Bach we have six sonatas for clavier and violin. Bitter, the biographer of C. Ph. E. Bach, mentions five by this master. Breitkopf & Härtel's and Peters' edition of Haydn's sonatas comprise eight, of which, however, one is an arrangement of a Divertimento for several instruments, and another is written for pianoforte and flute or violin. Mozart appears in the complete edition of his works with forty-three sonatas, in the current selections with eighteen. In Beethoven we have incontrovertibly by far the most important contributor to this kind of music, he having given us ten masterpieces—twice three in Op. 12 and 30, and single ones in Op. 23, 24, 47, and 96. Hummel's sonatas have fallen into oblivion, and so have those of many another worthy. Weber's 'Six Sonates progressives, pour le Pianoforte avec Violon obligé, dédiées aux amateurs,' do not come within our purview. Schubert has left us no more than three sonatinas, Op. 137, and the sonata Op. 162.

The post-Beethoven time, so unfruitful in the department of the pianoforte solo sonata, has been happier in the department of the sonata for pianoforte and violin. Mendelssohn, it is true, has left us nothing notable: his Op. 4 cannot claim this epithet. Schumann with his two sonatas, Op. 105 and 121, and Brahms with his three sonatas, Op. 78, 100, and 108, no doubt, surpass all similar productions of the period. But that much excellent and acceptable work has been done by other masters, the following names testify:—Gade, Rubinstein, Raff, Grieg, Rheinberger, Bargiel, Goldmark, Herzogenberg, Sinding, Gouvy, César Franck, Saint-Saëns, Fauré, &c., &c.

RICHARD STRAUSS'S SONATA.

To what was said about the modern sonata form in the preface to the programme of the first concert, I need here add only a remark or two bearing on the last work of to-night. Although at the time of writing his Op. 18, Richard Strauss had not yet developed into the daring, uncompromising composer of programme music he now is, we perceive in the sonata in question only a dimmed and dulled tradition of the building methods of the classics. The material is more complex, the treatment more intricate, and the structure less clear and simple. In other words, there is an increase and heightening of the harmonic, rhythmic, modulatory, and technical means; and key-distributions not reducible to a single formula take the place of the old plain key-contrasts—plain even where Beethoven diverges from the orthodox Dominant versus Tonic and Relative Major versus Minor. The result of the change is that the hearer receives the impression of a fantasia, of an improvisation, rather than of a carefully-planned composition—that is, the work impresses him less as an artistic whole than as an aggregation of beautiful, piquant, interesting, and perhaps also less attractive details. Where lies the fault? In the insufficient apprehensive and comprehensive power of the hearer, or in the insufficient self-restraining, ordering, crystallising, and concentrating power of the composer?

The historical programme consisted of the following sonatas for pianoforte and violin, played by Mr. Philip E. Halstead (pianoforte) and Mr. Henri Verbrugghen (violin):—

Ludwig van Beethoven (1770—1827).—In C minor, Op. 30, No. 2 (composed in 1802, published in 1803).
Robert Schumann (1810—1856).—In A minor, Op. 105 (composed in 1851, published in 1852).
Johannes Brahms (1833—1897).—In A major, Op. 100 (1887).
Richard Strauss (born 1864).—In E flat major, Op. 18 (1890).

A NONOGENARIAN DOUBLE-BASSIST.

DR. ASTLEY, J.P., OF DOVER.

It falls to the lot of very few people to attain the age of four-score years and ten, and fewer still to be active double-bass players at that nonogenarian period of their existence. Yet such an one—and an exceedingly zealous one, let us add—is to be found in the person of Dr. Edward Ferrand Astley, J.P., a generous-minded medical man and enthusiastic amateur musician, residing at Dover.

Dr. Astley was born at Quenington, a Gloucestershire village, of which his father was rector, on February 17, 1812. He has always taken an interest in the organ, and some sixty years ago presented his father's church with a barrel-organ, as no one in the district could play a manual instrument. Since that time he has given some ten or a dozen organs—though not of the revolutionary species—to various churches. One instrument of four manuals, which cost about £2,000, is located in Dover College Chapel; another, worth about £1,500, is in course of construction for the College Hall, as a memorial to the 'old boys' who have fallen in the South African war. But the latest and most important gift of this public-spirited amateur-musician takes the form of a fine electric organ, which the Doctor has recently promised to the Corporation of Dover for the Town Hall, and which will lighten his purse to the extent of some £3,000!

Although Dr. Astley takes the greatest interest in every detail of organ construction—and organ builders have marvelled at his knowledge in this direction—

DR. E. F. ASTLEY, J.P.

(From a Photograph by Messrs. Lambert Weston & Son Folkestone and Dover.)

his musical sympathies are not organically limited, so to speak; on the contrary, they are as wide-spread as they are generous. As president of the Dover Choral Union, he greets 'The Golden Legend' or 'Hiawatha' with the same enthusiasm as he does an old favourite like 'The Messiah.' His kindliness is shown in many ways. As Hon. Representative of the Associated Board and Local Chairman of Trinity College (London), he embraces every opportunity of showing warm-hearted hospitality, and the prizes he gives in connection with musical examinations in Dover have done much to encourage young candidates. A few years ago, as president of the Amateur Musical Society (now the Orchestral Society), he spent a large sum of money in purchasing orchestral instruments with the object of forming a complete local orchestra. Dr. Astley's acts of munificence in matters not connected with music—including the gift to the town, under certain conditions, of the Infectious Diseases Hospital—are too numerous to be mentioned here; suffice it to say that his generosity and public spirit are well known and fully recognised in the town where he has spent a long and useful life.

Notwithstanding his ninety years, Dr. Astley still takes his place in the orchestra of the Choral Union concerts, and plays his double-bass with genuine enthusiasm; moreover, he thoroughly enjoys participating in a weekly practice of chamber-music at his house, at which the violoncello is the instrument of his choice.

An interesting 'appreciation,' of him and his musical doings is furnished by Sir Frederick Bridge, who in a letter, says:—

When I was at the Dover Festival, I was charmed to see Dr. Astley with his double-bass—a real old-world picture of an ardent amateur. And I heard so much of his kindness to musical Institutions and to musicians generally, that I rather wished there were a few more such men about the country!

Dr. Astley will complete his ninetieth year on the 17th inst. It may be assumed that others, and those not a few, beyond his own immediate circle will join in wishing this venerable, generous, and true lover of music 'Many happy returns of the day.'

THE GERMAN PRESS ON DR. ELGAR'S 'DREAM OF GERONTIUS.'

Enthusiastic admiration is the keynote of the German Press in speaking of Dr. Elgar's 'Dream of Gerontius,' produced for the first time in the Fatherland on December 19 last. We subjoin a few specimens:—

The Cologne Gazette (the Times of Germany), expresses itself as follows:—

The impression which the work produced was so profound, that without doubt this 'Dream' will be followed by many realities in the shape of performances. . . . In both parts we meet with beauties of imperishable value. . . . Elgar stands on the shoulders of Berlioz, Wagner, and Liszt, from whose influences he has freed himself until he has become an important individuality. He is one of the leaders of musical art of modern times.

The Düsseldorfer Zeitung says:—

The success of the 'Dream of Gerontius' was astonishingly complete. Such a deeply serious subject has never before been musically treated in a similar manner. Here it is done not only in a new form, but with an eminently sovereign exploiting of, and command over, all available means of expression, such as were at the command of only the most renowned of his predecessors. . . . The final chorus of the first part occupies an altogether remarkable place. An impression of Handelian grandeur allied to wonderful tone-colour is produced at the words 'Go in the name of Angels and Archangels,' where the twelve-part chorus waves over a pedal point, of which several are found excellently used in this masterpiece—e.g., in the broad and highly-important C minor chorus 'Praise to the Holiest in the height.' . . . The English composer has been acknowledged a master of immense learning and great depth and feeling.

The Rheinisch Westphälische Zeitung is of this opinion, that:—

Elgar has wrought work of imperishable beauty; his greatness is especially exemplified in his expressing of heavenly peace, and he offers us pictures the beauty and mild majesty of which simply enchant us. But he has also the strength to paint with rugged characterisation the demoniac forces of the soul's life: this we see in the choruses of the demons, the execution of which is probably one of the most difficult tasks with which a massive chorus can struggle. The melodic form, and still more the harmonic, shows that Edward Elgar has accepted with open mind the enormous extension of means of expression which music has gained from Wagner and Liszt. At the same time he is a master of polyphonic structure, and one who knows how to steep his contrapuntal art in such genuine feeling that the listener hardly notices the skill with which these tone-pictures are wrought. The 'Dream of Gerontius' does not stand second to any of the most modern orchestral works in brilliancy and richness of instrumental colouring.

The Düsseldorfer Volksblatt speaks in a similar strain. It commences a lengthy and excellently-written article with the words:—

A memorable and epoch-making first performance! Since the days of Liszt nothing has been produced in the way of oratorio—even including Ph. Wolfrum's 'Weihnachtsmysterium'—which reaches the greatness and importance of this sacred cantata.

In fact, there is no discordant note in the chorus of praise which Dr. Elgar's work has received in Germany.

SHAKESPEARE AND ORLANDO LASSUS.

In Henry the Fourth, Part II., Act V., Scene 3, Silence sings several snatches of song over his cups, one of which runs:—

'Do me right,
And dub me knight;
Samingo.'

These lines have exercised the commentators vastly. Steevens quoted in illustration a catch sung by Bacchus in Nashe's play 'Summer's Last Will and Testament,' which was entered on the Register of the Stationers' Company on October 28, 1600, two months after Shakespeare's play:—

'Monsieur Mingo for quaffing doth surpass
In cup, or can, or glass:
God Bacchus, do me right,
And dub me knight,
Domingo.'

and also an epigram on a famous tippler named 'Monsieur Domingo,' from 'The Letting of Humours Blood in the Head-vaine' (entered at Stationers' Hall, October 16, 1600). Wharton remembered having seen a black-letter ballad in which either a San Domingo or a Signior Domingo was celebrated for his miraculous feats in drinking, but this I have not been able to trace.

'Samingo' has been universally regarded as a corruption of 'San Domingo,' and it is strange, in view of the generally accepted theory that the printed text of many of Shakespeare's plays was derived from shorthand notes taken during the performances, that no one should have hit on the emendation 'Sir Mingo' for 'Samingo.' How else should Monsieur Mingo be styled when dubbed knight? I make a present of this suggestion to any future editor of the play.

Some time ago, Mr. G. E. P. Arkwright told me that a song or ballad beginning 'Monsieur Mingo for quaffing doth surpass,' and ending 'God Bacchus do me right, and dub me knight, Domingo,' existed in one of the manuscripts of the Music School at Oxford, set to music in four parts by Orlando Lassus; but as the manuscript in question (MS. Mus. f. 16-19) was a very late one—'newly collected and finished and sowne together in the yeres 1655 and 1656'—and, moreover, one of the four part-books was missing, I thought no more of it at the time. Lately, however, I have found the same music with French words in several early editions of Lassus's songs. In the Paris 'Meslanges' of 1570 and 1576 the words are 'Un jour vis un foulon qui fouloit'; in the edition printed at La Rochelle in 1575, in which 'la lettre profane a esté changié en spirituelle,' the words are 'Un jour vis un Néron qui saouloit'; and in 'La Fleur des Chansons d'Orlande de Lassus,' Anvers, 1592, 'On ne peut le fol amour saouler.' The earliest version of all, which I have not seen, is found, I believe, in the Antwerp 'Chansons' of 1564. It was probably from this edition that Van Maldeghem transcribed, or rather 'arranged' the version printed in the 'Trésor Musical' for 1874, beginning 'On ne peut mechant désir saouler.'

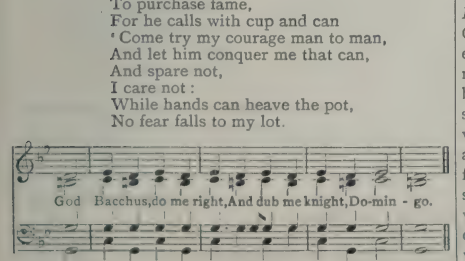
There is very little variation in the music of these different copies, except in the matter of accidentals. The Oxford manuscript is far more liberal and consistent in their use than the earlier printed editions, but neither are entirely satisfactory according to modern notions of tonality. Much light has yet to be thrown on the principles which guided composers even as late as the end of the sixteenth century in the use of accidentals in the published editions of their works. There are, for instance, two passages in this song in which the printed copies have an E flat in the alto part against an E natural in the bass. One is tempted to think that accidentals were deliberately inserted or withheld in order to mystify the reader and render professional assistance indispensable.

Space will not permit of the whole composition being printed here. I therefore give the words only of the ballad, together with the music of the final refrain, the melody of which cannot have presented much difficulty even to one in the condition of poor Silence, who, in the play, is shortly afterwards ignominiously carried off to bed:—

Mounsieur Mingo
For quaffing doth surpass
In cup, cruse, can or glass:
In seller never was
His fellow found
To drink profound
By task and turn around,
To quaff carouse so sound,
And yet bear so fresh a brain
Sans taint or stain,
Or foil, recoil or quarrel
But to the beer or barrel,
Where he works to win his name,
And stout doth stand
In Bacchus' band
With pot in hand
To purchase fame,
For he calls with cup and can
'Come try my courage man to man,
And let him conquer me that can,
And spare not,
I care not:
While hands can heave the pot,
No fear falls to my lot.



J. F. R. Stainer.

Church and Organ Music.

BANK HOLIDAY IN A CATHEDRAL.

The pious founders of our venerable cathedrals knew nothing of banks, not to say Bank Holidays. 'A chance visit to Gloucester,' writes Dotted Crotchet, 'on December 26 (Boxing-Day), happened to coincide with the 145th recital of Sacred Music in the Cathedral. It was a gratifying sight, looking down from the organ loft, to see so large and devout a congregation listening to and taking part in the music Mr. A. Herbert Brewer had so admirably arranged for their delectation. The whole thing was quite informal, the Dean and one of the Canons (Bishop Mitchinson) being the only surpliced clergy present. The choir consisted of ladies and gentlemen (all voluntary singers) from the local Choral Society, and there was no collection!' We venture to give the outline programme: in the actual document freely distributed among the congregation, the words of each piece were printed in their entirety. This is as it should be.

GLOUCESTER CATHEDRAL.

Prayer—Prevent us, O Lord. Our Father, which art in heaven.
1. Organ Solo—'Imperial March' ... ... Edward Elgar.
2. Hymn 59 (A. & M.)—'O come, all ye faithful.'
3. Organ Solo—'Barcarolle' ... ... Lemare.
4. Carol—'Can man forget the Story?' ... ... Brewer.
5. Solo—'O Christmas night' ... ... Adolphe Adam.
6. Selection—From 'The Messiah' ... Handel, 1685—1759.
Pastoral Symphony.
There were Shepherds.
Glory to God.
7. Quartet—'Silent night' ... ... Barnby, 1838—1896.
8. Recit., Air and Chorus {'Behold a Virgin' / 'O Thou that tellest' (Messiah) ... Handel.
9. Air—'My soul doth magnify the Lord' (Light of the world) Sullivan, 1842—1900.
10. Carol—'The First Nowell' ... ... Traditional.
Prayer. The Blessing.
Concluding Voluntary—'Grand Chœur' ... ... Guilmant.

December 26, 1901 (145th Recital). H. D. M. Spence, Dean.
A. Herbert Brewer, Organist.

The Hymn and 'The First Nowell' are chosen for congregational singing, and all present are requested to join in the melody in unison.

RENATUS HARRIS AND ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL.

Mr. Samuel Smith, of Windsor, has kindly sent us the following extract from the Spectator of December 3, 1712. It refers to a proposal to erect a second organ over the West Door of St. Paul's Cathedral, concerning which Addison says:—

Among other omissions of which I have been also guilty, with relation to men of industry of a superior order, I must acknowledge my silence towards a proposal frequently inclosed to me by Mr. Renatus Harris, Organ-Builder. The ambition of this artificer is to erect an Organ in St. Paul's Cathedral, over the west door, at the entrance into the body of the church, which in art and magnificence shall transcend any work of that kind ever before invented. The proposal in perspicuous language sets forth the honour and advantage such a performance would be to the British name, as well as that it would apply the power of sounds in a manner more amazingly forcible than, perhaps, has yet been known, and I am sure to an end much more worthy. Had the vast sums which have been laid out upon operas without skill or conduct, and to no other purpose but to suspend or vitiate our understandings, been disposed this way, we should now perhaps have an engine so formed as to strike the minds of half a people at once in a place of worship, with a forgetfulness of present care and calamity, and a hope of endless rapture, joy and hallelujah hereafter.

Addison's quaint and forcible language of nearly 200 years ago may appear to us as very amusing, but has it not some bearing on present-day music? Many organs are in the nature of engines that 'strike the minds' of worshippers rather too forcibly, and as for the still-born operas, they are still with us.

THE WHEREABOUTS OF THE LAST CORONATION ORGAN.

The CC organ specially erected for the Coronation of Queen Victoria in 1838, and to which we referred in our last issue (p. 21), found its way from Westminster Abbey to St. John's Church, Chester. The Rev. Canon S. Cooper Scott, the vicar, has in this connection sent us a very interesting guide, compiled by himself, to that fine old Norman Church. From his pleasantly-written pages we gather the following information relating to the organ:—

On December 22, 1837, Parson Richardson, who had been Vicar of St. John's for fifty-three years, died, and left in his will the sum of £600 to provide an organ for St. John's; his executors purchased the organ used at the Queen's Coronation, and erected it in a gallery at the West end of the Church; it was opened on [Sunday] October 28, 1838.

As the result of searching the file of the Chester Chronicle of that time in regard to the said organ opening, it appears that, on the Sunday above mentioned, collections were announced to be made 'in aid of a Fund to be invested towards the payment of an Organist's Salary.' On the following day, 'an organ performance'—the word recital had not then come into use—was given by Mr. (afterwards Dr.) Gauntlett. He was announced as the 'Pedalist, of London.' The name of Bach was comparatively unknown in England at that time; therefore it is hardly surprising to read in the Chester Chronicle that the Coronation organ enabled the performer 'to play the pedal fugues of Back'!

THE DEATHS OF THE REV. H. FLEETWOOD SHEPPARD AND MR. H. B. BRIGGS.

Death has recently removed two earnest-minded men and devoted workers in the cause of church music—the Rev. Henry Fleetwood Sheppard and Mr. Henry Bremridge Briggs. The former, who died at Oxford, on December 27, at the age of seventy-seven, was for thirty years rector of Thurnscoe, near Doncaster. In addition to his unceasing activity in church musical matters in Yorkshire, Mr. Sheppard greatly assisted Mr. Baring-Gould in the interesting study of folk-songs, and was most painstaking in noting down old ballads sung by old and illiterate men and women in the West of England. The name of Mr. Briggs, who died at Westcliffe-on-Sea, on the last day of 1901, aged fifty-one, is chiefly associated with the subject of Plain Song, of which he was an enthusiastic propagandist. He founded the Plain Song and Mediæval Society, the realization of the dream of his life. Within a few days of his sudden and lamented death, he had passed the final proofs of the new edition of the Psalter Noted, upon which he, in collaboration with the late Sir John Stainer and the Rev. W. H. Frere, had spent much time and anxious thought. The Psalter will be issued almost immediately.

The following information is furnished in answer to a correspondent (C. S.) at Stockport: The tune associated with John Byrom's hymn, 'Christians, awake, salute the happy morn,' was composed by John Wainwright, not by Richard, his brother, as stated in Hymns Ancient and Modern. We are glad to hear of the proposal to perpetuate the memory of this old psalmodist in the parish church of Stockport, his native town.

SPECIAL SERVICES.

The interesting performances of Bach's Christmas oratorio at St. Anne's, Soho, were continued on the first three Fridays in January, when the second half of the work given was under the able direction of Mr. E. H. Thorne. In this connection we cannot do better than endorse the words of the Times critic, who says: 'The choir is supplemented and sings the music admirably, while the accompaniments are played by a small but excellent orchestra, and the solos are beautifully sung. The performances have evidently been carefully prepared, and full justice is done to the music.'

Schumann's Requiem (Op. 148) was sung at Lincoln's Inn Chapel, on Sunday afternoon, the 19th ult., with organ accompaniment, under the careful direction of Dr. Steggall. This is one of the composer's latest works, as it was written only two years before his tragic death, and he never heard it performed. Was the Lincoln's Inn presentation of it the first in this country? Perhaps some of our readers could answer this question.

ORGAN RECITALS.

Mr. E. H. Lemare, St. Margaret's, Westminster (Andante with Variations and Fugue on a Trumpet fanfare, Lemmens).—Mr. A. Herbert Brewer, Parish Church, Weston-super-Mare (Fantasia in F, John E. West).—Mr. J. M. Preston, John Knox Presbyterian Church, Newcastle (Air with Variations, Best).—Mr. H. C. J. Churchill, Poplar Wesleyan Church.—Mr. P. Tottenham Lucas, St. Paul's, Covent Garden (Preludio from Sonata No. 6, Rheinberger).—Mr. W. A. Roberts, St. Paul's, Princes Park, Liverpool (Passacaille, from 'Rodrigo,' Handel).—Mr. H. W. Weston, Holy Trinity, West Hill, Wandsworth (Concerto, No. 8, for the Feast of the Nativity, Corelli).—Mr. W. G. Whittaker, St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, South Shields (Adagio in A flat, Stainer).—Mr. Thomas Curry, St. Stephen's, Walbrook, City (Trumpet Voluntary, Purcell).—Mr. W. W. Starmer, St. Mark's, Tunbridge Wells (Toccata and Fugue in F, Seegr).—Mr. W. Ashton Alder, Holy Trinity, Richmond (Cantilene in A, Wheeldon).—Mr. David Clegg, St. Stephen's, Walbrook, City (Organ Sonata, Reicha).—Mr. Bernard Gilbert, Public Hall, Canning Town (Pastorale, Scarlatti).—Mr. J. Harry Lee, Twyning Parish Church, Tewkesbury.—Mr. Davan Wetton, St. Paul's, Canonbury (Three Sketches, Schumann).—Mr. C. E. Juleff, St. John's, Taunton (Prelude and Fugue, Polleri).—Mr. Warren R. Hedden, Church of the Incarnation, New York (Russian Hymn, Freyer).—Mr. T. N. MacBean, Stockton Parish Church (Fantasia in C, Tours).—Mr. W. Mullineux, Town Hall, Bolton (Concert Overture in C, Hollins).—Mr. Gray, Adam Smith Hall, Kirkcaldy (Caprice in B flat, Guilmant).—Mr. T. H. Collinson, St. Mary's Cathedral, Edinburgh (Choral Song and Fugue, S. S. Wesley).

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

The following candidates passed the recent examination for the Fellowship diploma:—

Armistead, J., Brierfield.
Bridson, C. W., Liverpool.
Carter, J. W., Millom.
Coldwell, D. J., Hadleigh.
Crawford, T. J., London.
Croxall, T. B., Church Gresley.
Dudley, A. H., Woodhey.
Gabriel, W. H., Tredegar.
Greatorex, W., Uppingham.
Hackett, H., Kenilworth.
Hart, L. R., London.
Lees, S., Christleton.
Meale, J. A., Selby.
Musgrove, R. B., New Brighton.
Robinson, A. H., Buxton.
Upsher, W. T., London.
Watson, R. B., Cowling.
Whalley, H., Brierfield.
Yarrow, R. H., London.

ORGANIST AND CHOIRMASTER, AND CHOIR APPOINTMENTS.

Mr. Guy C. Ambrose, Holy Trinity Church, Eltham.

Mr. Reginald Goss-Custard, St. Margaret's Church, Westminster.

Mr. Lionel Baker (Tenor), St. Michael and All Angels' Church, Paddington.

Mr. H. Lloyd Dixon (Alto), Christ Church, Marylebone.

Mr. Adolph Fowler (Bass), the New Cathedral, Westminster.

Reviews.

Modest Tschaïkowsky: Das Leben Peter Iljitsch Tschaïkowsky's. Translated into German from the Russian by Paul Juon. Vol. I., Parts 1 and 2.

[Moscow and Leipzig: P. Jurgenson.]

The composer of the 'Symphonie Pathétique' died suddenly in 1893. He at once became famous, and as regards the public this was owing in very large measure to the one work named. The history of music shows clearly that compositions which bear a title, genuine or otherwise, stand a better chance of popularity than those which depend for recognition merely on their key or their opus number. The title may be high-sounding, such as the 'Jupiter' Symphony, or the 'Emperor' Concerto; fanciful, such as the 'Harmonious Blacksmith' Variations or the 'Moonlight' Sonata; or one more prosaic, such as the 'Unfinished' Symphony; it matters not: it is the fact of there being a title, whereby frequently hangs a tale, that attracts the public. The qualifying word 'Pathétique' had in itself emotional power which suddenly became intensified when the sad news of the death of the composer reached us. The fine music which the work contains must of course be taken into consideration in accounting for the great impression which it has created here; but we believe we are correct in saying that were Tschaïkowsky still in the land of the living, and had his work from the time of its production been simply known as 'Symphony in B minor, Op. 74,' it would not possess such wonderful drawing power. The interest thus created in the Symphony naturally led to an interest in the man himself, and the 'Tchaïkovsky' of Mrs. Rosa Newmarch was eagerly read. And now a new Life appears on the scene, one written by the younger brother of the composer, Modest Tschaïkowsky, who has naturally had access to many letters and papers written to or by his brother Peter, and who therefore can supply fuller information than his earlier biographer. Two parts of the first volume have already been issued, and from them we will gather just a few facts and anecdotes.

Some interesting details are given of the childhood of Peter, when he and his brother and sister were taught by Fanny Dürbach, who is still living, who looks back on the four years which she spent in the Tschaïkowsky family as the happiest epoch of her life, and who has kept many a souvenir of her 'little Peter,' among which are the copy books in which he jotted down his thoughts, mostly in verse. A facsimile is given of a 'Prière d'une petite fille tout-a-fait orpheline,' written at the age of seven. In 1850 he commenced his studies at the School of Jurisprudence, obtaining later on a post in the Ministry of Justice. At the school he learnt the pianoforte and singing, and at home he had some pianoforte lessons for three years from Kündinger, a distinguished virtuoso. His father, although possessing no knowledge of music, recognised his son's gifts, and encouraged him to study music seriously. But the youth had few opportunities of hearing the works of the great composers, and it is stated that when twenty-one years of age not only was he totally ignorant of Schumann's works, but he did not even know the nature of Beethoven's symphonies, or their number!

In 1861, as interpreter to a merchant, a friend of his father's, Tschaïkowsky visited Germany, England and France, returning home in September; while in London, he heard Adelina Patti, who made her début here in that year. In 1862, he became a pupil of the Conservatoire founded by Rubinstein, but he still kept his post in the Ministry until, as he said, 'I feel assured that I am no clerk, but an artist.' At the Conservatoire he formed the acquaintanceship of Laroche, who afterwards made a name for himself, and they became firm friends. The pupils had free access to the rehearsals and concerts of the Musical Society, and there Tschaïkowsky heard the works of Berlioz and Liszt, and in 1862 of Wagner, who was giving concerts in St. Petersburg, and he was carried away by the brilliant modern orchestration, although Rubinstein often preached against the elaborate apparatus used by modern composers. Tschaïkowsky's biographer says:—'It is really remarkable that Peter Iljitsch, with all his love for Mozart, never once even in joke, or as a tour de force, tried to write a piece for the classical orchestra.' The young artist had the highest respect for the famous director of the Conservatoire, yet even in his student days he knew how to distinguish between Rubinstein's few strong and many weak compositions. Before leaving the Conservatoire he wrote, in accordance with the wish expressed by Rubinstein, a cantata for chorus and orchestra on Schiller's 'Ode to Joy.' It was performed there in presence of the directors of the Russian Musical Society, but it was not approved of; with the result that it now lies buried among the archives of the Conservatoire. Laroche, however, while fully recognizing that his friend was as yet in many respects immature, prophesied for him a brilliant future.

From St. Petersburg, Tschaïkowsky went as a teacher of theory to the Moscow Conservatoire, of which Nicolas Rubinstein was director, and the account of his life and doings there is interesting. While at the St. Petersburg Conservatoire he wrote an Overture in F, which, after he had re-scored it, was performed at Moscow, under the direction of Nicolas Rubinstein, in March, 1866, and at St. Petersburg on the following first of May under the direction of Anton Rubinstein. 'This first Petersburg debut of Peter Iljitsch' (i.e., as composer), says his brother, 'has remained entirely unnoticed. The newspapers said not a word about it.' In that year he commenced working at his first Symphony in G minor, and with such assiduity that he became ill of a nervous affection; no work afterwards ever cost him such painful effort. The symphony was produced at Moscow. At the end of the second part of the biography we read of the young composer making rapid progress with his opera 'Woiwode.' We shall look forward to the remaining instalments of this biography.

Counterpoint. By J. Frederick Bridge. Revised Edition.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

Twenty-four years have passed since the first issue of this useful primer. The fact that upwards of thirty-seven thousand copies have been sold is a strong testimony to its practical thoroughness and the extent to which the subject of counterpoint is studied. The author is not one of the rest-and-be-thankful species, nor is he the man to stand still; he has therefore taken advantage of a reprint of his book to subject it to minute revision and to make some valuable additions. Chief among the latter is a new chapter entitled 'Counterpoint on a Chorale,' an important and practical phase of the subject, and, we may add, an interesting one withal. Many new canti fermi for exercises, including chorales to be employed as themes for counterpoint, add value to a primer that has been received with so much acceptance. That Sir Frederick has not forsaken his old love of the Fux, Albrechtsberger and Cherubini school, is proved by the apt Shakespearean quotation from the 'Taming of the Shrew' (Act III., Sc. 1), which he gives in the preface to the revised edition of his useful manual:—

> Old fashions please me best; I am not so nice,
> To change true rules for odd inventions.

Lead, kindly Light. For Soprano Solo and Chorus, or Quintet, by Liza Lehmann.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

The familiar lyric of Cardinal Newman has attracted the fancy of many composers, but this setting of the favourite hymn, by Madame Liza Lehmann, is entitled to a prominent position amongst the rest; moreover, it is one which is equally suitable for the home or the church. The solo for the soprano voice supplements the parts for mezzo-soprano, contralto, tenor, and bass. These, by reason of their interest and contrapuntal character, would be most effective if sung by soloists, but a well-trained choir would of course be able to do them justice. The spirit of the words has been most happily caught, especially that of the beautiful last line, 'Which I have loved long since—and lost awhile,' the yearning tenderness of which is intensified by the music.

CHURCH MUSIC.

Let all the world in every corner sing. By Warwick Jordan.
He that dwelleth in the secret place of the Most High. By Josiah Booth.
If any man hath not the Spirit of Christ. By H. Walford Davies.
Come, Holy Ghost, our souls inspire. By C. Lee Williams.
Lord, I have loved the habitation of Thy house. By G. W. Torrance.
Blessed be Thou, Lord God of Israel. By Edward C. Bairstow.

(Novello's Octavo Anthems.)

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

The jubilant words of Dr. Jordan's composition are by George Herbert. The opening theme, sung by a bass soloist, subsequently forms the subject of the fugue that concludes the work. The chorus enters with a phrase which forms an episode in the final fugue, and in other details the work is remarkable for continuity and cohesiveness. A good contrast is obtained by a central section being set for verse or semi-chorus. 'He that dwelleth in the secret place,' by Mr. Josiah Booth, is specially suitable for the season of Whitsuntide, but is also available for general use. After two bars set for the altos and tenors, the full choir enters in four parts. Subsequently the tenors and basses have a passage in unison, which in turn gives place to the concluding chorus. This is richly harmonised, and contains several impressive passages.

The setting of the words 'If any man hath not the spirit of Christ,' by Dr. Walford Davies, is an interesting example of that devotional spirit which is so commendable a characteristic of his church compositions. After a few bars for soprano solo, the words are taken up by the bass soloist, who subsequently is supported by the choir. The second section contains an animated chorus of contrapuntal character, in the rendering of which a competent choir would find no difficulty. The organ accompaniment is important, and demands a skilful player. 'Come, Holy Ghost' is an introit suitable for coronation, ordination, or general use. The music is adapted from a chorale in Mr. Lee Williams's sacred cantata, 'Bethany.' It is simple and melodious in character, and comprises soprano solos, a quartet, and a short chorus. The anthem by Dr. Torrance is intended for parish choir festivals, for which it is well designed, the music being melodious and making little demands upon executive means. It contains passages which may be sung by a soprano soloist, and others suitable for a quartet. Dr. Bairstow's anthem was composed for the re-opening of the organ of Wigan Parish Church last month, and is a composition of some importance. The music is grandiose in character, this effect being largely contributed to by the fulness of the organ accompaniment. It does not contain any solos, but there are passages for basses and sopranos in unison, and sections which could be sung by a quartet of voices.

Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis in A. By Herbert Arthur Wheeldon and Bertram Luard Selby.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

Mr. Wheeldon's setting of the Magnificat opens with a chorus of a decisive and jubilant character, which is preserved throughout, with the exception of the music allotted to a soprano soloist for the verse beginning 'And his mercy is on them that fear him.' The music allied to the words of the Nunc Dimittis is flowing and graceful. Separate Glorias are provided.

The setting of the Evening Canticles by Mr. Luard Selby opens with a soprano solo, followed by a section in four parts, first for male voices, and subsequently for the full choir. The passage beginning 'He remembering His mercy,' is set for semi-chorus of sopranos and tenors, supplemented by a soprano solo. The Gloria is of imposing nature. The first two verses of the Nunc Dimittis are assigned to male voices, the sopranos entering at the words, 'To be a Light.' The Gloria is set in a somewhat extended form.

Comfort the soul of Thy servant (anthem for men's voices) and Benedicite. By John E. West.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

This reflective anthem, laid out for altos, first and second tenors, and basses, is designed for Lenten or general use. It opens with a chorus of flowing character, to which succeeds a tenor solo. The final chorus is not only spirited and emphatic, but forms an effective conclusion to an interesting composition.

Great variety and effective use of the resources of choral writing distinguish the setting of the Benedicite, written for the usual four voices. Moreover, the music has the advantage of presenting no difficulties to ordinary choirs.

PIANOFORTE MUSIC.

Six Pieces, Op. 9. Six Pieces, Op. 10. By P. Floridia.
Six Morceaux, Op. 10. By M. Enrico Bossi.

[Gebrüder Hug & Co.]

Pianists of moderate attainments in search of short solos of pleasing character may be recommended the first set of six pieces, particularly the numbers entitled, 'Minuet d'Amour,' 'Madrigal,' and the 'Valse brillante,' all of which will be found attractive and effective. The second set, Op. 10, is a little more difficult, but any extra practice they may require will be well repaid. The most pleasing piece in this set is a Mazurka of a taking character.; a Reverie entitled, 'Au lac du Klönthal,' which would provide a good study for the independence of the fingers, and a 'Valse Caprice,' a brilliant little piece. The most attractive of M. Bossi's compositions are the 'Prelude,' and 'Giga,' The latter is of lively character, and requires nimble fingers, but the music is playable.

Tears. Love Song. Bridal Song. For pianoforte. Composed by Georg Liebling.

[Ascherberg and Co.]

Herr Liebling has contributed several compositions of pleasing character to the repertory of modern pianoforte music, and the three pieces under notice may be placed among his most successful efforts. The music of 'Tears' is regretful in expression, but by no means maudlin, and it possesses melodic charm which suggests the grace of tears. In the 'Love Song' the composer would seem to have endeavoured to illustrate the conflicting emotion of a swain somewhat uncertain of the success of his suit. 'The Bridal Song' is very short, and somewhat more meditative in character than might be anticipated, but it is very pretty and tasteful.

SONGS.

I was wishful he'd stay. I mayn't or I may. Words by A. P. Graves. Music by Charles Wood.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

Dr. Charles Wood's songs may be recommended to lady vocalists possessing a vivacious style. The words are humorous in character, their burden suggesting the coquetry attributed to the female mind. The music of 'I mayn't or I may' is an arrangement of an Irish folk-tune, but the melody of 'I was wishful he'd stay' is original, and in our opinion quite as good as the folk-tune utilised in the other song.

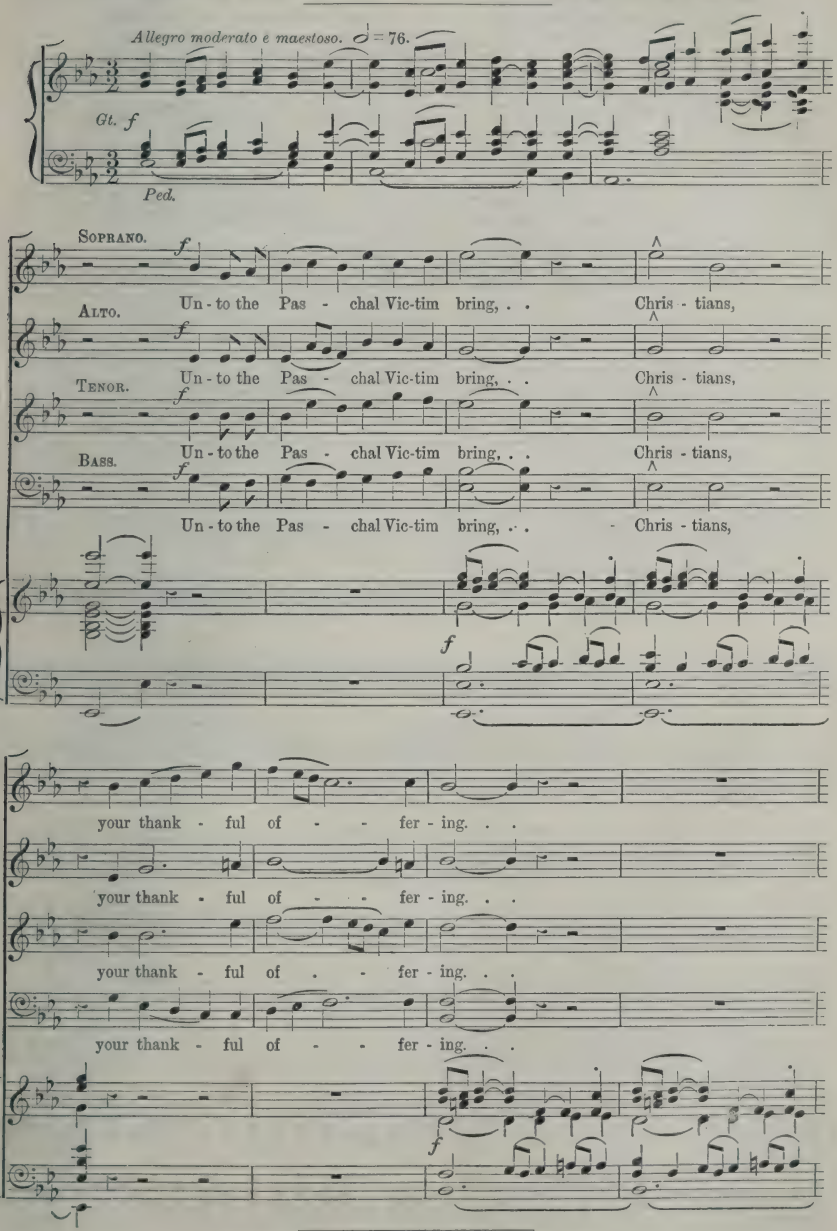
Unto the Paschal Victim bring.

ANTHEM FOR EASTER.

Words translated from the Easter Sequence—"Victimæ Paschali."

Composed by JOHN E. WEST.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED; AND NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.



Allegro moderato e maestoso. ♩ = 76.
Gt. f
Ped.
Soprano.
Alto.
Tenor.
Bass.
Un - to the Pas - chal Vic-tim bring, . . Chris - tians,
Un - to the Pas - chal Vic-tim bring, . . Chris - tians,
Un - to the Pas - chal Vic-tim bring, . . Chris - tians,
Un - to the Pas - chal Vic-tim bring, . . Chris - tians,
your thank - ful of - - fer - ing. . .
your thank - ful of - - fer - ing. . .
your thank - ful of - - fer - ing. . .
your thank - ful of - - fer - ing. . .

Copyright, 1902, by Novello and Company, Limited.

mf
The Lamb the sheep hath ran-som-ed ;
The Lamb the sheep hath ran-som-ed, the Lamb the sheep hath ran-som-ed ;
Sw. mf
mp
cres.
Christ, the un-de-filed, Christ, the un-de-filed, Hath sin-ners to His Ch. Flutes.
Sw. with 8 ft. Reed.
f
God and Father re-con-ciled. . . Un-to the
Gt. f
Ped.

cres.
ff con maesta.
rall.
Pas chal Victim bring, . . Chris - tians, your thank - ful of - - fer -
Pas - chal Victim bring, . . Chris - tians, your thank - ful of - - fer -
Pas - chal Victim bring, . . Chris - tians, your thank - ful of - - fer -
Pas - chal Victim bring, . . Chris - tians, your thank - ful of - - fer - a tempo.
- ing. . .
- ing. . .
- ing. . .
- ing. . .
Solo Tuba (or Full Sw.). Full Sw.
f a tempo.
f
mf
Death and Life, in won-drous strife, Came to con-flict sharp and sore, . .
Death and Life, in won-drous strife, Came to con - flict sharp and sore, . .
Death and Life, in won-drous strife, Came to con-flict sharp and sore, . .
Death and Life, in won-drous strife, Came to con-flict sharp and sore, . . came to
Ped.

cres. poco a poco.
mf
came to con-flict sharp . . and sore, . . came to con-flict sharp . . and cres. poco a poco.
mf
came to con - flict sharp and sore, . .
mf cres. poco a poco.
cres. poco a poco.
came to con - flict sharp and con-flict sharp . . and sore, . . came to con-flict sharp . . and sore, . . came to cres. poco a poco.
f cres. e poco accel.
sore, . . came to con - flict sharp and sore, . . .
f
came to con - flict sharp and sore, . . .
cres. e poco accel.
f sore, . . came to con - flict sharp and con-flict sharp . . and sore, . . came to con - flict sharp and Gt.
f
cres. e poco accel.
Gt.
rit.
ff Tempo 1mo.
mf
. . . sharp and sore: . . Life's Mon-arch, He That ff rit.
mf
. . sharp and sore: . . Life's Mon-arch, He That ff rit.
mf
sore, sharp and sore: . . Life's Mon-arch, He That ff rit.
mf
sore, sharp and sore: . . Life's Mon-arch, He That Tempo 1mo.
ff rit.
ff
Sw.
mf
Ped.

rall.
Andante assai.
died, . . Now dies no more. . . . .
rall.
died, . . Now dies no more. . . . .
rall.
died, . . Now dies no more. . . . .
died, . . Now dies no more. . . . .
Andante assai.
= 56.
Gt. ff
rall.
Sw. 8 ft.
mf
Tenors. mf
What thou saw - est, Ma - ry, say, As thou went - est on thy way. . .
rit.
Basses. mf
What thou saw - est, Ma - ry, say, As thou went - est on thy way. . .
rit.
Ped.
Soprano Solo.
Quasi Recit.
mf
"I saw the Slain One's earth-ly pris-on; . . I saw the mp
f Gt. 8 ft. Reed.
Sw.
Man.
(Man.)
f
glo - ry, the glo - ry of the Ris - - en; . .
f
f Gt. 8 ft. Reed.
Man.

a tempo.
mp
The wit-ness an-gels by the cave; And the gar-ments of the grave. . . .
a tempo.
p Sw.
dim.
Ped.
Quasi Recit.
cres.
f
The Lord, . . my Hope, is ris-en; and
pp mf Sw. with 16 ft. and Reed. cres.
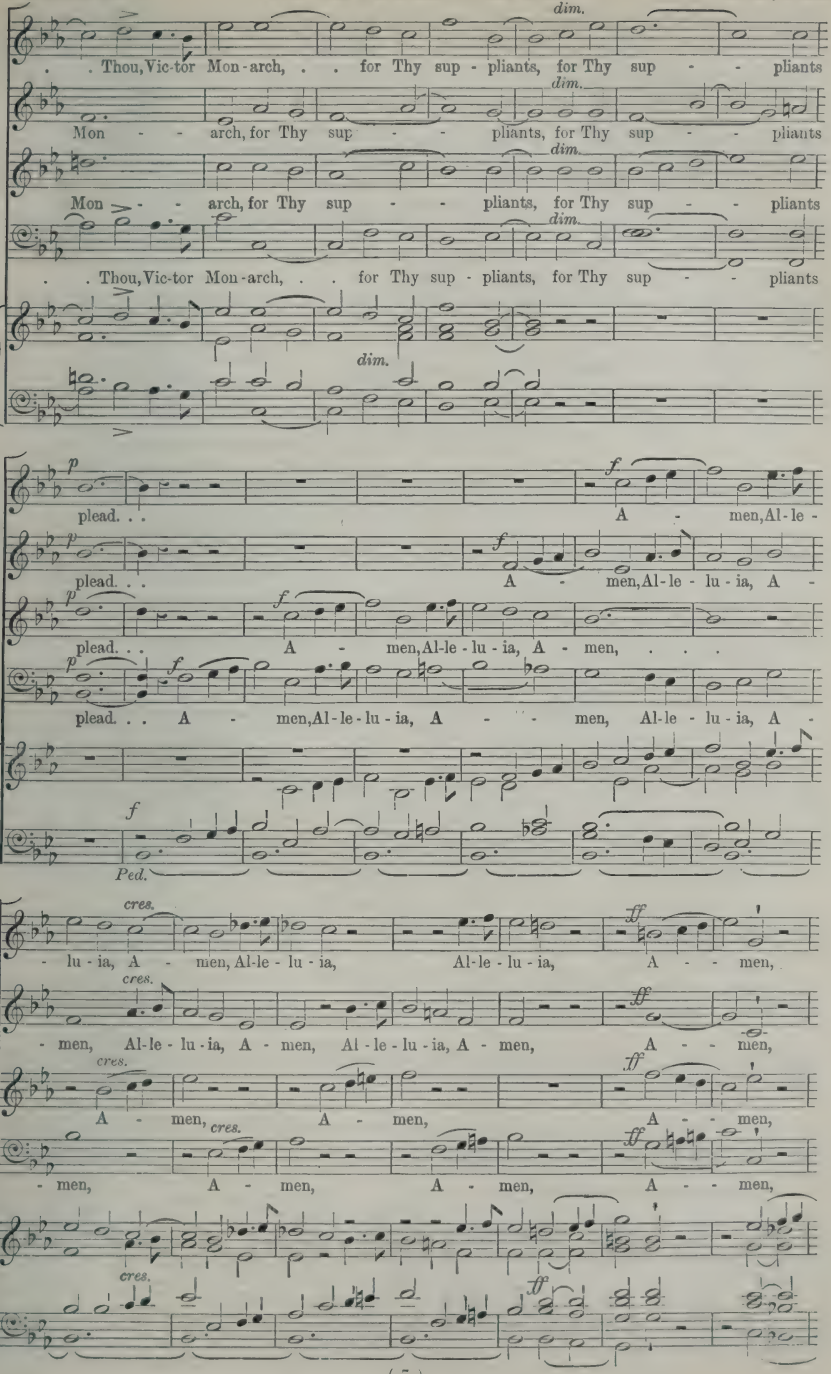
add to Sw.
ff
He Be-fore you goes to Ga-li-lee, . . to Ga - - -
f
mf
Ped.
Ped.
Allegro con spirito.
- - - li-lee."
Full.
f
We know that Christ is ris-en from death in-deed: Thou, Vic-tor Mon-arch, . .
Full.
We know that Christ is ris-en from death in-deed: Thou, . . . Vic-tor
Full.
We know that Christ is ris-en from death in-deed: Thou, Thou, Vic-tor
We know that Christ is ris-en from death indeed: Thou, Vic-tor Mon-arch, . .
Allegro con spirito. ♩ = 116.
f Gt.
Ped.



dim.
. . Thou, Vic-tor Mon-arch, . . for Thy sup - pliants, for Thy sup - - pliants
Mon - - arch, for Thy sup - - pliants, for Thy sup - - pliants
Mon - - arch, for Thy sup - - pliants, for Thy sup - - pliants
. . Thou, Vic-tor Mon-arch, . . for Thy sup - pliants, for Thy sup - - pliants
p plead. . .
f
A - men, Al-le -
plead. . .
A - men, Al-le - lu - ia, A -
plead. . .
A - men, Al-le - lu - ia, A - men, . . . plead. . . A - men, Al-le - lu - ia, A - - men, Al-le - lu - ia, A -
Ped.
cres.
ff
- lu - ia, A - men, Al-le - lu - ia, Al-le - lu - ia, A - - men,
- men, Al-le - lu - ia, A - men, Al - le - lu - ia, A - men, A - - men,
A - men, A - men, A - - men,
- men, A - men, A - men, A - - men,

A - men, A - men, Al - le - lu - ia, . . Al - le
A - men, A - men, Al - le - lu - ia, . . Al - le
A - men, A - men, Al - le - lu - ia, . . Al - le
A - men, A - men, Al - le - lu - ia, . . Al - le Full Sw. f
poco rit.
- lu - ia, . . A - - - men, A
Gt. ff
Come 1ma, ma più maestoso.
fff poco rit.
- men, . . A - - - men. . .
Come 1ma, ma più maestoso. ♩ = 56.
ff

Also published in Novello's Tonic Sol-fa Series, No. 1246, price 1½d.

REVIEWS.—(Continued.)

Coronation Song. Words by Lord Tennyson. Music by F. Elvira Gambogi.

The Dream Garden. Words by Mabel Greenwood. Music by David Emmell.

[Metzler and Co.]

The first of these songs is a stirring setting of familiar lines from Tennyson's 'Coming of Arthur.' The martial and patriotic spirit of the text has been most happily caught, and the vocal part possesses a breadth of phrasing that makes the song available for the concert-room. Baritones with a vigorous style will find it an attractive addition to their repertory, and one in touch with the present sentiment. 'The Dream Garden' is a dainty and reflective song of refined character designed for a tenor voice. The accompaniment calls for deftness of execution, but the arpeggi lie well under the hand.

The Muses Gardin for Delights, or the Fift Booke of Ayres. Composed by Robert Jones. (Oxford: B. H. Blackwell.) A reprint of the words of an interesting seventeenth century song-book, which, till the recent discovery of a copy in the library of the Earl of Ellesmere, at Bridgewater House, appeared to have been lost. This charming and beautifully-printed little book of long ago has been edited by Mr. Barclay Squire, a most trustworthy expert in such matters, who contributes to it an excellent introduction.——Treatise on Musical Intervals and Temperament. By W. S. B. Woolhouse. (Charles Woolhouse.) The third edition of a reliable and concise treatise on the elementary principles of music scientifically demonstrated.——Hazell's Annual for 1902. Edited by William Palmer. (Hazell, Watson, and Viney, Ltd.) The seventeenth issue of a cyclopædic record of men and topics of the day. One of the new features of the present volume is the article 'Music, 1901,' which adds to the value of this useful book of reference. In future, however, the horizon should be extended beyond London and the two provincial festivals of the year.——Willing's Press Guide. (James Willing, Junr., Ltd.) An excellent handbook, in the twenty-ninth year of its publication, to the newspapers and magazines of the United Kingdom, with a list of the principal Colonial and Foreign journals, in addition to a variety of general information relating to periodical publications. A wonderful shillingsworth.——The indispensable Musical Directory, Annual, and Almanack for 1902 (Rudall, Carte, & Co.), makes its appearance under interesting circumstances, as this handy book has attained its jubilee. Congratulations thereupon. The Musician's Calendar. Compiled by H. J. Waterlow. (Breitkopf and Härtel.) A compact, if not exhaustive, twelve pages of birthday and deathday information. The following days are blank: (1) Feb. 9, (2) June 24, (3) Aug. 4, and (4) Sept. 27. We venture to fill up three of them with the birthdays of (1) Johann Ludwig Dussek, (2) Plunket Greene, and (4) Heinrich Adolf Wollenhaupt.

Dr. McNaught addressed large meetings of school teachers on school singing topics during last month. On the 9th ult., he was at Newcastle to meet the representatives of the Friends' School; on the 17th ult., at University College, Nottingham; and on the 18th ult. at the Memorial Hall, Farringdon Street. On the 23rd ult., he lectured to the London Sunday School Choir Guild, on Choir training, at the Lecture Hall, Old Bailey.

Professor J. A. Fleming gave a Lecture on 'Sound Waves,' at the Royal Institution, on the 4th ult., when he introduced in illustration a new musical instrument, entitled the 'Stroh Violin,' in which the inventor, Mr. Augustus Stroh, does away with the sound box entirely, the body of the violin consisting of a simple piece of wood, and the bridge resting on an aluminium lever; this lever in turn rests on a round disc of aluminium communicating with a trumpet, the open end of which points in the same direction as the head of the violin. The instrument when played upon produced a beautiful tone, but it remains to be seen whether the new invention will win its way into popular favour.

THE ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY.

THE REVISED VERSION OF THE 'BLIND GIRL' CANTATA.

Who can estimate the value of afterthoughts? Are they for better, or for worse? Every artist worthy of the name will agree to the betterment form of reply. And is it not true that the man who never makes a mistake never makes anything? These forewords are suggested by the metamorphosis which the cantata of the 'Blind Girl of Castél Cuillé' has undergone through the revising process of its composer, Mr. S. Coleridge-Taylor. When the work was produced at the Leeds Musical Festival of last October—for which it was commissioned—there was considerable shaking of heads at the shortcomings of the libretto and the errors of judgment in connection with the music, compared with the 'Hiawatha' standard. The young composer had a fine example in Mendelssohn—the master reviser, who most carefully overhauled his oratorio of 'Elijah' after its first performance at Birmingham.

The extent to which Mr. Taylor has seen things in a new light in this, his latest choral work, was revealed at the performance of the revised cantata at the Royal Albert Hall on the 23rd ult. The two most important changes that have been made whereby the composer has considerably altered and greatly increased the effectiveness of his work are these: The music originally assigned to Paul (the brother of the Blind Girl) has been transposed, and is now sung by a boy instead of by a baritone; and a new solo part has been written for the cripple Jane, whose weird soothsayings were at Leeds uttered by the chorus. Moreover, many other changes for the better have been made here and there, and these make it almost a new work. Those who, like the present writer, heard the 'Blind Girl,' at Leeds, and in London the other evening, could not fail to be struck with the manifest improvement, if not a transformation, that has been effected throughout the work. One feature that stands out prominently is the choral portion of this cantata. The music assigned to the choir is exceedingly melodious and grateful to the singers. The great choir at Albert Hall sang the choruses in a refined and artistic manner, and in so doing reflected the greatest credit upon Sir Frederick Bridge, who had evidently taken special pains to secure a satisfactory performance of a work that should now start on a new lease of life.

Madame Albani, as the exponent of the Blind Girl, achieved even a greater success than she made at Leeds, and the part of Jane was excellently sung by Miss Edna Thornton, of whom more will undoubtedly soon be heard. The music of Paul, originally sung by a baritone, and now assigned to a boy's voice, received quite an exceptional rendering on the part of Master Percy Phillips, the possessor of a very beautiful voice, who is, moreover, imbued with natural musical feeling in addition to a high degree of intelligence. His enunciation, too, is irreproachable. We understand that he has been trained by Mr. James Bates, and that he is the solo boy at St. Augustine's, Queen's Gate, of which church Mr. John E. West is the organist and choirmaster.

The second part of the concert consisted of a selection from Handel's rarely-heard 'L'Allegro.' This work was composed, performed, and published in the year 1740, and altered and added to in the following year—curiously enough, like unto Mr. Coleridge-Taylor's cantata! 'L'Allegro' contains the well-known air, 'Sweet bird,' with its flute obbligato (admirably played by Mr. Vivian). The risible faculties of the staid tenors and basses found full scope in 'Laughter holding both his sides' in the ha! ha's! from both sides of the orchestra. In the chorus 'Come and trip it as you go, on the light fantastic toe,' Handel has his little joke. At bars 11 and 12, while the sopranos, altos and tenors are singing the words 'as you go,' the basses, according to the autograph, are engaged upon 'ta-ra-ra-ta, ta-ra-ra-ta ta.' The soloists, in addition to those who took part in the 'Blind Girl,' were Miss Maggie Purvis, Mr. Charles Saunders, and Mr. Andrew Black. Sir Frederick Bridge conducted both works, and Mr. H. L. Balfour occupied his accustomed place at the organ.

THE DREAM OF GERONTIUS, AT DÜSSELDORF.

(BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

The time seems to have passed when England relied chiefly upon Germany for the supply of new choral works. Has it gone for ever, or is the country of the great masters of choral music merely lying dormant and awaiting the arrival of a fresh genius? The answer lies hidden in the future; but the fact remains, that since Brahms's 'Requiem,' and 'Song of Destiny,' no choral work by a German composer has been introduced into this country which shows any promise of becoming a lasting addition to the repertoire of our choirs.

Tempora mutantur, and now we have seen a distinguished Englishman warmly welcomed, and his finest work hailed a masterpiece and a fresh revelation of the beautiful in music in the art-loving Rhineland. The significance of this triumph of English music, and more especially of Dr. Elgar, can hardly be over-estimated. The success of 'Gerontius,' at Düsseldorf was as complete as even the composer's most enthusiastic admirers could have wished.

DR. LUDWIG WÜLLNER.

My short telegram in your last issue has already told your readers something about the conspicuous—perchance the historic—event of December 19 last. I will therefore confine myself to a few further details about the preparation and performance of the work, and the impression it produced.

On the morning preceding the concert, the orchestra of eighty-five performers, consisting of the municipal 'Town Band,' reinforced by some capable bandsmen of the 39th Fusiliers (garrisoned in the town), were carefully led through the mazes of the complex score. In a few sentences, Professor Buths introduced Dr. Elgar to the valiant eighty-five. I did not expect from this band—an average German municipal orchestra in a town of 200,000 inhabitants—the sonority and the reading powers of a crack Festival orchestra in England. But I must confess to being agreeably surprised at the quality of tone, and the alertness with which difficult problems of time, rhythm, and expression were solved. Professor Buths is a conductor of complete savoir faire, and it was soon evident that he had the score in his head, and not his head in the score, to quote Hans von Bülow. Its interpretation seemed plain-sailing to his excellent players. 'Difficult?' they asked in reply to my question, 'Ach nein!'

The soloists were present at the second band rehearsal, and directly Dr. Ludwig Wüllner, the Gerontius, uttered his first words the composer whispered 'That man has brains.' And he was right. This exceptional tenor proved during the first few minutes that he had quite exceptional brains. I thought of Beethoven's 'Gehirnbesitzer' (brain owner), the proud appellation he gave himself in reply to his brother's pompous 'Gutsbesitzer' (farm owner).

At the final choral rehearsal, Professor Buths spent some time putting the finishing touches to the difficult Demon choruses, which he confessed to the writer had proved truly formidable until he made the chorus speak the words after him—dramatically, and in the rhythm of the music. The difficulties vanished quickly enough. These, and in fact all the choruses, were sung with an absence of effort which told of most thorough drilling during the five weeks which were all that could be devoted to the preparation of the work. Professor Buths dispenses with an accompanist at rehearsals; he plays everything himself, and sings any part with equal enthusiasm and sang froid, if not always with absolute beauty of tone!

The Kaisersaal, which is surrounded by gardens, is an ideal concert room, capacious, extremely well lighted, and acoustically perfect. At the concert, when the room was completely filled, every detail of the score stood out; there was no trace of an echo, and the tone-colour produced by orchestra in conjunction with the eight or twelve-part chorus was extremely beautiful. The music came as a revelation, and I can honestly say that I have never heard a more marvellous choral effect than that produced by the Düsseldorf singers in the two wonderful and most original Finales. Not only were they note perfect, and throughout dead in tune, but they had entered into the very essence and spirit of the poem and music; moreover, they sang with brains as well as from their hearts. However new or unconventional Dr. Elgar's choral writing (and there is much in 'Gerontius' that answers to this description), these efficient singers had mastered the newness and grown accustomed to the unconventionality. If this Düsseldorf Society is an average specimen of a Rhenish chorus, I may describe the 'Rhine tone' (of which they speak admiringly in Germany) as being chiefly remarkable for roundness and velvety smoothness, while the expression put into such very touching numbers as the chorus, 'Be merciful, be gracious, spare him, Lord,' in Part I., was as that of one individual and deeply-feeling singer. Of the Demon choruses I have already spoken. They were sung with powerful, strongly rhythmical emphasis, with unhesitating attack, and plenty of demoniac cynicism. To sum up, the chorus did their work perfectly, both from the executive and—what is much rarer—from the intellectual point of view.

The semi-chorus, which was placed in front of the orchestra and immediately behind the soloists, consisted of a small number of the best singers, amateur and professional, in the town. The latter gladly sang without fee. Of the orchestra I need not say more than that they played well and enthusiastically.

In regard to the soloists, Dr. Ludwig Wüllner, whose portrait is given, carried off the honours. His interpretation of the part of Gerontius was one of the most astonishing pieces of dramatic singing it has ever been my privilege to listen to. Dr. Wüllner began his career as a University Doctor of Philology; then he became an actor, after which he developed into a singer. One day he will sing in 'Lohengrin' or 'Tannhäuser,' on the next play 'King Lear,' or 'Othello'! Such a versatile artist might be expected to sing 'dramatically,' and he did. Every shade of feeling was reproduced with astonishing minuteness and heartmoving truthfulness of expression. The singing of this true artist carried with it immediate conviction, and moved us as only genius can. It was an intellectual feast of the highest order.

Dr. Elgar was enthusiastically called upon the platform after each part—a rare honour in Düsseldorf—and heartily cheered by the huge audience of some 2,500 people. I have already related how, at the conclusion, the chorus presented him with a huge laurel wreath and the orchestra greeted him with the cacophonous fanfare called a 'Tusch.' It was an inspiriting moment to one who, like the writer, has at heart the welfare of English music.

Throughout his stay in the city, Dr. Elgar was received with the utmost kindness, and with real admiration for his genius. To hear him being addressed as 'Verehrter Meister' by the many musicians who had come from far and near to hear his work was a new and pleasant experience.

Next day a dinner was given in Dr. Elgar's honour by Professor Carl Sohn, one of the most distinguished Düsseldorf portrait painters. His beautiful house in the Goldsteinstrasse, full of art treasures, received a goodly company of artists and musicians, and once more jollity and good fellowship, and sincere admiration of the genial English composer, were general.

I parted company with my friends at Cologne, and sped homewards, the richer by an exhilarating experience, and the happier for the knowledge that an English masterpiece has every chance of making its way, and spreading the fame of English music, throughout the Fatherland.

THE INCORPORATED SOCIETY OF MUSICIANS.

SEVENTEENTH ANNUAL CONFERENCE, 1902.

London, with the Hotel Cecil as headquarters, was the place, and December 31 to January 4, the date of this foregathering of members from near and far. The opening meeting, on the last day of 1901, was held in the Egyptian Hall, Mansion House, under the presidency of the Lord Mayor of London (Sir Joseph Dimsdale, M.P.), who welcomed the members, and at which a satisfactory report of the Society's doings during the year, and the report of the Orphanage Committee were read by the genial Secretary, Mr. Edward Chadfield. Upon the retirement of the Lord Mayor, Dr. W. H. Cummings took the chair, and gave an address on 'Our Vocation.' The following extracts will suffice to show the ideals which the Principal of the Guildhall School of Music set before his hearers, and the advice, derived from his long and practical experience of professional life, he tendered to his fellow-workers in the art of music:—

'Our vocation demands that we, all our lives, should be diligent and conscientious students; that by example and precept, we may promote the highest development of our art. Our studies should not be confined to music alone, and especially not restricted to the music of the day.'

'Our vocation should remind those among us who are teachers, that we, in the first place, are artists; therefore when the instruction of the young is entrusted to us, we do well to remember that we have given into our charge the tenderest, dearest, and best of all the good gifts of God, a sympathetic and expressive soul; our first duty will be to see that that soul is not dwarfed or deadened, but faithfully and rightly developed. If this be our chief care, technique and dexterity will doubtless follow.'

'Our vocation calls on us to be fully equipped for our work in every detail; the consciousness of efficiency will go a long way to ensure success and victory; on the other hand, a suspicion that our qualifications and knowledge are incomplete, will permit the possibility, nay, more, the probability, of disappointment and defeat. Our vocation, as individual representatives of a noble profession, should, when its duties and responsiblities are recognised and fulfilled, make the title "Professor of Music" and "gentleman" synonymous terms.'

In the afternoon of the same day, Miss Margaret O'Hea read a somewhat pessimistic paper on 'Some Practical results of the Modern School of Music.'

THE ORCHESTRAL CONCERT.

This, the chief and most successful function of the Conference, took place at the Hotel Cecil on the same evening, December 31. The concert was the outcome of a resolution passed at a former gathering, to this effect: 'That at the annual Conference an orchestra be engaged for the express purpose of introducing new or untried orchestral works by members or non-members of the Society.' No less than seventy-eight compositions were sent to the committee of selection—Messrs. Halford, Randegger, and Riseley—with the result that the following works, to the number of seven, were brought to a hearing before a large and deeply-appreciative audience:—

Symphonic Pieces	A. N. Wight.
Constantine (Prelude, Act II.) ..	Colin McAlpin.
Symphonic Variations	H. A. Keyser.
Romanza, from a Violin Concerto (played by the Composer) ..	Paul Stoeving.
A Fairy Overture	Ralph Horner.
Suite, 'The Chilterns'	Rutland Boughton.
Ode to Victory	Josef Holbrooke.

The outstanding features of this exceedingly interesting occasion were the Symphonic Pieces (consisting of one movement only) by Mr. Wight, the Suite (suggested by the Wendover locality) by Mr. Boughton, and the Ode to Victory, a very original and ingenious production, by Mr. Holbrooke. The first work has the merits of being concise, interesting and well worked out, and it is one, moreover, that should escape from being placed on the shelf. Clever as are the other two compositions of those specially mentioned, they suffer from the besetting snares which present-day composers are too prone to fall into—diffuseness and spun-outness. Scoring and development—worrying the phrases to shreds—are not essentials to success. The performance of these seven compositions by a first-rate orchestra was excellent. It reflected the greatest credit on Mr. Allen Gill, who conducted with singular ability and resourcefulness, and to whom no small measure of the success of an enjoyable and memorable evening is to be attributed.

On the following day, Dr. H. A. Harding (of Bedford), who presided, contributed a paper on 'The educational value of musical examinations.' Dr. Harding practically admitted that examinations in music were overdone. He rightly protested against the ill-judged questions that were often set in examinations in theory, and he expressed regret that the training of the ear was so much neglected. Examinations were not everything; theory should be subordinated to the general education of the pupil and to his artistic, in contradiction to his examined, development.

Dr. F. G. Shinn, the chairman of the third day (the 2nd ult.), chose for his discourse 'The Training of Music Teachers.' It may serve to give the synopsis of his thoughtful paper on so important a subject:—

> 'Skilled' versus 'unskilled labour' in connection with the teaching of music—The special function of the teacher is to bring about a fusion of knowledge and mind—To do this successfully requires (1) a knowledge of the subject of instruction—what this implies: (2) a knowledge of the order in which this should be imparted and of the manner of imparting it—Logical order—Psychology and psychological order—Educational method and its fundamental principles—The necessity of promoting the study of the theory of teaching amongst teachers of music.

All this is excellent and of the highest importance.

In the afternoon of the same day, Dr. Hiles read a paper on 'Wagner's Instrumentation,' in which his erudition and capacity for analysis had full scope. A remark of Professor Prout's (in moving a vote of thanks to the lecturer) deserves to be recorded: That, in his opinion, the most instructive of Wagner's scores was that of the 'Meistersingers,' because it was written mainly for the ordinary orchestra.

The musical evenings included some excellent madrigal singing, under Mr. Edward Branscombe's skilful direction, and Wesley's glorious motet, 'In exitu Israel,' sung under the sympathetic conductorship of Dr. W. H. Cummings. The annual meeting and banquet, on Friday, brought this memorable Conference to a successful conclusion. That of 1903 is to be held in Dublin.

We have received the well-compiled 'Register of Members' of the Society for the present year. The large number of hotel advertisements at the end do not strike us as being very professional, but rather more suggestive of an *Inn*corporated Society.

REZNICEK'S 'TILL EULENSPIEGEL' AT KARLSRUHE.

(BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

Till Eulenspiegel and his merry pranks have always, but more especially lately, had great attractions for composers and dramatists, the two most notable achievements recently being Strauss's orchestral poem and Emil Nicolaus von Reznicek's new opera. The latter received an excellent and carefully-prepared first representation at Karlsruhe on the 12th ult., under Herr Mottl's inspiriting guidance.

Reznicek, after exhausting studies of the different versions of Eulenspiegel's deeds, has succeeded in compiling a cleverly-arranged and well-written text for his opera, and in bringing his hero humanly nearer to his audience. That there are one or two lengthy passages cannot be denied, but judicious pruning will remedy this. The opera consists of two acts and an afterlude; the first act represents youthful pranks, the second Till's wooing, and the last his death. Reznicek interwove a cleverly-conceived love story with the more drastic episodes of Till's life, thus toning down its somewhat burlesque and rude tenor.

As regards the means used by the composer to express his musical ideas, great stress is to be laid on the fact that he entirely discards trombones and tuba, and only uses Mozart's orchestra, with the addition of two extra horns, the harp, and the percussion instruments. And yet with these restrictions he achieves a sonority and, at times, effects quite startling in their intensity, which prove him to be a complete master of all the resources of his comparatively limited means. The wood-wind especially is used to such an extent and in so intricate a manner that Mr. Mottl confessed to me he never had a more complicated and difficult score for these instruments to deal with. And, indeed, they are continually employed, even to the extent of giving the strings frequent rests, although the latter are unsparingly used.

The general effect of the music at a first hearing, and without a score to follow it, is the impression of remarkable inventive talent, great mastery of technical resource, rich, though sometimes bizarre, vein of new combinations and orchestral effects. Reznicek is especially strong in rhythmical devices, and gives all performers concerned difficult tasks to achieve. The solo voices are, however, never driven to extremes of either compass or endurance, therefore they sound natural and comfortable to the hearer. The chorus has important work to do, both musically and histrionically, and the market scene, and the Finale of the second act put it to a severe test. The orchestra has a curious task to perform: between the second and third acts it has to illustrate the roving life, the ups-and-downs of Eulenspiegel's existence during thirty years. As Reznicek freely employs leitmotive in his work, and specially identifies Till with a very telling musical phrase, the themes naturally form the basis of this interlude, and are used in the most cunning and yet artistic manner possible to form a kaleidoscopic picture of that vagrant spirit.

Frau Mottl undertook the part of Gertrud, and Herr Bussard that of Eulenspiegel; and chorus and orchestra vied with each other in doing justice to the composer's intentions. Under Mottl's strong guidance, everything went to perfection, and I hope a long life may be the lot of this pleasant and well-received work.

London Concerts.

QUEEN'S HALL.

The series of Promenade Concerts started by Mr. Robert Newman on Boxing-day last, though short, has been interesting. For instance, on one evening we had seven overtures by Wagner, ranging from the 'Faust' of 1839 to 'Die Meistersinger' of 1867. Some pleasant revivals have to be recorded in the Scotch Symphony of Mendelssohn, and that beautiful work, breathing the spirit of pure music, Goetz's Symphony in F. A Haydn symphony was also most acceptable. One of two novelties was the production of the symphonic poem, 'Alastor,' by Ernest Blake, who has studied under Richard Strauss. His powerful and brilliantly orchestrated work, prompted by Shelley's poem, contained some novel effects. An effective pianoforte concerto—the solo part well played by Madame Riss-Arbeau—by Ludwig Schytte, was another first-time performance.

At the first Symphony concert, on the 18th ult., that curious and decidedly 'fantastic' symphony of Berlioz's 'An episode in the life of an artist,' received a first-rate rendering by Mr. Henry J. Wood and his capable instrumentalists. A feature of the programme was the Incidental music to George Moore's 'Grania and Diarmid.' Solemn, and imbued with deep feeling, are the funeral strains which Dr. Elgar has furnished to a pathetic incident of the drama; in its stage environment the dignified music would gain in impressiveness.

An In Memoriam concert on the 22nd, the anniversary of the death of Queen Victoria, consisted of appropriate and familiar compositions. All the concerts were conducted by Mr. Henry J. Wood.

THE POPULAR CONCERTS.

At the first after the holidays, on the 4th ult., and in the old locale, St. James's Hall, the pianoforte trio in E minor (Op. 92) of Saint-Saëns was played for the first time at these concerts, its interpreters being Messieurs Raoul Pugno, Jacques Thibaud, and Joseph Hollman, who made their ensemble appearance as 'the Parisian trio.' The outstanding features of the eminent French composer's trio are a beautiful slow movement and a captivating allegretto. On the 11th ult., M. Ernst von Dohnányi reappeared, and a week later he gave a fine rendering of the seldom-heard pianoforte sonata by Brahms, in F sharp minor (Op. 2). Concerning its beautiful slow movement—an air with three variations—Brahms told his friend Dietrich that he had built up the theme on the words of an old German song, 'Mir ist leide, dass der Winter beide, Wald und auch die Haide, hat gemachet kahl.'

Other music-makings of the past month have included the pianoforte recitals of M. Godowsky (Bechstein Hall, the 16th.), and M. Ernst von Dohnányi (St. James's Hall, on the 24th). The Kruse String Quartet gave one of their enjoyable concerts at St. James's Hall on the 16th, when the programme included the quartet by A. Simonetti, dedicated to this admirable combination of performers on stringed instruments.

The Highbury Philharmonic Society gave their second concert this season on the 14th ult., with a miscellaneous programme which included Sir Alexander Mackenzie's popular overture 'Britannia,' the same composer's new and dignified part-song 'Firm in her native strength' (with orchestral accompaniment), and Wieniawski's Violin Concerto in D minor, the solo part admirably played by Mr. G. H. Betjemann, all these being conducted by Sir Alexander Mackenzie. Mendelssohn's 'Scotch' Symphony and 'Walpurgis Night,' conducted by Mr. Betjemann, completed a very interesting programme. The solo vocalists were Miss Evangeline Florence, Mrs. Betjemann, Mr. Charles Saunders, and Mr. Dan Price.

At Trinity College (London) the pianoforte accompaniment prize, annually given by Mr. Henry R. Bird, has been awarded to Mabel Franceys Ta'Bois, and the Maybrick Prize for singing to Frederick W. Ta'Bois.

WORKINGTON MUSIC COMPETITIONS.

The twenty-seventh annual music festival, established in Cumberland, in 1872, by Mr. Ivander Griffiths, was held, on the 1st and 2nd ult., in the Jubilee Hall, Workington. Two whole days were devoted to competitions in choral performance, solo singing, and instrumental playing, and two evenings to concerts. It is quite evident that the scheme has a considerable hold upon the music lovers of the district, and that it is still exercising great educational influence. One of the most notable sections was that for male voices. Three choirs, the members of which were mostly of the working-class, competed, and all sang admirably the by-no-means-easy test piece, 'Night and Day' (A. Dard). Aspatria (Mr. Cobb) came first, with fifty-five marks out of sixty; Flimby (Mr. T. Evans) second, with fifty-two marks; and Seaton (Mr. T. Dixon) third, with fifty marks.

In the junior choir section the Penrith Board School (Miss Elliott) gained the first position. They sang in a refined style, with beautiful tone, exact intonation, and judicious expression

The evening concerts, which rounded off each day's proceedings, were well attended. A large portion of Handel's 'Samson' was given on one evening. A small band, capitally led by Mr. Stanton Rees, who also played two movements from Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto with great skill, made a fair show with the accompaniments. The concert choir was trained by a local conductor, Mr. Joseph Scott. Dr. McNaught adjudicated.

On the evening of the 2nd ult., a presentation of a purse of sixty guineas was made to Mr. Griffiths, as a partial recognition by his fellow-townsmen of his unselfish and untiring efforts on behalf of musical education in Workington. The presentation was made by Canon Rawnsley in an able and interesting speech, in which he reviewed the chief events of Mr. Griffiths' career.

MUSIC IN AMERICA.

(from our own correspondent.)

New York, January 5, 1902.

The American metropolis has begun its annual enjoyment of grand opera at the Metropolitan Opera House, and the season promises to be crowded with interest. It is expected that Mr. Paderewski will be here to superintend the final rehearsals, and witness the earlier performances of his opera 'Manru,' which Mr. Grau hopes to produce on February 10. A wish to see him at the conductor's desk has found wide expression, but he has manifested no desire to venture upon such unfamiliar ground, and doubtless knows as well as any man alive how difficult a task he set for conductors when he wrote the opera, which is as wild and changeable in mood as those gypsy epics which Liszt calls Hungarian Rhapsodies.

The commercial prosperity which the country is enjoying is redounding to the financial benefit of concert organisations all over the land, and the peripatetic European virtuosi are reaping their share of the harvest. The foreigner who has occupied the largest place in public attention since last I wrote is the young Bohemian violinist, Kubelik. The trumpets had been loudly blown and the tom-tom valiantly belaboured in his behalf for months before he came, and the New York public seemed willing to accept him at the estimate of his managers. There have been scenes in Carnegie Hall like those reported from London. But in Boston and some other cities the public seemed to feel the soberer mood of the metropolitan critics, who have found his gifts more extraordinary than excellent, and have set him down as a brilliant technician rather than a musical genius. Scurrying through the country are artists like Madame Lilli Lehmann (who is giving song recitals and profiting from the admiration and regard which she won here as a member for years of the German Opera), Fritz Kreisler, the Austrian violinist, his Russian colleague, Charles Gregorowitsch, and the pianists Josef Hofmann, Zeldenrust, and Harold Bauer.

The veteran conductor Theodore Thomas is displaying even more than his old-time enterprise and energy at the head of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. His weekly concerts have been in progress two months and a-half, and within this period he has brought forward more novelties than the Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, and Cincinnati orchestras combined. Here is the list:—

Elgar's Overture, 'Cockaigne,' and Variations; Symphony, 'Antar,' by Rimsky-Korsakow; Symphony in E flat, by Goldmark; Overture Solennelle and 'Ruses d'Amour,' by Glazounow; 'La forêt enchantée,' by d'Indy; two legends from the 'Kalevala,' by Jean Sibelius; 'Macbeth,' by Richard Strauss; Symphony in E flat, by Felix Weingartner; Overture, 'Mein Heim,' by Dvorák; 'La Jeunesse d'Hercule' (new in Chicago), by Saint-Saëns; and Suite, 'Ein Mährchen,' by Josef Suk.

The New York Philharmonic Society has imbibed some of the radicalism of its conductor (Mr. Emil Paur), and has not given half as many concerts as the Chicago organisation, and its record shows one new work for each concert; but Boston keeps pace with Chicago in the number of concerts given, yet its record of novelties thus far is confined to a Symphony (No. 1) by Tanäieff, Dr. Elgar's 'Cockaigne,' and Richard Strauss's 'Ein Heldenleben.'

At its first concert, our Philharmonic Society brought forward Siegmund von Hausegger's 'Barbarossa'; at its second, Max Schilling's symphonic prologue to 'Œdipus, King'; at its third, the Symphony by Mr. Henry K. Hadley, which carried off the prize in both the Paderewski and New England Conservatory Competitions, as already reported. Mr. Hadley is a local musician whose education was acquired in Boston and Vienna. The symphony, which is entitled 'The Four Seasons,' is the second work of its kind from his pen. It was heard with keen interest, and though the critical Areopagus declined to accept it as in any sense a great work, it was yet recognised as highly creditable to American musicianship. On December 14, Mr. Thomas gave the first of a series of historical concerts, the programmes of which will give a survey of the orchestral field, from the middle of the sixteenth century till to-day.*

Philadelphia is experimenting with a concert orchestra, which it hopes to make a permanent institution, like the orchestras of Boston, Chicago, Pittsburgh, and Cincinnati. Fritz Scheel, who used to be associated with Hans von Bülow in Hamburg, is the conductor. A large deficit threatens to be the financial outcome of the first season, but that is a familiar experience, and does not any more mean a discontinuance of the undertaking in Philadelphia than it did in the other cities mentioned, where the same experiences have been had.

The choral voice throughout the land for a month past has been as the voice of a great multitude, and as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of many thunderings, saying, 'Hallelujah, for the Lord God Omnipotent reigneth!' It has been the month of Handel's 'Messiah,' in addition to an unabridged performance of Bach's Mass in B minor, in Boston, under the direction Mr. B. J. Lang, and of the same master's 'Christmas Oratorio' (much abridged) in St. Louis, under Mr. Ernst.

H. E. Krehbiel.

MUSIC IN VIENNA.

(from our special correspondent.)

Vienna, January 15.

'To be quite candid,' once remarked Brahms in regard to Austrian musicians, 'we must admit that Dvorák is the greatest composer amongst us.' The remark was made, of course, from the point of view of natural ability and of spontaneous creativeness, and to judge from the reception accorded to Dvorák's works everywhere, its appropriateness would seem to be admitted in the present day by the musical world generally. Thus, the Czech nation, to which Dvorák belongs, has reason to be proud of its son, and an emphatic expression of this feeling was recently given at Prague by a musical festival, lasting five days, in celebration of the composer's sixtieth birthday. In Vienna, too, although on a lesser scale, the event was duly commemorated. The Czech Philharmonic Orchestra, under the direction of Herr Nedbal, one of the members of the Bohemian Quartet, gave a grand festival concert, in which compositions by Dvorák only, and particularly those less frequently heard, were produced. Amongst these were the E minor Symphony ('from the New World') which the composer brought with him from America, a Slavonic Rhapsody in D, the 'Carneval' overture — one of his most glowing and sparkling works, as well as the well-known violin concerto, in the interpretation of which, Herr Hofmann, the leader of the Bohemian Quartet, proved himself a virtuoso of the first rank. An equally great pleasure was derived from the superb performance, by the Concert Verein, under Herr Loewe's conductorship, of Dvorák's Symphony in G major. It has often been said, that, in order to create a genuine work of art a certain unconscious naïveté must be an element in its conception, nay that it constitutes an absolute test for the presence of genius. Dvorák's music furnishes a brilliant example of the applicability of this axiom.

* We gave the complete programmes of this interesting series of historical concerts in our last issue, p. 23. Ed. M.T.

The very opposite view might be held in regard to Gustav Mahler's new symphony, which the Philharmonic Orchestra recently introduced to us in a brilliant performance, under the composer's direction. The work has for its poetic basis a Volkslied, from the famous collection known as 'Des Knaben Wunderhorn,' in which the celestial joys of the beatified are described in a naïvely materialistic fashion. Accordingly, the music through three movements persistently strives after naïve expression, while in the fourth is presented a setting for a soprano voice with orchestra, of the poem itself; a brief movement, without the formal redundancy of the preceding ones. Unfortunately for the new work, however, Mahler's specific manner is anything but naïve, and the result is scarcely a satisfactory one. The spiritual contents of a symphony cannot be supplied by a variety of subtle and hitherto untried instrumental combinations and orchestral effects. And yet, these constitute almost the only attractive features in the gifted conductor's latest production.

Among the young pianists who have appeared recently and who are justified also in claiming the public ear in their capacity of composers, should be mentioned Ernst von Dohnányi, the Hungarian virtuoso, who showed himself a master of his art in Brahms's Pianoforte Quintet in C minor, and D. F. Tovey, a young English musician. The latter succeeded in attracting the very favourable attention of earnest music-lovers with several compositions of his own, viz., a trio for pianoforte, clarinet and horn, which albeit somewhat monotonous, presents not a few interesting and attractive features; a pianoforte quartet, conceived in the unconventional form of two movements only; and three pieces for oboe, with pianoforte accompaniment, perfect as regards form, and distinctly pleasing. Mr. Tovey likewise evinced his excellent musicianship in accompanying the songs contributed by Fräulein Fillunger, the distinguished concert vocalist. These included Schubert's 'Der Hirt auf dem Felsen,' with clarinet obbligato, a bravura piece, affording an opportunity to the singer for the display of her great and versatile art. It was written by the composer for Frau Milder-Hauptmann, the original Leonore of Beethoven's opera, a superb vocalist, whose worthy successor, Fräulein Fillunger, is in the present day. An interpretation, equally artistic, and characterised by, perhaps, an even greater warmth and intensity of feeling, was given of the same song by Frau Seyff-Katzmayr, at one of the newly-instituted 'Schubertiaden' of the Schubert-Bund. This important and highly-esteemed choral society is now giving, under the above title, periodical performances, before a restricted audience, of Schubert's works, with a view to the cultivation more especially of the less known amongst them, and the unpretentious and informal manner in which these meetings are held, contributes not a little to their artistic success.

A very favourable impression was produced, at one of the concerts of the Fitzner Quartet Party, by the performance of a string quartet by J. Brands-Buys, a young musician of Dutch nationality, residing in Vienna. While not particularly remarkable as to its contents, the new work is distinguished by musicianlike workmanship and transparent clearness of form. A similar remark applies to a string quartet by a young Hungarian composer, Arpad Szendy, lately introduced to us by the Rosé Quartet. Here, too, we have a well-constructed work, supported by a distinctly agreeable, though not very profound thematic material. Szendy also introduced himself as a very efficient pianoforte player in Volkmann's, of late somewhat unduly neglected, Pianoforte Trio in B flat minor.

An occasion of special and peculiar interest was afforded us by two concert performances given by the Leipzig 'Vocal Quartet for Protestant Church Music.' The two lady and two gentlemen vocalists associated in this quartet gave proof of excellent training and much artistic earnestness in their interpretation of a number of hymns, chorales, and motets, which they sang without accompaniment. The interpretation, by a solo quartet, however, of compositions originally designed for a full chorus necessarily labours under a serious drawback, presenting, as it were, in mere skeleton form the living organism contemplated by their creator.

MANDYCZEWSKI.

MUSIC IN BELFAST.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

In accordance with their established custom, the Philharmonic Society gave two Christmas performances of 'The Messiah' on December 21 and 22, the artists engaged being Madame Fanny Moody, Miss Jeannie Bateman, and Messrs. Thomas Thomas and Charles Manners. The work is so familiar that there is little possibility of an imperfect performance, unless its very familiarity should develop carelessness on the part of chorus or orchestra; but as no carelessness is permitted by Dr. Koeller, the ever-living beauties of the work were again displayed to crowded houses on both nights.

On the 10th ult., Herr Nathan, an excellent young violinist lately settled here, gave, in conjunction with Signor Esposito, the well-known Dublin pianist, a recital of classical music. The programme included Max Bruch's violin Concerto in G minor (Op. 26), Beethoven's Waldstein Sonata for pianoforte (Op. 53), and Chopin's Etudes (Op. 25). Unfortunately, the attendance was not at all commensurate with the excellence of the performance of such accomplished artists, but no doubt better success is in store for them if they again approach the fickle goddess of public favour.

MUSIC IN BIRMINGHAM.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The annual performance of Handel's 'Messiah' by the Festival Choral Society, on Boxing-night, was a more brilliant function than usual. Dr. Sinclair had thoroughly rehearsed the work, and the accompaniments were given with pleasing freshness; the chorus sang splendidly, and the principals, Madame Marie Duma, Miss Jessie King, Mr. Charles Saunders, and Mr. W. J. Ineson, sang well, and with a praiseworthy adherence to Handel's text. Mr. C. W. Perkins gave judicious support at the organ, there was an overflowing audience.

Were it not for the season of opera at the Grand Theatre, given by Mr. J. W. Turner, we should, at this time, have no music, save in connection with pantomime. On the 11th ult., he produced Bizet's 'Carmen.' This was not so brilliantly mounted as it has been by other companies, but Miss Chrystal Duncan, Mr. Turner, and Mr. Ottley Cranston, in the principal parts, did well, and chorus and band were good. On the 16th ult., Balfe's opera, 'The Puritan's Daughter,' was revived, nearly the whole of the principals being engaged, and the work was so well received that it was at once announced for repetition on the 20th and later. 'Satanella' still draws good houses, and Madame Caro Roma, Miss Adele Lenssen, Miss Jessie Dennis, Mr. Edward Arthur, Mr. Murray Graham, Mr. Sidney Clifford, and Mr. T. Griffiths have appeared in a round of characters.

The Amateur Opera Society regaled the members of the Midland Institute with a series of performances of 'H.M.S. Pinafore' during the week of the annual conversazione, beginning on the 13th ult. The amateurs did uncommonly well, and special praise is due to Miss Edith Ryland, Miss Clara Walker, Mr. Harry Burman, Mr. M. A. Rowlands, Mr. H. H. Monckton, and Mr. S. Royle Shore. Mr. E. W. Priestley conducted.

The concert season was resumed on the 21st ult. with the fifth of the Halford Society's orchestral concerts. Tschaïkowsky's 'Pathetic' symphony was on this occasion heard for the ninth time here. The other works were all new, to wit, Elgar's Overture 'Cockaigne' and his two military marches, 'Pomp and Circumstance,' conducted by the composer, and a new composition, by J. D. Davis, entitled 'Chant de la mort.' A finer performance of the Symphony has never been given in Birmingham. Dr. Elgar's overture went splendidly, and so did also the marches. Mr. Davis's piece is good as music, but fails to convince as an attempt to depict thoughts of death. Mdlle. Marie Altona was the vocalist, her selections being Weber's 'Ocean, thou mighty monster,' and some numbers from Granville Bantock's 'Songs of India, Japan, and Arabia.'

On the 22nd ult., the Chamber Concert Society held its second meeting at the Temperance Hall. The executants were the Max Mosel String Quartet, Madame Marie Fromm (pianist), and Miss Violet Myers (vocalist). The programme compiled Beethoven's String Quartet in B flat (Op. 18, No. 6), Davidoff's Pianoforte Quintet (Op. 40), Locatelli's Violin Sonata in G minor, and songs by Schumann, Hadow, and Massenet. The accompanist was Mr. G. H. Manton.

MUSIC IN BRISTOL.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The Bristol and Clifton Philharmonic Society, on the 4th ult., gave a highly satisfactory performance of 'Elijah,' at the Victoria Rooms, and there was a crowded audience. The soloists were Miss Millicent McLaughlin, Miss Lucy Barton, Mr. Frank Tebbutt, and Mr. Montague Borwell. The music for the Youth, towards the end of the first part of the oratorio, was nicely sung by Master Probert Goodwin, solo boy at Christchurch Cathedral, Oxford, whose parents live in Bristol. The choir and band numbered 400, Mr. Edward Pavey directing the performance. Mr. Ernest Lane held the principal violin, and Mr. Edward Cook was at the organ.

A piano and violin recital was given at All Saints' Hall, on the 6th ult., the pianist being Miss Maude Wingate, of Clifton, and the violinist, Mr. Camille Ritter, of Glasgow. Compositions by Schütt, Max Bruch, Brahms, Mendelssohn, and Bach, were agreeably played. Miss Eveline Gerrish was the vocalist.

At the Ladies' Night of the Bristol Madrigal Society, on the 9th ult, there was a large attendance at the Victoria Rooms. The choir was efficient, among the vocalists being Mr. Samuel Rootham, brother of the conductor, who has sung on fifty-one ladies' nights of the society in succession. The only vocalist not local was Mr. Abraham Thomas, bass, of Gloucester Cathedral. The pieces which had not before been given by the society were 'When love and beauty,' from Sir Arthur Sullivan's unpublished opera, 'The Sapphire Necklace'; Dr. Keeton's 'Roses, ah! how fair ye be'; that charming setting of 'There is beauty on the mountain,' by Sir John Goss; and 'How beautiful is night,' by Kellow J. Pye. The pieces were finely rendered under the direction of Mr. D. W. Rootham.

At the Victoria Rooms, on the night of the 11th ult., the first of a series of Saturday Popular Concerts was given by Messrs. C. W. Stear and W. E. Fowler, organists. Some years ago, similar concerts were held in the city, and for a long time proved successful, and it is thought that the performances now will interest the masses. A successful commencement was made, as the large attendance manifested. There were songs given by Mr. Arthur Mass, solos on the organ by Mr. F. W. Rootham, on the pianoforte by Miss Jenny Meid, and on the violin by Mr. F. S. Gardner.

MUSIC IN EAST ANGLIA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

FESTIVAL IN NORWICH CATHEDRAL.

For the first time in its history, extending over 900 years, Norwich Cathedral has been used for a musical festival. Although sacred works have occasionally been heard within its walls, it was not till Thursday, January 9, 1902, that one had been given with full band of sixty instrumentalists, a chorus of 300 voices, and such talented principals as Madame Albani, Mdlle. St. André, Mr. William Green, and Mr. Charles Santley. It may be interesting to record that the festival is the outcome of a visit paid by Madame Albani to the New Jenny Lind Infirmary for children, several months since. The Dean of Norwich took up the matter with great enthusiasm, and he was warmly supported by Dr. Frank Bates, the Cathedral organist, who very ably conducted the festival. The chief feature of the performance was Mendelssohn's 'Hymn of Praise,' with Madame Albani, Mdlle. St. André, and Mr. William Green as soloists. The chorus consisted of voices selected from different societies and church choirs in the diocese, and, with the exception of eight members, the band, led by Mr. F. W. B. Noverre, was composed of residents within the same radius. Dr. A. H. Mann presided at the organ. Considering that but one simultaneous rehearsal was possible, the outcome was most creditable to all concerned. A commodious orchestra was erected at the East end of the nave, immediately below the organ loft, the cost of its erection being generously defrayed by Mr. Nigel Gurney.

With but little outside assistance, the choir of the Baptist Church, Unthank Road, Norwich, gave a successful performance of Gaul's sacred cantata 'Ruth,' on the evening of the 16th ult., conducted by the organist, Mr. C. J. G. Moore. The solos were undertaken by Miss Rix Spelman, Miss Alice Hatch, Miss E. Watson and Mr. W. W. Pendleton, with Miss Florence Jones at the pianoforte.

A new society in Ipswich, called the Select Male Voice Choir, organised by Mr. James Price, made its first public appearance on the 16th ult. The choir consists of twenty-four voices, and sang a selection of modern unaccompanied part-songs with distinction. Such resuscitations of old English customs deserve every encouragement.

The Loddon Choral Society gave their first concert of the season at the Town Hall on the 15th ult., when Mendelssohn's 'Lauda Sion' was performed. The soprano solos were sung by Miss Elsie Lancum, the other principals being Miss Grace Copling, Mr. H. G. Kaines and Mr. G. Meen. The work done by the chorus of about fifty voices reflected great credit on their conductor, Mr. F. Brown, the post of accompanist being filled by Mr. F. W. Brown.

MUSIC IN EDINBURGH.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

Since my last letter, three more of the enjoyable series of orchestral concerts have come and gone—all distinguished by fine taste in the selection of the programme, and exquisite finish in the rendering of the music. The first of these included the Symphony in G of Haydn, Dr. Cowen's beautiful symphonic poem 'A Phantasy of Life and Love,' the Venusberg music of Wagner, Liszt's Fourth Hungarian Rhapsody, and a Dance from 'Feramors' (Rubinstein). Madame Marie Brema sang with great art and distinction. The following concert gave us Herr Carl Halir in the Brahms Violin Concerto in D—a superb performance—and for novelty the 'Cockaigne' overture of Dr. Elgar, a masterly work which greatly delighted the audience. The last concert (the sixth) was memorable for the performance (for only the second time in Edinburgh), of Tschaïkowsky's 'Pathetic' symphony. This magnificent composition was very finely played, and made a profound impression. A charming novelty was Dr. Cowen's overture, 'A Butterfly's Ball'—dainty in construction, and exquisitely scored. Madame Myron was the vocalist.

Two more of Mr. Denhoff's fine series of chamber concerts have taken place. At the first of these he was assisted by Lady Hallé, who collaborated with him in a fine performance of the Kreutzer Sonata, and Mdlle. Giulia Ravogli, who shone in Gluck's 'Che farò.' The second concert was remarkable for the first appearance of M. Antonietti, a youthful violinist of extraordinary calibre. Mr. Denis O'Sullivan was the vocalist of the evening.

Much good music is heard at the meetings of the Edinburgh Society of Musicians, and, during the past month, excellent programmes have been provided by Signor Ricci, Mr. A. C. Edmunds, and Mr. Arthur Dace.

The status—moral and social—of the Edinburgh Sunday Society is possibly not quite fixed yet in the minds of many good people, but the society continues to be vigorous in the giving of its concerts, and to provide good music and good artists. On the 5th ult., the concert was orchestral, under Mr. F. Laubach, and the programme included the names of Beethoven, Mozart, Wagner, Gounod, and Elgar.

Many musicians will learn with sincere regret of the death of Mr. A. M. D. Sommerville, manager of the firm of Messrs. Paterson and Sons, a kindly gentleman and a good friend to the musical profession.

MUSIC IN GLASGOW.

(from our own correspondent.)

During Christmastide, 'Messiah' performances were more numerous than ever. Handel's ever-popular work was sung by the Cambuslang Choral Society (Mr. Herbert Walton, conductor) at the Corporation Saturday Afternoon Recitals, on December 21 and 28, the accompaniments being played by members of the Glasgow Amateur Orchestral Society; by the choir of Belmont Church, under Mr. W. R. Morris; by the Choral Union on New Year's day; and by the choir of the Young Men's Christian Association (Mr. R. L. Reid, conductor) on the 3rd ult. The Choral Union's performance was much enhanced by the appearance of the veteran Mr. Santley, who bore the honours among the soloists. At the orchestral concert on Christmas Eve, Dr. Cowen's new orchestral poem, 'A phantasy of life and love,' was given for the first time in Glasgow. Needless to say that under the composer's baton an ideal performance was secured. The programme likewise included Haydn's Symphony in G (letter V.), Tschaïkowsky's 'Nutcracker' suite, and songs charmingly sung by Miss Marie Brema.

Dr. Elgar's 'Cockaigne' overture received a first and highly appreciative hearing at the concert on the 2nd ult.

Herr Karl Halir appeared as soloist at the eighth classical concert, on the 7th ult., taking part in Brahms's Violin Concerto in D. The orchestra gave a remarkably fine performance of Beethoven's C minor Symphony.

An excellent first performance of Dr. Cowen's delicately-scored overture, 'The butterfly's ball,' gave a special interest to the ninth classical concert, on the 14th ult., at which Mr. Maurice Sons, the principal violin in the orchestra, was the soloist, and he gave a brilliant performance of the solo part in Dvorák's Violin Concerto. Madame Alice Myron sang nicely some songs by Mr. Henschel.

The Choral Union gave their usual 'popular' performance of the 'Messiah,' in the City Hall, on the 16th ult., and on the 21st, Mr. Maurice Sons conducted the tenth classical concert. The programme included Mozart's 'Jupiter' Symphony, the prelude to 'Parsifal,' and Saint-Saëns's violin Concerto No. 3, in B minor. Miss Maud Powell, who was solo violinist, made an exceedingly good appearance both in the concerto and in her solos.

During the month the 'popular' orchestral concerts on Saturday evenings have received a large measure of public support. The programmes have been arranged on thoroughly popular lines, and the management have adopted the highly commendable plan of repeating at these concerts 'novelties' performed at the classical concerts. Thus, the habitués of the Saturday 'pops.' have had an opportunity of hearing Dr. Elgar's 'Cockaigne,' and Dr. Cowen's 'A phantasy of life and love,' and 'The butterfly's ball' Overture. Among the symphonies performed have been the inevitable 'Pathétique,' Dvorák's 'New World' (a welcome revival), and Beethoven's in B flat. Mesdames Kirkby Lunn, Alice Myron, Emily Squire, and Miss Jenny Taggart, have appeared as solo vocalists, and Messrs. Sons and Seigl as solo violinists, the latter, who is second leader of the orchestra, making a most popular debut at the concert on the 11th ult.

The Stillie Bursary offered by the Glasgow University, on the award of the Royal Academy of Music and Royal College of Music, has this year been gained by Miss Mary Nairn, a pupil of Miss Agnes Millar, Strathbungo.

MUSIC IN GLOUCESTER AND DISTRICT.

(from our own correspondent.)

The Gloucester Orpheus Society gave its fourth annual concert on the 1st ult. This society, under Mr. A. Herbert Brewer's enthusiastic direction, has made extraordinary progress during the short time it has been in existence. It numbers now over eighty members, and the annual concerts have come to be regarded as not only interesting, but important musical events. Its first concerts were given in the Guildhall, but, a much larger room being necessary, on this occasion the performance was given in the Shire Hall. The move was justified, for the hall was filled to overflowing, and the entire programme was received with great enthusiasm. Sir Hubert Parry, president of the Society, Dr. C. Harford Lloyd, and Mr. C. Lee Williams were included in the audience. The part-songs selected showed a very considerable range, and were given with unvarying excellence. An interesting feature was the performance of three of the five hunting songs composed by Schumann, for male-voices with obbligato for four horns—'In full chase,' 'The Hunter's Morning Song,' and 'The Song of the Chase,' and the effect of the combination was both novel and pleasing. Then followed Horsley's well-known 'By Celia's Arbour' and Beale's quaint 'This pleasant month of May,' which were grouped together, and formed good examples of the time of their composition; during the evening the Society further contributed—'Three Men of Gotham,' by Dr. Harford Lloyd; 'The Toast: Gentlemen, the King!' A. Herbert Brewer, words by Mr. H. Godwin Chance, a member of the Society; 'The Pedlar,' by C. Lee Williams (which had to be repeated); 'The long day closes,' Sullivan; 'Ballad when at Sea,' Brewer (which also was encored), and 'Bold Turpin,' by Sir Frederick Bridge. Dr. Lloyd's part-song was written for and dedicated to the Society, and was heartily sung and heartily received. The soloists were Miss Esmé Atherden (soprano) and Mr. W. H. Reed, whose masterly violoncello playing was greatly appreciated.

Mr. E. G. Woodward, director and conductor of the Gloucester Instrumental Society, gave a soirée musicale at the Guildhall, on December 20, which was well attended. The orchestra played Schubert's 'Rosamunde' Overture, Elgar's 'Salut d'Amour,' and other selections. Miss Maude Weaver played as a violin solo 'Canzona' (Sauret), and joined with Miss F. Mayo in Bach's double Concerto for violins, with string accompaniment. Miss D. Lean played Ten Have's Allegro Brillante. Miss Bessie Woodward and Miss Amy Newton sang acceptable songs.

The inaugural performances of the newly-formed Dursley Philharmonic Society were held on the 16th ult., one in the afternoon and one in the evening. The conductor is Mr. Charles Williams, and the chief work presented, Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha's Wedding-Feast,' was given with success by a band and chorus numbering 80 performers, and led by Mr. W. H. Reed. Mr. C. Eynon Morgan sang the solo in the 'Wedding-Feast' most acceptably, and others who contributed to the programme were Miss Margaret Hicks-Beach and Mr. Reed. The Society may be congratulated upon having made a successful début.

MUSIC IN LIVERPOOL AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

In noting the doings of musical Liverpool, during the past month, it were better, once in a way, to sacrifice the claims of chronological order to those of artistic interest, and for the reason that a singularly promising work by young Cyril Meir-Scott was performed for the first time in Liverpool at the Richter Concert, which took place on the 14th ult. It is styled Orchestral Suite, No. 2, 'Heroic,' and is composed of four movements—Preludia Solenne, Legenda, Capriccio, and Tema con variazioni, all of which have merit of idea, though each is lacking in form, and again, each would have been the better for a process of condensation. If the suite bears the impress of youth, yet equally does it speak of luminous promise of better work to come, for this 'Heroic' shows a fine sense of the true uses of the orchestra, moreover it is vigorous and at times almost powerful. The work was written two years ago, when the composer was only twenty years of age. An especially critical audience called for Mr. Scott, and on his appearance, expressed in unmistakeable fashion their appreciation of his remarkable effort. Dr. Richter gave the work marked care, and Mr. Scott may consider himself fortunate indeed to have the 'Heroic' produced under such excellent auspices. At the concert in question, Dvorák's 'Carneval' overture, the overture to 'Tannhäuser,' and Beethoven's C minor Symphony were played. Mr. Francis Braun sang 'Lascia amor' (Orlando) Handel, and 'Pogner's Address' (Die Meistersinger) Wagner.

The seventh concert of the Philharmonic Society's season was given on the 7th ult., when the programme included Mozart's Symphony, No. 31, in D ('The Parisian'), Cherubini's 'Ali Baba' overture, Elgar's 'Cockaigne' overture (for the first time here), and Tschaïkowsky's Violin Concerto in D. In the last-mentioned, Miss Maud Powell essayed the solo part, and scored a success. Madame Clara Butt was the vocalist with her favourite excerpt from Gluck's 'Alceste,' namely 'Divinités du Styx.' At the seventh concert of the same society on the 21st ult., Dvorák's Symphony 'From the New World,' Schumann's 'Manfred' overture and Rubinstein's Pianoforte Concerto in D minor (with Miss Kathleen Bruckshaw as soloist) were the chief orchestral features. Madame Sobrino was the vocalist.

On December 26, in St. George's Hall, the Liverpool Musical Society gave a performance of 'The Messiah' with the Hon. Margaret Henniker, Miss Gertrude Lonsdale, Mr. Anderson Nichol, and Mr. Atherton Smith as principals, and a band and chorus of 350. Mr. D. O. Parry conducted, and Dr. Peace was at the organ. The same oratorio was also performed at the Philharmonic Hall, on the same evening, with a band and chorus of over 400, the principals being Miss Lillie Wormald, Madame Dews, Mr. Harold E. Wilde, and Mr. Herbert Brown. On the 20th ult., Mr. T. Hague Kinsey provided an excellent scheme of chamber music at the Small Concert Room, St. George's Hall, which included trios by Gade and Saint-Saëns, and a new Pianoforte and Violin Sonata by the concert-giver, in which Mr. John Lawson (violinist) and the composer joined.

Recognition of the many services to Liverpool music conferred by Mr. W. I. Argent, during a long and worthy career, took the form of two complimentary entertainments, one held on December 28, in Hope Hall, consisting of a recital of 'Romeo and Juliet'' by Mr. Charles Fry and Miss Olive Kennett with incidental music by Berthold Tours and German, which was excellently played by a small string orchestra directed by Herr Leopold; and the second a miscellaneous concert (which included a selection from 'The Messiah') in the Philharmonic Hall, on December 31. A long list of artists rendered willing assistance.

During last month Miss Mary Richardson celebrated her silver jubilee as organist of St. Werburgh's Church, Birkenhead. Congratulations rained down upon the popular and talented executant.

MUSIC IN MANCHESTER.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The Hallé meetings have been resumed with two semi-choral programmes of well-contrasted interest, although both were, in a sense, dramatic. Gluck's opera 'Orpheus' was given, for the fifth time, on the 9th ult., Madame Clara Butt entering very thoroughly into the spirit of the forlorn one, reduced to despair through the loss of a beloved spouse, while Miss Agnes Nicholls displayed powers which excited great hopes of her future career. Of course, there were certain lines of strong sympathy between Gluck and Wagner; but the transition from 'Orpheus' to the Finale of the first Act of 'Lohengrin,' the love duet of 'Die Walküre' and the selection from 'Die Meistersinger' was very striking. The interest of the public in the splendid orchestral work of the later composer was forcibly shown by the crowded audience on the 16th ult.—almost a record attendance. Madame Ella Russell's operatic experience enabled her to throw herself unreservedly into the part of Sieglinde, and Mr. Andrew Black thoroughly caught the spirit of Hans Sachs. The tenor music was artistically sung by Mr. William Green, and the work of the choir was efficient throughout. Madame Blanche Marchesi is ever most welcome heer, and, on the 23rd ult., there was the additional attraction of the Second Symphony of Dvorák.

Sir Walter Parratt gave, on the 6th and 7th ult., two recitals on the Town Hall organ, introducing some modern compositions and showing very great facility of digital executancy. His programmes included: Grand Chœur Dialogue (Eugène Gigout), Toccata Concertata (Bach), Overture Arminus (Handel), Basso ostinato (Arensky), Fugue in A flat minor (Brahms), Imperial March (Elgar), and Lied ohne Worte, No. 18 (Mendelssohn). Dr. Pyne's regular Saturday evening performances continue to be as attractive as ever.

M. Brodsky produced, for the first time here, Tschaïkowsky's Quartet in F major, together with Schumann's in A minor, and, with Miss Neruda, Beethoven's first pianoforte Trio in C minor.

MUSIC IN SHEFFIELD.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

In local musical circles, January is usually a very quiet month, the choral and orchestral societies resuming rehearsals, and concert managers avoiding a period generally devoted to social festivities. Among the few concerts to record must be included that of the Sheffield Amateur Instrumental Society, on the 20th ult., when, under their new director, Mr. H. Dean, the amateurs played an excellent programme headed by Schubert's Unfinished Symphony. A rendering of Mendelssohn's 'Hymn of Praise,' in St. Peter's Church, Abbeydale, under Mr. W. Gadsby, and a series of performances of Gilbert and Sullivan's 'Iolanthe,' in the Albert Hall, by the Teachers' Operatic Society, Mr. J. Duffell, conductor, have been the principal events of the past month. These, with some 'Messiah' concerts—one by the Rawmarsh and Parkgate Choral Society, under Mr. T. Brameld, deserves special mention—complete the record of the month's musical doings.

Widespread interest has been aroused here by the very complete and interesting account of Dr. Coward's career, which appeared in last month's issue of THE MUSICAL TIMES. Even his fellow townsmen and co-workers have learnt from it many new facts about the worthy doctor's life-story, and his many admirers warmly appreciate the compliment paid through him to the city of Sheffield.

The Wednesday afternoon lectures at The Royal Academy of Music during the present term will be delivered by Mr. F. Corder, who has the subject of 'Orchestral Instruments' for his discourses. Two Scholarships will shortly he open for competition—The Sterndale Bennett, for male students in any branch of music, and the Parepa-Rosa, for female vocalists. Full particulars may be obtained upon application to the Secretary.

MUSIC IN YORKSHIRE.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

'MESSIAH' PERFORMANCES.

Of the innumerable Christmas performances of Handel's 'Messiah' in the West Riding, two have a special and peculiar interest. As it happens, two of our chief choral societies, those of Huddersfield and Halifax, have recently made a change in their conductors, and in each case the 'new broom' made his first public appearance as such in directing a performance of 'Messiah.' Their different methods afforded a contrast that was not only interesting, but instructive. The Huddersfield Society has chosen as its artistic director Dr. Coward, of Sheffield, who has recently been brought into such prominence before readers of The Musical Times that his personality must be familiar. In the Huddersfield chorus he has what I do not hesitate to style the most glorious raw material in the world, and it may be imagined that so enthusiastic a choirmaster would make the most of it. Certainly the change was startling, and its completeness showed how thoroughly Dr. Coward had won the confidence of his singers. He obtained crescendos, sforzandos, pianissimos, as well as the customary Yorkshire fortissimos, that were admirably realised, and were often quite sensational. As an exhibition of choral possibilities it was remarkable, but as an interpretation of Handel's music, it was open to criticism. One felt at times that Dr. Coward was in danger of being, to parody a famous phrase, 'intoxicated by the exuberance of his own virtuosity,' and that his 'points' were introduced not so much for the purpose of expression, as for effect. Certainly the dignity, as well as the expressiveness of Handel's music would have gained by a trifle more reticence. The principals, it should be added, were Miss Bertha Rossow, Miss Muriel Foster, Mr. Whitworth Mitton, and Mr. Ivor Foster; the date of the concert, December 20.

The Halifax Society's 'Messiah' performance, on the preceding day, indicated no less strikingly the methods and temperament of its new conductor, Mr. F. de G. English, the organist of the Halifax Parish Church. It was less sensational, less highly-finished in points of detail, but it was a thoroughly sane, artistic reading, showing, in many respects, careful thought. Mr. English has one important qualification for a choral leader: he has a very distinct idea of what he wants, and sufficient mastery to ensure his getting it. Both he and Dr. Coward want more of the ease and absence of apparent effort of an ideal conductor, there is just a suggestion of self-consciousness in their manner, but their aims are so different that the opportunity afforded by these two successive performances of the same work was exceedingly interesting, At any rate, both Huddersfield and Halifax may be congratulated on their new chiefs, who will, it is to be hoped, put a fresh vigour into their proceedings. At Halifax, the principals were Miss Elsie Mackenzie, Miss Gertrude Lonsdale, Mr. Webster-Millar, and Mr. Watkin Mills.

Other 'Messiah' performances were on similar lines to those of former years. At Leeds, the Philharmonic Society gave one of the most artistic all-round readings we have had for some time past. Madame Marchesi was rather over-weighted in 'Rejoice, greatly,' but otherwise sang with her usual artistic feeling and finish; Miss Marie Brema, Mr. John Coates, and Mr. Ivor Foster were all satisfactory in their respective parts. By way of varying the customary selection—for it must be admitted that on ordinary occasions cuts are inevitable—the whole of the third part of the oratorio was given, a precedent which might with advantage be followed elsewhere, for there is much in it that does not deserve oblivion. Dr. Stanford conducted.

The Bradford Old Choral Society's performance took place on December 17, under Mr. Hartwell Robertshaw's direction. The chorus sang with freshness and spirit, the quality of the sopranos being particularly noteworthy. The soloists were Miss Agnes Nicholls, Miss Ada Crossley, Mr. Albert Collings, and Mr. Watkin Mills. The 'Festival' Choral Society of the same town followed up with another 'Messiah' performance three days later, with Miss Ruth Lamb, Madame Clara Butt, Mr. William Green, and Mr. Watkin Mills as principals. The Bradford Permanent Orchestra, which habitually co-operates with this choral society, greatly to the advantage of both, had an easy task, which it performed efficiently, and Dr. Cowen conducted. A performance that deserves mention is that which was given on December 19, by the Harrogate Choral Society, which has of late made a distinct advance under the conductorship of Mr. C. L. Naylor. The chorus on this occasion gave evidence of careful training, and the soloists were Miss Lamb, Miss Maud Santley, Mr. J. Reed, and Mr. David Hughes.

OTHER CONCERTS.

At Leeds, the Choral Union gave, on January 1, a good all-round performance of 'Elijah,' under Mr. Alfred Benton's able direction. Miss Ella Russell, Miss Isa Frood, Mr. Whitworth Mitton, and Mr. Andrew Black, taking the chief solo parts. On the 11th ult., Mr. Edgar Haddock conducted the second of his 'Free Orchestral Concerts,' to an audience that crowded the area of the Town Hall to its utmost capacity. The only seats which are not free at these concerts are in the gallery, and this was so well filled that the Corporation, who appropriate all the shillings, seem likely to be actually gainers by their 'generosity' in granting the use of the hall without charge. The programme was an excellent one, including a Haydn Symphony (one of the 'Salomon' set, in D), Beethoven's C minor Pianoforte Concerto (the solo played very effectively by Mr. Arthur Ayres), and some familiar overtures. Miss Florence Daly was the vocalist, and Mr. Edgar Haddock's conducting showed a very decided aptitude for his task. On the 14th ult. one of the Leeds musical evenings took place. Schumann's D minor Trio was ably played by Messrs. Haddock, Lehmann, and Richter, but proved rather severe for an audience accustomed to lighter fare. An interesting feature of the concert was the singing, by Miss Ada Crossley, of a series of really artistic and charming songs by Mr. Albert Mallinson, a native of Leeds, who is making a name as a composer of Lieder.

At Bradford, the subscription concert, on the 17th ult., was signalised by a fine performance, under Dr. Richter, of Berlioz's Fantastic Symphony. This extraordinary work happened to be associated with some other noteworthy pieces of programme music; Beethoven's Egmont Overture, Wagner's Trauermarsch, and Tschaïkowsky's '1812' Overture, and one could not help noticing that it suffered in comparison with all of these in point of sincerity of expression, if not in cleverness of technique. Miss Susan Strong was the vocalist. At Huddersfield, the subscription concert, on the 14th ult., consisted of a highly-interesting pianoforte recital by Mr. Godowsky, with songs by Madame Bertha Moore, and at Halifax, on the 15th ult., an enjoyable programme of chamber music was given by Mr. Rawdon Briggs's String Quartet, with Mr. A. F. Webster as pianist and Mr. Webster-Millar as vocalist.

The New Year Convention and Annual Meeting of the Tonic Sol-fa Association was held in the hall of the Young Men's Christian Association, Aldersgate Street, on the 11th ult. At a meeting subsequently held, Mr. W. S. Desborough read a paper on 'The violin for elementary schools,' in which he stated that it was distinctly a question whether singing was very popular in boys' schools. The matter of instrumental music had been brought before the Board of Education, and there was reason to believe that violin teaching might be recognised as coming within the musical requirements of the code. The lecturer's object was to suggest the means of providing healthy amusement for the children.

The Royal College of Music has received from Mr. S. Ernest Palmer, of Grosvenor Crescent, the magnificent gift of £3,000 to the Institution, for the purpose of founding a scholarship for the benefit of natives of the County of Berkshire, or residents therein of not less than five years' standing. The scholarship will provide free musical education at the College, in addition to the sum of £52 10s. per annum for maintenance.

Foreign Notes.

Antwerp.—The Municipal Council has voted a grant of 500,000 francs as a first instalment towards the erection of a National Flemish Opera House.

Barcelona.—The first performance of the remarkable new operatic trilogy, 'The Pyrenees,' by Felipe Pedrell, took place on the 4th ult., at the Liceo, amidst scenes of great enthusiasm. It is the most ambitious work ever produced on the Spanish lyrical stage by a native composer. Though not uninfluenced by Wagnerian methods, Señor Pedrell commands a musical language and style of his own, national elements being moreover freely interwoven with the score, which qualities, together with an effective instrumentation, will doubtless secure for the work a permanent place in the national repertory. The performance was conducted with consummate ability by Señor Goula.

Barmen.—Two excellent performances of Handel's oratorio 'Saul' (Chrysander's version) were given, last month, by the very active Concert Verein,—the truly 'popular' choir of which is recruited from all classes of society—under the direction of Capellmeister Carl Hopfe. The solo parts were in the hands of well-known vocalists, including Dr. Felix Kraus and Madame Kraus-Osborne. On December 28, the first performance was given, by the same society, of Enrico Bossi's 'Canticus Canticorum.'

Breslau.—A very fine performance was given recently by the Singakademie, with the co-operation of the Orchester-Verein, under Dr. Dohrn's direction, of Anton Bruckner's grand Te Deum. The stately work was heard for the first time on this occasion, and produced a most marked impression.

Brünn.—In memory of the late Joseph Rheinberger, a performance took place, last month, at the cathedral, of works by the deceased composer, including the organ Sonata in A major, and a Sarabande for organ, violin, and violoncello. Herr Burkert presided at the organ.

Budapest.—At the fifth Philharmonic Concert of the season a new 'Hungarian' Symphony, by P. König, a very characteristic and ably constructed work, attracted the attention of connoisseurs. The composer is a young man, formerly a member of a religious order, who quitted the cloister some years ago in order to devote himself entirely to musical pursuits.

Cologne.—At a recent Gürzenich concert the first performance was included of a new quintet for pianoforte and wind instruments, by Fritz Volbach, the well-known orchestral conductor. The work, which is remarkable for its thematic contents, transparent construction, and effective treatment of the wind instruments, was received with high favour.——M. Paderewski's opera, 'Manru,' produced for the first time at the Stadt Theater on the 1st ult., was received with much applause, of which the composer was also personally the recipient.——Dr. Franz Wüllner, the director of the Conservatorium, has just celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his first public appearance as pianist and composer at Cologne. He is seventy years old.——Mr. John Coates has appeared with immense success at the Stadt Theater, recently, in 'Lohengrin,' 'Faust,' and other operas, and it is said that proposals have been made to him from Bayreuth for his participation in the next festival performances.

Dresden.—At a recent concert of the Trenkler Orchestra, the programme was devoted exclusively to works by resident Dresden musicians. These included an original and delicately humorous 'Character Stück' by Schulz-Beuthen, and a new symphony by Waldemar von Baussnern, both works being heard for the first time on this occasion and very favourably received. At the third orchestral concert of the season, under Musik-director von Schuch's conductorship, a successful first performance was given of Gustav Mahler's new Symphony in G minor, the second and particularly the final movement being most favourably received. Two excellent performances have been given recently of August Klughardt's oratorio 'The Fall of Jerusalem,' by the Singakademie, under Herr Hösel's direction.

Frankfort-on-Main.—August Enna's charming new fairy opera 'The little matchseller' was performed for the first time at the Stadt Theater, on December 26, with unqualified success.

Gera.—The Musikalische Verein celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of its foundation, last month, by a concert, the programme of which included the first performance of a new symphony (No. 4) from the pen of Court Capellmeister Carl Kleemann, the greatly-esteemed conductor of the society, which was enthusiastically applauded.

Giessen.—Philipp Wolfrum's 'Christmas Mystery' was produced, on December 26, by the combined forces of the Concert Verein and the academical Gesangverein, under Herr Trautmann's direction. An interesting feature of the performance was the fact of its being accompanied by the series of living pictures contemplated by the author of this remarkable work.

Königsberg.—There has been no award made of the prize of £500, offered some time since by a music-loving inhabitant, Dr. Walter Simon, for a German opera, none of the thirty-six works sent in for competition having come up to the standard of an expert jury.

Leipzig.—The claims of Franz Liszt as a composer, which, until very recent years, had been studiously ignored in the programmes of the Gewandhaus concerts, have of late met with a generous measure of recognition at that famous Institution, under Herr Nikisch's direction. Nor is this all. A handsome bust of the pianist-composer—the work of the well-known sculptor, Max Klinger—presented by one of Liszt's most enthusiastic disciples, Alexander Siloti, has just been placed in the foyer of the Neues Gewandhaus. The occasion was signalised in a concert of the Institution, on the 9th ult., by the performance of the 'Faust' symphony, and the Todtentanz, in which latter work Herr Siloti played the pianoforte part.

Lille.—A new opera, entitled 'Charlotte Corday,' by the talented young composer Alexandre Georges, has been brought out with great success at the Municipal Theatre.——Most successful performances have also taken place recently of a new ballet, 'Fatalidat,' a legendary subject, treated with much ingenuity by the authors of the scenarium, and for which M. Louis Hillier has furnished the very effective and graceful music.

Mannheim.—Wolff's melodrama 'Preciosa,' with C. M. von Weber's imperishable music, has been revived at the Court Theatre, where it is attracting numerous audiences, notwithstanding the somewhat old-fashioned romanticism of the piece.——At last month's concert of the Singverein, a marked impression was produced by the performance, for the first time, of a 'dramatic scene' for male choir, solo quartet, soprano solo, and orchestra, by Joseph Brambach.

Munich.—A series of interesting chamber concerts, with Herr Stavenhagen as the pianist, was inaugurated last month, when a very fine interpretation was given, inter alia, of Dvorák's Pianoforte Quartet in E flat major. Herr Weingartner, who again conducts the concerts of the Kaim Orchestra this season, also plays the pianoforte parts in an instrumental trio formed by him, greatly to the delight of earnest music-lovers. At the Residenz Theater, a revival has taken place of Pergolesi's comic opera 'La Serva Padrona,' as revised (with due reverence and consummate ability) by the late Peter Cornelius. The performance, under Herr Stavenhagen's direction, was a very satisfactory one, and, somewhat to the surprise of musical circles, the hundred and sixty-eight year-old work met with an enthusiastic reception. It is to be included in the special performances annually given during the summer months at this theatre.——Among the testamentary directions of the late Joseph Rheinberger is the bequest of £5,000 to the Munich Municipality for charitable purposes.

Paris.—At the Lamoureux concert of the 5th ult., the new Violin Concerto by M. Jacques Dalcroze, of Geneva, was introduced for the first time, and, finely rendered as it was by M. Henri Marteau, it met with a very favourable reception. A first performance also took place at this Institution recently of Beethoven's seldom-heard triple Concerto for pianoforte, violin, and violoncello, with Mdlle. Thérèse Chaigneau, Herren Hugo Becker and Hugo Heermann as executants. A 'Prélude Religieux,' for orchestra, by M. Paul Lacombe, was an interesting and much appreciated novelty. At the Châtelet concerts, under M. Colonne's direction, a fresh series of performances of Berlioz's 'La Damnation de Faust' is being given.——At the Opéra, Wagner's 'Siegfried,' with the French version of the late Alfred Ernst, and M. Jean de Reszké in the title-part, was brought out, on the 3rd ult., with brilliant success.——M. Gustave Charpentier has just completed the score of a new opera. It is entitled 'Marie,' and will be a sequel, so far as the libretto is concerned, to the story represented in his successful opera 'Louise.'——M. Charles Quef has been appointed the successor of M. Alexandre Guilmant in the organistship of La Trinité.

Prague.—An interesting and highly effective new orchestral work by J. B. Foerster, entitled 'My youth,' was produced at the second subscription concert of the Czech Philharmonic Society, under Herr Nedbal's direction, with great success. On the same occasion, a young Viennese pianist, Fräulein Margarethe Wolow, made a brilliant début here with Tschaïkowsky's Concerto in G major. Herr Angelo Neumann, the well-known impresario, is about to publish a volume of his 'Recollections,' which should prove both interesting and entertaining.

Rome.—Wagner's 'Die Meistersinger' was produced (for the first time in the Eternal City) at the Teatro Costanzi, on December 26, and enthusiastically received; the Prelude, the Finale of the second act, and the Quintet having to be repeated.

Strassburg.—A complete success was attained by a new comic opera, in three acts, entitled 'Claudio Monteverde,' by Adolph Arensen, recently brought out at the Stadt Theater. The work, which is replete with characteristic melodies and cleverly instrumented, has been accepted for performance also at Frankfort and at Bremen.

Turin.—Signor Mancinelli's biblical cantata, 'Isaiah' (first produced at the Norwich Festival in 1887), achieved a brilliant success on its first performance recently at the Teatro Regio. The composer, who conducted an excellent interpretation of his work, was the recipient of an ovation on the part of a numerous audience.

Würzburg.—A complete success was scored by the performance last month, at one of the subscription concerts of the Conservatorium, of a new secular oratorio entitled 'Ekkehard,' the libretto, by Schulte vom Brühl, founded upon Scheffel's well-known novel, the music by Hugo Röhr. The interpretation of the work, which contains some highly-effective choral and orchestral writing, was an excellent one, under the direction of Dr. Kliebert.

Mr. Joseph Goddard read a paper at the Musical Association, on the 15th ult., entitled 'The Philosophy of our Tempered System,' of which the following is a synopsis:—The two kinds of truth: absolute truth, and truth of human impression.—It is the latter, which, selected, arranged, or in some way delimited by æsthetical feeling, enters into art.—Our musical system being a deduction from musical art, is based upon the latter.—The applicability to certain specimens of concrete art of Colin Brown's system, considered.—The question between natural and tempered intonation is not in essence a practical question, but a question of principle.—Conclusions arrived at.

The Kyrle Choir, under the direction of Mr. F. A. W. Docker, gave a performance of 'St. Paul,' on the 15th ult., at the London Central Wesleyan Mission Church, Clerkenwell. The soloists were Madame Edwards, Miss Grace Day-Winter, Mr. John Probert, and Mr. Robert Grier. Dr. Turpin was the organist.

Mr. Frederik Frederiksen has started an afternoon class for the practice of orchestral music at the Great Central Hotel (Red room). The meetings will be held on Wednesdays at 3 o'clock, and only music of the highest-class will be practised.

Brief Summary of Country and Colonial News.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this summary, as the notices are either collated from local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

Andover.—Mr. Arthur C. Bennett gave a concert, in the Town Hall, on the 14th ult., when the string orchestra played Geminiani's Concerto in G minor, Canzona and Marcia (arranged), J. Raff (Op. 85), the Overture to 'Samson,' Edward German's 'Scotch Sketch' for violin and pianoforte, and Scene Champêtre (Papini). The solo vocalists were Miss Marjorie Eaton (who sang Mackenzie's 'Song of Love and Death' and 'If love were what the rose is,' also two songs by the concert-giver), Miss Nellie Edwards, and Mr. Anderson Nicol, the latter's contributions including 'Onaway, awake,' from 'Hiawatha's Wedding Feast,' and two songs by Mr. A. C. Bennett.

Armley.—An excellent performance of Mendelssohn's 95th Psalm was given, by the choir at Christ Church, augmented, on the 20th ult. The tenor solos were well sung by Mr. Heckford, and the duet, 'In His hands,' by Masters Moss and Forbes. The chorus did their work well. Mr. F. C. Kitson played the organ accompaniments efficiently, and Mr. H. M. Turton (organist and choirmaster of the church) was the conductor.

Bradwell.—The second concert of the Choral Society here took place on December 27, when 'The Messiah' was performed by full orchestra and chorus of eighty performers, under the baton of Mr. Edmund Middleton, the general excellence of the performance reflecting great credit on all concerned. The principal vocalists were Miss Eleanor Coward, Miss E. Steddall, Mr. J. W. Froggatt, Mr. E. G. Needham. Mr. Herbert Gilbert led the band, and Mr. George F. Cawthorne officiated at the organ.

Dover.—Mr. Charles F. Westoby gave a concert at the Town Hall, on the 20th ult., when the programme, chiefly of ballad music, included two movements from Mendelssohn's Trio in D minor, played by Mr. R. B. Freeman, Miss Eveline Barry and Miss Flora Gill, these performers being joined by Mr. G. W. Barclay in Mozart's Quartet in B flat. Other artists who assisted were Madame Kirkby Lunn, Mr. F. G. Fletcher, and the concert-giver.

Hucknall Torkard.—Haydn's 'Creation' was performed in the Public Hall, on Christmas night, by the Baptist Choir augmented and, with the orchestra, numbering 100 performers. The solo vocalists were Madame Lizzie Moulds, Mr. F. Fallas, and Mr. Henry Dobson. Mr. G. Attwood presided at the organ, and Mr. Dan Godfrey conducted.

Madeley.—The Choral Society gave a capital performance of 'Judas Maccabæus,' in the Anstree Memorial Institute, on December 23. Miss Alice Phillips, Miss E. Druce, Mr. Vivian Bennetts, and Mr. D. Harrison were the principal vocalists, whilst the band (led by Mr. W. H. Freeman) and chorus numbered eighty performers. Mr. Smart conducted as usual. The choruses had been carefully prepared, and were admirably rendered.

Melbourne (Australia).—The Philharmonic Society gave their fourth subscription concert this season, in the Town Hall, on November 30, when Sullivan's 'Golden Legend' was excellently performed by the orchestra and chorus of the Society, conducted by Mr. George Peake. The principal vocalists were Mdlle. Antonia Dolores, Miss Alice Mattinson, Mr. H. J. Floyd, and Mr. Reginald Gooud. Mr. Henry Curtis led the orchestra, and Mr. G. B. Fentum assisted at the organ. On Christmas night the forty-ninth annual performance of 'The Messiah' by this Society was announced.

Morriston.—The thirty-second annual Eisteddfod in connection with the Tabernacle Congregational Church, was held on Christmas and Boxing Days. The adjudicators were Mr. C. Francis Lloyd and Mr. Maldwyn Humphreys, while Mr. J. Manley judged the brass bands.

'The Maesteg Music Lovers' were the winners in the chief choral competition, and the Pontyberem band took first prize in the brass band contest. The work selected for the evening concerts was 'The Messiah.' The solo vocalists were Miss Maggie Davies, Madame Bertha Rossow, Miss Edna Thornton, Mr. Maldwyn Humphreys, Mr. David Hughes, and Mr. Ivor Foster. Mr. W. F. Hulley led the orchestra, and Mr. T. J. Davies and Mr. T. Jones shared the duties of organist. The choruses, by the Tabernacle choir, were excellently rendered. Mr. W. Penfro Rowlands conducted.

Ryde.—A performance of 'The Messiah' was given, on the 9th ult., by a special choir of 120 voices and small orchestra, under the able direction of Mr. R. Yates Mander. The choir was well balanced, their tone being excellent, and throughout they did yeoman service. The solo vocalists were Miss Alice Phillips, Miss Grace Ivell, Mr. Clifford Hunnybun and Mr. Fielder. In the interval, the Mayor (Mr. M. Maybrick) presented Mr. Mander with a cheque contributed by the choir and orchestra, in recognition of his efforts to promote the study of good music in the locality, and expressed the hope that this performance would lead to the establishment of a permanent choral society in the town.——A concert, arranged by the Mayor of Ryde (Mr. M. Maybrick) by request of Princess Henry of Battenberg, who was present, was given at the Town Hall on the 6th ult. An attractive miscellaneous programme was presented, the vocalists taking part including Miss Maggie Davies, Miss Büring, Mr. Dumayne, and the Mayor. Mr. R. Yates Mander, the Borough organist, contributed some organ solos.

South Shields.—Mr. Andrew Bevan gave a chamber concert in Victoria Hall, on the 10th ult., assisted by Herr Ludwig Lebell (violoncello), Miss Frances Simpson (pianoforte), and Miss Eleanora Wayman (vocalist), The programme included Beethoven's Trio (Op. 1, No. 3) in C minor, and Gade's Trio (Op. 42) in F.

Sunderland.—A performance of the Christmas music from 'The Messiah' was given in Grange Congregational Church on December 29. The choruses were rendered by the choir in excellent style, and the solos were sung by Mrs. Dean, Mrs. J. L. Smith, Mr. R. Haswell, and Councillor F. Foster. Mr. J. L. Smith, the organist of the church, was organist and conductor.

Uitenhage (Cape Colony). — At St. Catherine's Church, on Christmas Day, the morning service consisted of Maunder's Communion Service in C. In the evening the organist and choirmaster, Mr. Quintus James, played the following solos on the organ. Toccata (D'Evry); Andante in A flat (Hoyte); 'Verset' (Guilmant); and March from 'Naaman' (Costa). The choir rendered a number of carols and the anthems 'Sing, O Heavens' (Tours), and 'O taste, and see' (Goss), in a very spirited and intelligent manner.

Walthamstow.—The St. Gabriel's Choral Society gave their first concert this season in St. Gabriel's Gymnasium, on the 16th ult., when Bridge's 'The Forging of the Anchor' and Van Bree's 'St. Cecilia's Day' were the main features of the programme. Both choir and orchestra did their work well under the direction of Mr. F. G. Brient, Sir Frederick Bridge's cantata especially being well received. The solo vocalists were Miss Katharine Nash and Mr. William Llewellyn.

Wellington (New Zealand).—Mr. Maughan Barnett gave his thirtieth organ recital in St. John's Church, on November 26, the principal works performed including Widor's Scherzo (fourth Symphony) and Toccata (fifth Symphony), Guilmant's 'Lamentation,' in addition to compositions by Wolstenholme, Gustav Ernest, and Faulkes. At these recitals, Mr. Maughan Barnett has played some 139 compositions, with a good proportion of works by English composers.——The Glee and Madrigal Society gave its final subscription concert of the season on December 17, under the direction of its founder and conductor, Mr. Robert Parker. Several part-songs and madrigals were sung in excellent style by the choir, notably Parry's 'Better music ne'er was known,' 'In going to my lonely bed' (Edwards); 'Matona, lovely maiden' (Orlando di Lasso), and 'In dulci jubilo' (Fearsall). Stanford's choral ballad 'The Revenge' was also admirably given with orchestral accompaniment. Miss Joan Parker played with much success Mozart's Pianoforte Concerto in D minor, and the programme was completed by some violin solos, well played by Miss Grace Kennedy, and songs by members of the Society.

Windsor.—The new sacred cantata 'The Story of Bethlehem,' composed by John E. West, was sung by the choir of Holy Trinity Parish Church, assisted by the members of the Philharmonic Society, on December 29, in the church, after evensong. The soloists were Miss Taylor, Miss Thompson, Mr. Malcolm Boyle, and Mr. Walter Dodds, all of whom sang their parts with great credit. The choruses were sung with much precision and spirit, and the whole work was much appreciated. Mr. H. R. Couldrey, the organist of the church, ably presided at the organ throughout.

Answers to Correspondents.

J. P. H.—(1) Franklin Taylor's Progressive Studies for the Pianoforte would be invaluable to you. Steady practice of scales and arpeggios should enable you to play the semiquaver passages in 'Thanks be to God,' but do not forget the all-important matter of accentuation. (2) We give a list of 'easy anthems of limited compass for general use, suitable for country choirs,' and some part-songs for male voices fulfilling the same requirements. Anthems: The Lord is my Shepherd, Macfarren; O love the Lord, Sullivan; Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, C. L. Williams; O how amiable, V. Richardson; O taste and see, Goss; also Novello's Anthem Books, 1 to 9; Part-Songs for T.T.B.B.; The two roses, Werner; Lovely night, Chwatal; Thuringian Volkslied, arranged by F. Abt; Evening, L. de Call; The Sabbath call, Kreutzer.

A. W. G.—The following are a few modern Pianoforte Duets suitable for public performance by fairly advanced players:—Arensky, Suite; Brandts-Buys, Tänze und Weisen; Chovan, Danses Roumaines; Dvorák, Polonaise; Fibich, Bagatellen; Goldner, Suite Pittoresque; Grieg, Symphonic Dances; Moszkowski, Spanish Dances, Cortège and Gavotte; Liadow, Polonaise; Koechlin, Suite; Rachmaninoff, Suite, Caprice Bohémien; Reger, 5 Pièces Pittoresque; Saint-Saëns, Marche héroïque, Caprice Arabe; Sinding, Suite; Wilm, Suite (Op. 180); Kahn, 3 Preludes sur des airs Irlandais.

Student.—The following list of songs, &c., in style classical and for the contralto voice, with orchestral accompaniment, will, we trust, be found useful: Coleridge-Taylor, The Soul's expression; Berlioz, The Spectre of the Rose and On the Lagunes (Summer Nights); Goring Thomas, My heart is weary (Nadeshda); Bach, Slumber Song (Christmas Oratorio); Dvorák, Inflammatus (Stabat Mater); Max Bruch, Arie der Priesterin (Arminius); Saint-Saëns, Softly awakes my heart, in B flat (Samson and Delilah).

W. P.—The Op. 63 of Beethoven is a pianoforte trio arranged from the string quintet in E flat, Op. 4; Op. 65 is the Scena ed aria 'Ah! perfido!'; and Op. 66, the pianoforte variations in F minor on the air from Mozart's Magic Flute, 'Ein Mädchen oder Weibchen.'

H. R.—It is perfectly right to vary the music to suit the changing verbal accents of the different verses of the hymn beginning, 'Thou knowest, Lord'; but, as a rule, the process is not very practicable when a congregation of worshippers has to be taken into consideration.

G. A. S.—You had better place yourself under a good teacher. We cannot give the names of such, but you will doubtless find one in your city who is fully competent, and who would take an interest in your studies. Your former successes should encourage you.

H. H. L.—We cannot, even if we were able, differentiate between the value of the degrees in music conferred by the various Universities.

A. A.—The primer by Mr. A. J. Hipkins, entitled 'A description and history of the Pianoforte' may answer your purpose. It is a very interesting and authoritative book on the subject.

W. E. C.—Write to the secretaries of the various examining bodies you name for particulars as to syllabus, fees, &c. 'A Handbook of Examinations,' by Ernest A. Dicks, will give you plenty of examination material.

Gounod.—You have our sympathy and best wishes for the time when, 'at the age of fifty,' you will be 'again a musician,' and also for the intervening seven years. But you do not mention the visiting days.

U. S. A.—It is not much use to advertise in American papers for an organ appointment in the United States, as Cousin Jonathan prefers his own folk to act in that chief musicianship capacity.

R. S. T.—To qualify for the diploma of Licentiate of the Royal Academy of Music, or that of Associate of the Royal College of Music, should be your aim.

E. D.—Mr. Spencer Curwen's 'Studies in worship music' (1st series) may help you in your investigations.

C. S.—See reply on p. 102.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO & CO., Limited.

ALCOCK, STANLEY—"Jesu, Word of God Incarnate" ("Ave Verum"). For S.A.T.B. English and Latin words. 3d.

ANON.—"Sweetheart Mother." Song. For Contralto or Baritone. 1s. 6d.

BATTENBERG, H.R.H. PRINCESS HENRY OF—"Lord of Grace and Holiness." Confirmation Hymn. The words by A. C. Benson. (No. 586. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 1d.

BERKELEY, JULIAN C.—Bruera Hymn Tunes. 2d.

BRAHMS, JOHANNES—"Love Song" ("Minnelied"). For S.S.A.A. (No. 333. Novello's Octavo Edition of Trios, &c., for Female Voices.) 2d.

—— "The Bridegroom" ("Der Bräutigam"). For S.S.A.A. (No. 334. Novello's Octavo Edition of Trios, Quartets, &c., for Female Voices.) 3d.

—— "Barcarolle" ("Barcarole"). For S.S.A.A. (No. 335. Novello's Octavo Edition of Trios, &c., for Female Voices.) 1½d.

—— "Questionings" ("Fragen"). For S.S.A.A. (No. 336. Novello's Octavo Edition of Trios, &c., for Female Voices.) 2d.

—— "The Miller's Daughter" ("Die Müllerin"). For S.S.A.A. (No. 337. Novello's Octavo Edition of Trios, &c., for Female Voices.) 2d.

—— "The Nun" ("Die Nonne"). For S.S.A.A. (No. 338. Novello's Octavo Edition of Trios, &c., for Female Voices.) 2d.

—— "Now all the roses are blooming" ("Nun stehn die Rosen in Blüthe"). For S.S.A.A. (No. 339. Novello's Octavo Edition of Trios, &c., for Female Voices.) 3d.

—— "The Mountains are cold" ("Die Berge sind spitz"). For S.S.A.A. (No. 340. Novello's Octavo Edition of Trios, &c., for Female Voices.) 1½d.

—— "The Meadows at Wildbach" ("Am Wildbach die Weiden"). For S.S.A.A. (No. 341. Novello's Edition of Trios, &c., for Female Voices.) 1½d.

—— "If through the Churchyard" ("Und gehst du über den Kirchhof"). For S.S.A.A. (No. 342. Novello's Octavo Edition of Trios, &c., for Female Voices.) 1½d.

—— "The Bride" ("Die Braut"). For S.S.A.A. (No. 343. Novello's Octavo Edition of Trios, &c., for Female Voices.) 3d.

—— "A March Night" ("Märznacht"). For S.S.A.A. (No. 344. Novello's Octavo Edition of Trios, &c., for Female Voices.) 2d.

BRAUN, CHARLES—"Queen Mab and the Kobolds." An Operetta for Young People. Words by Shapcott Wensley. Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa combined. 2s. Words only, 25s. per 100.

BREWER, A. HERBERT—"O Love most wonderful." From the Biblical Scene "Emmaus." (No. 726. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

BRIDGE, FREDERICK—"The Spider and the Fly." A Cantata for Junior Schools and Classes. The words written by Shapcott Wensley. Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa combined. 1s. Tonic Sol-fa only, 6d.

BROOK, JOHN—Vesper Hymn and Threefold Amen. On Card. 2d.

BURGISS, FRED.—"The Angelus." Song. For Contralto or Baritone. 2s.

CLUER, H. G.—(in C). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. 3d.

COBB, GERARD F.—"The Marlborough Volunteer." Marlborough School Song. 6d.

COLEMAN, JAMES—"The Sower went forth sowing." Sacred Song. For Contralto or Bass. 2s.

COLERIDGE-TAYLOR, S.—"The Blind Girl of Castél Cuillé." Revised Edition. Cantata. The Poem translated from the Gascon of Jasmin, by H. W. Longfellow. 2s. 6d.

COWEN, FREDERIC H.—Four English Dances in the Olden Style. Cornetti (transposed from Trombe parts). 1s.

CROOK, W. E.—"Love's Springtime." Song. For Contralto or Baritone. 2s.

DAVIES, H. WALFORD—"As with gladness men of old." An Unaccompanied Carol. For Church use at Christmas or Epiphany. 2d.

EMBIE, A.—"Die Herzblume." Song. For Contralto or Baritone. 2s.

GERMAN, EDWARD—Coronation March. For Full Orchestra. Full Score, 3s. 6d.

HAYDN, J.—"The Arm of the Lord." Motet. For Four Voices. (No. 723. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 4d.

HOFMANN, HEINRICH—"Champagnerlied." Op. 17. For Tenor Solo, Chorus of Men's Voices (T.T.B.B.) and Orchestra. The English translation by G. E. Troutbeck. 1s. 6d.

HOLLAND, THEODORE S.—"King Goldemar" ("The Story of Elfin Mount"). An Operetta for Junior Schools and Classes. The Libretto written by K. Sidford. Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa combined, 2s.

HOLLMAN, J.—"Tristesse." For Violoncello with Accompaniment for Pianoforte. 2s.

HYDE, JAMES—"Victoria." A Hymn. For Contralto or Baritone. 2s.

LESLIE, HENRY—"Song of the Flax Spinner." For S.A.T.B. (No. 877. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 4d.

—— "Bridal Song." For S.A.T.B. (No. 878. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 4d.

—— "Resurgam." For S.A.T.B. (No. 879. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 4d.

—— "We roam and rule the sea." For S.A.T.B. (No. 880. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 4d.

—— "Lullaby of Life." For S.A.T.B. (No. 881. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 4d.

—— "Song of the Minnesingers." For T.T.B.B. (No. 350. The Orpheus.) 4d.

MACKENZIE, A. C.—"Lift my spirit up to Thee." From "Eighteen Songs." Song. For Soprano or Tenor. The poem written by Charles Grant. 2s.

MARTIN, GEORGE C.—(in C). A Festival Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. (No. 590. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 6d.

MATTHEWS, T. R.—Four Settings of the Kyrie Eleison. (No. 582. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 1½d.

MENDELSSOHN-BARTHOLDY, F.—Andante from Symphony No. 4. Op. 90. ("Pilgrims' March"). Arranged by Edmund T. Chipp. (No. 60. Organ Arrangements, Edited by George C. Martin.) 1s.

—— "Elijah." Cornetti (transposed from Trombe parts). 2s. 6d.

MITCHELL, E. E.—"Jesu, the very thought of Thee." Anthem. For Bass Solo and Chorus. 3d.

MOONIE, J. A.—"Killiecrankie" ("The Burial March of Dundee"). A Ballad. For Tenor Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra. The words from "Lays of the Scottish Cavaliers," by Professor Aytoun. 1s. 6d.

MOZART.—Sonata in E minor. For Violin and Pianoforte. 1st to 3rd Position. (Book 9. The Junior Violinist. Edited by C. Egerton Lowe.) 1s. 6d.

NAYLOR, CHARLES L.—"O perfect Love." Wedding Anthem. (No. 112. Novello's Short Anthems.) 2d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

POWELL, JAMES BADEN—Messe en La bémol, pour Deux Sopranos. Latin words. 3 francs.

SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW. No. 116. Contains the following Music in both Notations: "Blow, gentle gales" (arranged for S.S.A.). Composed by Sir Henry Bishop. 1½d.

SCHOOL SONGS.—Edited by W. G. McNaught. Published in two forms. A. Voice Parts in Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, 8vo size; B. Voice Parts only in Tonic Sol-fa Notation. A. B.
No. 670. Whither. Unison Song ... Schubert 2d. —

SMART, HENRY—"The Bride of Dunkerron." Cornetti (transposed from Trombe part). 2s.

SPOHR, LOUIS—"The Last Judgment." Cornetti (transposed from Trombe part). 1s.

TONIC SOL-FA SERIES. Edited by W. G. McNaught:—
No. 1230. By the lone sea shore... S. Coleridge-Taylor 1d.
,, 1241. O sunny beam ... ... R. Schumann 1d.
,, 1243. He shall swallow up death in victory F. R. Greenish 2d.

WAGNER.—Sailors' Chorus from the "Flying Dutchman." For T.T.B.B. English and German words. (No. 106. Novello's Opera Choruses.) 3d.

WARREN, RICHARD HENRY—(in E flat). Te Deum laudamus. (No. 589. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 4d.

WEST, JOHN E.—"Unto the Paschal Victim bring." Anthem for Easter. (No. 708. The Musical Times.) 1½d.

YOUNG, WILLIAM J.—(in E flat). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. 3d.

OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS.

THE OXFORD HISTORY OF MUSIC. Vol. I. The Polyphonic Period. Part I. Method of Musical Art, 330—1330. By H. E. Wooldridge, M.A., Slade Professor of Fine Art in the University of Oxford. 8vo, cloth, 15s. net.
The Musical Times: "Professor Wooldridge, far from being overpowered by the great mass of documents and facts to be marshalled and located in their right position in the slow, puzzling growth of the art of music, has organised the whole with much insight and critical judgment."

CHART OF THE RULES OF HARMONY FOR STUDENTS. By A. Somervell. For Form Use. Printed on thick card, 4to. 1s. net.
London: Henry Frowde, Oxford University Press Warehouse, Amen Corner, E.C.

Just Published.

THE MUSES GARDIN FOR DELIGHTS Or the fift Booke of Ayres Onely for the Lute, the Base-vyoll and the voice. Composed by Robert Jones. Reprinted from the rare original in the Earl of Ellesmere's library. Edited, with an Introduction, by W. Barclay Squire. Printed at the Oxford University Press, in Fell type, on hand-made paper, royal 16mo, antique boards, 5s. net. (350 copies printed.)
"Treasure trove of a kind seldom lighted on."—Pilot.
"A charming reprint of a rare and delightful book. . . . will be eagerly desired by any man who likes a good song and a rare book."—Scotsman.
"We advise 'intending purchasers' to purchase rather than intend."—Oxford Magazine.
Oxford: B. H. Blackwell.

ROYAL INSTITUTE of PAINTERS, Piccadilly.—Miss LOUIE LÖWE and Miss ANNA LÖWE beg to announce THREE CONCERTS (under the direction of N. Vert), on Wednesday Evenings, February 5 and 19 and March 19, at 8.30, assisted by Miss Nellie Ridding (Violinist) and Miss Louie Löwe's Chorus and Orchestra. Mr. Alfred Gibson will conduct Handel's Motet "Silete Venti," which will be performed for the first time on February 5. Reserved seats, 5s.; unreserved seats, 1s. Tickets may be obtained of Miss Löwe, 92, Oxford Gardens, W.; and of the usual Agents.

WANTED, a Young Man as PART-MANAGER. Well up in sheet music, and can sell Pianos, and keep stock in order. Good character. Apply, C. F. H., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

SALESMAN (in Sheet and General Department) WANTED, at once (country). State age, wages, and what experience. W. H. R., Novello & Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

JUNIOR ASSISTANT WANTED. State what experience in sheet music, small goods, &c. W. H. R., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

TWO-MANUAL PIPE ORGAN, £150 (or payment arranged). 10 ft. high. Imposing speaking front. Manuals, CC to A; pedals, CCC to F. 18 stops. Splendid tone; perfect order. Stoneham, 52, Hazlewood Crescent, Westbourne Park Station, London. Appointments.

SCORING for ORCHESTRA, Arranging, Revising, Transposing, and Copying. Wm. Lane Frost, Avonley, Hatcham Park, London, S.E.

CONTENTS.

	Page
Dr. John Blow (with Special Portrait)	81
The Chapel Royal (with Portraits)	88
A Letter from Kiesewetter to Pearsall	93
Occasional Notes	95
Professor Niecks on Sonatas for the Violin and Pianoforte	98
Dr. E. F. Astley, J.P. (with Portrait)	99
The German Press on the 'Dream of Gerontius'	100
Shakespeare and Orlando Lassus	100
Church and Organ Music	101
Reviews	103
Royal Choral Society. 'The Blind Girl of Castél Cuillé'	113
The 'Dream of Gerontius' at Düsseldorf (with Portrait)	114
The Incorporated Society of Musicians	115
Reznicek's New Opera, 'Till Eulenspiegel," at Karlsruhe	116
London Concerts, &c.	116
Workington Music Competitions	117
Music in America	117
,, Vienna	117
,, Belfast	118
,, Birmingham	118
,, Bristol	119
,, East Anglia	119
,, Edinburgh	119
,, Glasgow	120
,, Gloucester and District	120
,, Liverpool and District	121
,, Manchester	121
,, Sheffield	121
,, Yorkshire	122
Foreign Notes	123
Obituary	102
Brief Summary of Country and Colonial News	124
Answers to Correspondents	125
Music published during the last Month	126
Anthem for Easter—'Unto the Paschal Victim bring.'—John E. West	105
Benedicite, omnia Opera.—C. Hylton Stewart.—(Extra Supplement).

TWO Extra Supplements are given with this number: (1) A Portrait of Dr. John Blow, by Closterman, reproduced by the kind permission of Dr. W. H. Cummings; (2) A setting of the Benedicite, omnia Opera, by the Rev. C. Hylton Stewart.

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	3	0
Three Lines	0	3	4
For every additional Line	0	0	10
Half a Column	2	0	0
A Column	4	0	0
A Page	7	10	0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.
A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To ensure insertion in proper position Advertisements for the next issue should reach the Office NOT LATER THAN THE NINETEENTH of this Month.

Just Published.

CHILDREN'S CORONATION SONG

("COME, RAISE WE NOW OUR VOICES")

In celebration of the Coronation of King Edward VII., June 26, 1902. Words and Music by the Rev. Canon Torrance, Mus. Doc., M.A.

Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.
Awarded the Prize at the recent competition in connection with "The School Music Review."

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

A GRAND PATRIOTIC SONG. "The Flag of Victory." Words and Music by Wm. Lane Frost. Net 1s. 4d. Post-free. From Composer, Avonley, Hatcham Park, London, S.E.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

PUBLISHED ON THE 1ST OF EVERY MONTH. Price 1½d. ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION, INCLUDING POSTAGE, 2s.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW FOR FEBRUARY CONTAINS:—

General Notes.
The Harmonization of Melodies in Four Vocal Parts. By Cuthbert Harris—(continued).
Mrs. Curwen on so-called Kindergarten Music Methods.
How to make Dresses for an Operetta—(illustrated).
Performances of "Princess Zara."
London Sunday School Choir Guild.
School Sight-Singing Reader—Both Notations.
Theory Questions.
Addresses on School Singing.
Incorporated Society of Musicians' Annual Conference.
Tonic Sol-fa Association Annual Meeting and Convention.
School Music in Gateshead.
Workington Music Competitions.
Answers to Theory Questions.
School Concerts.
Miscellaneous Items.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

THE FEBRUARY NUMBER CONTAINS THE FOLLOWING MUSIC:—
"Daddy Longlegs' Warning." Song and Chorus. By J. Frederick Bridge.
Two-part Studies.
Also, Extra Supplement, containing Children's Coronation Song ("Come, raise we now our voices." Words and Music by G. W Torrance. (No. 676 of Novello's School Songs. Price 1½d.)

The Music and Exercises can always be obtained separately. Price 1½d.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

FUNERAL ANTHEMS

SUNG AT THE

ROYAL COMMEMORATION SERVICE,

AT FROGMORE, January 22, 1902.

THE FACE OF DEATH

The Words by Alfred Tennyson

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

WALTER PARRATT.

Price Twopence.

HOW BLEST ARE THEY

The Words translated by W. J. Birkbeck

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

P. TSCHAÏKOWSKY

Price Fourpence.

HYMN SUNG AT THE

ROYAL CONFIRMATION SERVICE

At Windsor, January 23, 1902.

LORD OF GRACE AND HOLINESS

The Words written by A. C. Benson

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

H.R.H. PRINCESS HENRY OF BATTENBERG.

Price One Penny.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

COMPOSITIONS BY PERCY GODFREY.

SIX FOLK SONGS

Arranged for S.A.T.B., with Pianoforte Accompaniment.

The Poacher	1½d.
*The Oak and the Ash	1d.
Come, Lasses and Lads	2d.
*The livelong day I dream	1d.
*Santa Lucia	1d.
*To Alexis	1d.

Price, complete, Sixpence.

* Easy ad lib. Violin Part to the set of four, 6d.

THE DARKSOME NIGHT HAS COME. Part-Song, for S.A.T.B. Price 1½d. Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

1902.

CORONATION MARCH

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD GERMAN.

FULL SCORE. Price 3s. 6d.

Violin I.	6d.	Viola	6d.
Violin II.	6d.	Cello and Bass	6d.

Wind Parts .. .. 4s. 3d.
Pianoforte Solo .. 2s. 0d.

CORONATION MARCH

COMPOSED BY

PERCY PITT.

FULL SCORE (in the Press).

Violin I.	6d.	Viola	6d.
Violin II.	6d.	Cello and Bass	1s.

Wind Parts (in the Press).
Pianoforte Solo, 2s.

CORONATION MARCH

COMPOSED BY

HERBERT W. WAREING.

FULL SCORE, MS.
String Parts (in the Press).
Wind Parts (in the Press).
Pianoforte Arrangement (in the Press).
Organ Arrangement (in the Press).

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

TWENTY-FOUR

POPULAR MARCHES

FOR THE ORGAN

IN TWO VOLUMES.

VOLUME 1.

1.	Marche Triomphale	F. Archer.
2.	The Bride's March, from "Rebekah"	J. Barnby.
3.	Harvest Thanksgiving March	J. B. Calkin.
4.	March for a Church Festival	E. T. Driffield.
5.	Imperial March	E. Elgar.
6.	March to Calvary, from "The Redemption"	Ch. Gounod.
7.	Religious March	G. A. Macfarren.
8.	March, from "Abraham"	B. Molique.
9.	March in B flat	E. Silas.
10.	Festive March in D	H. Smart.
11.	March in G	B. Tours.
12.	March in D minor	Agnes Zimmermann.

VOLUME 2.

13.	March for a Church Festival	W. T. Best.
14.	Processional Wedding March	H. R. Bird.
15.	Festal March	J. B. Calkin.
16.	Solemn March, from "The Black Knight"	E. Elgar.
17	Festal March	G. Elvey.
18.	Marche Solennelle	Ch. Gounod.
19.	March, from "St. Polycarp"	F. A. G. Ouseley.
20.	March, with Pastoral Trio	B. L. Selby.
21.	March in G	H. Smart.
22.	Jubilant March	J. Stainer.
23.	March in F	J. H. Wallis.
24.	Commemoration March	John E. West.

Price, Paper, 4s. 6d. each. Cloth, 6s. 6d. each.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

A GENTLEMAN, high in the Musical Profession, who had many years' experience in the Pianoforte and Music Trade previous to entering the profession as a sole occupation, is willing, owing to the present depression, to TAKE CHARGE of the OUTPUT DEPARTMENT of a high-class BUSINESS in the country. Tuning and toning thoroughly understood. The advertiser has the honour to be able to give, as references, the principals of all the leading musical firms in London, at any time. Address, by letter, L., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

A GENTLEMAN, well educated, business experience, thorough musical education, good correspondent, seeks for PERMANENT BERTH (secretarial or otherwise). Musical firm preferred. If capital needed, state lowest amount. Address, A. R. C. O., Uno Advertising Co., 34, Gracechurch Street, E.C.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—ORGANISTS can PRACTISE on the Grand four-manual Organ by Willis (blown by hydraulic engines controlled from keyboard) in the Concert Hall of the Hampstead Conservatoire. The Hall is warmed by hot water. Specification of the organ, and terms of practice on application to the Secretary, Hampstead Conservatoire, Swiss Cottage, N.W.

N.B.—The Conservatoire is eight minutes by rail from Baker Street, Metropolitan Railway. Trains every ten minutes.

NEW ORGAN STUDIO, with Three-manual PIPE ORGAN, blown by water. Terms for Practice, 1s. per hour. At Smyth's Music Depôt, 54, London Road, Forest Hill, S.E.

ORGAN STUDIO.—3 manuals, C.O. pedals, 1s. hour. Willis, "Tower Organ Works," 2, Church Row, Aldgate, London, E.C. (Estd. 1827.) Musical Instruments and Fittings.

ORGAN for SALE. 3 manuals, 35 stops including couplers. By Nicholson. In perfect order, £550. Speer, Powyslea, St. Albans.

ORGAN.—Two manuals, pedals, 10 stops. Chamber or Church. Perfect. Almost new. Hydraulic engine included. MUST BE SOLD. Cost £160; price £90. VIRGIL CLAVIER, scarcely used, £9. Bradshaw, Mus. Doc., Scarborough.

THE temporary ORGAN, now in use at the Church of St. Peter, Eaton Square, originally built by Bevington, and recently restored by Lewis and Co., Ltd., for SALE. It can be erected immediately after Easter. Price £200.

Also, the ORGAN, formerly in the Parish Church, Harrow, by Gray and D'avidson, 20 stops, in handsome oak case. Price £250. Both can be seen and heard on application to Lewis and Co., Ltd., Organ Factory, Ferndale Road, Brixton, S.W.

ORGANS.—Two-manual, containing seventeen stops. Price £160. Small Three-manual, in good playing order. Price £150. Full particulars on application. Organist, 24, Endsleigh Gardens, Gordon Square, London, W.C.

TWO-MANUAL and PEDAL ORGANS, at Bargain Prices for Cash. A 160-guinea "Bell," 2 manuals and pedals, for 65 guineas; a £276 two-manual and pedal "Mason and Hamlin," 23 stops, 13 sets, 775 guineas; a three-manual and pedal ditto, 21 sets, 30 stops; a two-manual and pedal Harmonium, 18 stops, 12 sets, 28 guineas; a two-manual "Snell" Organ, 25 guineas. Also several large Organs and Harmoniums, by Estey, Bell, Karn, Alexandre, &c., at one-third usual price. Every instrument guaranteed. Packing or carriage free. Inspection invited. Messrs. Stagg and Sons, 56, Red Lion Street, Holborn.

FOR immediate DISPOSAL, a MUSTEL ORGAN, only recently purchased of Messrs. Maple and Co., Ltd., and having hardly been played on. Possesses effects unobtainable on the finest Church organs. Price 200 guineas; a little more than half the original cost. Apply to Mr. T. Gruber, 21, Old Broad Street, E.C.

FOR SALE, One-Manual CHAMBER ORGAN. 7 stops and pedals and two composition pedals. Foot blower. Polished mahogany case and gilt front pipes. In thorough good order. Small church or private house. A. F. B., 196, Camden Road, London, N.W.

ORGAN for SALE (New). 2 manuals, 12 stops. Bourdons and Pedals. Organs tuned and repaired. R. Cope, Organ Builder, 74, Asylum Road, Peckham, S.E.

ORGANS (New and Second-hand) for SALE. Various prices. Instruments built for Church or Chamber, from £50, on up-to-date principles, at Bedwell and Son's, Cambridge Organ Works, Cambridge.

9 GUINEAS.—AMERICAN ORGAN (list price, 20 guineas), 11 stops, including two knee-stops and the beautiful solo stops, voix celeste and vox humana; two octave couplers, handsome high case; in use about four months; ten years' warranty; easy terms arranged. Packing and carriage free. Approval. Full price paid will be allowed within three years if exchanged for a higher-class instrument. D'Almaine and Co. (established 117 years), 91, Finsbury Pavement, E.C. Open till 7. Saturdays, 3.

SPLENDID THREE-MANUAL ORGAN, 27 stops, entirely new, now in course of building, for SALE to suit Church or Chapel; also, two-manual Organ, 12 stops, all latest improvements. A three-manual second-hand Organ, in good condition. W. E. Richardson and Sons, Central Organ Works, Hulme, Manchester.

RELIABLE SECOND-HAND ORGANS for SALE. One, Two, and Three Manuals and Pedals. Prices from £45 to £500. Particulars on application. Gray and Davison, 6, Pratt Street, Camden Town, N.W. Organ Builders to Her late Majesty the Queen and H.R.H. Prince Consort. Established 1750.

MODERN-BUILT ORGANS for SALE.—Three Manuals (CC to G) and Pedals (CCC to F), 34 stops (open for inspection in London Church), £420. Three-manual and Pedal Chamber Organ. Height, 10 ft. 10 inches; part pneumatic. Open to offer. Two manuals and pedals, 15 stops, each, £175 and £150. One manual and pedals, 7 stops, £17. Inspection invited.

Eustace Ingram, Organ Builder,
Only Address, 361, Liverpool Road, London, N.

HANDSOME Two-Manual ORGAN for SALE. 9 stops. Radiating pedal-board (16-ft. Bourdon). £40. Room wanted. Sidney Dark, Triangle, Hackney Road, N.E.

WANTED, TWO-MANUAL PIPE ORGAN, with about 5 stops on each. Must be cheap. W. S., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGAN PEDALS to PIANOS.—New method of Attachment by TUBULAR PNEUMATIC. This action surpasses all mechanical actions for prompt and Organ-like Touch. It is less expensive, easier to attach, and does not injure the most delicate Pianoforte. Prospectus and price list free. Apply to Norman and Beard, Ltd., 11, Queen Victoria Street, E.C.

15 GUINEAS.—PIANO ("Empress" Model), solid iron-frame upright grand (list price, 35 guineas); full compass, full trichord, French check action, &c.; in handsomely carved walnut wood case, four feet two inches in height; in use only six months; sent on approval, carriage paid, to any part of the United Kingdom; ten years' warranty; easy terms arranged; full price paid will be allowed if exchanged for a higher-class instrument within three years. D'Almaine and Co. (established 117 years), 91, Finsbury Pavement, City. Open till 7. Saturdays, 3.

CONCERT GRAND PIANO by Collard and Collard, for SALE. Touch and tone guaranteed. Price 37 guineas. W. Mason, L.R.A.M., Hereford.

BROADWOOD small BOUDOIR GRAND PIANO.—Iron Frame; 7 Octaves. Tone, touch, and condition like new—a bargain. 38 guineas; cost 110 guineas. Can be seen at Mr. Fieldwick's, Organist of St. John's, Cromer House, Putney.

FOR SALE, Double-action HARP, by Erard. In good condition. Apply, J. E., Fircroft, Fleet, Hants.

DOUBLE-ACTION HARP, by Stumpff, for SALE. In excellent preservation. F. M. Salter, Downham Market.

OBOE, by Morton. Rosewood. Fine instrument. Reeds; case. Sacrifice, twelve guineas. Seen by appointment. H. Millner, 3, Truro Road, Wood Green, N.

FOR SALE.—VIOLONCELLO ($\frac{3}{4}$-size). Very good old instrument; suitable for young player. Bow and two cases. Lieut.-Colonel Haynes, 23, Osborne Rd., Newcastle-on-Tyne.

THE ST. CECILIA MUSIC PUBLISHING CO. are always open to buy suitable Manuscripts for Violin and Piano, and Piano only. 182, Wardour Street, Oxford Street, W.

ORGANISTS, &c.

RUMMENS'

Organ Pedal Attachment to Pianofortes

FOR HOME PRACTICE OF ORGAN MUSIC.

STRAIGHT AND CONCAVE, RADIATING AND CONCAVE, Or any other form of Pedal Board.

UNRIVALLED FOR TOUCH, APPEARANCE, DURABILITY, AND PRICE.

Sir John Stainer:—"I can confidently recommend it . . . nothing more valuable."

Sir Frederick Bridge: "I have tested it . . . successful . . . will give satisfaction."

Sir George Martin: "I think very highly of it . . . clever."

Dr. Frost: "Every organ student should have a set."

Similar Testimonials from the most distinguished Organists and Musicians.

Particulars free. Write or call.
1, WYNNE ROAD, BRIXTON, LONDON, S.W.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,
ORGAN BUILDERS,
PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.
(ESTABLISHED 1841.)
Specifications and Estimates sent free.

The Swanton £50 Challenge is still unaccepted. See current No. of Musical Opinion.

HUGH SWANTON.

THE LEADING EXPERT IN ORGAN BLOWING.

ELECTRIC BLOWING. | THE COMPOUND CENTRIFUGAL ORGAN BLOWER. | GAS ENGINE BLOWING.

This beautiful apparatus may now be inspected in actual operation at my Factory at Stepney (six minutes from City).

The Compound Centrifugal Organ Blower offers the ONLY SATISFACTORY SOLUTION for blowing an Organ by Electric Motor or Gas Engine. All other devices, including that abomination, the noisy and inefficient Fan, are completely superseded by this new and most ingenious invention.

It is self-controlled. Its speed is slow and constant. Its wind supply is automatic. It is almost noiseless. It takes small space. It simple. It is low in first cost. It is low in running cost.

79, WHITEHORSE STREET,
STEPNEY, LONDON, E.

Installations now in operation at—

St. Paul's Cathedral,	Dundalk Cathedral,
Norwich Cathedral,	Armidale Cathedral, N.S.W.,
Llandaff Cathedral,	Church House, Westminster, &c.

Installations now in hand for—

Dublin Cathedral,	Horsham,
Aachen (Germany),	London,
Betchworth,	Portmadoc,
Cheltenham,	Redhill,
Cork,	Stockport,
Edinburgh,	Weston-super-Mare.

THE OLD FIRM.

P. CONACHER & CO.,

Organ Builders,

SPRINGWOOD WORKS,

HUDDERSFIELD.

TWO GOLD MEDALS.

TO COMPOSERS.

MARRIOTT AND WILLIAMS,

MUSIC PUBLISHERS,

92, GREAT PORTLAND STREET, LONDON, W.,

Undertake the Revising, Engraving, and Publishing of Authors' Musical Works in the very Best Style and at the lowest charges. The Finest Paper used and the Best Workmanship in the trade. Estimates free on receipt of MSS. Composers' works included in list without extra charge.

PRIVATE ROOMS FOR PRACTICE AND TEACHING.
Lessons by competent Professors given in every branch of Music, Vocal and Instrumental.

Auction Rooms, specially for the Sale of Musical Property.

MESSRS. PUTTICK and SIMPSON, Auctioneers, 7, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights. Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

CHOIR EXCHANGE and MUSIC PUBLISHING AGENCY. Chief Office: 5, East 14th Street, New York. Church positions secured in the United States for Organists and Singers for May, 1902. Publication secured for Composers' Manuscripts. For terms, address, The John E. Webster Co.

ORCHESTRAL AGENCY—Leaders & Orchestras for Church, Concert, or Opera. Director: C. H. BRADBERRY, Principal 2nd Violin, St. Paul's Cathedral Festival Orchestra, late Royal Opera, &c. Address, Director, 71, Chester Terrace, Eaton Square, London, S.W.

TO CHORAL and ORCHESTRAL SOCIETIES.—Several CHORAL WORKS, PART-SONGS, and ORCHESTRAL WORKS for SALE. Applications for lists to Dr. Bunnett, Cathedral Close, Norwich.

FOR SALE.—BACK NUMBERS of "THE MUSICAL TIMES" (Jan. 1896 to Dec., 1901); also a large quantity of Classical Music. For list, apply to W. M. P., 4, Far Cross Bank, Kendal.

WHITE'S CATALOGUE of SECOND-HAND MUSIC (Ancient and Modern) includes a large number of Modern Pianoforte Trios, &c., Organ, Violin, Cello, Scores, &c. 2, Great Turnstile, Holborn, W.C.

PRIZES for MUSICAL COMPOSITIONS.—See The Musical Standard any week, price 2d. (yearly, 10s. 6d.; half-yearly, 5s. 5d.). Jan. 18 has 48. Song by F. L. Moir. Jan. 11 has large Picture of Chester Cathedral Organ. Jan. 4 has 8 Musical Portraits. Jan. 25 has Portrait of new Chapel Royal Organist. Office, 83, Charing Cross Road, London.

THE "MUSIC AND POETRY, ART, AND LANGUAGE SOCIETY"—New Monthly—offers to Composers, Poets, and Artists (who are subscribers) from ONE to FIVE GUINEAS for best Songs, Hymns, Poems, Sketches, etc.; and to students and pupils (subscribers) awards in the instructive courses.
Subscription: Year, 7s.; half-year, 4s.; three months, 2s. 6d. Write immediately for specimen copy of the monthly to W. H. Winter, the Secretary, 164, Marylebone Road, London, N.W.

TRANSPOSITION and TONALITY.—A very simple method to transpose music, to sing at sight (the easiest and most effective method in existence), to distinguish the key and the mode, &c., in French and in English. Second Edition. ("Very useful and clever."—Continental and English Press.) By J. E. FARCE. Price 9d., from all Musicsellers; or, 10d., by Post, from the Publisher, W. J. SEARLE, 111, King Street, Hammersmith, W., and 86, Goldhawk Road, Shepherd's Bush, W.

Now ready. Price 1s. each. Post-free.

THE TENOR VOICE AND ITS TRAINING. By E. DAVIDSON PALMER, Mus. Bac., Oxon. Revealing the Secret of Voice-Production. THE BOY'S VOICE AT THE BREAKING PERIOD. By E. DAVIDSON PALMER, Mus. Bac., Oxon. Showing how Nature develops her best Voices. May be obtained from the AUTHOR, 28, Digby Road, Finsbury Park, N.; or, from Joseph Williams, Ltd., 32, Great Portland Street, W.

MUSICAL OPINION (price 2d. everywhere).—Send 4d. for new number to 35, Shoe Lane, London, E.C. About 250 cols. interesting Reading and Advertisements. Founded 1876.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS. By A. B. ALLEN.
"Tom, the Piper's son." S.A.T.B. Price 3d.
"Dickory, dickory dock." S.A.T.B. Price 4d.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Fourth Thousand.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS in G. By ALFRED J. DYE. Price 4d.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

BENEDICITE, OMNIA OPERA. For Chorus and Organ. 3d. By J. T. FIELD. Specimen copy, with list of compositions, free. Montana, Blackheath, S.E.

Fourth Thousand.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in F. By ARTHUR CARNALL, Mus.B., Cantab. 4d. Sample copies, Penge, S.E.

Sixth Thousand.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat. By WILLIAM S. VINNING, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Price 3d.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

GILL'S EASY VOLUNTARIES. — "Messiah," "Judas," "Elijah," "St. Paul," "Creation." 1s. each book.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEW EASY and COMPLETE COMMUNION SERVICE in D. By FRANK ADLAM. Price 6d. NOVELLO & Co., Ltd., London. Written in same style and containing all the features which have made the Composer's famous Service in F so exceedingly popular.

AVE VERUM in G. By FRANK ADLAM. This beautiful Communio, sung for many years at St. Thomas's, Regent Street, is now published (Solo and short Chorus). Price 2d.
London: HART AND CO., Paternoster Row.

MISERERE (Ps. li.), by ALLEGRI. For four voices, with English words by Rev. H. A. WALKER. Price 6d.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

AVE MARIA.—BARITONE or CONTRALTO SOLO, by FREDERIC PENNA. Dedicated by permission to the Duke of Norfolk. Reduced price, 1s. 6d.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

ANTHEM ("Spes, Timor, Fiducia"), commencing "Tho' there be darkness," with English and Latin text, for Choral Societies or large Choirs. By Sir HERBERT OAKELEY. Op. 40. Vocal Score and Organ, octavo, 1s. London: SCHOTT & Co.; or, the COMPOSER, Dover, from whom words of his last seven Anthems may be had.

WINCHESTER'S CHURCH MUSIC.

FOR LENT.

	s.	d.
THE STORY OF THE CROSS (Words only, 1s. per 100) ...	0	1½
THE STORY OF THE CROSS. Another Setting, with five Metrical Litany Tunes	0	2
THE CROSS. Special Hymn for Lent (Words only, 1s. per 100)	0	2
BENEDICITE. Three Settings ... ... each	0	2
THE LITANY	0	2
SIX KYRIES, 2d.; Four others in D	0	1½
BENEDICTUS, 2d. (another, 1½d.); CANTATE DOMINO...	0	2
GREGORIANS: Venite, 1d.; Te Deum, 1½d.; Benedictus, 1½d.; Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, 2d.; Deus misereatur ...	0	1
VERSICLES, PRECES AND RESPONSES (minor key) ...	0	1
FERIAL RESPONSES	0	1½
ANTHEM—"Blessed is He that cometh" (Palm Sunday) ...	0	1½

FOR EASTER.

ANTHEM—"Hallelujah! Christ is risen"	0	3
ANTHEM—"I will give thanks"	0	4
ANTHEM—"The Lord is my Shepherd"	0	3
TE DEUM. Service in F	0	3
JUBILATE	0	1½
BENEDICTUS	0	2
COMMUNION SERVICE in F	0	4
AGNUS DEI, 1½d.; BENEDICTUS QUI VENIT ...	0	1½
TEN OFFERTORY SENTENCES. For S.A.T.B.	0	3
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS in F	0	3
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS in G	0	3
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS in B flat	0	3
GRAND FESTIVAL MARCH for ORGAN	1	6

LONDON: HART & CO., 22, PATERNOSTER ROW, E.C.

A GRAND EASTER ANTHEM.
(Or QUARTET, ad. lib.)

THE FIRST EASTER MORN

BY

JOSEPH H. ADAMS.

Old Notation and Tonic combined, price 3d.
THE ORPHEUS PUBLISHERS, Moorgate Arcade, London, E.C.

A SPLENDID LITTLE ANTHEM FOR EASTER.

CHRIST SHALL GIVE THEE LIGHT

COMPOSED BY

EDWYN A. CLARE.

11th 1,000. Price 3d.

Also the following favourite Anthems by the same Composer. Easy, attractive, and effective:—

THANKS BE TO GOD. 9th 1,000. Expressive and imitative ... 4d.
HE IS RISEN. 16th 1,000. WHY SEEK YE. 12th 1,000 ... each 3d.
HALLELUJAH! NOW IS CHRIST RISEN. 10th 1,000 ... ... 3d.
NOW IS CHRIST RISEN. 9th 1,000. 3d. BENEDICITE IN D. 4th 1,000 2d.
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN D. 13th 1,000 ... ... 4d.
(Sung at a Choral Festival in New S. Wales. A favourite Service.)
PRAISE THE LORD, O JERUSALEM. 25th 1,000 ... ... 3d.
(Quite easy, yet very attractive. Suitable for "Peace" Services.)
THE LORD REIGNETH. 7th 1,000. (Sol-fa, 2d.) ... ... 3d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

"All that an Easter Anthem should be."—Church Times.
"An attractive and effective composition."—Musical Times.
"A most devotional composition."—Newcastle Chronicle.

CHRIST IS RISEN. Easter Anthem, composed By E. A. SYDENHAM.
Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

By the same COMPOSER:
KING EDWARD. Processional Hymn. Price 1d.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

The Composer will send to Choirmasters (state what Church), and the Music Trade, Free Specimen Copies of his New and highly attractive Easter and Coronation Anthems, Anniversary Selection, &c. Address—CALEB SIMPER, "KILBIRNIE," BARNSTAPLE.

NEARLY 3,000,000 COPIES SOLD OF

CALEB SIMPER'S

FAMOUS ANTHEMS AND SERVICES, &c.

BESIDES

Hundreds of Thousands of his other Music.

NEW AND POPULAR EASTER ANTHEMS.

*FOR NOW IS CHRIST RISEN. New ... ... 4d.
A very effective and extremely brilliant Anthem.
*I AM THE RESURRECTION AND THE LIFE. New. 8th 1,000 ... 3d.
New Century Easter Anthem, with lively Choruses and telling Bass Solos.
*BLOW UP THE TRUMPET. 10th 1,000 ... ... 4d.
This Grand Easter Anthem is one of the finest of the Series.
*HE LIVETH UNTO GOD. 9th 1,000 ... ... 3d.
*THANKS BE TO GOD. 13th 1,000 ... ... 4d.
*IF YE THEN BE RISEN. 7th 1,000 ... ... 4d.
*O LET YOUR SONGS BE OF HIM. 12th 1,000 ... ... 3d.
*I AM ALIVE FOR EVERMORE. 13th 1,000 ... ... 4d.
*TO HIM BE GLORY. 11th 1,000 ... ... 3d.
*CHRIST OUR PASSOVER. 17th 1,000 ... ... 4d.
*THIS IS THE LORD'S DOING. 6th 1,000 ... ... 3d.
*KING OF KINGS. Very popular. 47th 1,000 ... ... 4d.
O SING UNTO THE LORD. 8th 1,000 ... ... 3d.
*I AM HE THAT LIVETH. Sung at Choral Festivals. 29th 1,000 4d.
*AWAKE THOU THAT SLEEPEST. 23rd 1,000 ... ... 3d.
CHRIST IS RISEN. 15th Edition ... ... 4d.
THE LORD IS MY STRENGTH. 16th 1,000 ... ... 3d.
IF WE BELIEVE THAT JESUS DIED. 19th 1,000 ... ... 3d.
HALLELUJAH! NOW IS CHRIST RISEN. 24th 1,000 ... ... 3d.
BEHOLD, THERE WAS A GREAT EARTHQUAKE. 21st 1,000 ... 3d.
WHY SEEK YE? 29th Edition ... ... 3d.
HE IS RISEN. Exceedingly popular. 101st Edition 3d

VERY POPULAR VOLUNTARY BOOKS.

Each contains Seventeen Pieces on Two Staves.
BOOK I. (11th Edition); BOOK II. (8th Edition). Each 1s. 6d. net.
BOOK III. (6th Edition), 1s. 6d. BOOK IV. (4th Edition).

THE ROLLING SEASONS

FAVOURITE SACRED CANTATA

Contains attractive Solos, Duets, Trios, and Choruses.
13th 1,000. 1s. 6d. net. Sol-fa, 1s. net.
Occupies about 35 minutes in performance. Band Parts printed.

SUNG AT NUMEROUS CHORAL FESTIVALS.

FAMOUS CHURCH SERVICES.

HOLY COMMUNION SERVICE IN E FLAT. 20th 1,000 ... ... 4d.
HOLY COMMUNION SERVICE IN F. 15th Edition ... ... 6d.
*HOLY COMMUNION SERVICE IN G. 9th 1,000 ... ... 4d.
*NEW COMMUNION SERVICE IN D. 2nd 1,000 ... ... 4d.
The Service in D and E flat may also be sung in Unison.
*NEW THANKSGIVING TE DEUM IN D. 5th 1,000 ... ... 4d.
FAMOUS TE DEUM IN F. 45th Edition ... ... 3d.
CELEBRATED TE DEUM IN G. 23rd Edition ... ... 4d.
POPULAR TE DEUM IN E FLAT. 13th Edition ... ... 3d.
SEVEN VERY POPULAR CHANT TE DEUMS ... ... 2d.
Nos. 1, 4, and 6—Quadruple. Others—Varied Chants.
Nos. 2 and 4—Kilbirnie Series, Chants and Kyries. Each 2d.
FAVOURITE BENEDICITE IN A FLAT (Sung Worcester Cathedral). 16th 1,000 2d.
*BENEDICITE IN B FLAT (Shortened Form). 5th 1,000 ... ... 2d.
POPULAR BENEDICITIES IN E FLAT AND F. 5th 1,000 ... each 2d.
NEW BENEDICITIES, No. 5 and No. 6. 9th 1,000 ... ... each 2d.
Both highly recommended and extremely effective.
JUBILATE IN E FLAT. 7th Edition ... ... 3d.
BENEDICTUS IN F. 5th 1,000 ... ... 3d.
KYRIES. 8 Settings, complete. 11th Edition ... ... 3d.
FAMOUS MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN F. 101st Edition 4d.
CELEBRATED MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN E FLAT. 37th Edition 4d
POPULAR MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN G. 14th Edition 4d.
RECENT MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN B FLAT. 4th 1,000 4d.
*FAVOURITE MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN D. 22nd Editn. 4d.
*UNISON MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS, No. 6. 14th Edition 4d.
*From the "Nativity." MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN C. 7th 1,000 4d.
*NEW EVENING SERVICE, No. 8. 4th Edition ... ... 4d.
*No. 1. CORONATION ANTHEM. "Grant the King a long life"... 4d.
No. 2. CORONATION ANTHEM. "Happy are the people" ... 3d.
*CORONATION ANNIVERSARY SELECTION, No. 8 ... ... 2d.

*Those marked * are also done in Sol-fa.*

London: WEEKES AND CO., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.
Chicago, U.S.A.: CLAYTON F. SUMMY CO., 220, Wabash Avenue.

MUSIC FOR LENT.

THE STORY OF THE CROSS

FOR VOICES AND ORGAN
FOUR SETTINGS
With Short Interludes, giving opportunity for Meditation
THE WORDS BY
THE REV. E. MONRO
SET TO MUSIC BY
J. STAINER
MYLES B. FOSTER
ARTHUR SOMERVELL
AND
J. VARLEY ROBERTS.

Price Threepence each setting. Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.
Words only, price 1s. 6d. per 100.
Large Type Edition, 2s. 6d. per 100.

HANES Y GROES

CYFEITHIEDIG GAN
CANON WILLIAMS (CAERFYRDDIN)
Y GERDDORIAETH GAN
SYR JOHN STAINER.

Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.
Welsh words only, 1s. 6d. per 100.
Large Type Edition, 2s. 6d. per 100.

THE CRUCIFIXION

A MEDITATION
ON THE
Sacred Passion of the Holy Redeemer
THE WORDS SELECTED AND WRITTEN BY THE
REV. W. J. SPARROW-SIMPSON, M.A.
SET TO MUSIC BY
J. STAINER.

Vocal Score, paper cover, 1s. 6d.; paper boards, 2s.
Tonic Sol-fa, Ninepence.
Words only, with Hymn Tunes, 2d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.
Words, complete, 10s. per 100; Words of Hymns, 5s. per 100.

THE LAST NIGHT AT BETHANY

A SHORT CHURCH CANTATA
THE WORDS WRITTEN AND COMPILED BY
JOSEPH BENNETT
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
C. LEE WILLIAMS.

Price 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d.
Tonic Sol-fa, One Shilling.
String Parts, 8s. 6d.; Wind Parts, 15s. 6d.; Full Score, MS.
Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

SAVIOUR OF THE WORLD

A SACRED CANTATA
THE WORDS WRITTEN AND ARRANGED FROM HOLY SCRIPTURE BY
FREDERIC E. WEATHERLY, M.A.
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
ARTHUR E. DYER,
Mus. Doc., Oxon.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

THE CROSS OF CHRIST

CANTATA FOR LENT AND PASSION-TIDE
WORDS SELECTED FROM THE HOLY SCRIPTURES, INTERSPERSED WITH APPROPRIATE HYMNS, BY
W. MAURICE ADAMS
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
THOMAS ADAMS
(Organist and Director of the Music at St. Alban's, Holborn).

Price One Shilling.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, price Sixpence.
Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

Also, separately from the above,

NEARER, MY GOD, TO THEE

Anthem for Soprano Solo and Chorus.
Price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.

GETHSEMANE

A CHURCH CANTATA
THE WORDS WRITTEN AND COMPILED BY
JOSEPH BENNETT
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
C. LEE WILLIAMS.

Price Two Shillings.
Paper boards, Two Shillings and Sixpence.
Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.
String Parts, 10s. 6d. Wind Parts and Full Score, MS.

IS IT NOTHING TO YOU

AN EASY CANTATA
For use during the Season of Lent, and on Good Friday, specially adapted for Country Choirs
BY THE
REV. E. V. HALL, M.A.

Price Eightpence. Tonic Sol-fa, Threepence.
Words, with Music to the Hymns, price Twopence.

PASSION MUSIC

FROM THE ORATORIO "ST. PETER"
BY
SIR JULIUS BENEDICT.

Vocal Score, One Shilling and Sixpence.

FOR GOOD FRIDAY.

PARAPHRASE
OF THE
ANIMA CHRISTI

"SOUL OF JESU, MAKE ME HOLY"
SET TO MUSIC BY
W. H. STOCKS.

Price Three-Halfpence.

LEAD, KINDLY LIGHT

HYMN BY
JOHN HENRY NEWMAN
THE TUNE COMPOSED BY
C. H. PURDAY.

Price One Penny.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

NOVELLO'S ANTHEMS FOR LENT.

*All ye who weep ... ... Ch. Gounod 3d.
And Jacob was left alone ... ... J. Stainer 6d.
*Art thou weary ... ... C. H. Lloyd 6d.
*As pants the hart ... ... Spohr 1½d.
Behold two blind men ... ... J. Stainer 3d.
Be merciful unto me ... ... H. Purcell 6d.
Be merciful unto me ... ... E. A. Sydenham 3d.
Be not Thou far from me, O God ... ... F. W. Hird 1½d.
Blessed are they that mourn ... ... A. W. Batson 3d.
Blessed Jesu, Fount of Mercy ... ... Anton Dvorák 6d.
*Bow down Thine ear ... ... Attwood 1½d.
*Bow down Thine ear, O Lord ... ... W. Beale 1½d.
*Bow Thine ear, O Lord ... ... W. Byrd 3d.
*By Babylon's wave ... ... Ch. Gounod 6d.
By the waters of Babylon ... ... W. Boyce 4d.
By the waters of Babylon ... ... H. Clarke 4d.
*By the waters of Babylon ... ... S. Coleridge-Taylor 3d.
Call to remembrance ... ... J. Battishill 6d.
*Call to remembrance ... ... R. Farrant 1½d.
*Cast thy burden upon the Lord ... ... Mendelssohn 1½d.
*Come, and let us return (Two-part Anthem) G. A. Macfarren 2d.
*Come, and let us return ... ... J. Goss 3d.
*Come, and let us return ... ... W. Jackson 3d.
Come, let us worship ... ... Palestrina 1½d.
*Come now, and let us reason together ... ... R. Briant 1½d.
Come now, let us reason together ... ... H. W. Wareing 4d.
*Come unto Him ... ... Ch. Gounod 2d.
Come unto Me ... ... S. S. Wesley 3d.
Come unto Me ... ... H. R. Couldrey 3d.
Come unto Me ... ... G. J. Elvey 3d.
Come unto Me ... ... H. Hiles 2d.
Come unto Me ... ... M. Kingston 1½d.
Come unto Me ... ... J. S. Smith 1½d.
*Comfort, O Lord ... ... W. Crotch 1½d.
Comfort the soul of Thy servant (A.T.T.B.) ... ... J. E. West 4d.
Create in me a clean heart ... ... Percy J. Fry 3d.
Daughters of Jerusalem ... ... G. J. Elvey 1½d.
Daughters of Jerusalem ... ... H. J. King 3d.
*Enter not into judgment ... ... T. Attwood 1½d.
Flee from evil ... ... W. J. Clarke 3d.
For our offences ... ... Mendelssohn 1½d.
From the deep ... ... Spohr 6d.
Give ear, O Lord ... ... C. Oberthür 1½d.
*Give ear, O Lord ... ... T. M. Pattison 2d.
Give ear, O Shepherd of Israel ... ... A. Whiting 3d.
Give ear unto my prayer ... ... J. Arcadelt 1½d.
God's Peace is peace eternal ... ... Grieg 3d.
*God so loved the world ... ... J. Goss 1½d.
*God so loved the world ... ... M. Kingston 1½d.
*God so loved the world ... ... J. V. Roberts 3d.
*God so loved the world ... ... J. Stainer 1½d.
Grant, we beseech Thee ... ... J. Booth 1½d.
Grant, we beseech Thee ... ... M. Elvey 2d.
Grant, we beseech Thee ... ... J. V. Roberts 3d.
Have mercy upon me, O God ... ... J. Goss 4d.
Have mercy upon me ... ... J. Barnby 3d.
Have mercy upon me ... ... K. J. Pye 3d.
Have mercy upon me ... ... J. Shaw 3d.
Have mercy upon me ... ... J. White 1½d.
*Hear me when I call ... ... King Hall 1½d.
Hear me when I call (A.T.T.B.) ... ... T. Distin 2d.
*Hear my prayer ... ... J. Kent 3d.
*Hear my prayer ... ... Mendelssohn 4d.
Hear my prayer ... ... C. Stroud 4d.
Hear my prayer ... ... Spohr 1½d.
Hear, O Lord ... ... J. Goss 2d.
Hear, O Thou Shepherd ... ... J. Clarke-Whitfeld 4d.
Hear, O Thou Shepherd ... ... T. A. Walmisley 4d.
*Hear the voice and prayer ... ... J. L. Hopkins 1½d.
Hear us, O Saviour ... ... M. Hauptmann 1½d.
He in tears that soweth ... ... F. Hiller 1½d.
Hide not Thy Face ... ... K. J. Pye 2d.
How long wilt Thou ... ... Oliver King 2d.
*Hymn of Peace ... ... W. H. Callcott 1½d.
*I came not to call the righteous ... ... C. Vincent 3d.
If any man sin ... ... H. Hiles 1½d.
*Incline Thine ear ... ... Himmel 1½d.
In Thee, O Lord ... ... S. Coleridge-Taylor 3d.
*In Thee, O Lord ... ... B. Tours 3d.
In Thee, O Lord ... ... J. Weldon 3d.
*Is it nothing to you? (S.A.T.B.) ... ... M. B. Foster 3d.
*Is it nothing to you? (for S.A.) ... ... M. B. Foster 3d.
I will arise ... ... C. Wood 1½d.
I will cry unto God ... ... C. Steggall 2d.
*I will look unto the Lord (Two-part Anthem G. A. Macfarren 2d.
*I wrestle and pray ... ... J. C. Bach 4d.
Jesus of Nazareth (Turbarum voces) ... ... W. Byrd 4d.
*Jesu, Blessed Word of God ... ... Ch. Gounod 1½d.
Jesu, Lord of life and glory ... ... G. A. Naumann 1½d.
Jesu, Saviour, I am Thine ... ... B. Steane 1½d.
*Jesu, Word of God Gounod, Hoyte, Mozart, and White each 1½d.
*Judge me, O God ... ... Mendelssohn 4d.
Judge me, O God ... ... F. A. G. Ouseley 1½d.
Lead, kindly Light ... ... R. Dunstan 3d.
Lead, kindly Light ... ... C. L. Naylor 4d.
*Lead, kindly Light ... ... Pughe-Evans 3d.
*Lead, kindly Light ... ... J. Stainer 4d.
*Lead me, Lord ... ... S. S. Wesley 1½d.
Let my complaint (A.A.T.T.B.B.) ... ... E. H. Thorne 3d.
Let the words of my mouth ... ... J. Barnby 1½d.
Let the words of my mouth ... ... H. Blair 1½d.
Let the words of my mouth ... ... A. D. Culley 3d.
Let us come boldly ... ... C. H. Lloyd 1½d.
Like as the hart ... ... T. Adams 3d.
*Like as the hart ... ... W. Novello 1½d.
*Lord, for Thy tender mercies' sake ... ... R. Farrant 1½d.
Lord, for Thy tender mercies' sake ... ... G. R. Vicars 1½d.
Lord, how are they increased ... ... Kent 2d.
Lord, how long wilt Thou forget me ... ... Mendelssohn 1½d.
Lord, I call upon Thee Ouseley, West, and Culley... each 1½d.
Lord, on our offences ... ... Mendelssohn 1½d.
Lord, teach us to number our days (A.A.T.T.B.B.) C. H. Lloyd 3d.
Lord, Thou hast searched ... ... A. Whiting 3d.
Make me a clean heart ... ... J. Barnby 3d.
Make me a clean heart ... ... A. W. Batson 3d.
Mine eyes look unto Thee, O Lord God ... ... H. Baker 3d.
My God, I love Thee ... ... G. J. Bennett 3d.
My God, look upon me ... ... J. L. Hopkins 3d.
*My God, look upon me ... ... J. Reynolds 1½d.
My soul is weary ... ... J. C. Beckwith 4d.
*O bountiful Jesu ... ... J. Stainer 1½d.
O come near to the Cross ... ... Ch. Gounod 8d.
O day of penitence ... ... Ch. Gounod 6d.
O God, Thou hast cast us out ... ... H. Purcell 4d.
O God, Whose nature ... ... A. Gray 1½d.
O have mercy ... ... H. Leslie 1½d.
O Jesu! Victim blest ... ... J. B. Powell 3d.
O Lamb of God ... ... J. Barnby 3d.
O Lamb of God ... ... G. E. Lake 1½d.
*O Lord, correct me ... ... J. Coward 1½d.
O Lord, give ear ... ... W. H. Cummings 2d.
O Lord, God of my salvation (T.T.B.B.) ... ... E. Ford 4d.
O Lord God, Thou strength ... ... J. Goss 1½d.
O Lord, look down ... ... J. Battishill 3d.
*O Lord my God ... ... C. Malan 1½d.
*O Lord my God ... ... S. S. Wesley 1½d.
O Lord, rebuke me not ... ... H. Lahee 1½d.
O most merciful ... ... J. W. Elliott 1½d.
O saving Victim ... ... W. A. C. Cruickshank 3d.
O saving Victim ... ... Ch. Gounod 4d.
*O saving Victim ... ... F. Keenig 1½d.
O saving Victim ... ... Rossini 3d.
*O saving Victim ... ... J. Stainer 2d.
O saving Victim ... ... B. Tours 1½d.
*O Saviour of the world ... ... J. Goss 1½d.
O Saviour of the world (A.T.T.B.) ... ... J. V. Roberts 2d.
Out of the deep ... ... F. E. Gladstone 3d.
Out of the deep ... ... G. C. Martin 6d.
Out of the deep ... ... Mozart 1½d.
Out of the deep ... ... J. Naylor 4d.
Out of the deep ... ... H. Walford Davies 4d.
*O ye that love the Lord ... ... S. Coleridge-Taylor 1½d.
O ye that love the Lord ... ... F. A. W. Docker 4d.
O ye that love the Lord ... ... J. W. Elliott 1½d.
O ye that love the Lord ... ... G. J. Elvey 4d.
O ye that love the Lord ... ... H. W. Wareing 3d.
Ponder my words, O Lord ... ... A. D. Culley 1½d.
*Remember not, Lord ... ... H. Purcell 1½d.
*Remember now thy Creator ... ... C. Steggall 4d.
Remember, O Lord ... ... T. A. Walmisley 4d.
*Rend your heart ... ... J. B. Calkin 1½d.
Rend your heart ... ... J. Clippingdale 3d.
Rend your heart (Turn ye even to Me) ... A. E. Godfrey 4d.
Save me, O God ... ... C. S. Jekyll 1½d.
*Seek ye the Lord ... ... Bradley 1½d.
Seek ye the Lord ... ... H. Kinsey 3d.
*Seek ye the Lord ... ... J. V. Roberts 3d.
Show me Thy ways ... ... J. V. Roberts 3d.
Spare us, Lord, most holy ... ... E. A. Sydenham 1½d.
*Teach me, O Lord ... ... T. Attwood 1½d.
*Teach me, O Lord ... ... B. Rogers 1½d.
Teach me Thy way ... ... W. H. Gladstone 1½d.
Teach me Thy way, O Lord ... ... Spohr 1½d.
*The Lord is nigh ... ... W. H. Cummings 1½d.
*The path of the just ... ... J. V. Roberts 1½d.
*There is a green hill far away ... ... Ch. Gounod 4d.
*There is a green hill far away ... ... Lord H. Somerset 1½d.
*The Reproaches (from the "Redemption") ... Ch. Gounod 3d.
*The sacrifice of God ... ... H. W. Wareing 1½d.
The sacrifices of God ... ... H. Blair 1½d.
*The Story of the Cross Stainer, Somervell, Foster, and Roberts ... ... each 3d.
Think, good Jesu ... ... Mozart 6d.
Think not that they are blest alone ... ... F. Brandeis 2d.
*Through peace to light ... ... J. H. Roberts 3d.
Thus saith the Lord ... ... G. M. Garrett 6d.
Try me, O God (A.T.T.B.) ... ... A. D. Culley 2d.
Try me, O God ... ... C. Wood 1½d.
Turbarum voces (Jesus of Nazareth)... ... W. Byrd 4d.
Turn Thee again, O Lord ... ... T. Attwood 1½d.
*Turn Thy face from my sins ... ... T. Attwood 1½d.
Turn Thy face from my sins ... ... C. Steggall 4d.
*Turn Thy face from my sins ... ... A. Sullivan 1½d.
Turn ye even to Me (Rend your heart) ... A. E. Godfrey 4d.
Unto Thee have I cried ... ... G. J. Elvey 3d.
Wash me throughly ... ... S. S. Wesley 3d.
Watch ye and pray ... ... G. R. Vicars 2d.
*Weary of earth ... ... Ferris Tozer 1½d.
Whom the Lord loveth ... ... C. Macpherson 3d.
Why art thou so vexed ... ... C. Macpherson 2d.
Word of God Incarnate ... ... Ch. Gounod 3d.
Ye who from His ways have turned ... ... Mendelssohn 3d.

*Anthems marked thus * to be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d., 1½d., and 2d. each.*

MUSIC FOR LENT.

*THE PASSION OF OUR LORD. (According to St. Matthew.) J. S. BACH. Octavo, paper cover, 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.

*THE PASSION OF OUR LORD. (According to St. Matthew.) J. S. BACH. Abridged, as used at St. Paul's Cathedral. Octavo, 1s. 6d. Book of Words, with Music to the Chorales, 6d.

*THE PASSION OF OUR LORD. (According to St. John.) J. S. BACH. Octavo, paper cover, 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 4s.

*THE PASSION OF CHRIST. G. F. HANDEL. Octavo, 3s.; paper boards, 3s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 5s.

*THE PASSION OF OUR LORD. (The Seven Words of Our Saviour on the Cross.) J. HAYDN. Octavo 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 4s.

THE PASSION OF OUR LORD. (The Seven Words of Our Saviour on the Cross.) CH. GOUNOD. Octavo, 1s.

*THE PASSION OF OUR LORD. ("Der Tod Jesu.") C. H. GRAUN. Octavo, 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 4s.

THE PASSION OF OUR LORD. HEINRICH SCHÜTZ. Octavo, 1s.

*PASSION MUSIC (from the Oratorio "St. Peter"). By SIR JULIUS BENEDICT. Vocal Score, 1s. 6d.

*OUT OF DARKNESS. (Psalm cxxx.) For Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra. GEORGE HENSCHEL (Op. 30). 2s. 6d.

OUT OF DARKNESS (De Profundis). (Psalm cxxx.) For Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra. Composed by CH. GOUNOD. English or Latin words. Octavo, 1s.; paper boards, 1s. 6d.; Full Score, 15s.; String Parts, 4s. 6d.; Wind Parts, 7s.; Vocal Parts, 3s.

*ZION'S WAYS DO LANGUISH. Soprano Solo and Chorus, from "Gallia" (Motet). CH. GOUNOD. Octavo, 1s.

THE MISERERE, &c., as used in St. Paul's Cathedral Lenten Services. Arranged by J. STAINER. Octavo, 3d.

MISERERE MEI, DEUS. The Music composed by J. BARNBY. Octavo, 3d.

MISERERE MEI, DEUS. Set to the well-known Ancient Chant, as arranged and harmonised by VINCENT NOVELLO; from the Appendix to the Accompanying Harmonies to the Brief Directory of Plain-song, by the Rev. THOMAS HELMORE, M.A. Price 2d.

MISERERE MEI, DEUS. (Chant setting.) The Music composed by EDGAR PETTMAN. Price 1½d.

*Orchestral Parts of the works marked * can be had.*

THE BENEDICITE

SET TO MUSIC BY THE FOLLOWING

MODERN COMPOSERS.

E. C. BAIRSTOW (on the plan of the Paragraph Psalter) ...	3d.
GEORGE J. BENNETT (in E flat)	1½d.
GEORGE J. BENNETT (in G)	1½d.
GEORGE J. BENNETT (in D)	3d.
W. T. BEST (in C). (Sol-fa, 1½d.)	3d.
HUGH BLAIR (in G)	1½d.
J. F. BRIDGE, JAMES TURLE, and Dr. HAYES	1½d.
H. B. C.	1½d.
J. W. ELLIOTT (in G)	2d.
J. W. ELLIOTT (in G)	4d.
M. B. ELLIOTT (in G)	1½d.
R. B. ELLIOTT (in G)	1½d.
ALFRED J. EYRE (in E flat). (With a Quadruple Chant for the Te Deum)	2d.
ALFRED J. EYRE (No. 2, in F)	1½d.
MYLES B. FOSTER (in F, Chant Form)	4d.
PERCY H. FROST (in D)	2d.
HENRY GADSBY (in G, Chant Form)	1½d.
C. R. GALE (in D)	1½d.
F. E. GLADSTONE (Chant Form)	3d.
F. E. GLADSTONE (Unison)	1½d.
A. E. GODFREY (in C)...	3d.
A. E. GODFREY (No. 2, in G)	3d.
F. A. J. HERVEY (in A flat). From the Canticles (second set)	1½d.
W. HUGHES (in E flat)	1½d.
FREDERICK ILIFFE (No. 1, in E flat)	1½d.
E. H. LEMARE (in B flat)	3d.
C. HARFORD LLOYD...	2d.
G. C. MARTIN (No. 1, in F; No. 2, in E flat; No. 3, in G) each	4d.
T. R. MATTHEWS (in E flat)	1½d.
C. E. MILLER (second setting)	2d.
EDGAR PETTMAN (No. 1, in C; No. 2, set to Double Chants)	2d.
EDGAR PETTMAN (in E flat)	1½d.
J. VARLEY ROBERTS (in B flat)	4d.
BOYTON SMITH (in A flat)	1½d.
CHAS. W. SMITH (in C). S.A.T.T.B., also simplified for S.A.T.B.	6d.
J. STAINER and B. BLAXLAND	1½d.
J. STAINER, R. DE LACY, A. GIBBS, and F. CHAMPNEYS ...	1½d.
J. STAINER, W. WINN, and F. WALKER	1½d.
J. STAINER (in D). From the Canticles (second set)	1½d.
C. HYLTON STEWART (on the plan of the Paragraph Psalter)	3d.
J. BARNBY	1½d.
JOHN FOSTER
MONTEM SMITH (two settings)
J. TURLE (two settings)
C. A. WICKES (two settings)
JOHN E. WEST (in G)	4d.
JOHN E. WEST (in C)	1½d.
W. G. WOOD (in D)	1½d.
G. F. WRIGLEY (in G)	1½d.

MUSIC FOR EASTER.

HYMNS FOR EASTER.

J. BARNBY. CHRIST THE LORD IS RISEN TO-DAY	1½d.
J. LIONEL BENNETT. LIFT HIGH THE CROSS ... ... (Words, 2/- per 100.)	3d.
W. T. BEST. JESUS CHRIST IS RISEN	3d.
J. B. CALKIN. LIGHT'S GLITT'RING MORN BEDECKS	1½d.
H. J. GAUNTLETT. UNTO THE PASCHAL VICTIM	1½d.
DR. IONS. JESUS CHRIST IS RISEN TO-DAY	1½d.
MENDELSSOHN. ALL BLESSING, HONOUR, GLORY, MIGHT. (Arranged by J. STAINER) (Words, 2/6 per 100)	1d.
V. NOVELLO. JESUS CHRIST IS RISEN TO-DAY	1½d.

NINE HYMNS WITH TUNES FROM "THE HYMNARY" ... 1d.

Christ the Lord is risen to-day	G. J. Elvey.
Far be sorrow, tears, and sighing	C. Steggall.
Welcome, happy morning! age to age shall say	A. Sullivan.
Come, ye faithful, raise the strain	A. Sullivan.
At the Lamb's high feast we sing	German.
The day of Resurrection	H. Smart.
Jesus Christ is risen to-day	Ch. Gounod.
O Blessed Trinity	Old Melody.
Soon the fiery sun ascending	German.

J. STAINER. THIS IS THE DAY (Words, 2s. 6d. per 100.) ... 1d.

EASTER HYMN.

(MANE PRIMA SABBATI)

SET TO MUSIC FOR

SOPRANO AND TENOR SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA (OR ORGAN)

By GEORGE J. BENNETT.

Composed for the Festival of the Sons of the Clergy, St. Paul's Cathedral, 1895.

Price One Shilling.
Orchestral Parts, MS.

CAROLS FOR EASTER.

REV. T. HELMORE. CAROLS FOR EASTER-TIDE. Words, 1½d. Melody, 6d. ... ... Vocal score 1s.

J. T. FIELD. FOUR EASTER CAROLS ... ... 2d.

The Crown is on the Victor's brow.
Christ is risen!
Welcome, happy morning.
Easter flowers are blooming bright.

E. G. MONK. SING THE BATTLE SHARP AND GLORIOUS. Carol 1½d.

EASTER ANTHEMS.

JUST PUBLISHED.

UNTO THE PASCHAL VICTIM BRING. By JOHN E. WEST. Price, 1½d.; Sol-fa, 1½d.

IN THE PRESS.

ALLELUIA! THE LORD LIVETH. By CUTHBERT HARRIS. Price 3d.; Sol-fa 1½d.

THE LORD OMNIPOTENT REIGNETH. By THOMAS ADAMS. Price 3d.; Sol-fa, 1½d.

NOW DAWNING GLOWS THE DAY OF DAYS. By DAVID STANLEY SMITH. Price 3d.; Sol-fa, 1½d.

O DEATH WHERE IS THY STING. By ALFRED HOLLINS.

Above all praise and all majesty	...	...	Mendelssohn	1½d.	*Lo, the winter is past	...	B. Farebrother	3d.
*Alleluia! now is Christ risen	...	...	T. Adams	3d.	Lo, the winter is past	...	H. Gadsby	3d.
*Alleluia! the Lord liveth	...	...	Cuthbert Harris	3d.	Magnify His Name	...	G. C. Martin	4d.
*All men, all things	...	...	Mendelssohn	4d.	My beloved spake	...	H. Purcell	6d.
As Christ was raised	...	...	G. A. Macfarren	2d.	My heart is fixed, O God	...	W. A. C. Cruickshank	4d.
*As it began to dawn	...	...	M. B. Foster	1½d.	My heart was glad	...	A. Carnall	4d.
As it began to dawn	...	...	C. Vincent	3d.	Not unto us, O Lord	...	H. Gadsby	6d.
*As Moses lifted up the serpent	...	...	F. Gostelow	3d.	*Not unto us, O Lord	...	T. A. Walmisley	1½d.
As we have borne	...	...	J. Barnby	1½d.	Not unto us, O Lord	...	J. E. West	4d.
At the Lamb's high feast	...	...	E. V. Hall	3d.	*Now dawning glows the day of days	...	David Stanley Smith	3d.
At the Sepulchre	...	...	H. W. Wareing	4d.	*Now is Christ risen	...	G. B. Allen	1½d.
*Awake, awake, with holy rapture sing	...		John E. West	3d.	*Now is Christ risen	...	J. E. West	1½d.
*Awake, thou that sleepest	...	...	J. Stainer	6d.	*Now late on the Sabbath day	...	S. Coleridge-Taylor	3d.
*Awake up, my glory	...	...	J. Barnby	1½d.	*Now on the first day of the week	...	H. Lahee	1½d.
Awake up, my glory	...	...	B. Haynes	1½d.	O clap your hands	...	M. Greene	4d.
Awake up, my glory	...	...	F. Iliffe	2d.	*O clap your hands	...	J. Stainer	6d.
Awake up, my glory	...	...	M. Wise	3d.	O clap your hands (S.S.A.)	...	E. H. Thorne	6d.
*Be glad, O ye righteous	...	...	H. Smart	4d.	O clap your hands	...	T. T. Trimnell	3d.
*Behold, the Angel of the Lord	...	...	B. Tours	1½d.	*O come, let us sing	...	M. B. Foster	3d.
*Behold the Lamb—All glory to the Lamb	...	...	Spohr	1½d.	*O death, where is thy sting	...	Alfred Hollins
*Blessed be the God and Father	...	...	S. S. Wesley	4d.	*O give thanks	...	J. Goss	3d.
*Blessed be Thou	...	...	Kent	1½d.	O give thanks	...	S. S. Wesley	4d.
Blessing and glory	...	...	Boyce	1½d.	O give thanks to the Lord	...	H. J. King	3d.
*Blessing, glory	...	...	B. Tours	4d.	*O voice of the Beloved	...	Henry John King	3d.
*Break forth into joy	...	...	J. Barnby	1½d.	*On the first day of the week	...	E. M. Lott	1½d.
*Break forth into joy	...	...	T. R. Prentice	6d.	*Open to me the gates	...	F. Adlam	4d.
*Break forth into joy	...	...	B. Steane	3d.	*Praise His awful Name	...	Spohr	2d.
*Christ being raised from the dead	...	...	G. J. Elvey	1½d.	Praise Jehovah	...	Mendelssohn	4d.
Christ being raised from the dead	...	...	S. Webbe	1½d.	Praise the Lord, ye servants	...	B. Steane	3d.
Christ both died and rose	...	...	E. W. Naylor	3d.	*Rejoice in the Lord	...	J. B. Calkin	3d.
Christ is risen	...	...	G. B. J. Aitken	3d.	*Rejoice in the Lord	...	G. J. Elvey	1½d.
Christ is risen	...	...	J. M. Crament	3d.	Rejoice in the Lord	...	G. C. Martin	6d.
*Christ is risen	...	...	G. J. Elvey	1½d.	Rejoice, O ye people	...	Mendelssohn	1½d.
Christ is risen	...	...	C. W. Jordan	4d.	*Sing praises unto the Lord	...	W. A. C. Cruickshank	1½d.
*Christ is risen	...	...	E. H. Thorne	1½d.	*Sing praises unto the Lord	...	Ch. Gounod	6d.
*Christ is risen	...	...	J. V. Roberts	3d.	Sing to the Lord	...	Mendelssohn	8d.
*Christ our Passover	...	...	J. Goss	1½d.	Ten thousand times ten thousand	...	Ferris Tozer	4d.
*Christ our Passover	...	...	E. V. Hall	3d.	Thanks be to God	...	J. W. Gritton	3d.
Christ our Passover	...	...	G. A. Macfarren	2d.	Thanks be to God	...	Oliver King	3d.
*Christ our Passover	...	...	B. Tours	1½d.	The Day of Resurrection	...	E. V. Hall	3d.
*Christ the Lord is risen to-day	...	...	E. V. Hall	3d.	*The end of the Sabbath	...	A. Carnall	1½d.
Come, ye faithful	...	...	E. V. Hall	3d.	*The first day of the week	...	B. Steane	3d.
Far be sorrow, tears and sighing	...	...	E. V. Hall	3d.	The Lord hath brought us	...	E. H. Thorne	3d.
For it became Him	...	...	Oliver King	1½d.	The Lord hath done great things	...	H. Smart	4d.
For us the Christ	...	...	Ch. Gounod	3d.	*The Lord is King	...	J. Pittman	1½d.
*From Thy love as a Father	...	...	Ch. Gounod	1½d.	*The Lord is King	...	T. T. Trimnell	4d.
Give thanks unto God	...	...	Spohr	4d.	The Lord is my strength	...	S. Coleridge-Taylor	3d.
*God hath appointed a day	...	...	B. Tours	1½d.	*The Lord is my strength	...	W. H. Monk	1½d.
God, Who is rich in mercy	...	...	G. M. Garrett	1½d.	*The Lord is my strength	...	V. Novello	1½d.
*Great is the Lord	...	...	Hayes	4d.	*The Lord is my strength	...	H. Smart	1½d.
*Hallelujah!	...	...	Handel	2d.	*The Lord is risen	...	G. M. Garrett	4d.
Hallelujah! Christ is risen	...	...	B. Steane	3d.	*The Lord liveth	...	A. W. Marchant	3d.
*Hearken unto Me	...	...	M. B. Foster	1½d.	*The Lord omnipotent reigneth	...	Thomas Adams	3d.
*He is risen	...	...	H. Gadsby	1½d.	*The strain upraise	...	A. Sullivan	1½d.
*He shall swallow up Death in Victory	...		F. R. Greenish	3d.	*The strife is o'er, the battle done	...	B. Luard Selby	1½d.
I am He that liveth	...	...	T. Adams	4d.	*The strife is o'er	...	B. Steane	1½d.
*I am the Resurrection	...	...	Roland Rogers	4d.	*They have taken away my Lord	...	J. Stainer	1½d.
I declare to you the Gospel	...	...	W. A. C. Cruickshank	4d.	*This is the day	...	S. C. Cooke	3d.
*If we believe that Jesus died	...	...	J. Goss	1½d.	*This is the day	...	E. V. Hall	4d.
If we believe that Jesus died	...	...	G. A. Macfarren	2d.	*This is the day	...	E. H. Lemare	4d.
If ye then be risen with Christ	...	...	M. B. Foster	3d.	This is the day	...	G. A. Macfarren	2d.
If ye then be risen with Christ	...	...	J. Naylor	3d.	This is the day	...	A. W. Marchant	3d.
*If ye then be risen with Christ	...	...	H. M. Higgs	1½d.	*This is the day	...	J. Sewell	2d.
*I heard a great voice	...	...	G. F. Cobb	3d.	This is the day	...	J. Turle	3d.
*I will alway give thanks	...	...	J. B. Calkin	1½d.	'Tis the spring of souls to-day (Cantata)	...	E. H. Lemare	1s.
*I will alway give thanks	...	...	J. Clarke-Whitfeld	3d.	*Unto the Paschal victim bring	...	John E. West	1½d.
I will extol Thee	...	...	C. M. Hudson	4d.	When Christ, Who is our life, shall appear		J. V. Roberts	2d.
*I will go unto the Altar of God	...	...	C. Harris	3d.	When my soul fainted within me	...	J. F. Bridge	1½d.
I will greatly rejoice	...	...	W. A. C. Cruickshank	4d.	*When the Sabbath was past	...	M. B. Foster	1½d.
I will love Thee, O Lord	...	...	M. Kingston	4d.	*Who is like unto Thee?	...	A. Sullivan	6d.
*I will magnify Thee	...	...	J. B. Calkin	4d.	Who shall roll us away the stone	...	G. W. Torrance	1½d.
I will magnify Thee	...	...	B. J. Selby	1½d.	*Why rage fiercely the heathen?	...	Mendelssohn	6d.
*I will mention	...	...	A. Sullivan	6d.	*Why seek ye the living?	...	A. Alexander	3d.
I will sing of Thy power	...	...	M. Greene	4d.	Why seek ye the living? (Two-part)	...	M. B. Foster	3d.
*I will sing of Thy power	...	...	A. Sullivan	1½d.	Why seek ye the living?	...	E. J. Hopkins	1½d.
Jesus Christ is risen to-day	...	...	Oliver King	4d.	*Why seek ye the living?	...	F. Peel	4d.
Let God arise	...	...	M. Greene	6d.	Worthy the Lamb—Hallelujah!	...	Crotch	3d.
Lord, before Thy footstool bending	...	...	Spohr	3d.	*Worthy is the Lamb	...	J. F. Barnett	1½d.
Lord Christ! when Thou hadst overcome	...	...	Haydn	1½d.	*Worthy is the Lamb	...	Handel	2d.
*Lord, Thy arm hath been uplifted	...	...	Spohr	2d.

*Anthems marked thus * to be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d., 1½d., and 2d. each.*

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

NEW

EASTER ANTHEMS.

JUST PUBLISHED.

UNTO THE PASCHAL VICTIM BRING
By JOHN E. WEST.
Price 1½d.; Sol-fa, 1½d.

IN THE PRESS.

ALLELUIA! THE LORD LIVETH
By CUTHBERT HARRIS.
Price 3d.; Sol-fa, 1½d.

THE LORD OMNIPOTENT REIGNETH
By THOMAS ADAMS.
Price 3d.; Sol-fa, 1½d.

O DEATH, WHERE IS THY STING
By ALFRED HOLLINS.

NOW DAWNING GLOWS THE DAY OF DAYS
By DAVID STANLEY SMITH.
Price 3d.; Sol-fa, 1½d.

RECENTLY PUBLISHED.

NOW LATE ON THE SABBATH DAY
By S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR.
Price 3d.; Sol-fa, 1½d.

IF YE THEN BE RISEN
By H. M. HIGGS.
Price 1½d.; Sol-fa, 1½d.

THE LORD LIVETH
By A. W. MARCHANT.
Price 3d.; Sol-fa, 1½d.

HE SHALL SWALLOW UP DEATH IN VICTORY
By F. R. GREENISH.
Price 3d.; Sol-fa, 2d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Thirteenth and Fourteenth Thousand.

ALFRED R. GAUL'S

PASSION SERVICE

NEW SACRED WORK
FOR THE SEASON OF
LENT AND GOOD FRIDAY.

"Scholarly writing, combined with unmistakable talent, and eminently adapted to the purpose for which it was written and composed. The work will probably be largely used, and Mr. Gaul have to be congratulated upon another success."—Sheffield Independent.

"The course of sacred events connected with the Passion is laid out by the writer so as to form a series of six distinct 'scenes.' The subjects of these divisions, each occupied with a particular stage of the Mystery, are respectively—'The Traitor at the Table,' 'The Denial,' 'The Condemnation before Pilate,' 'The Mockery on Calvary,' 'The Shadow of Death,' and 'The Holy Sepulchre.' The style of the composition resembles generally that of Mr. Gaul's previous writings—the same effective, grateful part-writing, and the same expressive and melodious treatment of the solo voice. In those sections, notably that of the Unjust Condemnation, where the realistic element is predominant, the composer has manifested his ability to write with dramatic force and intensity as well as with lyric charm. In this respect the choral writing distinguished itself in comparison with that in the 'Holy City,' and other of the composer's works. Mr. Gaul has not written new hymn tunes for the author's lyrics; the tunes selected are from among those in ordinary congregational use. Altogether considered, Mr. Gaul's new work will, undoubtedly, greatly enhance his already high reputation in the line of sacred composition."—Musical Standard.

Price, paper cover, 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.; scarlet cloth, 4s.
Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.
The loan of Orchestral Parts on application to the COMPOSER.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JUST READY.

REVISED EDITION
AS PERFORMED AT THE ROYAL ALBERT HALL, JANUARY 23, 1902.

THE

BLIND GIRL OF CASTÉL CUILLÉ

CANTATA

THE POEM TRANSLATED FROM THE GASCON OF JASMIN BY
H. W. LONGFELLOW
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR.
(Op. 43.)
Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEW EDITION. NOW READY.
The very successful Lent Cantata

PENITENCE PARDON AND PEACE

BY

J. H. MAUNDER.

The Musical Times, 1/1/99: "An admirable example of a commendable class of Church music. Consists of writing of that melodious and effective nature for which the composer is so widely famed."
Musical Opinion, 1/2/98: "A fine Church composition."
Musical News, 15/1/98: "We have no hesitation in cordially recommending it."
Musical Standard, 5/3/98: "Deserves considerable popularity."
Organist and Choirmaster, 15/2/98: "For the music we have nothing but praise."
Birmingham Post, 5/3/98: "The music is of a high artistic value."
Liverpool Courier, 2/8/98: "A work of great merit in every respect."
Manchester Courier, 9/3/98: "It will doubtless be used in many 'quires and places where they sing.'"
Newcastle Leader, 23/2/98: "A well-written work."
Western Morning News, 25/3/98: "A good composition. Striking and original."
Chester Chronicle, 16/4/98: "A beautiful work, very tuneful, and exceedingly effective."
Lichfield Mercury, 4/2/98: "Extremely effective, containing some really beautiful music."
Journal of the Incorporated Society of Musicians, 1/2/98: "A well written work. We can strongly recommend it."

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.
Paper boards, 2s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1s. Words, 2s. per 100.

 A Specimen Copy will be sent for six stamps to any Clergyman, Organist, or Choirmaster, on application to J. H. MAUNDER, Hill Top, Belmont Park, London, S.E.

Band Parts may be hired or purchased from Messrs. Goodwin and Tabb 71, Great Queen Street, W.C.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CHURCH MUSIC

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, MUS.D., CANTAB.

SERVICES.

Te Deum in A. Four Voices	... ...	3d.
Benedicite in E and F	... ... each	2d.
Benedictus in A	... ...	3d.
Jubilate in A	... ...	3d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in A	... ...	3d.
Do. do. Tonic Sol-fa	... ...	1½d.

ANTHEMS.

Lead me in my trouble (Lent)	... ...	3d.
The Story of the Cross (,,)	... ...	2d.
The Good Shepherd (Easter)	... ...	3d.
If we believe (,,)	... ...	4d.
Do. Tonic Sol-fa	... ...	1½d.

PART-SONGS.

No. 1. O'er silv'ry waters. Four Voices	... ...	3d.
,, 2. Day is dawning. ,, ,,	... ...	3d.
,, 3. Sing on, sweet birds. ,, ,,	... ...	3d.
,, 4. Lo! Autumn leaves. ,, ,,	... ...	3d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ALFRED R. GAUL'S CANTATAS.

["If composers would have their works popular with choral societies, it is only reasonable to expect that they will bestow a fair share of their attention upon the choruses. The old masters knew this, and there is no doubt that the fact has much to do with the long-continued popularity of their works; and there is equally little doubt, we think, that the principal cause of the failure of so many works produced now-a-days is the uninteresting nature of the choruses. Compare the choruses of the three most popular works ever produced—'The Messiah,' 'Creation,' and 'Elijah'—with a large number of modern works, and our meaning will be clear. If we mistake not, such thoughts as these passed through Mr. Gaul's mind when he set himself to compose those works which have placed him in the front rank of English composers—the 'Holy City,' 'Joan of Arc,' 'The Ten Virgins,' &c., and that the public endorse his views is proved by the enormous sale which these works have had."—Newcastle Daily Journal.]

*UNA

SIXTH AND SEVENTH THOUSAND.

PRODUCED AT THE NORWICH MUSICAL FESTIVAL, OCTOBER 4, 1893.

"Into all the places which know his previous compositions 'Una' will find a place and become as much a favourite as its forerunners."—Musical Times.

*THE TEN VIRGINS

Third Edition. Eleventh and Twelfth Thousand.

"The work will certainly go through Saxondom in the wake of its predecessors from the same pen."—London Daily Telegraph.

"Must attain popularity wherever heard. Infinitely superior to any previous effort of the composer."—Liverpool Daily Courier.

PRODUCED WITH THE UTMOST SUCCESS BY THE BIRMINGHAM FESTIVAL CHORAL SOCIETY.

*JOAN OF ARC

Staff Edition. Twenty-sixth to Thirtieth Thousand.

"The Exeter Oratorio Society last night achieved a brilliant success, and it may safely be said, without fear of exaggeration, that never before have they performed a work more satisfactory to themselves or more interesting to the audience than 'Joan of Arc.'"—Western Times.

"One of the most delightful Concerts ever given by the South Shields Choral Society was that of last evening, when the principal piece was 'Joan of Arc.' We cannot speak too highly of Mr. Gaul's work, which is of the most interesting description, and will doubtless soon be a favourite with choral societies."—Shields Daily News.

SEVENTH THOUSAND.

PRODUCED AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE, JULY 9, 1892.

†ISRAEL IN THE WILDERNESS

"The work was given under Mr. Gaul's own direction by some 3,000 singers, accompanied by the Palace orchestra. Mr. Gaul has presented in no previous work better characteristics or more successful efforts than are to be found in 'Israel in the Wilderness.' The popular composer was enthusiastically cheered at the close of the performance."—Musical News.

The above Cantatas have been specially planned to meet the requirements of Musical Societies, the greater portion being choral.

Price, paper cover, 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1s.; Vocal Parts, each 1s. Words only, *7s. 6d.; †5s. per 100.

The loan of Orchestral Parts on application to the COMPOSER, Gillott Lodge, Edgbaston.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

The Posthumous Works of Mendelssohn.

MESSRS. NOVELLO have the honour to announce that the following Works by Mendelssohn are still Copyright, and that they are the property of their Firm; also that it is contrary to Law to import any Foreign editions of the same into Great Britain or the Colonies, or to sell or purchase copies of any such editions which may have been at any time unlawfully imported, viz.:—

Opus 46. "For His in the Sea," being the Appendix to "O come, let us sing."

Opus 98. {"Ave Maria," Sop. Solo and Chorus for Female Voices / "Vintage Song"} From "Loreley."

Opus 101. Overture in C (Trumpet Overture).

Opus 102. The Songs without Words. Nos. 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, and 48. Constituting the whole of the Eighth Book.

Opus 103. Funeral March. Composed for a Military Band.

Opus 104. {(a) Three Preludes for the Pianoforte. (b) Three Studies for the Pianoforte.}

Opus 105. Sonata in G minor for the Pianoforte.

Opus 106. Sonata in B flat for the Pianoforte.

Opus 107. Symphony No. 5. The "Reformation."

Opus 108. The Cornelius March.

Opus 109. Romance sans Paroles for Violoncello and Pianoforte.

Opus 110. Sestetto for Pianoforte, Violin, two Violas, Violoncello, and Contrabasso.

Opus 111. "Tu es Petrus," Chorus for Five Voices (S.S.A.T.B.)

Opus 112. {"But the Lord will gather all them." "Thou who has doomed man to die." Originally composed for the Oratorio "St. Paul."}

Opus 113. Opus 114. {Two Concert Pieces in F minor and D minor for Clarinet and Basset-horn, with Pianoforte Accompaniment.}

Opus 115. {(No. 1). "For ever blessed" (Beati mortui). (No. 2). "The righteous living for ever" (Periti autem).}

Opus 116. "Saw ye not the pallid Angel."

Opus 117. Album-Blatt for the Pianoforte.

Opus 118. Capriccio in E minor for the Pianoforte.

Opus 119. Perpetuum Mobile for the Pianoforte.

Opus 120. Four Part-Songs for Men's Voices:—

No. 43 in Novello's Series.—A Festal Greeting.
,, 44 do. Gipsy Song.
,, 45 do. Hunting Song ("Waken, Lords").
,, 46 do. Land of Beauty.

Opus 121. Responses and Hymn for Men's Voices and Organ.

WITHOUT OPUS NUMBERS.

The Maiden's Lament. No. 76 of Novello's Edition of Mendelssohn's Songs, edited and translated by Natalia Macfarren. (See also Opus 112, above.)

Two Pieces for the Organ:—
Andante with Variations. Allegro in B flat.

NOVELLO & CO., LTD.,
1, BERNERS STREET, W.
February, 1, 1902.

Just Published.

KILLIECRANKIE

(The Burial March of Dundee)

A BALLAD

FOR TENOR SOLO, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

The Words from "Lays of the Scottish Cavaliers," by

PROFESSOR AYTOUN

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

J. A. MOONIE.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.
Tonic Sol-fa, Eightpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

KING GOLDEMAR

(THE STORY OF ELFIN MOUNT)

AN OPERETTA FOR JUNIOR SCHOOLS AND CLASSES

THE LIBRETTO WRITTEN BY

K. SIDFORD.

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

THEODORE S. HOLLAND.

Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa combined, price Two Shillings.
Tonic Sol-fa, Ninepence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

CHAMPAGNERLIED

FOR TENOR SOLO, CHORUS OF MEN'S VOICES (T.T.B.B.), AND ORCHESTRA

THE POEM WRITTEN BY

COUNT STRACHWITZ

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

HEINRICH HOFMANN.

(Op. 17.)

The English Translation by G. E. TROUTBECK.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

THE JUNIOR VIOLINIST

Edited by C. EGERTON LOWE.

Book 9.

SONATA IN E MINOR

FOR

VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE

(First to Third Position)

BY

W. A. MOZART.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

REDUCED PRICES

FOR THE UNREVISED EDITIONS.

THE CATHEDRAL PSALTER

THE CATHEDRAL PRAYER BOOK

The Publishers, having in stock a limited number of the above publications, handsomely bound in Red Basil with Red Edges, but unrevised as regards the recent alterations in the Titles of The Prince and Princess of Wales and in the Accession Service, are prepared to dispose of the remaining copies at specially reduced prices.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.

THE TUNE BOOK, with the additional Tunes, as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN, containing nearly 270 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tones; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

THE SPIDER AND THE FLY

A CANTATA

FOR JUNIOR SCHOOLS AND CLASSES.

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

SHAPCOTT WENSLEY

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

J. FREDERICK BRIDGE.

Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa combined, price One Shilling.
Tonic Sol-fa, Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

QUEEN MAB AND THE KOBOLDS

AN ORIGINAL OPERETTA FOR YOUNG PEOPLE

In Two Acts

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

SHAPCOTT WENSLEY

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

CHARLES BRAUN.

Price Two Shillings.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, price 9d. Words only, 25s. per 100.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

TRISTESSE

POUR

VIOLONCELLE

Avec Accompagnement de Piano

PAR

J. HOLLMAN.

Price Two Shillings net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ROSETTA O'LEARY'S

NEW CONTRALTO SONGS.

THE SONG OF THE BROOK.
ES IST ZU SPÄT (with English words).
Also New Edition of
I AM THE ANGEL.
Price, each, 2s. net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published

BENEDICITE OMNIA OPERA

BY

EDWARD W. GROOCOCK,

F.R.C.O., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M.

Price Threepence.

For free specimen copy, address the COMPOSER, 59, Sydenham Road North, Croydon.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEW WORKS BY

ALBERT HAM, Mus. Doc., DUBLIN.

In the Press.

A MANUAL

ON

THE BOY'S VOICE AND ITS CULTURE.

Price One Shilling.

In the Press.

AN ANTHEM

COMPOSED FOR THE KING'S CORONATION

LET THE PEOPLE PRAISE THEE, LORD.

Price Fourpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JUST PUBLISHED.

LEAD, KINDLY LIGHT

WORDS BY

CARDINAL NEWMAN

SET TO MUSIC FOR

SOPRANO SOLO AND CHORUS, OR QUINTET FOR SOLO VOICES

BY

LIZA LEHMANN.

Price Two Shillings net.
Vocal Parts, One Shilling the set.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

THE TEMPTATION

A SACRED CANTATA

FOR

SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

MUSIC BY

FRANCIS WILLIAM HUMBERSTONE.

The work is especially suitable for Lent, but the Prologue may be sung separately during the Epiphany, and the Epilogue at Ascensiontide.

OPINIONS.

"If the whole work be equal to the air 'Jesu, blest Jesu,' more will be heard of it."—Dover Express.

"The duet was splendidly sung by Mr. Edward Lloyd and Mr. Robert Grice, and it was received with well-merited applause and a hearty recall."—Coventry Independent.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London: Houghton and Co., 39, Great Marlborough Street, W.; New York: E. Schuberth and Co.

BOOSEY AND CO.'S PUBLICATIONS.

EDWARD ELGAR'S MILITARY MARCHES.

POMP AND CIRCUMSTANCE. Op. 39.
Played with Immense Success
At the Promenade Concerts.

No. 1, in D, full Orchestral Score	... ...	5s. od.
,, 1, ,, Orchestral Parts	... ...	12s. 6d.
,, 1, ,, Extra Parts (each)	... ...	0s. 6d.
,, 1, ,, Pianoforte Solo (Schmid)	... ...	2s. od.
,, 1, ,, Pianoforte Duet (,,)	... ...	2s. 6d.
,, 1, ,, Organ Solo	... ...	2s. od.
,, 1, ,, Piano and Strings (wind ad lib.)
No. 2, in A minor, full Orchestral Score	... ...	5s. od.
,, 2, ,, Orchestral Parts	... ...	12s. 6d.
,, 2, ,, Extra parts (each)	... ...	0s. 6d.
,, 2, ,, Pianoforte Solo (Schmid)	... ...	2s. od.
,, 2. ,, Pianoforte and Strings (wind ad lib.) (Schmid)
Arrangement for smaller Orchestras of the two Marches together (Schmid)	... ...	5s. od.
Octuor (with Piano-Conductor) (Schmid)	... ...	3s. 4d.
Extra Parts (each)	... ...	0s. 6d.
Military Band Arrangement of the two Marches together	...	15s. od.

EDWARD ELGAR'S OVERTURE.

COCKAIGNE. Op 40. Full Orchestral Score, 10s. 6d. net. Complete set of Band Parts, 16s. net. Pianoforte arrangement, 5s. net.

EDWARD ELGAR'S

SEA PICTURES. Op. 37. 4s. net. A Cycle of Five Songs sung by Madame Clara Butt. Separate songs, 2s. each net. Orchestral Score, 12s. net. Set of Band Parts, 15s. net.
London: Boosey and Co., 295, Regent Street, W.

FRANKLIN PETERSON'S POPULAR TEXT BOOKS: ELEMENTS of MUSIC. Sixth Edition. Bound, net 1s.
INTRODUCTION TO THE STUDY of THEORY. A sequel to the "Elements of Music," and intended to prepare the student for Professor Prout's Series of Theoretical Works. Bound, net 1s. 6d.
PIANIST'S HANDBOOK. A theoretical Companion to Practice. Two parts, each bound, net 1s. 6d.
CATECHISM OF MUSIC. Bound, net 2s.
London: Augener and Co., 199, Regent St., and 22, Newgate St.

THREE

Seventeenth Century Settings of the Litany

AS SUNG IN LICHFIELD CATHEDRAL.

EDITED BY

JOHN B. LOTT, Mus.B., Oxon.

Now Ready.
No. 1. SET TO MUSIC IN A MAJOR
BY
WILLIAM KING, Mus.B., Oxon.,
Organist of New College, Oxford.
(1664-1680.)
Price Threepence.

In the Press.
No. 2. SET TO MUSIC IN D MINOR
BY
HENRY LOOSEMORE, Mus.B., Cantab.,
Organist of King's College, Cambridge.
(1627-1670).

In the Press.
No. 3. SET TO MUSIC IN C MINOR
The celebrated "York Litany"
BY
THOMAS WANLESS, Mus.B., Cantab.,
Organist of York Minster.
(1691——.)

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Popular Part-Songs for S.A.T.B.

By W. W. PEARSON.

Nymphs of the Ocean	3d.	Under the Trees	2d.
The Skaters	3d.	The Oyster Dredgers	2d.
The Lake	3d.	Evening	2d.
*'Tis Morn	3d.	*Sweet to live (38th thou.)	2d.
Sweet Spring (Madrigal)	3d.	*Welcome, young Spring!	2d.
The River	3d.	*The Anglers (14th thou.)	2d.
Over the mountain side	3d.	The Dream of Home	2d.
Soul of living music	3d.	Summer and Winter	2d.
The Stormy Petrel	3d.	*Departed Joys	2d.
The Coral Grove	3d.	There's beauty in the deep	1d.
Pibroch of Donuil Dhu	3d.	Soldier, rest!	1d.
Blow, Western Wind!	3d.	Woods in Winter	1d.
Stars of the Night	3d.	Autumn	1d.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS.

*Three Doughtie Men (80th thousand)	3d.	*Ben Bowlegs (Ed. Oxenford)	3d.
Three Children Sliding (12th thousand)	3d.	The Carrion Crow	3d.
A Ryghte Merrie Geste	4d.	Call John! (6th thousand)	3d.
The Snow-white Doe	4d.	Three Merry Fishers	3d.
		The Cuckoo Clock (just published)	3d.

DESCRIPTIVE CHORUSES.
With Pianoforte or Orchestral Accompaniments.

The Iron Horse	4d.	The Ocean	3d.
Off to Sea	4d.	*The Ironfounders (36th thou.)	3d.
Jäger Chorus	3d.	The Cyclists	4d.
The Lifeboat	4d.

Orchestral Parts on application to the Composer, Elmham, Dereham.
Tonic Sol-fa Editions at half the above prices of those marked *.
London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Now Ready.

MUSICAL DIRECTORY,

ANNUAL AND ALMANACK, for 1902.

FIFTIETH ANNUAL ISSUE.

Contents.—Names and addresses of the Musical Profession and Trade, &c., throughout the United Kingdom. Particulars of all the principal Concerts given, also of new Copyright Music published during the past year, Obituary Notices, &c.
Price, by Post, in crimson cloth, 4s. 4d.; in paper cover, 3s. 4d.
London: Rudall, Carte and Co., 23, Berners Street, W.

EBENEZER PROUT'S THEORETICAL WORKS. Bound, each net, 5s.
HARMONY: Its Theory and Practice. Fourteenth Edition.
COUNTERPOINT: Strict and Free. Seventh Edition.
DOUBLE COUNTERPOINT and CANON. Third Edition.
FUGUE. Fourth Edition.
FUGAL ANALYSIS. Second Edition.
MUSICAL FORM. Fourth Edition.
APPLIED FORMS. Third Edition.
THE ORCHESTRA.
Vol. I.—"THE TECHNIQUE OF THE INSTRUMENTS." Second Edition.
Vol. II.—"ORCHESTRAL COMBINATION." Second Edition.
London: Augener and Co., 199, Regent St., and 22, Newgate St.

COMPOSITIONS
BY
DR. JOHN BLOW.

SERVICES.

	s.	d.
Te Deum, Jubilate, Kyrie, Creed, Cantate Domino, and Deus misereatur, in A.. .. .. Folio	5	0
Te Deum, Jubilate, Kyrie, and Creed, Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, in G .. .. .. Folio	4	6
Kyrie, Creed, and 14 Chants .. .. ,,	1	6
Sanctus and Gloria in Excelsis, in D .. ,,	1	0
Te Deum, Jubilate, Kyrie, Creed, Cantate Domino, and Deus misereatur, in E minor .. Folio	4	6

ANTHEMS.

God is our hope and strength .. .. Folio	1	3
I beheld, and lo! a great multitude.. .. 8vo	0	6
I was in the Spirit .. .. ,,	0	6
My God, my God, look upon me .. .. Folio	0	9
O God, wherefore art thou absent .. .. ,,	0	9
O Lord, Thou hast searched me out .. ,,	1	0
O Lord, I have sinned .. .. .. ,,	1	0
O sing unto God .. .. ,,	1	6
Save me, O God .. .. ,,	0	9
Short Full Anthems (seven) .. complete ,,	3	0

or, separately:—
Consider mine enemies, 6d.; Look upon mine adversity, 6d.; Praise thou the Lord (S.S.A.T.B.B.), 6d.; Shew us Thy mercy (A.A.T.B.), 6d.; Save, Lord, and hear us, 6d.; The voice of the Lord, 6d.; Up, Lord, and help me, 6d.

The Lord hear thee .. .. Folio 0 6

Separate Organ and Vocal parts can be had of the above compositions.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JUST PUBLISHED.

PRICE FOUR SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.

New Book for Students.

TWO THOUSAND QUESTIONS & ANSWERS
ON
MUSICAL HISTORY, BIOGRAPHY, FORM, INSTRUMENTATION, &c.
BY
WALTER H. PALMER,
Hon. Member and Licentiate of Trinity College, London, and Author of 600 Questions on Musical Theory,
WITH
INTRODUCTION BY PROF. E. H. TURPIN, MUS. DOC.

London: SIMPKIN, MARSHALL AND CO., Limited.
Bristol: W. CROFTON HEMMONS, Stephen Street.

Second Edition.

NARCISSUS AND ECHO
CANTATA FOR CHORUS, SOLI, AND ORCHESTRA
Price 3s.; Choral Parts, 1s. each. Also,
"GOD IS OUR REFUGE" (Ps. 46)
For Chorus, Soli, and Orchestra. Price 1s.
COMPOSED BY
EDWIN C. SUCH,
Mus. Bac., Cantab.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

THE GENTLE SHEPHERD
SONG
Words by WILFRID MILLS
MUSIC BY
JOSEPH H. ADAMS.
No. 1, in F. For Contralto or Bass.
No. 2, in A flat. For Soprano or Tenor.
No. 3, in G. For Mezzo-Soprano or Baritone.
Price Two Shillings net.

SUN OF MY SOUL
SONG
Words by JOHN KEBLE
MUSIC BY
JOSEPH H. ADAMS.
No. 1, in D. For Mezzo-Soprano or Baritone.
No. 2, in F. For Soprano or Tenor.
No. 3, in C. For Contralto or Bass.
Price Two Shillings net.
Orchestral Parts to either Song on application to the Publishers.

SUN OF MY SOUL
Arranged as an Anthem by the COMPOSER.
Price 3d.; Sol-fa, 2d.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

COMPOSITIONS
BY
T. MEE PATTISON.

CANTATAS.	Staff. s.	Staff. d.	Sol-fa. s.	Sol-fa. d.
The Ancient Mariner	2	6	0	6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1	0
The Lay of the Last Minstrel	2	6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1	0
May Day	1	0	0	6
The Miracles of Christ (Sacred)	1	0	0	6
ANTHEMS, &c.
All Thy works praise Thee (Harvest)	0	3	0	1
Thou visitest the earth (Harvest)	0	2
I know that my Redeemer liveth (Easter)	0	3
There were shepherds (Christmas)	0	2
Thirteen Offertory Sentences	0	4
Six Kyries	0	2
Te Deum laudamus (in F)	0	3
ORIGINAL ORGAN COMPOSITIONS.
Fifteen Introductory and Concluding Voluntaries			3	6
Five Concluding Voluntaries			1	6

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

A NEW BEAUTIFUL SONG

ABIDE WITH ME
Words by HENRY FRANCIS LYTE
COMPOSED BY
JENNINGS BURNETT
Highly appreciated by
THEIR MAJESTIES KING EDWARD VII. AND QUEEN ALEXANDRA; Madame PATTI, and Madame ALBANI.

Vide Press: "For many decades the eloquent prayer 'Abide with me' has been sung to various settings, but never to any more commensurate with the spirit of the appeal than that which Mr. Burnett's talent has produced. . . . .
. . . A singularly splendid effort, containing a noble pathos, well sustained throughout; the bold enharmonic change to 'I fear no foe,' also final development to 'Heaven's morning breaks,' are scholarly written and well worthy of note."—Daily Times.
Price Two Shillings net.

London: WEEKES AND CO., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street.
Chicago, U.S.A.: CLAYTON F. SUMMY CO., 220, Wabash Avenue.

MASS IN A MAJOR
FOR SOLO QUARTET AND UNACCOMPANIED CHORUS (S.A.T.B.)
For Use in Advent or Lent
COMPOSED BY
MARMADUKE BARTON.
Price One Shilling.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

A MODERN SCHOOL
FOR THE VIOLIN
BY AUGUST WILHELMJ
AND
JAMES BROWN.

BOOK 4A.
(FOURTH BOOK OF TECHNICAL PRACTICE.)

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Just Published.

ARRANGED FOR UNISON SINGING
OR FOR
SOPRANOS AND CONTRALTOS

The Soldiers' Chorus from Faust
COMPOSED BY
CHARLES GOUNOD.

Words by Henry F. Chorley.*

Price 1½d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.

* By arrangement with Messrs. Chappell and Co., Ltd.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

ADESTE FIDELES
(No. 33 of Novello's Cantiones Sacræ)
EDITED BY
DOM SAMUEL G. OULD
CONTAINING THE COMPLETE LATIN TEXT
EIGHT VERSES, NOW PUBLISHED WITH MUSIC FOR THE FIRST TIME)
WITH A
PRELUDE AND VARIED ACCOMPANIMENTS
By the following Composers:—
Præludium by Dr. F. E. Gladstone.

I. Stropha	... ...	Dom Samuel G. Ould.
II. Stropha	... ...	William Sewell.
III. Stropha	... ...	H. B. Collins.
IV. Stropha	... ...	Sir Walter Parratt.
V. Stropha	... ...	Dr. A. E. Tozer.
VI. Stropha	... ...	Sir C. H. H. Parry.
VII. Stropha	... ...	Dr. C. W. Pearce.
VIII. Stropha	... ...	S. P. Waddington.

Price One Shilling.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Just Published.

THE MUSIC STUDENT'S MANUSCRIPT NOTE BOOK
AND PRACTICE REGISTER
ARRANGED BY
C. EGERTON LOWE.

PREFACE.

This book is intended to meet the convenience of Teachers who wish to record clearly for a pupil's guidance the work to be prepared for each lesson or a series. The column headed "Time" is added for the purpose of indicating the number of minutes to be given to the daily practice of each separate subject. (This column is for the Teacher to fill up.)

A few pages of music paper have been inserted for the purpose of writing out turns, trills, &c., and blank pages have been left at the end on which it is suggested that a list of pieces studied should be kept or other memoranda made. The book will be found suitable for students of any instrument.

Price Sixpence.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

THE VILLAGE ORGANIST
NEW NUMBERS.

BOOKS 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, and 30, NOW READY.

Price One Shilling each.
Or, the Six Books together, forming Volume V., bound in cloth, price Six Shillings.

Detailed List on application.

NOVELLO'S ANTHEM BOOKS
NEW NUMBERS

BOOKS 7, 8, and 9, NOW READY.

Price One Shilling each.
Tonic Sol-fa, Eightpence each.

Detailed List on application.

NOVELLO'S
REVISED LIST OF WORKS SUITABLE FOR
PRESENTS AND SCHOOL PRIZES

Detailed List on application.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

NOVELLO'S
CLASSIFIED CATALOGUE
OF MUSIC FOR
VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE.

PREFACE.

The Violin music in this Catalogue has been divided into Four Grades, as follows:—

GRADE I.

Pieces within the compass of the First Position.

GRADE II.

Pieces beyond the First, but within the compass of the Third Position.

GRADE III.

Pieces beyond the Third, but within the compass of the Fifth Position.

GRADE IV.

Pieces beyond the Fifth Position, and very advanced.

Each piece has, further, a classifying letter attached to it, indicating a relative difficulty to the particular grade in which it is placed. Pieces which, according to the fingering used, are suitable for two different grades have been included in both, but with a different classifying letter, a lower, or simpler letter being used in the second grade than that given in the first—e.g., pieces marked C (moderately easy) in Grade I. are marked B (easy) if included in Grade II.; pieces marked E (difficult) in Grade II. are marked D (moderately difficult) if included in Grade III., and so forth.

When, in an album of pieces of various degrees of difficulty, a Roman figure is used before the letter denoting the degree of difficulty, it signifies that the piece is more suitable for the Grade indicated by the figure.

EXPLANATION OF LETTERS.

A = very simple.	D = moderately difficult.
B = easy.	E = difficult.
C = moderately easy.	F = very difficult.
G = very advanced.

Copies of the above Catalogue sent Post-free on application.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

CANTIONES SACRÆ

MUSICAL SETTINGS

OF

THE ROMAN LITURGY

EDITED BY

Dom SAMUEL GREGORY OULD,

Monk of the Order of St. Benedict.

33. ADESTE FIDELES. The complete Text (8 verses), with a Prelude by Dr. F. E. Gladstone, and varied Accompaniments by H. B. Collins, Dom Samuel G. Ould, Sir Walter Parratt, Sir C. Hubert H. Parry, Dr. C. W. Pearce, William Sewell, Dr. A. E. Tozer, and S. P. Waddington 1s.
4. ADORAMUS TE, CHRISTE .. Mozart 2d.
22. ADOREMUS (for Benediction) F. E. Gladstone 2d.
2. ADOREMUS (Motet) .. C. W. Pearce 6d.
10. ALMA REDEMPTORIS MATER W. Sewell 2d.
27. AVE MARIS STELLA S. P. Waddington 6d.
11. AVE REGINA CŒLORUM W. Sewell 2d.
26. BENEDICTA ET VENERABILIS F. E. Gladstone 6d.
6. BENEDICTION SERVICE (Unison) S. Ould 3d.
9. BENEDICTION SERVICE (Unison) J. E. West 3d.
32. BENEDICTION SERVICE (Four-part) Agnes Zimmermann 2d.
29. COMPLINE HYMN .. .. .. S. Ould 3d.
3. DEUS MISEREATUR .. F. E. Gladstone 6d.
12. DOMINE, SALVUM FAC .. A. E. Tozer 2d.
30. DOMINE, SALVUM FAC .. .. E. Silas 2d.
17. HÆC DIES .. .. .. F. E. Gladstone 3d.
7. HODIE SANCTUS BENEDICTUS P. Philips 4d.
20. LITANY OF LORETTO .. F. E. Gladstone 6d.
23. MAGNIFICAT in A .. .. F. E. Gladstone 8d.
1. MAGNIFICAT in B flat .. .. E. Silas 6d.
28. MAGNIFICAT in D .. .. .. E. Silas 1s.
31. MAGNIFICAT in E flat .. .. W. Sewell 4d.
15. MISERERE in F .. .. F. E. Gladstone 3d.
16. MISERERE in F sharp minor F. E. Gladstone 6d.
25. MISERERE (Gregorian Chant) V. Novello 3d.
19. O SALUTARIS HOSTIA .. F. E. Gladstone 2d.
8. REGINA CŒLI .. .. .. W. Sewell 2d.
14. RESPONSES AT MASS AND OFFICE Harmonised by S. Ould 3d.
13. SALVE, REGINA .. .. .. Schubert 2d.
5. SALVE, REGINA .. .. W. Sewell 2d.
24. SALVE, REGINA .. R. L. de Pearsall 3d.
18. SALVE, REGINA .. S. P. Waddington 4d.
21. TANTUM ERGO .. .. F. E. Gladstone 2d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE CATHEDRAL

Prayer Book and Psalter

(WITH WELSH WORDS).

		s.	d.
No. 1.	Morning and Evening Prayer, with Responses (Ferial and Festal), Litany, and Chants for the Canticles. Demy 8vo, paper cover ... ... (cloth, 1s.)	0	8
No. 7.	Ditto, ditto, ditto. Tonic Sol-fa ... (cloth, 1s.)	0	8
No. 4.	The Psalter, with Canticles and Proper Psalms, set to appropriate Chants. Demy 8vo, cloth	2	0
No. 10.	Ditto, ditto, ditto. Tonic Sol-fa	2	0
No. 5.	Ditto, ditto, ditto. With Morning and Evening Prayer, &c. Demy 8vo, cloth	2	6
No. 11.	Ditto, ditto, ditto. Tonic Sol-fa	2	6

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

HENRY LESLIE'S PART-SONGS.

PART-SONGS FOR MIXED VOICES.

(S.A.T.B. unless otherwise stated.)

*A dream of calm ... ... 4d.
†A rose of the garden... ... ... 4d.
Arise, sweet love ... ... 3d.
Awake, awake, the flowers unfold... (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.) 3d.
*Bridal Song ... ... 4d.
Charm me asleep (S.S.A.T.B.B.) ... (Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.) 3d.
Daylight is fading ... ... (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.) 1½d.
Down in a pretty valley ... ... 3d.
Evening (also for A.T.T.B., 2d.) ... ... 1½d.
†Golden Slumbers kiss your eyes ... ... 4d.
Hail to the Chief (also as a Song, 2/-; and as a Trio, S.A.B., 2/6) ... ... 3d.
Homeward (or, as a Song, The day died slowly, 2/-) (Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.) 4d.
How sweet the moonlight ... ... (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.) 1½d.
†Kind Words ... ... 4d.
Ladye fair, thou hast my life ... (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.) 2d.
Land-Ho ... ... 3d.
†Lullaby of Life ... ... 4d.
My love is fair (S.A.T.B.B.) ... ...(Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.) 3d.
My soul to God, my heart to thee ... ... 3d.
Now the bright morning star ...(Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.) 3d.
†O let me play the fool (S.S.A.T.B.B.) ... ... 6d.
*O gentle sleep ... ... 4d.
One morning sweet in May ... ... 3d.
Parting and Meeting. (Volkslied, Mendelssohn) (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.) 1½d.
Raise again the bold refrain. (Russian Melody) ... 1½d.
*Resurgam ... ... 4d.
*Song of the Flax-spinner ... ... 4d.
†The Angel's Visit ... ... 4d.
†The Golden Year ... ... 6d.
The Lass of Richmond Hill ... (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.) 4d.
The Pilgrims ... ... (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.) 3d.
The Primrose... ... ... 1½d.
†The Rainbow ... ... 4d.
The Troubadour (S.A.T.B.B.) ... (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.) 4d.
The Violet ... ... 3d.
Thine eyes so bright (S.S.A.T.B.B.) (Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.) 4d.
This morning, at the dawn of day... (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.) 2d.
Up, up, ye dames ... ... 3d.
†We roam and rule the sea ... ... 4d.
*Welcome, Spring ... ... 4d.
What ho! are all on board asleep ... ... 3d.
*When the shades of eve descending ... ... 4d.
†Who is the Angel that cometh ... ... 6d.
*Ye mariners of England ... ... 4d.

PART-SONGS FOR MALE VOICES.

Evening (A.T.T.B.) (also for S.A.T.B., 1½d.) ... ... 2d.
Pibroch of Donuil Dhu (A.T.T.B.) ... ... 3d.
†Song of the Minne-singers (Come, fill your glasses) (T.T.B.B.) ... ... 4d.
†The red sun is setting. A Lullaby (T.T.B.B.) ... ... 4d.
*The rejected lover (A.T.B.B.) ... ... 4d.

PART-SONGS FOR FEMALE VOICES.

Good-night (S.S.A.) ... ... (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.) 3d.
Hark! the lark (Dr. Cooke) (S.S.A.A.) (Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.) 3d.
O happy fair; or, The Loadstars (Shield) (S.S.A.) (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.) 3d.
Rise again, glad Summer Sun (S.S.A.) (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.) 3d.
The Swallow (S.S.A.)... ...(Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.) 3d.
The Nightingale (Weelkes) (S.S.A.) (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.) 2d.

* Hitherto published by Messrs. J. B. Cramer and Co.
† Hitherto published by Messrs. Stanley Lucas and Co., Ltd., and E. Hatzfeld.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ORCHESTRAL WORKS BY BRITISH COMPOSERS.

		Strings. s. d.	Wind. s. d.	Full Score. s. d.
WILLIAM HENRY BELL ...	"A Song in the Morning"	7 0 ...	—	—
FREDERIC H. COWEN ...	Symphony No. 4 (The Welsh)	7 0 ...	13 0 ...	15 0
" " ...	Four English Dances in the Olden Style	6 0 ...	12 0 ...	10 6
" " ...	Do. (Small Orchestra)	6 0 ...	9 0 ...	—
" " ...	Waltz from "The Sleeping Beauty"	2 0 ...	6 6 ...	5 0
" " ...	Overture, "The Butterfly's Ball"	6 6 ...	14 3 ...	10 6
S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR ...	Four Characteristic Waltzes (also for Small Orchestra)	6 0 ...	12 0 ...	5 0
" " ...	Ballade in D minor (Violin and Orchestra)	2 6 ...	—	—
" " ...	Overture to "The Song of Hiawatha"	5 0 ...	13 6 ...	—
" " ...	Solemn Prelude	2 6 ...	—	—
" " ...	Ballade in A minor	4 6 ...	10 6 ...	7 6
" " ...	Scenes from An Everyday Romance	9 6 ...	—	—
" " ...	Romance in G (Violin and Orchestra)	2 6 ...	—	—
" " ...	"Toussaint l'Ouverture"	5 6 ...	—	—
" " ...	Idyll	2 6 ...	—	—
FREDERICK CLIFFE ...	Symphony in C minor	11 0 ...	21 0 ...	—
" " ...	Ballade from do.	3 6 ...	6 6 ...	5 0
EDWARD ELGAR ...	Variations on an Original Theme	10 0 ...	22 0 ...	25 0
" " ...	Prelude and Angel's Farewell ("Gerontius")	3 0 ...	—	—
" " ...	Imperial March	2 0 ...	7 0 ...	3 6
" " ...	Meditation ("The Light of Life")	2 0 ...	5 6 ...	—
" " ...	Froissart. Concert Overture	4 6 ...	9 0 ...	7 6
" " ...	Triumphal March ("Caractacus")	2 6 ...	10 6 ...	—
" " ...	Chanson de Nuit	1 3 ...	1 6 ...	2 6
" " ...	Chanson de Matin	1 6 ...	1 6 ...	2 6
" " ...	Three Pieces. 1. Mazurka	2 6 ...	5 0 ...	5 0
" " ...	2. Sérénade Mauresque	2 6 ...	4 3 ...	5 0
" " ...	3. Contrasts	2 6 ...	5 3 ...	5 0
" " ...	Intermezzo ("Dorabella") for strings, woodwind, and drums (from Variations on an Original Theme) ...	2 3 ...	1 6 ...	3 0
ERNEST FORD ...	Grand Valse from the "Faust" Ballet	2 6 ...	11 3 ...	—
" " ...	Scène Bacchanale from the "Faust" Ballet	5 0 ...	—	—
HENRY GADSBY ...	"The Forest of Arden." Intermezzo and Tantarra	4 0 ...	6 0 ...	7 6
EDWARD GERMAN ...	"Henry VIII." Overture	3 0 ...	—	—
" " ...	Do. Prelude, Act II.	2 0 ...	—	—
" " ...	Do. Prelude, Act III.	2 0 ...	4 3 ...	—
" " ...	Do. Coronation March	2 0 ...	4 3 ...	3 6
" " ...	Do. Prelude, Act V.	2 0 ...	—	—
" " ...	Do. Three Dances	4 0 ...	7 6 ...	7 6
" " ...	"As you like it." Masque (Three Dances)	4 6 ...	10 6 ...	7 6
" " ...	English Fantasia, "In Commemoration"	5 6 ...	—	—
" " ...	"Gipsy Suite." Four Characteristic Dances	7 0 ...	14 0 ...	10 6
" " ...	"Hamlet." Symphonic Poem	6 6 ...	13 0 ...	—
" " ...	"The Seasons." Spring	5 0 ...	12 3 ...	—
" " ...	Do. Harvest Dance (Summer)	5 0 ...	12 6 ...	—
" " ...	Do. Autumn	2 6 ...	6 0 ...	—
" " ...	Do. Winter	7 0 ...	16 6 ...	—
" " ...	Suite in D minor	13 6 ...	26 6 ...	—
" " ...	Do. Valse Gracieuse	4 0 ...	10 0 ...	7 6
" " ...	"Richard III." Overture	2 6 ...	7 0 ...	7 6
" " ...	"Romeo and Juliet." Prelude	2 6 ...	5 6 ...	In the Press.
" " ...	Do. Pastorale	2 0 ...	5 6 ...	—
" " ...	Do. Pavane	2 0 ...	5 6 ...	3 6
" " ...	Do. Nocturne	2 0 ...	5 6 ...	—
" " ...	Do. Dramatic Interlude	2 0 ...	5 6 ...	—
" " ...	"Much ado about nothing." Overture	4 6 ...	10 6 ...	—
" " ...	Do. Bourrée and Gigue	4 0 ...	9 0 ...	In the Press.
BATTISON HAYNES ...	"Westwood" Gavotte (also for Small Orchestra)	2 0 ...	4 3 ...	—
" " ...	Idyll (Violin and Orchestra)	2 0 ...	2 9 ...	—
GEORGE HENSCHEL ...	Incidental Music to Shakespeare's "Hamlet"	7 6 ...	15 0 ...	30 0
OLIVER KING ...	Concert Overture (No. 1), "Among the Pines"	2 6 ...	7 3 ...	4 0
" " ...	Concert Overture (No. 2)	2 0 ...	—	—
ALEX. C. MACKENZIE ...	"Night." A Symphony in F	8 6 ...	—	10 6
" " ...	Benedictus	1 6 ...	2 0 ...	5 0
" " ...	"Burns." 2nd Scotch Rhapsody	3 6 ...	6 6 ...	5 0
" " ...	"Colomba." Prelude	2 0 ...	4 9 ...	4 0
" " ...	Do. Ballet Music and Rustic March	4 0 ...	9 3 ...	10 6
" " ...	Concerto for Violin	6 6 ...	10 3 ...	21 0
" " ...	Highland Ballad	2 6 ...	4 0 ...	—
" " ...	"Jason." Intermezzo	2 0 ...	5 3 ...	7 6
" " ...	"La belle dame sans merci"	5 6 ...	11 9 ...	7 6
" " ...	"The Little Minister." Overture	4 6 ...	10 0 ...	—
" " ...	Do. Three Dances (also for Small Orchestra)	4 6 ...	11 0 ...	—
" " ...	"Manfred." "Astarte"	3 0 ...	—	—
" " ...	Do. Pastorale	4 0 ...	—	—
" " ...	Do. "The Flight of the Spirits"	5 0 ...	—	—
" " ...	Morris Dance	2 6 ...	—	—
" " ...	Fibroch Suite (Violin Solo and Orchestra)	6 6 ...	11 6 ...	—
" " ...	Processional March	2 6 ...	—	—
" " ...	"Ravenswood" Music (Prelude and 1st, 2nd, and 3rd Entr'actes)	8 6 ...	—	—
" " ...	Do. Courante (3rd Entr'acte)	2 0 ...	6 0 ...	—
" " ...	Rhapsodie Ecossaise (No. 1)	3 6 ...	8 0 ...	5 0
" " ...	"Story of Sayid." Solemn March	1 6 ...	3 9 ...	—
" " ...	"Twelfth Night." Overture	6 6 ...	12 0 ...	12 0
" " ...	"The Land of the Mountain and the Flood"	4 0 ...	8 0 ...	10 6
HAMISH MACCUNN ...	Symphonic Variations	4 6 ...	8 6 ...	10 0
C. H. H. PARRY ...	Air de Ballet (String Orchestra)	2 6 ...	—	2 0
PERCY PITT ...	Ballade (Violin Solo and Orchestra)	2 6 ...	6 0 ...	10 6
" " ...	Coronation March	2 6 ...	In the Press.	In the Press.
C. VILLIERS STANFORD ...	The Irish Symphony	11 0 ...	22 6 ...	30 0
" " ...	Prelude to "Œdipus Rex"	4 0 ...	8 0 ...	6 0
" " ...	Symphony (No. 4) in F major	11 0 ...	26 0 ...	30 0
" " ...	Suite for Violin and Orchestra	7 0 ...	12 6 ...	21 0
ARTHUR SULLIVAN ...	Overture, "In Memoriam"	4 6 ...	8 6 ...	15 0
" " ...	Overture, "Di Ballo"	5 0 ...	12 0 ...	12 0
" " ...	"The Tempest." Incidental Music	11 6 ...	19 0 ...	30 0

 MS. copies can be lent on hire in all cases where no prices are inserted.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

IN THE PRESS.

THE CELEBRATED

BALLET MUSIC ("FAUST") BY GOUNOD

FOR

ORCHESTRA.

In consequence of the many inquiries for the above for Orchestra, Messrs. Chappell and Co., the sole Proprietors of the Copyright for Great Britain, have decided to publish an entirely new edition, uniform with the well-known "Nell Gwyn" Dances by Edward German.

Great care has been taken in the Editing, so that while the work remains as originally written, all the necessary cues have been added in order to facilitate the performance by Small Orchestras, for which purpose a Pianoforte Accompaniment has been specially arranged.

Messrs. Chappell hope to have the new Edition ready about the end of the present month. Prices as follow:—

	s.	d.
Full Orchestral Score	10	0	net
Orchestral Parts, Complete	10	0	„
Separate Parts	1	0	„
Piano Accompaniment (for Small Bands)	2	0	„

BEHNKE'S VOICE-TRAINING EXERCISES.

In separate Books for Soprano, Mezzo-Soprano, Contralto, Tenor, and Bass.

Used by all the Principal Teachers.

Paper Covers ... ... 1s. 6d. net.
Cloth Boards ... ... 3s. od. „

BEHNKE'S VOICE-TRAINING STUDIES.

These are intended to follow the Voice-Training Exercises, and are published for the same Voices.

Paper Covers ... ... 1s. 6d. net.
Cloth Boards ... ... 3s. od. „

SANTLEY'S SINGING-MASTER.

In Two Parts.

"The Work is one which recommends itself to all who wish to study the Art of Vocalization."—Times.

In Two Parts ... 4s. od. net each.

BEHNKE'S VOICE-TRAINING PRIMER.

Paper Covers ... ... 2s. od. net.
Cloth Boards ... ... 3s. od. „

SIMS REEVES ON THE ART OF SINGING.

This Work should be read by all Singers and Professors, as it contains much useful information.

Paper Covers ... ... 1s. od. net.

CHAPPELL & CO., Ltd., 50, New Bond St., London.

Printed by Novello and Company, Ltd., at the Novello Works, Soho, and published at 1, Berners St. (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen St. (E.C.). Sold also by Simpkin, Marshall, Hamilton, Kent & Co., Ltd., Paternoster Row (E.C.).—Saturday, February 1, 1902.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 709.—Vol. 43. MARCH 1, 1902. Price 4d.; Postage, 1½d.

Registered for transmission abroad. Annual Subscription, Post-free, 5s

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY,

ROYAL ALBERT HALL.

Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.

Conductor: SIR FREDERICK BRIDGE, MUS.D.

THURSDAY EVENING, MARCH 6, AT 8.

DVOŘÁK'S

"THE SPECTRE'S BRIDE"

AND

MENDELSSOHN'S

"WALPURGIS NIGHT."

Artists:

Madame SOBRINO.
Miss EDNA THORNTON.
Mr. WILLIAM GREEN.
Mr. DANIEL PRICE.

BAND AND CHORUS, ONE THOUSAND.

Organist: Mr. H. L. BALFOUR.

HANDEL'S "MESSIAH"

(With Handel's Original Accompaniments)

ON

GOOD FRIDAY, MARCH 28, AT 7.

Artists:

Miss ESTHER PALLISER.
Miss ADA CROSSLEY.
Mr. LLOYD CHANDOS.
Mr. WATKIN MILLS.

Prices: Stalls, 7s. 6d.; Arena, 6s.; Balcony (Reserved), 5s. (Unreserved), 4s.; Gallery (Promenade), 1s.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC,

TENTERDEN STREET, W.

Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.
Patron: HIS MOST GRACIOUS MAJESTY THE KING.
President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF CONNAUGHT, K.G.
Principal: Sir A. C. MACKENZIE, Mus.D., LL.D., F.R.A.M.

FORTNIGHTLY CONCERTS, March 1 and 15, at 8.

LECTURES by F. Corder, Esq., Wednesdays, March 5 and 12, at 3.15, on "Orchestral Instruments."

ORCHESTRAL CONCERT at Queen's Hall, Tuesday, March 25, at 3.

Prospectus, Entry Forms, and all information may be obtained from the Secretary.

F. W. RENAUT, Secretary.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

The Midsummer F.R.C.O. Examination commences on July 14, 1902. The solo-playing tests are: Toccata (without Fugue) in D minor (Dorian mode), Bach; No. 3, Vol. III., p. 30, Peters' edition; Book X., Novello & Co.; Vol. V., p. 360, Augener & Co. Prelude and Fugue in A major, Samuel Wesley; Cecilia Book 31, Augener & Co. Fantasia in C minor, Op. 35, A. Hesse; Cecilia Book 24, Augener & Co

The A.R.C.O. Examination commences on July 21.

Dr. F. J. Sawyer, F.R.C.O., will deliver a course of lectures on "Extempore Playing," with musical illustrations, at 3 p.m., on Saturdays, April 19, 26, and May 3.

The Book of Examination Papers may be obtained by Members, price 5s., postage 5d.

The College Library is open daily from 10 to 5. On Saturdays the College is open from 10 to 1.

Members desiring practice on the College organ may obtain particulars on application.

The large Hall, and sundry smaller rooms, can be hired for Concerts, Meetings, &c.

E. H. TURPIN, Hon. Secretary.

Hart Street, Bloomsbury, W.C.

MR. ROBERT

NEWMAN'S CONCERTS.

NEWMAN'S

QUEEN'S HALL ORCHESTRA

CONDUCTOR:

MR. HENRY J. WOOD.

1902.

MARCH 8 AND 22, AT 3,

SATURDAY SYMPHONY CONCERTS.

MARCH 28, AT 3 AND 7.30,

GOOD FRIDAY CONCERTS.

APRIL 28 TO MAY 3,

LONDON MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

SUNDAY CONCERTS

EVERY SUNDAY AFTERNOON, AT 3.30.

CHEVALIER RECITALS

RESUME ON EASTER MONDAY.

Full particulars may be obtained at

ROBERT NEWMAN'S BOX OFFICE,

Queen's Hall, Langham Place, W.

THE ASSOCIATED BOARD

OF THE

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC AND ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC FOR LOCAL EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC.

Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.
President: H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.

LOCAL CENTRE EXAMINATIONS

Held annually in March and April. For particulars see SYLLABUS A.

SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS, 1902,

Will be held in three periods—viz., March-April, June-July, and October-November.

For particulars see SYLLABUS B.

Copies of Syllabus A and B will be sent Post-free on application to the Secretary.

Theory papers set in Local Centre and School Examinations in 1896 to 1901 inclusive, can be obtained on application. Price 3d. per set, per year, Post-free.

The Board gives annually Six Exhibitions tenable for two years.

JAMES MUIR, Secretary.

14, Hanover Square, London, W.
Telegraphic address: "Associa, London."

THE GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Managed by the Corporation of the City of London.
Principal: William H. Cummings, Mus. D., Dub., F.S.A., Hon. R.A.M.
Pupils can enter at any time.

Individual tuition by eminent teachers at moderate fees. Within three minutes of Ludgate Hill, Fleet Street, and Blackfriars Station (District Railway).

110 Prizes, Medals, and Scholarships, giving free and assisted tuition, competed for annually. Subjects taught: Piano, Singing, Organ, Harmony, all Orchestral and Solo Instruments, Stage Training in Elocution, Gesture, Fencing, and Opera. Lady superintendent has charge of all ladies attending the school. Prospectus and form of entry free on application to H. SAXE WYNDHAM,
Victoria Embankment, E.C. Secretary.

UNIVERSITY OF DURHAM.

The Examinations for Degrees in Music are held in Durham in March (testamur only) and September.

For particulars, with copies of former Examination Papers, apply to the Secretary of Examinations, or to Dr. Armes, Durham.

BIRMINGHAM AND MIDLAND INSTITUTE.

SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Principal ... ... Granville Bantock.

SESSION 1901-02.

The Session consists of Autumn Term (September 16 to December 21), Winter Term (January 20 to April 5), Summer Term (April 7 to June 21). Instruction in all branches of music. Students' Choir, Students' Orchestra, Fortnightly Rehearsals, Students' Concerts.

Prospectus and further information may be obtained from
ALFRED HAYES, Secretary.

NATIONAL CONSERVATOIRE

Inst., 1895. OF MUSIC, Ltd. Incor., 1900.
Warden: Professor ALEX. PHIPPS, Mus. Bac.
London Office and Educational Department, 60, Berners Street, W.

Musical Examinations in all Towns, April and May. Medals awarded. Diplomas of Associate, Licentiate, and Fellow, granted to Teachers, Organists, Bandmasters, Conductors, &c. Also Gold and Silver Medals. Private and Class Lessons all subjects. Staff of 40 Professors. Branches: The Conservatoire, 5, Hardman St., L'pool, M'chester, &c.

GUILD OF CHURCH MUSICIANS,

42, Berners Street, Oxford Street, London, W.

Patron: His Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury.
President: The Very Rev. Francis Pigou, D.D., Dean of Bristol.

A.G.C.M. and F.G.C.M. Diploma Examination, in April and July, 1902, at the following Centres: London, Birmingham, Liverpool, Manchester, Bristol, Leicester, Leeds, Glasgow, and Belfast.

Annual Membership Subscription, 10s. 6d. Life, £5 5s.

The new Calendar is sent (Post-free) for six stamps.

Free register for Organists requiring appointments.

For further particulars, apply to
Dr. LEWIS, 42, Berners Street, London, W.

VICTORIA COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

(Under the direction of The Victoria College Corporation, Ltd.)

INCORPORATED 1891.

Hon. Patron: His Grace the Duke of Argyll, K.G., K.T.

BOARD OF EXAMINATION.

J. H. Lewis, Mus. Doc., D.C.L. (Principal).
George Prior, Mus. Doc., Oxon., F.R.C.O. (Registrar).
J. M. Bentley, Mus. Doc., Cantab., Hon. F.R.A.M.
(Chairman of the Board).

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT.

Director of Studies: Churchill Sibley, Mus.D.

West-End Premises: 42, Berners Street, Oxford Street, W.

First-class instruction in all musical subjects. Moderate terms.

Provincial Examinations in all subjects, for Certificates and Diplomas, A.V.C.M., L.V.C.M., F.V.C.M., throughout the year.

Metropolitan Examination in April, 1902.

Local Theoretical Examination at all Centres in April and July, 1902.

Holder of the Victoria College Vocal Scholarship, 1901: Miss Lottie L. Wakelin, L.R.A.M.

Gold, Silver, and Bronze Medals are offered for competition.

Local Secretaries required for towns not already represented.

All communications to be addressed as usual to the Central Office, 21, Burleigh Street, Strand, W.C.
GEO. A. STANTON, F.G.C.M., Secretary.

MUSICAL INTERNATIONAL COLLEGE,

Limited.
Principal: Edwin M. Lott, Mus. Doc.
Founded 1878. Incorporated 1893.
Central Office: 113, Great Portland Street, W.
Local Theoretical Examination, May 15, 1902.
Practical Examinations throughout the kingdom.
W. A. PHILPOTT, Mus. Doc., Secretary.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MADAME CONWAY (Soprano Vocalist)
And Professor of Singing.
444, Moss Lane East, Oxford Road, Manchester.

MISS BEATRICE CROSSE (Soprano)
Concerts, Dinners, &c.
Address, 4, Chandos Road, Bruce Grove, Tottenham.

MISS MARJORIE EATON (Soprano)
"Sang in a free, graceful, easy style, which showed great talent and ability."—Andover Advertiser.
Concerts, Oratorios, &c., 237, Katherine Street, Ashton-under-Lyne.

MRS. S. FORD (Soprano)
For Oratorio or Miscellaneous Concerts.
For terms, address, Avondale, Park Road, E., Wolverhampton.

MADAME GOODALL (Soprano)
Oratorios and Concerts.
Burley Road, Leeds.

MADAME ANNIE HAYMAN (Soprano)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Thorncliffe, Lowfield Road, Stockport.

MR. WRIGHT BEAUMONT (Tenor)
(Bronze and Silver Medalist and Certificate, R.A.M.)
Address, 21, Mysore Road, Clapham Common, S.W.

MR. J. G. BLANCHARD
(Principal Tenor, Italian Church, Hatton Garden).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Address, 41, Savernake Road, N.W.

MR. GEO. H. PERRINS (Tenor)
The Cathedral, Hereford.
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address as above.

MR. ALBERT PIPER (Tenor)
For Concerts, At Homes, &c.
Address, 55, Wolfington Road, West Norwood, S.E.

MR. GWILYM RICHARDS (Tenor)
(Of the Queen's Hall Choral and Wagner Concerts; Crystal Palace; St. James's Hall; London Musical Festival); Promenade Concerts.
150, North Side, Clapham Common, S.W.

MR. WILLIAM A. SHEEN
(Principal Tenor, The City Temple).
Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 116, High Street, Kingsland, N.E.

MR. WILLIAM D. VINCENT (Tenor)
For Ballad Concerts, Sunday Recitals. "Specialty," Irish Songs.
Address, 167, Tachbrook Street, Belgrave Road, London, S.W.

MR. SAMUEL JAQUES (Baritone)
(Of the Provincial Concerts).
Terms, &c., address, Somercotes, Derbyshire.

MR. AND MRS. WALLIS A. WALLIS
(Baritone, Soprano, and Elocutionists).
Concerts, Lyrical Recitals. Pupils (Resident, &c.). Sharon, Acton, W.

MR. EATON COOTER (Basso-Cantante), A.R.C.M.
St. George's and H.M. Private Chapels, Windsor Castle.
Address, The Cloisters, Windsor.

MISS MARY OULD, L.R.A.M. (Solo Violinist)
For Concerts, At Homes, Lessons, &c.
Oakdene, Kilburn Priory, Maida Vale, W.

MISS BESSIE HOLT (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, Organ Recitals, &c.
Address, Rawstenstall, near Manchester.

MISS ANNIE MAPPLEBECK (Soprano)
Concerts.
32, Burlington Crescent, Goole, Yorkshire.

MISS ETTIE SPICE (Soprano)
MISS EMILY TANNER (Contralto)
Will sing at Concerts, At Homes, &c., for expense fees. Duets a specialty. 19, Tay Bridge Road, Clapham Common, S.W.

MISS KATE GREGORY
(The new Yorkshire Contralto)
Professional Pupil of Albert Jowett, Esq., Yorkshire Training College of Music, Leeds.
Oratorios and Ballad Concerts.
Terms, apply, Doncaster.

MISS GERTRUDE HEY (Contralto)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Lawn Side, Clarendon Road, Whalley Range, Manchester.

MISS ALICE WOLSTENHOLME (Contralto)
Address, Radcliffe, Manchester.

MISS GRACE E. MELLOR (Violinist)
(Pupil of Herr Hans Sitt, Leipzig Conservatoire).
Concerts, At Homes, &c. Lessons in Violin, Harmony, and Composition. Terms, &c., address, Tresco, Woodville, Burton-on-Trent.

B. E. KENT (Lyric Authoress).
Apply, 155, Rye Lane, Peckham, S.E.

MASTER GILBERT HOLDSWORTH, the Yorkshire Boy Soprano (late Soloist at Leeds Parish Church). For Oratorios, Glee Societies, Ballad Concerts, and Church Festivals. Address, 104, Holland Road, Kensington, W.

MISS FLORENCE MAYE, L.R.A.M., Solo and Orchestral Harpist, HAS REMOVED to 8, Blomfield Street, W.

MR. J. L. HADDON begs to announce CHANGE OF ADDRESS to:—
34, Aberdeen Road, Highbury Grange, N.

MISS KATHLEEN RAIMBACH (Professional Coach.) Reference to known Prima Donna. Address, 23, Acton Lane, Harlesden, N.W.

MISS AMY HARDING
(SOPRANO)
(Crystal Palace, St. James's Hall, &c., Concerts).
For photo, testimonials, and critiques, 41, Palace Sq., Norwood, S.E.

MISS ESTELLA LINDEN
(YORKSHIRE SOPRANO)
This Season's engagements include:—
"Flying Dutchman" ... ... Sheffield Musical Union.
"Hymn of Praise" ... ... Beckenham, Kettering, Brixton.
"Creation," "Last Judgment" St. Saviour's Cathedral, Southwark.
"Judas Maccabæus" ... ... Crystal Palace.
"Acis and Galatea," "May Queen" Hull Vocal Union.
"God, Thou art great" ... Brixton Oratorio Society.
"Elijah" ... ... Stafford Choral Society.
Orchestral, Ballad Concerts, "Daisy Chain," &c., London & Provinces.
Address, 35, Lancaster Road, S. Hampstead, N.W.

MADAME ADA LOARING
(SOPRANO)
Pupil of Mr. Sims Reeves and Mr. Albert Visetti.
For Oratorio or Ballad Concerts.
18, Halesworth Road, Lewisham, S.E.

MISS AMY SARGENT
A.R.A.M. (SOPRANO)
39, Blandford Square, N.W.

MISS NELLIE WILLIS
(SOPRANO).
"A voice of remarkable range, flexibility, and sweetness."—Lancaster Standard.
"Sang with first-rate articulation, good method, and taste."—Huddersfield Examiner.
Address, 120, Bentley Road, Doncaster.

MISS BERYL CLIVE
(CONTRALTO),
14, Gladsmuir Road, Whitehall Park, N.

MISS
GERTRUDE MACAULAY
(CONTRALTO)
Mr. FRED. WALKER (Hon. R.A.M., Professor of Singing, Royal Academy of Music and Guildhall School of Music) writes:—
"I have great pleasure in stating that Miss Gertrude Macaulay possesses a contralto voice of exceptional power and compass, and is thoroughly reliable in oratorio or ballads. I can strongly recommend her to concert givers."
Address, 73, Carlton Mansions, Maida Vale, W.

MR. JAMES LEYLAND
(TENOR).
For vacant dates apply, 106, Bolingbroke Grove, Wandsworth Common, S.W.

MR. SAMUEL MASTERS
(TENOR),
61, Alexandra Road, Wimbledon, S.W.

MR. HENRY PLEVY
(TENOR)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Address, 30, Hamilton Gardens, N.W.

MR. JOS. REED
(PRINCIPAL TENOR),
Trinity College, Cambridge.
Terms, &c., apply 31, Chesterton Road, Cambridge.

MR. BENTLEY WEST
(TENOR)
is now Booking Dates for next season.
ORATORIOS—a specialty.
"Messiah," "Elijah," "Hymn of Praise," "St. Paul," "Samson," "Judas Maccabæus," "Jephtha," "Israel in Egypt," "Acis and Galatea," "Creation," "Golden Legend," "King Saul" (Parry), "Dream of Gerontius" (Elgar), &c.

Address, 18, Edna Street, Crumpsall, Manchester.

MR. MONTAGUE BORWELL
(BARITONE).
Mr. Henry J. Wood (Conductor, Queen's Hall Concerts) writes:—
"1, Langham Place, W., Feb. 14, 1901.
"Mr. Montague Borwell is an excellent vocalist.
"He has been most successful both at Queen's Hall, and at my Nottingham and Wolverhampton Concerts, in most difficult and trying rôles, and I consider him one of the most reliable and painstaking baritone vocalists now before the public.
"Henry J. Wood."
AND
MISS WINIFRED MARWOOD
(Mrs. Montague Borwell—SOPRANO).
Address, 56, Forburg Road, Stoke Newington, N.

MR. JOHN BROWNING
(BARITONE),
SOLOIST, LEEDS MUSICAL FESTIVALS, 1898 and 1901.
Of the leading English and Scotch Concerts,
Principal, Leeds Parish Church, &c.
"Elijah."—Cork Musical Society.—"Mr. John Browning created a splendid impression, and sang throughout the oratorio with much skill and effect. . . . He was very warmly received, and more than once the audience desired an encore. . . . Mr. Browning is unquestionably a finished artist, and it is a genuine pleasure to listen to his work in oratorio."—Cork Constitution, November 29, 1901.
Derby.—Concert at the Drill Hall.—"Mr. John Browning made his first appearance in Derby. . . . He has a good presence and a fine voice, and his singing was a great success. We shall be very glad to hear Mr. Browning again."—Derby Advertiser, November 22, 1901.
Cumberland Festival.—"Samson."—"Mr. John Browning is a favourite with the Workington musicians, and his glorious voice and magnificent interpretation of the music fired the hearts of both chorus and people."—Workington News, Jan. 4, 1902.
"Creation."—"Of the principals, Mr. John Browning came with perhaps the highest reputation of the three, and has the satisfaction of knowing that he enhanced it by his performance on this occasion. A baritone, with an extensive range and of great power throughout, his singing was marked by a richness and breadth of tone in the more robust passages, and by an insight into the items that called for delicate handling, which would have been hard to surpass."—Worksop Guardian, Feb. 7, 1902.
"Hiawatha's Departure."—"Mr. John Browning, who possesses a really fine baritone, was warmly applauded for his refined rendering of the several important solos assigned to him."—Ulverston Advertiser, Feb. 13, 1902.
"Rendered the numbers allotted to him with perfect artistic taste and finish, and was accorded a most flattering reception."—Ulverston News, Feb. 15, 1902.
Ballads.—"Mr. John Browning's sonorous bass broke on the ear with refreshing vigour, and one listened to his scholarly and musical periods, with unaffected delight. He is a fine vocalist, and fully deserves his popularity."—Rosendale (Lancs.) Free Press, Feb. 15, 1902.
Bookings forward include "Elijah," "St. Paul," "Hiawatha," "Creation," "Stabat Mater," "Messiah," "Mount of Olives," Bach's "Passion," "Crusaders," "May Queen," "Samson," &c., at London, Cork, Kirkcudbright, Kettering, Douglas (I. o. M.), Leeds, Sheffield, Rotherham, Lytham, Rochdale, &c., &c.
Address, Marlboro' Grove, Leeds.

MR. CHARLES KNOWLES
(BARITONE)
Of the Leeds, London, Sheffield, and Chester Festivals.
Queen's Hall Promenade and Symphony Concerts.
Crystal Palace and principal Provincial Concerts.

Newport Choral Union.—"St. Paul."—"Mr. Charles Knowles, the baritone, has a fine voice, and sang well throughout, while in rare moments he reached the heights of inspiration."—South Wales Argus, Feb. 14, 1902.
Edinburgh Choral Union.—"Messiah."—"The contributions of Mr. Charles Knowles, the bass of the quartet of principals, were exceedingly enjoyable. His voice had roundness and excellent quality, and he sang, for example, 'Why do the nations,' in quite a brilliant manner. To the grand air 'The trumpet shall sound,' a telling obbligato on the trumpet was given by Mr. Mortimer, both the singer and the instrumentalist being at the close warmly applauded."—Scotsman, Jan. 2, 1902.
Belfast Philharmonic Society.—"St. Paul."—"Mr. Charles Knowles must have been a delighted surprise to many. If he has not already come he is the coming man. His voice is of rich quality, and his music was excellently interpreted and with fine dramatic effect. . . . An exceedingly fine exposition of the air 'Consume them all' was given by Mr. Knowles; again, in 'O God, have mercy,' he distinguished himself . . . Mr. Knowles sang all his music with such excellent effect that we hope we shall have him back again ere long."—Belfast Newsletter, Nov. 16, 1901.
Dundee Choral Union.—"Messiah."—"Mr. Charles Knowles created a very favourable impression. His voice is powerful, and he has framed his methods of vocalisation upon excellent models; alike in the tender air 'But who may abide' and the bravura air, 'Why do the nations,' Mr. Knowles proved himself a most capable artist."—Dundee Advertiser, Dec. 17, 1901.
For terms, &c., address—
24, Acacia Road, St. John's Wood, London, N.W.

MR. BANTOCK PIERPOINT
(BARITONE)
Of Bristol, Bournemouth, Chester, Cheltenham, Tewkesbury, and Norwich Musical Festivals, and principal Concerts in the Kingdom.
Apply, usual Agents; or, 105, Brondesbury Villas, London, N.W.

MR. HENRY DOBSON
(BARITONE)
(Of the London, Provincial, and Scottish Concerts).

Birmingham.—"An artistic début was made by Mr. Henry Dobson, baritone, whose method is distinctly scholarly in every way."—Birmingham Daily Mail, October 7, 1901.

". . . His voice is of a high timbre and well trained, his excellent phrasing being a feature of his singing."—Birmingham Daily Post, October 7, 1901.

"The vocal contributions were of a high standard of excellence, and Mr. Henry Dobson, baritone, is entitled to much distinction for his artistic efforts."—Birmingham Daily Gazette, October 7, 1901.

7, Station Terrace, Hucknall Torkard, Nottingham.

MR. CHARLES TREE
"Elijah."—Bath.—Feb. 10, 1902.

"A particularly fine Elijah. Created a deep impression upon his audience. A singularly beautiful and rich baritone voice, of most consistent quality."—Chronicle.

"Especially felicitous was the selection of Mr. Tree. Equally good in the Prophet's scorn and passionate appeal. He sang with great feeling."—Bladud.

Address, 23, Clifton Road, Maida Vale, W.

MR. ARTHUR WALENN
(BARITONE)
Of the Albert Hall, Queen's Hall, St. James's Hall Popular Concerts, Crystal Palace Saturday Concerts, Walenn Chamber Concerts, &c.
20, Ashworth Mansions, Elgin Avenue, London, W.

MR. EDGAR ARCHER
(PRINCIPAL BASS of the City Temple, of the Crystal Palace and St. James's Hall Concerts).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Apply, Langdale, Rutland Park, Willesden Green, N.W.

MR. ARTHUR BARLOW
(BASS).
Address, 6, Beech Mansions, West Hampstead, N.W.
Telegrams: "Arthanita, London."

MR. HENRY SUNMAN
L.R.A.M. (BASS)
Of the Gloucester and Cheltenham Festivals, &c.

"Acis and Galatea."—Stourbridge.—"Mr. Sunman made a great success of the bravura air, 'O ruddier than the cherry,' which was very finely sung, and he was most dramatic in the trio, 'The flocks shall leave the mountains,' the rage and fury of the giant Polyphemus being unmistakable."—County Express, Oct. 26, 1901.

Dvořák's "Stabat Mater."—Bath.—"The bass solo and chorus 'Fac ut ardeat cor meum,' in which Mr. Sunman took the solo part, received an especially good rendering, and Mr. Sunman's excellent voice was heard with great effect."—Bath Daily Chronicle, Nov. 14, 1901.

"Creation."—Dudley.—"Mr. Sunman sang with great taste, exquisite finish, and dramatic force. . . . 'Rolling in foaming billows' was a fine effort. . . . 'Furious storms tempestous rage' heard him to great advantage, and the long recit. and air that describes so wonderfully the unfolding of the great creative scheme could not have been in better hands."—Dudley Herald, Nov. 23, 1901.

Sullivan's "The Light of the World."—Banbury.—"Mr. Henry Sunman, the talented bass—who is always sure of an appreciative audience at Banbury—was acceptable as ever in all he had to do—and many were the numbers falling to his share—and perhaps his best effort was in the solo, 'Daughters of Jerusalem,' the expression infused into this effective piece being exceedingly fine."—Banbury Advertiser, Dec. 12, 1901.

"Messiah."—Coalville.—Mr. Sunman, who had hitherto delighted a Coalville assembly, more than fulfilled expectations. He was in excellent voice, and was the first to compel the audience to depart from the rule of not demanding encores, when in the second part he gave 'Why do the nations.' The rendering of this air was magnificent. His deep melodious tones were also heard to great advantage in 'The trumpet shall sound.'"—Coalville Times, Dec. 13, 1901.

"Messiah."—Todmorden.—"The audience were generous and unstinted in their applause, so that Mr. Sunman was speedily brought to his feet again, and returned a gratified bow. He made a supreme effort in 'The trumpet shall sound,' and was rewarded with warm applause."—Todmorden Herald, Dec. 18, 1901.

Sullivan's "Martyr of Antioch."—Coventry.—"Mr. Sunman is an old favourite with Coventry people, and, if he had not been, he would have ingratiated himself on this occasion by his dignified singing in the work, and by his excellent rendering of 'The Sailor's Grave.'"—Coventry Herald, Jan. 17, 1902.

Please address usual Agents; or, Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford.

MR. F. G. H. MOORE (A.R.A.M.)
(Walter Macfarren Gold Medalist, R.A.M.).
Solo Pianist and Accompanist, Concerts, At Homes, Lessons.
27, Lady Somerset Road, Highgate, N.W.

MISS ELLEN CHILDS
(CHROMATIC HARPIST)
Having studied in Paris under the direction of the Inventor, Miss Childs is prepared to give LESSONS on the NEW CHROMATIC HARP (without pedals). For terms, apply, 170, Belsize Road, N.W.; or, care of Messrs. Pleyell Wolff, Lyon and Co., 79-80, Baker Street, Portman Square, W.

MR. HERBERT WALENN
(SOLO VIOLONCELLIST).
Address, 5, Wellington Place, London, N.W.

SOLO BOYS.
LONDON TRAINING SCHOOL FOR CHORISTERS,
POLYTECHNIC, REGENT ST., W.

President, MR. ALBERTO RANDEGGER.
Principal, MR. JAMES BATES.

Thoroughly trained, experienced Solo Boys, holding positions as Solo Boys at twenty-four of the principal London Churches, can be strongly recommended for Church Festivals, Oratorios, Concerts, Organ Recitals, &c.

Over 100 excellent Chorus Boys also available for all kinds of concerted music.

A special branch for the preparation of scholars (resident or day) for Cathedral or other Choristerships has now been opened. Full particulars of Mr. Bates, as above; or, 7, Blomfield Crescent, Upper Westbourne Terr., Hyde Pk., W. Telegrams—"Musicomane, London."

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.

Mr. Dutton (St. Paul's Cathedral) supplies Boys, personally trained and thoroughly reliable, for Church Festivals, Concerts, At Homes, &c. For terms, vacant dates, and further particulars, address, Mr. Henry J. Dutton, 17, Alpha Rd., New Cross, S.E.

MR. TANN'S SOLO BOYS.

Mr. W. R. B. Tann, Organist and Choirmaster of St. Saviour's Church, Paddington, is prepared to supply well-trained Solo Boys for Oratorios, Festival Services, Organ Recitals, Concerts, At Homes, &c.

A number of excellent Chorus Boys also available.

For terms and vacant dates, address, Mr. W. R. B. Tann, 55, Warwick Road, Maida Vale, W.

ALICE E. JOSEPH
Late Private Secretary to Sir Augustus Harris, Drury Lane Theatre, Royal Opera, Covent Garden,
OPERA AND CONCERT AGENCY,
7A, Hanover Street, London, W.

MADAME MELBA and the best Artists have been engaged through above agency.

Telegraphic address: "Alicetta," London.

LONDON CONCERT & CHOIR AGENCY.

SOLOISTS and CHORUS VOICES for Festivals, Oratorios, Concerts, Glee and Madrigal Societies, At Homes, Banquets, &c.
Mr. James Bates, Polytechnic, Regent Street, W.

Choir Exchange and Music Publishing Agency. Chief Office: 5, East 14th Street, New York.

Church positions secured in the United States for Organists and Singers for May, 1902. Publication secured for Composers' Manuscripts. For terms, address, The John E. Webster Co.

Musical Agency.—Coronation Fixtures.—Bookings for first-class Artists should be made at once, in view of the above. Address, Fred. B. Townend, Concert Direction, 11, Queen Victoria Street, London, E.C.

Mr. W. C. Ainley, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (1884), teaches Harmony, Counterpoint, &c., by Correspondence. Terms moderate. Eastfield House, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

Dr. Allison instructed by Post Candidates who obtained degrees of Mus.D. and Mus.B. at Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, London, and Durham Universities. Diplomas of L.R.A.M., A.Mus. L.C.M., L.Mus. L.C.M., F.R.C.O., and A.R.C.O.; Appointments at College and School of Music, and as English Cathedral and Parish Church Organists; Gold Medals, Silver Medals, Prizes, "Honours" and Pass Certificates (of the Colleges of Music) to the number of seven hundred. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Revision of Compositions, by Post, to correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Theory, Singing, Organ, and Pianoforte. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

Revision of Musical Compositions.—Dr. Horton Allison, Mus.D., 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

Mr. J. Percy Baker, A.R.A.M., Mus. Bac., Dunelm, teaches Harmony, Counterpoint, &c., by Post. Personal Lessons in Pianoforte or Theory at own or pupil's residence; or, at 60, Berners Street, W. Schools attended. Address, 289, High Road, Lee, S.E.

MR. JOHN E. CAMPBELL (Composer of a Series of Organ Pieces, two Humoreskes for Piano, &c.,—The Vincent Co.) gives CORRESPONDENCE LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c. Special attention given to Composition. Address, Cuba House, Ramsgate.

MR. A. CHATFIELD, F.R.C.O., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., prepares CANDIDATES for MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS, personally or by post. Schools attended. Engagements accepted for Organ Recitals and Accompanist. Address, 4, Granville Road, North Finchley, N., and at 33, Rathbone Place, W.

MR. T. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.R.C.O., L.Mus.T.C.L., gives LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., and prepares CANDIDATES for ARTS and MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Latest successes, Mus.Bac., Oxford and Durham, L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., F.R.C.O., A.R.C.O., &c. Sheppard Street, Stoke-on-Trent.

DR. CUTHBERT HARRIS, Mus. Doc., Dunelm, F.R.C.O., preparation Personally or by Post for Mus. Bac., R.C.O., and all other Exams. Many past successes. Moderate fees. Ardencote, Buckleigh Road, Streatham, S.W.

DR. ATHELSTAN G. IGGULDEN, Mus. Doc. (Dunelm, F.R.C.O., gives LESSONS and prepares for all MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by post. The Dingle, Reigate, Surrey.

OLIVER IVE, Mus. Bac., Oxon.—LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, COMPOSITION, &c., by correspondence or otherwise. Candidates prepared for University and other Examinations, as well as for Preliminary Arts. Address, 24, Carmalt Gardens, Putney, S.W.

DR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac., Cantab.; Mus. Doc., Trinity College, Toronto; gives LESSONS, Personally or by Post, in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, FORM and ANALYSIS, ORCHESTRATION, ACOUSTICS, &c., and prepares for Musical Examinations. Latest successes: MUS. BAC., LONDON, Dec., 1901; DURHAM, 1901, 1900, and all previous years; OXFORD FINAL and FIRST MUS. BAC., 1900; F.R.C.O. and A.R.C.O., 1900 and 1901; L.R.A.M. (Composition and Pianoforte), 1900, 1899, &c.; A.R.C.M. (Theory of Music, Composition, and Pianoforte Teaching); CAMBRIDGE and DUBLIN, MUS. BAC., L.Mus. and A.Mus., L.C.M.; L.T.C.L., A.T.C.L., and Special Certificates, 1900, 1901, &c.; Senior Associated Board. Special and individual attention given to Correspondents. Terms moderate. Address, 70, Parkhill Road, London, N.W.

DR. F. J. KARN corrects MSS. for Publication, and writes Analyses of Classical Works for Examinations. 70, Parkhill Road, London, N.W.

MR. A. MANGELSDORFF, L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., Pianist, Coaches for DIPLOMAS in PIANOFORTE PLAYING and TEACHING. Paper work, postal. Address, Atherstone.

DR. MARCHANT, Mus.D., Oxon., F.R.C.O., (Author of "500 Fugue Subjects and Answers," Novello's Primers, No. 35), &c., PREPARES CANDIDATES for all Musical Examinations by Post. 10, Glebe Crescent, Stirling, N.B.

MR. H. H. L. MIDDLETON, Mus.B., desires to state that TWENTY-ONE of his Pupils were SUCCESSFUL at the A.R.C.M. EXAM., 1901. Hazelwood, Dollis Rd., Finchley, N.

SPECIAL COACHING for DIPLOMAS by Post. A.R.C.M., 1895-1901, SEVENTY-SEVEN passes, L.R.A.M., 1897-1901, TWENTY-SEVEN passes. Many successes in other Degrees. Lessons in all branches of Theory, Piano, Organ, and Singing. Address, Mr. H. H. L. MIDDLETON, MUS. BAC., F.R.C.O., Hazelwood, Dollis Road, Finchley, N.

DR. HAMILTON ROBINSON, Mus. Doc., Dunelm, A.R.A.M., F.R.C.O., Lecturer on Harmony in King's College, Lond., Organist and Choirmaster, St. Stephen's, South Kensington. PIANOFORTE and ORGAN LESSONS, HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, COMPOSITION, &c., Personally or by Correspondence. Preparation for University, R.C.O., and all other Examinations. Classes. 25, Palliser Road, West Kensington, W.

HERR SCHRÖDER (late of Dr. Hoch's Conservatoire, Frankfort). Thorough Tuition PIANO and HARMONY. Open for ENGAGEMENTS at Concerts, At Homes, &c. Good Accompanist. Apply, 61, Lancaster Road, Stroud Green, N.

MR. STRETTON SWANN, Mus. Bac., Dunelm, F.R.C.O., gives LESSONS or prepares for EXAMINATIONS. Personally or by Post.
New Hydraulic Organ, seven minutes from London Bridge.
181, Longley Road, Tooting, S.W.

MR. ALFRED W. TOMLYN, Mus. Bac., Dunelm, L.Mus.T.C.L., COACHES for EXAMS. Lessons follow closely lines of latest Exam. papers. Terms strictly reasonable. Many years' experience. 58, Comiston Road, Edinburgh.

THE VIRGIL CLAVIER PIANOFORTE METHOD.—Mr. STIEBLER COOK, A.R.A.M., gives LESSONS on the above system (recommended by Paderewski, Von Bülow, De Pachmann). The most rapid and certain means for acquiring a perfect technique. 17, Keppel St., Russell Sq., London, W.C.

MISS JEAN HUNTER, L.R.A.M. LESSONS at 60, Berners Street, W., in VOICE PRODUCTION, SINGING, and PIANOFORTE. Letters, 87, Herbert Rd., Plumstead.

MR. ALLEN GILL, F.R.A.M., attends at 60, Berners Street, for LESSONS in VOICE PRODUCTION, SINGING, and for REPERTOIRE. For terms, apply to 21, Cathcart Hill, N.

SOPRANO WANTED, for a Dissenting Church in the neighbourhood of Brixton. Salary, £20. Two Sunday services, one week-day practice. E. W. E., 21, Kellett Road, Brixton, S.W.

ALTO WANTED, St. Matthew's, Upper Clapton. £15. Apply, by letter, Choirmaster, 29, Paget Road, N.

TENOR WANTED, for West-End Church.—Used to Gregorians. £15. Apply, by letter, to Organist and Choirmaster, Christ Church, Marylebone, N.W.

ALL SOULS', Loudoun Road, N.W. TENOR WANTED, by Easter. £10 per annum. Apply, Mr. T. Blackith (Organist), 122, Belsize Road, South Hampstead.

KING'S COLLEGE, CAMBRIDGE.—There is a VACANCY in the Choir for a TENOR CHORAL SCHOLAR. Stipend offered, £80 a year (with certain allowances). The Competition will be held on Friday, May 9. For further information apply to the Dean, King's College, Cambridge. Applications to be sent in by May 2.

BASS WANTED, for a Dissenting Church in the neighbourhood of Brixton. Salary, £15. Two Sunday services, one week-day practice. E. W. E., 21, Kellett Road, Brixton, S.W.

SOPRANO VOCALIST will give her SERVICES in Oratorios for Expenses. Large répertoire and Press Opinions. Please Address, Vocalist, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

TO CHOIRMASTERS.—CONTRALTO requires SUNDAY DUTY. Pupil of Mr. Fred Walker. Good reader. Compass, Two Octaves. Apply, M. F. A., 119, The Grove, Ealing.

CRUCIFIXION.—BARITONE and TENOR open for Good Friday; fully acquainted with the music. Address, A. R. A., care of Street's Agency, 30, Cornhill, E.C.

ORGANIST (Voluntary) WANTED, for Cricklewood Presbyterian Church. Temporary Organ: fine new one about building. Address, Mr. Gittens, 93, Walm Lane, Willesden Green.

AN APPLICATION has been made to a Conservatory of Music in California for a thorough MUSICIAN—one who is a PIANIST, reading well at sight, and versed in Counterpoint—to arrange, transpose, and adapt musical compositions for various instruments. Splendid opportunity for good musician seeking exceptional climate of South California. Moderate remuneration; board free. Apply (letters only), stating qualifications, &c., to Musicus, care of Theosophical Book Co., 3, Vernon Place, London, W.C.

AS ACCOMPANIST or SINGING COACH. Young Man, pupil of eminent Accompanist, desires ENGAGEMENTS. Private practice or Concerts; exceptional experience. A.R.C.O. Good testimonials. Ally. Gro., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANOFORTE TUNER WANTED. A young Tuner who can tone and is well up in repairs. Outdoor (with occasional canvassing). Permanency. Apply, stating salary, to Godfrey and Co., Ltd., Brighton.

YOUNG LADY WANTED, for Music Saloon on South Coast. Only those with thorough knowledge of Catalogues, Book-keeping, and general business ability need apply. State age, salary required, and enclose photo and references to Pianola, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

PARTNERSHIP OFFERED (Active or Sleeping). Good Provincial Business connected with Music. Established 12 years. Capital required, about £2,000. Principal only. Box 124, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGAN PRACTICE. Three manuals and pedals. One Shilling per hour. The South London Organ Studio, 343, Coldharbour Lane, close to Brixton Station.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—ORGANISTS can PRACTISE on the Grand four-manual Organ by WILLIS (blown by hydraulic engines controlled from keyboard) in the Concert Hall of the Hampstead Conservatoire. The Hall is warmed by hot water. Specification of the organ, and terms of practice on application to the Secretary, Hampstead Conservatoire, Swiss Cottage, N.W.
N.B.—The Conservatoire is eight minutes by rail from Baker Street, Metropolitan Railway. Trains every ten minutes.

NEW ORGAN STUDIO, with Three-manual PIPE ORGAN, blown by water. Terms for Practice, 1s. per hour. At Smyth's Music Depôt, 54, London Road, Forest Hill, S.E.

ORGAN STUDIO.—3 manuals, C.O. pedals, 1s. hour. Willis, "Tower Organ Works," 2, Church Row, Aldgate, London, E.C. (Estd. 1827.) Musical Instruments and Fittings.

9 GUINEAS.—AMERICAN ORGAN (list price, 20 guineas), 11 stops, including two knee-stops and the beautiful solo stops, voix celeste and vox humana; two octave couplers, handsome high case; in use about four months; ten years' warranty; easy terms arranged. Packing and carriage free. Approval. Full price paid will be allowed within three years if exchanged for a higher-class instrument. D'Almaine and Co. (established 117 years), 91, Finsbury Pavement, E.C. Open till 7. Saturdays, 3.

ORGANS (New and Second-hand) for SALE. Various prices. Instruments built for Church or Chamber, from £50, on up-to-date principles, at Bedwell and Son's, Cambridge Organ Works, Cambridge.

SPLENDID THREE-MANUAL ORGAN, 27 stops, entirely new, now in course of building, for SALE, to suit Church or Chapel; also, two-manual Organ, 12 stops, all latest improvements. A three-manual second-hand Organ, in good condition. W. E. Richardson and Sons, Central Organ Works, Hulme, Manchester.

RELIABLE SECOND-HAND ORGANS for SALE. One, Two, and Three Manuals and Pedals. Prices from £45 to £500. Particulars on application. Gray and Davison, 6, Pratt Street, Camden Town, N.W. Organ Builders to Her late Majesty the Queen and H.R.H. Prince Consort. Established 1750.

MODERN-BUILT ORGANS for SALE.—Three Manuals (CC to G) and Pedals (CCC to F), 34 stops (open for inspection in London Church), £420. Three-manual and Pedal Chamber Organ. Height, 10 ft. 10 inches; part pneumatic. Open to offer. Two manuals and pedals, 15 stops, each, £175 and £150. One manual and pedals, 7 stops, £17. Inspection invited.
Eustace Ingram, Organ Builder,
Only Address, 361, Liverpool Road, London, N.

WANTED, SPECIFICATION of small PIPE ORGAN, to cost, say, £120. Quality not quantity required. No Pedals. Everything to be of the best. Chapel seats 300. Address, X., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, ORGAN PEDALS (Second-hand), suitable for Piano. State full particulars and price. Forsyth, 2, Airlie Terrace, Dundee.

ORGAN PEDALS to PIANOS.—New method of Attachment by TUBULAR PNEUMATIC. This action surpasses all mechanical actions for prompt and Organ-like Touch. It is less expensive, easier to attach, and does not injure the most delicate Pianoforte. Prospectus and price list free. Apply to Norman and Beard, Ltd., 11, Queen Victoria Street, E.C.

15 GUINEAS.—PIANO ("Empress" Model), solid iron-frame upright grand (list price, 35 guineas); full compass, full trichord, French check action, &c.; in handsomely carved walnut wood case, four feet two inches in height; in use only six months; sent on approval, carriage paid, to any part of the United Kingdom; ten years' warranty; easy terms arranged; full price paid will be allowed if exchanged for a higher-class instrument within three years. D'Almaine and Co. (established 117 years), 91, Finsbury Pavement, City. Open till 7. Saturdays, 3.

FOR SALE. VIRGIL CLAVIER, in good condition; very cheap. Address, Mrs. Dick, St. Luke's Rectory, C.-on-M., Manchester.

FINE 'CELLO by Benjamin Banks, of Salisbury (guaranteed by Hart); also good Bow. £20. A. H., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

THE OLD FIRM.

P. CONACHER & CO.,
Organ Builders,
SPRINGWOOD WORKS,
HUDDERSFIELD.
TWO GOLD MEDALS.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,
ORGAN BUILDERS,
PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.
(ESTABLISHED 1841.)
Specifications and Estimates sent free.

Auction Rooms, specially for the Sale of Musical Property.
MESSRS. PUTTICK and SIMPSON, Auctioneers, 7, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights. Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

TO CHORAL and ORCHESTRAL SOCIETIES.—Several CHORAL WORKS, PART-SONGS, and ORCHESTRAL WORKS for SALE. Applications for lists to Dr. Bunnett, Cathedral Close, Norwich.

MUSICAL OPINION (price 2d. everywhere).—Send 4d. for new number to 35, Shoe Lane, London, E.C. About 250 cols. interesting Reading and Advertisements. Founded 1876.

The Swanton £50 Challenge is still unaccepted. See current No. of Musical Opinion.

HUGH SWANTON.

THE LEADING EXPERT IN ORGAN BLOWING.

ELECTRIC BLOWING. THE COMPOUND CENTRIFUGAL ORGAN BLOWER. GAS ENGINE BLOWING.

This beautiful apparatus may now be inspected in actual operation at my Factory at Stepney (six minutes from City).

The Compound Centrifugal Organ Blower offers the ONLY SATISFACTORY SOLUTION for blowing an Organ by Electric Motor or Gas Engine. All other devices, including that abomination, the noisy and inefficient Fan, are completely superseded by this new and most ingenious invention.

It is self-controlled. Its speed is slow and constant. Its wind supply is automatic. It is almost noiseless. It takes small space. It is simple. It is low in first cost. It is low in running cost.

79, WHITEHORSE STREET,
STEPNEY, LONDON, E.

Installations now in operation at—

St. Paul's Cathedral,
Norwich Cathedral,
Llandaff Cathedral,
Dundalk Cathedral,
Armidale Cathedral, N.S.W.,
Church House, Westminster, &c.

Installations now in hand for—

Dublin Cathedral,
Aachen (Germany),
Betchworth,
Cheltenham,
Cork,
Edinburgh,
Horsham,
London,
Portmadoc,
Redhill,
Stockport,
Weston-super-Mare.

WILLIAM HAYNES deceased.

Pursuant to the Statute 22nd and 23rd Victoria, Chapter 35, intituled "An Act to further amend the Law of Property and to relieve Trustees."

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that all Creditors and persons having any claims or demands upon or against the estate of WILLIAM HAYNES, late of "St. Cecilias," Sheepcote Road, Greenhill, Harrow, in the County of Middlesex, but formerly of Great Malvern, in the County of Worcester, Professor of Music, deceased (who died on the 26th day of April, 1901, and whose Will was proved by Henry Dyke Acland and Edward Nevinson the Executors therein named on the 11th day of September, 1901, in the Principal Registry of the Probate Division of the High Court of Justice), are hereby required to send particulars in writing of their claims and demands to us the undersigned the Solicitors of the said Executors on or before the 10th day of April next. AND NOTICE IS HEREBY ALSO GIVEN that after that day the said Executors will proceed to distribute the assets of the said Deceased among the parties entitled thereto, having regard only to the claims of which the said Executors shall then have notice, and that they will not be liable for the assets or any part thereof so distributed to any person of whose debt or claim they shall not then have had notice.

Dated this 12th day of February, 1902.

NEVINSON AND BARLOW,
The Old Vicarage,
Malvern,
Solicitors for the Executors.

Fourth Thousand.
TE DEUM LAUDAMUS in G. By Alfred J. Dye. Price 4d.
London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Fourth Thousand.
MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in F. By Arthur Carnall, Mus.B., Cantab. 4d. Sample copies, Penge, S.E.

Sixth Thousand.
MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat. By William S. Vinning, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Price 3d.
London: Novello and Company, Limited.

NEW EASY and COMPLETE COMMUNION SERVICE in D. By Frank Adlam. Price 6d. Novello & Co., Ltd., London. Written in same style and containing all the features which have made the Composer's famous Service in F so exceedingly popular.

ST. ANNE'S, Soho.—BACH'S PASSION MUSIC (St. John). Fridays in Lent, 8 p.m. (Good Friday, 4 p.m.). Full Orchestra and Organ. Admission, body of Church, Ticket gratis. Send stamped envelope to Rector, 28, Soho Square, W. The N. and S. Galleries without ticket. Surplus after expenses to Parish Charities.

ROYAL INSTITUTE of PAINTERS, Piccadilly.—Miss LOUIE LÖWE and Miss ANNA LÖWE beg to announce THREE CONCERTS (under the direction of N. Vert), on Wednesday Evenings, February 5 and 19 and March 19, at 8.30, assisted by Miss Nellie Ridding (Violinist) and Miss Louie Löwe's Chorus and Orchestra. Reserved seats, 5s.; unreserved seats, 1s. Tickets may be obtained of Miss Löwe, 92, Oxford Gardens, W.; and of the usual Agents.

FOUR PRIZES, of £3 each, for FESTIVAL HYMN TUNES, Manchester Sunday School Union. Send stamp for conditions to F. Womersley, 53, Brown Street, Manchester.

FOR ST. PATRICK'S DAY.

BY ORDER OF THE QUEEN

SONG

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

ISABEL SULIVAN

SET TO THE TUNE OF

"THE WEARIN' OF THE GREEN"

(1757)

ARRANGED BY

ALICIA ADÉLAÏDE NEEDHAM.

IN E FLAT, F, AND G.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS EACH.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE VILLAGE ORGANIST

NEW NUMBERS.

BOOKS 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, and 30, NOW READY.
Book 31.—CORONATION NUMBER. (In the Press.)

Price One Shilling each.
Books 25 to 30 together, forming Volume V., bound in cloth, price Six Shillings.

Detailed List on application.

NOVELLO'S ANTHEM BOOKS

NEW NUMBERS

BOOKS 7, 8, and 9, NOW READY.

Price One Shilling each.
Tonic Sol-fa, Eightpence each.

Detailed List on application.

NOVELLO'S

REVISED LIST OF WORKS SUITABLE FOR

PRESENTS AND SCHOOL PRIZES

Detailed List on application.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

The Posthumous Works of Mendelssohn.

MESSRS. NOVELLO have the honour to announce that the following Works by Mendelssohn are still Copyright, and that they are the property of their Firm; also that it is contrary to Law to import any Foreign editions of the same into Great Britain or the Colonies, or to sell or purchase copies of any such editions which may have been at any time unlawfully imported, viz.:—

Opus 46. "For His is the Sea," being the Appendix to "O come, let us sing."

Opus 98. ("Ave Maria," Sop. Solo and Chorus for Female Voices / "Vintage Song") From "Loreley."

Opus 101. Overture in C (Trumpet Overture).

Opus 102. The Songs without Words. Nos. 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, and 48. Constituting the whole of the Eighth Book.

Opus 103. Funeral March. Composed for a Military Band.

Opus 104. (a) Three Preludes for the Pianoforte. (b) Three Studies for the Pianoforte.

Opus 105. Sonata in G minor for the Pianoforte.

Opus 106. Sonata in B flat for the Pianoforte.

Opus 107. Symphony No. 5. The "Reformation."

Opus 108. The Cornelius March.

Opus 109. Romance sans Paroles for Violoncello and Pianoforte.

Opus 110. Sestetto for Pianoforte, Violin, two Violas, Violoncello, and Contrabasso.

Opus 111. "Tu es Petrus," Chorus for Five Voices (S.S.A.T.B.)

Opus 112. ("But the Lord will gather all them." / "Thou who has doomed man to die." Originally composed for the Oratorio "St. Paul."

Opus 113. Opus 114. Two Concert Pieces in F minor and D minor for Clarinet and Basset-horn, with Pianoforte Accompaniment.

Opus 115. (No. 1). "For ever blessed" (Beati mortui). (No. 2). "The righteous living for ever" (Periti autem).

Opus 116. "Saw ye not the pallid Angel."

Opus 117. Album-Blatt for the Pianoforte.

Opus 118. Capriccio in E minor for the Pianoforte.

Opus 119. Perpetuum Mobile for the Pianoforte.

Opus 120. Four Part-Songs for Men's Voices:—
No. 43 in Novello's Series.—A Festal Greeting.
,, 44 do. Gipsy Song.
,, 45 do. Hunting Song ("Waken, Lords").
,, 46 do. Land of Beauty.

Opus 121. Responses and Hymn for Men's Voices and Organ.

WITHOUT OPUS NUMBERS.

The Maiden's Lament. No. 76 of Novello's Edition of Mendelssohn's Songs, edited and translated by Natalia Macfarren. (See also Opus 112, above.)

Two Pieces for the Organ:—
Andante with Variations. Allegro in B flat.

NOVELLO & CO., LTD.,
1, BERNERS STREET, W.
February, 1, 1902.

TRINITY COLLEGE LONDON.

(INSTITUTED 1872.)

President:
The Right Hon. LORD COLERIDGE, M.A., K.C.

Warden:
EDMUND H. TURPIN, Mus.D.

Director of Examinations:
JAMES HIGGS, Mus.D.

MAY 21 is the LAST DAY OF ENTRY for the MUSICAL KNOWLEDGE (Theory) EXAMINATION, which takes place on June 21.

The forthcoming Local Examinations in INSTRUMENTAL and VOCAL MUSIC take place up to and including July, at the various centres throughout the United Kingdom, and include Pianoforte and Organ Playing, Solo Singing, and Violin Playing.

The New Preparatory Examination in Pianoforte and Violin Playing will be included.

JUNE 1 is the LAST DAY OF ENTRY for the following OPEN SCHOLARSHIPS, tenable for three years, and EXHIBITIONS tenable for one year:—

One Pianoforte Scholarship.
One Vocal Scholarship.
Benedict Pianoforte Exhibition.
Sims Reeves Vocal Exhibition.
College Violin Exhibition.
College Viola Exhibition.
College Violoncello Exhibition.
College Double-Bass Exhibition.
College Organ Exhibition.

JUNE 21 is the LAST DAY OF ENTRY for the next Half-yearly HIGHER EXAMINATIONS, taking place at the College on July 21 and following days.

Particulars and Entry Forms on application.

By order,
SHELLEY FISHER, Secretary.

Mandeville Place, Manchester Square, W.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC,

PRINCE CONSORT ROAD, SOUTH KENSINGTON, S.W.
Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1883.

Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.
President: H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.
Director: Sir C. HUBERT H. PARRY, D.C.L., M.A., Mus. Doc.
Hon. Sec.: CHARLES MORLEY, Esq., M.P.

THE NEXT TERM begins on Monday, May 5.

The EXAMINATION for ASSOCIATESHIP (A.R.C.M.) will be held in April, 1902. Last day for receiving Forms of Entry, March 8.

Syllabus and official Entry Forms, may be obtained at the College, Prince Consort Road, South Kensington.

FRANK POWNALL, Registrar.

REVISED EDITION.
INCLUDING THE NEW TITLE OF THE
PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES
And containing the new Forms of an Accession Service for January 22nd.

THE CATHEDRAL PRAYER BOOK

Being the BOOK OF COMMON PRAYER with the Music necessary for the use of Choirs, together with the CANTICLES and PSALTER (the Cathedral Psalter), Pointed for Chanting.

Edited by Sir JOHN STAINER, M.A., Mus. Doc., Oxon.
AND
The Rev. WILLIAM RUSSELL, M.A., Mus. Bac., Oxon.

New Editions on India Paper.

	s.	d.
No. 1. Demy 8vo., 628 pp., large type. With Canticles and Psalter pointed for Chanting:—
Rutland Morocco, India paper	11	0
Turkey Morocco, India paper	15	0
Russia leather, India paper	16	6
No. 2. Demy 8vo., 600 pp., large type. With Canticles and Psalter pointed, set to appropriate Chants (Cathedral Psalter Chants):—
Rutland Morocco, India paper	11	0
Turkey Morocco, India paper	15	0
Russia leather, India paper	16	6
No. 3. Imperial 32mo., 696 pp. Pocket Edition. With Canticles and Psalter pointed for Chanting:—
Rutland Morocco, India paper	7	0
Turkey Morocco, India paper	9	0
Russia leather, India paper	10	6

The Clergy can be supplied with copies, in quantities of not less than 25, at 20 per cent. discount.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

John Broadwood & Sons'

LIMITED,

NEW SHORT OVERSTRUNG GRAND

105 GUINEAS.

"MULTUM IN PARVO."

33, GREAT PULTENEY STREET, LONDON, W.

THE LONDON ORGAN SCHOOL

AND INTERNATIONAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC,
Established 1865.

22, PRINCES STREET, CAVENDISH SQ., W. (close to Oxford Circus).
Director and Principal: T. H. YORKE TROTTER, M.A., Mus.D., Oxon.
Director of the Violin School: WILHELM SACHSE.

The School is open daily from 9 a.m. till 9 p.m., and provides a THOROUGH EDUCATION for PROFESSIONAL and AMATEUR MUSICIANS. Lessons may begin on any date, and a single subject taken if desired.

PRIVATE LESSONS are given in Harmony, Counterpoint, and Composition; Pianoforte, Organ, Singing, Violin, Viola, Violoncello and Double-Bass; all Wind and other Orchestral Instruments; Choir Training, Elocution and Stage Deportment, Modern Languages, &c.

DAY AND EVENING CLASSES are held in Harmony and Counterpoint, Musical Dictation, Quartet and Ensemble Playing, and in Elocution (Mr. Charles Fry), and Modern Languages.

The School has two Full Orchestras, a String Orchestra, and two Choral Classes.

The CONCERT ORGAN and two other three-manual Instruments are available for practice.

Prospectus on application to the Secretary.

Paper, 1s. / Imitation leather, 2s. — BOSWORTH EDITION, No. 321. — Red cloth & gold letter, 3s. 6d.

CORONATION ALBUM

CONTENTS BEAUTIFULLY ENGRAVED.

1. Coronation March (Meyerbeer), 2. King Edward March (Aletter), 3. Queen Alexandra March (Fliersbach), 4. For King and Country March (Jessel), 5. Tannhäuser March (Wagner), 6. Lohengrin Bridal March (Wagner), 7. Faust Soldiers' March (Gounod), 8. Scipio (Handel), 9. Union Jack (Auld lang Syne) March (Aletter).

OSCAR BERINGER

Daily Technical Studies, 6s. net.
New and enlarged Scale and Arpeggio Manual, 2s. net.

IN THE PRESS.

PIANOFORTE TUTOR

In this work, Mr. Beringer has gone entirely out of the beaten track and produced an elementary method on quite a novel system, the originality and simplicity of which should certainly prove of immense interest to the profession.

BOSWORTH EDITION.

LASSEN, ED. New Songs: Dear Home, Love's Message, Cherished Dreams, Roses of Palestine.

RANDEGGER, A. New Songs: Lover's Thoughts, When you're away, Flowers' Message.

GERMER, H. Morceaux Célèbre Album, 2s. net, containing works by Lassen, Kjerulf, Schumann, Tschaikowsky, &c.

ŠEVČÍK METHOD.

KOCIÂN CONCERT, VIENNA, JAN. 22.

BOSWORTH AND CO.
LONDON, LEIPZIG, PARIS, VIENNA

REDUCED PRICES
FOR THE UNREVISED EDITIONS.

THE CATHEDRAL PSALTER
THE CATHEDRAL PRAYER BOOK

The Publishers, having in stock a limited number of the above publications, handsomely bound in Red Basil with Red Edges, but unrevised as regards the recent alterations in the Titles of The Prince and Princess of Wales and in the Accession Service, are prepared to dispose of the remaining copies at specially reduced prices.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE MUSICAL TIMES
AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.
MARCH 1, 1902.

HANDEL'S CORONATION ANTHEMS.

Zadok the Priest.
The King shall rejoice.
Let thy hand be strengthened.
My heart is inditing of a good matter.

The Coronation of King George the Second and Queen Caroline, in Westminster Abbey, in the year 1727, furnished the occasion for the composition of this quartet of noble choral works. A similar event in the annals of our country — soon, we hope, to come to pass — provides an appropriate opportunity for a few remarks on the history of these regal anthems.

The first question for consideration is: What was Handel's position at Court at that time? The answer may be partly, if not altogether satisfactorily found in Chamberlayne's 'Magna Britanniæ Notitia; or the Present State of Great Britain,' for 1727—the Whitaker's Almanack of the day. In that useful volume, and under the heading 'The King's Officers and Servants in ordinary above Stairs, under the Lord Chamberlain,' we find—

Composer of Musick for the Chapel Royal
Mr. George Handel.

At that time the office of Composer to the Chapel Royal was held by Dr. Greene, and as Handel's name as 'Composer of Musick' does not appear in Chamberlayne's issue of 1726 or 1728, it seems probable that this appointment was of a temporary nature for the Coronation ceremony. The same book of reference issued in the following year (1728) supplies this official information under 'Establishment of their Royal Highnesses the Princess Royal, the Princess Amelia and the Princess Carolina':—

Dancing-Master, Mr. Anthony L'abbé .. £240
Musick-Master, Mr. George Frederic Handel £200

The names of both these Masters follow the list of 'Pages of the Back Stairs'; and Mr. Anthony L'abbé, the professor of dancing, not only took precedence of Mr. Handel, but received £40 a year more for his light fantastic toe tuition.

That Handel was commissioned to compose Coronation anthems is borne out by the following anecdote related by Burney in his Commemoration of Handel, p. 34:—

> Handel had words sent to him, by the bishops, for the anthems; at which he murmured, and took offence, as he thought it implied his ignorance of the Holy Scriptures: "I have read my Bible very well, and shall choose for myself." And, indeed, his selection of the words, "My heart is inditing of a good matter," was very judicious, and inspired him with some of the finest thoughts that are to be found in all his works.

Handel was probably unaware that one set of the selected words, 'Let thy hand be strengthened,' had been used at the Coronation of Charles I., a hundred years earlier.*

Our composer was forty-two years old when he wrote the Coronation anthems. He had been a permanent resident in England for fifteen years, and was a naturalised Englishman of a year's standing.† As everybody knows, he had been in the service of George I. when that monarch held sway as Elector of Hanover before ascending the English throne, and without doubt, Handel was a persona grata at the Courts of the first two Georges of these realms.

No time seems to have been lost between the demise of George I. and the assumption of the crown by his son and successor. The death of the former occurred suddenly, on June 9, 1727, and the Coronation of the latter took place on October 11, only four months after. Very little information, unfortunately, is obtainable in regard to the music of the gorgeous ceremony and its performance in Westminster Abbey. The late Dr. Chrysander, in his unfinished 'Life' of Handel, states that the rehearsal took place on September 6, i.e., more than a month before the performance! But the British Journal, from which he derived his information, is, by reason of a misprint, wrongly dated September, instead of October, and this misinformation has been copied by Rockstro! Chrysander, by the way, in his preface to the German Handel Society's Edition of the Coronation anthems, gives September 11 as the date of the ceremony, which is exactly one month too soon.

The only rehearsal information quoted by Chrysander is thus briefly recorded in the British Journal of October (misprinted September) 7, 1727:—

> Yesterday the fine Anthem composed by Mr. Handel, for their Majesties' Coronation was rehearsed in Westminster Abbey.

Here is another account, not referred to by any previous writer on the subject:—

> Yesterday there was a Rehearsal of the Musick that is to be perform'd at their Majesties' Coronation in Westminster Abbey, where was present the greatest Concourse of People that has been known.—The Weekly Journal, or the British Gazeteer, October 7, 1727.

Yet another, which has escaped the notice even of Chrysander, as well as every other biographer of Handel. It is to be found in a funny little quarto newspaper, bearing the alliterative title, Parker's Penny Post. Here is the extract, from the issue of Wednesday, October 4, 1727, in an exact reproduction:—

> Mr. Hendle has compoſed the Muſick for the Abbey at the Coronation, and the Italian Voices, with above a Hundred of the beſt Musicians will perform; and the Whole is allowed by thoſe Judges in Muſick who have already heard it, to exceed any Thing heretofore of the ſame Kind: It will be rehearſed this Week, but the Time will be kept private, leſt the Crowd of People ſhould be an Obſtruction to the Performers.

* See a valuable article on 'Coronation music of the past' in the Athenæum of January 4, 1902, p. 25.

† See The Musical Times, May, 1901, p. 313.

This is important. In the first place it appears that Handel enlisted the services of his Italian opera company for the Coronation music-making, though it may be assumed that the choirs of the Chapel Royal and Westminster Abbey also assisted. The 'above a hundred of the best musicians' evidently refers to the orchestral players, and enables us to form some idea of the magnificence of the performance. Dr. Chrysander, who was evidently unaware of the above statement in Parker's Penny Post, draws certain conclusions from some memoranda by Handel in regard to the names and number of singers; but these probably refer to a subsequent concert performance. The order in which the four anthems were sung is doubtful; but that they all formed a part of the ceremony is proved by a German account of the Coronation ceremony.

The following extract refers to the organ used on the memorable occasion, the instrument being erected 'above the altar':—

The fine Organ made by Mr. Schrieder, which was set up in Westminster Abbey, and used on the Day of the Coronation, has been presented to the said Abbey by his Majesty. It is accounted one of the best Performances of that Maker.—The British Journal, or the Censor, February 10, 172$\frac{2}{3}$.

This instrument was shortly afterwards enlarged and rebuilt, as a note in one of the Abbey records states :—

The new organ, built by Mr. Schrider and Mr. Jordan, was opened on the 1st August, 1730, by Mr. Robinson; the Anthem, Purcell's "O give thanks."

The newspapers of the day confirm the above information. Mr. Robinson—the John Robinson of double-chant-in-E-flat fame—was then organist of the Abbey, and the designation 'new organ' was doubtless attributable to the added Swell organ, invented by Abraham Jordan. This reconstruction of the organ was probably the occasion upon which the instrument was removed to the screen, the position it has ever since occupied in Westminster Abbey.

The official account of this Coronation (of George II.) states that the Children of the Chapel Royal wore surplices with scarlet mantles over them; that the Choir of Westminster were surpliced and walked 'with their Musick books'; and that the Gentlemen of the King's Chapel were clad in scarlet mantles. We also learn that 'The Way from the steps of the Throne in Westminster Hall to the Choir in Westminster Abbey, was Floor'd with Boards, and cover'd with Blew Cloth.' In the procession there followed after the choir 'The Organ Blower, Two Sackbuts, and a Double-Courtell.'* This official account contains some curious information. The 'solemnities' included the throwing about of medals on the floor of the Abbey, and 'The noise ceasing' is another indication of what would strike us nowadays as irreverence in so sacred a fane.

One wishes that good, gossipy Mrs. Delaney—a veritable feminine Pepys—had been present in the Abbey. She was then twenty-seven years of age, very fond of music, and knew Handel well. She did, however, attend a portion of the ceremony, but, unfortunately, only that which took place in Westminster Hall. She tells us that she started out at half-past four in the morning, that she was squeezed nearly flat, and that she lost her cloak! 'The room [Westminster Hall] was finely illuminated,' she goes on to say, 'there were eighteen-hundred candles besides those on the table, and all were lighted in three minutes by an invention of Mr. Heidegger's.' This gentleman candle-lighter was Handel's opera manager, and further noted as being the ugliest man of the time. Mrs. Delaney, who visited at Court, records that the Queen had twenty-four thousand pounds' worth of jewels on her coronation petticoat! Lord Harvey supplies more detailed information concerning this article of queenly attire :—

The dress of the Queen on this occasion was as fine as the accumulated riches of the city and suburbs could make it; for besides her own jewels (which were a great number and very valuable), she had on her head and on her shoulders all the pearls she could borrow of the ladies of quality at one end of the town, and on her petticoat all the diamonds she could hire of the Jews and jewellers at the other.

Handel's autograph manuscripts of the Coronation Anthems are the property of the King, who has inherited them, through successive Sovereigns, from King George III. They, with the other books in the Royal Music Library, are preserved in a fire-proof room in the basement of Buckingham Palace, and are under the care of Sir Walter Parratt, Master of the Music to the King. It is exceedingly interesting to turn over the pages of the volume, bound in royal red, containing these anthems, and to touch the paper on which the master's hand has written down the notes in 'his rough pot-hooks and hangers.' On the first page of Zadok the Priest there is a large circular stain, as if Handel had unwittingly ornamented his score by placing his coffee-pot or kettle upon it. None of the anthems are dated, and the age-stained pages are very free from alterations. In one place, Handel has written in bold letters, and with a broad-pointed pencil, the word 'cut.' He has followed his usual custom of using up some of the material of these anthems for other works. The last movement of 'Zadok the Priest' serves a similar purpose in the Occasional Oratorio (1746), and three of the numbers of 'The King shall rejoice' were made to do duty in the oratorio of 'Deborah' (1733), as shown in the following table :—

The King shall rejoice.	Deborah.
The King shall rejoice.	The great King of Kings.
Thou hast prevented him.	O celebrate his sacred name.
Allelujah.	Allelujah.

* Courtaul, cortaud, corthal. An ancient instrument of the bassoon kind. The old English sackbut, or sacbut, was a bass trumpet, with a slide like the trombone.—(Stainer and Barrett's Dictionary of Musical Terms.)

The music of the first chorus of 'Let thy hand be strengthened' was also used in 'Deborah,' and adapted to the words 'Let thy deeds be glorious.' Rockstro, in his 'Life of Handel,' states that 'Let thy deeds be glorious' were the original words; but an examination of the Buckingham Palace score clearly shows that this is an error, and that the interlining of them, as used in 'Deborah,' took place after 'Let thy hand be strengthened' had been written by Handel, and not before.

His Majesty the King has graciously given permission for a page of the autograph of 'The King shall rejoice' to be reproduced in facsimile, as a special supplement to this article on Handel's Coronation Anthems.

F. G. E.

A VISIT TO ELY CATHEDRAL.

The glory of Ely is its Cathedral. The little city per se has not such interesting historical associations as Winchester, for instance, nor can it boast of a great public school. No distinguished man seems to have been born there, and its eight thousand inhabitants doubtless live content under the shadow of the lovely sanctuary which forms so prominent a feature in the heart of Fenland.

It is a far cry to the year 673, when Queen Etheldreda founded the Monastery of Ely—a double house of monks and nuns, of which she was the first Abbess. Two hundred years later the Danes destroyed the Monastery, which was reconstituted in 970 for monks only. Two interesting historical facts relating to music are recorded during the second Monastery period. Edward the Confessor, who had been brought to

PRIOR CRAUDEN'S CHAPEL, IN THE CATHEDRAL PRECINCTS.

(Photograph by the Photochrom Co., Ltd.)

Ely in infancy, and offered by his parents on the altar, was educated there, and Bentham tells us that 'it was a constant tradition with the Monks that the young Edward used to take great delight in learning to sing Psalms and godly Hymns, among the children of his own age, in the Cloister, on which account he always retained a favourable regard for the place, after he became King.' Canute the Dane, and King of all England, had a love of minstrelsy and a taste for ecclesiasticism. On one occasion he went to Ely to keep the Feast of Purification with the monks. As he approached the city in his barge, he heard pious strains rising from the church which prompted the words of this song, said to have been made at the time :—

> Merrily sung the monks of Ely
> As Cnut the King was passing by :
> 'Row, boatmen, nearer,' said the King,
> 'And let us hear these sweet monks sing.'

The surrender of the Abbey to William the Conqueror, in 1071, prepared the way for the building of the present Cathedral eight years afterwards on the site of the former buildings. Abbot Simeon—brother of Walkelin of Winchester, and a kinsman of the Conqueror—began the erection of the noble edifice with the transepts, which are plain, early Norman. The building of the nave (late Norman), tower and choir continued throughout the twelfth century, and on September 17, 1252, the whole church was solemnly dedicated in honour of Saints Mary, Peter, and Etheldreda, the ceremony taking place in the presence of King Henry III. and his son, Prince Edward, afterwards King, and called Longshanks. Thus for six-and-a-half centuries has this noble edifice given distinction to the Fen country which surrounds it.

In the year 1322 a serious disaster happened to the Cathedral in a fall of the centre Norman tower. It is no wonder that Sacrist Alan de Walsingham was 'vehemently grieved and earnestly sorrowful at this disastrous and lamentable event, and for a moment knew not which way to turn himself or what to do for the reparation of such a ruin.' However, he soon gave proof that this serious catastrophe to the sanctuary was to become a blessing in disguise. The supreme constructive genius of Alan de Walsingham led to the building of the octagon tower and Lantern—to which we shall presently refer.

It may be convenient at this point to refer to the connection of Oliver Cromwell with Ely. In 1636 he succeeded his uncle as Tithe farmer to the Dean and Chapter, and lived in the city for a period of four years. The great Protector, in 1647, made a proposal to Parliament that Ely Cathedral should be razed to the ground, and the proceeds of the materials thereof be sold to make provision 'for the relief of sick and maimed Soldiers, Widows, and Orphans.' He further showed his hand in the following letter addressed to one of the clergy:—

"To the Reverend Mr. Hitch, at Ely: these"

"Ely," 10th January, 1643.

Mr. Hitch,—Lest the soldiers should in any tumultary or disorderly way attempt the reformation of the Cathedral Church, I require you to forbear altogether your Choir-service, so unedifying and offensive:—and this as you shall answer it, if any disorder should arise thereupon.

I advise you to catechise, and read and expound the Scripture to the people; not doubting but the Parliament, with the advice of the Assembly of Divines, will direct you farther. I desire your Sermons "too," where usually they have been,—but more frequent.

Your loving friend,

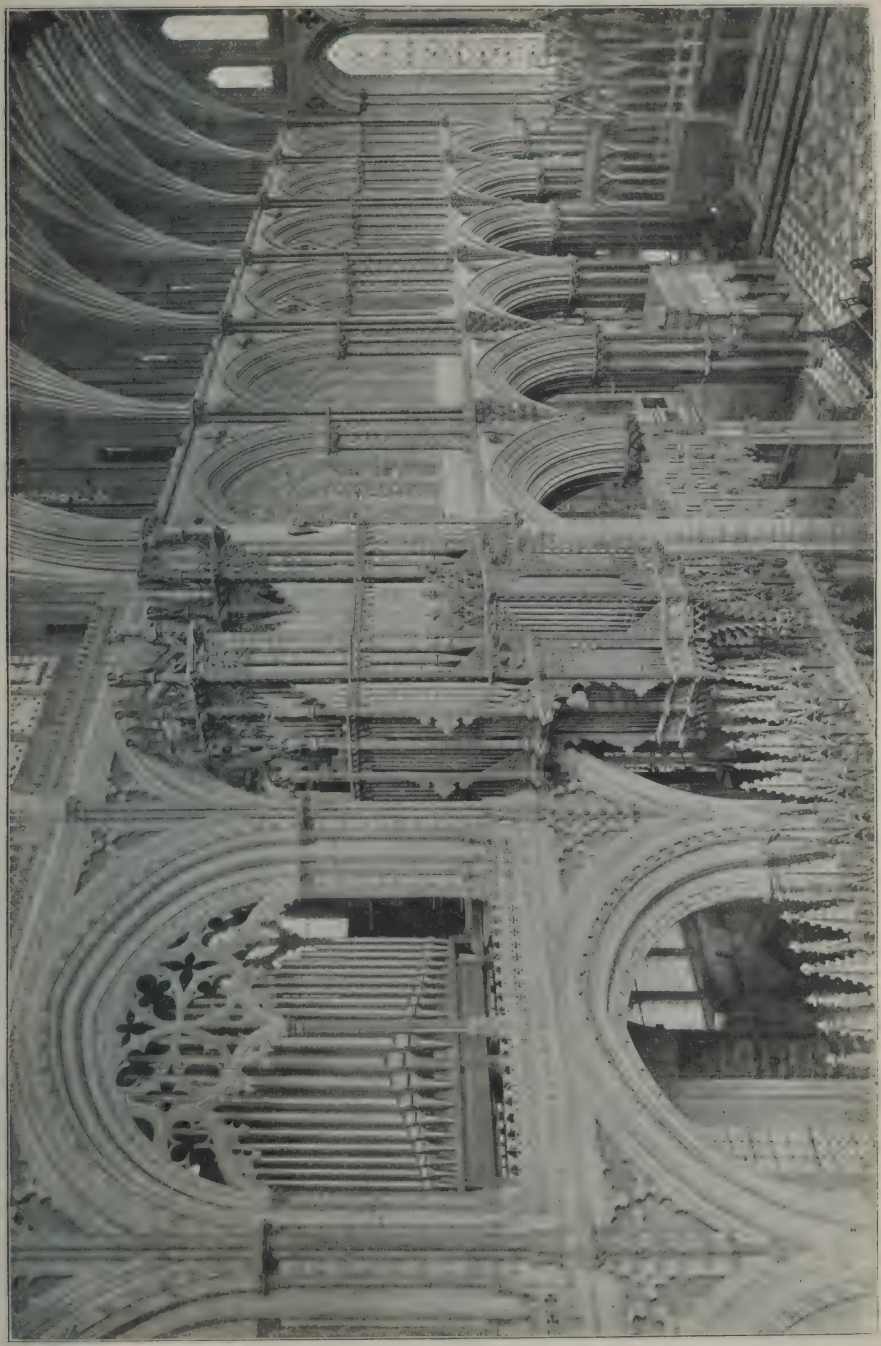
Oliver Cromwell.

The Rev. Mr. Hitch heeded not this communication, and persisted in the choral service, whereupon Cromwell with his soldiers entered the Cathedral, and walking up to the choir said: 'I am a man under authority; and am commanded to dismiss this Assembly.' Mr. Hitch, nothing daunted, started off with 'As it was in the beginning—!' 'Leave off your fooling, and come down, Sir,' said Cromwell, which 'Mr. Hitch did now instantaneously give ear to; and he "with his whole congregation," filed out of the building.'

The visitor to Ely Cathedral is indeed fortunate if he has so capable and interesting a cicerone as the Precentor, the Rev. J. H. Crosby. The present writer can bear testimony to his grasp of the subject, and his rare gift of imparting technical knowledge in simple yet graphic language. As we stand at the dizzy heights of the clerestory, the Precentor will point out the remarkable variety of styles which the Cathedral can architecturally boast—from Early Norman to Early Perpendicular—covering a period of four centuries. It is no wonder that he waxes enthusiastic—as does his visitor—at the exquisite loveliness of the six easternmost bays of the Choir, technically called the Presbytery, a specimen of the most beautiful English Gothic of the 13th century. 'Nowhere,' says Professor Freeman, 'can we better study the boldly clustered marble pier with its detached shafts, the richly floriated capitals with their round abaci, the yet richer corbels which bear up the marble vaulting shafts, the bold and deeply cut mouldings of every arch great and small. Lovelier detail was surely never wrought by the hand of man.'

Ely can boast of the only Gothic dome in existence. No one who beholds this most fascinating and wonderfully constructed feature of the Cathedral interior can fail to be struck with that lofty Lantern—'its unique beauty and grace, queenly beyond words.' Whatever may have been the attractions of the square Norman tower which fell in 1322, its substitute must surely compensate for the loss of that erection. It is interesting to examine, under the Precentor's guidance, and high up in the Lantern itself, the eight angle supports of oak, each sixty-three feet long, which form the back-bone, so to speak, of Alan de Walsingham's wonderful design. Other features of architectural beauty are the Galilee porch—a superb specimen of Early English work; and the richly-carved woodwork in the choir, the canopies of the stalls being the finest decorated work in England.

The painted ceiling of the Nave is another remarkable characteristic of this Cathedral of many beauties. This artistic adornment is the work of two country squires—the late Mr. Le Strange, of Hunstanton, who painted the six Westernmost panels, and Mr. T. Gambier Parry (the father of Sir Hubert Parry), of Highnam Court, Gloucester, who completed the work after the death of Mr. Le Strange, and who also designed and painted the panels in the Lantern. Mr. Gambier Parry, with that genuine enthusiasm so characteristic of his son, worked from morning till night as if his livelihood depended on his success. He took a house in London, and studied illumination at the British Museum. At Ely he completed the work lying on his back in the elevated region of the Nave ceiling.



The Choir of Ely Cathedral.

Photo by the Photochrom Co., Ltd.

In connection with this artistic achievement, the following extract from a recent letter written by Sir Hubert Parry to the present writer will be read with interest :—

It was very long ago that my father undertook the work, and I was quite a small boy. Mr. Le Strange, who did the Western half of the nave roof, was an old friend of my father's and his schoolfellow at Eton ; and when he died my father was persuaded to carry the work to a conclusion, partly out of feeling for his old friend. As a boy, I remember how busy with studies he was ; and the immense sheets of rough drawing paper that filled up one of the rooms at home, and the healthy smell of turpentine that filled the air, when he was experimenting in ways of preparing surfaces for painting on. I was at Ely with him for a short while when he was doing the Easternmost bay of the nave ; and of course my boyish delight was chiefly in climbing about the ladders and scaffolding.

THE ORGAN LOFT AND ITS CIRCULAR STAIRCASE IN THE NORTH-EAST AISLE.
(Photograph by the Photochrom Co., Ltd.)

We give a photograph of two of Mr. Gambier Parry's panels, representing The Annunciation and David. It is interesting to learn, over the tea-cups in the pleasant house of the venerable Canon Dickson (Precentor of Ely from 1858 to 1895), and from his lips, that the heads painted on the roof by Mr. Gambier Parry are portraits of bedesmen, choirmen, and others connected with the Cathedral. One is a representation of Canon Dickson's mother, and the face of Isaiah is a portrait of Dean Peacock. And here all honour should be paid to the memory of the said good Dean Peacock, who held the office from 1839 to 1858. It was during his wise and beneficent regime that the great work of restoration, under the late Sir Gilbert Scott, was begun in the year 1844, and which, at a total cost of some £70,000, has been carried on by his successors, Harvey Goodwin (afterwards Bishop of Carlisle), Charles Merivale, and the present dean, the Very Rev. C. W. Stubbs, D.D. The Dean's stall at Ely, formerly the Prior's, is on the north side of the Choir ; the first return stall on the south side is assigned to the Bishop, the last Abbot, Hervé, having become the first Bishop. There is no Bishop's throne in this Cathedral.

Some of the former Bishops of Ely, by-the-way, may be specially mentioned. One, Bishop Morton, is immortalised by Shakespeare in his King Richard III. (Act iii., Sc. 3), when the Duke of Gloster says :—

> My lord of Ely, when I was last in Holborn,
> I saw good strawberries in your garden there ;
> I do beseech you, send for some of them.
>
> Ely.—Marry, and will, my lord, with all my heart.
> [Exit Ely.]

Bishop Matthew Wren, an uncle of the great Sir Christopher Wren, is described as 'a fine hater of Puritans,' and as 'a Wren with the wings of an eagle.' Bishop Peter Gunning wrote the Collect for 'All sorts and conditions of men,' and Bishop Mawson was the first to make the road from Cambridge practicable for wheeled carriages ; in olden times an Ely Prelate would leave his lumbering six-horse chariot at the University town, and proceed to the capital of his See riverwards in an episcopal barge. Coming to later times we find a musical bishop in Dr. Turton, the composer of the well-known hymn-tunes 'Ely' and 'St. Etheldreda' ; he was the last bishop to wear a wig.

And now in regard to the music of the Cathedral. First, as to the organ. In this respect, Canon Dickson—an amateur organ-builder himself and the author of a book on the construction of the instrument—supplies us with some interesting information derived from the Chapter records. As far back as the twelfth century, Nigellus, the second Bishop of Ely, gave a portion of the tithe of a farm 'for the repair of the organs.' In 1396, 'a pair of organs' was erected at a cost of £4 8s. 5d., perhaps equal in value to about £100 of our present currency. This instrument, which had only twelve notes corresponding to the vocal sounds of the Plain-Song, was an organ of stately proportions, and as twenty stones of lead were used, it is evident that it must have contained some large pipes. Here is the bill of that ancient instrument :—

Expences of making an organ in Australi parte Ecclesiæ.

Twenty stones of lead	16s	9d
4 white horse-hides, for 4 pairs of bellows (paribus de Belwes)	7s	8d
Ashen hoops (circulis fraxines) for the bellows ..		4d
16 pairs de Jemewes [hinges]	1s	10d
13 springs		3d
1 lb of glue		1d
1 lb of tin		3d
6 calf-skins	2s	6d
12 sheep-skins	2s	4d
2 lbs of quick silver	2s
Wire, nails, cloth, hooks, and staples, etc. ..		12d
The carpenter 8 days, making the bellows ..	2s	8d
Fetching the organ-builder, & his board ..	40s
	£4 = 8 = 5

As the materials, &c., add up 10s. 9d. less than the total cost, it is evident that one or more items were omitted when the transcript was made nearly a hundred years or even more ago, and the discrepancy in the total amount, copied over and over again, has apparently not been noticed. The original document has, unfortunately, disappeared.

In 1541 the Cathedral possessed 'two paer of organs in the quyer, and a paer of organs in the Ladye Chaple.' Gerard Smith, nephew of the celebrated Bernard of that well-known ilk, re-built the organ at a cost of £300; but the accounts show that the sum of four shillings had been paid to a local man—before Mr. Smith came, to mend the ratt-holes.

Gerard Smith's contract with the Dean and Chapter refers to the 'new substantial stops,' and in 'the particulars of ye work done by Mr. Smith in ye chair organ belonging to ye Church of Ely' we find the following clauses:—

2. The Diapason and ye Recorder Stops of wood are new voyced, but made of our own old materialls.
3. A Fifteenth, being a metal stop, is made of new materials, ye old 15th being thrown by.
8. A Rolling-board, Stickery, a set of keys, and three payr of bellows, all new.*

TWO OF THE PANELS IN THE NAVE CEILING PAINTED BY THE LATE MR. T. GAMBIER PARRY.

(Photograph by the Photochrom Co., Ltd.)

The organ, which originally stood on the screen, underwent several changes at the hands of different builders; but in the year 1851 it was entirely reconstructed and enlarged by Messrs. Hill, and placed in the handsome Renaissance case, designed by Sir Gilbert Scott, which hangs over the choir stalls. The tone of the organ, especially the diapason work, is good, but the action is antiquated and noisy and greatly in need of renovation.

And then as to the organists. They make a goodly array. The first man of note is Dr. Christopher Tye, who held the office of organist and Magister Choristarum from 1541 to 1562. He was not only a prominent organist and composer of the Reformation period, but, according to Anthony à Wood, he restored church music after it had been almost ruined by the dissolution of the monasteries. He (Wood) also informs us that 'Dr. Tye was a peevish

* This Gerard Smith information is derived from a large collection of organ specifications and other interesting matter relating to the subject, entirely in the handwriting of the late Dr. Edward J. Hopkins, who, on his death-bed, desired that it should pass into the possession of the present writer.

and humoursome man, especially in his later days, and sometimes playing on the organ in the Chapel of Queen Elizabeth, which contained much music but little to delight the ear, she would send the verger to tell him that he played out of tune, whereupon he sent word that her ears were out of tune!' His salary at Ely was £10 per annum. Later in life he entered the church, and held two livings, but he seems to have been a better musician than a preacher. Dr. Tye published, in 1553, 'The Actes of the Apostles, translated into Englishe Metre, with Notes to eche Chapter,' dedicated to King Edward VI. The first fourteen chapters only were published; but from Tye's rhyming achievement came several of our best-known hymn-tunes—e.g., 'Winchester Old.' Samuel Rowley, in one of his plays, makes the following reference to the celebrated Tye:—

DR. EDMUND T. CHIPP,
ORGANIST OF ELY CATHEDRAL FROM 1867 TO 1886.

> I oft have heard my Father merrily speake
> In your hye praise, and thus his Highnesse sayeth
> England one God, one truth, one Doctor hath
> For Musicke's Art, and that is Doctor Tye,
> Admir'd for skill in Musicke's Harmonie.

John Ferrabosco and James Hawkins (Senr.) merit mention among the older organists, the latter more especially in connection with the splendid collection of manuscript scores and part-books now carefully preserved in the Cathedral library—a collection chiefly due to his pains, care, and indefatigable industry during the period of his organistship, 1682 to 1729.*

* A carefully compiled catalogue of this collection was made, at the instigation of the Dean and Chapter, by the Rev. Canon W. E. Dickson, then Precentor, and published in 1861.

In the last century we find the names of Highmore Skeats, father and son of the same patronymic, and Robert Janes. The last named edited a pointed Psalter, still in use in the Cathedral and one of the earliest of its kind. Organist Janes had a very large teaching connection in the counties of Norfolk and Suffolk, which is said to have brought him in a yearly income running into four figures. To fulfil his many tuition engagements, this Ely organist used to ride long distances on horseback; and in order to illuminate his equestrian progress along the lonely Fenland roads at night, he attached a pair of lamps to his saddle like pistol holsters. Janes was succeeded by the late Dr. Edmund Thomas Chipp (1867-1886), to whose memory a brass tablet is affixed in the Cathedral, close to the spiral stone staircase leading up to the organ-loft. Dr. Chipp could play all Mendelssohn's organ sonatas from memory. On one occasion he received the personal commendation of the composer for his performance of the third Sonata. He was one of the earliest champions of Schumann's music in this country, and one of the most distinguished

DR. A. W. WILSON,
ORGANIST OF ELY CATHEDRAL.
(Photograph by T. Willis Jones, Rhyl.)

organists of his day. Dr. Chipp was followed successively by Dr. Basil Harwood (now of Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford), Mr. T. T. Noble (now of York Minster), and Dr. H. P. Allen (now of New College, Oxford).

The present holder of the office is Dr. Archibald Wayet Wilson, who was born at Pinchbeck, Lincolnshire, December 9, 1869. He studied for two terms at the Guildhall School of Music, his teachers being the late Lindsay Sloper and Josiah Pittman. He then became a student at the Royal College of Music, where for four years he had the invaluable organ tuition of Sir Walter Parratt, of whom he speaks in terms of high esteem. At the conclusion of his Kensington pupilage he obtained the organ scholarship of Keble College, Oxford, which he held for four years, and took his degree in Arts as well as in Music. After holding for a short period the organistship of St. John's Church, Upper St. Leonard's, Dr. Wilson became organist of St. Asaph Cathedral in 1898, whence he went to Ely a year ago. The devotional rendering of the service in the Cathedral gives every evidence of his painstaking care and the earnestness with which he discharges his important duties; his skill as an organist manifested itself in the performance of Rheinberger's Toccata in C as an outgoing voluntary.

Finally, the best thanks are due to the Rev. Precentor J. H. Crosby, Canon Dickson, and Dr. Wilson, for their kindness in making this visit to Ely so pleasant, and in affording information for this article on 'one of the most glorious shrines in Christendom.'

Dotted Crotchet.

BURNEY AS A GOSSIP.

The four stately volumes which comprise Burney's 'General History of Music' do not, outwardly, invite the reader to expect much gossip; but Burney, 'the delight of society,' wrote for more than a musical public—for a public so general, indeed, that he thought it necessary to give a preliminary definition of the art itself. He calls it, quaintly enough, 'an innocent luxury, unnecessary, indeed, to our existence, but a great improvement and gratification of the sense of hearing'; and adds, with a touch of caution, 'it consists, at present, of Melody, Consonance, and Dissonance.'

Widely as Burney had travelled, he accords to English music the chief place in his scheme; and his point of view is perfectly intelligible. Tracing in the records of mediæval chroniclers its origin and growth, he descants on its early diverging streams—that of church on the one hand, that of the chanson on the other. The latter provides him with much curious lore. The first apostles of song in England, the wandering minstrels, were welcomed with feast and flattery in the houses of the great. But their successors grew so prosperous and so insolent that rules had to be drawn up for keeping them within bounds; and, as a natural sequence, the minstrels banded themselves together into Guilds. One of these Guilds had, by way of annual perquisite, the unique privilege of catching a mad bull—if they could. A charter granted by John of Gaunt, Duke of Lancaster, in 1381, provided that the Prior of Tutbury should let loose a bull, for the benefit of the minstrels of Staffordshire, on a certain feast day; or, if the animal were not forthcoming, he should pay to the Guild the sum of forty pence. With sundry obliquities of grammar, an ancient account of the ceremony proceeds:—

> . . . Which Bull, as soon as his horns are cut off, his ears cropt, his tail cut by the stumple, all his body smeared over with sope, and his nose blown full of beaten pepper; in short, being made as mad as it is possible for him to be. After solemn proclamation made by the steward that all manner of persons give way to the Bull, none being to come near him by forty feet, any way to hinder the Minstrels, but to attend to his or their own safeties, everyone at his peril. He is then forthwith turned out to them (anciently by the Prior) now by the Lord Devonshire, or his deputy, to be taken by them, and none other, within the County of Stafford, between the time of his being turned out to them, and the setting of the sun the same day; which if they cannot do, but the bull escapes from them untaken, and gets over the river into Derbyshire, he remains still my Lord Devonshire's Bull; but if the said minstrels can take him, and hold him so long, as to cut off but some small matter of his hair, and bring the same to the Mercat Cross, in token that they have taken him, the said bull is then brought to the Bayliff's House in Tutbury, and there collared and roped, and so brought to the bull-ring in the high street, and there baited with dogs.

In many cases, minstrels were attached permanently to the households of nobles. In the Earl of Northumberland's household book, the following entry occurs in the year 1512:—

> Item, My Lorde usith ande accustomyth to gyf yerely, when his Lordschipp is at home, to his Mynstraills that be daly in his Houshold, as his Tabret, Lute, and Rebec, upon new yeresday in the mornynge, when they doo play at My Lordis chambre doure, for his Lordschipe and my Lady, xxs. . . . And for playing at my Lordis Sone and heir Chambre doure the Lord Percy, iis. And for playinge at the Chambre doores of My Lords yonger Sonnes my younge Maisters, after viii. the pece for every of them.

With similar minuteness the fees of the Royal minstrels were assigned. By Edward IV. the following provisions were made, in the 'Liber Niger Domus Regis':—

> Minstrelles thirteene, thereof one is Virger, which directeth them all festyvall dayes in their statyones of blowings and pypyngs to such offyces as the offyceres might be warned to prepare for the King's meats and soupers; to be more redyere in all services and due tyme. . . . [among them were divided four gallons of ale 'nightly,' in winter three wax candles, six 'pich' candles, and four billets of firewood.] . . . Yf any of thes two Minstrelles [two whose duty it was to announce the King's riding out] be lete bloode in Courte, he taketh two loves, ii messe of greate meate, one galone ale. Also when it pleaseth the King to have ii Minstrelles continuinge at Courte, they will not in no wise that thes Minstrelles be so famyliere to aske rewards.

The musical tastes and caprices of monarchs furnished Burney with many anecdotes. There was, for instance, a musical Gallio in the person of Louis XII. of France, who evoked a curious freak of humour from Josquin des Pres. Having applied, countless times, for a promised benefice, the composer observed that the nobleman who voiced the King's reply invariably concluded by saying, 'Laisse faire moi.' In his exasperation, the composer seized the syllables of the empty assurance, and on La, si, fa, re, mi, built the whole structure of a Mass. Composers in want of a new melodic phrase might, perhaps, follow out this idea with advantage, and examine their correspondence and their bills with a view to inspiration through sol-fa.

Charles V. of Spain, on the other hand, knew more than was convenient to his court musicians. He is said to have detected instantly a plagiarism in a Mass presented to him as original work; and further, 'the Fryers often discovered him behind the door, as he sate in his own apartment, near the high altar, beating time, and singing in parts with the performers; and if any one was out, they could overhear him call the offender names as Redheaded Blockhead, etc.' It is doubtful whether so exacting a connoisseur would have been satisfied with the domestic strains provided for the English Queen Elizabeth. She was regaled during dinner, we are told, with 'twelve trumpets and two kettle-drums; which together with fifes, cornets, and side drums, made the hall ring for half-an-hour together.' She showed a certain interest in music by 'pressing' children for the royal choirs, as her father, Henry VIII., had done before her. Warrants for that purpose are still extant, one of them running as follows:—

> Wee therefore by the tenoure of these presents will and require you that ye permitt and suffer from henceforthe our said servante Thomas Gyles . . . to take up in any cathedrall or collegiate churches, and in every other place or places of this our realme of England and Wales, suche childe and children as he . . . shall find and like of, and the same childe and children . . . to bring awaye without anye your lette, contradictions, staye, or interruptions to the contrarie.

It was in Elizabeth's reign that the first symptoms appeared of that Puritan hatred of musical freedom which culminated, nearly a century later, in the general demolition of cathedral organs and service books. As early as 1571, 'The confession of the Puritans' set forth that—

> Concerning singing of the Psalms, we allow of the people's joining with one voice in a plain tune, but not of tossing the Psalms from one side to the other, with intermingling of Organs.

In 1586 was published 'A Request of all true Christians to the House of Parliament,' containing the suggestion:—

> That all cathedral churches may be put down, where the service of God is grieviously abused by piping with organs, singing, ringing and trowling of Psalms from one side of the choir to another, with the squeakings of chanting choristers, disguised (as are all the rest) in white surplices; some in corner caps and silly copes, imitating the fashion and manner of Antichrist the Pope, that man of sin, and child of perdition, with his other rabble of miscreants and shavelings.

Gosson's well-known pamphlet was another influence in the same direction. It bore the comprehensive title, 'The School of Abuse, containing a pleasant invective against poets, pipers, plaiers, jesters, and such like caterpillers, of a common welth; setting up the flagge of defiance to their mischievous exercise, and overthrowing their bulwarkes by prophane writers, natural reason, and common experience.' It is clear that 'pipers and plaiers' were at a discount during the days of the Commonwealth.

To that period, curiously enough, we trace the first association of music with acting—a union which was to prepare the way for Italian Opera. Through the good offices of influential friends, Sir William Davenant obtained permission in 1656—four years before the return of Charles II.—to give entertainments of 'declamation and music.' To this innovation he gave the title of 'opera.' The performances had a setting of scenery, and thus were the direct precursor of the Restoration drama. Italian Opera did not establish itself until 1705, some fifty years later. There had, of course, been plays with music—more or less incidental—from very early times. Burney quotes from Stow's 'Survey of London' (1598) an account of one of the annual performances given by the parish clerks of London:—

> Also the yeare 1409 . . . they played a play . . . which lasted eight days, and was of matter from the creation of the world. There were to see the same the most part of the nobles and gentiles in England.

The parish clerks of London in 1409 must, presumably, have been selected with a view to their fitness for entertaining the 'nobles and gentiles' at the Bayreuth Festival of their day.

It is very interesting to trace the tentative alterations in the character of musical entertainments prior to 1705. Songs, instrumental music of several varieties, and dancing, filled the programmes in varying proportions; and this kind of concert remained even when Italian Opera had become the fashionable function. With Italian Opera came, as a matter of course, Italian singers—and their quarrels. As early as 1704, there was a public demonstration against a favourite singer, which necessitated a disclaimer from her rival. In the Daily Courant of February 8, 1704, appeared the following letter to the manager of Drury Lane Theatre, which explains itself:—

> Sir,—I was very much surprised when I was informed that Ann Barwick, who was lately my servant, had committed a rudeness last night at the play-house, by throwing of oranges and hissing when Mrs. L'Epine, the Italian gentlewoman sang. I hope no one can think that it was in the least with my privity, as I assure you that it was not. I abhor such practices; and I hope you will cause her to be prosecuted, that she may be punished as she deserves. I am, Sir, Your humble servant,
>
> Katherine Tofts.

Not long after, the quarrelling stars were Cuzzoni and Faustina, whose mutual jealousy was a cause of much anxiety to a grande dame at whose house they were engaged to sing.

> She was under the greatest difficulty how to settle the precedence, . . . and finding it impossible to prevail on one to sing while the other one was present, took Faustina to a remote part of the house, under the pretence of showing her some curious china, during which time the company obtained a song from Cuzzoni, who supposed that her rival had quitted the field. A similar expedient was practised in order to get Cuzzoni out of the room while Faustina performed.

An interest of quite a different kind belonged to Visconti. Her fame as a prima donna was exceeded by the renown of her personal bulk. In a company of wits, the question of her age was being debated, one man—alone in his opinion—maintaining that it was not more than twenty-two. 'You mean stone, Sir, not years,' ejaculated Chesterfield — always present, of course, in a story of this kind. Another contributor to the gaiety of nations was Castrucci. He was thrown into a violent rage whenever he was addressed as 'Mr. Festing'—for what reason it is nor clear—and the fact was not overlooked by the wags of the day. Hogarth used his countenance for his 'Enraged Musician,' and secured the right expression by the malicious expedient of having 'his house beset by all the noisy street instruments he could collect together, whose clamorous performance brought him to the window in all the agonies of auricular torture.'

With much pleasant causerie of this kind, Burney lightens his more serious disquisitions. His patient subscribers, who were to have had the History complete in one volume in 1776, had to wait thirteen years and purchase four volumes; but it is always the hall-mark of the true gossip to be much longer in telling his story than he anticipates. Gossips in search of a moral may ponder the fact that Burney's book, popular as it was, never reached a second edition.

H. B.

Occasional Notes.

Many happy returns of the day to:—

Ebenezer Prout - - -	March 1.
Francis E. Gladstone - -	,, 2.
Dudley Buck - - -	,, 10.
Pablo de Sarasate - -	,, 10.
August Manns - - -	,, 12.
Alexandre Guilmant - -	,, 12.
Madame Melba - - -	,, 19.
Lady Hallé - - -	,, 21.
Adolf Brodsky - - -	,, 21.
Hamish MacCunn - -	,, 22.
W. G. McNaught - - -	,, 30.

A Conservatorium has been founded at Düsseldorf under the joint directorship of Professor Julius Buths, Dr. Neitzel, and Herr Gottlieb Noren.

One hundred years ago—the exact date is March 3, 1802—the Wiener Zeitung announced the publication of two beautiful pianoforte classics—the Sonatas in A flat (with the Funeral March) and in C sharp minor (popularly known as the 'Moonlight') of Beethoven—precious productions that have not only given untold pleasure to countless players and listeners, but which are as fresh to-day as when they were written. It may not be without interest to give the titles of their original editions:—

> Grande Sonate pour le Clavecin ou Forte-Piano, Composée et dediée à Son Altesse Monseigneur le Prince Charles de Lichnowsky, par Louis van Beethoven. Oeuvre 26; à Vienne chez Jean Cappi, sur le place St. Michel No. 4.
>
> Sonata quasi una Fantasia per il Clavicembalo o Piano-Forte, Composta e dedicata alla Damigella Contessa Giulietta Guicciardi da Luigi van Beethoven. Opera 27, No. 2. In Vienna presso Giov. Cappi, Piazza di St. Michel No. 4.

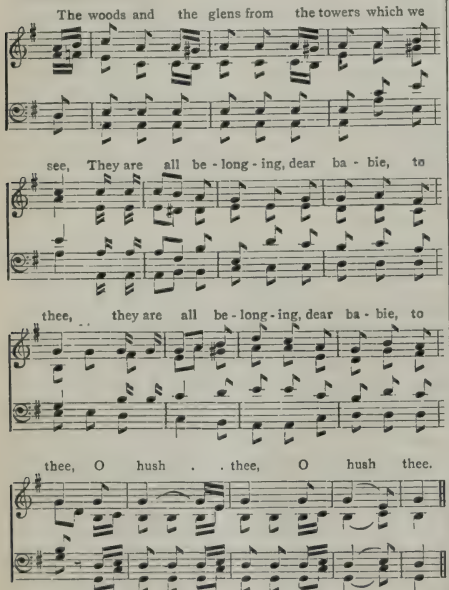
The year 1802 was rich in Beethoven publications. In addition to the above pianoforte sonatas, it witnessed the issue of those in B flat (Op. 22)—'Well engraved,' wrote Beethoven to Hofmeister, his publisher, 'but you have been a fine time about it!'—in E flat (Op. 27, No. 1, the companion to that in C sharp minor), and in D (Op. 28). There also appeared the Serenade in D (Op. 25), the familiar Rondo in G for pianoforte (Op. 51, No. 2), the String Quintet in C (Op. 29), and last, but not least, the Septet—a remarkable output of noble art-creations now a century old. It is well to keep these things in remembrance.

The Easter anthem in the present number—a setting of the words 'Now dawning glows the day of days'—is the composition of a young American composer, Mr. David Stanley Smith. He was born in 1877 at Toledo, Ohio, and graduated with the degree of Bachelor of Arts at the University of Yale in 1900. During his college course, and for a year afterwards, he studied composition under Professor Horatio W. Parker, of Yale. For several years he has played the organ in his native city, and at New Haven, Connecticut, where the University is situated. The most important of his compositions in the larger forms are a string quintet, an overture, a symphonic poem, and an ode for men's chorus and orchestra. Mr. Smith is now pursuing his studies in this country, and later on he hopes to go to Germany. He has kindly obliged us with his views on anthem composition, of which, as already mentioned, a specimen will be found on p. 177. He writes: 'In my anthems I have endeavoured to unite dignity and devotion with a freer use of harmonic variety than is usually found in compositions of this class. I have also tried to maintain a consistent form, which I believe is lacking in the old-style anthems, beautiful as they often are melodically. I have made it a point to follow a middle course between a dry conventional style and a highly-coloured complex manner. I hope I may not have strayed too far from this path.' With such a confession of faith as this, Mr. David Stanley Smith's career will be followed with interest.

Certain observations made by a distinguished member of the Incorporated Society of Musicians, at the recent Conference, have caused some consternation in elementary school circles. It appears that these disciples of the letter notation do not altogether approve of those Bridge tones.

The study of afterthoughts in brain productiveness is exceedingly interesting. One has only to examine the original manuscripts of Charles Dickens's novels, in the Foster collection at South Kensington, in order to see that he reached his goal by dint of re-writing and much touching-up. So in the composition of music, perhaps even in a greater degree than in literature. The sketch books of Beethoven furnish many striking examples of the refining process through which those deathless melodies passed before he left them in their perfect form to a grateful posterity. An instance of the value of an afterthought has recently come before us during an examination of some of Sir Arthur Sullivan's autograph manuscripts. 'O hush thee, my babie' is the case in point. In this well-known setting of Sir Walter Scott's words, Sullivan made a wonderful improvement upon his original conception of the music, as the following example from the first sketch —inserted here by the kind permission of the late composer's nephew and heir, Mr. Herbert Sullivan —will show:—



The woods and the glens from the towers which we see, They are all be - long - ing, dear ba - bie, to thee, they are all be - long - ing, dear ba - bie, to thee, O hush . . thee, O hush thee.
O hush thee, my ba - bie, O hush thee.

Judging from the appearance of the autograph, the afterthought came during the process of composition; but it is none the less interesting and instructive on that account.

The fiftieth concert of the Stock Exchange Orchestral and Choral Society—at Queen's Hall, on the 6th ult.—gave a favourable opportunity for a historical retrospect of the Society's doings in the programme of the evening, from which we quote:—

The Society was founded in November, 1883, its earliest rehearsals being held in a small room attached to a restaurant in London Wall. During the first season some twenty-five members were enrolled, and Mr. George Kitchin was invited to become Honorary Conductor, which post he retained until 1897. At the close of the second season an experimental concert was given at St. Andrew's Hall, which proved so successful that the committee were enabled to appeal with confidence for the support of members of the Stock Exchange; and on December 18th, 1885, the first series of Subscription concerts was inaugurated at Prince's Hall. On this occasion the orchestra consisted of 73 performers, of whom 16 are still to be found in our ranks.

The works performed included:—Symphony No. 1, Beethoven; Pianoforte Concerto in G minor, Mendelssohn; Overture, 'La Dame Blanche,' Boieldieu; a March by the late S. W. Waley, who was for many years a prominent member of the Stock Exchange; and an Overture in F, composed especially for the Society by the late J. F. H. Read, our first President.

In October, 1886, the male-voice choir was started, and in December of the following year the Society moved to St. James's Hall for its concerts, which locale was exchanged for Queen's Hall in December, 1894. Mr. Kitchin was succeeded in the office of conductor by Mr. Arthur Payne in 1897, and Mr. Munro Davison took over the duties of directing the choir. The long list of works performed during the fifteen years of the Society's existence bears testimony to its artistic aims, and the public concert on the 16th ult. gave fresh proof of the painstaking zeal of the conductors and the performing members. Long may the enthusiastic amateurs of Capel Court flourish!

The Prospectus of the Philharmonic Society for the coming season has been issued. Seven concerts are to be given at Queen's Hall, in the course of which the following novelties will be produced:—

Herbert Bedford ..	Vocal Scena, to be sung by Madame Clara Butt.
William H. Bell ..	Two Orchestral Tone-Pictures, from 'Mother Carey.'
Frederic Cowen ..	A new short orchestral work.
Rachmaninoff ..	Pianoforte Concerto in C minor (Op. 18), to be played by M. Basil Sapellnikoff.
A. Randegger, Jun..	Violin Concerto in D minor, to be played by M. Jan Kubelik.

Dr. Cowen retains his usual post as conductor.

The following information, kindly copied from Anthony à Wood's original manuscript in the Bodleian Library by Mr. T. W. Taphouse, may serve as a sequel to the Biographical Sketch of Dr. Blow, in our last issue (p. 81):—

Extract from some materials towards a history of the lives and compositions of all English Musicians, drawn up according to alphabetical order by Anthony à Wood.

Blow (Joh) Dr of Musick by ye Diploma of Will Archb of Cant as 'tis said—bred up under Christop Gibbons, afterwards one of the Gent of ye King's Chap, Organist to the Kings Chap. Master of the Boyes there temp Will 3, Org to K Will & qu Mary. Severall compositions in the Gentleman's journal. He was one of the chief composers of the first and second book of Harmonia Sacra Being a collection of divine Hymnes & Dialogues set to musick.

He hath also several compositions in Musick's Hand-maid: containing the newest Lessons, Grounds, Sarabands, Minuets & Jiggs set for the Virginals Harpsicord & Spinet London 1689 qu second part published by Hen Playford. Dr Rogers tells me yt Jo Blow was borne in London—yt he Hen Purcell & Dr. Will Child are Organists to K Will & Qu Mary. See Playfords Auct cat p 4 at ye end Compositions in The 3d collection of New songs 1685. See Ter cat p 426a.

As a further contribution to that ever-green theme 'God save the King,' the following version of our National Anthem may be acceptable. It was prompted by the marriage of King George the Third with the Princess Sophia Charlotte of Mecklenburg-Strelitz. The royal wedding took place on September 8, 1761.

A Loyal Chorus, for all the good People of this Land.
The Tune, God save our noble King.
Sung by Mr. Lowe, in Vauxhall Gardens

I.

See Royal Charlotte come!
Sound Trumpet! beat the Drum!
Britons rejoice.
Whilst Bells melodious ring,
We'll all in Chorus sing,
God save Third George our King,
And bless his Choice!

II.

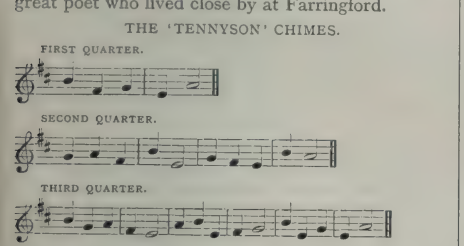
With George we'll Charlotte join,
From their united Line
May Princes spring.
Whose glorious Acts may claim,
The sweetest Voice of Fame;
Thence each deserve the Name
Of Patriot King.

III.

O may the Royal Pair!
Whilst they in Glory share,
In love increase.
To them fill Bumpers round;
Ye Skies their Healths resound!
And may these Joys be crown'd
With lasting Peace!

Those of our readers who are interested in the subject of campanology may be glad to make the acquaintance of the chimes placed in Freshwater Church (Isle of Wight) in 1895, and named after the great poet who lived close by at Farringford.

THE 'TENNYSON' CHIMES.



Messrs. John Smith and Sons, of the Midland Clock Works, Derby, who made the clock and bells for the above church, and by whose permission the chimes are given, inform us that the vicar, the Rev. Dr. Merriman, put them into communication with Sir John Stainer on the subject of a good chime for a peal of six bells, including that which strikes the hour. After some preliminary correspondence, Sir John wrote Messrs. Smith and Sons as follows:—'I think the 5 bell chimes (No. 3 of the set you sent me) will be charming if you can make them end on G, instead of on A at the close of the hour-chime. If you can arrange this, I think you will have a set of chimes, so far as I know, unique.' This was done, as will be seen in the above music example.

An amusing example of a mixed metaphor appeared in the Times of the 17th ult. The musical critic of the leading journal, in his remarks on Rubinstein's Sonata in B minor for pianoforte and violin, recently played by Messrs. Busoni and Ysaye, at Queen's Hall, expressed the following opinion:—

In spite of the appearance now and then of interesting and suggestive phrases, they are too quickly drowned in a sea of its author's musical verbosity; and not even the genius of two such players as those who undertook the sonata could galvanize its dry bones into life.

The italics are ours.

Dr. Cowen had the honour of being entertained at dinner by the members of his Scottish Orchestra, in conjunction with the Glasgow Society of Musicians, on the 12th ult., in Glasgow. In responding to the toast of his health, the guest of the evening said that though 'it was customary for an orchestra to be requested to meet and pipe at the desire of the conductor, it was not usual for a conductor to meet and to pipe at the invitation of his players as he had that evening.' This tobacconalian reference was much appreciated, and good-feeling was the dominant and predominant note of the evening.

Mr. Alfred Gilbert, to whose death we refer in another column, contributed to The R.A.M. Club Magazine of January, 1901, some amusing recollections of the Royal Academy of Music when he became an inmate of the Tenterden Street Institution fifty-seven years ago. His sleeping apartment was known as 'the five-bedded room,' concerning which and the ablutionary arrangements, he says:—

Picture to yourself five iron stump bedsteads, crowded so closely together that three of them were reached best by getting over the two outside ones. At the feet of these beds—which were covered with somewhat unsavoury coverlets—an old square pianoforte by Collard was placed for practice. Not a vestige of any other furniture was in the room, and the mantelpiece (a handsome carved one) showed, by a lump of tallow on one corner, that the two tall iron candlesticks allowed by the authorities were rarely used.

The washing room, used also as a practice room for orchestral instruments, was furnished with a large lead-lined trough and five or six huge bowls. At this place all the boys were supposed to perform their ablutions, no other provision being made by the authorities.

The food supply seems to have been somewhat of the Squeers type, judging from the following extract; 'John'—whom some of us can remember to this day—was the under-porter of and private caterer to the establishment:—

My first breakfast made me acquainted with the fact that each student had to provide his own crockery, and that a small quantity of London milk and some thick slices of bread, covered with an unguent supposed to be butter, were the ingredients upon which we were expected to thrive; therefore, John's morning visit to enquire who would purchase luxuries, such as bloaters, eggs, etc., was welcome. The expected luxuries shortly appeared from out of the pockets of John's dress coat, and were paid for at about double the price he had paid for them. For dinner we had good meat and potatoes, with plum pudding on Sundays. Tea, a repetition of breakfast. Supper, a small piece of bread and cheese, with water to drink. The Usher was supposed to take all boys who had been imperfectly educated, for lessons in the three R's, from 8 to 9 every evening, except Wednesdays and Saturdays, which were half-holidays. The Superintendent read prayers in the concert room every morning, at 7 in summer and 8 in winter. On the door of each bedroom was nailed a practice paper, accounting for the duties and whereabouts of the occupants of the room, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., when all were supposed to go to bed, the porter going through the rooms to see all lights were out at 10 p.m., exception being made for those who were permitted to take theatrical or other engagements.

At that time, the winter of 1845, we had no fires, and practised wrapped in rugs and bed-clothes, with our feet upon the pillows. The bedrooms, except the five-bedded, were furnished by the authorities with a half-tester iron bedstead, mattresses, pillows, and blankets, no other furniture of any kind; therefore, a few rickety things, which had descended from time immemorial, became for a few shillings the property of the new occupant, and, with a Broadwood square (on hire), completed the establishment. There were three pianofortes in the dining room, used simultaneously.

The 'used simultaneously' is delicious.

Whatever has Professor Prout been doing at Newcastle? A newspaper issued in the Northumbrian capital contains the following information:—

> Extremely interesting and very instructive was the lecture delivered in the Lit. and Phil., Newcastle, last evening, by Prof. Ebenezer Prout, Mus. Doc., on 'Bach's Well Tempered Slavier.'

Extremely interesting indeed, and very instructive, is this terse record. Pending the appearance of that increasingly necessary tome, a dictionary of abbreviations, we may assume that 'Lit. and Phil.' is a colloquialism meaning Literary and Philosophical. That may pass. But what of Bach's 'Well Tempered Slavier?' Let us adopt the cryptic method. The title of his discourse contains exactly two dozen letters. Multiply twenty-four by two, and we get forty-eight—just the number we want! The rest we may leave to a certain printer's boy dwelling in a great, though Tyny city.

'ACIS AND GALATEA' ON THE STAGE.

The proposed stage-performance, by the Purcell Operatic Society, of Handel's 'Acis and Galatea,' suggests a few glimpses into the history of such presentations of the familiar serenata. The work was first performed at Cannons, the seat of the Duke of Chandos, in 1720 or 1721, but in what form—concert or stage—is unknown. Its first public performance, though in a garbled form, was given by John Rich at the Theatre in Lincoln's Inn Fields, on March 26, 1731, for the benefit of a member of his company named Rochetti, on which occasion Richard Leveridge sang the part of Polyphemus.

It appears that the earliest presentation of the work 'in a theatrical way' is associated with Mr. Arne, father of Dr. Arne of 'Rule, Britannia' celebrity. Here is the advertisement thereof, from The Daily Journal of May 11, 1732:—

> At the New Theatre in the Haymarket, on Wednesday next, being the 17th day of May, will be perform'd (in English) a Pastoral Opera, call'd
>
> Acis and Galatea
>
> Compos'd by Mr. Handel.
>
> With all the Grand Chorus's, Scenes, Machines, and other Decorations. Being the first Time it ever was perform'd in a Theatrical Way.
>
> The part of Acis by Mr. Mountier, being the first Time of his appearing in Character on any Stage; Galatea by Miss Arne.
>
> Pit and Boxes to be laid together, at 5s. Gallery, 2s. 6d. Tickets to be had, and Places taken, at Mr. Fribourg's, Maker of Rappee-Snuff, at the Play-House Door.
>
> N.B.—The Opera is oblig'd to be put off to Wednesday, the 17th following, it being impossible to get ready the Decorations before that time.

The part of Polyphemus was interpreted on this occasion by Mr. Waltz, Handel's cook. In connection with this and similar performances, Burney (History of Music iv., 361), says:—

> It seems as if the elder Arne, the Upholsterer, in King's-street, Covent-garden, mentioned in the Spectator, and father of Dr. Arne and Mrs. Cibber, had been the principal projector and manager of these performances of Handel's compositions to English words; as it is said in one of the advertisements, that subscriptions for English operas "are only taken in by Mr. Arne, at the Crown and Cushion, King's-street, Covent-garden." J. C. Smith, J. F. Lampe, and Harry Carey, as well as his son, young Arne, were adventurers in this undertaking; and Miss Arne, and Miss Cecilia Young, afterwards Mrs. Arne, were the principal female singers.

This Acis and Galatea performance, under the elder Arne, was not only unauthorized by Handel, but given at a house nearly opposite to the theatre of which he was the lessee! No wonder that the burly Saxon waxed wroth at such a proceeding. His resourcefulness showed itself in the following important advertisement, from The Daily Journal of June 10, 1732:—

> At the King's Theatre in the Hay-Market this present Saturday, being the 10th of June, will be perform'd, A Serenata, call'd
>
> Acis and Galatea
>
> Formerly composed by Mr. Handel, but now revised by him, with several Additions, and to be perform'd by a great Number of the best Voices and Instruments.
>
> There will be no Action on the Stage, but the Scene will represent, in a Picturesque Manner, a Rural Prospect, with Rocks, Groves, Fountains, and Grotto's, amongst which will be disposed a Chorus of Nymphs and Shepherds, the Habits and every other Decoration suited to the subject.
>
> Pit and Boxes to be put together, and no Persons to be admitted without Tickets, which will be deliver'd This Day, at the Office in the Hay-Market, at Half-a-Guinea each. Gallery, Five Shillings.
>
> By His Majesty's Command.
>
> No person whatever to be admitted behind the Scenes.
>
> To begin at 7 o'clock.

Handel does not seem to have continued this manner of presenting his serenata, even with 'the Habits and every other Decoration suited to the subject,' as in subsequent years he gave the work in the concert form with which we are familiar.

Nearly a hundred years elapsed before the next known stage representation of 'Acis and Galatea'—that given by Bochsa, the harpist, as a part of his 'Benefit' at the King's Theatre, Haymarket, June 22, 1829, on which occasion Beethoven's Pastoral Symphony was performed with scenery and ballet! Moscheles records that the music allotted to the chief characters was admirably sung by Miss Paton and John Braham; and that Zuchelli, 'with a gigantic eye in the middle of his forehead,' was a very good Polyphemus.

Eighteen months later—on February 3, 1831—another stage production of the work took place at the Theatre in Tottenham Street, Tottenham Court Road, then under the management of George Macfarren, the father of Sir George and Mr. Walter Macfarren. Mr. Macfarren, Senr., in dramatising the work anew, inserted spoken dialogue and introduced new characters. The songs of Damon, the setting of 'Cease to beauty to be suing' (sung by Polyphemus), and Galatea's last song were omitted, but the original words to Handel's music were retained. Thomas Attwood was asked by George Macfarren to compose some additional accompaniments, but upon his declining to do so, Cipriani Potter undertook the task, as the following extracts from the playbill will show:—

A New Operatic Piece, dramatized from Gay's admired Serenata, entitled Galatea, with Handel's celebrated music, newly arranged, with additional accompaniments, by Mr. Cipriani Potter, who has obligingly undertaken to conduct the orchestra on this occasion.

Galatea, Miss Vernon, pupil of Signor Velluti (her first public performance); Eudora, her sister, Mrs. Humby; Doris, their mother, Mrs. Garrick; Acis, Mr. Bennett, professor of singing at the Royal Academy of Music (his first appearance on the stage); Faunus, his father, Mr. G. Smith; Damon, lover of Eudora, Mr. J. Russell; Ulysses, on his voyage from the Trojan war, Mr. Spencer (from the Theatre Royal, Norwich), his first appearance in London); Lysander, Mr. G. Lejeune; Telemon, Mr. Munroe; Polyphemus, the Fiend of Mount Etna, Mr. E. Seguin, from the Royal Academy of Music (his first appearance on the stage).

Soldiers, Peasants, &c., by a Chorus of twenty voices.

Charles Lucas succeeded Potter as conductor after the first performance, and the piece had a run of about thirty nights. Macfarren's version was revived at Drury Lane Theatre, in 1832, for Edward Seguin's benefit.

The musical critic—evidently a leisurely-minded and arm-chair gentleman—of the Athenæum at that time (not Mr. Chorley) thus spake concerning those Tottenham Street representations of 1831:—

We purpose immediately paying one or more visits to this house, after which we shall retire to our own fireside and haul its pretensions over the coals, so as to give our readers the result next week.

A week later, as the result of this coaling operation, the critic delivered himself thus (Athenæum, February 12, 1831):—

Of Miss Vernon, pupil of Signor Velluti, we have nothing to say, except that her name may with great propriety be taken out of the large posting bills we see about town. If she be a star, she is too small to be visible, as such, with our opera-glass. If anything could add to our pain in being obliged to say this, it is the having to be so uncivil to so pretty a girl.

No one will deny that this is very prettily put.

The next on our list—which does not pretend to be exhaustive—is the performance associated with Macready, as manager, and Clarkson Stanfield, R.A., as scenic artist, given at Drury Lane Theatre, February 5, 1842. No two opinions existed as to the excellence of the spectacular features of this remarkable representation, but the tinkering liberties, both in regard to words and music, received their just condemnation. For instance, an introductory scene, taken from Shelley's 'Prometheus,' with Cupid as the principal character, was added, for which Mr. Tom Cooke supplied new music; moreover, this gentleman wrote additional accompaniments to the work, and conducted the performance. Miss P. Horton (afterwards Mrs. German Reed) sang the music of Acis, and Henry Phillips impersonated Polyphemus. One of the Shepherds was a Mr. J. Reeves, subsequently known to fame as Mr. Sims Reeves. The musical critic of the Athenæum—then the redoubtable Mr. Chorley—may again be quoted in connection with this Drury Lane production:—

The additions made to the instrumental score are gross and noisy. Trombones braying throughout the whole of Handel's overtures, may serve, as they did this day week, to conceal the slovenliness of the violins, and the inexactitude of the pair of oboes, which ought to move like one; but as concealing the main features of the composition, they are objectionable, and in the worst taste. We admit of no additional accompaniments to Handel, save such as are added by Mozart.

And then, in regard to the performers:—

The Polyphemus of Mr. Phillips was fairly sung; but when we say, that, while listening to Damon this day week, he all but laid his thumb to his nose, after the polite fashion of the New Cut, we have indicated the amount of classicality in his conception of the part.

The Macready-Stanfield version was revived at Drury Lane on May 5, 1843, when the great artists Clara Novello (Galatea) and Staudigl (Polyphemus) gave magnificent interpretations of their respective parts. The Princess's Theatre, Oxford Street, furnished the scene of the next stage revival—August 2, 1869—when the Drury Lane version of 1842 was reproduced. Blanche Cole (Galatea), Vernon Rigby (Acis), Montem Smith (Damon), Carl Formes (Polyphemus), with Miss Summers as the interpolated Cupid, formed the cast.

So far as we can discover, the last scenic representation in England was that which took place in the Opera Theatre of the Crystal Palace, June 17, 1871, under the direction of Mr. August Manns, when the cast included Blanche Cole, Vernon Rigby, Montem Smith, and Aynsley Cooke. The present writer retains vivid recollections of the huge mask worn by the last named in his portly and portentous impersonation of Polyphemus. On that occasion some members of the Crystal Palace choir, seated in the side galleries near the stage, assisted in strengthening the choruses.

Finally, it may be found useful if we give a list of some, even if not all, of the additional accompaniments which have amplified Handel's original thin score, with their dates and places of performance.

Written by	Date.	Place of Performance.
Mozart ..	1788	Hofbibliothek, Vienna.
Mendelssohn ..	1828	Singakademie, Berlin.
Cipriani Potter	1831	Tottenham Street Theatre, London
Tom Cooke ..	1842	Drury Lane Theatre.
George Perry ..	1842
Michael Costa ..	1858	Birmingham Musical Festival.

The score of Mr. Perry—who was a wholesale purveyor of additional accompaniments—was prepared for the Worcester Musical Festival of 1842, according to the manuscript in the possession of Messrs. Novello; but 'Acis and Galatea' was not performed on that occasion. The reader may be referred to an interesting article, by Mr. Nicholas Kilburn, setting forth the exact differences between Handel's original instrumentation and the additions made by Mozart and Mendelssohn, which appeared in the Sammelbände der Internationalen Musikgesellschaft for Oct.-Dec., 1901, vol. iii., p. 129.

Mr. Henschel's 'Stabat Mater' was successfully performed, at Amsterdam, on January 21, by the Capella Choir, under the direction of Anton Averkamp, the town-orchestra of Utrecht playing the accompaniments on that occasion. We understand that Mr. Henschel has nearly completed the composition of a Requiem, which has been accepted for performance by the Singakademie of Breslau (his native town), though its production will in all probability be by the Cecilia Choir of Boston, Mass.

Church and Organ Music.

DR. WATTS' HYMNS: THE FIRST EDITION.

The Rev. James Mearns, assistant editor of the Rev. Dr. Julian's invaluable 'Dictionary of Hymnology,' contributed a most interesting article to the Guardian of January 29 last, on that exceedingly rare book, the first edition of the Hymns and Spiritual Songs of Dr. Watts. The only known copy in England—it has now, alas! probably gone to America—was recently sold by Messrs. Sotheby for the sum of £140. Mr. Mearns was permitted to examine the precious tome, with liberty to make notes therefrom, and the result of his investigations is contained in the Guardian article above referred to. The book bears the following title:—

HYMNS
AND Spiritual Songs
in Three Books
I. Collected from the Scriptures.
II. Compos'd on Divine Subjects.
III. Prepar'd for the Lord's Supper.
With an ESSAY
Towards the Improvement of Christian Psalmody, by the Use of Evangelical Hymns in Worship, as well as the Psalms of David.

By I. WATTS.

And they sung a new Song, saying, Thou art worthy, &c., for Thou wast slain and hast redeemed us, &c.—Rev. 5 9.

Soliti essent (i.e., Christani) convenire, carmenque Christo quasi Deo dicere. Plinius in Epist.

LONDON.
Printed by J. Humfreys, for John Lawrence, at the Angel in the Poultrey, 1707.

One of the most interesting features of the book is that it contains the first appearance in print of that greatly-treasured hymn, 'When I survey the wondrous Cross.' Its first verse reads thus:—

When I survey the wondrous Cross
Where the young Prince of Glory dy'd
My richest Gain I count but Loss
And pour Contempt on all my Pride.

The original form of its second line will not escape notice. Another well-known hymn made its first appearance at the same time:—'There is a land of pure delight.' It is said that the words

Sweet fields beyond the swelling flood
Stand dressed in living green.

came to the mind of Dr. Watts as he looked across Southampton Water and saw the New Forest in the distance.

At the end of the volume is an essay entitled:—

A Short Essay Toward the Improvement of Psalmody; or, An Enquiry how the Psalms of David ought to be translated into Christian Songs, and how lawful and necessary it is to compose other Hymns according to the clearer Revelations of the Gospel, for the Use of the Christian Church.

The Essay concludes with the following naïve confession:—

If the Hymns and Spiritual Songs which are here presented to the World are so unhappy as to discourage the Design of this Essay, I will censure and reprove them myself. If they are condemned as being unsuitable to the Capacity or Experience of plain Christians, I will easily confess a Variety of Faults in them; 'twas hard to restrain my Verse always within the Bounds of my Design; 'twas hard to sink every Line to the Level of a whole Congregation, and yet to keep it above Contempt. However, among so great a Number of Songs, I hope there will be some found that speak the very Language, and Desires and Sense of the meanest Souls, and will be an Assistance to their Joy and Worship. The Blemishes of the rest may serve to awaken some more pious and judicious Fancy to a more successful Attempt; and whoever shall have the Honour of such a Performance, I promise myself a large Share in the Pleasure. But we must despair of hearing the New Song of the Lamb in its Perfection and Glory, till Babylon the Great is fallen, and the Kingdoms of this World are become the Kingdoms of the Lord and his Christ, till the New Heavens and the New Earth appear, till all the former things are passed away, and all things are made New.

Isaac Watts—'the Father of the English Hymn,' as his tombstone in Bunhill Fields records—was born at Southampton, July 17, 1674, and died on November 25, 1748. He was only five feet in height, and of feeble physique throughout his life; but he left behind him nearly five hundred hymns and paraphrases, many of which are amongst the most cherished treasures of public and private devotion. His versifications of the Psalms include such noble lines as 'Our God, our help in ages past' (altered, but not improved, by John Wesley to 'O God, our help in ages past), and 'Jesus shall reign where'er the sun.' It should not be forgotten that Dr. Watts—who was a bachelor—was the author of those never-to-be-forgotten infantile rhymes: 'How doth the little busy bee,' and 'Let dogs delight to bark and bite."

THE DIAMOND JUBILEE OF THE ORGANIST OF CARLISLE CATHEDRAL.

On Ash Wednesday, the 12th ult., Dr. Henry Edmund Ford, organist of Carlisle Cathedral, celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of his appointment to that post, having officiated there for the first time on February 12, 1842. It is probably unique in the annals of our cathedrals for an organist to have held that office in one cathedral for an unbroken period of sixty years, and congratulations upon the event poured in upon Dr. Ford from old pupils and friends. It was as a choir boy in Rochester Cathedral that Dr. Ford began his musical career, and he is thus one of the group of cathedral organists who have had a like beginning, including Sir Frederick Bridge, of Westminster Abbey, Dr. Armes, of Durham, Dr. J. C. Bridge (Chester), Dr. Crow, Ripon, and Dr. Wood, Exeter. As a boy, he showed great musical ability, and, on leaving the choir, became an articled pupil of Ralph Banks, at that time organist of Rochester Cathedral.

Dr. Ford was only twenty years of age when appointed to Carlisle Cathedral, but his influence was soon felt in musical circles in the 'Border city.' Soon after his advent there he started a class, which attained to a membership of 100, for teaching singing on Mainzer's system, and in 1843 he became conductor of the Carlisle Harmonic Society. In the Cathedral he has upheld the musical service under discouraging circumstances, and his masterly performances on the fine organ—built by Father Willis, in 1856, to a specification prepared by Dr. Ford, in conjuntion with the late W. T. Best—have been much appreciated. On the occasion of his jubilee, ten years ago, Dr. Ford was presented by his fellow citizens with a service of silver, and other articles, and it was also upon that occasion that the degree of Doctor of Music was conferred upon him by Archbishop Benson.

Dr. Ford had an unfortunate accident two or three weeks ago, by which he broke a bone in his left wrist, but in spite of that he was enabled to play the service (Tallis in D minor) in the Cathedral on the occasion of his anniversary, although of course without the use of his left hand. He is still full of energy and vigour, and it is to be hoped that he may spend many more years of usefulness and honour in the post which he has filled so ably and so long.

GEORGE BENJAMIN ARNOLD.

We regret to record the death of Dr. Arnold, Organist of Winchester Cathedral, which took place at his residence in The Close, on January 31, in his seventieth year. Born at Petworth, Sussex, December 22, 1832, he became a pupil of Dr. S. S. Wesley, at Winchester, and subsequently held organ appointments at St. Columba's College, Rathfarnham, near Dublin, St. Mary's Church, Torquay, and New

MR. JOHN S. BUMPUS AND THE LATE DR. ARNOLD.
From a photograph taken December 9, 1901, by Basil M. Rideaux.

College, Oxford. In 1865, he succeeded his old master (Wesley) in the organistship of Winchester Cathedral, of which sanctuary he had thus held the office of chief musician for thirty-seven years. In addition to his daily round of organist duties, Dr. Arnold was a prolific composer. An account of his life appeared in The Musical Times of November last, in an article entitled 'A Visit to Winchester' (p. 719), which had the advantage of his revision in proof, and to which the reader may be referred.

The Dean of Winchester, in the course of a funeral sermon preached in the Cathedral, said, after referring to Dr. Arnold's kind-heartedness:—

> A strict sense of duty to be discharged as in the sight of God, to whom he would have to render an account, was, it seems to me, the ruling motive of his life. No one was ever less of a men-pleaser or time-server. He had experienced, like most of us, some reverses, disappointments, and vexations; and in talking to me about them on one occasion, I remember being struck by his saying: 'I have found my consolation in the consciousness that I have at least tried to do my duty.' He leaves behind him an example, very wholesome for these restless times, when men and women are ready to become discontented and to crave for novelty and excitement, of steady, persistent, patient work in one place for more than half a lifetime.

The remains of Dr. Arnold were interred in Winchester Cemetery amid many tokens of regret and esteem.

THE NEW ORGANIST OF RIPON CATHEDRAL.

Mr. Charles H. Moody, organist of St. Michael's Church, Coventry, has been appointed organist of Ripon Cathedral, in succession to Dr. Edwin J. Crow, who has held that office since the year 1873. Mr. Moody was born at Dennis Park, Stourbridge, March 22, 1874, was first a pupil of Mr. G. W. Bates, organist of the parish church at that time, and subsequently an articled pupil of Mr. Westlake Morgan, organist of Bangor Cathedral; but he received many valuable hints, especially on accompaniment to the choral service, from the late Sir John Stainer, who, up to the time of his death, took the greatest interest in his young friend's career. For a short time he was co-organist at St. Michael's College, Tenbury, and acting-organist of Wells Cathedral. In 1895 he became organist of Wigan Parish Church

MR. CHARLES H. MOODY.
(Photograph by Messrs. Maule and Co., Coventry.)

(an appointment once held by Sir Walter Parratt), and three years ago he went to St. Michael's, Coventry—a church which furnished a stepping-stone to the Cathedral appointments of Gloucester and Canterbury Cathedrals, held by Mr. A. Herbert Brewer and Dr. H. C. Perrin respectively, as it now has to Ripon. The appointment of Mr. Moody adds another to the large number of Cathedral organists who are under forty years of age. Judging from the record of his splendid work at Coventry and elsewhere, Ripon, no less than he himself, is to be congratulated.

'CHORALIA.'

'Choralia' is, in the words of its sub-title, 'a handy book for parochial precentors and choirmasters,' by the Rev. James Baden Powell (Longmans). Herein the Precentor of St. Paul's Church, Knightsbridge, speaks as a man having authority and one qualified to speak by reason of an experience of thirty-five years. Several interesting quotations might be made from the valuable historical information scattered about these pages, but an extract or two from the more practical portion of the book must suffice. On the subject of voluntary choirs, Mr. Baden Powell rightly says:—

Choir work, whether in church or at practice, is not a pastime, but a definite duty to God, and to consider that because the offering is voluntary, therefore attendance can be voluntary, discredits the offering.

No less weighty are his remarks on chanting:—

It [chanting] requires care and work. Psalms cannot be practised too much: it is helpful to poor readers (of English) to make them read better; it teaches all to pronounce their words together. A little chanting should be done at every practice.

He wisely maintains that chants 'with diatonic harmonies are preferable to those with decidedly chromatic harmonies, and those with the notes of the melody moving in close intervals to those which have long jumps from low to high notes.' There is much truth in the shrewd remark: 'The more epigrammatic a chant is, the more interesting will it be to sing.' In regard to matters too often accounted of lesser importance, he remarks:—

It has been said that the excellence of a choir can easily be discerned by the way it sings its 'Amens.' This means that the care given to smaller details of the service is as great as that given to the more important parts. Of course, this should be so.

With all his enthusiasm for a full choral service, rendered decently and in order, our author is to be commended for not ignoring the congregation. Under the heading 'How to accentuate the teaching of an anthem,' he makes the following pregnant suggestion:—

Remembering that the anthem is not a part of the service in which the congregation are expected to take a vocal part (any more than they would in the Lessons), it is valuable sometimes, where it can be done, to impress the teaching of the anthem by, so to speak, a correlative hymn chosen in connection with it.

He gives as an example an anthem setting of 'The Lord is my Shepherd,' followed by the hymn 'The King of Love my Shepherd is,' and goes on to say—

It is not a repetition, it is putting into the people's mouths a response, and a useful response, to what they have just heard, pressing home the valuable teaching of the 23rd Psalm. Many instances such as this may be found and brought valuably into use.

This opens an interesting field to composers. Moreover, he advocates a congregational practice, and a congregational choir; and he is broad-minded enough to refrain from throwing stones at such time-honoured congregational tunes as 'Miles's Lane' and 'Helmsley.' Useful information is set forth on hymns and hymn-tunes; and among the other subjects practically discussed—in addition to the formation and organization of a parochial choir, and a complete directory of the usual services—are Processions, Special Services, and Instrumental Music. We have much pleasure in drawing attention to a book which may be read with profit and edification by all who are interested in Church music.

OLD TIME CHURCH MUSIC IN SUFFOLK.

The Eastern Counties Magazine for February—an interesting quarterly publication edited by the Hon. Mary Henniker, and issued by Messrs. Jarrold and Sons—contains an entertaining article on the above subject by Dr. Edward L. Fenn, from which we make two extracts. They are portions of letters written by a former Rector of Holton-St.-Mary, a village just across the Essex border, in the year 1764. He was evidently not favourably disposed towards church choirs, judging from the following indictment:—

I have made a collection of select portions of Psalms and hymns, with plain and easy tunes, which will shortly be published. I have ordered a copy to be sent to you, of which I desire your acceptance. They are intended to encourage our congregations to sing ye old tunes, and to take this excellent part of Divine service out of ye hands of our country choirs, whose Airs and Impertinence and pretended Independence of ye Minister are become insufferable. A worthy clergyman (Dr. Owen), without my knowledge, acquainted ye late Archbishop with my Design, who said "Something must be done to put our psalmody on a better footing. The Sectarists," he added, "gain a multitude of followers by their better singing."

In another letter, this reforming Suffolk parson utters a real jeremiad:—

The Heavenly Part of our Service is performed in a very ill manner in almost all our country churches. The Congregation in general sit down unconcerned. The Performance is wholly given up to a few who are too often conceited, ignorant, obstinate Persons, who call themselves ye Singers. The Performers are placed in a Singing Seat, sometimes a raised seat like a Stage. Here they form themselves into a round Ring, with their Faces to each other and their Backs to ye congregation. Here they murder anthems, chuse improper Psalms, leave off in ye middle of a sentence, sing Psalms of all kinds to new, jiggish Tunes. If ye Minister offers to direct them, "He may mind his Text; he may sing himself, they will sing as they list or not at all." They frequently leave their own Parish Church, and go in a Body to display their Talents in other Churches. I have known them stroll six or seven miles for this purpose, sometimes with a young female singer or two in their Train.

It is quite evident that the troubled rector's designation of the music of the service as its 'Heavenly Part' was very far removed from the region of practical attainment at Holton-St.-Mary.

Sir Walter Parratt has been elected a Fellow of St. Michael's College, Tenbury, in succession to the late Sir John Stainer.

The issue of four new instalments (Nos. 6 to 9) of Novello's Anthem Book furnishes an opportunity for calling attention to the scope and usefulness of this publication. Each book contains twelve anthems, suitable for festival and general use, and all the seasons of the Church are provided for, the cost of each anthem working out at the modest sum of one penny.

The annual meeting of the London Church Choir Association was held at the Chapter House, St. Paul's Cathedral, on January 27, when the chair was occupied by Sir George Martin, President. It was decided to hold a Festival Service at St. Saviour's Collegiate Church, Southwark, on April 17.

Bach's Passion Music (St. John) will be sung, with orchestral accompaniment, at St. Anne's, Soho, on Friday evenings, the 7th, 14th, and 21st inst., at 8 p.m., and on Good Friday afternoon at 4 p.m., under the reverent direction of Mr. E. H. Thorne.

THE CHOIR BENEVOLENT FUND.

The Annual General Meeting of the Choir Benevolent Fund was held in the Chapter Room, St. Paul's Cathedral, on the 11th ult., Mr. Calkin Lewis being in the Chair. The balance-sheet presented was of a highly satisfactory nature. The Secretary's Report stated that the Society had attained its jubilee during the past year, but that, owing to generally depressed financial conditions, it had not been thought advisable to hold any Festival. Arrangements had, however, been made for a Festival Service at Christ Church, Lancaster Gate, in July. The advantages of membership of this Society cannot be too highly commended to the Lay Clerks of Cathedrals throughout the country.

ORGAN RECITALS.

Mr. Edwin H. Lemare, St. Margaret's, Westminster (his last recital previous to his departure for America, when he played his Symphony in G minor). — Mr. Herbert W. Jones, Parish Church, Callander (Concerto in B flat, Handel).—Mr. R. Garrett Cox, Great Brickhill Church (Concert Rondo in B flat, Hollins).—Mr. J. Charles Long, St. James's, Marylebone (Reverie, Stainer).—Mr. William Reed, Chalmers' Church, Quebec, Canada (Schiller March, Meyerbeer).— Mr. W. G. Whittaker, St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, South Shields (Sonata in G, Op. 28, Elgar).—Mr. Wilde, Wymondham Parish Church.—Mr. W. Cary Bliss, St. Mary, Oatlands (March on a theme by Handel, Guilmant).—Mr. R. H. Turner, Parish Church, Portsmouth (Theme in A, Hird).—Mr. G. Bernard Gilbert, Public Hall, Canning Town (O Sanctissima, Chipp).—Mr. H. M. Higgs, St. Nicholas, Sutton (Suite, Dr. Arne and Festal March, Calkin).—Mr. Roger Ascham, Feather Market Hall, Port Elizabeth (Sonata in F, Wolstenholme).—Mr. Walter Alcock, St. Anne's, Eastbourne (Overture in C, Mendelssohn).—Mr. W. Louch, St. John's, Longsight (Hommage à Mozart, J. B. Calkin).—Mr. H. Mozart Sheaves, Audlem Baptist Church (Postlude in D, Smart).—Mr. Alfred Bentley, St. Lawrence, Jewry (Toccata in A flat, Hesse).—Mr. Harold E. MacKinley, St. Lawrence, Jewry (Romanza, Gade).—Mr. C. J. Brennan, Elmwood Presbyterian Church, Belfast (Allegretto in A flat, Wolstenholme).

ORGANIST AND CHOIRMASTER, AND CHOIR APPOINTMENTS.

Mr. H. L. Balfour, Holy Trinity Church, Sloane Street.

Dr. J. C. Bradshaw, Christchurch Cathedral, New Zealand.

Mr. F. C. Butcher, St. Columba's College, Rathfarnham.

Mr. Stanley Chipperfield, Parish Church, Richmond, Surrey.

Mr. C. H. Moody, Ripon Cathedral.

Mr. James T. Pye, Christ Church, Surbiton Hill.

Mr. Alfred H. Robinson, organist to the Duke of Westminster at Eaton Hall.

Mr. William H. Speer, Christ Church, High Wycombe.

Mr. J. D. Turner, South United Free Church, Crieff, N.B.

Mr. W. Wolstenholme, the King's Weigh House Chapel, Grosvenor Square.

Mr. James Wood, Wesleyan Church, Newton Heath, Manchester.

Mr. Samuel S. Page, Crathie Parish Church, Balmoral.

Mr. Sidney Percy Barnby, Vicar Choral (Alto) of St. Paul's Cathedral.

Mr. T. M. Bradshaw (Alto), Old St. Pancras Church.

Mr. W. F. Dear (Alto), Berkeley Chapel, Mayfair.

Reviews.

MUSICAL LITERATURE.

Manuali Hoepli: Storia della Musica. Di Alfredo Untersteiner. Seconda edizione intieramente riveduta e ampliata. [Ulrico Hoepli, Milano.]

Music is the latest born of the arts, yet its story is a long one, and in this small, handy volume it is, of course, told very briefly. The scheme is an excellent one, and it offers a résumé which may be amplified by the reading of books on special periods or concerning special composers; and such books, by-the-way, are named at the end of each chapter. An outline of history of any kind is what a student first needs.

It will be impossible to discuss the volume seriatim. But let us just glance at one or two places. On page 245, the 'sonata au clair de lune' is mentioned as one of Beethoven's most notable sonatas. The statement is true, but that stupid title might well have been omitted. On page 312 we read of Perosi that 'he lacks neither inspiration nor knowledge,' and that there is no reason to doubt that 'he will give that perfect work which all, and with reason, expect from him.' There are, however, many who do not entertain such high hope. On the same page is given a list of the principal English musicians of the present day, which needs a little revision; and the name of the distinguished American composer, MacDowell, ought not to be among them, but in a fresh list with American names added to it. The admirers, and they are many, of Tschaïkowsky, will surely take umbrage at the statement that the Russian composer's works, with the exception of the noted and admired fifth and sixth symphonies, 'will not remain in the repertory, because in them inspiration is too variable,' and 'because there are frequent prolixities and strangenesses of rhythm and harmony.' Many of the appreciations of the great composers are excellent, but before the third edition is issued, further revision is desirable.

Studien zur Geschichte der Italienischen Oper im 17. Jahrhundert. Von Hugo Goldschmidt.

[Leipzig: Breitkopf u. Härtel.]

Our author in a brief preface remarks, and truly, that Italian opera of the seventeenth century shows in the most striking manner the transition from the old to the new art: he speaks of it as 'the cradle of modern music.' The subject has already been studied, as he reminds his hearers, in two ways—operas of that period have been published by the Gesellschaft für Musikforschung and in the Denkmäler der Tonkunst in Oesterreich, and, on the other hand, theoretical, critical, and æsthetic works have been written by such distinguished men as Hermann Kretzchmar and Romain Rolland. Goldschmidt not only treats his subject from an evolutionary point of view, showing the connection of 17th century operas with the past and the seeds of progress which they contain, but he gives a wonderful collection of examples, and thus infuses life into his remarks; he speaks, for instance, of some important feature in this or that opera, and by merely turning to the page in the appendix indicated, there it stands before one's eyes.

Herr Goldschmidt mentions the fact that the Monodic school waged war against polyphony, yet could not destroy it; it was, after all, the old school which strengthened and developed, as he afterwards shows, the new art.

'The importance of Roman art-life during the first half of the seventeenth century, as regards musical drama, has been hitherto practically ignored. The Venetian opera until recently was looked upon as the continuation and reformation of the Florentine prototype. Romain Rolland [in his "Histoire de l'opéra en Europe avant Lully et Scarlatti"], therefore, rendered service in pointing out that the nature of Roman Opera was a link of special importance between the starting point of the new movement and the monody of the Venetian national period.' Thus our author and his book is occupied in discussing at length this important link.

Rolland hinted at it, but the scheme of his work prevented him from treating it fully. The first chapter in the volume begins by mentioning Emilio del Cavalieri's 'Rappresentatione di anima e di corpo,' with which the new style of music made its entry into Rome in the year 1600, and then he goes on to show how varied melody, choral polyphony, the lied form, the aria, new tonality, and a feeling for unity were gradually introduced and developed by such composers as Agazzari, Marco da Gagliano, Stefano Landi (whose works show important advance in form, instrumentation, and characterisation), Michelangelo, Rossi, &c. He devotes many pages to Landi's last and greatest work 'Drama musicale il Santo Alesio,' a deeply earnest sacred work, and his closing remark is as follows:—'This appreciation may perhaps help to procure for our master that recognition which his great art-work deserves, but which history up to the present has denied him.' No one, indeed, can read these pages, and the musical examples connected with them in the appendix, without feeling that Herr Goldschmidt has rescued from oblivion a work of strong interest. The second part of the volume is devoted to the musical comedy of the 17th century (Opera buffa), and the third to the orchestra of the Italian opera of the same period. We must, however, refrain from entering into detail; if we once began we should not know where or when to stop. But it has, we hope, been made clear that to the serious student of history such a book is of immense interest and value.

Mastersingers. By Filson Young.

[London: William Reeves.]

'It means what it says,' replied Mendelssohn, when questioned about the 'meaning' of one of his quartets. The author of 'Mastersingers' seems to be fully aware of the impossibility of reproducing musical emotions in words, for in a postscript he disclaims having attempted anything more than a 'truthful record of the effect that certain works . . . produce on a single mind.' The works selected are the Pastoral and Pathetic Symphonies, Bach's Organ Fugues, and a few other classics; and there are also éloges of Berlioz and other composers. In these essays, some of which have appeared previously in a different form, Mr. Young displays a style singularly free from the affectations into which æsthetic critics are prone to fall, and shows a considerable gift of invective in a trenchant article on the conditions of musical life in England. In his estimates of composers he lets fall some very felicitous phrases, and his 'impressions' of the masterpieces selected are still more interesting for the skill with which the secrets of their magic are penetrated. It was a policy of doubtful wisdom to include appreciations of two living composers, and certainly it was a little patronising to refer to each of them as 'this man'; but any doubt as to the catholicity of the author's sympathies is removed by the remainder of the essays. The book deserved a happier title, and much more care in the matter of printing and binding; but in spite of this handicap, it will doubtless find many appreciative readers.

ANTHEMS.

The Lord liveth. By Arthur W. Marchant.
They that go down to the sea in ships. By Hamilton Clarke.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

The music of the Eastertide anthem by Dr. Marchant is appropriately jubilant in character. Good contrast to the vigour of the opening chorus is secured by the andante con expressione section, to which succeeds a brief passage for a bass solo. A repetition of the opening strains, with sundry alterations, brings the anthem to a brilliant conclusion. Mr. Hamilton Clarke's anthem opens with a breezy introduction for the organ suggestive of 'the rude imperious surge,' and throughout the anthem, which extends to sixteen octavo pages, the organ part is of a suggestively troubled nature. The vocal portion includes a soprano solo of some length. The choral part writing is flowing, is grateful to sing, and contains some very effective passages and contrasts.

ORGAN MUSIC.

Communion in D. By Alfred Hollins.
Contemplation in E flat. By H. A. Wheeldon.
Triumphal Song. By A. H. Brewer.
Minuet in F. By Myles B. Foster.
Fantasy-Prelude. By Charles Macpherson.
Fantasia in E. By W. Wolstenholme.
Berceuse in D. By Edwin H. Lemare.
Air with Variations. Haydn (arranged by A. B. Plant).
Gavotte in C minor. Old French (arranged by Arthur W. Marchant).
Andante. From Mendelssohn's Italian Symphony (arranged by Edmund T. Chipp).
Overture to William Tell (arranged by Edwin H. Lemare).

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

The first piece on our list, by Mr. Alfred Hollins, loses none of its interest by certain Hopkinsesque characteristics—melody and true organ style: would that we had more of it! The devotional main theme is, in the final section, accompanied by the downward skips (of the seventh) which are a feature of the technically-called second subject. Musicianship and tunefulness here go hand in hand, and the result is a welcome addition to organ music for the church. Mr. Wheeldon, in his Contemplation, evidently portrays someone in a more or less agitated frame of mind, and, except during ten bars, the pedal part is going all the time. The result is a restlessness that hardly accords with the title, but as a rhapsodical type of organ music, the piece leaves little to be desired. Energy is the outstanding feature of the first section of Mr. Brewer's Triumphal Song, which needs a nimble pedalist to do it justice. Pleasant relief is afforded by a second subject in the dominant key (B flat), and the piece is worthy of the organist of Gloucester Cathedral. Mr. Myles B. Foster has always something melodious to say, and his Minuet in F does not disappoint expectation in this respect, nor, indeed, in constructive musicianship. The pedal staccato quavers in the trio section (key of D flat) need to be clearly, pizzicatoly played in order to realise his intentions.

The Fantasy-Prelude of Mr. Charles Macpherson is, like all his creative productions, thoughtful, strong, and unconventional. An E minor opening, slow, solemn and deep-toned, gives place to a con moto in nine-eight rhythm and in the key of G minor, fugally treated. After considerable and clever development, the opening solemnities are super-accompanied by a demisemiquaver figure, but the end is 'like the touch of an infinite calm.' In the conception of this effective Fantasy-Prelude, one can imagine that the composer had in his mind the great cathedral of St. Paul and the magnificent organ therein upon which he so admirably performs. It will well repay the attention of recitalists. Mr. Wolstenholme, like Mr. Macpherson, has chosen the Fantasia form as the expression of his thoughts in the composition before us—dedicated, by-the-way, to Mr. Edwin H. Lemare. A bustling semiquaverish opening gives place to a plaintive andante expressivo in the key of E minor, but later on, in strong contrast, comes a lively fugue (nine-eight rhythm, and to be played at the speed of dotted crotchet = 116), starting in the pedals. The end is worthy of what has gone before, and the effectiveness of this Fantasia admits of no disputation. To say that the Berceuse in D is cast in the same mould as similar compositions by Mr. Edwin H. Lemare is not only within the bounds of truth, but perchance a sufficient recommendation. There is a certain rhythmic restlessness in the piece; but may not that be in its favour in the eyes of some performers?

A few words must suffice for the four arrangements. In regard to the Variations in G of Haydn, the arranger gives no clue as to the work from which they are taken. How interesting it would have been to have printed the incident of the London clergyman's dream, related by Haydn during his visit to London, on the occasion upon which he conducted the symphony (in D) of which these variations form a part. The old French Gavotte (in C minor) has a musette (in the major key), in the performance of which the merest tyro of a pedalist need have no compunction about 'putting his foot into it'—the pedal part is one long, sustained note, the lowest C! Dr. Chipp's capital transcription of the so-called Pilgrim's March from Mendelssohn's Italian Symphony is a reprint, clearly set out and helpful to the eye; and the fact that Mr. Lemare is responsible for the arrangement of the evergreen William Tell overture is a sufficient guarantee of its excellence and practicability.

PIANOFORTE MUSIC.

Entr'acte II. from Ravenswood. By A. C. Mackenzie.
Scenes from an every-day romance. By Coleridge-Taylor.
Summergold Gavotte. By H. W. Wareing.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

The Entr'acte by Sir Alexander Mackenzie is entitled 'Lucy,' and the music is of the expressive and agitated character which one expects from being associated with Sir Walter Scott's heroine. Pianists with a sympathetic style will find in this piece an effective medium for the display of their abilities. Mr. Coleridge-Taylor's 'Scenes' were originally written for full orchestra, and consequently his pianoforte arrangement is orchestral in style. The scenes are four in number—severally, an Allegro, an Andante, Tempo de Valse, and Presto. Each is stamped with the individuality which is found in all Mr. Taylor's productions. The most effective on the pianoforte are the first and last, but these require some brilliancy of execution, and the third movement, which is easy and melodious, will probably enjoy most favour. Mr. Wareing's Gavotte starts, as gavottes should, on the third beat in the bar, a point frequently overlooked by modern writers of this old dance form. The direction 'tempo di Gavotta,' however, is somewhat vague, but judging by the style of the music, the composer presumably means it to be played as a 'Gavotte noble,' which was taken in rather slow time. The principal theme is melodious, and also possesses the didactic character associated with these dance strains.

Uebungen. Exercises and Etudes by Pischna. Edited by A. Ruthardt.
Arabesques. By Graham P. Moore.
Valse Impromptu and Etude de Concert. By Waddington Cooke.

[Bosworth and Co.]

The book of exercises by Pischna is of an advanced type, and students would do well to carefully read the preface. The aim of the author is to give simultaneous, and yet distinct, employment to each hand, and even to each finger. He was for many years professor at the Imperial Institute at Moscow; and the editor is professor at the Leipzig Conservatorium.

Mr. Moore has probably taken Schumann's Children's Album as his model for the construction of these little sketches. They are eminently suitable for beginners, and are fairly graceful and melodious, though without any pretension to originality.

The pieces by Mr. Waddington Cooke are musicianly, characteristic, and well-written for the pianoforte. The harmonies are interesting and varied. The Etude is likely to become a favourite.

Valse Triste, in G minor, and Chant d'Avril in G major. For pianoforte solo. By Stephen Esipoff.

[Forsyth Brothers.]

Both these pieces acquire artistic interest by the composer's clever treatment of his principal themes. The melancholy of the Valse is pronounced, but the suggestion of hope is also present, as it seems to whisper softly in the concluding pianissimo chords, the last of which is in the tonic major. The April song is impregnated with the exuberance and the confidence of awakened hope. Both are easy of execution.

Autumn. Selection of themes from 'Much Ado about Nothing,' for pianoforte. Composed by Edward German.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

The first of the above pieces is from the orchestral suite, entitled 'The Seasons,' written by Mr. Edward German for the Norwich Festival of 1899. As arranged by the composer for the pianoforte, the salient points of the music have been carefully preserved, and the interest of the piece is increased by its containing reminiscences of the 'Summer' and 'Spring' sections of the suite. The transcription of 'Autumn' will be found easy to play, and the music is written in Mr. German's best manner. The selection of themes from the incidental music for Mr. Alexander's revival of 'Much Ado about Nothing,' furnishes six short and expressive little pieces which lovers of Shakespeare will find pleasure in connecting with the characters of the play.

SONGS.

Das Veilchen. Words by Goethe; music by Clarisse Mallard. The Catspaw. Words by Millais; music by Morton Latham. How shall I send my love a greeting? Words by Gertrude Harraden; music by Arthur Fox.

[Charles Woolhouse.]

Miss Mallard's music is favourably known to many amateurs, and her setting of Goethe's little story with a moral sustains her reputation as a gifted and accomplished musician. The voice part affords opportunities for effective vocalisation, and the accompaniment possesses musical interest. Miss Mallard has also provided a good English translation to the German words. 'The Catspaw' is not a zoological song, but is an illustrative setting of some poetical lines, dealing with the passing of a zephyr-like breeze 'among the pines that fringed the mountain's crest.' Mr. Morton Latham's music is well laid out for the voice, and the accompaniment cleverly suggests the environment of the poem. Mr. Fox's song deals with the doubts of a lover concerning whether he shall send a message to his sweetheart by the breeze, a bird, or a moonbeam. Ultimately he adopts the moonbeam, which perhaps is quite as reliable as the other two mediums. The chief merit of the song is its flowing melodiousness. It imperatively demands a tenor voice.

Six Songs. By John Warrack.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

These six songs merit the attention of cultured vocalists. They are more suitable for the drawing room than the concert room, but they are salon music of the best kind. The most successful of the settings is that of Mr. W. E. Henley's little poem, 'Bring her again, Oh Western wind,' the music to this echoing the impassioned character of the words with truth and fidelity. Mr. Warrack has also allied Heine's 'Du bist wie eine Blume' to expressive and grateful strains. The other songs are more simple in character.

Love Absolute. Words by Clifton Bingham. Music by H. Chilver Wilson.
Lullaby. Words by Oram Bailey. Music composed by Battison Haynes.
Sweet Vales of Devonia. Words by Edward Capern.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

Mr. Chilver Wilson's song will appeal to vocalists who incline to latitude of time in the delivery of their words. The first lines are given in recitative fashion, and the subsequent changes of tempo are dominated by the suggestions of the text. The music is appropriately impassioned, and tonal transitions are generously employed. It is imperative that the accompanist and singer should be in perfect accord, in fact the ideal interpreters would be two musical minds with but a single thought.

The 'Lullaby' by the late Mr. Battison Haynes is peculiarly pleasing. It is not in six-eight time, which is really quite a relief. The composition is a charming little song which forms a faithful witness to the talent of the lamented musician. 'Sweet Vales of Devonia' is also placid in character, and possesses a peculiar purity of style which makes it very engaging.

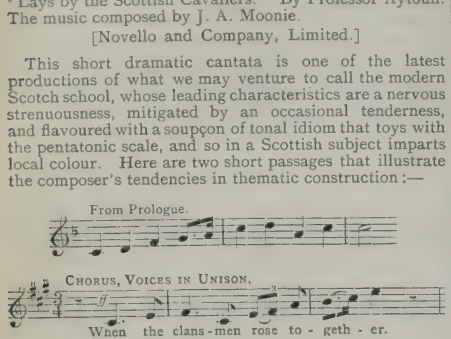
Killiecrankie (The Burial March of Dundee). A ballad for tenor solo, chorus and orchestra. The words from 'Lays by the Scottish Cavaliers.' By Professor Aytoun. The music composed by J. A. Moonie.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

This short dramatic cantata is one of the latest productions of what we may venture to call the modern Scotch school, whose leading characteristics are a nervous strenuousness, mitigated by an occasional tenderness, and flavoured with a soupçon of tonal idiom that toys with the pentatonic scale, and so in a Scottish subject imparts local colour. Here are two short passages that illustrate the composer's tendencies in thematic construction:—



There is no nonsense about Mr. Moonie's music; there is vigour, intensity, and a downright quality about it that impels attention. The subject of the cantata is one that appeals to a Scotsman, although Professor Aytoun's metrical treatment of the story of the famous fight in Killiecrankie Pass is hardly cast in the mould for musical purposes, consisting as it does of one hundred lines in unbroken eight-seven metre. But Mr. Moonie has cleverly avoided the rut of rhythmic monotony in dealing with the difficulty—in fact, it is one of the merits of his setting that he contrives to secure great variety of rhythm, and at the same time he is punctilious as to the verbal accentuation. The tenor solo affords agreeable relief to the chorus, and allows ample scope for the display of the powers of a tenore robusto. The chorus part is not easy; in fact, it is calculated to try the mettle of the best choirs; but it is full of interest, and the part-writing is melodious, especially in the last section, which admirably reflects the pathos of the situation. The orchestral part is full, and demands experienced playing and conducting.

Obituary.

ALFRED GILBERT.

The death of Alfred Gilbert, one of the oldest students of the Royal Academy of Music, on the 6th ult., has to be recorded with regret. He was born at Salisbury on October 21, 1826, and at the age of fourteen became a pupil of Dr. Charles Corfe—the Corfe-mixture organist (according to Ouseley and others) of Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford. In March, 1845, he entered the Royal Academy of Music, then a resident as well as a teaching Institution, and was appointed assistant organist of Hanover Chapel, Regent Street. He held organ appointments at St. Matthew's, Spring Gardens; Chepstow; Mitcham; Kentish Town; and St. Mark's, Hamilton Terrace. In 1851 he gave a series of classical concerts in conjunction with the Misses Charlotte and Susanna Cole, the latter of whom he married. Mr. Gilbert, who was a Director of the Philharmonic Society, and a member of the Royal Society of Musicians, had the additional distinction of being elected Socio onorario della Reale Accademia S. Cecilia of Rome. His son, Mr. Alfred Gilbert, R.A., is the distinguished sculptor. We refer in another column (p. 165) to some incidents of Mr. Gilbert's student days at the Royal Academy of Music.

The well-known professor at the Guildhall School of Music, Chevalier Emil Bach, died suddenly from heart disease, at his residence in Cricklewood, on the 15th ult., at the age of fifty-three. He was a prolific composer, his works including the one-act opera, 'The Lady of Longford,' produced at Covent Garden under the regime of the late Sir Augustus Harris, and the two-act opera, 'Irmengarda,' brought out at Drury Lane, in addition to a Capriccio Polonaise, for pianoforte, and 'Carols of Cradleland.'

The death occurred, at Berlin, on the 16th ult., of Privy Councillor Harry Pierson, assistant to Count Hochberg, the Intendant General of the Royal Prussian Theatres. Mr. Pierson completely re-organised the Berlin Royal Theatres, and for this he will always be remembered. He died at the age of fifty, and was son of the late Henry Hugh Pierson, the composer.

We regret to record the death, on the 1st ult., at Leipzic, of Salomon Jadassohn, professor of composition and instrumentation at the Conservatorium, the well-known composer and teacher, aged 70. Dr. Jadassohn was the author of several learned treatises on the theory of music.

On the 5th ult., very suddenly, at Newcastle-on-Tyne, Thomas Albion Alderson, for thirty-six years organist and choirmaster of St. Andrew's Church, Newcastle, aged 59.

On the 6th ult., at Lowestoft, Harry Denton Flowers, Associate of the Royal College of Music, and organist, since 1885, of St. Margaret's Parish Church, Lowestoft, aged 39, deeply regretted.

The death of Dr. G. B. Arnold, of Winchester, is referred to on p. 169.

MRS. NEWMARCH ON 'RUSSIAN OPERA.'

On the 11th ult., at the monthly meeting of the Musical Association, the President, Sir Hubert Parry, in the chair, Mrs. Newmarch read a paper (Part II.) on 'The development of National Opera in Russia.'

Referring to her first paper, Mrs. Newmarch said she had already spoken of the innate musical capacities of the Russian people, and of their long efforts to found a School of national music. Neither Alabiev, Lvov nor Verstovsky, gifted amateurs as they were, had been strong enough to effect this; it was left for Glinka to catch up the spirit, not only of Russian music, but of that of the neighbouring East, and in his operas, 'A Life for the Tsar' and 'Russlan and Lioudmilla,' to realise the dream of a national opera. The most direct followers of Glinka were Borodin and Rimsky-Korsakov, and, with a certain admixture of foreign influence, Cui and Tchaïkovsky. Departing, for the time being, from the direct line of Glinka's influence, Mrs. Newmarch spoke of three composers who stood somewhat apart from the rest of the New Russian School. Dargomijsky was the contemporary of Glinka; but could hardly be called his disciple. He claimed to have introduced the modern music-drama into Russia. Moussorgsky was the direct disciple of Dargomijsky. Serov also claimed to have written the first Russian music-drama, but he was the representative of Wagnerian methods, and his works were not always in keeping with the national genius.

Dargomijsky began his musical life as an amateur, whose songs were much admired during the forties. Under Glinka's influence, he began to study music seriously. From the first he was greatly preoccupied with realism in music, and desired 'the note to be the direct representative of the word.' Guided by these principles, he gradually discarded all the old arbitrary divisions of the Italian opera, and became a great master of declamatory art. In his opera 'The Roussalka' (The Watersprite) we first see the application of these innovating ideas. But in his more mature work, 'The Stone Guest' (Don Juan) he carries them still farther. Here, he has rejected the older forms of opera entirely, and his singers express themselves in that melos, or mezzo recitativo, which is neither song nor speech, but the connecting link between the two. Dargomijsky had arrived by a perfectly independent, parallel path at the same goal as Richard Wagner. Comparisons between the two must not be pushed too far. Dargomijsky's achievement was small as compared with that of Wagner. Mrs. Newmarch, however, considered that the Russian composer was no mere imitator of the Bayreuth master, but a strong and original genius, who would have found the way to a reformed music-drama even if Wagner had never existed. There was no similarity of style between these composers. Dargomijsky retained his nationality intact. He died in 1869, and the instrumentation of 'The Stone Guest' was carried out, in accordance with his directions, by Rimsky-Korsakov. This work had been called 'the Gospel of the New School.' It embodies most of the dominant ideas of that School, as set forth by Cui in his book, 'La Musique en Russie.' Its influence upon the younger composers had been enormous, but it was not a popular opera in any sense of the word.

Moussorgsky was pre-eminently a vocal, a dramatic composer, and in this respect his musical temperament has more affinity with Dargomijsky than with Glinka. Musical psychology was the chief problem of his art. In his own words, 'To seek the most delicate and subtle features of the human crowd, to follow them into unknown regions and make them our own: to feed upon humanity as a healthy diet which has been neglected, here lies the whole problem of art.' But since he made the exact copying of nature the whole duty of the artist, Moussorgsky logically rejected the formula 'art for art's sake' as meaningless. Beauty of form ceased to attract him. Insensibly he drifted into an attitude of complete negation. Of all the Russians, to him alone can be applied the epithet 'musical Nihilist.'

Mrs. Newmarch described in detail Moussorgsky's great historical music-drama 'Boris Godounov,' which gives a realistic picture of mediæval Russian life. His second opera, 'Khovantshina,' belonged to the period of Peter the Great. Musically, it was very little, if at all, inferior to 'Boris Godounov,' which had, however, the advantage of being founded on Poushkin's great drama. Moussorgsky was a great connoisseur of Church music, and is very correct in his use of ecclesiastical themes. He died in 1881 of a nervous complaint, accelerated by the immoderate use of stimulants.

Serov was one of the first enlightened critics who appeared in Russia. During the forties and early fifties, musical criticism was at its lowest ebb. Oulibichev and Lenz were men of undoubted talent, but they had drifted into specialism, and wrote chiefly in German. All the other critics of the leading papers might have said, with Wordsworth, 'our berth is but a sleep and a forgetting.' Serov's articles in The Contemporary created a sensation in the musical world. His writings, which were useful in their day, because they set men thinking, have now all the weakness of purely subjective criticism. Throughout the three bulky volumes which contain his collected writings, there is no trace of any ordered philosophy of criticism. He was unstable and capricious in his judgments; but joined to personal prestige a good literary style and 'a wit that felled you like a mace.' The most intimate friend of his youth was Vladimir Stassov, destined to become a still greater scholar and critic than himself. Serov's early efforts at composition did not amount to much more than improvisations. At this time, joined to a vast but vague ambition, he had the irritating consciousness of poverty of inspiration. He acquired the theory of music with great difficulty. In 1858 he returned from Germany quite 'Wagner mad,' to use his own expression. 'I would gladly suffer at the stake to be his apostle,' he wrote, at this time. This exalted frame of mind found no echo in Russia, where Balakirev was striving to solve the problem of a new school of music, not upon Wagnerian, but upon national principles.

For forty years, Serov's inspiration had refused to yield material for an opera, but indignation seemed to supply the necessary stimulus. In twelve months' time he had written his first opera, 'Judith,' which had an unparalleled success, rivalling even 'A Life for the Tsar.' 'Judith' recalls Wagner in the 'Lohengrin' and 'Tannhäuser' period, and has also some curious reminiscences of Meyerbeer. Besides many purely external attractions, it has intrinsic value as music, and was one of Tchaïkovsky's 'first loves' in opera. The extraordinary popular success of 'Judith' showed Serov the short-cut to fame, and in his second opera, 'Rogneda,' he emphasizes all that is sensational and decorative, with a view to catch the public taste. In this he succeeded; 'Rogneda' drew crowded houses. His third opera, 'The Power of Evil,' was an attempt to fuse Wagner and Glinka, and to create a Russo-Wagnerian music-drama. The result was something purely artificial—a hybrid which produced nothing in its turn. 'The Power of Evil' never enjoyed the same popularity as his earlier operas. Mrs. Newmarch concluded her paper with a recent criticism of Serov by his old friend and opponent, Vladimir Stassov, and by Wagner's personal tribute to the memory of his disciple.

Mrs. Henry J. Wood contributed very greatly to the elucidation of the paper by her dramatic rendering of airs from 'The Roussalka,' 'Khovantshina,' and 'Rogneda.'

London Concerts.

ALEXANDER BALUS.

A performance of this little-known oratorio of Handel's was given by the Handel Society, at St. James's Hall, on the 19th ult. The composer achieved a great success with his 'Judas' in 1746, so his librettist, Dr. Morell, turned once again, though with less success, to the Maccabees for a subject. Alexander Balus was written in 1747, and produced in 1748. Some of the airs and choruses contain music such as Handel could write at a moment's notice; but, although the work as a whole may be inferior to 'Judas' and other oratorios of the master, there are inspired pages in it: the 'Calumny' chorus, the delightful 'Hail, wedded love' duet, and above all the air, 'Convey me to some peaceful shore,' are of a simplicity on which only genius dare venture. The performance, under the direction of Mr. J. S. Liddle, was very creditable. Mr. E. G. Croager presided efficiently at the organ. But why was there no harpsichord or pianoforte? Without such aid, Handel's music cannot be properly presented.

The soloists were Miss Ethel Wood, Miss Georgina Dupuis, Miss Bessie Grant, and Messrs. Samuel Masters, W. P. Besley, T. H. Robb and H. Lane Wilson. It may be mentioned that this oratorio was revived two years ago at a meeting of the Incorporated Society of Musicians at Scarborough, under the direction of Dr. A. H. Mann, and in accordance with the wishes of the composer, both as regards number of instrumentalists and vocalists, and faithful reproduction of Handel's score. The Right Hon. Arthur J. Balfour, M.P., the First Lord of the Treasury, a devoted lover of Handel, who, by-the-way, lent an old handbook of the promoters of the Scarborough performance above mentioned, was present among the audience.

MR. ROBERT NEWMAN'S CONCERTS, QUEEN'S HALL.

To complete the novelty record of the Promenade Concerts, which successfully concluded on the 1st ult., mention must be made of some interesting symphonic variations by Hans Koessler (played on January 30) and, on the last day of January, the Symphony No. 2 in E minor, by Hans Huber. The concluding section of the latter work, designated 'Metamorphosen,' by the composer, is a theme with variations, illustrating, rather too graphically perhaps, certain pictures by Bœcklin. On the 1st ult., a distinctly poetical symphonic poem, entitled 'Among the mountains of Cambria,' by Mr. W. H. Reed, a member of Mr. Wood's orchestra, was produced; it is a clever work, with local colour in the skilful treatment of some Welsh Melodies.

At the second symphony concert, on the 1st ult., the first performance in England was given of the 'Love scene' from the vocal poem 'Feuersnoth,' composed by Herr Richard Strauss, an elaborately orchestrated work which, like most of its kind, loses much when dissociated from its natural stage environment.

MR. A. P. GRAVES'S 'POST BAG.'

The Irish Literary Society gave an attractive concert at St. George's Hall, on January 27. The first and last parts were miscellaneous, but between them came an operetta entitled 'The Post Bag,' the libretto by Mr. A. P. Graves, the music, based to a large extent on Irish tunes, by Signor Esposito. It proved an amusing little piece. The story is of an Irish girl whose lover is far away; he sends her a letter, but written in Irish. This the postman, and afterwards the blacksmith, both desperately in love with the girl, translate for her, but each in a way calculated to give himself a good chance. The sudden return of the lover puts an end, once and for all, to their scheming. Signor Esposito's music is bright and attractive. Miss Evangeline Florence gracefully impersonated the maiden, while Messrs. Joseph O'Mara and Denis O'Sullivan, as the two importunate and lying lovers, by their lively acting and excellent singing, provoked roars of laughter and produced rounds of applause. The accompaniments were played on two pianofortes by Miss Ladd and the talented composer.

Gounod's 'Redemption,' performed by the Royal Choral Society, at the Royal Albert Hall, on the 12th ult., attracted a large audience. The soloists were Madame Sobrino, Miss Maggie Purvis, Mdlle. Giulia Ravogli, Mr. Ivor Foster, Mr. Daniel Price and Mr. Ben Davies, and Sir Frederick Bridge skilfully led his choral and orchestral forces.

The organ recital given by the students of the Royal Academy of Music, at Queen's Hall, on the 10th ult., was chiefly remarkable for the performance of the first movement of an Organ Sonata in D minor, composed and performed by Benjamin J. Dale, a student. We have before spoken favourably of this youth's productive talent, and this his latest creative achievement gives promise that he is on the right road, and that what he has to say is well expressed, with a commendable absence of make-believe. The performances of other students—K. Otto Stops, Jessie Barrett Handley, Stanley Marchant, Mabel Colyer, and Alexandra M. M. Tallant (place aux dames!) gave proof of the excellent organ instruction given at Tenterden Street. Mr. F. Corder conducted Liszt's 'Orpheus,' arranged for organ, harps, and strings, and pleasant variety was afforded by a violin solo played by Margaret S. Holloway, a recitation given by Mabel Moore, and some songs.

Amateur orchestras in the metropolis have shown considerable activity during the past month. On the 5th ult., the Imperial Institute Amateur Orchestra gave its third concert of the season in the Jehangier Hall, Imperial Institute. The programme included Schubert's B minor symphony, Wagner's Rienzi overture, Judex from Gounod's 'Mors et Vita,' and Mr. Landon Ronald's song-cycle 'Summer Time,' sung by Mr. Henry Boulderson, and conducted by the composer. That excellent pianist, Miss Marguerite Elzy, played the solo part in Saint-Saëns's pianoforte Concerto in G minor (Op. 22), and the orchestral players rendered a good account of themselves under Mr. Randegger's enthusiastic sway.

At Queen's Hall, on the 13th ult., the concert of the Strolling Players' Amateur Orchestral Society included performances of Beethoven's Pastoral Symphony—rather lacking in refinement—and Dr. Elgar's 'Three Bavarian Dances,' which were excellently played. Signor Simonetti as violin soloist, and Mr. Harold Garstin, who admirably interpreted the solo part in Schumann's Concertstück for orchestra, gave pleasure to a large audience. Mr. William Shakespeare conducted.

An interesting concert was given by Miss Louie Löwe and Miss Anna Löwe, at the Royal Institute of Painters, Piccadilly, on the 5th ult. The programme opened with an Overture by Bach from his Orchesterpartie for strings, oboes, and bassoons, in C major. The whole suite shows, as Spitta remarks, a master hand, and it was a pity to play only the first movement, and that too without a harpsichord, or, at any rate, a pianoforte part. The rendering of the music by a small orchestra, conducted by Miss L. Löwe, was fairly good. Bach's Concerto in D minor, with Miss A. Löwe at the pianoforte, followed. After various items, including two bright choruses for female voices, by Lady Thompson, pleasingly sung by a small choir of ladies, came Handel's motet 'Silete Venti,' a work written by the composer when in Italy. There was a large and appreciative audience.

Among the large number of concerts, recitals, &c., given during the past month, the following deserve honourable mention:—Mr. Mark Hambourg (pianoforte), on the 8th ult., and Messrs. Ysaye and Busoni (pianoforte and violin), on the 15th, both at Queen's Hall, all artistic in their aims.——Mr. Plunket Greene and Mr. Leonard Borwick gave one of their attractive and enjoyable song and pianoforte music-makings at St. James's Hall on the 7th.——At Bechstein Hall, pianoforte recitals were given by Miss Polyxena Fletcher on the 4th; on the following day by Señor Sobrino, assisted by his gifted wife as vocalist; on the 15th by Madame Carreño; and on the 18th by Miss Evelyn Stuart; on the 11th, Miss Ethel Barns and Mr. Charles Phillips gave the third of their series of artistic chamber concerts, and on the 14th, Mr. Charles Copland and Miss Marian Cassinet gave a concert-recital which was much enjoyed, and at which Miss Ellen Bowick recited.

At Steinway Hall, Mdlle. Adele Aus der Ohe gave her second pianoforte recital on the 13th, and the Herbert Sharpe Trio commenced the fourth series of their excellent chamber recitals on the 11th, when the revival of Dr. Stanford's pianoforte Trio in G minor formed an attractive feature in the programme.

Choral and Orchestral Societies.

The West Hampstead Choral and Orchestral Society gave a highly creditable performance of Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha,' Scenes 1 and 2, at the Hampstead Conservatoire, on the 11th ult. The solo-vocalists were Mr. Frank Tebbutt (in the 'Wedding-Feast') and Miss Katie Thomas and Mr. Arthur Barlow (in the 'Death of Minnehaha'). The choir, which is steadily improving in numbers and quality, sang with excellent attack and expression; and the orchestra, materially strengthened with professional assistance, chiefly in the wind instruments, played well. Mr. E. G. Croager, who conducted with great care, deserves much credit for his excellent training of both choir and orchestra.

The Dulwich Philharmonic Society gave a concert Recital of Gounod's 'Faust' at the Crystal Palace, on the 8th ult. The solo vocalists were Madame Marie Duma, Miss Fanny Emerson, Mr. Henry Beaumont, Mr. Haigh Jackson, and Mr. Arthur Winkworth. The choruses were particularly well sung; Mr. Walter W. Hedgcock was at the organ, and Mr. Arthur Fagge was as usual a painstaking and careful conductor.

The St. George's Choral Society, Brockley, sang Mr. Gaul's sacred cantata 'The Holy City,' in St. George's Church, on the 10th ult. Mr. F. W. Bridges conducted, and Mr. A. E. Davies was the organist.

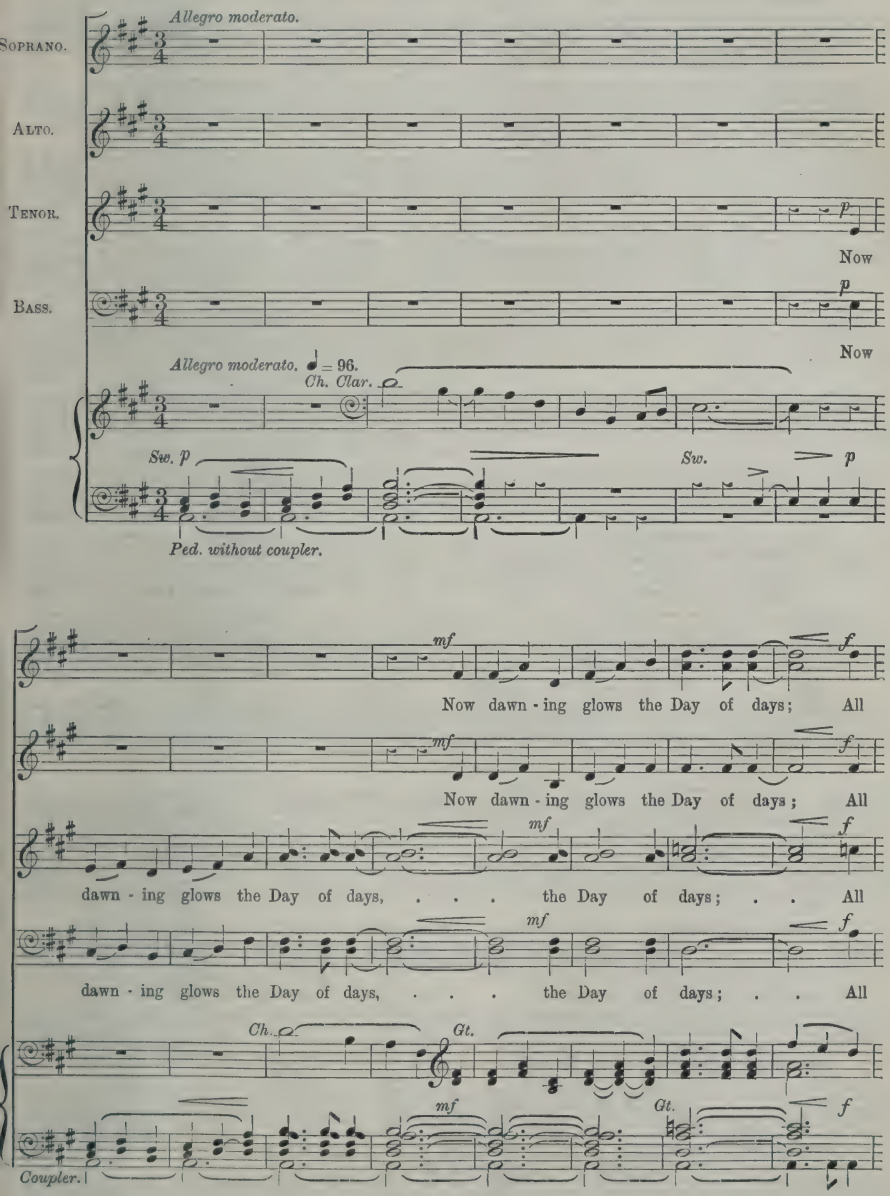
The Finsbury Choral Association gave their second Subscription Concert at the Northern Polytechnic Institute, on the 13th ult., when Mackenzie's 'Dream of Jubal'

Now dawning glows the day of days.

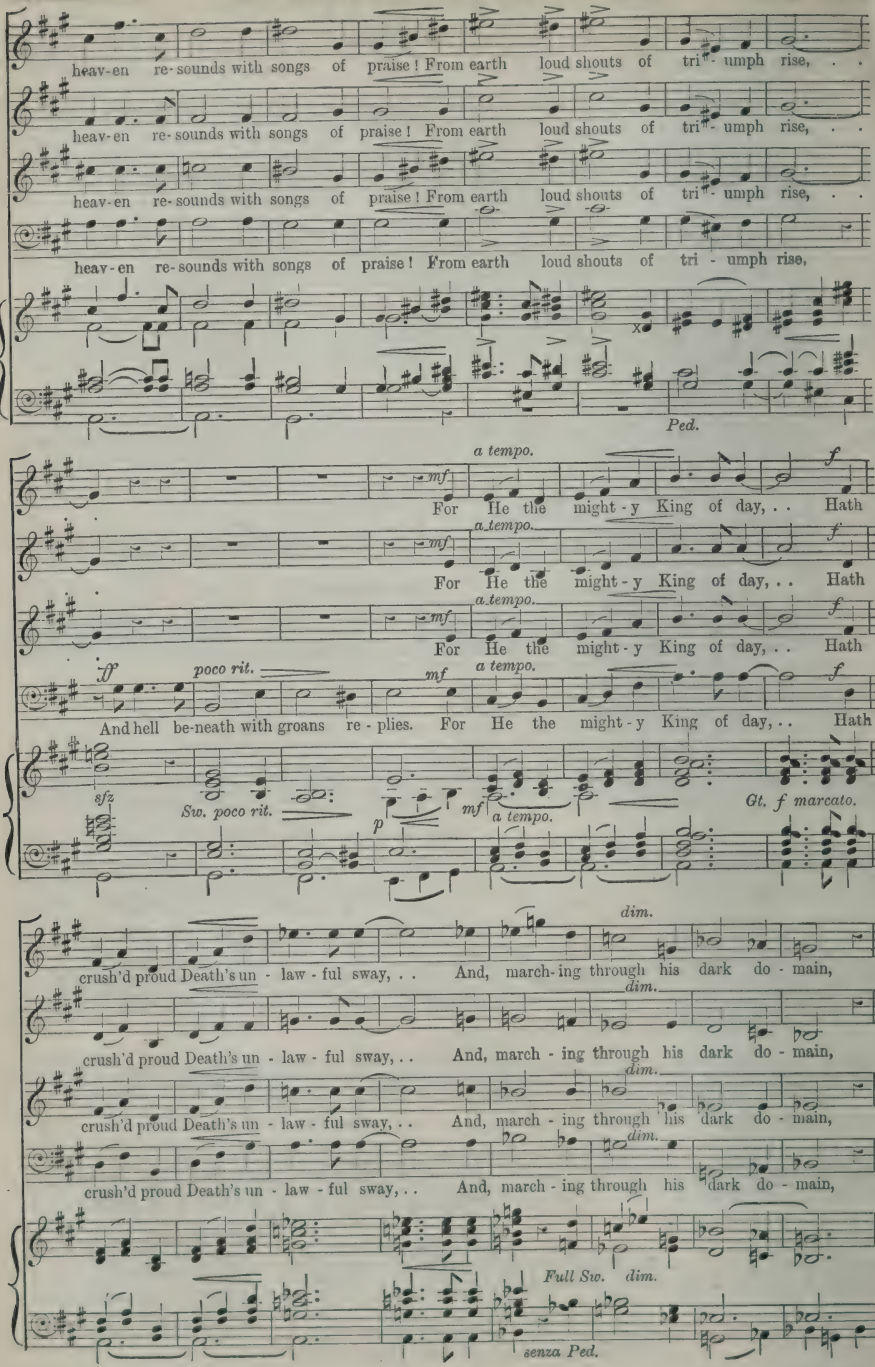
ANTHEM FOR EASTER.

Words (from the Latin) by F. J. A. Hort. Composed by David Stanley Smith.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited; and NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., New York.



Copyright, 1902, by Novello and Company, Limited.



heav-en re-sounds with songs of praise! From earth loud shouts of tri-umph rise, . .
heav-en re-sounds with songs of praise! From earth loud shouts of tri-umph rise, . .
heav-en re-sounds with songs of praise! From earth loud shouts of tri-umph rise, . .
heav-en re-sounds with songs of praise! From earth loud shouts of tri-umph rise,
Ped.
a tempo.
mf
f
For He the might-y King of day, . . Hath
And hell be-neath with groans re-plies. For He the might-y King of day, . . Hath ff
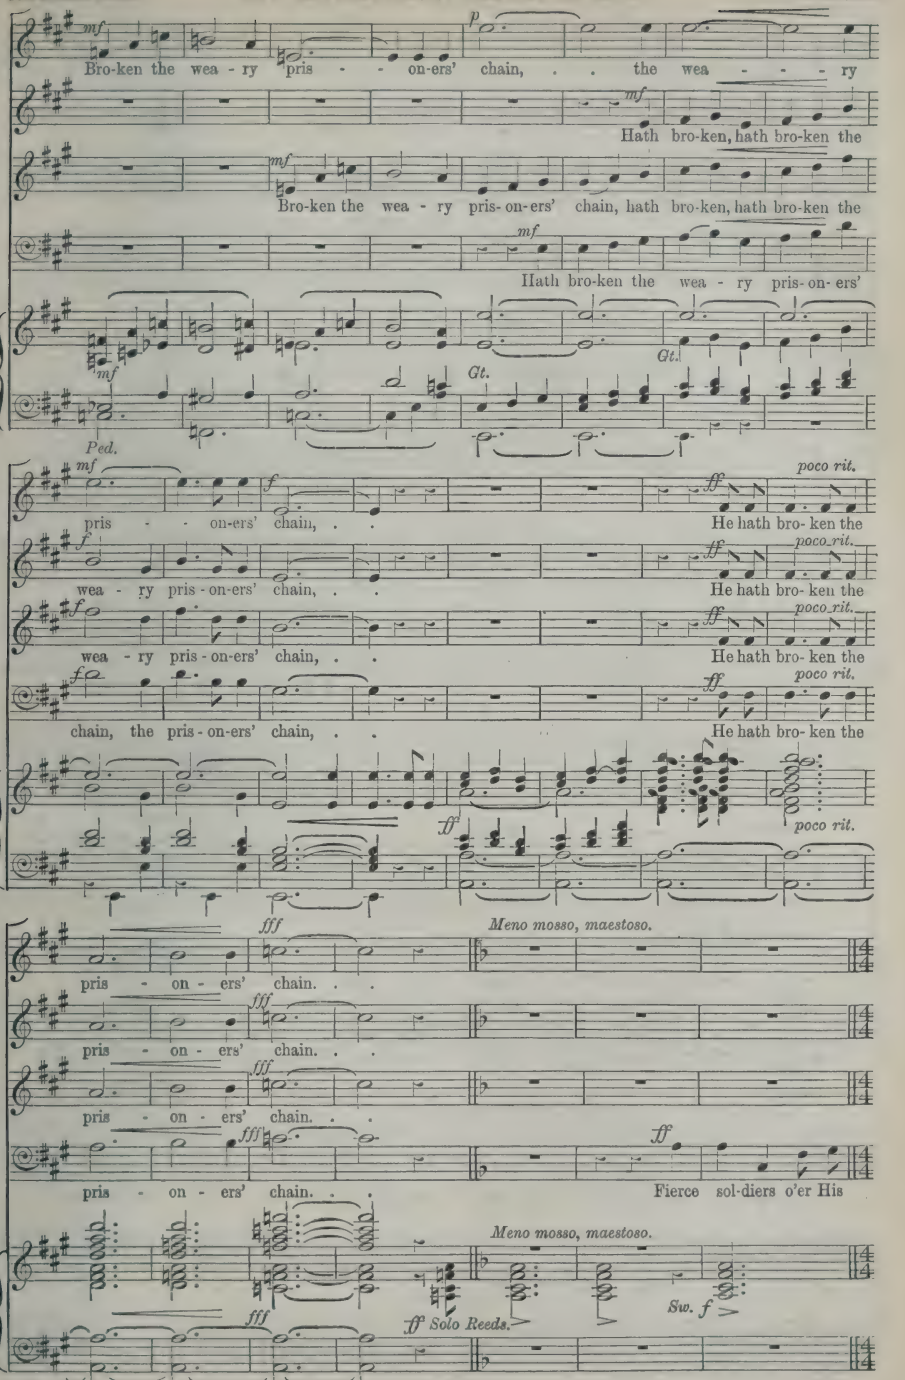
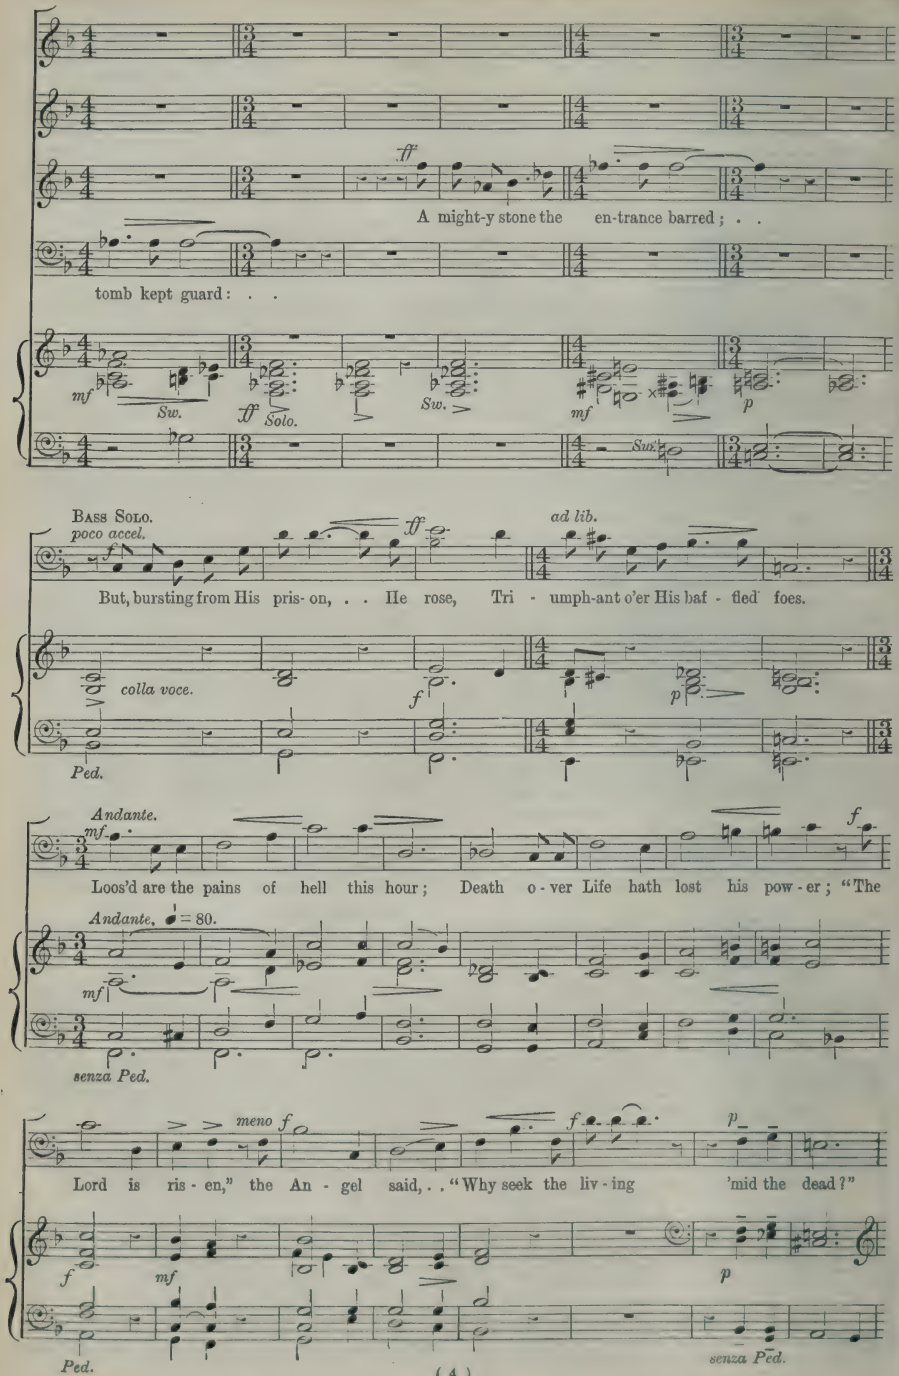
poco rit.
sfz
Sw. poco rit.
p
Gt. f marcato.
crush'd proud Death's un-law-ful sway, . . And, march-ing through his dark do-main,
dim.
Full Sw. dim.
senza Ped.



mf
Bro-ken the wea - ry pris - - on-ers' chain, . . the wea - - - - ry
p
mf
Hath bro-ken, hath bro-ken the
mf
Bro-ken the wea - ry pris-on-ers' chain, hath bro-ken, hath bro-ken the
mf
Hath bro-ken the wea - ry pris-on- ers'
Gt.
Gt.
mf
Ped.
mf
pris - - on-ers' chain, . .
f
poco rit.
ff
He hath bro- ken the
f
wea - ry pris-on-ers' chain, . .
poco rit.
ff
He hath bro- ken the
f
wea - ry pris-on-ers' chain, . .
poco rit.
ff
He hath bro- ken the
f
chain, the pris-on-ers' chain, . .
poco rit.
ff
He hath bro- ken the
poco rit.
fff
Meno mosso, maestoso.
pris - on - ers' chain. . .
fff
pris - on - ers' chain. . .
fff
pris - on - ers' chain. . .
fff
ff
pris - on - ers' chain. . .
Fierce sol-diers o'er His
Meno mosso, maestoso.
fff
ff Solo Reeds.
Sw. f



ff
A might-y stone the en-trance barred; . .
tomb kept guard: . .
mf
Sw.
ff
Solo.
Sw.
mf
p
Sw.
Bass Solo.
poco accel.
f
ff
ad lib.
But, bursting from His pris-on, . . He rose, Tri - umph-ant o'er His baf - fled foes.
colla voce.
f
p
Ped.
Andante.
mf
f
Loos'd are the pains of hell this hour; Death o-ver Life hath lost his pow-er; "The Andante, ♩ = 80.
mf
senza Ped.
meno f
f
p
Lord is ris-en," the An - gel said, . . "Why seek the liv-ing 'mid the dead?"
f mf
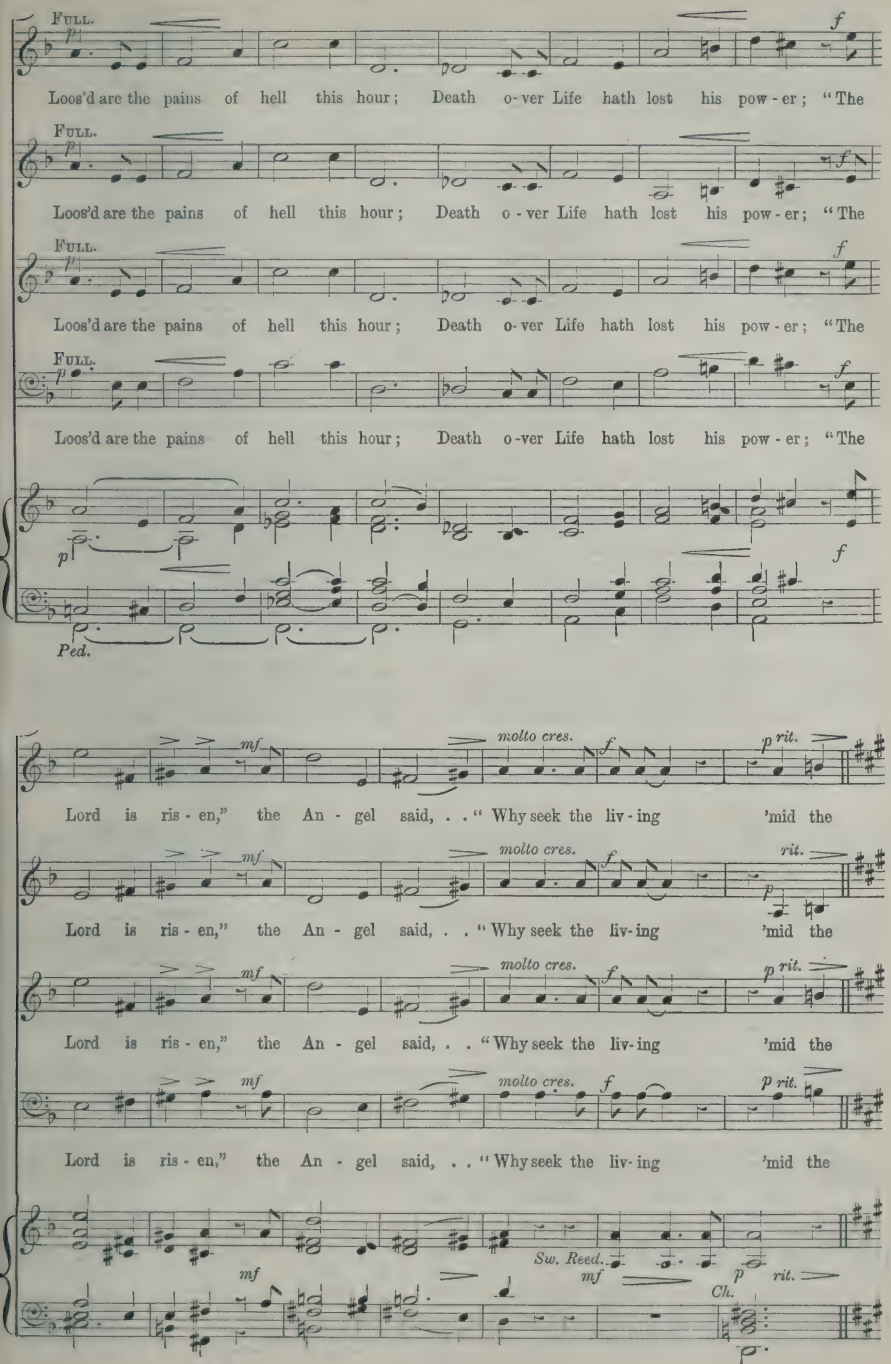
p
Ped.
senza Ped.



Full.
p
f
Loos'd are the pains of hell this hour; Death o-ver Life hath lost his pow-er; "The Full.
p
f
Loos'd are the pains of hell this hour; Death o-ver Life hath lost his pow-er; "The Full.
p
f
Loos'd are the pains of hell this hour; Death o-ver Life hath lost his pow-er; "The Full.
p
f Loos'd are the pains of hell this hour; Death o-ver Life hath lost his pow-er; "The p
f
Ped.
mf
molto cres.
f
p rit.
Lord is ris-en," the An-gel said, . . "Why seek the liv-ing 'mid the
mf
molto cres.
f
rit.
p
Lord is ris-en," the An-gel said, . . "Why seek the liv-ing 'mid the
mf
molto cres.
f
p rit.
Lord is ris-en," the An-gel said, . . "Why seek the liv-ing 'mid the
mf
molto cres.
f
p rit.
Lord is ris-en," the An-gel said, . . "Why seek the liv-ing 'mid the Sw. Reed.
mf
mf
p
rit.
Ch.

Tempo 1mo. dead?"
For He, the King,
For He,
For He, . . the might - y King of Tempo 1mo.
Sw.
Gt.
Sw.
He hath crush'd proud Death's un - law - ful sway, And, march - ing through his Hath crush'd proud Death's un - law - ful sway, And, march - ing through his Hath crush'd proud Death's un - law - ful sway, And, march - ing through his Day, Hath crush'd proud Death's un - law - ful sway, And, march - ing through his Gt.
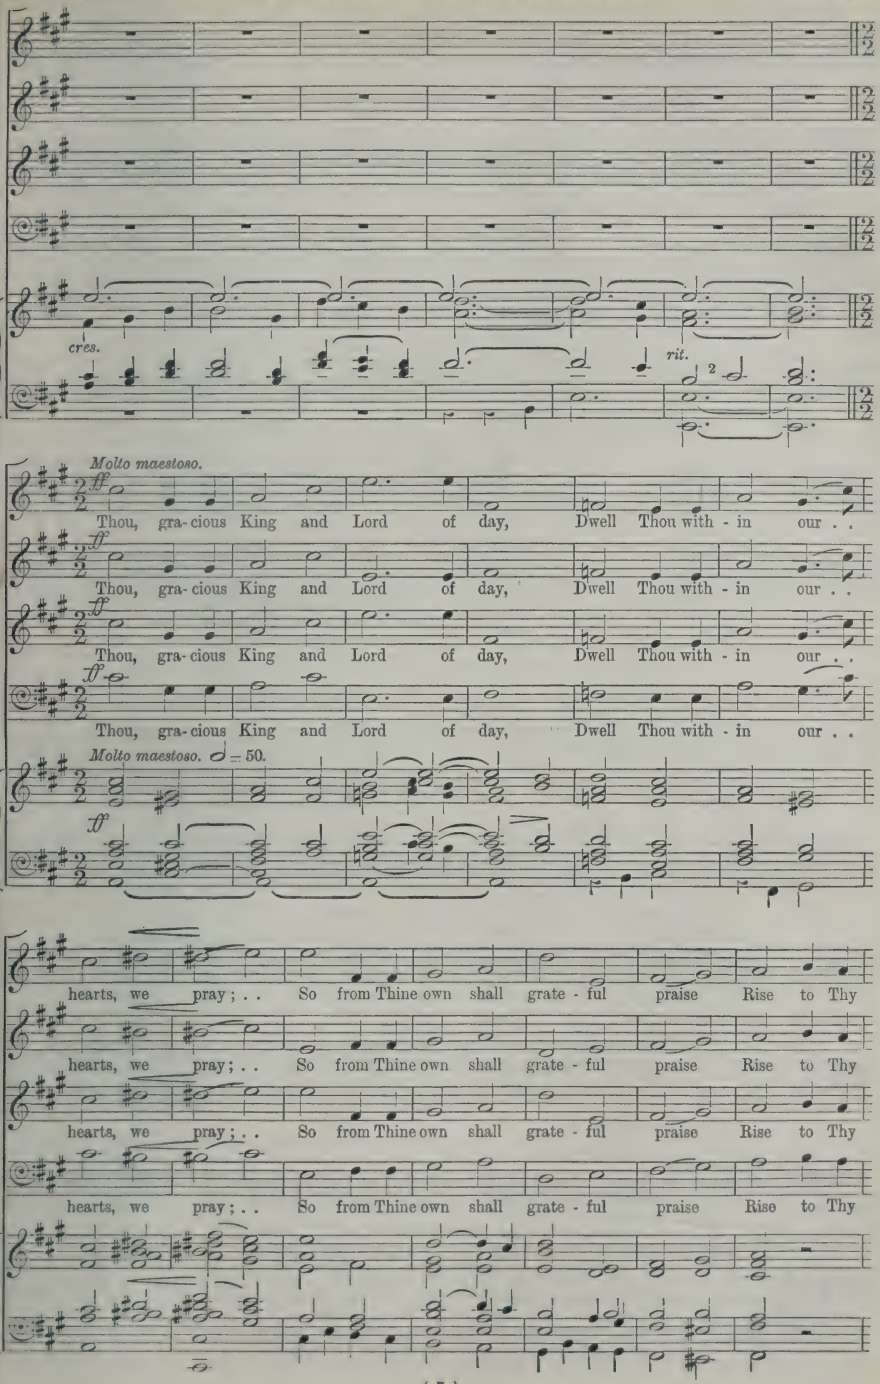
dark do - main, Bro - ken the wea - ry pris - on-ers' chain.
poco rit.
a tempo.
Sw.
Gt.



cres.
rit.
Molto maestoso.
ff
Thou, gra- cious King and Lord of day, Dwell Thou with - in our . .
Molto maestoso. ♩ = 50.
hearts, we pray; . . So from Thine own shall grate - ful praise Rise to Thy

dim.
throne through all our days. . . . . A - men, . . A - - - -
dim.
throne through all our days. . . . . A men A - men.
dim.
throne through all our days. . . . . A - men, . . A - - men,
dim.
throne through all our days. . . . . A - men, . . A - men,
dim.
rit.
ff
fff
- - men, A - men, A - - men. . . . . .
mf
rit.
ff
fff
A - - men, A - - men. . . . . .
rit.
ff
fff
A - men, A - - men, A - men. . . . . .
rit.
ff
fff
A - - - - men. . . . . .
mf
rit.
ff
fff
Reeds.

Also published in Novello's Tonic Sol-fa Series, No. 1248, price 1½*d.*

and the Third Act of 'Lohengrin,' constituted the programme. Under Mr. Allen Gill's skilful and spirited direction, the choir sang with full appreciation of the dramatic requirements of the work, and the orchestra, largely strengthened by professional aid, was fully efficient. A capable trio of vocalists was found in Miss Ethel Wood, Mr. Henry Beaumont, and Mr. Charles Tree (assisted in the Gloria of the first work by Miss Bessie Jones). Mr. Charles Fry once more occupied his place as reciter of Mr. Bennett's beautiful verses.

Mendelssohn's 'St. Paul' was performed at the Great Assembly Hall, Mile End Road, on the 12th ult., by Mr. G. Day Winter's choir and orchestra. The solo vocalists were Madame Clara Leighton, Miss Lisa Gibson, Mr. Henry Beaumont, and Mr. Arthur Walenn. Mr. Duncan Callow presided at the organ, and Mr. G. Day Winter ably conducted.

Success, as heretofore, attended the annual concert of the London Sunday School Choir, at the Royal Albert Hall, on the 15th ult., when the band and chorus numbered 1,200 performers. The programme was of a miscellaneous kind, but the singing, more especially, reached a high level of excellence. Mr. William Whiteman was conductor-in-chief, while Mr. David M. Davis directed the orchestra in the performance of their selections. Miss Kate Cherry, Madame Alice Gomez, and Mr. Ben Davies were most acceptable soloists, and Mr. Horace G. Holmes and Mrs. Mary Layton presided at the organ and pianoforte respectively.

MUSIC IN AMERICA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

New York, February 10, 1902.

Were it not for that unfortunate spirit of fugaciousness with which time and tide, as well as things dependent upon them are imbued, I should postpone this letter a few days in order to include in it an account of the production of Mr. Paderewski's opera 'Manru,' which our public seems disposed to look upon as the crowning event of the Metropolitan season. In four days that interesting occurrence will take place. The composer is here, and busily engaged in supervising the rehearsals. Yesterday, he entertained the chorus and ballet with an impromptu pianoforte recital as the quickest and surest means of bringing them to a consciousness of a tempo which he desired, and, I believe, also gave an illustration of how the village-folk dance in the mountainous regions of Galicia. Ordinary composers are not put to such straits, but our operatic people are sadly overworked, and since all but impossible things are asked of them, extraordinary agencies must be employed to help them along. Inside of six weeks they have been called upon for about fifty performances (five of opera and one concert each week in this city and two of opera in Philadelphia), and have brought forward no less than twenty different works, to say nothing of Rossini's 'Stabat Mater' and Verdi's 'Requiem.' One of the operas was new to the New York repertory. This was Mr. de Lara's 'Messaline,' which came like a shadow and has already departed, followed by the execrations of the city's music reviewers. Not one voice was raised in its behalf. After three fitful performances it departed 'unwept, unhonoured, and unsung.'

But this is carrying me away from my first subject, which is 'Manru.' Mr. Paderewski, it will be recalled, gave up his Spanish and Italian tours in order to be on hand for the interesting première; but, having a proper appreciation of thrift, he will make good the Spring series of concerts here. I do not think he will be a sufferer in consequence from a financial point of view. Ten days before his first recital in New York, which will follow hard upon the heels of his opera's production, every seat in Carnegie Hall was already sold. What the consequences of a sensational success of 'Manru' may be, I shall leave to the imagination of the English people who know how the Paderewski cult manifests itself in London. The popular pianist will start out on his peripatetics on the 19th inst. His opera is booked for performances in Boston, Chicago, and Pittsburgh, and no doubt the enterprises will prove mutually helpful. Of the travelling artists, the most successful thus far have been Madame Nordica, who forsook opera temporarily in favour of a vast and comprehensive concert tour, and Kubelik, who has turned the heads of the Chicagoans. In four recitals, all given within a fortnight, the receipts amounted to $21,763·25. Of course, I am not to be called upon to say what this proves; the fact is significant, however, and I might add that the enterprising management did not overlook the circumstance that the great city that sitteth at the foot of Lake Michigan has a large and impressionable Bohemian community. Meanwhile, another manager is exploiting a wonderfully gifted boy, named Florizel Reuter, who does prodigious things upon the fingerboard of the violin, and whom I would be tempted to set down as even a more remarkable product than Kubelik, were it not painfully evident in his playing that he is a hot-house product, from whom little can be expected in ten years, when he shall have reached the age of the young Czech.

We have had another novelty at the Philharmonic concerts. This time it was the work of a Finnish composer—Jean Sibelius's legend for orchestra, entitled 'Lemminkäinen journeys homewards.' I observe that Mr. Thomas seems to have taken quite a fancy to it. He was the first to play it in America, and has already repeated it several times. It is a superb piece of orchestral colouring, designed to give musical delineation to a succession of incidents in the Finnish epic, the 'Kalevala,' and has a national as well as individual note that is apposite; but, as in the cases of all the other novelties which Mr. Paur has imported from the strenuous young revolutionaries of Germany, I missed in it the noble melodic idea which, once upon a time, was thought to be essential to a truly noble art-work. It was but a huge heaving of one short phrase above the surface of a dark and rushing surge of harmonies impelled by the galloping of fiddles engaged in creating the impression of a wild ride. Colour, colour, nothing but colour; sometimes colour harmonic, but chiefly colour orchestral. It is getting to be somewhat wearisome to have nothing new save what is taken out of the German dish, but Mr. Paur is inexorable, and for the next concert we are promised an excerpt from Richard Strauss's latest opera, 'Feuersnoth,' as a fillip for Mozart's 'Jupiter' symphony.

Mr. George W. Chadwick's labours in connection with the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston have constrained him to lay down the duties of conductor of the festival of the Worcester County Musical Association. Mr. Wallace Goodrich, who has acted as organist of the festivals for several years, has been chosen in his stead, with Mr. Franz Kneisel, principal of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, as associate to care for the instrumental performances. Mr. Goodrich has proved the sincerity of his devotion to the highest types of choral music by organizing in Boston a professional choir on the lines of the Musical Art Society of New York. Two concerts a year are to be given for the present—one of church music chiefly of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, and one of secular works. The first of these is to take place in a church, the second in a hall.

H. E. Krehbiel.

MUSIC IN VIENNA.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

Vienna, February 15.

Richard Strauss has been in Vienna again, and, as usual, his visit has attracted the attention of all music-lovers, occasioned as it was by the performance of several of his works. At the Imperial Opera an admirable representation took place of his new lyrical stage work, 'Feuersnoth'; in the concert room, he introduced to us his charming melodramatic music to Tennyson's 'Enoch Arden' (recited by Herr Ernst von Possart, of Munich), and, in conjunction with his wife, Frau Strauss de Ahna, he also gave a recital of his songs. The success of 'Feuersnoth' was, in its first performance undoubtedly brilliant. But it was superficial, as became sufficiently evident already at the second and third repetitions of the work, which, notwithstanding its occasional beauties, is not very satisfactory as a whole, being, moreover, hampered by a weak libretto. The music, indeed, is a perfect marvel of beautiful colour effects, but is not equally remarkable either for invention or originality of thought. Possart's masterly recitation, from memory, of Tennyson's poem, created a profound impression. Its accompanying music, played on the pianoforte by the composer, is the reverse from being too obtrusive, and shows an exceedingly delicate sense of artistic proportions. It illustrates the verse only at the most important moments, and then invariably with telling effect. An equally favourable impression was produced by the Lieder interpretations of Frau Strauss, assisted as she was by the excellent pianoforte accompaniment of her husband. There were not a few very charming songs included in the programme; songs, whose popularity in Germany is fully justified.

Another distinguished visitor we had in the person of Siegfried Wagner, who appeared in one of the Philharmonic concerts in his capacity of composer and conductor. I have never been able to see anything very remarkable in his conducting, and as regards his compositions, I question if they would be accorded the honour of performance, but for the fact of their being written by the son of a mighty genius.

Quite a number of new works were presented to us by the Concert-Verein. These included a very musicianlike overture to Grillparzer's drama 'Der Traum ein Leben,' from the pen of Victor von Herzfeld, a professor at the Budapest Conservatorium; a truly excellent Pianoforte Concerto in C minor, by Robert Gound, a much-esteemed pianist-composer resident in Vienna, who gave a capital interpretation of his own work; a Symphony in E major, by Franz Schmidt, teacher of the violoncello at our conservatorium, a work replete with youthful life and energy, effective in its colouring and finely elaborated, which attracted the special attention of all connoisseurs; and a somewhat pretentious symphonic poem, entitled 'Barbarossa,' by the Munich conductor of the Kaim orchestra, S. von Hausegger, a young composer of high ideals and possessing a great command of brilliant orchestration, but deficient, as yet, in proper artistic self-restraint. Nor should I omit to mention the first production by the Verein of an overture 'Zrinyi,' by that distinguished young Hungarian pianist, Ernst von Dohnanyi—a stately pièce d'occasion, which reflects much credit upon his technical acquirements also as a composer. Another interesting and very musicianlike new composition, viz., a string quartet, was introduced by the Rose Quartet Party. The composer, Rudolph Braun, a young Viennese artist, is afflicted with blindness, and his undoubtedly great talent as a composer is under the circumstances all the more remarkable. In view of all these promising youthful productions, and the fresh and vigorous life pervading them, one is justified in looking towards the future of the art with pleasure and confident hopefulness!

Amongst the solo performers claiming the public ear, the pianists always occupy a prominent place numerically. At the present moment, Frederic Lamond fascinates and delights music-lovers by his masterly interpretations of the most important pianoforte works of Beethoven, spread over four recitals. He is a true artist, every inch of him, who completely sinks his own personality in the art-work of which he is the exponent. Dohnanyi, the younger and the more brilliant executant, is likewise here just now. He achieved his greatest triumph, perhaps, with the B flat major Concerto of Brahms, though he interprets all the masters with equal success. Amongst the less-known aspirants to fame may be instanced Herr Martinus Sieveking, who introduced himself not unfavourably with a Pianoforte Concerto by Rachmaninoff, and Fräulein Bertha Jahn, quite a young artist of, however, considerable promise. The same may be emphatically stated in regard to the yet more youthful violinist, Steffi Geyer, to whom I had occasion to refer some time since, and whose really extraordinary talent was again displayed before Viennese audiences recently.

There has been no lack either of distinguished vocalists during the past month, foremost amongst whom was Johann Messchaert, whose four recitals were crowded by the numerous admirers of his truly great art. Considerable interest also is being aroused in musical circles just now by the appearance of two lady vocalists hitherto unknown to us—Tilly Koenen and Therese Behr, both contraltos. The former, a native of the Dutch Indies and educated at Amsterdam, is the possessor of a superb voice, to which is added a most vivacious, impetuous temperament and an intensely musical nature. The final artistic finish and ripeness of judgment, which she as yet lacks, are, on the other hand, the prime characteristics of Therese Behr's singing, whose voice is not particularly remarkable, but whose technical acquirements are of the very highest order. Thus, for very different reasons, the success achieved by the two singers has been as instantaneous as it has been complete.

Mandyczewski.

MUSIC IN BELFAST.

(from our own correspondent.)

The third concert of the season was given by the Philharmonic Society on January 31. The programme was miscellaneous, and included Miss Liza Lehmann's Cycle Song, 'In a Persian Garden.' (It used to be called a Song Cycle, but many things are topsy-turvey nowadays.) The quartet of artists who sang it were Mesdames Emily Squire and Marian Mackenzie, Messrs. James Leyland and Denham Price. The accompaniment was admirably played by Monsieur Parlovitz. Mr. W. H. Squire, who visited Belfast for the first time, played several violoncello solos, and charmed the very large audience by the beauty of his tone and perfection of his technique. The Society's Chorus sang Elgar's 'Banner of St. George,' 'May every joy,' from 'Lohengrin' and Glinka's 'Life for the Czar,' all accompanied by the orchestra, which also performed very creditably Beethoven's Overture to 'Fidelio' and the Prelude to 'Lohengrin.'

An excellent and well-attended miscellaneous concert was given on the 14th ult., in aid of the Railway Benevolent Institution. The singers were Mr. Thomas Thomas, Miss Jessie Goldsack, Miss Evangeline Florence, and Mr. Andrew Black. Miss W. Burnett (violin), a military band, and the Belfast Male Choir (Dr. Price, conductor) lent variety to a very enjoyable concert, and the Ulster Hall was filled in every part by an appreciative audience.

MUSIC IN BIRMINGHAM.

(from our own correspondent.)

On the 1st ult. the Amateur Orchestral Society gave a popular concert in the Town Hall. The programme was of a high-class description, including Gounod's overture to 'Mirella,' and the Nocturne and Wedding March from Mendelssohn's 'Midsummer Night's Dream' music. Mr. Willy Lehmann played the solo part in Jules de Swert's violoncello concerto in C minor (Op. 38), and Miss Maggie Jaques and Mr. J. A. Cohen contributed songs. Mr. Halford conducted.——The Sixth Halford Concert was held in the Town Hall on the 4th ult.; Mozart's 'Jupiter' Symphony, beautifully played, and a selection from Wagner, formed the orchestral features. Miss Fanny Davies made a welcome re-appearance as pianist, and gave a truly splendid rendering of Sgambati's Concerto in G minor (Op. 15), tone and execution being alike magnificent.——The Seventh Concert took place on the 18th ult., when Beethoven's Symphony in C minor, Tschaïkowsky's 'Francesca da Rimini'—a novelty—and the 'Carnaval Romain' of Berlioz formed the programme. The pianist was Mr. Frederick Dawson, who took the solo in Cowen's Concert-stück. The performance of Tschaïkowsky's weird composition was extremely fine, full of dramatic force, yet never coarse. It made a great impression. Dr. Cowen's cheerful music, so happy in spirit, was a great contrast.

Mr. Dawson gave the solo part in his best style, and the orchestral work was admirable. Mr. Halford conducted with care and judgment.

The Third Harrison Concert, on the 3rd ult., was given up to MM. Ysaye and Busoni, who played Bach's Violin Sonata in B minor, and the E flat Sonata of Saint-Saëns, with the utmost delicacy and charm. M. Ysaye gave as solo the 'Suite Ancienne' of Vieuxtemps, and M. Busoni played Beethoven's Sonata in E (Op. 109). Mr. William Green sang Beethoven's 'Adelaide' with fine effect, and Mr. Percy Pitt accompanied.——On the 6th ult., at the Grosvenor Rooms, Mr. Max Mossel held his third drawing-room concert. The artists were Madame Blanche Marchesi (who sang as fascinatingly as ever), M. de Pachmann, and M. Ivan Mossel (violoncellist). Mr. G. H. Manton was an excellent accompanist. ——Madame Marie Fromm and Miss Margaret Holloway gave a pianoforte and violin recital in the Masonic Hall, on the 7th ult., when the two ladies were associated in a fine performance of Rubinstein's Sonata in G minor. Miss Holloway, who has developed both in technique and tone since her last visit, was heard to special advantage in her master's (M. Sauret) delightful Elegie et Rondo, which was warmly encored. Madame Fromm's contributions included three pieces by Schumann and a Marche Triomphale by Alkan.——Mr. Montague Pollack, a clever young violoncellist, gave a recital in the same hall, on the 11th ult. His solos included three pieces by Dessau, and a poetic 'Elegiac Poem' by Granville Bantock, the composer playing the pianoforte part. Miss Marguerite Saunders was the vocalist.

On the 8th ult., the first of a series of twelve historical chamber concerts was given in the Temperance Hall. The scheme was initiated by M. Karl Johannessen, a violinist lately resident here, in conjunction with Mr. F. W. Beard. Music from the sixteenth century to the present time is to be given in chronological order. Mr. Arnold Dolmetsch and party were the artists engaged, and the first concert was devoted to English music from Byrd, Morley, Lawes, and Simpson, to Purcell. The old instruments were employed, and Mr. Dolmetsh gave the explanatory lecture. At the second concert, on the 15th ult., the programme was made up from the works of Couperin, Marais, the two Scarlattis, Ariosti, Handel and Bach. In addition to Mrs. Elodie Dolmetsh, who gave the vocal pieces and played the harpischord, the executants included Miss Mabel Johnston (viola da gamba and violone), Mr. Dolmetsch and Mr. Johannessen (violins), Mr. Leo Kienle (viola), and Mr. Lehmann (violoncello). A feature of the second concert was Bach's Concerto in D minor, for harpsichord and strings, the old six-stringed violone being played instead of the ordinary double-bass. The performance was most interesting. These concerts are attracting large audiences, and are given on Saturday afternoons, when people are at leisure.

An excellent performance was given of 'Elijah' at the popular Town Hall Concert on the 8th ult., Mr. J. H. Adams conducting. Mr. Turner brought his opera season to a close the same evening, after a successful run of seven weeks.

A return lately issued showed that 337 concerts had been given in the public parks and recreation grounds during the season of 1901, at a cost to the ratepayers of £312.

A most interesting presentation was made, on the 5th ult., to Mr. G. H. Johnstone, chairman of the orchestral committee of the festival. That gentleman for fifty years was a member of the choir of the church to which he belonged. Practically he created the choir and maintained it. In retiring, Mr. Johnstone was the recipient of many kind expressions, and the illuminated address and other presents he received will be pleasant souvenirs of his long connection with the Choir of Wretham Road Church.

Mr. Henry Gadsby read a paper, on the 8th ult., at 20, Hanover Square, before the Incorporated Society of Musicians (London Section), on the subject of 'Phrasing and Accent in Pianoforte Playing,' illustrated by Beethoven's Sonatas, Nos. 10 and 7.

MUSIC IN BRISTOL.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

A concert of sacred music, consisting principally of anthems and choruses, was given at the Presbyterian Church on January 31. There was an augmented choir, under the direction of Mr. L. W. Strange, Mr. Francis Colls being at the organ. The soloists were Miss Georgene Wickenden (Clevedon) and Mr. Walter Fancourt. Throughout, the performance was of a highly creditable character, and a large audience was present.

Colston Hall was well filled on the 6th ult., the occasion being the annual Ladies' Night of the Bristol Royal Orpheus Glee Society. The choir, under the direction of Mr. George Riseley, acquitted itself admirably in the glees and part-songs selected, those sung for the first time being James Coward's 'As it fell upon a day,' R. J. S. Stevens's 'O thou that rollest above,' Schultz's 'A loving Father holds thy hand' (the soloist, Mr. W. Thomas, bass at Bristol Cathedral), C. S. Evans's 'Vulcan, contrive me such a cup,' 'Here's a health unto his Majesty' (selected in honour of the approaching Coronation), and Alex. Patterson's 'Wedding of Shon Maclean.' The soloist in Moore's 'Oft in the stilly night,' 'Ye banks and braes,' and Kücken's 'Soldier's love,' was Mr. E. J. Way, alto of Christ Church, Lancaster Gate, whose charming voice aroused the audience to enthusiasm. The programme contained three pieces composed and conducted by Mr. C. Lee Williams—'Peace,' 'The Pedlar,' and 'Lost Time.'

Mr. George Gordon's orchestra, which plays at Sunday services in Redland Park Hall, gave a concert in the building on the 7th ult. In addition to overtures and selections played, there were songs contributed by Miss Lillian Mattock, Miss Sylvia Tippett, and Mr. F. E. Preston, local vocalists.

At Colston Hall, on the 15th ult., the annual concert in aid of the Great Western Railway Employés' Widows and Orphans' Fund, was held. The band of the Second Life Guards performed operatic selections, and songs were contributed by Miss Maggie Purvis, Mr. William Lavin (an American tenor), and Mr. Alexander Tucker, the accompanist being Mr. Dinelli Skelding. Mr. Riseley was at the organ.

MUSIC IN DUBLIN.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The chief musical event since our last letter was the Wagner concert, given by the Dublin Orchestral Society, (conductor, Signor Esposito), on January 24. The programme consisted of excerpts from Wagner's works, with the exception of a Concerto for oboe with string accompaniment by Handel, the solo part of which was performed by Mr. D. Lalande, whose playing in this and also in the Shepherd's Air from 'Tristan und Isolde,' created a great impression.

The Chamber Music Union continues to attract small and select audiences of music lovers. The fifth recital consisted of works for violoncello and piano, played by Herr Bast and Signor Esposito; and the sixth, for piano and strings, included Schumann's quintet, the artists being Mr. Charles Schilsky, Mr. P. Delaney, M. Grisard, Herr Bast, and Signor Esposito.

At Miss Myra McGuckin's concert, Miss Beatrice McCready, a native of this city, showed considerable progress since her last appearance here, and Mr. Barton McGuckin, in excellent voice, sang with his usual success.

One of the many entertainments promoted, by the stall-holders of 'Gigas' (a bazaar to be held in May for the Royal City of Dublin Hospital), took the form of a song recital by Mrs. Hutchinson, Miss Florence Etlinger, and Mr. Denis O'Sullivan, with Mr. C. W. Wilson at the pianoforte. Mrs. Hutchinson's many friends were glad to hear her in such good voice, her excellent production and refined taste keeping it as fresh as ever. Mr. Denis O'Sullivan was very successful in Italian, German, and English songs. Mrs. Hutchinson and Miss Florence Etlinger sang duets by Dvorák and Caracciolo.

At the Mariners' Church, Kingstown, and Christ Church, Leeson Park, new organs have been opened, the former (built by Messrs. Abbott and Smith, of Leeds) by Dr. Sinclair, of Hereford, the latter (the work of Messrs. Gray and Davison) by Mr. Henry Shellard, organist of the church.——The visit of Mons. Ysaye, on February 17 and 18, has been looked forward to with much interest, it being his first appearance here. He created a very favourable impression.

The awards in the Composers' Competition in the 'Feis Ceoil' have been decided as follows (Professor Villiers Stanford, adjudicator):—Cantata, Rev. Dr. Collisson; Symphony (on Irish tunes), Signor Esposito; String Quartet, Mr. Herbert Harty; Anthem for solos and chorus, Mr. Frank Muspratt, of Limerick.

MUSIC IN EAST ANGLIA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The Norwich Philharmonic Society has taken a new departure, for its 102nd concert, given on the 6th ult., took place in St. Andrew's Hall, a room of much larger dimensions than has heretofore been used. A considerably increased number of playing members rendered the removal almost imperative, which is likely to exert much influence upon instrumental music in the city. The programme included Beethoven's Symphony in D; Gade's 'Ossian' Overture, the Prelude to Act 3 of 'Lohengrin' and German's 'Nell Gwyn' Dances. Dr. Frank Bates conducted, and, as the result of his most painstaking rehearsing, these works were played with more finish and precision than has usually been shown by the Society. Mr. F. W. B. Noverre rendered yeoman service at the leader's desk. Miss Eldina Bligh gave a clever reading of Max Bruch's Violin Concerto in G minor, and Mr. Plunket Greene delighted the audience with a number of songs.

The eighteenth concert of the Norwich Orchestral Union, conducted by Mr. E. Harcourt, took place on January 29. A new part-song 'The message of the bells,' written and composed by the conductor, was sung by the chorus with orchestral accompaniment. The vocalists were Miss Letitia Burton, Miss Luckett, and Messrs. Fürness, Luckett, Harrod, and Raven. The band successfully performed Mozart's Symphony in B flat, and a movement from Reissiger's Trio in D minor, for pianoforte, violin, and violoncello, was played by Mr. W. N. P. Saunders, Mr. W. Johnson, and Mr. E. Harcourt. Mr. Saunders also contributed several pianoforte solos.

The Great Yarmouth Orchestral Society gave their annual concert, on January 28, at the Town Hall, before a large audience, and the conductor, Mr. C. W. Moss, is to be congratulated on a successful performance. The vocalists were Mr. Henry Brearley and Miss Katherine Greg. The great attraction was the violin playing of Miss Sybil Keymer, a gifted child of eight and a-half years of age, and a pupil of Professor Wilhelmj, who played with remarkable tone and expression, wonderful in one so young, Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto, and Wieniawski's mazurka 'Die Obertasse.'

The North Walsham Amateur Musical Society performed Mendelssohn's 'Elijah' at their concert on the 5th ult. Great praise is due to the conductor, Mr. A. S. Wilde, for the efficient manner in which the choruses were rendered throughout. The principal vocalists were Miss Claribel Hyde, Miss Hester Kimbell, Mr. Bertram Pearce, and Mr. Herbert Simmons. The instrumental accompaniments were played by a quintet of strings, led by Mr. F. W. B. Noverre, with Dr. Bunnett at the pianoforte, and Mr. John Dixon at the harmonium.

The King's Lynn Musical Society gave their second concert of the season on the 5th ult., when, under the conductorship of Mr. A. H. Cross, an admirable rendering of Stanford's 'The Revenge' was given. Mr. F. Dewberry, at the organ, and Messrs. Harvey and J. H. Pratt, at two pianofortes, were responsible for the accompaniments. The remainder of the programme was made up of operatic selections, the vocalists being Miss Perceval Allen and Mr. Charles Copland. A performance of 'The Revenge' was also very creditably given by the Hunstanton Choral Society, on the 7th ult., under the same conductor, with the help of a few members belonging to the Lynn Society.

The Ipswich Choral Society, under the conductorship of Mr. Bunnell Burton, gave a performance, on January 23, of Mr. Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha.' The choruses throughout were remarkably well sung, while the accompaniments were played with a precision and correctness that did great credit to a band composed chiefly of amateurs. The soloists were Miss Agnes Nicholls, Mr. Herbert Grover, and Mr. Lawrence Rea.

A violin and pianoforte recital was given, on the 4th ult., at Lowestoft, by Mr. Coote-Suggit and Mr. A. M. Potts. The former artist achieved great success in his violin solos, and his rendering of Max Bruch's Concerto in G minor showed great executive ability. Mr. Potts, who is an accomplished pianist, played some Chopin pieces in a most charming style, his execution and expression both being admirable.

Mr. Palgrave Raven, of Syleham Hall, in Suffolk, has composed an operetta, 'Alice in Wonderland,' and on January 23 and 24, it was brought out at Fressingfield, a remote Suffolk village, which has the distinction of possessing a very good choir. The new work, in three acts, is decidedly original, while three or four numbers are specially to be commended. The chorus, which numbered about forty voices, discharged their duties admirably.

MUSIC IN EDINBURGH.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

A sense of keen regret overcomes the Edinburgh music-lover as the series of orchestral concerts draws to a close, and after the last concert this feeling is intensified into one of loss and vacuity. Especially has this been the case since Dr. Cowen assumed the conductorship, for not only has he approved himself a leader of the first force, but the Band he has gathered round him has been one of the best, if not the absolute best, which has ever performed in our city. The soloists, also, have been, with perhaps one exception, of the highest rank in their various departments of art. Small wonder, therefore, at our regrets! The seventh concert gave us the B minor (unfinished) Symphony of Schubert; the 'Parsifal,' Vorspiel; and the 'Ruy Blas' and 'Leonora' (No. 1) overtures. Miss Maud Powell was the soloist, and fairly electrified her audience by her magnificent rendering of Tschaïkowsky's Violin Concerto in D. The last-named composer was also much in evidence at the eighth concert, his Pianoforte Concerto in B flat minor being superbly played by Madame Carreño, and his Elegie and Waltz from the Serenade for strings receiving a charming rendering by the strings of the orchestra. Mendelssohn's 'Italian' Symphony, the 'Prometheus' overture, and the march from 'Tannhäuser' were also included in the programme. The ninth concert was choral-orchestral, and the occasion received much eclat from the fact that Sir Hubert Parry appeared to conduct in person the first performance here of his 'Song of darkness and light.' Sir Hubert proved himself thoroughly capable of working up the band to a very enthusiastic response to his beat. The chorus was Mr. Kirkhope's choir, one of the three fine choral bodies of which Edinburgh can boast with a very justifiable pride. The choir appeared to great advantage in Sir Hubert's cantata, and also made a profound impression in the 'Requiem' of Brahms—a work with which the name of the choir is honourably associated here, and which Mr. Kirkhope conducted himself. Admirable support was given by the soloists, Madame Agnes Nicholls (soprano), and our very talented local baritone, Mr. Robert Burnett, both of whom sang with great distinction.

At the last concert—again Tschaïkowsky!—the great Russian being represented this time by his truly remarkable Second Suite in C (which took the place of the usual Symphony), and which received an equally remarkable rendering. The overtures to 'Don Giovanni' and 'William Tell,' the Air de Ballet in G from 'Rosamunde,' and some really brilliant singing by Miss Florence Schmidt, completed a fine performance. Dr. Cowen was recalled frequently, and received an ovation at the finish.

The third of Professor Niecks's Historical Concerts, at the University, consisted of examples of Italian opera of the eighteenth century. The composers selected from were Pergolesi (six numbers from 'La serva Padrona'), Nicola Logroscino (aria from 'Il Cicisbeo'), Piccini (two arias from 'La Buona Figliuola Maritata'), Cocchi, Galuppi, Paisiello, and Cimarosa (Finale of the first act of 'Il Matrimonio Segreto'). The various numbers were rendered by a most capable body of local professional vocalists, and gave great pleasure to a large audience. As usual, Professor Niecks's notes to the programme were of great value and interest.

A new Ladies' Choir, under the conductorship of Mr. J. A. Y. Stronach, gave an interesting first concert on the 7th ult. The choir sang several pieces very sweetly, and were ably supported by Miss Mary Latta (contralto) and Mr. James Winram (violinist). The Amateur Orchestral Society's second concert of the season took place on the 12th ult. The programme contained a Ballet-Suite of Gluck's, arranged by Felix Mottl; Beethoven's E flat Pianoforte Concerto (the solo part excellently played by Miss M. Graham), and the 'Meistersinger' overture. Mr. Collinson conducted.——Miss Lilian Foulis, a rising young local violinist, greatly enhanced her reputation by her violin recital. She steadily improves in technique and artistic perception, and has the enormous advantage of playing on a superb 'Stradivarius.'——The concerts of the People's Entertainment Society and of the Sunday Society continue to attract large audiences; and excellent programmes of high-class music have been placed before the Edinburgh Society of Musicians by Mr. James Winram and Mr. Tom Craig.

Professor Niecks, in proposing the health of the Scottish Orchestra, at a supper given to Dr. Cowen by the Scottish Arts Club, paid a glowing tribute to the guest of the evening as a conductor and as a composer, and declared that he had 'scored' in every sense of the word. The Professor pointed out, however, that Dr. Cowen's stick would wave in vain, and his fine sense of orchestral colour be useless, were it not that he had before him a body of orchestral players second to none, ready and willing, and able to convert into beautiful sound all his subtle and delicate conceptions. The toast was responded to by Mr. Maurice Sons, leader of the Scottish Orchestra.

MR. MOONIE'S 'KILLIECRANKIE.'

(By an Occasional Correspondent.)

The annual choral-orchestral concert of Mr. Moonie's choir was given in the Music Hall on the 7th ult. The interest of the evening was undoubtedly centred in a first performance of 'Killiecrankie,' a new work by Mr. Moonie. The libretto is from Aytoun's 'Lays of the Scottish Cavaliers,' and abounds in dramatic passages, which Mr. Moonie has been peculiarly successful in wedding to music. The wonderfully realistic effect at the lines 'Down we crouched amid the bracken,' &c.; the triumphant strains of the battle music; the beautiful orchestral interlude, and the weird music of the closing scene, may be instanced as specially noteworthy in Mr. Moonie's treatment of the ballad. The orchestration is really brilliant, and materially heightens the effect of the choral music, which all through is full of melodious writing and characteristically permeated with a distinctly national flavour. On the conclusion of 'Killiecrankie,' Mr. Moonie had to respond to enthusiastic recalls, and was presented with a laurel wreath by the members of his choir.

The other works performed were Goring Thomas's 'Sun-Worshippers,' and 'Hiawatha's Departure' (first time in Edinburgh), by Coleridge-Taylor.

Throughout the evening the choir fully maintained its reputation for practically flawless ensemble singing. Besides that technical equipment absolutely necessary for the successful rendering of all high-class choral music, there was that beauty of tone only obtainable from skilful training. Mr. Moonie intuitively possesses the art of imbuing each member of his choir with an earnest desire to realise to the fullest extent the musical meaning of every phrase, and the artistic interpretations he invariably secures reach a standard seldom associated with choral performances. The soloists, Madame Emily Squire, Mr. Herbert Grover, Mr. Robert Burnett—a rising local baritone—and an excellent orchestra, ably led by Mr. Dambmann, contributed greatly to the success of the concert.

MUSIC IN GLASGOW.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

An important event, from a pianist's point of view, at least, was the appearance at the eleventh classical concert, on January 28, of Madame Teresa Carreño, who gave a powerful reading of Tschaïkowsky's pianoforte concerto in B flat minor, and a remarkable display of technique in Tausig's arrangement of Schubert's Marche Militaire. Two choral novelties—Parts I. and II. of Mr. Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha,' and Dr. Cowen's 'Ode to the Passions'—were given at the twelfth concert on the 4th ult. The singing of the Choral Union gave evidence of careful rehearsal and, on the whole, a satisfactory performance was the result. The soloists were Miss Agnes Nicholls and Messrs. Henry Brearley and Charles Tree; and the Scottish Orchestra played the accompaniments excellently, Mr. Bradley conducting with his customary skill. The programme of the thirteenth classical concert, on the 11th ult., included Dvorák's overture 'In der natur,' Tschaïkowsky's 'Caracteristique' Suite (first performance in Glasgow), and Rubinstein's Pianoforte Concerto (No. 4) in D minor, the solo part being taken by Miss Kathleen Bruckshaw, whose playing was marked by neatness and finish, but was somewhat lacking in force. The last of this season's classical concerts, on 13th ult., was one of the most enjoyable. Gluck was represented by his overture 'Iphigénie en Aulide,' Mozart by an aria from 'Don Giovanni' (sung by Miss Helen Jaxon), Dr. Elgar by his 'Orchestral Variations,' and Beethoven by his 'Choral' symphony. The exacting choral part of the last-named was capitally sung by the Choral Union, while Misses Helen Jaxon and Edna Thornton, and Messrs. Reginald Brophy and David Hughes, gave the solo music with acceptance. Dr. Cowen conducted.

The Scottish Orchestra made its final appearance for this season at the popular concert on the 15th ult. As is customary on this occasion, a 'plebiscite' programme was given, the management wisely omitting the 'Pathétique' symphony and the overture to 'Tannhäuser' from the list. The selection consisted of the prelude to 'Lohengrin,' Dvorák's 'New World' symphony, Schubert's Ballet Air in G from 'Rosamunde,' Elgar's 'Military March in D,' Tschaïkowsky's '1812' overture and the same composer's Waltz for strings. In estimating the orchestral performances of the season, it must be admitted that the standard has throughout been of the highest artistic excellence. The personnel of the band is first-rate, and Dr. Cowen, in addition to his technical skill as a conductor, has the faculty of getting the best from his forces con amore.

The Paisley Choral Union, under Mr. James Barr, performed 'Elijah' on the 14th ult. The alto and tenor sections of the choir are weak, but the sopranos and basses leave little to be desired. The choruses were all sung with great spirit and intelligence, and a section of the Scottish Orchestra supplied an excellent accompaniment. The soloists were Misses Helen Jaxon and Edna Thornton, and Messrs. Reginald Brophy and David Hughes.

It is pleasing to report that an anonymous donor has agreed to defray the cost of improving the organ in Glasgow Cathedral (a fine example of Father Willis's workmanship), by introducing a solo organ and renovating the present instrument at a cost of £1,900, and by substituting electric motors for the present hydraulic blowing power at a cost of £500.

The choir of Ibrox United Free Church gave a creditable performance of Anderton's 'The Wreck of the Hesperus' and miscellaneous pieces, on the 6th ult. Mr. McVicar, the organist of the church, conducted, and contributed some pianoforte solos.

MUSIC IN GLOUCESTER AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The third of the series of four concerts of Chamber Music, under the direction of Miss Ellicott and Miss Hirschfeld, was held in the Guildhall, Gloucester, on January 29, when the ensemble was extremely good. The soloists were Miss Hirschfeld (pianoforte), Miss Edie Reynolds (violin), Mr. Lionel Tertis (viola), and Mr. C. Ould (violoncello). The concerted pieces were a quartet in B minor, by Miss Ellicott, recently produced at Steinway Hall, and now heard in Gloucester for the first time, and Brahms's quartet in G minor. The vocalist was Mrs. Henry J. Wood, who sang two songs (in Russian) by Tschaïkowsky, and three songs by Basil Harwood, Grieg, and Max Strange, respectively. The accompanist was Mr. Lionel Tertis.

The annual Concert given by the Gloucester Instrumental Society, conducted by Mr. E. G. Woodward, which took place at the Guildhall, Gloucester, on the 10th ult., proved a great success. In addition to the orchestral pieces, Mr. Woodward had provided a great attraction in the engagement of the well-known violinist, Mr. W. Henley, and Miss Violet Perry sang very acceptably a number of well-selected songs. The orchestra played Mendelssohn's Italian Symphony, Beethoven's 'Fidelio' Overture, German's Henry VIII. dances, Matt's Orchestral Suite, and Ernst's Fantasie 'Otello,' Mr. Henley playing the elaborate violin solo. Mr. Henley was most enthusiastically applauded for his masterly playing of the solo part in Ernst's Otello Fantasia and Wieniawski's 'Theme Varié.' The band was led by Mr. W. F. Newton, and Madame Amy Woodward was the excellent accompanist. We should not omit to mention the success of a Romance and Bolero by Mr. J. W. Austin, Jun. (who was playing in the band), as it is really an effective composition, and was heartily received. In the interval, Mr. Woodward was presented by the Mayor of Gloucester with a silver-mounted and suitably inscribed baton for the success with which he has conducted the Society for a great number of years.

At the concert of the Cheltenham Philharmonic Society, on the 11th ult., success was not only deserved but was gained in the renderings given to Sullivan's 'Martyr of Antioch' and Berlioz's 'Symphony Fantastique.' The choir sang their parts in Sullivan's difficult and exacting music-drama with considerable spirit and precision, showing evidence of painstaking preparation. The band showed high qualities in the elaborate 'Symphony Fantastique' of Berlioz, and no praise is too high for Mr. Phillips's enterprise in including this interesting work in the programme, and securing such an admirable rendering of it. The solo parts in 'The Martyr of Antioch' were taken by Madame Sobrino, Miss Olive Lakin, Mr. Gregory Hast, and Mr. Charles Copland, and Mr. C. J. Phillips conducted with his usual energy and skill.

The Dursley Choral Society is an active body. As a result of the winter practices, the members gave at the Victoria Hall, on the 5th ult., 'Judas Maccabæus,' the band and chorus numbering seventy performers. Mr. A. W. Keys is the energetic and successful conductor of the Society.

Two concerts deserving of mention, held too late for reference in last month's notes, were given in Gloucester on January 23—the one by Mr. Josef Woodward, and the other by the Co-operative Festival Choir. This Choir has been splendidly trained by Mr. W. H. Morgan, who conducted a capital performance (orchestra of 20 performers led by Mr. F. Dawes) of Leoni's 'The Gate of Life.' The soloists were Miss Violet Perry, Mr. C. Eynon Morgan (Gloucester Cathedral Choir), and Mr. P. Howard Gray.

MUSIC IN LIVERPOOL AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The ninth concert of the Philharmonic Society took place on the 4th ult., when the programme consisted of the third Act of 'Lohengrin,' and Act III. of 'Tannhäuser.' The vocalists were Madame Ella Russell, Miss Winifred Wynne (first appearance at a Philharmonic concert), Mr. Philip Brozel, and Mr. Andrew Black. Madame Russell sang the music allotted to Elsa and Elizabeth with power and effect, and Miss Wynne had a flattering and gratifying success. Mr. Brozel and Mr. Black succeeded excellently in the music assigned to them.

Dr. Cowen's programme, at the tenth concert of the same society, drew one of the largest audiences of the season, on the 18th ult. Tschaïkowsky's Symphony in E minor (No. 5), Beethoven's overture to 'Coriolan,' and Dvorák's 'Carneval' overture, the 'Siegfried Idyll,' and the 'Huldigungs' march (Wagner) were the chief features, and for each Dr. Cowen obtained distinguished renderings. Madame Albanesi was the vocalist.

Mr. A. E. Rodewald may be said to have excelled himself in his provision for the Liverpool Orchestral Society's concert on the 8th ult., of which the most interesting item was Mr. Granville Bantock's symphonic poem, 'Thalaba the Destroyer,' then performed for the first time in Liverpool. The work was conducted by the talented composer. The subject for exposition, as will be readily surmised, was drawn from Southey's poem, and is 'programme' music of an advanced kind. Mr. Bantock was warmly recalled at the close. For Liszt's version of the 'Rakoczy' march there was obtained a really fine performance; and also in the programme were Berger's First Symphony in B flat (Op. 71), and with Miss Katharine Goodson as soloist, Grieg's Pianoforte Concerto in A minor (Op. 16) was presented. Mr. Albert Archdeacon was the vocalist. Included in the programme presented on the 22nd ult. by the same energetic Society, were the Scotch Symphony of Mendelssohn, Rameau-Mottl's Three Characteristic Dances (for the first time in Liverpool), the Intermezzo from Svendsen's Symphony in B flat, and Cæsar Cui's suite, 'In modo populari'—a well-varied scheme. Mr. Plunket Greene was the vocalist.

Though Mr. S. Vickers has been the moving spirit in the organization of many concerts in Liverpool during the years that have gone, those at the Philharmonic Hall, on the 1st ult., were the first over which he held sway in propria persona. Miss Ellen Beach Yaw proved an enormous attraction, and her extraordinary voice and facile method secured the warmest appreciation, and the band of H.M. Grenadier Guards played both afternoon and evening, inter alia, Tschaïkowsky's 'Overture Solennelle, 1812.' The third Schiever concert took place, on the 15th ult., at the College of Music. Chief interest centered in the performance, for the first time in Liverpool, of Tsckaïkowsky's Trio for pianoforte, violin, and violoncello (Op. 50), inscribed 'A la memoire d'un grand artist.' With Mr. Schiever (violin) were Mr. Walter Hatton (violoncello), and that talented artist, Miss Leonie Michels (pianoforte). The work was played in quite admirable fashion. The simple beauty of Schumann's 'Fairy Tales,' written in trio form (for pianoforte, violin and viola), was again revealed by the care bestowed on it by Miss Michels, Mr. Schiever and Mr. Carl Courvoisier. Among the list of particularly attractive concerts given in Liverpool during the past month, none deserved more attention than the violin and pianoforte recital offered by Messrs. Ysaye and Busoni on the 6th ult., in the Philharmonic Hall, with the co-operation of Mr. William Green as the vocalist and Mr. Percy Pitt as accompanist. Mr. Leonard Borwick assisted Miss Eveline Barry at her interesting concert, in the Small Concert Room, St. George's Hall, on January 27, to which Miss Edna Thornton, Mr. Ford Waltham, Madame Hopps, Misses Vida Kenion and Eveline Barry also contributed. Miss Mary Hillhouse gave an afternoon concert, at which was introduced a new ballad by Mr. Cyril Meir Scott, whose orchestral suite given at the last Richter concert provoked the maximum of interest. The song in question is scored for orchestra, and is called 'Helen of Kirkconnel.' It is of a gloomy character, but charged, however, with dramatic qualities, and it was well sung by Mr. F. W. Austin. Mr. John Ross (violin), Miss Mary McCullagh (violoncello), and Miss F. Nightingale (pianoforte) also helped. Mr. Frank Bertrand and Mr. Beresford H. Smyley gave a pianoforte and vocal recital at the College of Music on the 20th ult. The last of the Huyton subscription concerts occurred on January 31. The artists who took part included Mr. Bantock Pierpoint, Miss Lillie Wormald, Miss Mabel Wells, Mr. T. Barlow, and Miss Backsheen Wood. The Liscard Orchestral Society—a flourishing organization whose concerts are given under the direction of Mr. Philip Smart—presented an interesting programme on the 15th ult., included in which were Beethoven's No. 2 Symphony, Weber's 'Oberon' overture, and excerpts from the works of Wagner, Max Bruch, and Pascal. The vocalist was Miss Sarah Crook. Mr. James Lyon's chamber concert took place on January 24, at Liscard, at which Miss Meadows sang most acceptably. The choir of Trinity Church, Bootle, gave, on the 12th ult., J. H. Maunder's cantata 'Penitence, Pardon, and Peace.' Mr. J. B. Fortay was at the organ. Miss Richardson's eighteenth annual concert took place in Hope Hall, on February 11, when the concert-giver was assisted by, amongst others, Miss Aimée Rolda, a talented pupil of Madame Marchesi. Miss Nelson's evening concert was given on the 5th ult., at which thirty artists appeared. Mr. Charles Magrath sang excellently at Mr. Thomas Shaw's concert in Hope Hall, on the 15th ult.

The Goossens' Choral Union grows apace. Already upwards of 200 members have been enrolled, and the organisation promises great things for the future.

MUSIC IN MANCHESTER.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

We have enjoyed a great deal of most excellent music during the past month, for, the second half of our season having fairly set in, there has been a crowding together of what may be considered our more occasional and irregular concerts and recitals. To the Schiller Hall Mr. Carl Fuchs brought down, February 8, the inimitable Bohemian String Quartet Party, to the great delight of his subscribers. Two evenings later, Mr. Max Mayer again summoned his friends to listen to such refined interpretation of chamber music as he always provides, the programme being enlivened by two groups of pleasantly-rendered songs by his accomplished wife. Dr. Watson's Vocal Society has repeated Gade's cantata 'The Erl-King's Daughter' with the customary finish of that excellent Association. Moreover, the many suburban choral bodies have shown vigour in performance, as well as in preparation for a triumphant closing of their winter work. The third of the Harrison subscription meetings was more than usually attractive to musicians, through the co-operation of two such consummate artists as Messrs. Ysaye and Busoni, with the added charm of Mr. William Green's singing of that most exquisite of all songs, Beethoven's 'Adelaide.'

At the Hallé Concerts we had, on the 6th ult., a capital performance of 'Elijah,' with Mr. R. H. Wilson's well-disciplined choir, when Miss Agnes Nicholls proved her claim to be regarded as one of our best oratorio sopranos. In conducting, as well as in occasionally checking the eccentricities of soloists, Dr. Richter showed a most gratifying growth of interest in Mendelssohn's great masterpiece. The next Thursday, Madame Carreño played Tschaïkowsky's Concerto in B flat minor with that vigour of grip and dashing style for which she is celebrated, and in Richard Strauss's symphonic extravaganza 'Till Eulenspiegel,' the band showed so thorough a mastery of its difficulties as to create an immediate demand for its repetition at the next gathering.

Mr. Lane is steadily advancing his claim on the Manchester public by liberality in securing soloists, as well as by assiduity in the discipline of his choir. The performance of 'Elijah,' two evenings after that at the Hallé concerts, was particularly creditable; while to have an opportunity of hearing Madame Blanche Marchesi and Mr. Plunket Greene in the chief parts was especially pleasing and novel.

Mr. F. E. Weatherley delivered his popular lecture 'Thirty-three years of song writing' to the members of the Tonic Sol-fa Association, at 186, Aldersgate Street, when his entertaining reminiscences were received with much acceptance by an interested audience.

MUSIC IN NORTHUMBERLAND AND DURHAM.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The Durham Musical Society gave its first concert of the season in the Town Hall, Durham, on January 29, the works chosen for the occasion being Cowen's 'St. John's Eve,' and Gade's 'Erl-King's Daughter.' Both works were very creditably performed, the soloists being Miss Annie St. John, Miss C. Alderson, Mr. E. Kellett, and Mr. John Nutton. Mr. F. Eustace Leatham conducted.

The ninety-eighth concert of the Newcastle Chamber Music Society took place, on the 4th ult., in the Assembly Rooms, Newcastle-on-Tyne, when the Bohemian String Quartet, consisting of Messrs. Hoffmann, Suk, Nedbal, and Wihan, played Beethoven's Quartet in C minor (Op. 18, No. 4) and Schubert's Quartet in A minor (Op. 29) in a manner which delighted all hearers. The vocalist was Miss Esmé Atherden, who contributed several songs with charming effect.

The Seaham Harbour Musical Society gave a performance of Gade's 'Erl-King's Daughter' in the Londonderry Institute, Seaham Harbour, on the 4th ult., with Miss M. M. Robinson, Miss C. Alderson and Mr. John Nutton in the solo parts. The programme also included several part-songs, which were very effectively sung. Mr. J. L. Smith conducted.

Barnby's 'Rebekah' was given in St. John's Church, Newcastle, on the 6th ult., by the Postal Telegraph Choral Society. The solos were sung by Miss Jenny Brown, Mr. J. Winter, and Mr. Clennell. Mr. F. Gibson presided at the organ, and Mr. J. E. Hutchinson conducted.

A very successful pianoforte and vocal recital was given, on the 3rd ult., in the Grand Assembly Rooms, Newcastle, by Messrs. Edgar Bainton and Frederic Hosking. The principal features were Mr. Bainton's playing of Schumann's 'Etudes Symphoniques' and Mr. Hosking's singing of the same composer's 'Dichter Liebe.' Mrs. Hosking was an excellent accompanist.

MUSIC IN NOTTINGHAM AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The Grantham Philharmonic Society were responsible for a successful performance of Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha's Wedding-Feast,' on the 6th ult., under the direction of Mr. H. P. Dickenson. Included in the same programme was Handel's Coronation Anthem, 'Zadok the Priest.'

On the same date, the East Bradford Choral Society gave their fourth annual concert, which was devoted to the production of Gaul's 'Una.' The soloists were Madame Moulds, Miss Ethel Ball, and Messrs. Harry and George Stubbs. Mr. J. A. Hay conducted. At the second concert of the Long Eaton Orchestral Society, on the 6th ult., Miss Ada Crossley and Mr. Frank Tebbut were the vocalists, and Mr. Fred Mountney, the violinist. The orchestra of forty performers was conducted by Mr. Emil Swift.

In Nottingham, on the 6th ult., Mr. Arthur Lakin gave his annual vocal recital, assisted by Mr. William Henley, Miss Margaret Hearn, and Mr. G. F. Sands. The programme was attractive, and the recitalist deserves credit for having introduced a Loewe ballad amongst his other songs.

On the 13th ult., the Sacred Harmonic Society gave 'Israel in Egypt'—or, to speak more correctly, portions of it—for the 'cuts' were extensive. Considering the work which this Society has done of late, this performance can hardly be classed as one of their best. Mr. Henry J. Wood conducted, and the principals were Miss Agnes Nicholls, Miss Ethel Lister, Madame Kirkby Lunn, and Messrs. Maxwell, Llewellyn, and Dearth.

Classical chamber music was beautifully rendered by the Hess Quartet at Miss Cantelo's concert on the 17th ult. The novelty of the programme was Sinding's Quintet.

MUSIC IN SHEFFIELD AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The Sheffield Sunday School Union Festival, which takes place annually in the Albert Hall, was held on the 10th and 11th ult. A choir of 500 voices, conducted by Dr. Coward, with Mr. J. W. Phillips at the organ, sang with admirable precision and good tone a selection of glees, part-songs, and anthems. This well-managed affair, with its attendant months of preparatory training, cannot fail to benefit, musically, the juveniles who take part in it, and the more so as the programmes are selected with excellent judgment. Another attempt was made by the Sheffield orchestra, on the 13th ult., to persuade an audience to attend afternoon concerts. Under Dr. Coward's direction the members played Mendelssohn's 'Italian' Symphony in finished style, and were also heard to equal advantage in Wagner's 'Die Meistersinger' Overture, MacCunn's orchestral ballad 'Ship o' the Fiend,' Smetana's 'The Bartered Bride,' and Dr. Cowen's 'Four English Dances.' A local effort, doing high-class work and possessing immense possibilities, the Sheffield Professional Orchestra is entitled to and should obtain generous public support. The Amateur Orchestral Societies of Heeley (Mr. W. Chapman) and Brincliffe (Mr. J. H. Parkes) respectively do excellent work in the cultivation of instrumental music and the training of young players, and the concerts given by them during the past month have been entirely successful. At South Street Chapel, Sheffield, Mr. W. S. Skelton's work has borne excellent fruit, as was proved by the performance of Macfarren's 'May Day' and Gade's 'Erl King's Daughter.' Miscellaneous music has been well represented by a violin and pianoforte recital by Messrs. Ysaye and Busoni, with Mr. W. Green as vocalist, and by the third of Miss Foxon's interesting series of Chamber concerts, at which Mr. Willy Hess's String Quartet appeared. Oratorio in Church is becoming increasingly popular here. Spohr's 'The Last Judgment' was given in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, on the 25th ult., with Mr. H. Cooker as director, and Mr. S. Freeman at the organ, the soloists being Miss E. Rich, Mr. W. Burrows, and Mr. A. Shaw.

MUSIC IN YORKSHIRE.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

LEEDS.

If the Leeds Parish Church choir is less of a pioneer than it was half-a-century ago, in the time of Dr. Hook and Dr. S. S. Wesley, this is rather on account of the general levelling-up occasioned by its example than of any falling-off from its high standard. That it observes the motto 'noblesse oblige' was indicated by the fact that for the concert that forms the choir boys' annual 'benefit,' and which took place on January 23, three parts of Bach's 'Christmas' Oratorio were given, the solos being taken by Messrs. Brearley and Browning, while the airs for female voices were sung by the boys collectively, and, under Mr. Alfred Benton's careful direction, were wonderfully effective. On January 29, the subscription concerts were resumed, a fine orchestral programme being varied by two choral works, sung by the chorus of the Leeds Philharmonic Society, Brahms's 'Gesang der Parzen,' a composition of truly classic nobility, and too seldom heard, was beautifully sung under Dr. Richter's direction, while, under the conductorship of Mr. Fricker, their trainer, the choir gave a good account of the eight-part motet 'Blessing, Honour, Glory' that used to be attributed to Bach, but is assigned by Spitta to one G. G. Wagner. Beethoven's Seventh Symphony, and the fine 'Faust' overture of Wagner (in this case Richard of that ilk), with Max Bruch's first Violin Concerto (the solo part most artistically played by Mr. Rawdon Briggs), were the chief instrumental features of a highly enjoyable concert. On the same evening, Mr. Christensen, a local pianist, gave a concert, and on the 5th ult., the 'Bohemian' Society gave one of their excellent chamber concerts, string quartets by Schubert (in D minor) and Dvorák (in F, Op. 96) being well played by Messrs. Elliott, Wright, Haigh, and Giessing.

The enterprising Leeds Choral Union gave a concert of exceptional interest on the 11th ult. Dr. Stanford's 'Te Deum,' with Madame Medora Henson, Mrs. H. P. Atkinson, Mr. G. Riley, and Mr. C. Knowles as soloists, was ably sung, if the dramatic side of the work was hardly realised, and in the third act of Tannhäuser, Mr. Philip Brozel distinguished himself by an expressive interpretation of the narration of the Pilgrimage. But the feature of the concert that was of the liveliest interest was a brand new Pianoforte Concerto in D minor by Mr. Waddington Cooke, who began his career as a choirboy at the Leeds Parish Church, then a scholar at the Royal College of Music, and lastly a pupil of Leschetizky. Both as composer and as pianist Mr. Cooke surprised even his admirers. His concerto has ideas, and they are used with a remarkable sense of proportion, and a refreshing freedom from irrelevance or redundancy. The orchestra is employed with excellent taste, and the colour, so far as could be gathered from a performance not perfect in every detail, is laid on with judgment, while the solo part, though most brilliant and well-suited to the technique of the instrument, is always made an integral part of the whole, and is as interesting as it is effective. In a word, the concerto is a very charming work, and a first hearing leaves one with a desire for a second. The concert was conducted by Mr. Alfred Benton, who, it is interesting to recall, gave Mr. Cooke his first pianoforte lessons.

The third of the Leeds Free Orchestral Concerts which Mr. Edgar Haddock conducts took place on the 15th ult. The 'Unfinished' Symphony of Schubert showed in points of detail some of the weak places of the band, but the '1812' Overture of Tschaïkowsky was played with capital vigour, and its strident coda suited a popular audience, and provoked a storm of applause. Mr. F. A. Sant-Angelo introduced Weber's first Pianoforte Concerto, a moderately interesting revival, and Miss Millicent McLaughlin was the vocalist. Mr. Emil Bach was to have appeared at one of the Leeds Musical Evenings, on the 18th ult. (and at a similar concert at Harrogate the previous evening), but his sudden death, two days before, made it necessary to procure a substitute in Miss Sant-Angelo, who played very charmingly a programme well suited to her graceful and poetical style. Recitals were given by Ysaye and Busoni at Bradford on the 13th ult., and at Leeds on the 14th ult., when the large and enthusiastic audiences showed how the fame of these great artists has penetrated even Yorkshire.

OTHER YORKSHIRE TOWNS.

The concert of the Bradford Permanent Orchestra, on January 24, introduced Dr. Cowen's charming 'Butterfly's Ball,' for the first time in Yorkshire. It proved difficult, but received a creditable interpretation under the composer's direction, and made a good impression. The so-called 'Jupiter' Symphony was exceedingly well played, but was not listened to as attentively as it deserved. Miss Agnes Nicholls's songs and Mr. John Dunn's violin playing, were very successful, and well received. The prominent feature of the Bradford subscription concert, on the 7th ult., was the appearance of the famous Bohemian String Quartet, whose ensemble is in its way unrivalled. In quartets by Beethoven and Dvorák, and in movements by Grieg and Tschaïkowsky, they showed their superb fire and warmth of feeling. Madame Carreño was pianist and Mdlle. de St. André, vocalist.

An exceptionally enjoyable chamber concert, one of the subscription series, was given at Wakefield on the 6th ult. Miss Fanny Davies played a series of unhackneyed pieces with even more than her accustomed fire, if that be possible, and took part with Mr. Percy Such in Brahms's Violoncello Sonata in F (Op. 99). Mrs. Arkwright sang songs with great charm and absence of effort. Otley is a small town in Wharfedale, but an ambitious one, and it possesses an almost ideal room for chamber music, in which, on the 3rd ult., one of a pleasing series of concerts was given by the violinist,

Miss Ethel Barns, and Mr. Charles Phillips, the baritone, with whom were associated the refined vocalist, Miss Elsie Mackenzie, and a pianist, Madame Lily Henkel.

At Huddersfield there have been subscription concerts, on January 28 and February 11. On the former date, Madame Blanche Marchesi, Miss Louisa Dale, and Mr. Plunket Greene were the vocalists, with Mr. Leonard Borwick and Mr. Paul Ludwig as instrumentalists. Mr. Simonetti's 'London Trio' appeared on the latter occasion. The Brighouse Choral Society, under Mr. J. H. Pearson, gave a miscellaneous programme, on the 4th ult., including some part-songs and the fine chorus from Elgar's 'Caractacus,' 'Britons alert,' while Sullivan's 'Di Ballo' overture and Haydn's 'Farewell' symphony were the more striking orchestral pieces. The Cleckheaton Orchestral Society gave its annual concert on Ash Wednesday, and played the 'Oberon' overture with great point, under Mr. Stott's thoroughly able direction. Mr. T. E. Weist Hill's brilliant violoncello solos were a striking feature of the event.

The second of the York Musical Union concerts was given on the 5th ult., the Bent Quartet Party, including Messrs. A. Bent, E. Hopkinson, A. Hobday, and P. Ludwig, together with Mr. Padel as pianist, contributing an interesting programme. Two of the Scarborough chamber concerts have to be recorded:—on January 27, Dvorák's 'Dumky' trio (Op. 90), was given; on the 10th ult., Brahms's Violin Sonata in A (Op. 100), the instrumentalists being Mr. Cass (violin), Miss Alderson-Smith (violoncello), and Mr. Owen Williams (pianoforte). A similar series was given at Filey by Miss Wheelhouse, a local violinist, and on the 7th ult., Dvorák's 'Bagatellen' (Op. 47), and Bach's Concerto in D minor, for two violins, were included in the programme.

Correspondence.

THE MASTER OF THE BOYS OF THE CHAPEL ROYAL.

TO THE EDITOR OF 'THE MUSICAL TIMES.'

Dear Sir,—In the very interesting article on 'The Chapel Royal,' which appears in the current issue of your excellent magazine, it is stated that 'The office of Master of the Children (or Master of the Song) can be traced as far back as Edward IV. (1473-4).' Will you allow me to point out that this office can be traced some years earlier, namely, to 1468, when Henry Abyndon was granted the sum of 40 marks yearly 'for the instruction, governance, and clothing of the boys of the Chapel of the King's household.' This provision was renewed on February 14th, 1471, by privy seal of King Henry VI., and is to be found in the recently-published Patent Rolls of Edward IV., including the 49th of Henry VI.

From the house-books of Edward IV., we learn that the eight children of the Chapel were to be taught 'song and organs by the Master of Songe, which Master is appointed by the Dean.' These eight children had daily commons in the Hall next the Yeomen of the Vestry; and 'when any of these children came to 18 years of age and their voices change,' if preferment could not be had in the Chapel Royal, 'the King assigneth them to a College of Oxford or Cambridge of his foundation, there to be at finding and study both sufficiently, till the King may otherwise advance them.'—Yours very faithfully,

Wm. H. Grattan Flood.

Enniscorthy Cathedral,
February 14, 1902.

We hear, as we go to press, that Mr. William Prendergast, organist of St. Paul's Church, York Place, Edinburgh, has been appointed organist of Winchester Cathedral, in succession to the late Dr. G. B. Arnold; another instance of an old chorister of a cathedral becoming its chief musician.

Foreign Notes.

Aix-la-Chapelle.—A new opera, 'Enoch Arden,' the libretto by K. W. Marschner, the music by Victor Hausmann, met with a very good reception on its first performance last month at the Municipal Theatre.

Amsterdam.—Under the auspices of the Maatschappy tot Bevordering den Toonkunst, a grand musical festival was held recently, all the works produced being by composers of Dutch nationality. The society was founded in 1829, and the present was the first festival organised by it on purely national lines. M. Willem Mengelberg conducted, and amongst the compositions which obtained the greatest success were a Te Deum by Alphonse Diepenbrock, and an orchestral ballade 'Elaine and Lancelot,' by B. Averkamp.

Berlin.—Dr. Elgar's 'Cockaigne' overture was introduced for the first time to a Berlin audience at one of the recent symphony concerts of the Tonkünstler Orchester, under Herr Richard Strauss's direction. The work was given a very spirited interpretation, and produced an excellent effect, much praise being bestowed by critics upon its characteristic themes and their masterly polyphonic treatment. Berlioz's 'Romeo and Juliet' symphony, which had not been given here for many years, was accorded a most brilliant performance at the concert of the Royal Orchestra, on January 31, under the direction of Herr Weingartner.——At the concert of the Singakademie, which took place on the same day, Handel's 'Acis and Galatea' delighted a numerous audience, the work being capitally rendered by the choir, under the conductorship of Professor Schumann, with Frau Herzog, Herr von zur Mühlen, and Mr. Ffrangcon Davies in the solo parts.——Mr. D. F. Tovey has given several chamber music concerts recently, with the co-operation of Professor Joachim, Herren Wirth and Schrattenholz, and his talents both as a pianist and composer have been much appreciated.——Interesting visitors were the members of the Paris 'Société de Musique de Chambre pour instruments de vent,' who, both in a concert given by the pianist, M. Risler, and one of their own, attracted the attention of music-lovers by their fine technique and admirable ensemble playing.——At the Royal Opera, a first performance took place recently of the opera 'Heilmar,' by Wilhelm Kienzl, the composer of the popular 'Evangelimann.' The work was originally produced some eight years since at Munich, but has been revised by the composer, and in its present form met with a favourable reception.——In memory of the late Hermann Wolff, the greatly-esteemed Berlin concert director, a most impressive performance was given, on the 9th ult., in the hall of the Philharmonie, by the members of the Philharmonic orchestra, conducted by Herren Nikisch and Rebicek, and of the Philharmonic choir, under the direction of Herr Siegfried Ochs. The pieces produced were the Funeral March from Beethoven's 'Eroica' Symphony, the Prelude to 'Parsifal,' and Brahms's 'Schicksalslied,' Professor Reimann opening the solemnity with a prelude played on the organ.

Bologna.—A very successful chamber concert was given last month, at the Liceo, by Signor Giuseppe Martucci, in co-operation with the pianist, Signor Pollini. The programme was devoted exclusively to Signor Martucci's compositions, and included a Quintet in C, a Trio in E flat, and some Variations for two pianofortes.

Bremen.—A new fairy opera, entitled 'Cinderella,' by the Italo-German composer, Ermunno Wolf-Ferrari, was brought out on January 31, at the Stadt Theater, under Capellmeister Jaeger's direction, with success.

Brussels.—At the Théâtre de la Monnaie, a successful revival has taken place of Méhul's almost forgotten comic opera, 'Irato.' An interesting first performance was given at the Concert Populaire of the music of Berlioz's opera, 'La Prise de Troie,' with the chorus of the Théâtre de la Monnaie, supplemented by members of other choirs, under the direction of M. Sylvain Dupuis.

Cologne.—The celebrations in connection with the artistic jubilee of Dr. Franz Wüllner included the performance, at the Gurzenich Hall, of one of Wüllner's most important compositions—viz., a setting for male choir, soli, and orchestra, of the 98th Psalm, the choir on this occasion being reinforced by members of the five male choral societies of Cologne.

Copenhagen.—The new 'People's Theatre,' for the performance of opera, has been successfully inaugurated with Ignaz Brüll's 'Gringoire,' and Enna's fairy opera 'The Princess.'

Dresden.—The newly-formed Choral Society, under the direction of Herr Waldemar von Baussnern, rendered a very good account of itself, at its recent first concert, with the performance of Handel's 'Hercules.' The oratorio, which was given for the first time in Dresden on this occasion, produced a most marked impression. ——Fräulein Marie Wieck, half-sister of the late Clara Schumann, recently celebrated, in excellent health, the seventieth anniversary of her birth. The artist is still active as a pianist and teacher of the method of her father, the late Friedrich Wieck.——At the fifth symphony concert of the season of the Royal Orchestra, under Herr von Schuch's direction, a new 'symphonic fantasia,' by Georg Göhler, was produced for the first time. It is an ambitious work, of a very advanced type, and did not meet with the undivided approval of the audience.

Elberfeld.—An excellent and much appreciated performance of Edgar Tinel's oratorio 'Franciscus' was given at the fourth subscription concert of the season of the Musik-Verein, under Dr. Hayn's direction.

Florence.—The prize offered by the Royal Musical Institute, for a grand fantasia for two pianofortes, with orchestral accompaniment, has been awarded to a young composer, Signor Falconi di Capracotta.

Frankfort-on-Main.—At a recent chamber concert, Richard Strauss's Violin Concerto was introduced for the first time, by Professor Hugo Heermann, and enthusiastically applauded.

Gera.—At a recent concert of the Musikalische Verein, a new choral composition for mixed choir and orchestra, by Joseph Frischen, attracted the attention of music-lovers. It is a setting of Goethe's poem 'Grenzen der Menschheit,' a serious composition, reminiscent of the style of Brahms, but exhibiting much individual thought, dramatic power, and skilful treatment of both voices and instruments.

Leipzig.—A new Symphony in B minor, by Waldemar von Baussnern, was produced for the first time at the eighth concert of the season of the Winderstein orchestra, and very favourably received.

Magdeburg.—August Klughardt's new oratorio, 'Judith,' scored a complete success on its first performance recently by the Musik-Verein. The remarkable work is also shortly to be produced at Leipzig, Halle, Wiesbaden, and numerous other German cities.

Metz.—The hundred-and-fiftieth anniversary of the existence of the Municipal Theatre was celebrated, on the 4th and 6th ult., by the performance respectively of the 'Antigone' of Sophocles and of Wagner's 'Tristan und Isolde.' Since the inclusion of the city in the kingdom of the Fatherland, the theatre, established under the régime of Louis XV., has become an important centre for the cultivation of German dramatic and musical art.

Milan.—The monument erected to the memory of Verdi in the Central Cemetery, the work of the sculptor Cuadrelli, was unveiled on January 27, in the presence of a numerous concourse of spectators. The ceremonies included the performance, by the municipal orchestra, of the deceased composer's 'Miserere,' and an eloquent address delivered by Professor Sinigaglia.

Munich.—Dr. Ludwig Wüllner, the distinguished vocalist, gave an interesting recital, last month, of songs by Richard Strauss, accompanied on the pianoforte by the composer, and greatly appreciated by a numerous audience. At the Residenz Theater, where a revival has taken place of Gluck's pastoral play, 'Die Maienkönigin,' and of Schneider's 'Schauspieldirektor,' with Mozart's music. Both these little pieces received a con amore interpretation under Herr Stavenhagen's direction, and met with an enthusiastic reception. An important new work for the organ, viz., a symphonic fantasia and fugue (Op. 57), has just been published from the pen of Max Reger.

Paris.—Highly successful first performances of works by Franz Liszt have taken place recently, viz., at the Conservatoire, on the 2nd ult., of the 13th Psalm, with M. Cazeneuve as the admirable interpreter of the solo part, and at the Lamoureux concert of January 26, of the 'Dante' symphony.——At a subsequent concert of the latter institution a remarkable new symphony in C major, by Paul Dukas, the composer of the picturesque 'Apprenti sorcier,' attracted the attention of connoisseurs. The programme also included the first performance of a poetically-conceived composition for a female voice, with orchestra, entitled 'Edith au col de cygne,' from the pen of Georges Hüe, which was received with much favour.—— A septet for strings, by Georges Alvary, an ably-written work in the style of Brahms, was an interesting novelty at the Colonne concerts. Mdlle. Ida Ekman, a native of Finland, made a highly successful début at this institution with an air by Handel, and songs by Jean Sibelius and Richard Strauss.——At the instigation of the director, M. Albert Carré, an interesting series of lectures on the history of French opera is being delivered just now at this theatre, by such competent critics as MM. Fierens-Gevaërt, André Hallays, Vincent d'Indy, and de Tourcand, the discourses being illustrated by excerpts from the works of the different composers under notice.

Prague.—A highly favourable reception was accorded, at one of the recent concerts of the Philharmonic Society, to the prelude and other excerpts from a music-drama, 'Walther von der Vogelweide,' by Heinrich Rietsch, the professor of musical science at the Prague University.

Rome.—By order of the Ministry of Public Instruction, a Commission is shortly to be appointed with a view to the reform of the existing law of copyright in the kingdom of Italy.

Rouen.—A five-act opera, 'Les Guelfes,' by Benjamin Godard, the libretto by Louis Gallet, was brought out for the first time in France, at the Théâtre des Arts, last month, when it produced a very favourable impression.

Zurich.—Paderewski's opera 'Manru' has been mounted at the Stadt Theater, with great success, and continues to attract numerous audiences.

Mr. W. H. Hadow concluded his course of four excellent lectures at the Royal Institution on the 8th ult., when he took the subject of Wagner. The three previous discourses treated respectively of Gluck, Mozart, and Weber.

Mr. F. Gilbert Webb is announced to read a paper on 'Musical Criticism,' before the Incorporated Society (London section), 20, Hanover Square, on the 8th inst. The following is a synopsis of the paper:—Definitions of criticism—Expectations of the artist and the public—Criticisms of 1756, 1805, and 1852—The conservatism of criticism—Development or retrogression—The foundation of true criticism—Critics; whence they come and whither they go—Different styles of modern criticism—What criticism has accomplished—The ideal critic.

A competition for Three Open Scholarships, of the approximate value of £30 each, for Violin (either sex), Singing (Tenor), and Organ (males only), respectively, is announced to take place at the London Organ School, early in April. Full particulars may be obtained of the Secretary.

The Choir of Horbury Congregational Church, Notting Hill Gate, performed Lee Williams's Sacred Cantata, 'The last night at Bethany,' on the 13th ult. The solo parts were sung by Miss Sylvia Bennett, Mr. T. H. Craft, Mr. Perfect, and Mr. H. T. Taylor. Mr. C. Thornton Turner, the organist and choirmaster, conducted.

Mr. Whitney Mockridge has just returned from his ninth successful tour in the United States and Canada. He made his re-appearance in London at the Ash Wednesday Concert given at St. James's Hall.

Brief Summary of Country and Colonial News.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this summary, as the notices are either collated from local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

Aberfeldy (N.B.).—The Choral Union performed Gaul's 'Ruth,' together with a miscellaneous second part, in the Town Hall, on the 14th ult. The choir numbered over sixty voices, and the solos were taken by Mrs. McCulloch Robertson, Miss Annie Glass, and Mr. John MacPherson, the accompaniments being played by Miss E. K. Menzies (pianoforte) and Mr. E. Nicol (organ). Mr. Harry Minchin conducted.

Ashburne.—The Ashburne Orchestral Society gave a concert on the 4th ult., the principal items being Suppe's 'Morning, Noon, and Night in Vienna' Overture, Elgar's 'Salut d'Amour,' and Mendelssohn's G minor concerto; in the solo part of the last-named, Miss Mabel Tutt proved an able pianist. Violin solos were played by Miss Grace Mellor, and Madame Louie Fidler was the vocalist. Mr. W. H. Tutt conducted.

Bishop's Stortford.—The 'Messiah' was performed by the Musical Union on January 29. The choir and orchestra were both fully efficient, and the solo vocalists were Miss Maggie Purvis, Miss Marie Hooton, Mr. Joseph Reed, and Mr. Charles Knowles. Mr. A. Eaglefield Hull conducted.

Brighton.—The Sacred Harmonic Society, under the able direction of Mr. Robert Taylor, performed Verdi's Requiem, in the Dome, on January 28. The efforts of the choir were very successful, some of the choruses especially being given with remarkable breadth and impressiveness; the orchestra was no less efficient, displaying both refinement and power. Mesdames Gillespie, Edith Hands, Messrs. Anderson Nicol and John Sandbrook formed an excellent quartet of soloists. The programme also included Handel's Organ Concerto, No. 4, in F, ably played by Mr. Percy Taylor, and Gounod's 'Gallia,' which was admirably performed.

Bromley.—An interesting glee concert was given by Mr. William A. Everington and his male-voice double quartet party, at the Royal Bell Hotel, on the 7th ult. The programme included the following glees and part-songs:—'Strike the lyre' (Cooke), 'Phyllis dyes her tresses black' (Prendergast), 'The forget-me-not' (Hatton), 'The shepherd's farewell' (Smart), 'Go, Rose' (Beale), 'Tell me, babbling echo' (Paxton), 'Peace' (Bridge), 'Come, arouse' (Coward), 'The image of the rose' (Reichardt), 'When hands meet' (Pinsuti), 'I love my love in the morning' (Allen), 'Simple Simon' (Macey), 'Amidst the myrtles' (Battishill), 'The Bells of St. Michael's Tower' (Stewart), and 'Bold Turpin' (Bridge).

Cardiff.—The Musical Society gave a performance of Handel's 'Alexander's Feast,' with full orchestra and chorus, on the 6th ult., under the able direction of Mr. T. G. Aylward. The solo vocalists were Miss Una Bruckshaw, Mr. Henry Beaumont, and Mr. W. Llewellyn.

Catford.—On the 5th ult., at St. George's Parish Hall, an orchestral concert was given, conducted by Mr. Wilcox Lawrance. The principal items were the overtures 'Zampa' and 'Poet and Peasant,' and a selection from Sullivan's works. Much interest was felt in a new Suite for orchestra in B flat, by the conductor, entitled 'Reception in Fairy Land.' The work is melodious and skilfully scored.

Coventry.—A highly interesting festival performance took place at St. Michael's Church, on the 3rd ult., when a choir of 170 voices was gathered from the Musical Society, Co-operative Festival Choir, Free Church Choral Union, and the Holy Trinity Festival Choir, together with a full professional orchestra, under the direction of Mr. A. Herbert Brewer. The works performed included the conductor's cantata 'Emmaus,' and Mendelssohn's 'Hymn of Praise,' preceded by Handel's Organ Concerto in B flat, the solo part admirably played by Mr. Walter Hoyle. With such artists as Madame Sobrino and Mr. Ben Davies it is needless to say that the solos were in the highest degree satisfactory. The choir displayed excellent tone and quality, and sang throughout with steadiness and good attack, and the orchestra was fully equal to the demands of the music. Mr. A. Herbert Brewer's ability and experience as a conductor were once more fully demonstrated.

Dudley.—The Vocal Union gave a concert in the Public Hall, on the 5th ult., when Stanford's 'Revenge' and Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha's Wedding-Feast' were the chief features of the programme. In both works the efforts of the choir were highly praiseworthy, and the orchestra played the accompaniments with much delicacy. The solo vocalists were Mrs. Walter Aston, Mr. S. J. Halliley, and Mr. F. Lightowler. Mr. W. H. Aston, the conductor, kept his forces well under control.

Hanley.—The fifth of the thirteenth season of the Meakin Popular Concerts was given in the Victoria Hall, on the 3rd ult., when Mr. Edwin H. Lemare gave one of his delightful organ recitals, with much success. Miss Evangeline Florence was the vocalist.

Haverhill.—The Choral Union gave a successful performance of Handel's 'Judas Maccabæus,' in the Town Hall, on the 6th ult. The soloists were Miss Louisa Atkinson, Miss Alice Wallace, Mr. Otto Dene, and Mr. Harry Dearth. Mr. Herman Brearley presided at the organ, and Mr. W. H. Bullock conducted.

Hereford.—The Herefordshire Orchestral Society gave two excellent concerts under the direction of Dr. G. R. Sinclair on the 6th ult. (evening), and 7th ult. (afternoon), the programmes of both concerts being nearly identical and including Mendelssohn's 'Scotch Symphony, Schubert's Entr'acte (No. 3) 'Rosamunde,' Beethoven's 'Leonore' Overture (No. 3), and German's 'Harvest Dance.' The interpretation of these works by the orchestra, under the skilful conductorship of Dr. Sinclair, was deserving of high praise. Madame Alva was the vocalist at both concerts; at the afternoon concert, Miss May Mukle played the Adagio and Minuetto from Locatelli's Sonata in D for Violoncello with much effect and skill; and in the evening programme, Mr. G. A. Carrodus played Bottesini's Fantasia on 'Sonnambula' on the double bass.

Lewes.—Mr. Horace Jackson gave an orchestral and vocal concert in the Town Hall, on the 5th ult., when a special feature of interest was the performance (said to be for the first time in England) of Mozart's 'Masonic' Cantata, to which English words have been adapted under the title of 'The Praise of Friendship,' by Mr. G. C. Dusart. The choir sang with much vigour and care, and the solos were ably given by Mr. Waldegrave Mitchell and Mr. R. E. Miles. The orchestra played 'Judex,' from Gounod's 'Mors et Vita,' the first movement of Schubert's 'Unfinished' Symphony, overture, 'Yelva,' Reissiger and Luigini's 'Egyptian' Ballet Suite, and the chorus sang the 'Vintagers'' chorus from 'Loreley.' Madame Edith Walling (vocalist) and Mr. Quinlan (violinist) also contributed to the programme.

Lincoln.—St. Swithin's Choral Society gave a concert in the Corn Exchange, under the conductorship of Mr. John Pullein, on January 28, when Elgar's 'Banner of St. George' was performed, the accompaniments being played on a pianoforte, harmonium, two trumpets, and drums. The second half was a miscellaneous selection, to which the choir contributed Pearsall's Christmas carol 'In dulci jubilo'; Roland Rogers's part-song 'The river floweth strong, my love,' and Eaton Faning's 'Song of the Vikings.' Madame Annie Norledge and Mr. Charles Woodward were the soloists.——The Musical Society's Orchestral Class provided a large share of the very successful concert held in the Drill Hall, on the 5th ult., the programme including Schubert's entr'acte from 'Rosamunde,' Gounod's overture to 'Mirella,' German's 'Henry VIII. Dances,' and Hérold's overture to 'Zampa.' A very fine performance was given of the Andante and Allegro movements from Mozart's Concerto in E flat, for horn and orchestra, Mr. Adolph Borsdorf playing the horn solo with faultless accuracy and superb effect. The solo part in Mendelssohn's Concerto was played with great distinction by Mr. John Dunn. Miss Greta Williams was the vocalist. Dr. G. J. Bennett conducted with great care and skill, and Mr. N. S. Trevitt was an efficient accompanist.

Llanelly.—The Tabernacle Choral Society performed Sullivan's 'Prodigal Son' on the 4th ult. The solo vocalists were Miss S. M. Lewis, Miss Rachel Thomas, Mr. Maldwyn Humphreys, and Mr. L. R. Bowen; Miss Blodwen Davies and Mr. Luther Owen presided at the organ and pianoforte respectively, and there was a good orchestra. Mr. C. Meudwy Davies conducted.

Louth.—A concert was given by the Louth Choral Society, in the Town Hall, on January 23. The programme included Bridge's Choral Ballad 'The Flag of England,' Mendelssohn's 'Hear my prayer,' and the Bridal Chorus from Cowen's 'Rose Maiden.' The principal soloist was Miss Maggie Davies. Mr. Charles Woodward (vocalist), and Mr. H. O. Moss (violoncellist), also took part in the miscellaneous selection which followed. The band (led by Miss Edith M. Porter), and chorus numbered eighty performers. Mr. Owen M. Price conducted.

Plymouth.—The Philharmonic Society gave a concert recital of Wagner's 'Flying Dutchman,' in the Guildhall, on January 29. The choir was augmented by a contingent of 60 vocalists from Saltash and Liskeard, making a total of 200 voices, and the choruses were given with good tone, vigour, and excellent attack; the orchestra (led by Mr. John Pardew) was fully equal to the demands made upon it. Excellent representatives of the principal parts were found in Madame Sobrino (Senta), Miss Edna Thornton (Mary), Mr. Joseph O'Mara (Erik), Mr. Arthur Walenn (Daland), Mr. Albert Collings (Steersman), and Mr. Andrew Black in the title part. Mr. Arthur C. Faull, who conducted, is to be congratulated on a very successful performance.

Reading.—The fifth season of Miss Eveline Fife's chamber concerts took place in January and February, at the Small Town Hall. At the first two concerts (January 27 and the 3rd ult.), String Quartets by Borodine, Tschaïkowsky, and Haydn were played with admirable finish by Herr C. K. Elderhorst, Miss Eveline Fife, Mr. Alfred Hobday, and Mr. W. E. Whitehouse, the same artists also giving the Brahms Pianoforte Quintet, with Miss Katharine Eggar as pianist. At the third and last concert (10th ult.), the Misses Eveline and Stella Fife and Miss Eggar contributed instrumental solos and trios, and an interesting item was Stanford's 'Princess' Cycle of Vocal Quartets, sung by Mrs. Stepney Rawson, Miss Grace Day-Winter, Mr. Stepney Rawson, and Mr. H. G. Rawson. The solo vocalists at the three concerts were Miss Mabel Bond, Miss Gleeson White, and Mr. Denham Price.——The annual Choir Festival at Oxford Road Wesleyan Chapel was held on the 4th ult., when the choir, specially augmented for the occasion, gave a performance of Dr. Henry Coward's cantata 'The King's Error' and Mendelssohn's 'Hear my prayer.' The soloists were Master George Forsythe, Mr. Walter J. Davies, and Mr. F. Davis. In the unavoidable absence, through indisposition, of Mr. George Phillips, Mr. E. T. Marsh, the conductor, undertook the tenor part. The choir showed evidence of careful training and acquitted themselves well. Dr. W. Boggiss was an able accompanist.

Ryde.—We are glad to record that at a recent meeting of the Town Council, the Mayor (Mr. M. Maybrick) moved that a musical society be established with the title of 'The Borough of Ryde Musical Society,' to be carried on under the auspices and with the co-operation of the Ryde Town Council. The proposition was adopted.

Timperley.—The Vocal Society gave a concert in the Stockport Road Schoolroom, on January 27, when the programme comprised among other items the following Part-songs:—Faning's 'The Song of the Vikings,' 'Daybreak,' and 'The Miller's Wooing,' Pinsuti's 'The sea hath its pearls,' A. W. Jackson's 'Lord Ullin's Daughter' and Facer's 'The Voyagers,' besides some excerpts from Sullivan's operas, and the Bridal chorus from Cowen's 'Rose Maiden.' Mr. H. Mozart Sheaves was the conductor.

Toronto.—A remarkably fine performance of 'The Messiah' was given by the Toronto Festival Chorus and Orchestra in Massey Hall, on January 16, under the direction of Mr. F. H. Torrington, who has rendered yeoman service to the cause of music in Canada for many years. The choir sang with great precision and power, especially in the 'Hallelujah' Chorus, which was given with great fervour. An innovation was made by the conductor appealing to the audience to join in the chorus, an invitation which many accepted. The solo vocalists were Miss Eileen Millett (a pupil of Mr. Torrington's, who made a great success in the soprano part), Miss Lillian Kirby, Mr. J. M. Sherlock, and Mr. Ruthven Macdonald. Mr. Torrington conducted with his accustomed care and skill.

Tunbridge Wells.—The Orchestral Society gave a concert in the Great Hall, on the 13th ult., under the direction of Mr. Frederick Hunnibell. The orchestra, numbering forty, played among other pieces Four Characteristic Waltzes (Coleridge-Taylor), the First Movements of Schubert's 'Unfinished' Symphony and of Schumann's Concerto in A minor (pianoforte, Mrs. Adeney), and the Fantasia Appassionata (Op. 35), Vieuxtemps (solo violin, Miss H. C. Ferguson). Mr. Hunnibell's choir sang the part-songs 'The lover's plaint' (F. Corder), 'When icicles hang by the wall' (W. W. Brooks), and Dr. Callcott's Glee 'O snatch me swift' Miss Leonora Sparks and Mr. F. Ascough were the solo vocalists.

Ventnor.—The Musical Society performed Mendelssohn's 'St. Paul' in the Town Hall on January 29. The choir, numbering over 80 voices, sang with spirit and good attack, and there was a small but capable orchestra. The solo vocalists were Miss Edith Patching, Mr. Alexander Webster, and Mr. David Brozell. Mr. Evan Jones, the conductor, deserves commendation for the care devoted to the preparation of the work.——The Choral Society gave a performance of Benedict's 'St. Peter' and Sterndale Bennett's 'May Queen' in the Town Hall on the 6th ult., under the direction of Mr. Lemare. Miss Kate Cherry, Miss Jennie Atkinson, Mr. Henry Plevy, and Mr. Arthur Barlow were responsible for the solo music. The choruses were sung with admirable expression, and the orchestra, though not large, was efficient. Mr. Guy Michell presided at the organ, and Mr. Edwin H. Lemare rendered most valuable assistance at the pianoforte. Mr. Lemare (senior) conducted with much care and ability.

West Norwood.—Mr. Otto Dene gave a successful concert, at the Public Hall, on the 5th ult. The programme included Liza Lehmann's Song Cycle 'In a Persian Garden,' in which the concert-giver was assisted by Madame Alice Lorenez, Miss Lilian Harvey, and Mr. Edmund B. Cooper. Madame Upton-Dene played Chopin's Polonaise in A flat (Op. 53), and a study by Henselt, and Mr. Adrian Harley recited.

Wincanton.—The choir of the Parish Church gave a performance of Dr. H. J. Edwards's cantata 'The Epiphany,' on January 24. Mr. E. H. Melling conducted, and Mr. H. W. Chuter (organist of Sherborne Abbey) was at the organ; the latter, at the conclusion of the cantata, gave a short organ recital.

Winchester.—Mr. John Lowther gave a concert at St. John's Rooms, on January 30, when the most important features of the programme were Mozart's Trio in G major and Hummel's Trio in E flat, which were played by Miss Helen Huntingford, Mr. Charles Fletcher, and Mr. Leo Ladbroke. Mr. Lowther played a Prelude by Rachmaninoff, Allegro Vivace, Scarlatti, and Schumann's 'Warum.' Madame Robiolio and Mr. B. Mayne were the vocalists, the former singing 'Memories,' composed by the concert-giver.

Answers to Correspondents.

W. W. G.—(1) In addition to the books which you already possess, the following will furnish you with food for reflection:—The Philosophy of Music, by Dr. W. Pole; Purity in Music, by Thibaut; Music in its Relation to the Intellect and Emotions, by Sir John Stainer; and Schumann's collected writings. (2) The best life of Beethoven in the English language is the article on that composer by Sir George Grove, in 'Grove's Dictionary of Music and Musicians.'

R. S.—The following may meet your requirements:—(1) 'Songs from Shakespeare, the earliest known settings, edited by J. Frederick Bridge. (2) Settings of words by Sir Walter Scott: 'O hush thee, my babie,' by A. C. Mackenzie (for tenor) and C. A. Macirone (for contralto); 'Wert thou like me in life's low vale?' by S. S. Wesley (for soprano) and 'Lochinvar,' by A. C. Mackenzie (for tenor).

A Grateful Reader.—(1) Beethoven's songs, sixty-three in number, for contralto voice, and (2) the slow movement of Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto, arranged for violin and harmonium (ad lib.), are published and may be obtained from Messrs. Novello. (3) You will find some excellent advice upon the use of the pianoforte pedals in Franklin Taylor's 'Technique and Expression in Pianoforte Playing' (p. 73).

G. E. C.—The following choral works, for two tenor and two bass voices, may serve your purpose:—A Song of Trafalgar, by G. F. Cobb; Salamis, by F. Gernsheim; Longbeards' Saga, by C. H. Lloyd; Hohenlinden, by Percy Pitt; The Luck of Edenhall, by Schumann; Horatius, by J. H. Mee; and To the Sons of Art, by Mendelssohn.

G. S.—Chopin's Mazurka in B flat minor (Op. 24, No. 4):—The first note (B flat) in bar 21 is not tied to the previous one, but is to be struck; in bar 91 the little F flat is an indication that the shake is to begin on that note and at the same time as the bass note, G flat. See Dannreuther's Primers on Musical Ornamentation, a safe and invaluable guide in such matters.

E. S.—The following books treat of the composer Massenet—'Massenet, etude critique,' by E. de Solenière, and 'La musique française moderne,' a volume which gives, in addition, sketches of four other composers, César Franck, E. Lalo, E. Reyer, Camille Saint-Saëns, with five portraits. Each volume costs five shillings net.

A. H.—For technical exercises for the violin, 'on the same lines as the three books by H. Schardrick,' see 'The Complete Technics of Violin Playing' (Op. 93), Books 1, 2, and 3; 'Technical Studies in Single Notes' (Op. 94), Books 1, 2, and 3; and 'Technical Studies in Double Stopping'—all by R. Hofmann.

Country Organist.—Try the following Primers—Randegger's Singing (solo voices) and Stainer's Choral Society Vocalisation. We cannot give an opinion on the methods, theories, or treatises of this or that teacher of singing, or 'expert in voice production'; but beware of quacks.

E. W.—Yes, the same speed. The changed character of the music, and its cantabile e ben tenuto rendering, will give you the desired feeling for a slower tempo without the necessity of slackening the pace (Weber's Polacca Brillante).

An Old Subscriber.—(1) Sterndale Bennett's Rondeau for pianoforte 'Pas triste, pas gai' (Op. 34), quite justifies its title in regard to its charm and form. (2) Allegretto pensiero means rather quickly and in a pensive manner.

W. M. D. la T.—We regret that we cannot trace the author of the words of Knyvett's glee 'The Bells of St. Michael's Tower.' Perhaps some of our readers can throw light upon their origin.

G.—Stainer's 'Crucifixion' is not scored for orchestra, as the composer intended it should be sung with organ accompaniment only.

Amateur.—Bach, Beethoven, Schubert, Schumann, and Brahms are the only great composers who did not visit England.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO & CO., Limited.

ADAMS, THOMAS—"The Lord Omnipotent reigneth." Anthem. For Easter. (No. 731. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

BENNETT, WILLIAM STERNDALE, and OTTO GOLDSCHMIDT—Three Hymns by Bishop Heber and Sarah F. Adams. 1. "God, who madest earth and heaven." 2. "Nearer, my God, to Thee." 3. "Holy, holy, holy! Lord God Almighty." From the Chorale Book for England. 3d.

BREWER, A. HERBERT—(in E flat). Te Deum laudamus. (No. 588. Novello's Parish Choir Book). 4d.

—— "Hark! jolly shepherds." Part-Song. For A.T.B.B. (No. 355. The Orpheus.) 3d.

BUCK, Rev. W. H. M.—"Soldiers of the Captain." Hymn. Revised edition. 2d.

BURT, HARRY JOHN—"The Yeoman's March." For the Pianoforte. 2s.

CARSE, A. von AHN—"The Lay of the Brown Rosary." A Dramatic Cantata in Four Scenes. For Soli, Chorus, Orchestra, and Recitation. The words adapted from the poem of Elizabeth Barrett Browning. 2s. 6d.

DENTON, RICHARD—"God save the King." A National Anthem. The words written by Thomas Jenner. 2d.

EIGHT HYMNS WITH TUNES. Suitable for use at Services in Celebration of the Coronation of His Majesty King Edward VII. 1½d. Words only, 3s. per 100. For Contents, see page 206.

FENWICK, F. B.—Hymn of Empire. 1d.

FIELD, J.—Nocturne, in A. Arranged for the Organ by Jessie D. McLetchie. 2s.

FOSTER, MYLES B.—"Now know I that the Lord." An Anthem. For the King's Coronation. (No. 718. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 4d.

GOODHART, ARTHUR M.—"The Spanish Armada." A Ballad by John O'Keefe. Set to music for Chorus and Orchestra. 6d.

GOUNOD, CH.—"Domine Salvum fac." From the Communion Service ("Messe Solennelle"). (No. 594. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 1½d.

—— "Domine Salvum fac." From the "Messe Solennelle." (No. 34. "Cantiones Sacræ.") 2d.

GROOCOCK, EDWARD W.—(in G). Benedicite, omnia Opera. 3d.

HALL, Rev. E. VINE—"The King shall rejoice." Coronation Anthem. (No. 733. Novello's Octavo Anthems). 4d.

HAMILTON, LORD FREDERIC—(in B flat). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. (No. 591. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 4d.

HARRIS, CUTHBERT—"Alleluia! the Lord liveth." Easter Anthem. (No. 729. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

—— "The King shall rejoice." Coronation Anthem. (No. 734. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 4d.

HATTERSLEY, F. KILVINGTON—(in E flat). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. (No. 592. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 4d.

HOLLINS, ALFRED—"O death, where is thy sting?" Easter Anthem. (No. 730. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 4d.

HOLLOWAY, FRANK—"Lord, keep us safe this night." Vesper Hymn. 1d.

KING, WILLIAM—(in A). The Litany. Edited by John B. Lott. (No. 583. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 3d.

LLOYD, C. H.—(in A). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. (No. 593. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 4d.

MACPHERSON, CHARLES—The music for an Order for Special Services, authorized by the Most Reverend The Archbishop of Capetown, for use in his Diocese and, with the consent of his Suffragans, throughout the Province of South Africa on the day of the Coronation of His Majesty King Edward VII. 6d. Words, with Special Prayers, &c., 10s. per 100.

MENDELSSOHN-BARTHOLDY, F.—"Royal Danaë." Chorus (T.T.B.B.), from "Antigone." 4d.

MOONIE, J. A.—"Killiecrankie" ("The Burial March of Dundee"). A Ballad. For Tenor Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra. 1st Violin, 1s. 6d.; 2nd Violin, 1s. 6d.; Viola, 1s. 6d.; Violoncello, 1s. 6d.; Basso, 1s.

MOSELEY, CAROLINE CARR—"Gently touch the warbling lyre." Part-Song for A. (or T.) T.B.B. 2d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

NEEDHAM, ALICIA ADÉLAÏDE—"The British King." Song. The words written by Harold Begbie. No. 2, in G. For Mezzo-Soprano. 2s.

O'CONNOR, L. M.—"St. Luke's Summer." Song. For Soprano or Tenor. 2s.

OUSELEY, Sir F. A. GORE—"How goodly are Thy tents." ("Mor hyfryd yw dy Bebyll di"). (Rhif 47. Anthemau Novello.) 2c.

PRENDERGAST, WILLIAM—(in G). Te Deum laudamus. 4d.

SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW. No. 117. Contains the following Music in both Notations: "Daddy Longlegs' Warning." Song and Chorus. By J. Frederick Bridge. 1½d.

SCHOOL SONGS.—Edited by W. G. McNaught. Published in two forms. A. Voice Parts in Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, 8vo size; B. Voice Parts only in Tonic Sol-fa Notation.

		A.	B.
No. 665.	Faint not, fear not, God is near thee. Two-part Song ... ... Henry Smart	3d.	—
,, 676.	Children's Coronation Song ("Come, raise we now our voices") ... G. W. Torrance	1½d.	1d.

SELBY, B. LUARD—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. Gregorian Tones. (No. 587. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 3d.

SMITH, DAVID STANLEY—"Now dawning glows the day of days." Anthem. For Easter. (No. 709. The Musical Times.) 1½d.

SWINBANK, JONATHAN—The Lord's Prayer. Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa. On Card. 1½d.

—— Vesper Hymn. Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa. On Card. 1d.

TONIC SOL-FA SERIES. Edited by W. G. McNaught:—

No. 1245. The Miserere Chorus (Il Trovatore) Giuseppe Verdi 2d.
,, 1246. Unto the Paschal Victim bring. Anthem for Easter ... ... John E. West 1½d.

BRIDGE, FREDERICK—"The Spider and the Fly." A Cantata for Junior Schools and Classes. 6d.

—— "The forging of the Anchor." Dramatic Scene. For Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra. 1s.

COWEN, FREDERIC H.—"Ode to the Passions." Set to music for Chorus and Orchestra. 1s.

EIGHT HYMNS WITH TUNES. Suitable for use at Services in Celebration of the Coronation of His Majesty King Edward VII. 1½d.

MOONIE, J. A.—"Killiecrankie" (The Burial March of Dundee). A Ballad. For Tenor Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra. 8d.

OUSELEY, Sir F. A. GORE—"How goodly are Thy tents." ("Mor hyfryd yw dy Bebyll di"). (Rhif 47. Anthemau Novello.) 1c.

WAREING, HERBERT W.—Coronation March. For the Pianoforte. 2s.

—— Ditto. For the Organ. (No. 297. Original Compositions for the Organ.) 1s. 6d.

WOOD, HENRY J.—"And suddenly there came." Anthem. For Whitsuntide. For Bass Solo and Chorus. (No. 732. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

WRIGHT, Rev. F. W., and J. CLARE BILLING—Two Hymn Tunes. 1d.

REDUCED PRICE.

CRONK, CUTHBERT H.—The Works of Anton Rubinstein. A Study. 2d.

HANDEL.—"The King shall rejoice." 6d.

MR. GORDON HELLER (Baritone)
A.R.C.M., Solo Singing and Teaching Singing.
For Concerts, &c. Address, 1, Craven Mansion, Lancaster Gate, W.

MISS
BEATRICE PALLISTER
(SOPRANO. Pupil of Henry Blower, Esq.).
Terms, Broxholme Lane, Doncaster.

MISS ADELAIDE LAMBE
(CONTRALTO). Principal, Peterboro' Triennial Festival, Queen's Hall, and Crystal Palace Concerts, &c.
Please note change of address: Holmwood, Roxborough Park, Harrow.

CONTENTS.

	Page
Handel's Coronation Anthems (with Facsimile)	153
A Visit to Ely Cathedral (Illustrated)	155
Burney as a Gossip (with Special Portrait)	161
Occasional Notes	163
'Acis and Galatea' on the Stage	166
Church and Organ Music (with Portraits)	168
Reviews	171
Obituary	174
Mrs. Newmarch on Russian Opera	174
London Concerts	175
Choral and Orchestral Societies	176
Music in America	185
,, Vienna	185
,, Belfast	186
,, Birmingham	186
,, Bristol	187
,, Dublin	187
,, East Anglia	188
,, Edinburgh	188
,, Glasgow	189
,, Gloucester and District	190
,, Liverpool and District	190
,, Manchester	191
,, Northumberland and Durham	191
,, Nottingham and District	191
,, Sheffield and District	192
,, Yorkshire	192
Correspondence	193
Foreign Notes	193
Brief Summary of Country and Colonial News	195
Answers to Correspondents	197
Music published during the last Month	197
Anthem for Easter—'Now dawning glows the day of days.'—David Stanley Smith	176
Coronation Hymn.—'O Mightiest of the mighty.—Edward Elgar.—(Special Supplement).

THREE Extra Supplements are given with the present number:—

1. Facsimile of a page of Handel's autograph score of 'The King shall rejoice' (Coronation Anthem), reproduced by the gracious permission of His Majesty the King.
2. A Portrait of Dr. Burney. By Sir Joshua Reynolds, engraved by Bartolozzi.
3. 'O Mightiest of the mighty.' Coronation Hymn. Composed by Edward Elgar.

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	3	0
Three Lines	0	3	4
For every additional Line	0	0	10
Half a Column	2	0	0
A Column	4	0	0
A Page	7	10	0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.
A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To ensure insertion in proper position Advertisements for the next issue should reach the Office NOT LATER THAN THE TWENTIETH of this Month.

MR. OTTO DENE
(TENOR).
For Oratorios, Ballads, &c.
Address, Ullswater Lodge, West Norwood, S.E.

MR. T. C. FAIRBAIRN, Tenor Moody-Manners Opera. Maxton House, Park Street, Grimsby.

MR. W. DEVER, Principal Baritone Moody-Manners Opera. Sea View, Booterstown, Dublin.

MR. CHARLES MAGRATH, A.R.C.M., Primo-Basso Moody-Manners Opera. 65, Barcombe Av., Streath'm Hill.

MISS NELLIE SUTCLIFFE, L.R.A.M., Pianist, will play at Concerts, At Homes, &c., for expense fees. Address, 30, Wilson Street, Clapham Junction.

TWO or THREE LEADING BOYS (Trebles) WANTED, for St. Clement Danes, Strand. Must be fair readers. Write, stating age and salary expected. Mr. F. J. Marchment, Wingfield, Hamlet Road, Upper Norwood, S.E.

ALL SAINTS', Norwood. — ALTO and BASS REQUIRED. £15 per annum each. Apply, letter only, W. W. Hedgcock, 24, Central Hill, Norwood, S.E.

TENOR WANTED, good reader, for a Hammersmith Church. £12 or £15, according to ability; also a BASS. Write to Phillips, 21, Graham Street, Eaton Square, S.W.

TENOR and BASS WANTED, for Unity Church, Newnham Road, Wood Green. Salaries, £10 and £8 respectively. VACANCIES also for Voluntary TENORS and BASSES and for Lady TREBLES and ALTOS. Write to F. C. Tilney, Unaleigh, Winchmore Hill, N.

BASS WANTED, St. Mary's, Vincent Square, Westminster. £10. Two Sunday services, and Friday rehearsal. Apply to C. C. Byers, 121, Brigstock Road, Thornton Heath.

VOICES TRAINED (Altos included) and Sight-Singing and the PIANOFORTE TAUGHT by Mr. W. A. FROST (Vicar-Choral of St. Paul's Cathedral), at 16, Amwell Street, Myddelton Square, E.C. Many pupils of Mr. Frost have obtained Cathedral and other Choir Appointments. Latest successes at Christ Church, Marylebone, and Old St. Pancras.

Now ready. Price 1s. each. Post-free.

THE TENOR VOICE AND ITS TRAINING. By E. Davidson Palmer, Mus. Bac., Oxon. Revealing the Secret of Voice-Production. THE BOY'S VOICE AT THE BREAKING PERIOD. By E. Davidson Palmer, Mus. Bac., Oxon. Showing how Nature develops her best Voices. May be obtained from the Author, 28, Digby Road, Finsbury Park, N.; or, from Joseph Williams, Ltd., 32, Great Portland Street, W.

WANTED, an ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER for the Parish Church of St. Mary's, Woolwich (vacant by death of the Organist, who held it for about 35 years). Salary, £40 to £60; or the two offices might be separated. Apply, with copies of testimonials, to Churchwardens, St. Mary's, the Rectory, Woolwich, by March 10.

ALL SAINTS' CHURCH, Colchester.—ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED. £40 to £50, according to qualifications. Apply, Rector.

MR. WM. BLAKELEY, Mus. Bac., A.R.C.O., having resigned his Appointment in Glasgow, is open for an ENGAGEMENT as ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER. Last two appointments, over twenty years, Edinburgh and Glasgow. Langside, Glasgow.

EVERY ORGANIST should send for DINHAM, BLYTH & CO.'S Specimens and Price List (free) for Lithographing Anthems, Kyries, Hymn Tunes, &c., from twenty-four Copies and upwards. 27, Fenchurch Street, London. Established 1872.

ENGAGEMENT REQUIRED, as COMPANION and ACCOMPANIST to Professional Lady (daily or resident). Good sight-reader; experienced. References given. W. H., 62, Dover Road, Northfleet, Kent.

WANTED, High-class PIANO TUNER. A permanency for a good man. Knowledge of American Organs necessary. Apply, Dale, Forty and Co., High Street, Cardiff.

TUNER (thoroughly efficient) WANTED, by a Firm in the North. Apply, with photo and references, to J. P. M., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNER requires ENGAGEMENT — permanent preferred, and Country. B. D., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

YOUNG TUNER and REPAIRER (good), with general knowledge of trade, desires SITUATION with high-class firm. B.C.O., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNER wants an APPOINTMENT. Considerable experience out-door work. Good knowledge of Am. Organs, &c. F. S., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

YOUNG LADY (aged 18) requires SITUATION, in first-class Music Shop. Good pianist and sight reader. Apply, H., 4, Queen Street, Oxford.

SALESMAN or BRANCH MANAGER requires BERTH. 15 years' thorough experience Pianoforte and Music Warehouse. First-class testimonials. Age 31. Music, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, London, W.

ŠEVČÍK VIOLIN METHOD.
Upon which MM. Kubelik and Kocián have been trained.
PROFESSOR HERMAN KOENIG
(Of Prague, Pupil of Herr Ševčík)
AND
MISS ELOISE DAGMAR (Pianist and Vocalist),
Will give Private and Class LESSONS in VIOLIN and PIANOFORTE at the Brinsmead Rooms, Wigmore Street, W. (by kind permission of Messrs. Brinsmead).
For terms, &c., apply to Professor H. Koenig, 5, Chalcot Crescent, Regent's Park, N.W.

FOR SALE.—Two-manual ORGAN, by Walker and Sons, London, 1876. At present in the Church of St. George Martyr, Oxford. Great organ, 6 stops (all throughout); swell, 4 stops; pedal, 1 stop; four couplers. Good condition. For further particulars, apply to Messrs. C. Taphouse and Sons, 3, Magdalen Street, Oxford.

ORGAN for SALE.—Three manuals and pedals. 17 stops. Hydraulic engine. £175. 343, Coldharbour Lane (close to Brixton Station).

ORGAN. One manual, 6 stops, straight pedals. CCC. Decorated front. Price, £25. Apply, Wren, 25, Albert Road, Ilford, E.

FOR SALE, One-Manual CHAMBER ORGAN. 7 stops and pedals and two composition pedals. Foot blower. Polished mahogany case and gilt front pipes. In thorough good order. Small church or private house. A. F. B., 196, Camden Road, London, N.W.

ORGAN for SALE. Two manuals, pedals, and bourdons. 12 stops. Compass, CC to G. B. Williams, 2, St. Jude's Villas, Meeting House Lane, Peckham, S.E.

PEDALLIER (Pleyel) for SALE, in thoroughly good repair. £7 7s. A. E. C., 106, Wellesley Road, Croydon.

FINE ITALIAN VIOLONCELLO (Full size) for SALE. By J. Gagliano, with certified guarantee. Yellow amber oil varnish; in perfect condition. A most remarkable instrument by this maker. Exquisite tone; suit first-class Artist. Apply, I. J., care of J. Foot and Son, 171, New Bond Street.

FINE OLD VIOLIN by Hornsteiner. Property of late Professor Henry Gibson. Cash £10, worth more. Apply, S. Rowe, 18, Wigmore Street.

VIOLIN, by Antonio Gragnani, for SALE. In perfect preservation, with certified guarantee. A magnificent instrument; suitable for a first-class Soloist. Also, fine Capper, Pressenda, Sebastian Klotz, and others. Part of a private collection. Apply, I. J., care of J. Foot and Son, 171, New Bond St.

TO COMPOSERS.

MARRIOTT AND WILLIAMS,
MUSIC PUBLISHERS,
92, Great Portland Street, London, W.,
Undertake the Revising, Engraving, and Publishing of Authors' Musical Works in the very Best Style and at the lowest charges.
The Finest Paper used and the Best Workmanship in the trade.
Estimates free on receipt of MSS. Composers' works included in list without extra charge.
Private Rooms for Practice and Teaching.
Lessons by competent Professors given in every branch of Music, Vocal and Instrumental.

MUSIC plainly and neatly COPIED, Fourpence per page; Transposed, Fivepence per page, inclusive of paper. Address, Newton Robinson, 16, Pierces Square, Wrexham, N. Wales.

AMATEUR COMPOSERS can have copies of their Compositions lithographed, for private circulation or otherwise, from 24 copies and upwards. Mention specimen required (free). Dinham, Blyth and Co., 27, Fenchurch Street, London. Established 1872.

PRIZES are given by the
"MUSIC AND POETRY, ART AND LANGUAGES SOCIETY"
For Songs, Hymns, Poems, Drawings, German and French Translations, &c.
A thorough course in Harmony begins with the March number, giving Awards to Students for best Exercises.
Send for Specimen Copy of the New Monthly to W. H. Winter, the Secretary, 164, Marylebone Road, London, N.W.

MACFARREN'S OPERA, "ROBIN HOOD." Second-hand Copy WANTED. State price. Sherwood, Care of J. Curwen and Sons, Ltd., 24, Berners Street, W.

SIR HERBERT OAKELEY'S ANTHEM, recently published, "Though there be darkness," &c. (Hope, Fear, and Confidence), will be, for the first time sung in London, at St. Saviour's, Southwark, on Sunday evening, the 2nd inst.

HE IS RISEN. ALLELUIA! New Easter Anthem. By Thos. Smith. Composer of "O worship the Lord," 36th Ed.; "Thou crownest the year," 41st Ed., &c. 3d. To be had only from the Composer, Music Warehouse, Bury-St.-Edmunds.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

Published on the 1st of every Month. Price 1½d. Annual Subscription, including Postage, 2s.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW for MARCH contains:—

General Notes.
The Harmonization of Melodies in Four Vocal Parts. By Cuthbert Harris—(continued).
Music and Singing: Their place in Education.
Theory Questions.
School Sight-Singing Reader—Staff Notation.
A German Hymn (From "The Day School Hymn Book, with Tunes").
School Music in the United States.
Welsh Eisteddfod at Exeter Hall.
Answers to Theory Questions.
Penrith Board School Concert.
School Concerts.
Miscellaneous Items.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

The MARCH number contains the following music:—

"How beautiful are the feet." Air (Soprano) from "The Messiah" (Transposed Edition). By Handel.
Dance. Composed by Chas. Braun.
The Junior School Music Course.
Also, Extra Supplement, containing "A Shepherd Lullaby." For S.S.A. (Accompaniment ad lib.). By T. D. Edwards. (No. 571 of Novello's School Songs. Price 1½d.)

The Music and Exercises can always be obtained separately. Price 1½d.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Just Published.

THE KING SHALL REJOICE

SHORT CORONATION ANTHEM

Written especially for the Gloucester Diocesan Choral Union (June, 1902).

AD LIB. PARTS FOR TWO CORNETS, TWO TROMBONES, AND TYMPANI

BY

C. LEE WILLIAMS.

Price Twopence.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Just Published.

THE REPROACHES

SET TO MUSIC IN THE KEY OF E FLAT BY THE

Rev. J. B. DYKES.

Price Threepence.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

NEW WORKS BY

ALBERT HAM, Mus. Doc., Dublin.

In the Press.

A MANUAL

ON

THE BOY'S VOICE AND ITS CULTURE.

Price One Shilling.

In the Press.

AN ANTHEM

COMPOSED FOR THE KING'S CORONATION

LET THE PEOPLE PRAISE THEE, LORD.

Dedicated to HIS EXCELLENCY THE EARL OF MINTO, G.C.M.G., Governor-General of Canada.

Price Fourpence.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

NOVELLO'S

ALBUMS FOR PIANOFORTE AND STRINGED INSTRUMENTS

(Two Violins, Viola, and Violoncello).

The Pieces in most of these Albums are so arranged that if any Part, or Combination of Parts, in addition to the First Violin and Pianoforte is used they will sound complete.

No. 1.

SUITE OF FOUR PIECES

By ARNOLD DOLMETSCH.

Price 2s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 2.

SUITE OF FIVE PIECES

By HENRY PURCELL.

Price 2s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 3.

THREE DANCES

From the Music to "Henry VIII."

By EDWARD GERMAN.

Price 5s. Separate String Parts, 1s. each.

No. 4.

GAVOTTE IN D

By RAMEAU.

Price 2s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 5.

SIX PIECES FROM THE WATER MUSIC

By G. F. HANDEL.

Price 3s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 6.

TWO BOURRÉES

By G. F. HANDEL.

Price 2s. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 7.

BENEDICTUS

By A. C. MACKENZIE.

Price 3s. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 8.

JUDEX FROM "MORS ET VITA"

By CHARLES GOUNOD.

Price 3s. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 9.

WEDDING MARCH

By MENDELSSOHN.

Price 2s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 10.

WAR MARCH ("Athalie")

By MENDELSSOHN.

Price 2s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each

No. 11.

CORNELIUS MARCH

By MENDELSSOHN.

Price 2s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 12.

FUNERAL MARCH

By MENDELSSOHN.

Price 2s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 13.

GAVOTTE ANCIENNE

By GEORGE ELVEY.

Price 2s. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

Nos. 14—17.

FOUR ENGLISH DANCES

By F. H. COWEN.

Price 2s. 6d. each. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

Nos. 18—21.

FOUR CHARACTERISTIC WALTZES

By S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR.

Price 2s. each. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 22.

ANDANTINO

From the Symphony "The Consecration of Sound."

By L. SPOHR.

Price 3s. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Yours most faithfully
Chas. Burney.

NEW EDITION. NOW READY.

The very successful Lent Cantata

PENITENCE PARDON AND PEACE

BY

J. H. MAUNDER.

The Musical Times, 1/1/99: "An admirable example of a commendable class of Church music. Consists of writing of that melodious and effective nature for which the composer is so widely famed."
Musical Opinion, 1/2/98: "A fine Church composition."
Musical News, 15/1/98: "We have no hesitation in cordially recommending it."
Musical Standard, 5/3/98: "Deserves considerable popularity."
Organist and Choirmaster, 15/2/98: "For the music we have nothing but praise."
Birmingham Post, 5/3/98: "The music is of a high artistic value."
Liverpool Courier, 2/8/98: "A work of great merit in every respect."
Manchester Courier, 9/3/98: "It will doubtless be used in many quires and places where they sing.'"
Newcastle Leader, 23/2/98: "A well-written work."
Western Morning News, 25/3/98: "A good composition. Striking and original."
Chester Chronicle, 16/4/98: "A beautiful work, very tuneful, and exceedingly effective."
Lichfield Mercury, 4/2/98: "Extremely effective, containing some really beautiful music."
Journal of the Incorporated Society of Musicians, 1/2/98: "A well written work. We can strongly recommend it."

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.
Paper boards, 2s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1s. Words, 2s. per 100.

 A Specimen Copy will be sent for six stamps to any Clergyman, Organist, or Choirmaster, on application to J. H. Maunder, Hill Top, Belmont Park, London, S.E.

Band Parts may be hired or purchased from Messrs. Goodwin and Tabb, 71, Great Queen Street, W.C.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

A GRAND EASTER ANTHEM.
(Or QUARTET, ad. lib.)

THE FIRST EASTER MORN

BY

JOSEPH H. ADAMS.

Old Notation and Tonic combined, price 3d.
The Orpheus Publishers, Moorgate Arcade, London, E.C.

"All that an Easter Anthem should be."—Church Times.
"An attractive and effective composition."—Musical Times.
"A most devotional composition."—Newcastle Chronicle.

CHRIST IS RISEN. Easter Anthem, composed By E. A. SYDENHAM.
Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

By the same Composer:
KING EDWARD. Processional Hymn. Price 1d.
London: Novello and Company, Limited.

A SPLENDID LITTLE ANTHEM FOR EASTER.

CHRIST SHALL GIVE THEE LIGHT

11th 1,000. Price 3d.

COMPOSED BY EDWYN A. CLARE.

Also the following favourite Anthems by the same Composer. Easy, attractive, and effective:—
Thanks be to God. 9th 1,000. Expressive and imitative ... 4d.
He is risen. 16th 1,000. Why seek ye. 13th 1,000 ... each 3d.
Hallelujah! Now is Christ risen. 10th 1,000 ... ... 3d.
Now is Christ risen. 10th 1,000. 3d. Benedicite in D. 4th 1,000 2d.
Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis in D. 13th 1,000 ... ... 4d.
(Sung at a Choral Festival in New S. Wales. A favourite Service.)
Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem. 25th 1,000 ... ... 3d.
(Quite easy, yet very attractive. Suitable for "Peace" Services.)
Lord reigneth. 7th 1,000. (Sol-fa, 2d.) ... ... 3d.
London: Novello and Company, Limited, 1, Berners Street, W.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS in A, by John Farquharson. Price 3d. Sample Copies, 116, Market Street, St. Andrew's.
London: Novello and Company, Limited.

An Archdeacon writes: "Your music is simply grand. You seem to have been endowed with an inspiration for Sacred Melody. Please send 40 'Blow up the Trumpet,' 40 'Now is Christ risen,' 40 'To Him be Glory,' 40 'No. 1 Coronation Anthem,' and 40 'No. 2 Coronation Anthem'; also, specimen copies of all your music excepting Christmas Anthems, which I have."

An Organist writes: "Send 36 'No. 1 Coronation Anthem,' and 33 'I am the Resurrection,' and 'Voluntary Book, No. 5,' as soon as ready. Your Anthems are the delight of Organist, Choir, and Congregation."

The Composer will send to Choirmasters (state what Church), and the Music Trade, Free Specimen Copies of his New and highly attractive Easter and Coronation Anthems, Anniversary Selection, &c. Address—Caleb Simper, "Kilbirnie," Barnstaple.

NEARLY 3,000,000 COPIES SOLD OF

CALEB SIMPER'S

FAMOUS ANTHEMS AND SERVICES, &c.

Besides Hundreds of Thousands of his other Music.

NEW EASTER AND CORONATION ANTHEMS.

*For now is Christ risen. New. 6th 1,000 ... ... 4d.
A very effective and extremely brilliant Anthem.
*I am the Resurrection and the Life. New. 9th 1,000 ... 3d.
New Century Easter Anthem, with lively Choruses and telling Bass Solos.
*No. 1. Coronation Anthem. "Grant the King a long life" ... 4d.
No. 2. Coronation Anthem. "Happy are the people" ... 3d.
*Coronation Anniversary Selection, No. 8 ... ... 2d.
*Blow up the Trumpet. 11th 1,000 ... ... 4d.
This Grand Easter Anthem is one of the finest of the Series.
*He liveth unto God. 10th 1,000 ... ... 3d.
*Thanks be to God. 13th 1,000. For Parish Choirs ... ... 4d.
*If ye then be risen. 7th 1,000 ... ... 4d.
*O let your songs be of Him. 12th 1,000 ... ... 3d.
*I am alive for evermore. 13th 1,000 ... ... 4d.
*To Him be Glory. 13th 1,000 ... ... 3d.
*Christ our Passover. 17th 1,000 ... ... 4d.
*This is the Lord's doing. 7th 1,000 ... ... 3d.
*King of Kings. Very popular. 49th 1,000 ... ... 4d.
O sing unto the Lord. 8th 1,000 ... ... 3d.
*I am He that liveth. Sung at Choral Festivals. 29th 1,000 4d.
*Awake thou that sleepest. 23rd 1,000 ... ... 3d.
Christ is risen. 15th Edition ... ... 4d.
The Lord is my strength. 16th 1,000 ... ... 3d.
If we believe that Jesus died. 20th 1,000 ... ... 3d.
Hallelujah! now is Christ risen. 25th 1,000 ... ... 3d.
Behold, there was a great earthquake. 21st 1,000 ... 3d.
Why seek ye? 29th Edition ... ... 3d.
He is risen. Exceedingly popular. 103rd Edition ... ... 3d.

VERY POPULAR VOLUNTARY BOOKS.

Each contains Seventeen Pieces on Two Staves.

Book I. (12th Edition); Book II. (8th Edition). Each 1s. 6d. net.
Book III. (6th Edition), 1s. 6d. Book IV. (5th Edition). Book V. New. 1s. 6d. Ready in a few days.

THE ROLLING SEASONS

FAVOURITE SACRED CANTATA

Contains attractive Solos, Duets, Trios, and Choruses.
13th 1,000. 1s. 6d. net. Sol-fa, 1s. net.
Occupies about 35 minutes in performance. Band Parts printed.
Sung at Numerous Choral Festivals.

FAMOUS CHURCH SERVICES.

Holy Communion Service in E flat. 20th 1,000 ... ... 4d.
Holy Communion Service in F. 16th Edition ... ... 6d.
*Holy Communion Service in G. 9th 1,000 ... ... 4d.
*New Communion Service in D. 2nd 1,000 ... ... 4d.
The Service in D and E flat may also be sung in Unison.
*New Thanksgiving Te Deum in D. 5th 1,000 ... ... 4d.
Famous Te Deum in F. 46th Edition ... ... 3d.
Celebrated Te Deum in G. 24th Edition ... ... 4d.
Popular Te Deum in E flat. 13th Edition ... ... 3d.
Seven very Popular Chant Te Deums ... ... 2d.
Nos. 1, 4, and 6—Quadruple. Others—Varied Chants.
Nos. 2 and 4—Kilbirnie Series, Chants and Kyries. Each 2d.
Favourite Benedicite in A flat (Sung Worcester Cathedral). 17th 1,000 2d.
*Benedicite in B flat (Shortened Form). 6th 1,000 ... ... 2d.
Popular Benedicities in E flat and F. 5th 1,000 ... each 2d.
New Benedicities, No. 5 and No. 6. 9th 1,000 ... ... each 2d.
Both highly recommended and extremely effective.
Jubilate in E flat. 7th Edition ... ... 3d.
Benedictus in F. 5th 1,000 ... ... 3d.
Kyries. 8 Settings, complete. 11th Edition ... ... 3d.
Famous Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F. 103rd Edition 4d.
Celebrated Magnificat and N. dim. in E flat. 38th Edition 4d.
Popular Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in G. 14th Edition 4d.
Recent Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in B flat. 4th 1,000 4d.
*Favourite Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in D 23rd Edition 4d.
*Unison Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, No. 6. 14th Edition 4d.
*From the "Nativity." Magnificat and N. dim. in C. 7th 1,000 4d.
*New Evening Service, No. 8. 4th Edition ... ... 4d.

*Those marked * are also done in Sol-fa.*

London: Weekes and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.
Chicago, U.S.A.: Clayton F. Summy Co., 220, Wabash Avenue.

MUSIC FOR LENT.

THE STORY OF THE CROSS

FOR VOICES AND ORGAN

FOUR SETTINGS

With Short Interludes, giving opportunity for Meditation

THE WORDS BY

THE REV. E. MONRO

SET TO MUSIC BY

J. STAINER

MYLES B. FOSTER

ARTHUR SOMERVELL

AND

J. VARLEY ROBERTS.

Price Threepence each setting. Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.
Words only, price 1s. 6d. per 100.
Large Type Edition, 2s. 6d. per 100.

HANES Y GROES

CYFEITHIEDIG GAN

CANON WILLIAMS (CAERFYRDDIN)

Y GERDDORIAETH GAN

SYR JOHN STAINER.

Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.
Welsh words only, 1s. 6d. per 100.
Large Type Edition, 2s. 6d. per 100.

THE CRUCIFIXION

A MEDITATION

ON THE

Sacred Passion of the Holy Redeemer

THE WORDS SELECTED AND WRITTEN BY THE

REV. W. J. SPARROW-SIMPSON, M.A.

SET TO MUSIC BY

J. STAINER.

Vocal Score, paper cover, 1s. 6d.; paper boards, 2s.
Tonic Sol-fa, Ninepence.
Words only, with Hymn Tunes, 2d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.
Words, complete, 10s. per 100; Words of Hymns, 5s. per 100.

THE LAST NIGHT AT BETHANY

A SHORT CHURCH CANTATA

THE WORDS WRITTEN AND COMPILED BY

JOSEPH BENNETT

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

C. LEE WILLIAMS.

Price 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d.
Tonic Sol-fa, One Shilling.
String Parts, 8s. 6d.; Wind Parts, 15s. 6d.; Full Score, MS.
Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

SAVIOUR OF THE WORLD

A SACRED CANTATA

THE WORDS WRITTEN AND ARRANGED FROM HOLY SCRIPTURE BY

FREDERIC E. WEATHERLY, M.A.

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

ARTHUR E. DYER,

Mus. Doc., Oxon.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

THE CROSS OF CHRIST

CANTATA FOR LENT AND PASSION-TIDE

WORDS SELECTED FROM THE HOLY SCRIPTURES, INTERSPERSED WITH APPROPRIATE HYMNS, BY

W. MAURICE ADAMS

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

THOMAS ADAMS

(Organist and Director of the Music at St. Alban's, Holborn).

Price One Shilling.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, price Sixpence.
Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

Also, separately from the above,

NEARER, MY GOD, TO THEE

Anthem for Soprano Solo and Chorus.
Price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.

GETHSEMANE

A CHURCH CANTATA

THE WORDS WRITTEN AND COMPILED BY

JOSEPH BENNETT

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

C. LEE WILLIAMS.

Price Two Shillings.
Paper boards, Two Shillings and Sixpence.
Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.
String Parts, 10s. 6d. Wind Parts and Full Score, MS.

IS IT NOTHING TO YOU

AN EASY CANTATA

For use during the Season of Lent, and on Good Friday, specially adapted for Country Choirs

BY THE

REV. E. V. HALL, M.A.

Price Eightpence. Tonic Sol-fa, Threepence.
Words, with Music to the Hymns, price Twopence.

PASSION MUSIC

FROM THE ORATORIO "ST. PETER"

BY

SIR JULIUS BENEDICT.

Vocal Score, One Shilling and Sixpence.

FOR GOOD FRIDAY.

PARAPHRASE

OF THE

ANIMA CHRISTI

"SOUL OF JESU, MAKE ME HOLY"

SET TO MUSIC BY

W. H. STOCKS.

Price Three-Halfpence.

LEAD, KINDLY LIGHT

HYMN BY

JOHN HENRY NEWMAN

THE TUNE COMPOSED BY

C. H. PURDAY.

Price One Penny.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

NOVELLO'S ANTHEMS FOR LENT.

*All ye who weep	Ch. Gounod	3d.
And Jacob was left alone	J. Stainer	6d.
*Art thou weary	C. H. Lloyd	6d.
*As pants the hart	Spohr	1½d.
Behold two blind men	J. Stainer	3d.
Be merciful unto me	H. Purcell	6d.
Be merciful unto me	E. A. Sydenham	3d.
Be not Thou far from me, O God	F. W. Hird	1½d.
Blessed are they that mourn	A. W. Batson	3d.
Blessed Jesu, Fount of Mercy	Anton Dvorák	6d.
*Bow down Thine ear	Attwood	1½d.
*Bow down Thine ear, O Lord	W. Beale	1½d.
*Bow Thine ear, O Lord	W. Byrd	3d.
*By Babylon's wave	Ch. Gounod	6d.
By the waters of Babylon	W. Boyce	4d.
By the waters of Babylon	H. Clarke	4d.
*By the waters of Babylon	S. Coleridge-Taylor	3d.
Call to remembrance	J. Battishill	6d.
*Call to remembrance	R. Farrant	1½d.
*Cast thy burden upon the Lord	Mendelssohn	1½d.
*Come, and let us return (Two-part Anthem)	G. A. Macfarren	2d.
*Come, and let us return	J. Goss	3d.
*Come, and let us return	W. Jackson	3d.
Come, let us worship	Palestrina	1½d.
*Come now, and let us reason together	R. Briant	1½d.
Come now, let us reason together	H. W. Wareing	4d.
*Come unto Him	Ch. Gounod	2d.
Come unto Me	J. S. Bach	3d.
Come unto Me	H. R. Couldrey	3d.
Come unto Me	G. J. Elvey	3d.
Come unto Me	H. Hiles	4d.
Come unto Me	M. Kingston	1½d.
Come unto Me	J. S. Smith	1½d.
*Comfort, O Lord	W. Crotch	1½d.
Comfort the soul of Thy servant (A.T.T.B.)	J. E. West	4d.
Create in me a clean heart	Percy J. Fry	3d.
Daughters of Jerusalem	G. J. Elvey	1½d.
Daughters of Jerusalem	H. J. King	3d.
*Enter not into judgment	T. Attwood	1½d.
Flee from evil	W. J. Clarke	3d.
For our offences	Mendelssohn	1½d.
From the deep	Spohr	6d.
Give ear, O Lord	C. Oberthür	1½d.
*Give ear, O Lord	T. M. Pattison	2d.
Give ear, O Shepherd of Israel	A. Whiting	3d.
Give ear unto my prayer	J. Arcadelt	1½d.
God's Peace is peace eternal	Grieg	3d.
*God so loved the world	J. Goss	1½d.
*God so loved the world	M. Kingston	1½d.
*God so loved the world	J. V. Roberts	3d.
*God so loved the world	J. Stainer	1½d.
Grant, we beseech Thee	J. Booth	1½d.
Grant, we beseech Thee	M. Elvey	2d.
Grant, we beseech Thee	J. V. Roberts	3d.
Have mercy upon me, O God	J. Goss	4d.
Have mercy upon me	J. Barnby	3d.
Have mercy upon me	K. J. Pye	3d.
Have mercy upon me	J. Shaw	3d.
Have mercy upon me	J. White	1½d.
*Hear me when I call	King Hall	1½d.
Hear me when I call (A.T.T.B.)	T. Distin	2d.
*Hear my prayer	J. Kent	3d.
*Hear my prayer	Mendelssohn	4d.
Hear my prayer	C. Stroud	4d.
Hear my prayer	Winter	1½d.
Hear, O Lord	J. Goss	2d.
Hear, O Thou Shepherd	J. Clarke-Whitfeld	4d.
Hear, O Thou Shepherd	T. A. Walmisley	4d.
*Hear the voice and prayer	J. L. Hopkins	1½d.
Hear us, O Saviour	M. Hauptmann	1½d.
He in tears that soweth	F. Hiller	1½d.
Hide not Thy Face	K. J. Pye	2d.
How long wilt Thou	Oliver King	2d.
*Hymn of Peace	W. H. Callcott	1½d.
*I came not to call the righteous	C. Vincent	3d.
If any man sin	H. Hiles	1½d.
*Incline Thine ear	Himmel	1½d.
In Thee, O Lord	S. Coleridge-Taylor	3d.
*In Thee, O Lord	B. Tours	3d.
In Thee, O Lord	J. Waldon	3d.
*Is it nothing to you? (S.A.T.B.)	M. B. Foster	3d.
*Is it nothing to you? (for S.A.)	M. B. Foster	3d.
I will arise	C. Wood	1½d.
I will cry unto God	C. Steggall	3d.
*I will look unto the Lord (Two-part Anthem)	G. A. Macfarren	2d.
*I wrestle and pray	J. C. Bach	4d.
Jesus of Nazareth (Turbarum voces)	W. Byrd	4d.
*Jesu, Blessed Word of God	Ch. Gounod	1½d.
Jesu, Lord of life and glory	G. A. Naumann	1½d.
Jesu, Saviour, I am Thine	B. Steane	1½d.
*Jesu, Word of God Gounod, Hoyte, Mozart, and White each		1½d.
Judge me, O God	Mendelssohn	4d.
Judge me, O God	F. A. G. Ouseley	1½d.
Lead, kindly Light	R. Dunstan	3d.
Lead, kindly Light	C. L. Naylor	4d.
*Lead, kindly Light	Pughe-Evans	3d.
*Lead, kindly Light	J. Stainer	4d.
*Lead me, Lord	S. S. Wesley	1½d.
Let my complaint (A.A.T.T.B.B.)	E. H. Thorne	3d.
Let the words of my mouth	J. Barnby	1½d.
Let the words of my mouth	H. Blair	1½d.
Let the words of my mouth	A. D. Culley	3d.
Let us come boldly	C. H. Lloyd	1½d.
Like as the hart	T. Adams	3d.
*Like as the hart	V. Novello	1½d.
*Lord, for Thy tender mercies' sake	R. Farrant	1½d.
Lord, for Thy tender mercies' sake	G. R. Vicars	1½d.
Lord, how are they increased	Kent	2d.
Lord, how long wilt Thou forget me	Mendelssohn	1½d.
Lord, I call upon Thee Ouseley, West, and Culley	each	1½d.
Lord, on our offences	Mendelssohn	1½d.
Lord, teach us to number our days (A.A.T.T.B.B.)	C. H. Lloyd	3d.
Lord, Thou hast searched	A. Whiting	3d.
Make me a clean heart	J. Barnby	3d.
Make me a clean heart	A. W. Batson	3d.
Mine eyes look unto Thee, O Lord God	H. Baker	3d.
My God, I love Thee	G. J. Bennett	3d.
My God, look upon me	J. L. Hopkins	3d.
*My God, look upon me	J. Reynolds	1½d.
My soul is weary	J. C. Beckwith	4d.
*O bountiful Jesu	J. Stainer	1½d.
O come near to the Cross	Ch. Gounod	8d.
O day of penitence	Ch. Gounod	6d.
O God, Thou hast cast us out	H. Purcell	4d.
O God, Whose nature	A. Gray	1½d.
O have mercy	H. Leslie	1½d.
O Jesu! Victim blest	J. B. Powell	3d.
*O Lamb of God	J. Barnby	3d.
O Lamb of God	G. E. Lake	1½d.
*O Lord, correct me	J. Coward	1½d.
O Lord, give ear	W. H. Cummings	2d.
O Lord, God of my salvation (T.T.B.B.)	E. Ford	4d.
O Lord God, Thou strength	J. Goss	1½d.
O Lord, look down	J. Battishill	3d.
*O Lord my God	C. Malan	1½d.
*O Lord my God	S. S. Wesley	1½d.
O Lord, rebuke me not	H. Lahee	1½d.
O most merciful	J. W. Elliott	1½d.
O saving Victim	W. A. C. Cruickshank	3d.
O saving Victim	Ch. Gounod	4d.
*O saving Victim	F. Kœnig	1½d.
O saving Victim	Rossini	3d.
O saving Victim	J. Stainer	2d.
O saving Victim	B. Tours	1½d.
*O Saviour of the world	J. Goss	1½d.
O Saviour of the world (A.T.T.B.)	J. V. Roberts	2d.
Out of the deep	F. E. Gladstone	3d.
Out of the deep	G. C. Martin	6d.
Out of the deep	Mozart	1½d.
Out of the deep	J. Naylor	4d.
Out of the deep	H. Walford Davies	4d.
*O ye that love the Lord	S. Coleridge-Taylor	1½d.
O ye that love the Lord	F. A. W. Docker	4d.
O ye that love the Lord	J. W. Elliott	1½d.
O ye that love the Lord	G. J. Elvey	4d.
O ye that love the Lord	H. W. Wareing	3d.
Ponder my words, O Lord	A. D. Culley	1½d.
*Remember not, Lord	H. Purcell	1½d.
*Remember now thy Creator	C. Steggall	4d.
Remember, O Lord	T. A. Walmisley	4d.
*Rend your heart	J. B. Calkin	1½d.
Rend your heart	J. Clippingdale	3d.
Rend your heart (Turn ye even to Me)	A. E. Godfrey	4d.
Save me, O God	C. S. Jekyll	1½d.
*Seek ye the Lord	C. Bradley	1½d.
Seek ye the Lord	H. Kinsey	3d.
*Seek ye the Lord	J. V. Roberts	3d.
Show me Thy ways	J. V. Roberts	3d.
Spare us, Lord, most holy	E. A. Sydenham	1½d.
*Teach me, O Lord	T. Attwood	1½d.
*Teach me, O Lord	B. Rogers	1½d.
Teach me Thy way	W. H. Gladstone	1½d.
Teach me Thy way, O Lord	Spohr	1½d.
*The Lord is nigh	W. H. Cummings	1½d.
*The path of the just	J. V. Roberts	1½d.
*There is a green hill far away	Ch. Gounod	4d.
*There is a green hill far away	Lord H. Somerset	1½d.
*The Reproaches (from the "Redemption")	Ch. Gounod	3d.
The Reproaches	J. B. Dykes	3d.
*The sacrifice of God	H. W. Wareing	1½d.
The sacrifices of God	H. Blair	1½d.
*The Story of the Cross Stainer, Somervell, Foster, and Roberts	each	3d.
Think, good Jesu	Mozart	6d.
Think not that they are blest alone	F. Brandeis	2d.
*Through peace to light	J. H. Roberts	3d.
Thus saith the Lord	G. M. Garrett	6d.
Try me, O God (A.T.T.B.)	A. D. Culley	2d.
Try me, O God	C. Wood	1½d.
Turbarum voces (Jesus of Nazareth)	W. Byrd	4d.
Turn Thee again, O Lord	T. Attwood	1½d.
*Turn Thy face from my sins	T. Attwood	1½d.
Turn Thy face from my sins	C. Steggall	4d.
*Turn Thy face from my sins	A. Sullivan	1½d.
Turn ye even to Me (Rend your heart)	A. E. Godfrey	4d.
Unto Thee have I cried	G. J. Elvey	3d.
Wash me throughly	S. S. Wesley	3d.
Watch ye and pray	G. R. Vicars	2d.
*Weary of earth	Ferris Tozer	1½d.
Whom the Lord loveth	C. Macpherson	3d.
Why art thou so vexed	C. Macpherson	2d.
Word of God Incarnate	Ch. Gounod	3d.
Ye who from His ways have turned	Mendelssohn	3d.

*Anthems marked thus * to be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d., 1½d., and 2d. each.*

MUSIC FOR LENT.

*THE PASSION OF OUR LORD. (According to St. Matthew.) J. S. Bach. Octavo, paper cover, 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.

*THE PASSION OF OUR LORD. (According to St. Matthew.) J. S. Bach. Abridged, as used at St. Paul's Cathedral. Octavo, 1s. 6d. Book of Words, with Music to the Chorales, 6d.

*THE PASSION OF OUR LORD. (According to St. John.) J. S. Bach. Octavo, paper cover, 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 4s.

*THE PASSION OF CHRIST. G. F. Handel. Octavo, 3s.; paper boards, 3s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 5s.

*THE PASSION OF OUR LORD. (The Seven Words of Our Saviour on the Cross.) J. Haydn. Octavo 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 4s.

THE PASSION OF OUR LORD. (The Seven Words of Our Saviour on the Cross.) Ch. Gounod. Octavo, 1s.

*THE PASSION OF OUR LORD. ("Der Tod Jesu.") C. H. Graun. Octavo, 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 4s.

THE PASSION OF OUR LORD. Heinrich Schütz. Octavo, 1s.

*PASSION MUSIC (from the Oratorio "St. Peter"). By Sir Julius Benedict. Vocal Score, 1s. 6d.

*OUT OF DARKNESS. (Psalm cxxx.) For Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra. George Henschel (Op. 30). 2s. 6d.

OUT OF DARKNESS (De Profundis). (Psalm cxxx.) For Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra. Composed by Ch. Gounod. English or Latin words. Octavo, 1s.; paper boards, 1s. 6d.; Full Score, 15s.; String Parts, 4s. 6d.; Wind Parts, 7s.; Vocal Parts, 3s.

*ZION'S WAYS DO LANGUISH. Soprano Solo and Chorus, from "Gallia" (Motet). Ch. Gounod. Octavo, 1s.

THE MISERERE, &c., as used in St. Paul's Cathedral Lenten Services. Arranged by J. Stainer. Octavo, 3d.

MISERERE MEI, DEUS. The Music composed by J. Barnby. Octavo, 3d.

MISERERE MEI, DEUS. Set to the well-known Ancient Chant, as arranged and harmonised by Vincent Novello; from the Appendix to the Accompanying Harmonies to the Brief Directory of Plain-song, by the Rev. Thomas Helmore, M.A. Price 2d.

MISERERE MEI, DEUS. (Chant setting.) The Music composed by Edgar Pettman. Price 1½d.

*Orchestral Parts of the works marked * can be had.*

THE BENEDICITE

SET TO MUSIC BY THE FOLLOWING

MODERN COMPOSERS.

E. C. BAIRSTOW (on the plan of the Paragraph Psalter) ...	3d.
GEORGE J. BENNETT (in E flat)	1½d.
GEORGE J. BENNETT (in G)	1½d.
GEORGE J. BENNETT (in D)	3d.
W. T. BEST (in C). (Sol-fa, 1½d.)	3d.
HUGH BLAIR (in G)	1½d.
J. F. BRIDGE, James Turle, and Dr. Hayes	1½d.
H. B. C.	1½d.
J. W. ELLIOTT (in G)	2d.
J. W. ELLIOTT (in G)	4d.
M. B. ELLIOTT (in G)	1½d.
R. B. ELLIOTT (in G)	1½d.
ALFRED J. EYRE (in E flat). (With a Quadruple Chant for the Te Deum)	2d.
ALFRED J. EYRE (No. 2, in F)	1½d.
MYLES B. FOSTER (in F, Chant Form)	4d.
PERCY H. FROST (in D)	2d.
HENRY GADSBY (in G, Chant Form)	1½d.
C. R. GALE (in D)	1½d.
F. E. GLADSTONE (Chant Form)	3d.
F. E. GLADSTONE (Unison)	1½d
A. E. GODFREY (in C)	3d.
A. E. GODFREY (No. 2, in G)	3d.
F. A. J. HERVEY (in A flat). From the Canticles (second set)	1½d.
W. HUGHES (in E flat)	1½d.
FREDERICK ILIFFE (No. 1, in E flat)	1½d.
E. H. LEMARE (in B flat)	3d.
C. HARFORD LLOYD	2d.
G. C. MARTIN (No. 1, in F; No. 2, in E flat; No. 3, in G) each	4d.
T. R. MATTHEWS (in E flat)	1½d.
C. E. MILLER (second setting)	2d.
EDGAR PETTMAN (No. 1, in C; No. 2, set to Double Chants)	2d.
EDGAR PETTMAN (in E flat)	1½d.
J. VARLEY ROBERTS (in B flat)	4d.
BOYTON SMITH (in A flat)	1½d.
CHAS. W. SMITH (in C). S.A.T.T.B., also simplified for S.A.T.B.	6d.
J. STAINER and B. Blaxland	1½d.
J. STAINER, R. de Lacy, A. Gibbs, and F. Champneys ...	1½d.
J. STAINER, W. Winn, and F. Walker	1½d.
J. STAINER (in D). From the Canticles (second set)	1½d.
C. HYLTON STEWART (on the plan of the Paragraph Psalter)	3d.
J. BARNBY
JOHN FOSTER
MONTEM SMITH (two settings)	1½d.
J. TURLE (two settings)
C. A. WICKES (two settings)
JOHN E. WEST (in G)	4d.
JOHN E. WEST (in C)	1½d.
W. G. WOOD (in D)	1½d.
G. F. WRIGLEY (in G)	1½d.

MUSIC FOR EASTER.

HYMNS FOR EASTER.

J. BARNBY. Christ the Lord is risen to-day	1½d.
J. LIONEL BENNETT. Lift high the Cross ... ... (Words, 2/- per 100.)	3d.
W. T. BEST. Jesus Christ is risen	3d.
J. B. CALKIN. Light's glitt'ring morn bedecks	1½d.
H. J. GAUNTLETT. Unto the Paschal Victim	1½d.
Dr. IONS. Jesus Christ is risen to-day	1½d.
MENDELSSOHN. All blessing, honour, glory, might. (Arranged by J. Stainer) (Words, 2/6 per 100)	1d.
V. NOVELLO. Jesus Christ is risen to-day	1½d.

Nine Hymns with Tunes from "The Hymnary" ...	1d.
Christ the Lord is risen to-day ... ... G. J. Elvey.
Far be sorrow, tears, and sighing ... ... C. Steggall.
Welcome, happy morning! age to age shall say A. Sullivan.
Come, ye faithful, raise the strain ... ... A. Sullivan.
At the Lamb's high feast we sing ... ... German.
The day of Resurrection ... ... H. Smart.
Jesus Christ is risen to-day ... ... Ch. Gounod.
O Blessed Trinity ... ... Old Melody.
Soon the fiery sun ascending ... ... German.
J. STAINER. This is the day (Words, 2s. 6d. per 100.) ...	1d.

EASTER HYMN.

(MANE PRIMA SABBATI)

SET TO MUSIC FOR

SOPRANO AND TENOR SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

(OR ORGAN)

By GEORGE J. BENNETT.

Composed for the Festival of the Sons of the Clergy, St. Paul's Cathedral, 1895.

Price One Shilling.

Orchestral Parts, MS.

CAROLS FOR EASTER.

Rev. T. HELMORE. Carols for Easter-tide. Words, 1½d. Melody, 6d. ... ... Vocal score	1s.
J. T. FIELD. Four Easter Carols	2d.
The Crown is on the Victor's brow.
Christ is risen!
Welcome, happy morning.
Easter flowers are blooming bright.
E. G. MONK. Sing the battle sharp and glorious. Carol	1½d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

EASTER ANTHEMS.

JUST PUBLISHED.

UNTO THE PASCHAL VICTIM BRING.

By JOHN E. WEST. Price, 1½d.; Sol-fa, 1½d.

ALLELUIA! THE LORD LIVETH.

By CUTHBERT HARRIS. Price 3d.; Sol-fa 1½d.

THE LORD OMNIPOTENT REIGNETH.

By THOMAS ADAMS. Price 3d.; Sol-fa, 1½d.

NOW DAWNING GLOWS THE DAY OF DAYS.

By DAVID STANLEY SMITH. Price 1½d.; Sol-fa, 1½d.

O DEATH WHERE IS THY STING.

By ALFRED HOLLINS. Price 4d.; Sol-fa, 2d.

Above all praise and all majesty	... ...	Mendelssohn	1½d.
*Alleluia! now is Christ risen	... ...	T. Adams	3d.
*Alleluia! the Lord liveth	... ...	Cuthbert Harris	3d.
*All men, all things	... ...	Mendelssohn	4d.
As Christ was raised	... ...	G. A. Macfarren	2d.
*As it began to dawn	... ...	M. B. Foster	1½d.
As it began to dawn	... ...	C. Vincent	3d.
*As Moses lifted up the serpent	... ...	F. Gostelow	3d.
As we have borne	... ...	J. Barnby	1½d.
At the Lamb's high feast	... ...	E. V. Hall	3d.
At the Sepulchre	... ...	H. W. Wareing	4d.
*Awake, awake, with holy rapture sing	...	John E. West	3d.
*Awake, thou that sleepest	... ...	J. Stainer	6d.
*Awake up, my glory	... ...	J. Barnby	1½d.
Awake up, my glory	... ...	B. Haynes	1½d.
Awake up, my glory	... ...	F. Iliffe	2d.
Awake up, my glory	... ...	M. Wise	3d.
*Be glad, O ye righteous	... ...	H. Smart	4d.
*Behold, the Angel of the Lord	... ...	B. Tours	1½d.
*Behold the Lamb—All glory to the Lamb	...	...	3d.
*Blessed be the God and Father	... ...	S. S. Wesley	4d.
*Blessed be Thou	... ...	Kent	4d.
Blessing and glory	... ...	Boyce	1½d.
*Blessing, glory	... ...	B. Tours	4d.
*Break forth into joy	... ...	J. Barnby	1½d.
*Break forth into joy	... ...	T. R. Prentice	6d.
*Break forth into joy	... ...	B. Steane	3d.
*Christ being raised from the dead	... ...	G. J. Elvey	1½d.
Christ being raised from the dead	... ...	S. Webbe	1½d.
Christ both died and rose	... ...	E. W. Naylor	3d.
Christ is risen	... ...	G. B. J. Aitken	3d.
Christ is risen	... ...	J. M. Crament	3d.
*Christ is risen	... ...	G. J. Elvey	1½d.
Christ is risen	... ...	C. W. Jordan	4d.
*Christ is risen	... ...	E. H. Thorne	1½d.
*Christ is risen	... ...	J. V. Roberts	3d.
*Christ our Passover	... ...	J. Goss	1½d.
*Christ our Passover	... ...	E. V. Hall	3d.
Christ our Passover	... ...	G. A. Macfarren	2d.
*Christ our Passover	... ...	B. Tours	1½d.
*Christ the Lord is risen to-day	... ...	E. V. Hall	3d.
Come, ye faithful	... ...	E. V. Hall	3d.
Far be sorrow, tears and sighing	... ...	E. V. Hall	3d.
For it became Him	... ...	Oliver King	1½d.
For us the Christ	... ...	Ch. Gounod	3d.
*From Thy love as a Father	... ...	Ch. Gounod	1½d.
Give thanks unto God	... ...	Spohr	4d.
*God hath appointed a day	... ...	B. Tours	1½d.
God, Who is rich in mercy	... ...	G. M. Garrett	1½d.
*Great is the Lord	... ...	Hayes	4d.
*Hallelujah!	... ...	Handel	2d.
Hallelujah! Christ is risen	... ...	B. Steane	3d.
*Hearken unto Me	... ...	M. B. Foster	1½d.
*He is risen	... ...	H. Gadsby	1½d.
*He shall swallow up Death in Victory	...	F. R. Greenish	3d.
I am He that liveth	... ...	T. Adams	4d.
*I am the Resurrection	... ...	Roland Rogers	4d.
I declare to you the Gospel	... ...	W. A. C. Cruickshank	4d.
*If we believe that Jesus died	... ...	... J. Goss	1½d.
If we believe that Jesus died	... ...	G. A. Macfarren	2d.
If ye then be risen with Christ	... ...	M. B. Foster	3d.
If ye then be risen with Christ	... ...	J. Naylor	3d.
*If ye then be risen with Christ	... ...	H. M. Higgs	1½d.
*I heard a great voice	... ...	G. F. Cobb	3d.
*I will alway give thanks	... ...	J. B. Calkin	1½d.
*I will alway give thanks	... ...	J. Clarke-Whitfeld	3d.
I will extol Thee	... ...	C. M. Hudson	4d.
*I will go unto the Altar of God	... ...	C. Harris	3d.
I will greatly rejoice	... ...	W. A. C. Cruickshank	4d.
I will love Thee, O Lord	... ...	M. Kingston	4d.
*I will magnify Thee	... ...	J. B. Calkin	4d.
I will magnify Thee	... ...	B. L. Selby	1½d.
*I will mention	... ...	A. Sullivan	6d.
I will sing of Thy power	... ...	M. Greene	4d.
*I will sing of Thy power	... ...	A. Sullivan	1½d.
Jesus Christ is risen to-day	... ...	Oliver King	4d.
Let God arise	... ...	M. Greene	6d.
Lord, before Thy footstool bending	... ...	Spohr	3d.
Lord Christ! when Thou hadst overcome	... ...	Haydn	1½d.
*Lord, Thy arm hath been uplifted	... ...	Spohr	2d.
*Lo, the winter is past	... ...	B. Farebrother	3d.
Lo, the winter is past	... ...	H. Gadsby	3d.
Magnify His Name	... ...	G. C. Martin	4d.
My beloved spake	... ...	H. Purcell	6d.
My heart is fixed, O God	... ...	W. A. C. Cruickshank	4d.
My heart was glad	... ...	A. Carnall	4d.
Not unto us, O Lord	... ...	H. Gadsby	6d.
*Not unto us, O Lord	... ...	T. A. Walmisley	1½d.
Not unto us, O Lord	... ...	J. E. West	4d.
*Now dawning glows the day of days	...	David Stanley Smith	1½d.
*Now is Christ risen	... ...	G. B. Allen	1½d.
*Now is Christ risen	... ...	J. E. West	1½d.
*Now late on the Sabbath day	... ...	S. Coleridge-Taylor	3d.
*Now on the first day of the week	... ...	H. Lahee	1½d.
O clap your hands	... ...	M. Greene	4d.
*O clap your hands	... ...	J. Stainer	6d.
O clap your hands (S.S.A.)	... ...	E. H. Thorne	6d.
O clap your hands	... ...	T. T. Trimnell	3d.
*O come, let us sing	... ...	M. B. Foster	3d.
*O death, where is thy sting	... ...	Alfred Hollins	4d.
*O give thanks	... ...	J. Goss	3d.
O give thanks	... ...	S. S. Wesley	4d.
O give thanks to the Lord	... ...	H. J. King	3d.
*O voice of the Beloved	... ...	Henry John King	3d.
*On the first day of the week	... ...	E. M. Lott	1½d.
*Open to me the gates	... ...	F. Adlam	4d.
*Praise His awful Name	... ...	Spohr	2d.
Praise Jehovah	... ...	Mendelssohn	4d.
Praise the Lord, ye servants	... ...	B. Steane	3d.
*Rejoice in the Lord	... ...	J. B. Calkin	3d.
*Rejoice in the Lord	... ...	G. J. Elvey	1½d.
Rejoice in the Lord	... ...	G. C. Martin	6d.
Rejoice, O ye people	... ...	Mendelssohn	1½d.
*Sing praises unto the Lord	... ...	W. A. C. Cruickshank	1½d.
*Sing praises unto the Lord	... ...	Ch. Gounod	6d.
Sing to the Lord	... ...	Mendelssohn	8d.
Ten thousand times ten thousand	... ...	Ferris Tozer	4d.
Thanks be to God	... ...	J. W. Gritton	3d.
Thanks be to God	... ...	Oliver King	3d.
The Day of Resurrection	... ...	E. V. Hall	3d.
*The end of the Sabbath	... ...	A. Carnall	1½d.
*The first day of the week	... ...	B. Steane	3d.
The Lord hath brought us	... ...	E. H. Thorne	3d.
*The Lord hath done great things	... ...	H. Smart	4d.
*The Lord is King	... ...	J. Pittman	1½d.
*The Lord is King	... ...	T. T. Trimnell	4d.
The Lord is my strength	... ...	S. Coleridge-Taylor	3d.
*The Lord is my strength	... ...	W. H. Monk	1½d.
*The Lord is my strength	... ...	V. Novello	1½d.
*The Lord is my strength	... ...	H. Smart	1½d.
*The Lord is risen	... ...	G. M. Garrett	4d.
*The Lord liveth	... ...	A. W. Marchant	3d.
*The Lord omnipotent reigneth	... ...	Thomas Adams	3d.
*The strain upraise	... ...	A. Sullivan	1½d.
*The strife is o'er, the battle done	...	B. Luard Selby	1½d.
*The strife is o'er	... ...	B. Steane	1½d.
*They have taken away my Lord	... ...	J. Stainer	1½d.
*This is the day	... ...	S. C. Cooke	3d.
*This is the day	... ...	E. V. Hall	4d.
*This is the day	... ...	E. H. Lemare	4d.
This is the day	... ...	G. A. Macfarren	2d.
This is the day	... ...	A. W. Marchant	3d.
*This is the day	... ...	J. Sewell	2d.
This is the day	... ...	J. Turle	3d.
'Tis the spring of souls to-day (Cantata)	...	E. H. Lemare	1s.
*Unto the Paschal victim bring	... ...	John E. West	1½d.
When Christ, Who is our life, shall appear		J. V. Roberts	2d.
When my soul fainted within me	... ...	J. F. Bridge	1½d.
*When the Sabbath was past	... ...	M. B. Foster	1½d.
*Who is like unto Thee?	... ...	A. Sullivan	6d.
Who shall roll us away the stone	... ...	G. W. Torrance	1½d.
*Why rage fiercely the heathen?	...	Mendelssohn	6d.
*Why seek ye the living?	... ...	A. Alexander	3d.
Why seek ye the living? (Two-part)	... ...	M. B. Foster	3d.
Why seek ye the living?	... ...	E. J. Hopkins	1½d.
*Why seek ye the living?	... ...	F. Peel	4d.
Worthy the Lamb—Hallelujah!	... ...	Crotch	3d.
*Worthy is the Lamb	... ...	J. F. Barnett	1½d.
*Worthy is the Lamb	... ...	Handel	2d.

*Anthems marked thus * to be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d., 1½d., and 2d. each.*

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

Coronation Festival Music.

JUST PUBLISHED.

EIGHT HYMNS WITH TUNES

SUITABLE FOR USE AT

SERVICES IN CELEBRATION OF THE CORONATION OF

HIS MAJESTY KING EDWARD VII.

	First line.	Author.	Composer.
No. 1.	All the hosts of Britain gather	Rev. W. H. Draper	Sir George C. Martin.
,, 2.	God of all created things	A. C. Benson	Sir C. H. H. Parry.
,, 3.	How blest the land	Rev. W. H. Draper	.. Alfred Hollins.
,, 4.	Lord of Lords, and King of Kings ..	Rev. W. St. Hill Bourne	.. John E. West.
,, 5.	Mighty Lord God, Great Ruler over all	Rev. H. C. Douglass	.. A. H. Brewer.
,, 6.	O Mightiest of the Mighty	Rev. S. Childs-Clarke	.. Edward Elgar.
,, 7.	Raise the song, ye loyal voices	The Right Rev. The Bishop of Durham..	.. J. H. Maunder.
,, 8.	She wears to-day no earthly crown ..	The Rev. Canon Rawnsley	.. Myles B. Foster.

All the above Hymns and Tunes have been expressly written for this occasion (1902).

Price Three-Halfpence. Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.
Words only, Three Shillings per 100.

IN THE PRESS.

TEN NATIONAL HYMNS AND TUNES

FOR CHILDREN'S USE

AT

CORONATION FESTIVALS.

	First line.	Author.	Composer.
No. 1.	To Thee our God we fly	W. Walsham How	H. Walford Davies.
,, 2.	Hark, boys! the hymn is rising ..	F. C. Carey Longmore	.. J. Stainer.
,, 3.	Raise the song, ye loyal voices	The Right Rev. The Bishop of Durham ..	.. J. H. Maunder.
,, 4.	All ye sons of Britain gather	Rev. W. H. Draper	Sir George C. Martin.
,, 5	Our voices clear as summer joy ..	The Right Rev. The Bishop of Caledonia	.. J. E. West.
,, 6.	Lord of heaven, and earth, and ocean	J. Crosse	.. J. Barnby.
,, 7.	The Lord by Whom earth's princes rule	A. Midlane	.. .. B. Tours.
,, 8.	God of our Fatherland	Bishop E. H. Bickersteth	H. Davan Wetton.
,, 9.	Lord of life eternal	A. C. Benson	C. Harford Lloyd.

No. 10. God save the King.

Edited by W. L. R. McCLUER (Organist of St. Paul's, Canonbury).

Price Twopence; Tonic Sol-fa, Twopence.
Words only, Three Shillings per 100.

JUST PUBLISHED.

THE MUSIC

FOR AN

ORDER FOR SPECIAL SERVICES

AUTHORIZED BY THE

Most Reverend The ARCHBISHOP OF CAPETOWN

For use in his Diocese and, with the consent of his Suffragans, throughout the Province of South Africa, on the Day of

THE CORONATION OF HIS MAJESTY KING EDWARD VII.

COMPOSED BY

CHARLES MACPHERSON

(Sub-Organist of St. Paul's Cathedral).

Price Sixpence. Words, with Special Prayers, &c., 10s. per 100.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Coronation Festival Music.

ANTHEMS.

JUST PUBLISHED.

NOW KNOW I THAT THE LORD. By Myles B. Foster. Price 4d. Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.
THE KING SHALL REJOICE. By Cuthbert Harris. Price 4d. Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.
THE KING SHALL REJOICE. By E. Vine Hall. Price 4d. Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.
(In the Press.) THIS IS THE DAY. By Bruce Steane.

	s.	d.
†Attwood, T.—I was glad. (Sung at the Coronation, 1838)	0	4
Boyce, W.—Give the king Thy judgments	1	9
*Bridge, J. F.—Blessed be the Lord thy God	0	6
Child, W.—O Lord, grant the king a long life...	0	1½
Clarke, Jeremiah.—Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	0	3
Corfe, Joseph.—The king shall rejoice	1	0
Croft, William.—O Lord, grant the king a long life ...	1	6
*Elvey, George.—I was glad when they said	0	3
*Foster, Myles B.—Now know I that the Lord	0	4
†*—— My heart is inditing	0	4
Friedländer, A. W.—Hear, O God, hear my cry	0	6
*Goss, J.—The king shall rejoice	0	1½
Greene, Dr.—The king shall rejoice	1	9
—— O God, grant the king a long life	2	0
†Handel, G. F.—My heart is inditing	0	8
†—— Let Thy hand be strengthened	0	6
†*—— The king shall rejoice (Sung at the Coronation, 1838)	0	6
*—— Hallelujah Chorus (Sung at the Coronation, 1838)	0	2
†*—— Zadok the Priest (Sung at the Coronation, 1838)	0	3
*Hall, E. Vine.—The king shall rejoice	0	4
*Harris, Cuthbert.—The king shall rejoice	0	4
Hird, F. W.—Behold, O God, our Defender	0	4
Hopkins, E. J.—The king shall rejoice	3	0
*Mackenzie, A. C.—Lord of Life	0	3
*Martin, G. C.—Kings shall be thy nursing fathers ...	0	2
†—— Magnify His Name	0	4
Nares, Dr.—O Lord, grant the king a long life	0	9
Purcell, H.—O Lord, grant the king a long life	4	0
†—— Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	0	4
†Stainer, J.—Lord, Thou art God	0	8
*—— Let every soul be subject unto the higher powers ...	0	1½
*Steane, Bruce.—This is the day
Stewart, R.—The king shall rejoice	0	6
Sullivan, A.—O Lord, save Thy people	0	6
—— Vouchsafe, O Lord
Walmisley, T. F.—Behold, O God, our Defender	1	6

COME, HOLY GHOST (VENI CREATOR).

*Attwood, T.	0	1½	Monk, E. G.	0	3
*Elvey, George (Folio, 1s. 6d.)	0	4	Palestrina	0	1
Dowland, J.	0	1½	Smith, Samuel	0	1
Hatton, J. L.	0	4	Tallis	0	1½
Monk, E. G.	0	2	Williams, C. Lee	0	2

DOMINE, SALVUM FAC.

Barnett, J. A.	1	0	Perez, Sixto	0	9
Gounod, C. (with English words, 1½d.)	0	2	Silas, E. ... ... (Folio, 6d.)	0	2
Mozart (arranged by V. Novello)	1	0	Tozer, A. E.	0	2
†Novello, V.—(First Mass in C)	1	0	Webbe (T.T.B.) (arranged by V. Novello)	0	6

SERVICES—TE DEUM LAUDAMUS.

Barnby, J., in E...	0	4	†*Jordan, C. Warwick, in C	0	6
†Blair, H., in D	0	6	Lemare, E. H., in E flat	0	9
Boyce, in A. (Sung at the Coronation in 1838)	0	3	†*Martin, G. C., in A	0	6
Bridge, J. F., in G	0	6	Martin, G. C., in C (with Benedictus)	0	8
Coleridge-Taylor, S., in F...	0	4	Mendelssohn, in A	0	6
†Cusins, W. G., in B flat	1	6	†*Purcell, in D	1	0
†Elgar, E., in F (with the Benedictus)	1	0	Romberg, A., in D	1	0
Garrett, G. M., in D...	0	3	*Smart, H., in F...	0	3
Garrett, G. M., in E	0	4	*Stainer, J., in A	0	4
*Garrett, G. M., in F	0	4	Stainer, J., in B flat	0	6
†Goss, J. (Thanksgiving Te Deum)	0	6	*Stainer, J., in E flat	0	6
†Handel (Chandos Te Deum)	1	0	Stanford, C. V., in A	0	4
†Handel (Dettingen Te Deum)	1	0	*Stanford, C. V., in B flat	0	4
Haydn, in C	1	0	Sullivan (with the Domine Salvum Fac), Thanksgiving Te Deum	1	0
Henschel, G.	1	6	Wesley, S. S., in E	0	6
Hopkins, E. J., in A	0	6	†West, J. E., in G	0	3
Hopkins, E. J., in F	0	6

JUBILATE DEO.

Blair, H., in D	0	6	†Martin, G. C., in A (Cornets, Trombones, and Drums) ...	0	6
Hopkins, E. J., in A	0	3	Purcell, in D	1	0
†*Jordan, C. Warwick, in C	0	4

MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS.

Alsop, J. R., in E	0	4	†Martin, G. C., in G (for Cornets and Trombones)	0	6
Barnby, J., in E flat	0	8	Ditto (for Orchestra)...	0	6
Bennett, G. J., in A♭	0	6	Mendelssohn, in A	0	6
Bennett, G. J., in B flat (Magnificat only)	0	4	Prout, E., in F	0	6
Blair, H., in B flat	0	6	†Roberts, J. V., in C (for 2 Cornets and 2 Trombones) ...	0	4
Brewer, A. H., in C	1	0	†*Selby, B. Luard, No. 1, in A	0	6
Bridge, J. C., in C	0	6	†Selby, B. Luard.—Second Service in A (for Soprano Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra)	0	6
Bridge, J. F., in G	0	6	†Smart, H., in B flat	0	6
Calkin, J. B., in G	0	6	*Smart, H., in F	0	6
Cobb, G. F., in G	1	0	Smart, H., in G...	0	6
Colborne, Langdon, in B (String Parts, 3s. ; Wind Parts, 2s.)	1	0	*Stainer, J., in E	0	6
Coleridge-Taylor, S., in F...	0	4	Stainer, J., in E flat	0	4
Cooke, B., in C	0	4	†*Stainer, J., in A	0	6
Elvey, S., in A	0	4	†Stainer, J., in B flat	0	6
*Faning, Eaton, in C	0	6	†Stanford, C. V., in A...	0	6
Foster, M. B., in A	0	6	†*Stanford, C. V., in B flat	0	4
Gadsby, Henry, in C	0	6	†Steggall, C., in C	0	6
Gadsby, Henry, in F	0	6	†Steggall, R., in G	0	6
Garrett, G. M., in F	0	6	†Stewart, R. P., in G	0	4
*Garrett, G. M., in D...	0	4	†*Tours, B., in F (String Parts, 2s. ; Wind Parts, 4s. 6d.)	0	6
*Garrett, G. M., in E flat	0	6	†Tours, B., in D (for Strings and Organ)	0	4
Haynes, Battison, in G	0	4	Walmisley, T. F., in D minor	0	6
Hopkins, E. J., in D	0	6	Wesley, S. S., in E	0	4
Lemare, E. H., in A	0	6	West, J. E., in E flat	0	8
Lloyd, C. H., in E flat	0	6	†Williams, C. L., No. 1, in C	0	6
Lloyd, C. H., in F	0	6	†Williams, C. L., No. 2, in C	0	6
†Mann, A. H., in E	1	0	†Williams, C. L., in F...	0	6
†Martin, G. C., in A	0	6	†Wood, W. G., in B flat	0	4
†Martin, G. C., in B flat (for Military Band)	0	6
†Martin, G. C., in C	0	6

* Published also in Tonic Sol-fa. † Orchestral Parts can be supplied.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CORONATION FESTIVAL MUSIC.

FOR THE ORGAN.

THE CORONATION NUMBER
(BOOK 31)

THE VILLAGE ORGANIST

CONTENTS.

* God save the King ... ... Sir J. F. Bridge.
* God save the King ... ... Sir Michael Costa.
Coronation March ... ... Edward German.
March, "Scipio" (original key) ... ... Handel.
King Edward Coronation March ... ... Alfred Hollins.
Coronation March ("Le Prophète)" ... ... Meyerbeer.
* The National Anthem (with Variations) ... ... F. C. Woods.
Fanfare—as played by the State Trumpeters.

* Can be used as organ voluntaries, or to accompany voices.

PRICE ONE SHILLING.

TWENTY-FOUR POPULAR MARCHES FOR THE ORGAN
IN TWO VOLUMES

Price, Paper, Four Shillings and Sixpence Each; Cloth, Six Shillings and Sixpence each.

VOL. I

1. Marche Triomphale ... ... F. Archer.
2. Bride's March, "Rebekah" ... ... J. Barnby.
3. Harvest Thanksgiving March ... ... J. B. Calkin.
4. March for a Church Festival ... ... E. T. Driffield.
5. Imperial March ... ... E. Elgar.
6. March to Calvary, "Redemption" ... ... C. Gounod.
7. Religious March ... ... G. A. Macfarren.
8. March from "Abraham" ... ... B. Molique.
9. March in B flat ... ... E. Silas.
10. Festive March in D ... ... H. Smart.
11. March in G ... ... B. Tours.
12. March in D minor... ... ... A. Zimmermann.

VOL. II.

13. March for a Church Festival ... ... W. T. Best.
14. Processional Wedding March ... ... H. R. Bird.
15. Festal March ... ... J. B. Calkin.
16. Solemn March ... ... E. Elgar.
17. Festal March ... ... G. Elvey.
18. Marche Solennelle ... ... C. Gounod.
19. March, "St. Polycarp"... ... ... F. A. G. Ouseley.
20. March with Pastoral Trio ... ...B. L. Selby.
21. March in G ... ... H. Smart.
22. Jubilant March ... ... J. Stainer.
23. March in F ... ... J. H. Wallis.
24. Commemoration March ... ... J. E. West.

ORGAN PIECES.

	s.	d.
ARCHER, FREDERIC.—Marche Triomphale	1	6
BEETHOVEN.—Hallelujah ("Mount of Olives"), (arranged by E. J. Hopkins)	1	6
BEST, W. T.—March for a Church Festival (Book 2, Pieces for Church use)	3	0
BREWER, A. H.—Triumphal Song	1	6
BUCK, DUDLEY.—Triumphal March	1	6
BUTTON, H. ELLIOT.—March in C	1	0
CALKIN, GEORGE.—Festal March	1	0
CALKIN, J. B.—Festal March	2	0
CHERUBINI.—Marche Religieuse (composed for the Coronation of Charles X.) (in two staves)	1	3
CLARKE, HAMILTON.—Grand March	1	6
DRIFFIELD, E. T.—March for a Church Festival	1	0
ELGAR, EDWARD.—Imperial March	2	0
—— Triumphal March ("Caractacus")	2	0
ELVEY, GEORGE.—Festal March	1	6
GOUNOD, C.—Wedding March, No. 1 } The Duke of Albany ...	2	0
—— Wedding March, No. 2 ... } Wedding Marches ...	2	0
—— Marche Solennelle (arranged by E. Prout)	1	6
GUILMANT, A.—Marche Triomphale	1	6
—— Grand Chœur	3	6
HANDEL.—Occasional Overture (played at the Coronation of Queen Victoria, 1838), (arranged by W. T. Best)	2	0
—— March ("Scipio") do. do.	2	0
—— Zadok the Priest ... ... } And all the people rejoiced / God save the King ... ... } Arranged by W. T. Best / Let Thy hand be strengthened /	1	3
—— Alleluja (3rd Coronation Anthem) } The King shall rejoice / Alleluja (4th Coronation Anthem) } Arranged by W. T. Best / Kings shall be thy nursing Fathers /	1	3
—— Zadok the Priest (arranged in two staves by Nixon) ...	0	6
—— Alleluja (4th Coronation Anthem) do. do. ...	0	6
—— Let Thy hand be strengthened do. do. ...	0	6
—— My heart is inditing do. do. ...	0	6
—— The King shall rejoice do. do. ...	0	6
—— Kings' daughters do. do. ...	0	6
—— Upon Thy right hand do. do. ...	0	6

	s.	d.
HANDEL.—Zadok the Priest (arranged in two staves by John Goss)	1	0
—— Welcome, welcome Mighty King ("Saul"). Edited by G. C. Martin	1	0
—— Awake the trumpet's lofty sound ("Samson") Do. do.	1	0
—— The King shall rejoice (arranged in two staves by J. Hiles)	1	6
—— Zadok the Priest (arranged by E. J. Hopkins)	1	3
HEAP, C. S.—Festal March in E flat	1	6
HESSE, A.—God save the King (with variations)	1	6
HIGGS, H. M.—Processional March	2	6
MACFARREN, G. A.—Sonata in C (last movement, introducing "Rule, Britannia")	4	0
—— Secular March	1	0
MENDELSSOHN.—War March ("Athalie"), (arranged by C. Steggall	1	6
—— Do. do. (arranged by W. T. Best)	2	0
—— First Movement ("Hymn of Praise"), (arranged by W. A. C. Cruickshank)	2	6
MEYERBEER.—Coronation March (arranged by W. T. Best)	2	0
MOLIQUE, B.—March, ("Abraham") do. do. ...	1	6
—— Do. do. (arranged by A. C. Edwards)	1	0
OUSELEY, F. A. G.—March ("St. Polycarp")	1	0
RINK, C. H.—God save the King (with Variations and Finale)...	1	6
SELBY, B. L.—Orchestral March	1	0
SILAS, E.—March in B flat	1	0
SMART, H.—Grand Solemn March in E flat	2	0
—— March in G	1	0
—— Festive March in D	1	6
STAINER, J.—A Jubilant March	1	6
STONE, J. T.—Marche Triomphale	1	6
WAREING, H. W.—Festival March	1	6
—— Coronation March	1	6
WAGNER, R.—Grand March (Introduction Act III. "Lohengrin"), (arranged by W. Creser)	1	0
—— Bridal Chorus ("Lohengrin"), (arranged by W. Creser) ...	1	0
WESLEY, S. S.—National Anthem with Variations in G. Edited by G. M. Garrett	2	0
WEST, J. E.—Commemoration March	2	0
ZIMMERMAN, A.—March in D minor (arranged by J. Stainer) ...	1	6

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

CORONATION FESTIVAL MUSIC.

GOD PROSPER HIM—OUR KING

A NATIONAL CHORUS
WRITTEN BY
A. C. AINGER
AND ADAPTED TO THE MUSIC OF
VICTORIA—OUR QUEEN
COMPOSED BY
JOSEPH BARNBY.

VOCAL SCORE (S.A.T.B.), price 3d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.
Arrangement for two parts (S.A.), 1d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.
Words only, 3s. per 100. Full Score, MS.
Orchestral Parts—Strings, 1s.; Wind Parts, 2s. 3d.

Just Published.

CHILDREN'S CORONATION SONG

("COME, RAISE WE NOW OUR VOICES")

In celebration of the Coronation of King Edward VII.
Words and Music by the Rev. Canon Torrance, Mus. Doc., M. A.

Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.
Awarded the Prize at the recent competition in connection with "The School Music Review."

Just Published.

ARRANGED FOR UNISON SINGING
OR FOR
SOPRANOS AND CONTRALTOS

The Soldiers' Chorus from Faust

COMPOSED BY
CHARLES GOUNOD.

With the original words by Henry F. Chorley.*

Price 1½d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.

* By arrangement with Messrs. Chappell and Co., Ltd.

Just Published.

THE BRITISH KING

SONG

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY
HAROLD BEGBIE
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
ALICIA ADÉLAÏDE NEEDHAM.
(In Three keys, F, G, and B flat).

Price Two Shillings net.

Choral Ballad.

THE BANNER OF ST. GEORGE

For Chorus and Orchestra

The Words by Shapcott Wensley

THE MUSIC BY
EDWARD ELGAR.

Price 1s. 6d.
Tonic Sol-fa, 1s. Words only, 12s. 6d. per 100.
String Parts, 8s. 6d. Wind Parts, and Full Score, MS.

THE FLAG OF ENGLAND

BALLAD

For Soprano Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra

The Words by Rudyard Kipling

THE MUSIC BY
J. FREDERICK BRIDGE.

Price 1s. 6d.
Tonic Sol-fa, 9d. Words only, 12s. 6d. per 100.
String Parts, 4s. 6d. Wind Parts and Full Score, MS.

CORONATION MARCH

COMPOSED BY
EDWARD GERMAN.

FULL SCORE. Price 3s. 6d.

Violin I.	6d.	Viola	6d.
Violin II.	6d.	Violoncello and Bass	6d.
Wind Parts			4s. 3d.
Military Band			7s. 6d.
Brass Band			7s. 6d.
Pianoforte Solo			2s. 0d.

Organ arrangement (Village Organist, Book 31), 1s.

CORONATION MARCH

COMPOSED BY PERCY PITT.

FULL SCORE (in the Press).

Violin I.	6d.	Viola	6d.
Violin II.	6d.	Cello and Bass	1s.

Wind Parts (in the Press).
Pianoforte Solo, 2s.

CORONATION MARCH

COMPOSED BY
HERBERT W. WAREING.

FULL SCORE, MS.

Violin I.	6d.	Violoncello	6d.
Violin II.	6d.	Basso	6d.
Viola	6d.
Wind Parts			4s. 9d.
Pianoforte Arrangement			2s. 0d.
Organ Arrangement			1s. 6d.

IMPERIAL MARCH

COMPOSED BY
EDWARD ELGAR.

FULL SCORE. Price 3s. 6d.

Violin I.	6d.	Viola	6d.
Violin II.	6d.	Violoncello and Bass	6d.
Wind Parts			7s. 0d.
Military Band			9s. 0d.
Pianoforte Solo			2s. 0d.
Organ Arrangement			2s. 0d.

COMMEMORATION MARCH

COMPOSED BY
JOHN E. WEST.

FULL SCORE, MS.

Violin I.	6d.	Viola	6d.
Violin II.	6d.	Violoncello and Bass	6d.
Wind Parts			5s. 6d.
Military Band			9s. 0d.
Pianoforte Solo			2s. 0d.
Organ Arrangement			2s. 0d.

OUR QUEEN

(QUICK MARCH)

COMPOSED BY
H. M. HIGGS.

FULL SCORE, MS.

Violin I.	0 6	Viola	0 6
Violin II.	0 6	Violoncello and Bass	0 6
Wind Parts			5s. 3d.
Military Band			5s. 0d.
Pianoforte Solo			2s. 0d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CHURCH MUSIC

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, Mus.D., Cantab.

SERVICES.

Te Deum in A. Four Voices	...	3d.
Benedicite in E and F	... each	2d.
Benedictus in A	...	3d.
Jubilate in A	...	3d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in A	...	3d.
Do. do. Tonic Sol-fa	...	1½d.

ANTHEMS.

Lead me in my trouble (Lent)	...	3d.
The Story of the Cross (,,)	...	2d.
The Good Shepherd (Easter)	...	3d.
If we believe (,,)	...	4d.
Do. Tonic Sol-fa	...	1½d.

PART-SONGS.

No. 1. O'er silv'ry waters. Four Voices	...	3d.
,, 2. Day is dawning. ,, ,,	...	3d.
,, 3. Sing on, sweet birds. ,, ,,	...	3d.
,, 4. Lo! Autumn leaves. ,, ,,	...	3d.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

MASS IN A MAJOR

FOR SOLO QUARTET AND UNACCOMPANIED CHORUS (S.A.T.B.)

For Use in Advent or Lent

COMPOSED BY

MARMADUKE BARTON.

Price One Shilling.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

SEVEN NEW TUNES

FOR SUNDAY SCHOOL FESTIVALS.

Selected from 800 Competitions.

Music, 7s. per 100. Words, 2s. per 100.

Special Title Page for Quantities.

Write immediately for Sample to—

Sunday School Union, 53, Brown Street, Manchester.

THREE HYMNS by Heber and S. F. Adams:—1. "God, Who madest earth and heaven": 2. "Nearer, my God, to Thee": 3. "Holy, holy, holy! Lord God Almighty!" Set to Music by William Sterndale Bennett and Otto Goldschmidt. Reprinted from the Chorale Book for England (Supplement). Price 3d.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

GILL'S EASY VOLUNTARIES. — "Messiah," "Judas," "Elijah," "St. Paul," "Creation." 1s. each book.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

AVE VERUM in G. By Frank Adlam. This beautiful Communio, sung for many years at St Thomas's, Regent Street, is now published (Solo and short Chorus). Price 2d.

London: Hart and Co., Paternoster Row.

NEW COMMUNION SERVICE IN F

BY

THOMAS J. CRAWFORD, Mus.B., F.R.C.O.

Price One Shilling. (Specimen Copy, 8d. post-free.)

Bosworth and Co., 5, Princes Street, Oxford Street, W.

NEW PATRIOTIC ANTHEM.

GOD SAVE OUR KING. By Paul Pelham and Valentine Watson. 2s. net. Also arranged as a Four-part Song, by Ernest A. Dicks, F.R.C.O., to be performed with the original accompaniment. Old Notation, price 4d. net; Tonic Sol-fa, 2d. net; and as a Two-part Song, with accompaniment, 2d. net.

Francis, Day, and Hunter, 142, Charing Cross Road, W.C.

EBENEZER PROUT'S THEORETICAL WORKS. Bound, each net, 5s.

HARMONY: Its Theory and Practice. Fourteenth Edition.
COUNTERPOINT: Strict and Free. Seventh Edition.
DOUBLE COUNTERPOINT and CANON. Third Edition.
FUGUE. Fourth Edition.
FUGAL ANALYSIS. Second Edition.
MUSICAL FORM. Fourth Edition.
APPLIED FORMS. Third Edition.
THE ORCHESTRA.
Vol. I.—"THE TECHNIQUE OF THE INSTRUMENTS." Second Edition.
Vol. II.—"ORCHESTRAL COMBINATION." Second Edition.

London: Augener and Co., 199, Regent St., and 22, Newgate St.

CANTIONES SACRÆ

MUSICAL SETTINGS

OF

THE ROMAN LITURGY

EDITED BY

DOM SAMUEL GREGORY OULD,

Monk of the Order of St. Benedict.

33.	ADESTE FIDELES. The complete Text (8 verses), with a Prelude by Dr. F. E. Gladstone, and varied Accompaniments by H. B. Collins, Dom Samuel G. Ould, Sir Walter Parratt, Sir C. Hubert H. Parry, Dr. C. W. Pearce, William Sewell, Dr. A. E. Tozer, and S. P. Waddington	1s.
4.	ADORAMUS TE, CHRISTE .. Mozart	2d.
22.	ADOREMUS (for Benediction) F. E. Gladstone	2d.
2.	ADOREMUS (Motet) .. C. W. Pearce	6d.
10.	ALMA REDEMPTORIS MATER W. Sewell	2d.
27.	AVE MARIS STELLA S. P. Waddington	6d.
11.	AVE REGINA CŒLORUM W. Sewell	2d.
26.	BENEDICTA ET VENERABILIS F. E. Gladstone	6d.
6.	BENEDICTION SERVICE (Unison) S. Ould	3d.
9.	BENEDICTION SERVICE (Unison) J. E. West	3d.
32.	BENEDICTION SERVICE (Four-part) Agnes Zimmermann	2d.
29.	COMPLINE HYMN .. .. .. S. Ould	3d.
3.	DEUS MISEREATUR .. F. E. Gladstone	6d.
12.	DOMINE, SALVUM FAC .. A. E. Tozer	2d.
30.	DOMINE, SALVUM FAC .. .. E. Silas	2d.
34.	DOMINE, SALVUM FAC .. .. Gounod	2d.
17.	HÆC DIES .. .. .. F. E. Gladstone	3d.
7.	HODIE SANCTUS BENEDICTUS P. Philips	4d.
20.	LITANY OF LORETTO .. F. E. Gladstone	6d.
23.	MAGNIFICAT in A .. .. F. E. Gladstone	8d.
1.	MAGNIFICAT in B flat .. .. E. Silas	6d.
28.	MAGNIFICAT in D .. .. .. E. Silas	1s.
31.	MAGNIFICAT in E flat .. .. W. Sewell	4d.
15.	MISERERE in F .. .. F. E. Gladstone	3d.
16.	MISERERE in F sharp minor F. E. Gladstone	6d.
25.	MISERERE (Gregorian Chant) V. Novello	3d.
19.	O SALUTARIS HOSTIA .. F. E. Gladstone	2d.
8.	REGINA CŒLI .. .. .. W. Sewell	2d.
14.	RESPONSES AT MASS AND OFFICE Harmonised by S. Ould	3d.
13.	SALVE, REGINA .. .. .. Schubert	2d.
5.	SALVE, REGINA .. .. W. Sewell	2d.
24.	SALVE, REGINA .. R. L. de Pearsall	3d.
18.	SALVE, REGINA .. S. P. Waddington	4d.
21.	TANTUM ERGO .. .. F. E. Gladstone	2d.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

THE CATHEDRAL

Prayer Book and Psalter

(WITH WELSH WORDS).

		s.	d.
No. 1.	Morning and Evening Prayer, with Responses (Ferial and Festal), Litany, and Chants for the Canticles. Demy 8vo, paper cover ... ... (cloth, 1s.)	0	8
No. 7.	Ditto, ditto, ditto. Tonic Sol-fa ... (cloth, 1s.)	0	8
No. 4.	The Psalter, with Canticles and Proper Psalms, set to appropriate Chants. Demy 8vo, cloth	2	0
No. 10.	Ditto, ditto, ditto. Tonic Sol-fa	2	0
No. 5.	Ditto, ditto, ditto. With Morning and Evening Prayer, &c. Demy 8vo, cloth	2	6
No. 11.	Ditto, ditto, ditto. Tonic Sol-fa	2	6

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

JUST PUBLISHED.

LEAD, KINDLY LIGHT

WORDS BY

CARDINAL NEWMAN

SET TO MUSIC FOR

SOPRANO SOLO AND CHORUS, OR QUINTET FOR SOLO VOICES

BY

LIZA LEHMANN.

Price Two Shillings net.
Vocal Parts, One Shilling the set.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THREE

Seventeenth Century Settings of the Litany

AS SUNG IN LICHFIELD CATHEDRAL.

EDITED BY

JOHN B. LOTT, Mus.B., Oxon.

Now Ready.

No. 1. SET TO MUSIC IN A MAJOR

BY

WILLIAM KING, Mus.B., Oxon.,
Organist of New College, Oxford.
(1664-1680.)
Price Threepence.

In the Press.

No. 2. SET TO MUSIC IN D MINOR

BY

HENRY LOOSEMORE, Mus.B., Cantab.,
Organist of King's College, Cambridge.
(1627-1670).

In the Press.

No. 3. SET TO MUSIC IN C MINOR

The celebrated "York Litany"

BY

THOMAS WANLESS, Mus.B., Cantab.,
Organist of York Minster.
(1691——.)

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

A

BIOGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY OF MUSICIANS

BY

TH. BAKER, Ph.D.

It contains more and fuller Biographies of Contemporary Musicians than any other similar work.

It is illustrated by 300 Vignette Portraits by the celebrated artist, Alex. Gribayedoff.

It is a model of typographical clearness and elegance.

Detailed Specification post-free.

Charles Woolhouse, 174, Wardour Street, London, W.

THE MONTHLY MUSICAL RECORD for MARCH contains: Some Æsthetic Problems (Baughan); An old English Opera House (J. S. S.); Old-World Musical Criticism (Struthers); "Changes," Song, by H. MacCunn; Concerts, Reviews, &c. 20 pages of Articles and Music. Price 2½d., post-free. Yearly Subscription, 2s. 6d., post-free. Augener & Co., 199, Regent Street.

Thirteenth and Fourteenth Thousand.

ALFRED R. GAUL'S PASSION SERVICE

NEW SACRED WORK

FOR THE SEASON OF

LENT AND GOOD FRIDAY.

"Scholarly writing, combined with unmistakable talent, and eminently adapted to the purpose for which it was written and composed. The work will probably be largely used, and Mr. Gaul have to be congratulated upon another success."—Sheffield Independent.

"The course of sacred events connected with the Passion is laid out by the writer so as to form a series of six distinct 'scenes.' The subjects of these divisions, each occupied with a particular stage of the Mystery, are respectively—'The Traitor at the Table,' 'The Denial,' 'The Condemnation before Pilate,' 'The Mockery on Calvary,' 'The Shadow of Death,' and 'The Holy Sepulchre.' The style of the composition resembles generally that of Mr. Gaul's previous writings—the same effective, grateful part-writing, and the same expressive and melodious treatment of the solo voice. In those sections, notably that of the Unjust Condemnation, where the realistic element is predominant, the composer has manifested his ability to write with dramatic force and intensity as well as with lyric charm. In this respect the choral writing distinguished itself in comparison with that in the 'Holy City,' and other of the composer's works. Mr. Gaul has not written new hymn tunes for the author's lyrics; the tunes selected are from among those in ordinary congregational use. Altogether considered, Mr. Gaul's new work will, undoubtedly, greatly enhance his already high reputation in the line of sacred composition."—Musical Standard.

Price, paper cover, 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.; scarlet cloth, 4s.
Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.
The loan of Orchestral Parts on application to the Composer.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Just Published.

MANUAL OF THE ORCHESTRAL LITERATURE OF ALL COUNTRIES

COMPILED AND EDITED BY

A. ROSENKRANZ.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence net.

The Manual contains an almost complete list of the orchestral compositions written by composers of all countries, from Lully and Rameau (1651) up to the present time—Edward Elgar, Camille Saint-Saëns, and Richard Strauss (1902)—a period covering 250 years.

The 5012 separate works for Orchestra scheduled in the Manual are written by 1337 different composers, and are classified as follows:—

Overtures	1272	Miscellaneous Pieces ...	434
Symphonies	588	Marches	467
Various Concert Pieces...	1542	Music for String Orchestra	709

A special table, showing the degree in which the different nationalities of the various composers are represented, is given in the preface.

The alphabetical list of the names of the composers is placed at the end of the Manual, and whenever it was obtainable, the year in which each composer was born is stated.

In order to keep "The Manual of Orchestral Literature" up to date, and make it absolutely reliable as a Handbook of reference, supplementary lists will be issued at regular intervals.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

CASES

Are now ready, and may be had of all Musicsellers in Town and Country.

Cloth, bevelled boards, handsome design in black,

VOL. XLII.,

Title-page and Index may be had gratis on application.
Cases for the Volumes from 1877 (Vol. xviii.) can also be had.

Price 1s. 6d.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

PRODUCED AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE.

ISRAEL IN THE WILDERNESS

A SACRED CANTATA

FOR THREE SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

(Op. 43.)

"[If composers would have their works popular with choral societies, it is only reasonable to expect that they will bestow a fair share of their attention upon the choruses. The old masters knew this, and there is no doubt that the fact has much to do with the long-continued popularity of their works; and there is equally little doubt, we think, that the principal cause of the failure of so many works produced nowadays is the uninteresting nature of the choruses. Compare the choruses of the three most popular works ever produced—'The Messiah,' 'Creation,' and 'Elijah,'—with a large number of modern works, and our meaning will be clear. If we mistake not, such thoughts as these passed through Mr. Gaul's mind when he set himself to compose those works which have placed him in the front rank of English composers—the 'Holy City,' 'Joan of Arc,' 'The Ten Virgins,' &c., and that the public endorse his views is proved by the enormous sale which these works have had.—Newcastle Daily Journal."]

MUSICAL STANDARD.

"Mr. Gaul's latest work is another proof of his practical wisdom as well as of his ability as a composer. Mr. Gaul evidently does not feel disposed, though we think he is well able, to write a magnum opus which may have to wait a generation to be understood; he appeals successfully to the tens of thousands of people who take an interest in sacred stories set to singable music which can be at once appreciated. We do not say that Mr. Gaul's cantatas will not receive the approbation of posterity; we think they will, but it is certain that they do meet with deserved recognition as fast as they appear. We welcome 'Israel in the Wilderness' as one of those works which foster the love and induce the practice of music amongst the people."

MUSICAL NEWS.

"The chief point of interest was the production of Mr. A. R. Gaul's Cantata 'Israel in the Wilderness.' . . . The work was given under Mr. Gaul's own direction by some 3,000 singers, accompanied by the Palace orchestra, with Mr. A. J. Eyre as organist. . . . The various solo and choral movements display Mr. Gaul's facility for the composition of genuine, effective music; clear in purpose, melodious, vigorous, and expressive by turns, and constructed by an experienced thinker and worker. Such music will indeed ever be welcome, and Mr. Gaul has presented in no previous work better characteristics or more successful efforts than are to be found in 'Israel in the Wilderness.' The popular composer was enthusiastically cheered at the close of the performance."

STANDARD.

"The best portion is a number entitled 'The Plagues of Egypt,' written in a sort of free chant form, in which Mr. Gaul has introduced some very clever orchestral effects. The Cantata contains all the elements of popularity, and it was excellently performed under the composer's direction, and very warmly received."

DAILY NEWS.

"Mr. Gaul's music is exactly what is required for large choral gatherings, for it is effective, without presenting any overwhelming difficulties. The part-writing is excellent. . . . Melodious throughout. There is sufficient variety to prevent any feeling of monotony. . . . At its close the composer was heartily cheered."

LONDON FIGARO.

"Without being unduly difficult, it is indisputably effective."

DAILY CHRONICLE.

"The afternoon was particularly interesting owing to the first performance of Mr. Alfred R. Gaul's Cantata 'Israel in the Wilderness,' which had been composed expressly for the event. . . . Like the majority of Mr. Gaul's productions it is bright and engaging. . . . The most pleasing of the twenty-three numbers are No. 3, 'So He brought forth His people with joy,' a telling chorus; No. 9, the chorus, 'Declare His honour unto the heathen'; No. 15, the pretty duet between the soprano and tenor voices, 'As the manna falling from the morning skies' (encored on Saturday); and the concluding march, 'Onward moves the guiding pillar,' a chorus full of spirit. Mr. Gaul has in the section devoted to the Plagues contrived to instrumentally illustrate the jumping of the frogs, the buzzing of the flies, the falling hailstones, the fire mingled with the hail, the gusty East wind, and the feeling of darkness. Several of these are clever examples of the imitative in orchestration. At the close of the work, portions of which were loudly applauded, though only the above-mentioned encore was permitted, Mr. Gaul, who conducted, was warmly complimented on a Cantata which is likely to become quite as great a favourite with choral societies as 'The Holy City' and others of his compositions."

THE REFEREE.

"Altogether worthy of the composer of that amazingly popular work, 'The Holy City.' The performance was excellent, and the composer, who conducted, had ample reason to feel satisfied with the reception of his latest effort."

THE ATHENÆUM.

"Characterised by the same refinement as that of Mr. Gaul's extremely successful work 'The Holy City.'"

MUSICAL TIMES.

"We may say at once that the music is characterised by Mr. Gaul's usual felicity of treatment. It is evident that the composer, while earnestly seeking a natural expression, has steadily kept in view the resources of the choral societies on whose behalf the work was written. Most of the music is easy, straightforward, and flowing—picturesque rather than dramatic—and it is all cast in a mould that enables the most ordinary listener to apprehend its form and purpose. In venturing to set a description of the Plagues of Egypt, Mr. Gaul invites dangerous comparisons. He was bound at all hazards to avoid imitation of Handel, and to endeavour to strike out a new path. In our opinion the music to this section is the most original and expressive in the whole Cantata. Mr. Gaul had every reason to be gratified with the performance and reception of his Cantata, and he may expect to hear of many more performances."

MUSICAL OPINION.

"Musicianly and excellent, and not too difficult to imperil its popularity."

SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW.

"One of the most musicianly, melodious, and well-conceived works of its popular composer."

NELSON AND COLNE EXPRESS.

"There is a striking originality in the treatment of the work, and a wealth of ideas is skilfully employed in it."

COLNE AND NELSON TIMES.

"A masterpiece of music."

NELSON CHRONICLE.

"The majestic Cantata is concluded with a stately march which must be heard to be thoroughly understood and adequately appreciated, for in it both band and chorus reach a climax which stamps the work as being one in every sense worthy of the great powers of Mr. Gaul."

MID-SURREY GAZETTE.

"'Israel in the Wilderness' is undoubtedly a composition of the first order, embracing as it does such a large compass, with a great amount of detail and artistic finish."

NEW YORK PRESS.

"Mr. Gaul is a felicitous composer, and the work under consideration is one of his happiest and most scholarly writings. The composition is pleasing and effective, its themes are melodious and developed in a manner to command attention and compel critical approbation. The instrumental portions of the Cantata are among the most effective numbers of the work. These comprise an introduction descriptive of 'Moonlight on the Nile' and an intermezzo entitled 'Daybreak,' which are charming. A further instance of the skill of the composer in descriptive writing is presented in the figured accompaniment to the delightfully melodious chorus, 'Sweet to the thirsty soul The waters cool and clear,' in which the purling and rippling of the stream are realistically portrayed."

Price 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.; Tonic Sol-fa edition, 1s.; Words only, 5s. per 100.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited
and
NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

HENRY LESLIE'S PART-SONGS.

PART-SONGS FOR MIXED VOICES.

(S.A.T.B. unless otherwise stated.)

*A dream of calm		4d.
†A rose of the garden		4d.
Arise, sweet love		3d.
Awake, awake, the flowers unfold	(Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.)	3d.
*Bridal Song		4d.
Charm me asleep (S.S.A.T.B.B.)	(Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.)	3d.
Daylight is fading	(Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.)	1½d.
Down in a pretty valley		3d.
Evening (also for A.T.T.B., 2d.)		1½d.
†Golden Slumbers kiss your eyes		4d.
Hail to the Chief (also as a Song, 2/-; and as a Trio, S.A.B., 2/6)		3d.
Homeward (or, as a Song, The day died slowly, 2/-)	(Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.)	4d.
How sweet the moonlight	(Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.)	1½d.
†Kind Words		4d.
Ladye fair, thou hast my life	(Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.)	2d.
Land-Ho		3d.
†Lullaby of Life		4d.
My love is fair (S.A.T.B.B.)	(Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.)	3d.
My soul to God, my heart to thee		3d.
Now the bright morning star	(Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.)	3d.
†O let me play the fool (S.S.A.T.B.B.)		6d.
*O gentle sleep		4d.
One morning sweet in May		3d.
Parting and Meeting. (Volkslied, Mendelssohn)	(Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.)	1½d.
Raise again the bold refrain. (Russian Melody)		1½d.
*Resurgam		4d.
*Song of the Flax-spinner		4d.
†The Angel's Visit		4d.
†The Golden Year		6d.
The Lass of Richmond Hill	(Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.)	4d.
The Pilgrims	(Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.)	3d.
The Primrose		1½d.
†The Rainbow		4d.
The Troubadour (S.A.T.B.B.)	(Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.)	4d.
The Violet		3d.
Thine eyes so bright (S.S.A.T.B.B.)	(Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.)	4d.
This morning, at the dawn of day	(Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.)	2d.
Up, up, ye dames		3d.
†We roam and rule the sea		4d.
*Welcome, Spring		4d.
What ho! are all on board asleep		3d.
*When the shades of eve descending		4d.
†Who is the Angel that cometh		6d.
*Ye mariners of England		4d.

PART-SONGS FOR MALE VOICES.

Evening (A.T.T.B.) (also for S.A.T.B., 1½d.)		2d.
Pibroch of Donuil Dhu (A.T.T.B.)		3d.
†Song of the Minne-singers (Come, fill your glasses) (T.T.B.B.)		4d.
†The red sun is setting. A Lullaby (T.T.B.B.)		4d.
*The rejected lover (A.T.B.B.)		4d.

PART-SONGS FOR FEMALE VOICES.

Good-night (S.S.A.)	(Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.)	3d.
Hark! the lark (Dr. Cooke) (S.S.A.A.)	(Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.)	3d.
O happy fair; or, The Loadstars (Shield) (S.S.A.)	(Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.)	3d.
Rise again, glad Summer Sun (S.S.A.)	(Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.)	3d.
The Swallow (S.S.A.)	(Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.)	3d.
The Nightingale (Weelkes) (S.S.A.)	(Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.)	2d.

* Hitherto published by Messrs. J. B. Cramer and Co.
† Hitherto published by Messrs. Stanley Lucas and Co., Ltd., and E. Hatzfeld.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

Just Published.

A MODERN SCHOOL FOR THE VIOLIN

BY

AUGUST WILHELMJ AND JAMES BROWN.

BOOK 4A.

(FOURTH BOOK OF TECHNICAL PRACTICE.)

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

REVISED EDITION

AS PERFORMED AT THE ROYAL ALBERT HALL, JANUARY 23, 1902.

THE

BLIND GIRL OF CASTÉL CUILLÉ

CANTATA

THE POEM TRANSLATED FROM THE GASCON OF JASMIN BY

H. W. LONGFELLOW

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR.

(Op. 43.)

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

THE LAY OF THE BROWN ROSARY

A DRAMATIC CANTATA

IN FOUR SCENES

THE WORDS ADAPTED FROM THE POEM OF

ELIZABETH BARRETT BROWNING

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

A. VON AHN CARSE.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Second Edition.

NARCISSUS AND ECHO

CANTATA FOR CHORUS, SOLI, AND ORCHESTRA

Price 3s.; Choral Parts, 1s. each. Also,

"GOD IS OUR REFUGE" (Ps. 46)

For Chorus, Soli, and Orchestra. Price 1s.

COMPOSED BY

EDWIN C. SUCH,

Mus. Bac., Cantab.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS (S.A.T.B.)

By W. W. PEARSON.

BEN BOWLEGS ... ... 3d.
"Ben Bowlegs" is funny, but so delicately handled as to commend itself even to the most critical listener."—Musical Times.

THE SNOW-WHITE DOE ... ... 4d.
"The well-known hunting song rhythm is happily travestied."—Musical Times.

A RYGHTE MERRIE GESTE ... ... 4d.
"The florid style of some of the old glee writers is caricatured with capital effect."—Musical Times.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS. By A. B. ALLEN.

"Tom, the Piper's son." S.A.T.B. Price 3d.
"Dickory, dickory dock." S.A.T.B. Price 4d.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

KILLIECRANKIE
(The Burial March of Dundee)
A BALLAD
FOR TENOR SOLO, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA
The Words from "Lays of the Scottish Cavaliers," by PROFESSOR AYTOUN
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
J. A. MOONIE.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.
Tonic Sol-fa, Eightpence.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Just Published.

KING GOLDEMAR
(The Story of Elfin Mount)
AN OPERETTA FOR JUNIOR SCHOOLS AND CLASSES
THE LIBRETTO WRITTEN BY
K. SIDFORD.
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
THEODORE S. HOLLAND.

Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa combined, price Two Shillings.
Tonic Sol-fa, Ninepence.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Just Published.

CHAMPAGNERLIED
FOR TENOR SOLO, CHORUS OF MEN'S VOICES (T.T.B.B.), AND ORCHESTRA
THE POEM WRITTEN BY
COUNT STRACHWITZ
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
HEINRICH HOFMANN.
(Op. 17.)
The English Translation by G. E. Troutbeck.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Just Published.

THE JUNIOR VIOLINIST
Edited by C. Egerton Lowe.

Book 9.
SONATA IN E MINOR
FOR VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE
(First to Third Position)
BY
W. A. MOZART.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence net.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Just Published.

TRISTESSE
POUR
VIOLONCELLE
Avec Accompagnement de Piano
PAR
J. HOLLMAN.

Price Two Shillings net.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

NEW FOREIGN PUBLICATIONS.

s. d

ANZOLETTI, M.—"Recollections of Italy." Six Pieces. For Violin and Pianoforte:—
1. From Vallombrosa; 2. On the banks of the Garda; 3. From the Venetian Lagunes; 4. From the Colli Euganei; 5. From San Remo; 6. From Viareggio each 3 0

BALAKIREW, M.—Valse impromptu. For Pianoforte ... 5 0

BOELY, A. P. F.—"Reçueil de Noëls." Fourteen Preludes. For Organ. Op. 15 ... ... net 2 6

BARTMUSS, R.—Concert, No. 2 (G minor). For Organ and Orchestra. Op. 33:—
Full Score ... net 8 0 | Parts ... ... net 8 0

BOSSI, M. ENRICO—Six morceaux. For Pianoforte. Op. 101:—
1. Prelude, 1s. net; 2. Giga, 1s. net; 3. Canon, 1s. 6d. net; 4. Canzonetta, 1s. net; 5. Cache-cache, 1s. net; 6. Valse mélancolique ... ... net 1 6

DENKMÄLER DER TONKUNST IN ÖSTERREICH.
VIII. Jahrgang:—
Book I. A. Hammerschmidt. Dialogi ... ... net 20 0
,, II. J. Pachelbel. Fugen über das Magnificat für Orgel oder Clavier... ... ... net 8 0

FONTENAILLES, H. de—"Trianon." For Mezzo-Soprano or Baryton; Soprano or Tenor 5 0
—— "Si je vous parlais de ma Peine." For Mezzo-Soprano or Baryton; Soprano or Tenor 3 0
—— "Enfants cueillez les Fleurs." For Mezzo-Soprano or Baryton; Soprano or Tenor 4 0
—— "Amour Jaloux." For Mezzo-Soprano or Baryton; Soprano or Tenor 4 0

GAAL, FR.—Suite. For Violin and Pianoforte (Harmonium, Violoncello, and Bass ad lib.). Op. 54 ... ... net 6 0

GILLET, E.—"Amoureuse." For Pianoforte ... ... ,, 2 0

GRÉTRY.—"Sylvain." Comedy, in One Act. Full Score ,, 16 0

HUBER, H.—Symphonie (E minor). Op. 115:—
Full Score ... net 40 0 | Parts ... ... net 48 0

JUON, P.—Trio (A minor). For Pianoforte, Violin, and Violoncello. Op. 17 ... ... net 8 0
—— "Satyre et Nymphen." Nine Miniatures. For Pianoforte. Op. 18 ... ... complete, net 6 0
1. Etude, 1s. 6d. net; 2. Idylle, 1s. 6d. net; 3. Reverie, 1s. 6d. net; 4. Intermezzo grotesque, 1s. net; 5. Valse lente, 1s. 6d. net; 6. Elegie, 1s. net; 7. Humoreske, 1s. 6d. net; 8. Canzonetta, 1s. net; 9. Scherzo ... net 1 6

KOESSLER, H.—Symphonische Variationem:—
Full Score ... net 20 0 | Parts ... ... net 20 0

LACK, T.—Doux Message. For Pianoforte Solo. Op. 185 ,, 1 6
—— Serenade-Madrilene. For Pianoforte Solo. Op. 186 ,, 1 6
—— Anette-Valse. For Pianoforte Solo. Op. 187 ... ,, 1 6
—— Mazurka-Reverie. For Pianoforte Solo. Op. 188... ,, 1 6
—— L'Aveu au Bal. For Pianoforte Solo. Op. 189 ... ,, 1 6
—— Caprice-Tarentelle. For Pianoforte Solo. Op. 190 ,, 1 6

LIEBLING, E.—"Florence." Grand Valse Brillante. For Pianoforte Solo. Op. 12 ... ... net 2 0
—— 2nd Valse Brillante. For Pianoforte Solo. Op. 19 ,, 2 0

MALAT, J.—"Venkovské obrazky." Quartet. For Pianoforte, Two Violins, and Violoncello (Harmonium ad lib.):—
Score and Parts ... ... net 10 0

MALHERBE, C.—Petite Etude. For the Left Hand ... ,, 2 0

MALLING, O.—"Die heilige Jungfrau." For Organ. Op. 70.
In Two Books... ... ... each, net 2 0

PAUL, E.—Trio. For Pianoforte, Violin, and Violoncello. Op. 14 ... ... 6 0

POPPER, D.—High School for Violoncello Players. Op. 73.
In Four Books... ... ... each, net 6 0

SAINT-SAËNS.—"Elle." For Voice and Pianoforte. 1. Baritone; 2. Mezzo-Soprano ... ... each 4 0
—— "Desir d'amour." For Voice and Pianoforte. 1. Baritone; 2. Mezzo-Soprano ... ... each 4 0
—— Caprice (Op. 52, No. 6). For Violin and Pianoforte, by Ysaÿe ... ... net 4 0

STRAUSS, R.—Funf Gedichte. For Voice and Pianoforte. Op. 46:—
No. 1. Ein Obdach gegen Sturm und Regen. English and German words ... ... net 2 0
,, 2. Gestern war ich Atlas ... ... ,, 2 0
,, 3. Die sieben Siegel ... ... ,, 2 0
,, 4. Morgenrot... ... ... ,, 3 0
,, 5. Ich sehe wie in einem Spiegel ... ... ,, 2 9
—— Funf Lieder. Op. 47:—
1. Auf ein Kind; 2. Des dichters Abendgang; 3. Rückleben; 4. Einkehr; 5. Von den sieben Zechbrüdern ... ...
—— Funf Lieder. Op. 48:—
1. Freundliche Vision; 2. Ich schwebe; 3. Kling; 4. Winterweise; 5. Winterliebe... ... ...
—— "Feuersnot." Ein Singgedicht. Op. 50:—
Pianoforte Score net 14 0 | Vocal Score ... ... net 18 0

VAILLANT, H.—Marche funèbre. For Organ Op. 15 ,, 2 0

VECCHI, ORAZIO—"L'Amfiparnaso." Eine Komödie von 1597. Full Score by Rob. Eitner ... ... net 15 0

WIDOR.—L'Orgue Moderne. Book 20 ... ... ,, 2 0

WITKOWSKI, G. M.—Symphony. For Orchestra:—
Full Score ... net 15 0 | Parts ... ... ,, 25 0

Sold at half-price, if not marked net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Orchestral Works by British Composers.

		Strings. s. d.		Wind. s. d.		Full Score s. d.
William Henry Bell ...	"A Song in the Morning"	7 0	...	—		—
Frederic H. Cowen ...	Symphony No. 4 (The Welsh)	7 0	...	13 0	...	15 0
,, ,, ...	Four English Dances in the Olden Style	6 0	...	12 0	...	10 6
,, ,, ...	Do. (Small Orchestra)	6 0	...	9 0	...	—
,, ,, ...	Waltz from "The Sleeping Beauty"	2 0	...	6 6	...	5 0
,, ,, ...	Overture, "The Butterfly's Ball"	6 6	...	14 3	...	10 6
S. Coleridge-Taylor ...	Four Characteristic Waltzes (also for Small Orchestra) ...	6 0	...	12 0	...	5 0
,, ,, ...	Ballade in D minor (Violin and Orchestra)	2 6	...	—		—
,, ,, ...	Overture to "The Song of Hiawatha"	5 0	...	13 6	...	—
,, ,, ...	Solemn Prelude	2 6	...	—		—
,, ,, ...	Ballade in A minor	4 6	...	10 6	...	7 6
,, ,, ...	Scenes from An Everyday Romance	9 6	...	—		—
,, ,, ...	Romance in G (Violin and Orchestra)	2 6	...	—		—
,, ,, ...	"Toussaint l'Ouverture"	5 6	...	—		—
,, ,, ...	Idyll	2 6	...	—		—
Frederick Cliffe ...	Symphony in C minor	11 0	...	21 0	...	—
,, ,, ...	Ballade from do.	3 6	...	6 6	...	5 0
Edward Elgar ...	Variations on an Original Theme	10 0	...	22 0	...	25 0
,, ,, ...	Prelude and Angel's Farewell ("Gerontius")	3 0	...	—		—
,, ,, ...	Imperial March	2 0	...	7 0	...	3 6
,, ,, ...	Meditation ("The Light of Life")	2 0	...	5 6	...	—
,, ,, ...	Froissart. Concert Overture	4 6	...	9 0	...	7 6
,, ,, ...	Triumphal March ("Caractacus")	2 6	...	10 6	...	—
,, ,, ...	Chanson de Nuit	1 3	...	1 6	...	2 6
,, ,, ...	Chanson de Matin	1 6	...	1 6	...	2 6
,, ,, ...	Three Pieces. 1. Mazurka	2 6	...	5 0	...	5 0
,, ,, ...	2. Sérénade Mauresque	2 6	...	4 3	...	5 0
,, ,, ...	3. Contrasts	2 6	...	5 3	...	5 0
,, ,, ...	Intermezzo ("Dorabella") for strings, woodwind, and drums (from Variations on an Original Theme) ...	2 3	...	1 6	...	3 0
Ernest Ford ...	Grand Valse from the "Faust" Ballet	2 6	...	11 3	...	—
,, ,, ...	Scène Bacchanale from the "Faust" Ballet	5 0	...	—		—
Henry Gadsby ...	"The Forest of Arden." Intermezzo and Tantarra	4 0	...	6 0	...	7 6
Edward German ...	"Henry VIII." Overture	3 0	...	—		—
,, ,, ...	Do. Prelude, Act II.	2 0	...	—		—
,, ,, ...	Do. Prelude, Act III.	2 0	...	4 3	...	—
,, ,, ...	Do. Coronation March	2 0	...	4 3	...	3 6
,, ,, ...	Do. Dude, Act V.	2 0	...	—		—
,, ,, ...	Do. Three Dances	4 0	...	7 6	...	7 6
,, ,, ...	"As you like it." Masque (Three Dances)	4 6	...	10 6	...	7 6
,, ,, ...	English Fantasia, "In Commemoration"	5 6	...	—		—
,, ,, ...	"Gipsy Suite." Four Characteristic Dances	7 0	...	14 0	...	10 6
,, ,, ...	"Hamlet." Symphonic Poem	6 6	...	13 0	...	—
,, ,, ...	"The Seasons." Spring	5 0	...	12 3	...	—
,, ,, ...	Do. Harvest Dance (Summer)	5 0	...	12 6	...	—
,, ,, ...	Do. Autumn	2 6	...	6 0	...	—
,, ,, ...	Do. Winter	7 0	...	16 6	...	—
,, ,, ...	Suite in D minor	13 6	...	26 6	...	—
,, ,, ...	Do. Valse Gracieuse	4 0	...	10 0	...	7 6
,, ,, ...	"Richard III." Overture	2 6	...	7 0	...	7 6
,, ,, ...	"Romeo and Juliet." Prelude	2 6	...	5 6	...	In the Press.
,, ,, ...	Do. Pastorale	2 0	...	5 6	...	—
,, ,, ...	Do. Pavane	2 0	...	5 6	...	3 6
,, ,, ...	Do. Nocturne	2 0	...	5 6	...	—
,, ,, ...	Do. Dramatic Interlude	2 0	...	5 6	...	—
,, ,, ...	"Much ado about nothing." Overture	4 6	...	10 6	...	—
,, ,, ...	Do. Bourrée and Gigue	4 0	...	9 0	...	In the Press
Battison Haynes ...	"Westwood" Gavotte (also for Small Orchestra)	2 0	...	4 3	...	—
,, ,, ...	Idyll (Violin and Orchestra)	2 0	...	2 9	...	—
George Henschel ...	Incidental Music to Shakespeare's "Hamlet"	7 6	...	15 0	...	30 0
Oliver King ...	Concert Overture (No. 1), "Among the Pines"	2 6	...	7 3	...	4 0
,, ,, ...	Concert Overture (No. 2)	2 0	...	—		—
,, ,, ...	"Night." A Symphony in F	8 6	...	—		10 6
Alex. C. Mackenzie ...	Benedictus	1 6	...	2 0	...	5 0
,, ,, ...	"Burns." 2nd Scotch Rhapsody	3 6	...	6 6	...	5 0
,, ,, ...	"Colomba." Prelude	2 0	...	4 9	...	4 0
,, ,, ...	Do. Ballet Music and Rustic March	4 0	...	9 3	...	10 6
,, ,, ...	Concerto for Violin	6 6	...	10 3	...	21 0
,, ,, ...	Highland Ballad	2 6	...	4 0	...	—
,, ,, ...	"Jason." Intermezzo	2 0	...	5 3	...	7 6
,, ,, ...	"La belle dame sans merci"	5 6	...	11 9	...	7 6
,, ,, ...	"The Little Minister." Overture	4 6	...	10 0	...	—
,, ,, ...	Do. Three Dances (also for Small Orchestra)	4 6	...	11 0	...	—
,, ,, ...	"Manfred." "Astarte"	3 0	...	—		—
,, ,, ...	Do. Pastorale	4 0	...	—		—
,, ,, ...	Do. "The Flight of the Spirits"	5 0	...	—		—
,, ,, ...	Morris Dance	2 6	...	—		—
,, ,, ...	Pibroch Suite (Violin Solo and Orchestra)	6 6	...	11 6	...	—
,, ,, ...	Processional March	2 6	...	—		—
,, ,, ...	"Ravenswood" Music (Prelude and 1st, 2nd, and 3rd Entr'actes)	8 6	...	—		—
,, ,, ...	Do. Courante (3rd Entr'acte)	2 0	...	6 0	...	—
,, ,, ...	Rhapsodie Ecossaise (No. 1)	3 6	...	8 0	...	5 0
,, ,, ...	"Story of Sayid." Solemn March	1 6	...	3 9	...	—
,, ,, ...	"Twelfth Night." Overture	6 6	...	12 0	...	12 0
Hamish MacCunn ...	"The Land of the Mountain and the Flood"	4 0	...	8 0	...	10 6
C. H. H. Parry ...	Symphonic Variations	4 6	...	8 6	...	10 0
Percy Pitt ...	Air de Ballet (String Orchestra)	2 6	...	—		2 0
,, ,, ...	Ballade (Violin Solo and Orchestra)	2 6	...	6 0	...	10 6
,, ,, ...	Coronation March	2 6	...	In the Press.		In the Press.
C. Villiers Stanford ...	The Irish Symphony	11 0	...	22 6	...	30 0
,, ,, ...	Prelude to "Œdipus Rex"	4 0	...	8 0	...	6 0
,, ,, ...	Symphony (No. 4) in F major	11 0	...	26 0	...	30 0
,, ,, ...	Suite for Violin and Orchestra	7 0	...	12 6	...	21 0
Arthur Sullivan ...	Overture, "In Memoriam"	4 6	...	8 6	...	15 0
,, ,, ...	Overture, "Di Ballo"	5 0	...	12 0	...	12 0
,, ,, ...	"The Tempest." Incidental Music	11 6	...	19 0	...	30 0

 MS. copies can be lent on hire in all cases where no prices are inserted.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

A Modern School for the Violin

BY

AUGUST WILHELMJ AND JAMES BROWN.

THE purpose of this Work is to provide, in one systematic and comprehensive scheme, all that is necessary for the acquirement of the Art of Modern Violin Playing.

"A Modern School for the Violin" will consist of Six Books devoted to Daily Technical Practice, Six Books of Studies for Violin alone, and a large number of Pieces with Pianoforte Accompaniment, the Violin parts being specially edited for the purposes of teaching.

SECTION A.—TECHNICAL PRACTICE. IN SIX BOOKS.

The foundation of "A Modern School for the Violin" is laid by means of a series of Six Books dealing exclusively with the important subject of Daily Technical Practice. The First Book of Technical Practice (Book 1A) is limited to the 1st Position; the Second Book (2A) to the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd Positions; the Third Book (3A) to the first five Positions; and so on. Bowings and other technical devices are introduced in a similarly progressive manner throughout. Each Book of Technical Practice is divided into "Lessons" (or Chapters), and each Lesson contains a number of short repeating Exercises on some definite point of Violin Technique—as Fingering, Bowing, &c., with the needful explanations. Included in each Book will be found a complete set of Scales and Arpeggi, arranged according to the particular stage of advancement reached.

Taken as a whole, this Section is intended to facilitate, and to insist on, a thorough, steady, and continuous progress in the mastery of the Instrument, this being the only possible means of preparing the groundwork for artistic achievement with all its lasting delights.

SECTION B.—STUDIES. IN SIX BOOKS.

Section B is formed of a series of original and selected Studies, in Six Books. Each Book of Studies (Section B) is carefully co-ordinated, in respect of difficulty and range of subject, with the correspondingly numbered Book of Technical Practice (Section A). Thus the First Book of Studies (1B) is written in the 1st Position; the Second Book (2B) in the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd Positions; the 3rd Book (3B) in all Positions up to and including the 5th; and so on. It should further be explained that the two Sections are designed to complement one another, and that the "School" must be practised, not in single Books of Technical Practice and Studies alternately, but in pairs. Thus, Books 1A and 1B are to be taken concurrently, then Books 2A and 2B, 3A and 3B, and so on.

1A.	TECHNICAL PRACTICE (1st Position)	2s. od.	1B.	STUDIES (1st Position)	2s. od.
2A.	Ditto (1st, 2nd, and 3rd Positions)	2s. od.	2B.	Ditto (1st, 2nd, and 3rd Positions) ..	2s. 6d.
3A.	Ditto (1st to 5th Position)	3s. od.	3B.	Ditto (1st to 5th Position)	3s. od.
4A.	Ditto (all Positions)	2s. 6d.	4B.	.. ..
5A.	Ditto		5B.	.. ..
6A.	Ditto		6B.	.. ..
	Books 1A, 2A, 3A, and 4A now ready.			Books 1B, 2B, and 3B now ready.

PIECES.

In completion of the scheme of "A Modern School" a large number of Pieces will be published, in a form designed to fulfil the requirements of Violin Teachers and Students. In each number the Violin part will be furnished with complete Fingerings and Bowings, besides remarks as to the methods of rendering, &c.

Now Ready.

No. 13.	TWELVE FOLK DANCES FROM DENMARK. (1st Position)	2s. od.
No. 14.	SONATA IN G MINOR. G. Tartini. (All Positions)	2s. od.
No. 15.	OVERTURE TO SAMSON. G. F. Handel. (1st, 2nd, and 3rd Positions)	2s. od.
No. 16.	SONATINA IN D. Franz Schubert. (1st, 2nd, and 3rd Positions)	2s. od.
No. 17.	EIGHT HYMN TUNES. Various Composers. (1st Position)	1s. 6d.
No. 18.	STYRIAN DANCES (LÄNDLER). Josef Lanner. (1st to 5th Position)	2s. od.
No. 20.	SONATA IN G. Joseph Haydn. (1st to 5th Position)	2s. od.
No. 22.	CONCERTO IN A MINOR. Pierre Rode. (Op. 9.) (All Positions)	2s. 6d.
No. 23.	TWELVE CAROLS. (1st Position)	2s. od.
No. 25.	RÊVERIE. Henri Vieuxtemps. (Op. 22, No. 3.) (Advanced)	2s. od.
No. 26.	FOUR LITTLE PIECES. (From Op. 8.) Ignaz Pleyel. (1st Position)	2s. od.
No. 27.	SARABANDE AND TAMBOURIN. Jean-Marie Leclair. (1st to 5th Position)	2s. od.
No. 28.	BOURRÉE AND GIGUE. J. S. Bach. (1st and 3rd Positions)	1s. 6d.

In the Press.

No. 19.	PRELUDE AND FUGUE IN G MINOR. J. S. Bach. (Advanced)
No. 21.	CONCERTO IN A MINOR. J. S. Bach. (1st to 6th Position)
No. 24.	SONATA IN A. W. A. Mozart. (1st to 5th Position)
No. 29.	BALLADE AND POLONAISE. Henri Vieuxtemps

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited
AND
NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

Printed by Novello and Company, Ltd., at the Novello Works, Soho, and published at 1, Berners St. (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen St. (E.C.). Sold also by Simpkin, Marshall, Hamilton, Kent & Co., Ltd., Paternoster Row (E.C.).—Saturday, March 1, 1902.

F. Liszt

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 710.—Vol. 43. APRIL 1, 1902. Price 4d.; Postage, 1½d.
Registered for transmission abroad. Annual Subscription, Post-free, 5s.

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY,

ROYAL ALBERT HALL.

Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.

Conductor: Sir FREDERICK BRIDGE, Mus.D.

THURSDAY EVENING, APRIL 17, AT 8.

J. F. BRIDGE'S

THE

FORGING OF THE ANCHOR

THE WORSHIPFUL COMPANY OF MUSICIANS'

CORONATION PRIZE-MARCH

(Composed by PERCY GODFREY).

SULLIVAN'S

THE GOLDEN LEGEND

Artists:

Miss AGNES NICHOLLS.
Miss MARIE BREMA.
Mr. WILLIAM GREEN.
Mr. ANDREW BLACK.
MR. GEORGE STUBBS.

BAND AND CHORUS, ONE THOUSAND.

Organist: Mr. H. L. BALFOUR.

Prices: Stalls, 7s. 6d.; Arena, 6s.; Balcony (Reserved), 5s.; (Unreserved), 4s.; Gallery (Promenade), 1s.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC,

TENTERDEN STREET, W.

Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.
Patron: HIS MOST GRACIOUS MAJESTY THE KING.
President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF CONNAUGHT, K.G.
Principal: Sir A. C. MACKENZIE, Mus.D., LL.D., F.R.A.M.

MIDSUMMER TERM begins Monday, April 28. Entrance Examination, Thursday, April 24, at 2.

STERNDALE BENNETT SCHOLARSHIP for Male Candidates in any branch of music. Last day for entry, April 8.

PAREPA-ROSA SCHOLARSHIP for Female Vocalists. Last day for entry, April 10.

Prospectus, Entry Forms, and all information may be obtained from the Secretary.

F. W. RENAUT, Secretary.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

METROPOLITAN EXAMINATION OF PROFESSIONAL TEACHERS AND PERFORMERS.

ADDITIONAL PASSES.

In Pianoforte Playing. As performers: Rosamond Ellen Clough, Edith Fanny Day, Mabel Hills, and Rosalie Ethel Hurst.
In Theatrical Conductorship: William Devin.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC,

PRINCE CONSORT ROAD, SOUTH KENSINGTON, S.W.

Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1883.

Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.
President: H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.
Director: Sir C. HUBERT H. PARRY, D.C.L., M.A., Mus. Doc.
Hon. Sec.: CHARLES MORLEY, Esq., M.P.

THE NEXT TERM begins on Monday, May 5. Entrance Examination, Friday, May 2.

Syllabus and official Entry Forms, may be obtained at the College, rince Consort Road, South Kensington.

FRANK POWNALL, Registrar.

ST. ANNE'S, Soho.—BACH ORGAN RECITALS, E. H. THORNE, Saturdays in April, 3.30 p.m.

THE LONDON MUSICAL FESTIVAL

QUEEN'S HALL,

APRIL 28 TO MAY 3, 1902.

UNDER THE MANAGEMENT OF MR. ROBERT NEWMAN.

Full particulars will be duly announced.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

The Midsummer F.R.C.O. Examination commences on July 14, 1902. The solo-playing tests are: Toccata (without Fugue) in D minor (Dorian mode), Bach; No. 3, Vol. III., p. 30, Peters' edition; Book X., Novello & Co.; Vol V., p. 360, Augener & Co. Prelude and Fugue in A major, Samuel Wesley; Cecilia Book 31, Augener & Co. Fantasia in C minor, Op. 35, A. Hesse; Cecilia Book 24, Augener & Co.

The A.R.C.O. Examination commences on July 21.

Dr. F. J. Sawyer, F.R.C.O., will deliver a course of lectures on "Extempore Playing," with musical illustrations, at 3 p.m., on Saturdays, April 19, 26, and May 3.

The Book of Examination Papers may be obtained by Members, price 5s., postage 5d.

The College Library is open daily from 10 to 5. On Saturdays the College is open from 10 to 1.

Members desiring practice on the College organ may obtain particulars on application.

The large Hall, and sundry smaller rooms, can be hired for Concerts, Meetings, &c.

E. H. TURPIN, Hon. Secretary.
Hart Street, Bloomsbury, W.C.

THE ASSOCIATED BOARD

OF THE

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC AND ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC FOR LOCAL EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC.

Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.
President: H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.

LOCAL CENTRE EXAMINATIONS

A Second Local Centre Period will be held in the Autumn, in London, and a few Suburban Centres. For particulars, apply to the Central Office.

SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS, 1902,

Will be held in three periods—viz., March-April, June-July, and October-November.

For particulars see SYLLABUS B.

Copies of Syllabus A and B will be sent Post-free on application to the Secretary.

Theory papers set in Local Centre and School Examinations in 1896 to 1901 inclusive, can be obtained on application. Price 3d. per set, per year, Post-free.

The Board gives annually Six Exhibitions tenable for two years.

JAMES MUIR, Secretary.
14, Hanover Square, London, W.
Telegraphic address: "Associa, London."

THE GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Managed by the Corporation of the City of London.

Principal: WILLIAM H. CUMMINGS, Mus. D., Dub., F.S.A., Hon. R.A.M.

Pupils can enter at any time.

Individual tuition by eminent teachers at moderate fees. Within three minutes of Ludgate Hill, Fleet Street, and Blackfriars Station (District Railway).

110 Prizes, Medals, and Scholarships, giving free and assisted tuition, competed for annually. Subjects taught: Piano, Singing, Organ, Harmony, all Orchestral and Solo Instruments, Stage Training in Elocution, Gesture, Fencing, and Opera. Lady superintendent has charge of all ladies attending the school. Prospectus and form of entry free on application to H. SAXE WYNDHAM,
Victoria Embankment, E.C. Secretary.

UNIVERSITY OF DURHAM.

The Examinations for Degrees in Music are held in Durham in March (testamur only) and September.

For particulars, with copies of former Examination Papers, apply to the Secretary of Examinations, or to Dr. Armes, Durham.

BIRMINGHAM AND MIDLAND INSTITUTE.

SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Principal ... ... Granville Bantock.

SESSION 1901-02.

The Session consists of Autumn Term (September 16 to December 21), Winter Term (January 20 to April 5), Summer Term (April 7 to June 21). Instruction in all branches of music. Students' Choir, Students' Orchestra, Fortnightly Rehearsals, Students' Concerts.

Prospectus and further information may be obtained from
ALFRED HAYES, Secretary.

GUILD OF CHURCH MUSICIANS,

42, Berners Street, Oxford Street, London, W.

Patron: His Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury.
President: The Very Rev. Francis Pigou, D.D., Dean of Bristol.

A.G.C.M. and F.G.C.M. Diploma Examination, in April and July, 1902, at the following Centres: London, Birmingham, Liverpool, Manchester, Bristol, Leicester, Leeds, Glasgow, and Belfast.
Annual Membership Subscription, 10s. 6d. Life, £5 5s.
The new Calendar is sent (Post-free) for six stamps.
Free register for Organists requiring appointments.
For further particulars, apply to
Dr. LEWIS, 42, Berners Street, London, W.

VICTORIA COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

(Under the direction of The Victoria College Corporation, Ltd.)

INCORPORATED 1891.

Hon. Patron: His Grace the Duke of Argyll, K.G., K.T.

BOARD OF EXAMINATION.

J. H. Lewis, Mus. Doc., D.C.L. (Principal).
George Prior, Mus. Doc., Oxon., F.R.C.O. (Registrar).
J. M. Bentley, Mus. Doc., Cantab., Hon. F.R.A.M.
(Chairman of the Board).

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT.

Director of Studies: Churchill Sibley, Mus.D.

West-End Premises: 42, Berners Street, Oxford Street, W.
First-class instruction in all musical subjects. Moderate terms.
Provincial Examinations in all subjects, for Certificates and Diplomas, A.V.C.M., L.V.C.M., F.V.C.M., throughout the year.
Metropolitan Examination in April, 1902.
Local Theoretical Examination at all Centres in April and July, 1902.
Holder of the Victoria College Vocal Scholarship, 1901: Miss Lottie L. Wakelin, L.R.A.M.
Gold, Silver, and Bronze Medals are offered for competition.
Local Secretaries required for towns not already represented.
All communications to be addressed as usual to the Central Office, 11, Burleigh Street, Strand, W.C.
GEO. A. STANTON, F.G.C.M., Secretary.

NATIONAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC, Lim.

Patrons: The Duchess of Marlborough.
Madame Patti.
Warden: Dr. Tindall, A.T.C.L.

Exams. (Local), all grades, and for Diplomas, Medals, Certificates, April and May.
Local Secretaries wanted. Composers' Works published. Great advantages. W. J. MOSS, Sec., 192, Sutherland Avenue, W.

CORONATION PRIZE GLEE COMPETITION, 1902.—A lover of Glee-Singing and member of the Abbey Glee Club and other similar Clubs, has the pleasure to announce that, in order to stimulate the practice of GLEE-WRITING and to mark the present year of CORONATION, he is enabled, with the assistance of friends, to offer a PRIZE of TEN GUINEAS for the best original GLEE. Sir J. Frederick Bridge, Dr. W. H. Cummings, and Arthur H. D. Prendergast, Esq., have consented to act as Judges. Terms and conditions of the competition may be obtained of W. A. Everington, Esq., Leatholme, Shawfield Park, Bromley, Kent. The last date for sending in compositions is August 31, 1902.

NATIONAL CONSERVATOIRE

Inst., 1895. OF MUSIC, Ltd. Incor., 1900.
Warden: Professor ALEX. PHIPPS, Mus. Bac.
London Office and Educational Department, 60, Berners Street, W.
Musical Examinations in all Towns, April and May. Medals awarded. Diplomas of Associate, Licentiate, and Fellow, granted to Teachers, Organists, Bandmasters, Conductors, &c. Also Gold and Silver Medals.
Private and Class Lessons all subjects. Staff of 40 Professors.
Branches: The Conservatoire, 5, Hardman St., L'pool, M'chester, &c.

FOUR PRIZES, of £3 each, for FESTIVAL HYMN TUNES, Manchester Sunday School Union. Send stamp for conditions to F. Womersley, 53, Brown Street, Manchester.

FOR SALE.—Thirty copies Wagner's "The Nibelung's Ring," in English, by A. Formann. Cloth, new, at 2s. B. Seligsberg, Second-hand Bookseller, at Bayreuth.

FOR SALE.—RICHARD WAGNER'S "FLYING DUTCHMAN." Original corrections of the first printed edition of Pianoforte Score by the Master's hand.
B. Seligsberg, Second-hand Bookseller, at Bayreuth.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MADAME GOODALL (Soprano)
Oratorios and Concerts.
Burley Road, Leeds.

MADAME ANNIE HAYMAN (Soprano)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Thorncliffe, Lowfield Road, Stockport.

MISS BESSIE HOLT (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, Organ Recitals, &c.
Address, Rawstenstall, near Manchester.

MISS KATE GREGORY
(The new Yorkshire Contralto)
Professional Pupil of Albert Jowett, Esq., Yorkshire Training College of Music, Leeds.
Oratorios and Ballad Concerts.
Terms, apply, Doncaster.

MISS GERTRUDE HEY (Contralto)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Lawn Side, Clarendon Road, Whalley Range, Manchester.

MISS ALICE WOLSTENHOLME (Contralto)
Address, Radcliffe, Manchester.

MR. GWILYM RICHARDS (Tenor)
(Of the Queen's Hall Choral and Wagner Concerts; Crystal Palace St. James's Hall; London Musical Festival); Promenade Concerts.
105, North Side, Clapham Common, S.W.

MR. WILLIAM A. SHEEN
(Principal Tenor, The City Temple).
Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 116, High Street, Kingsland, N.E.

MR. WILLIAM D. VINCENT (Tenor)
For Ballads, Sunday Concerts, Irish, Scotch, and Foreign Songs.
Address, 167, Tachbrook Street, Belgrave Road, London, S.W.

MR. GORDON HELLER (Baritone)
A.R.C.M., Solo Singing and Teaching Singing.
For Concerts, &c. Address, 1, Craven Mansion, Lancaster Gate, W.

MR. AND MRS. WALLIS A. WALLIS
(Baritone, Soprano, and Elocutionists).
Concerts, Lyrical Recitals. Pupils (Resident, &c.). Sharon, Acton, W.

MR. JOSEPH BURLEY (Bass-Baritone)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c.
24, New Bond Street, Leicester.

MR. EATON COOTER (Basso-Cantante), A.R.C.M.
St. George's and H.M. Private Chapels, Windsor Castle.
Address, The Cloisters, Windsor.

MISS MARY OULD, L.R.A.M. (Solo Violinist)
For Concerts, At Homes, Lessons, &c.
Oakdene, Kilburn Priory, Maida Vale, W.

B. E. KENT (Lyric Authoress).
Apply, 155, Rye Lane, Peckham, S.E.

MISS EMILY VAUGHAN (Soprano), Medalist Society of Arts, will sing at Concerts, At Homes, &c., for expenses fees. Fernside, 44, Craven Park, Harlesden.

MISS FANNY CHETHAM

(DRAMATIC SOPRANO)
Queen's Hall Choral Concerts.
Daily Telegraph: "Sang in splendid style."
Address, Miss Chetham, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

MISS ESTELLA LINDEN

(YORKSHIRE SOPRANO)
Of Queen's Hall, St. James's Hall, Crystal Palace, and Provincial Concerts; also of Berlin, Frankfort, and Cologne Concerts, is now booking dates for next season.
Oratorios a specialty:—
Elijah, Messiah, St. Paul, Hymn of Praise, Judas Maccabæus, Creation, Stabat Mater, Samson, Last Judgment, Paradise and Peri, Hiawatha, Flying Dutchman, Seasons, Acis and Galatea, Ancient Mariner, May Queen, &c.
Address, 35, Lancaster Road, S. Hampstead, N.W.

MISS AMY SARGENT

A.R.A.M. (SOPRANO)
39, Blandford Square, N.W.

MADAME RUBY SHAW

A.R.C.M. (SOPRANO)
Desires Pupils and Engagements. Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, Banquets, At Homes. Address, 17, Panmure Road, Sydenham, S.E.

MISS

KATHERINE HAWKINS

(CONTRALTO), L.R.A.M.
For Oratorios, Ballad and Chamber Concerts.
Bryn-tirion, Sutton Court Road, Sutton, Surrey.

MISS BERYL CLIVE
(CONTRALTO),
14, Gladsmuir Road, Whitehall Park, N.

MISS ADELAIDE LAMBE
(CONTRALTO). Principal, Peterboro' Triennial Festival, Queen's Hall, and Crystal Palace Concerts, &c.
Please note change of address: Holmwood, Roxborough Park, Harrow.

MISS
GERTRUDE MACAULAY
(CONTRALTO)

Mr. FRED. WALKER (Hon. R.A.M., Professor of Singing, Royal Academy of Music and Guildhall School of Music) writes:—
"I have great pleasure in stating that Miss Gertrude Macaulay possesses a contralto voice of exceptional power and compass, and is thoroughly reliable in oratorio or ballads. I can strongly recommend her to concert givers."
Address, 73, Carlton Mansions, Maida Vale, W.

MISS MABEL WELLS
(CONTRALTO), R.A.M.
Pupil of Mr. A. Oswald, F.R.A.M., and Mr. E. Goossens, Senior.
For Oratorio or Ballad Concerts.
Address, Speakman Road, St. Helens.

MR. OTTO DENE
(TENOR).
For Oratorios, Ballads, &c.
Address, Ullswater Lodge, West Norwood, S.E.

MR. W. TREVOR EVANS
(TENOR).

Dublin Musical Society.—"Lohengrin," March 5, 1902.—"Mr. Trevor Evans, as Lohengrin, proved himself a very capable artist. He has acquired good-rounded vocal methods, and was able to deliver the trying music with force and accuracy. His chief characteristic was the vigour with which he aimed at full, faultless singing. The famous passage in which Lohengrin reveals his identity was given by him with excellent dramatic effect."—Irish Times, March 6, 1902.

"I am delighted with his voice, which I consider charming."—Adelina Patti.

Oratorios, Concerts, &c. All standard and new works in répertoire.
Address, 19, Lady Somerset Road, Kentish Town, London, N.W.

MR. JAMES LEYLAND
(TENOR).
For vacant dates apply, 106, Bolingbroke Grove, Wandsworth Common, S.W.

MR. SAMUEL MASTERS
(TENOR),
61, Alexandra Road, Wimbledon, S.W.

MR. HENRY PLEVY
(TENOR)

"Mr. Henry Plevy, who possesses an excellent tenor voice, sang well."—Standard.

"His voice is a robust tenor of considerable power and very pleasing quality."—Sheffield Daily Telegraph.
Address, 30, Hamilton Gardens, N.W.

MR. JOS. REED
(PRINCIPAL TENOR),
Trinity College, Cambridge.
Terms, &c., apply 31, Chesterton Road, Cambridge.

Mr. Henry J. Wood (Conductor, Queen's Hall Concerts) writes:—
"1, Langham Place, W., Feb. 14, 1901.

"Mr. Montague Borwell is an excellent vocalist.

"He has been most successful both at Queen's Hall, and at my Nottingham and Wolverhampton Concerts, in most difficult and trying rôles, and I consider him one of the most reliable and painstaking baritone vocalists now before the public.

"Henry J. Wood."

MR. MONTAGUE BORWELL
(BARITONE).
(Assistant Vicar-Choral, Westminster Abbey)

"Elijah."—Bromley.—"The title part was splendidly interpreted by Mr. Montague Borwell, and the main feature was manly devotionalism. The audience was made to feel that the Prophet was a sincere worshipper. There was no trace of boastfulness, and only a suggestion of righteous irony in the delivery of the Prophet's words in the Baal scene. The dramatic significance of the other portions seemed to arise out of the intense feeling of the singer. Mr. Borwell's earnestness of artistic aim and complete musical intelligence was revealed in every bar he sang. He made a great and genuine success throughout, and in 'Is not His Word' he produced a profound impression on many of his hearers."—Bromley Chronicle.

AND

MISS WINIFRED MARWOOD
(Mrs. Montague Borwell—SOPRANO).
Address, 56, Forburg Road, Stoke Newington, N.

MR. BENTLEY WEST
(TENOR)
is now Booking Dates for next season.
ORATORIOS—a specialty.
"Messiah," "Elijah," "Hymn of Praise," "St. Paul," "Samson," "Judas Maccabæus," "Jephtha," "Israel in Egypt," "Acis and Galatea," "Creation," "Golden Legend," "King Saul" (Parry), "Dream of Gerontius" (Elgar), &c.

Address, 18, Edna Street, Crumpsall, Manchester.

MR. JOHN BROWNING
(BARITONE),
SOLOIST, LEEDS MUSICAL FESTIVALS, 1898 and 1901.
Engagements fulfilled this Season at upwards of fifty towns in England, Ireland, and Scotland—in many cases re-engaged. Extensive répertoire, over 100 works.
Address, Marlbro' Grove, Leeds.

MR. HENRY DOBSON
(BARITONE)
(Of the London, Provincial, and Scottish Concerts).

Birmingham.—"An artistic début was made by Mr. Henry Dobson, baritone, whose method is distinctly scholarly in every way."—Birmingham Daily Mail, October 7, 1901.

". . . His voice is of a high timbre and well trained, his excellent phrasing being a feature of his singing."—Birmingham Daily Post, October 7, 1901.

"The vocal contributions were of a high standard of excellence, and Mr. Henry Dobson, baritone, is entitled to much distinction for his artistic efforts."—Birmingham Daily Gazette, October 7, 1901.
7, Station Terrace, Hucknall Torkard, Nottingham.

MR. CHARLES KNOWLES
(BARITONE)
Of the Leeds, London, Sheffield, and Chester Festivals.
Queen's Hall Promenade and Symphony Concerts.
Crystal Palace and principal Provincial Concerts.

Newport Choral Union. — "St. Paul." — "Mr. Charles Knowles, the baritone, has a fine voice, and sang well throughout, while in rare moments he reached the heights of inspiration."—South Wales Argus, Feb. 14, 1902.

Edinburgh Choral Union.—"Messiah."—"The contributions of Mr. Charles Knowles, the bass of the quartet of principals, were exceedingly enjoyable. His voice had roundness and excellent quality, and he sang, for example, 'Why do the nations,' in quite a brilliant manner. To the grand air 'The trumpet shall sound,' a telling obbligato on the trumpet was given by Mr. Mortimer, both the singer and the instrumentalist being at the close warmly applauded."—Scotsman, Jan. 2, 1902.

Belfast Philharmonic Society.—"St. Paul."—"Mr. Charles Knowles must have been a delighted surprise to many. If he has not already come he is the coming man. His voice is of rich quality, and his music was excellently interpreted and with fine dramatic effect. . . . An exceedingly fine exposition of the air 'Consume them all' was given by Mr. Knowles; again, in 'O God, have mercy,' he distinguished himself . . . Mr. Knowles sang all his music with such excellent effect that we hope we shall have him back again ere long."—Belfast Newsletter, Nov. 26, 1901.

Dundee Choral Union.—"Messiah."—"Mr. Charles Knowles created a very favourable impression. His voice is powerful, and he has framed his methods of vocalisation upon excellent models; alike in the tender air 'But who may abide' and the bravura air, 'Why do the nations,' Mr. Knowles proved himself a most capable artist."—Dundee Advertiser, Dec. 17, 1901.

For terms, &c., address—
24, Acacia Road, St. John's Wood, London, N.W.

MR. CHARLES TREE

"Elijah."—Bath.—Feb. 10, 1902.

"A voice of beauty and power. Created a great impression."—Journal.

"A particularly fine Elijah. Created a deep impression. A beautiful, rich voice."—Chronicle.

"Elijah."—Glasgow.—Feb. 27, 1902.

"One of the features of the concert was the fine rendering of the Prophet's music by Mr. Charles Tree."—Glasgow Herald.

"A great success as Elijah, his singing being characterised by great power and feeling."—Scotsman.

"Elijah."—Stirling.—Feb. 28, 1902.

"One saw the scornful Prophet jeering, indignantly rebuking, or in the depths of despair. Each varying mood was faithfully portrayed and vividly presented."—Journal.

"A fine personation. Artistic power, deft manipulation, every word clear, and every phrase accorded its full meaning."—Observer.

"Mr. Tree was pre-eminently successful."—Sentinel.

"Elijah."—Stafford.—March 11, 1902.

"His singing, pure and forceful, and full of sympathy, must ever command admiration."—Chronicle.

"A voice full of strength and richness. Considerable dramatic talent."—Advertiser.

Address, 23, Clifton Road, Maida Vale, W.

MR. ARTHUR WALENN
(BARITONE)
Of the Albert Hall, Queen's Hall, St. James's Hall Popular Concerts, Crystal Palace Saturday Concerts, Walenn Chamber Concerts, &c.
20, Ashworth Mansions, Elgin Avenue, London, W.

MR. EDGAR ARCHER

(PRINCIPAL BASS of the City Temple, of the Crystal Palace and St. James's Hall Concerts).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Apply, Langdale, Rutland Park, Willesden Green, N.W.

MISS MARIAN JAY

(SOLO VIOLINIST)
5, Hollywood Road, South Kensington.

MR. HERBERT WALENN

(SOLO VIOLONCELLIST).
Address, 5, Wellington Place, London, N.W.

MR. F. G. H. MOORE (A.R.A.M.)

(Walter Macfarren Gold Medalist, R.A.M.).
Solo Pianist and Accompanist, Concerts, At Homes, Lessons.
27, Lady Somerset Road, Highgate, N.W.

MISS ELLEN CHILDS

(CHROMATIC HARPIST)
Having studied in Paris under the direction of the Inventor, Miss Childs is prepared to give LESSONS on the NEW CHROMATIC HARP (without pedals). For terms, apply, 170, Belsize Road, N.W.; or, care of Messrs. Pleyell Wolff, Lyon and Co., 79-80, Baker Street, Portman Square, W.

SOLO BOYS.

LONDON TRAINING SCHOOL FOR CHORISTERS,
POLYTECHNIC, REGENT ST., W.

PRESIDENT, MR. ALBERTO RANDEGGER.
PRINCIPAL, MR. JAMES BATES.

Thoroughly trained, experienced Solo Boys, holding positions as Solo Boys at twenty-four of the principal London Churches, can be strongly recommended for Church Festivals, Oratorios, Concerts, Organ Recitals, &c.

Over 100 excellent Chorus Boys also available for all kinds of concerted music.

A special branch for the preparation of scholars (resident or day) for Cathedral or other Choristerships has now been opened. Full particulars of Mr. Bates, as above; or, 7, Blomfield Crescent, Upper Westbourne Terr., Hyde Pk., W. Telegrams—"Musicomane, London."

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.

MR. DUTTON (St. Paul's Cathedral) supplies Boys, personally trained and thoroughly reliable, for Church Festivals, Concerts, At Homes, &c. For terms, vacant dates, and further particulars, address, Mr. Henry J. Dutton, 17, Alpha Rd., New Cross, S.E.

MR. TANN'S SOLO BOYS.

MR. W. R. B. TANN, Organist and Choirmaster of St. Saviour's Church, Paddington, is prepared to supply well-trained Solo Boys for Oratorios, Festival Services, Organ Recitals, Concerts, At Homes, &c.

A number of excellent Chorus Boys also available.

For terms and vacant dates, address, Mr. W. R. B. Tann, 55, Warwick Road, Maida Vale, W.

Note Change of Address. Extension of Business.

ALICE E. JOSEPH

Late Private Secretary to Sir Augustus Harris, Drury Lane Theatre, Royal Opera, Covent Garden,

OPERA AND CONCERT AGENCY,
8, STAFFORD STREET, OLD BOND STREET, W.

MADAME MELBA and the best Artists have been engaged through above agency.

Telegraphic address: "Alicetta," London.

MR. STEDMAN'S MUSICAL AGENCY

(Established 1877).
Artists for Opera, Theatre, Oratorio, At Homes, Banquets, &c.
Choruses, Choir Boys and Girls.
Singing Lessons and Coaching.
58, Berners Street, W.

LONDON CONCERT & CHOIR AGENCY.

SOLOISTS and CHORUS VOICES for Festivals, Oratorios, Concerts, Glee and Madrigal Societies, At Homes, Banquets, &c.
Mr. JAMES BATES, Polytechnic, Regent Street, W.

CHOIR EXCHANGE and MUSIC PUBLISHING AGENCY. Chief Office: 5, East 14th Street, New York.
Church positions secured in the United States for Organists and Singers for May, 1902. Publication secured for Composers' Manuscripts. For terms, address, The John E. Webster Co.

MR. W. C. AINLEY, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (1884), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Correspondence. Terms moderate. Eastfield House, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who OBTAINED DEGREES OF MUS.D. AND MUS.B. at Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, London, and Durham Universities. Diplomas of L.R.A.M., A.Mus. L.C.M., L.Mus. L.C.M., F.R.C.O., and A.R.C.O.; Appointments at College and School of Music, and as English Cathedral and Parish Church Organists; Gold Medals, Silver Medals, Prizes, "Honours" and Pass Certificates (of the Colleges of Music) to the number of seven hundred. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Revision of Compositions, by Post, to correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Theory, Singing, Organ, and Pianoforte. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

REVISION OF MUSICAL COMPOSITIONS.
Dr. Horton Allison, Mus.D., 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

DR. ARNOTT, Mus. Doc., Dunelm, Organist to The Honble. Society of Gray's Inn, PREPARES CANDIDATES for all Examinations, and receives Pupils for Pianoforte, Organ, Singing; also, Harmony, Counterpoint, and Composition, personally or by correspondence. Scores revised and compositions scored. All letters to The Common Room, Gray's Inn.

MR. J. PERCY BAKER, A.R.A.M., Mus. Bac., Dunelm, teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Post. Personal Lessons in Pianoforte or Theory at own or pupil's residence; or, at 60, Berners Street, W. Schools attended. Address, 289, High Road, Lee, S.E.

MR. JOHN E. CAMPBELL (Composer of a Series of Organ Pieces, two Humoreskes for Piano, &c.,—The Vincent Co.) gives CORRESPONDENCE LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c. Special attention given to Composition. Address, Cuba House, Ramsgate.

MR. A. CHATFIELD, F.R.C.O., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., prepares CANDIDATES for MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS, personally or by post. Schools attended. Engagements accepted for Organ Recitals and Accompanist. Address, 4, Granville Road, North Finchley, N., and at 33, Rathbone Place, W.

MR. T. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.R.C.O., L.Mus.T.C.L., gives LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., and prepares CANDIDATES for ARTS and MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Latest successes, Mus.Bac., Oxford and Durham, L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., F.R.C.O., A.R.C.O., &c. Sheppard Street, Stoke-on-Trent.

DR. CUTHBERT HARRIS, Mus. Doc., Dunelm, F.R.C.O., preparation Personally or by Post for Mus. Bac., R.C.O., and all other Exams. Many past successes. Moderate fees. Ardencote, Buckleigh Road, Streatham, S.W.

DR. ATHELSTAN G. IGGULDEN, Mus. Doc. (Dunelm, F.R.C.O., gives LESSONS and prepares for all MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by post. The Dingle, Reigate, Surrey.

OLIVER IVE, Mus. Bac., Oxon.—LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, COMPOSITION, &c., by correspondence or otherwise. Candidates prepared for University and other Examinations, as well as for Preliminary Arts. Address, 24, Carmalt Gardens, Putney, S.W.

DR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac., Cantab.; Mus. Doc., Trinity College, Toronto; gives LESSONS, Personally or by Post, in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, FORM and ANALYSIS, ORCHESTRATION, ACOUSTICS, &c., and prepares for Musical Examinations. Latest successes: MUS. BAC., LONDON, Dec., 1901; DURHAM, 1901, 1900, and all previous years; OXFORD FINAL and FIRST MUS. BAC., 1900; F.R.C.O. and A.R.C.O., 1900 and 1901; L.R.A.M. (Composition and Pianoforte), 1900, 1899, &c.; A.R.C.M. (Theory of Music, Composition, and Pianoforte Teaching); CAMBRIDGE and DUBLIN, MUS. BAC., L.Mus. and A.Mus., L.C.M.; L.T.C.L., A.T.C.L., and Special Certificates, 1900, 1901, &c.; Senior Associated Board. Special and individual attention given to Correspondents. Terms moderate. Address, 70, Parkhill Road, London, N.W.

DR. F. J. KARN corrects MSS. for Publication, and writes Analyses of Classical Works for Examinations. 70, Parkhill Road, London, N.W.

MR. A. MANGELSDORFF, L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., Pianist, Coaches for DIPLOMAS in PIANOFORTE PLAYING and TEACHING. Paper work, postal. Address, Atherstone.

DR. MARCHANT, Mus.D., Oxon., F.R.C.O., (Author of "500 Fugue Subjects and Answers," Novello's Primers, No. 35), &c., PREPARES CANDIDATES for all Musical Examinations by Post. 10, Glebe Crescent, Stirling, N.B.

MR. H. H. L. MIDDLETON, Mus.B., desires to state that TWENTY-ONE of his Pupils were SUCCESSFUL at the A.R.C.M. EXAM., 1901. Hazelwood, Dollis Rd., Finchley, N

SPECIAL COACHING for DIPLOMAS by Post. A.R.C.M., 1895-1901, SEVENTY-SEVEN passes, L.R.A.M., 1897-1901, TWENTY-SEVEN passes. Many successes in other Degrees. Lessons in all branches of Theory, Piano, Organ, and Singing. Address, Mr. H. H. L. MIDDLETON, MUS. BAC., F.R.C.O., Hazelwood, Dollis Road, Finchley, N.

DR. HAMILTON ROBINSON, Mus. Doc., Dunelm, A.R.A.M., F.R.C.O., Lecturer on Harmony in King's College, Lond., Organist and Choirmaster, St. Stephen's, South Kensington. PIANOFORTE and ORGAN LESSONS, HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, COMPOSITION, &c., Personally or by Correspondence. Preparation for University, R.C.O., and all other Examinations. Classes. 25, Palliser Road, West Kensington, W.

MR. STRETTON SWANN, Mus. Bac., Dunelm, F.R.C.O., gives LESSONS or prepares for EXAMINATIONS. Personally or by Post.
181, Longley Road, Tooting, S.W.

MR. ALFRED W. TOMLYN, Mus. Bac., Dunelm, L.Mus.T.C.L., COACHES for EXAMS. Lessons follow closely lines of latest Exam. papers. Terms strictly reasonable. Many years' experience. 58, Comiston Road, Edinburgh.

ŠEVČÍK VIOLIN METHOD.
Upon which MM. Kubelik and Kocián have been trained.
PROFESSOR HERMAN KOENIG
(Of Prague, Pupil of Herr Ševčík)
AND
MISS ELOISE DAGMAR (Pianist and Vocalist).
Will give Private and Class LESSONS in VIOLIN and PIANOFORTE at the Brinsmead Rooms, Wigmore Street, W. (by kind permission of Messrs. Brinsmead).
For terms, &c., apply to Professor H. Koenig, 5, Chalcot Crescent, Regent's Park, N.W.

THE VIRGIL CLAVIER PIANOFORTE METHOD.—Mr. STIEBLER COOK, A.R.A.M., gives LESSONS on the above system (recommended by Paderewski, Von Bülow, De Pachmann). The most rapid and certain means for acquiring a perfect technique. 17, Keppel St., Russell Sq., London, W.C.

MR. ALLEN GILL, F.R.A.M., attends at 60, Berners Street, for LESSONS in VOICE PRODUCTION, SINGING, and for REPERTOIRE. For terms, apply to 21, Cathcart Hill, N.

MISS JEAN HUNTER, L.R.A.M. LESSONS at 60, Berners Street, W., in VOICE PRODUCTION, SINGING, and PIANOFORTE. Letters, 87, Herbert Rd., Plumstead.

MISS ROSALIE HURST, L.R.A.M.—LESSONS at 121, Victoria Street, S.W., in PIANOFORTE and SINGING, and at 31, Tregarvon Road, Clapham Common.

AMERICAN COMPOSER will instruct good Voices and Pianist to SING and PLAY his compositions. Concerts will be given to exceptional artist. Call, 67, Berners Street, W. Third floor.

KING'S COLLEGE, Cambridge.—CHORISTERSHIPS.—The TRIAL of VOICES to fill vacancies in the Choir School will be held on Thursday, May 15.
Candidates must have a good ear and good voice, and should be between nine and twelve years of age.
For particulars, apply to the Dean.
Names to be sent in by May 8.

ST. GEORGE'S, Albemarle Street, Piccadilly.—WANTED, good VOLUNTARY MEMBERS for mixed choir. Full musical services, also good chorus. Soprano, £5 per annum. Musical director, Mr F. A. Sewell, F.R.C.O. Apply, Hon. Sec., Mr. Colin Baker, A.R.C.O., 151, Barcombe Avenue, Streatham Hill.

ALTO WANTED. St. Augustine's, Queen's Gate, S.W. Good voice and first-rate reader. Cathedral Service. £20 per annum. Apply, by letter, John E. West, 1, Berners St., W.

ALTO WANTED, at once, for St. Stephen's, Walbrook, E.C. Must be communicant and good reader. Regular attendance essential. Salary, £15. Address, the Organist.

BRISTOL CATHEDRAL.—VACANCY for a TENOR LAY CLERK. Salary commencing, £70. Age not over thirty. Apply, by letter, enclosing copies of testimonials as to character and musical qualifications, to the Precentor, The Cathedral, Bristol.

KING'S COLLEGE, CAMBRIDGE.—There is a VACANCY in the Choir for a TENOR CHORAL SCHOLAR. Stipend offered, £80 a year (with certain allowances). The Competition will be held on Friday, May 9. For further information apply to the Dean, King's College, Cambridge. Applications to be sent in by May 2.

GONVILLE AND CAIUS COLLEGE, CAMBRIDGE.—MUSICAL SCHOLARSHIP.—A Musical Scholarship of £60 for Three Years, Residence to begin in October, will be offered for competition in the Easter Term of 1902, to persons who have not begun residence at the University. The successful candidate will be required to read for the Mus. Bac. degree, to act as deputy for the Organist, and when not so acting to sing, but not necessarily to take a solo part, in the services of the College Chapel. Candidates must be under 24 years of age. Names to be sent in on or before May 1, 1902. For detailed information, application should be made to the Rev. E. S. Roberts, Senior Tutor, the Rev. A. M. Knight, Dean, or to Dr. Charles Wood, Organist.

A LADY (good pianist) desires ENGAGEMENTS for Dances, At Homes, &c. Short solos for Concerts. Good accompanist. F., Sturt's Library, Farnham, Surrey.

TO CLERGY, ORGANISTS, CHORAL SOCIETIES, &c.—Mr. THOMAS J. CRAWFORD, Mus. Bac., F.R.C.O., Dip. Leipzig, may be engaged for RECITALS or ORATORIO work. Recent engagements: St. Clement Danes, Strand; St. Paul's, Covent Garden; St. James's, Bermondsey ("Messiah," Bermondsey Settlement Society); Congregational Church, Grays, Essex (opening new organ). 41, Mercers Rd., Tufnell Park, N.

PUPIL-ASSISTANT REQUIRED. Church close to Victoria Station. Fine three-manual Walker. Frequent recitals. Reduced Fees. A R.C.O., St. Mabyn, Ross Rd., Wallington.

MR. HERBERT C. MORRIS, F.R.C.O., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., Organist of St. David's Cathedral, has a VACANCY for a PUPIL-ASSISTANT. Last pupil passed F.R.C.O. and L.R.A.M., and appointed to Newark-on-Trent Parish Church Address, The Close, St. David's, Pembrokeshire.

WANTED, for a Volunteer Corps in the West of London, a BUGLE MAJOR, to Train Drum and Fife Band. One who has served in the Regular forces preferred. Salary, £20 per annum and 10s. for each Battalion parade, Apply, by letter, to Adjutant, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

ACCOMPANIST, daughter of Professor of Music, desires ENGAGEMENT, practice or otherwise, preferably with violinist or 'cellist. Has had much experience with violinist. Read anything at sight. Recommendation from Mr. HENRY BIRD. Miss N., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

DAUGHTER of Rector (pupil of Guildhall School of Music) desires POST in a MUSICAL FAMILY, where she could have time for practice. Salary, £30. Excellent references. Experienced teacher. Parisian French. Rector, Bawreth, Wickford, Essex.

PIANOFORTE TUNER desires SITUATION. Experienced. American Organs, Harmoniums, ordinary repairs, &c. Steady, and references good. F. L., Novello & Co., Ltd.

TUNER (out-door) requires SITUATION. London preferred. Good factory experience, Age 25. J. T. B., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, REGULATOR. One or two days a week. Write first, Morley, 6, Sussex Place, S. Kensington.

ASSISTANT-SALESMAN WANTED, in Piano Shop. State references, age, and salary, to Waddington and Sons, New Station Street, Leeds.

YOUNG LADY WANTED, for Music Saloon on South Coast. Only those with thorough knowledge of Catalogues, Book-keeping, and general business ability need apply. State age, salary required, and enclose photo and references to Pianola, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED to PURCHASE, a TEACHING CONNECTION, by Pianist, just returned from the Continent. Within 30 miles of Oxford. S. W., 106, Cavendish Rd., Balham, S.W.

MUSIC ROOMS, for TEACHING, PRACTISING, &c. Terms, 1s. per hour; parties of four or more, 1s. 6d. per hour. Hours, 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. Times should be booked in advance. Charles Woolhouse, 174, Wardour Street, W.

BAYREUTH FESTIVALS, 1902.—English Lady has ROOMS TO LET for the FESTIVALS. Apply to Mrs. Linhardt, Hofgartenstrasse 6, Bayreuth.

FOR SALE, at a bargain, a light oak VIRGIL PRACTICE CLAVIER. Only a short time in use. Circumstances necessitate the disposal of instrument. Apply, A. M. C., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, London, W.

OBOE, by Boosey (Cocoa). List price, Fifteen Guineas. Scarcely used. Morocco, velvet case. Approbation, 5½ Guineas. Constantine, Handsworth Wood, Birmingham.

LIFE OF MOZART (Zahn) for SALE, in 3 vols., complete (new). Offers to W. P., 4, Far Cross Bank, Kendal.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—ORGANISTS can PRACTISE on the Grand four-manual Organ by Willis (blown by hydraulic engines controlled from keyboard) in the Concert Hall of the Hampstead Conservatoire. The Hall is warmed by hot water. Specification of the organ, and terms of practice on application to the Secretary, Hampstead Conservatoire, Swiss Cottage, N.W.
N.B.—The Conservatoire is eight minutes by rail from Baker Street, Metropolitan Railway. Trains every ten minutes.

NEW ORGAN STUDIO, with Three-manual PIPE ORGAN, blown by water. Terms for Practice, 1s. per hour. At Smyth's Music Depôt, 54, London Road, Forest Hill, S.E.

ORGAN STUDIO.—3 manuals, C.O. pedals, 1s. hour. Willis, "Tower Organ Works," 2, Church Row, Aldgate, London, E.C. (Estd. 1827.) Musical Instruments and Fittings.

SPLENDID THREE-MANUAL ORGAN, 27 stops, entirely new, now in course of building, for SALE, to suit Church or Chapel; also, two-manual Organ, 12 stops, all latest improvements. A three-manual second-hand Organ, in good condition. W. E. Richardson and Sons, Central Organ Works, Hulme, Manchester.

The Swanton £50 Challenge is still unaccepted. See current No. of Musical Opinion.

THE SWANTON ECONOMIZER.

No matter what you pay for water for blowing your Organ, the Swanton Economizer will reduce the cost at least one-third.

This result is accomplished by simple and noiseless mechanism which is entirely automatic in its operation.

It extracts ALL the energy from the water under constant or fluctuating pressures.

While the feeder-dip never varies, the engine-stroke is always varying.

This is the ONLY SCIENTIFIC METHOD of blowing an organ by water pressure.

The saving in water soon pays for the small extra cost of the Swanton Economizer.

IF YOUR WATER BILL IS HEAVY,
IF YOU ARE GOING TO BLOW YOUR ORGAN,
IF YOU ARE SIMPLY CURIOUS TO KNOW MORE,
A DAINTY BROCHURE IS YOURS FOR THE ASKING.

HUGH SWANTON,

THE LEADING EXPERT IN ORGAN BLOWING.

79, Whitehorse Street, Stepney, London, E.

Organ-Blowing Installations now in operation :—

St. Paul's Cathedral,	Llandaff Cathedral,
Dublin (St. Patrick's Cathedral),	Dundalk Cathedral,
Norwich Cathedral,	Armidale (N.S.W.) Cathedral,

And several hundreds of others.

ORGANS (New and Second-hand) for SALE. Various prices. Instruments built for Church or Chamber, from £50, on up-to-date principles, at Bedwell and Son's, Cambridge Organ Works, Cambridge.

RELIABLE SECOND-HAND ORGANS for SALE. One, Two, and Three Manuals and Pedals. Prices from £45 to £500. Particulars on application. Gray and Davison, 6, Pratt Street, Camden Town, N.W. Organ Builders to Her late Majesty the Queen and H.R.H. Prince Consort. Established 1750.

MODERN-BUILT ORGANS for SALE.—Three Manuals (CC to G) and Pedals (CCC to F), 34 stops (open for inspection in London Church), £420. Three-manual and Pedal Chamber Organ. Height, 10 ft. 10 inches; part pneumatic. Open to offer. Two manuals and pedals, 15 stops, each, £175 and £150. One manual and pedals, 7 stops, £17. Inspection invited.
Eustace Ingram, Organ Builder,
Only Address, 361, Liverpool Road, London, N.

ORGANS for SALE or HIRE, or payable in five years. Five new Organs ready for delivery, £230, £240, £260, £265, £380, and five Second-hand Organs at £35, £80, £100, £165, £200. Price List, with specifications for building organs, from £100 to £2,000. Alterations, repairs, and tunings. Alfred Monk, Organ Works, 556, Holloway Road, London.

ORGANS (Pipe) for SALE. 2-manuals, in perfect condition. Pedals full compass, C.O. scale. Also a 1-manual. Bargains. W. B., 9, Burdett Road, Bow, E.

TWO-MANUAL ORGAN for SALE. CC to G. 17 stops; pedals, &c., tubular. Handsome case; magnificent tone. Seen and tried at Mylrea and Cartwright's Works, Park Road, West Green, N.

9 GUINEAS.—AMERICAN ORGAN (list price, 20 guineas), 11 stops, including two knee-stops and the beautiful solo stops, voix celeste and vox humana; two octave couplers, handsome high case; in use about four months, ten years' warranty; easy terms arranged. Packing and carriage free. Approval. Full price paid will be allowed within three years if exchanged for a higher-class instrument. D'Almaine and Co. (established 117 years), 91, Finsbury Pavement, E.C. Open till 7. Saturdays, 3.

ORGAN PEDALS to PIANOS.—New method of Attachment by TUBULAR PNEUMATIC. This action surpasses all mechanical actions for prompt and Organ-like Touch. It is less expensive, easier to attach, and does not injure the most delicate Pianoforte. Prospectus and price list free. Apply to Norman and Beard, Ltd., 11, Queen Victoria Street, E.C.

THE OLD FIRM.

P. CONACHER & CO.,
Organ Builders,
SPRINGWOOD WORKS,
HUDDERSFIELD.

TWO GOLD MEDALS.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,
ORGAN BUILDERS,
PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.
(ESTABLISHED 1841.)
Specifications and Estimates sent free.

ORGAN BUILDING.

The Advertiser, late manager of one of the most famous firms of Organ Builders in England, and who designed and constructed the largest Tubular-Pneumatic Organ in the world, is prepared to personally undertake the BUILDING and RE-BUILDING of these INSTRUMENTS. The advantages of his individual skill are absolutely assured. Electric and pneumatic work on the most modern principles. Apply, Organs, care of Messrs. Brissons, Estate Offices, Tynemouth Road, South Tottenham.

ELLISTON'S "ORGANS AND TUNING." 3rd Ed. 330 pp. 3s. 6d. net; postage 4d.
London: Weekes & Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.

COTTAGE PIANO, full compass (modern), with Organ Pedal Attachment, C.O. scale. W. B., 9, Burdett Road, Bow, E.

15 GUINEAS.—PIANO ("Empress" Model), solid iron-frame upright grand (list price, 35 guineas); full compass, full trichord, French check action, &c.; in handsomely carved walnut wood case, four feet two inches in height; in use only six months; sent on approval, carriage paid, to any part of the United Kingdom; ten years' warranty; easy terms arranged; full price paid will be allowed if exchanged for a higher-class instrument within three years. D'Almaine and Co. (established 117 years), 91, Finsbury Pavement, City. Open till 7. Saturdays, 3.

Auction Rooms, specially for the Sale of Musical Property.

MESSRS. PUTTICK and SIMPSON, Auctioneers, 7, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights. Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

TO CHORAL and ORCHESTRAL SOCIETIES.—Several CHORAL WORKS, PART-SONGS, and ORCHESTRAL WORKS for SALE. Applications for lists to Dr. Bunnett, Cathedral Close, Norwich.

MUSICAL OPINION (2d.; order everywhere).—Send 4d. for new number to 35, Shoe Lane, London, E.C. About 250 cols. interesting Reading and Advertisements. Founded 1876.

WILLIAM HAYNES deceased.

Pursuant to the Statute 22nd and 23rd Victoria, Chapter 35, intituled "An Act to further amend the Law of Property and to relieve Trustees."

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that all Creditors and persons having any claims or demands upon or against the estate of WILLIAM HAYNES, late of "St. Cecilias," Sheepcote Road, Greenhill, Harrow, in the County of Middlesex, but formerly of Great Malvern, in the County of Worcester, Professor of Music, deceased (who died on the 26th day of April, 1901, and whose Will was proved by Henry Dyke Acland and Edward Nevinson the Executors therein named on the 11th day of September, 1901, in the Principal Registry of the Probate Division of the High Court of Justice), are hereby required to send particulars in writing of their claims and demands to us the undersigned the Solicitors of the said Executors on or before the 10th day of April next. AND NOTICE IS HEREBY ALSO GIVEN that after that day the said Executors will proceed to distribute the assets of the said Deceased among the parties entitled thereto, having regard only to the claims of which the said Executors shall then have notice, and that they will not be liable for the assets or any part thereof so distributed to any person of whose debt or claim they shall not then have had notice.

Dated this 12th day of February, 1902.

NEVINSON AND BARLOW,
The Old Vicarage,
Malvern,
Solicitors for the Executors.

GILL'S EASY VOLUNTARIES. — "Messiah," "Judas," "Elijah," "St. Paul," "Creation." 1s. each book.
London: Novello and Company, Limited.

TO COMPOSERS.

MARRIOTT AND WILLIAMS,
MUSIC PUBLISHERS,
92, Great Portland Street, London, W.,
Undertake the Revising, Engraving, and Publishing of Authors' Musical Works in the very Best Style and at the lowest charges.
The Finest Paper used and the Best Workmanship in the trade.
Estimates free on receipt of MSS. Composers' works included in list without extra charge.
Private Rooms for Practice and Teaching.
Lessons by competent Professors given in every branch of Music, Vocal and Instrumental.

SEVEN NEW TUNES
FOR SUNDAY SCHOOL FESTIVALS
Selected from 800 Competitions.
Music, 7s. per 100. Words, 2s. per 100.
Special Title Page for Quantities.
Write immediately for Sample to—
Sunday School Union, 53, Brown Street, Manchester.

THREE HYMNS by Heber and S. F. Adams:—1. "God, Who madest earth and heaven"; 2. "Nearer, my God, to Thee"; 3. "Holy, holy, holy! Lord God Almighty!" Set to Music by WILLIAM STERNDALE BENNETT and OTTO GOLDSCHMIDT. Reprinted from the Chorale Book for England (Supplement). Price 3d.
London: Novello and Company, Limited.

AVE VERUM in G. By Frank Adlam. This beautiful Communio, sung for many years at St. Thomas's, Regent Street, is now published (Solo and short Chorus). Price 2d.
London: Hart and Co., Paternoster Row.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS in A, by John Farquharson. Price 3d. Sample Copies, 116, Market Street, St. Andrew's.

Fourth Thousand.
TE DEUM LAUDAMUS in G. By Alfred J. Dye. Price 4d.
London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Fourth Thousand.
MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in F. By Arthur Carnall, Mus.B., Cantab. 4d. Sample copies, Penge, S.E.

Sixth Thousand.
MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat. By William S. Vinning, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Price 3d.
London: Novello and Company, Limited.

NEW EASY and COMPLETE COMMUNION SERVICE in D. By Frank Adlam. Price 6d. Novello & Co., Ltd., London. Written in same style and containing all the features which have made the Composer's famous Service in F so exceedingly popular.

CHURCH MUSIC
BY EDWARD BUNNETT, Mus.D., Cantab.

SERVICES.

Te Deum in E. Four Voices	...	3d.
Benedictus and Jubilate in E	...	3d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E	...	3d.
Cantate and Deus in E	...	3d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E. Tonic Sol-fa	...	1½d.

ANTHEMS.

If ye love me (Whitsunday)	...	3d.
I will magnify Thee (Whitsunday)	...	3d.
Do. " Tonic Sol-fa	...	1½d.
The Lord is my Shepherd	...	3d.

PART-SONGS.

The Rhine Maiden. Four Voices	...	3d.
Over hill, over dale. "	...	3d.
May, sweet May. Chorus	...	3d.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

FRANKLIN PETERSON'S POPULAR TEXT BOOKS: ELEMENTS of MUSIC. Seventh Edition. Bound, net 1s.
INTRODUCTION TO THE STUDY of THEORY. A sequel to the "Elements of Music," and intended to prepare the student for Professor Prout's Series of Theoretical Works. Bound, net 1s. 6d.
PIANIST'S HANDBOOK. A theoretical Companion to Practice. Two parts, each bound, net 1s. 6d.
CATECHISM OF MUSIC. Bound, net 2s.
London: Augener and Co 199, Regent St., and 22, Newgate St.

The Composer, "Kilbirnie," Barnstaple, will send to Choirmasters Free Specimen Copies of the first Three Anthems and No. 8 Selection.
An Archdeacon writes:—"Your Music is simply grand."
A Vicar writes:—"We like your Music more and more."
An Organist writes:—"Your Music is as fresh as ever."

WHITSUNTIDE & CORONATION
ANTHEMS AND CHURCH MUSIC
BY CALEB SIMPER.

*Pray for the peace of Jerusalem. New (Whitsuntide) ... A very melodious, expressive, and effective Anthem.	...	3d.
'Grant the King a long life. 7th edition	...	4d.
Happy are the people. Easy. 7th edition. ... The above are Two Coronation Anthems. They are just the kind of music choirs delight in singing. An Organist writes:—"We must have your Coronation Anthem: send 24 copies." A Vicar writes, "Send 24 copies; we shall find it very useful." Another Vicar, "Send 60 copies, 'Grant the King.'" Another Vicar, "Send 24 'Happy are the people.'" Kindly order early to ensure prompt delivery.	...	3d.
No. 8. Anniversary Selection. Contains 8 pieces	...	2d.
*Glorious King eternal. Coronation Hymn ... This majestic Coronation Hymn is included in the No. 8 Anniversary Selection. Seven other very popular Selections are issued, and the Composer, "Kilbirnie," Barnstaple, will send specimen of the complete Eight Selection for 2d.	...	1d.
*The Lord is my Shepherd. 8th 1,000 ... One of the most beautiful Anthems of the series.	...	4d.
*Ascribe Ye the power. 6th 1,000 ... Animated, imitative, and attractive. Not difficult. Sung at a Choral Festival in the Killaloe Diocese.	...	3d.
Give Glory unto the Lord. 27th edition	...	3d.
*He maketh Peace. A popular Anthem. 11th edition ... For Victory and Peace, with portions for Congregation.	...	3d.
*Walk about Zion. 9th 1,000 ... Spirited, interesting, full, and effective.	...	3d.
*The Lord is in His holy Temple. 9th 1,000 ... Rich harmony, fascinating modulations, and powerful Choruses.	...	3d.
*They shall mount up. 27th 1,000 ... Sung at Choral Festivals at Ilton, Kirmington, and by the Choirs of the Wath Deanery Choral Union. The West Cumberland Times says: "Full, free, extremely pleasing, and effective. Just the kind of music choirs revel in."	...	4d.
*In My Father's House. 6th 1,000 ...	...	3d.
Let not your heart be troubled. 22nd edition	...	3d.
*Let God arise. ("A delightful composition.") 13th 1,000	...	3d.
If ye love Me (Solo and Chorus). 18th 1,000	...	3d.
The Day of Pentecost. 22nd 1,000	...	3d.
'O send out Thy light. 9th 1,000 ... Expressive and inspiring, with telling Bass Solo.	...	3d.
*Trust in Him always. A favourite. 11th 1,000 ...	...	4d.
*His Name is excellent. Easy and pretty. 13th 1,000...	...	3d.
Make a joyful noise. Easy Anthem. 42nd 1,000 ... Sung in Bath Abbey at a C.E.T. Festival by 250 voices; and in the Arch. of Coventry at Three District Choral Festivals; also at Festivals in the Peterborough Diocese, Longford Diocese, and at Stottesden, Down Cathedral, &c.	...	3d.
*Break forth into joy. Full Anthem. 35th 1,000 ... Sung at Choral Festivals in St. Asaph and Downpatrick Cathedrals; also at Begelly, &c.	...	4d.
*I will feed My flock. Popular everywhere. 59th 1,000	...	4d.
*Worship Him and sing of Him. 16th 1,000	...	4d.

THE ROLLING SEASONS
FAVOURITE SACRED CANTATA
13th 1,000. Price 1s. 6d. Sol-fa, 1s.
Just performed in South Wales with the same composer's "Nativity of Christ," with tremendous success, resulting in a net profit of between £25 and £30. Orchestral Parts are also printed.

NEW VOLUNTARY BOOKS.

Book 1	12th edition	1s. 6d.	Book 4	4th edition	1s. 6d.
Book 2	8th edition	1s. 6d.	Book 5	New	1s. 6d.
Book 3	6th edition	1s. 6d.

Each Book contains 17 Pieces, and Book 5 includes a Coronation March and Pomposo, also a sweet Voluntary with a Melody for Solo Stop.
These Books are extremely popular, and all the pieces are written on Two Staves for Organ and Harmonium.
*Those marked * are also done in Sol-fa.*
London: Weekes and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.
Chicago, U S.A.: Clayton F. Summy Co., 220, Wabash Avenue.

Very effective, and not difficult.

EDWIN A. CLARE'S
WHITSUNTIDE ANTHEMS.

When the Day of Pentecost. 7th 1,000 ...	...	3d.
The Lord reigneth. 8th 1,000. (Sol-fa, 2d.)	...	3d.
Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem. 25th 1,000 ... Sung by 400 voices at Doncaster.	...	3d.
Popular Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis in D. 13th 1,000 ... Full of vigour and flowing melody.	...	4d.

London Novello and Company, Limited, 1, Berners Street, W.

TRINITY COLLEGE LONDON.

(Instituted 1872.)

President:
The Right Hon. LORD COLERIDGE, M.A., K.C.
Warden:
EDMUND H. TURPIN, Mus.D.
Director of Examinations:
JAMES HIGGS, Mus.D.

TRINITY TERM commences on Monday, April 28, when the individual tuition in all Practical and Theoretical Musical Subjects, as well as class tuition in the Theory of Music (during the day and evening), to professional and amateur students, will be resumed.

The Lessons in the Theory of Music by correspondence also recommence.

Students are received for Course or Single Studies.

MAY 21 is the LAST DAY OF ENTRY for the MUSICAL KNOWLEDGE (Theory) EXAMINATION, which takes place on June 21.

The forthcoming Local Examinations in INSTRUMENTAL and VOCAL MUSIC take place up to and including July, at the various centres throughout the United Kingdom, and include Pianoforte and Organ Playing, Solo Singing, and Violin Playing.

JUNE 1 is the LAST DAY OF ENTRY for the following OPEN SCHOLARSHIPS, tenable for three years, and EXHIBITIONS tenable for one year:—

One Pianoforte Scholarship.
One Vocal Scholarship.
Benedict Pianoforte Exhibition.
Sims Reeves Vocal Exhibition.
College Violin Exhibition.
College Viola Exhibition.
College Violoncello Exhibition.
College Double-Bass Exhibition.
College Organ Exhibition.

JUNE 21 is the LAST DAY OF ENTRY for the next Half-yearly HIGHER EXAMINATIONS, taking place at the College on July 21 and following days.

Particulars and Entry Forms on application.

By order,
SHELLEY FISHER, Secretary.
Mandeville Place, Manchester Square, W.

JUST PUBLISHED.

Crown 8vo, cloth gilt, price 3s. 6d.

GOD SAVE THE KING

THE ORIGIN AND HISTORY
OF THE
MUSIC AND WORDS
OF
THE NATIONAL ANTHEM
BY
WILLIAM H. CUMMINGS,
Mus. Doc., Dub., F.S.A., Hon. R.A.M.

With Two Portraits of Dr. John Bull.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

John Broadwood & Sons'

Limited,

NEW SHORT OVERSTRUNG GRAND

105 Guineas.

"MULTUM IN PARVO."

33, GREAT PULTENEY STREET, LONDON, W.

THE LONDON ORGAN SCHOOL

AND INTERNATIONAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC,
Established 1865.
22, Princes Street, Cavendish Sq., W. (close to Oxford Circus).
Director and Principal: T. H. Yorke Trotter, M.A., Mus.D., Oxon.
Director of the Violin School: Wilhelm Sachse.

The School is open daily from 9 a.m. till 9 p.m., and provides a THOROUGH EDUCATION for PROFESSIONAL and AMATEUR MUSICIANS. Lessons may begin on any date, and a single subject taken if desired.

PRIVATE LESSONS are given in Harmony, Counterpoint, and Composition; Pianoforte, Organ, Singing, Violin, Viola, Violoncello and Double-Bass; all Wind and other Orchestral Instruments; Choir Training, Elocution and Stage Deportment, Modern Languages, &c.

DAY AND EVENING CLASSES are held in Harmony and Counterpoint, Musical Dictation, Quartet and Ensemble Playing, and in Elocution (Mr. Charles Fry), and Modern Languages.

The School has two Full Orchestras, a String Orchestra, and two Choral Classes.

The CONCERT ORGAN and two other three-manual Instruments are available for practice.

Prospectus on application to the Secretary.

Paper, 1s. / Imitation leather, 2s. — BOSWORTH EDITION, No. 321. — Red cloth & gold letter, 3s. 6d.

CORONATION ALBUM

CONTENTS BEAUTIFULLY ENGRAVED.

1. Coronation March (Meyerbeer), 2. King Edward March (Aletter), 3. Queen Alexandra March (Fliersbach), 4. For King and Country March (Jessel), 5. Tannhäuser March (Wagner), 6. Lohengrin Bridal March (Wagner), 7. Faust Soldiers' March (Gounod), 8. Scipio (Handel), 9. Union Jack (Auld lang Syne) March (Aletter).

OSCAR BERINGER

Daily Technical Studies, 6s. net.
New and enlarged Scale and Arpeggio Manual, 2s. net.

In the Press.

PIANOFORTE TUTOR

In this work, Mr. Beringer has gone entirely out of the beaten track and produced an elementary method on quite a novel system, the originality and simplicity of which should certainly prove of immense interest to the profession.

BOSWORTH EDITION.

LASSEN, ED. New Songs: Dear Home, Love's Message, Cherished Dreams, Roses of Palestine.

RANDEGGER, A. New Songs: Lover's Thoughts, When you're away, Flowers' Message.

GERMER, H. Morceaux Célèbre Album, 2s. net, containing works by Lassen, Kjerulf, Schumann, Tschaïkowsky, &c.

ŠEVČÍK METHOD.

KOCIÂN CONCERT, VIENNA, Jan. 22.

BOSWORTH AND CO.
LONDON, LEIPZIG, PARIS, VIENNA.

REDUCED PRICES
FOR THE UNREVISED EDITIONS.

THE CATHEDRAL PSALTER
THE CATHEDRAL PRAYER BOOK.

The Publishers, having in stock a limited number of the above publications, handsomely bound in Red Basil with Red Edges, but unrevised as regards the recent alterations in the Titles of The Prince and Princess of Wales and in the Accession Service, are prepared to dispose of the remaining copies at specially reduced prices.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

THE MUSICAL TIMES
AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.
APRIL 1, 1902.

KING'S COLLEGE CHAPEL, CAMBRIDGE.

Where music dwells
Lingering—and wandering on as loth to die;
Like thoughts whose very sweetness yieldeth proof
That they were born for immortality.

A Cathedral College Chapel is a fitting designation for this lovely sanctuary. And yet it conveys no idea of 'that branching roof self-poised, and scooped into ten thousand cells,' nor the magnificent panorama of stained glass that entrances the beholder. Well might so distinguished a Kingsman as Horace Walpole, say: 'I dote on Cambridge, and could like to be often there. The beauty of King's College Chapel penetrated me with a visionary longing to be a monk in it'; and who will not join issue with Wordsworth in his definition—'this immense and glorious Work of fine intelligence'?

King's College, Cambridge, like that of Eton, was founded by King Henry VI. He laid the foundation-stone of the Chapel on St. James's Day, July 25, 1446, but the stately edifice was not completed till July, 1515—thus a period of sixty-nine years was covered in the building thereof. The rich vaulting—of a kind peculiarly English, and which may be seen in Henry VII.'s Chapel, at Westminster and St. George's Chapel, Windsor—did not enter into the original design of Henry VI., who directed that the building should be constructed

KING'S COLLEGE CHAPEL, CAMBRIDGE.
FROM 'THE BACKS,' WITH CLARE COLLEGE ON THE LEFT.
(Photograph by Mr. W. Clennett, Cambridge.)

'in large fourme, clene and substancial, settyng aparte superfluyte of too great curyous werkes of entaylle and besy moldyng.' But no one would utter a word of condemnation against the executors of Henry VII. for any exuberance of detail which has so richly provided a thing of beauty and a joy for ever.

The stained glass, so exquisite a feature of the Chapel, seems to have been an afterthought. It was commenced in the year 1515 by Barnard Flower, 'the King's Glazier,' and completed in 1531, the entire work being by four Englishmen and two Flemings, all resident in London. The fine West window, executed in 1879, is from the studio of Messrs. Clayton and Bell. As Mr. J. W. Clark, the great authority on Cambridge, says: 'These windows contain the finest series in the world of pictures on glass on a large scale. The glass has never been taken out, except for repair, nor has it ever been wilfully damaged.' 'The Chapel is a study in stone and glass, and it brings to mind the words of the Psalmist, 'Strength and beauty are in His sanctuary.'

The English monarchs, since Henry VI., who have attended service in the Chapel, are Elizabeth and George I. It appears that at the visit of Good Queen Bess (May, 1564), a State service was held, and that 'the whole quire began to sing, in English, a song of gladness. This song ended, the Provost began the Te Deum in English, in his cope: which was solemnly sung in pricksong and the organs playing . . . . after that, he began evensong, which was also solemnly sung, every man standing in his cope.' It would, indeed, be interesting to discover whose setting of the Te Deum was performed on that occasion. Her Majesty attended a Sunday morning service at King's (Litany and Sermon); but, contrary to expectation, she appeared again in the afternoon. Divine service had already commenced; but on her arrival, it was stopped and begun over again. A theatre had been erected in the Ante-chapel against the rood-loft [organ screen]. Here, in the evening of the same day (Sunday!), the scholars of the College performed with great success the Aulularia of Plautus for the diversion of the Queen and her court.

When King George the First visited the Chapel, in 1717, the following were included in the 'expenses' defrayed by the University:—

To Dr. Lawton, a sermon at King's Chapel	£2	3	0
To Dr. Tudway, for his care of the Choir	10	0	0
To the Choristers	3	4	6

To turn to the more strictly musical side of the subject, we find a musical Provost as far back as the sixteenth century, Robert Hacomblen by name (1509-28). He was the author of a musical setting of a Salve Regina (c. 1500) for Eton College Chapel. A chantry, now used as the Chaplain's Vestry, in King's Chapel, is named after him. Two hundred years later, one of the Fellows, Ralph Thicknesse, died (October 11, 1742) very suddenly, while in the act of playing first violin in one of his own compositions. His epitaph, in the nave of the Abbey Church, Bath, records his musical gifts in these words:—

> In his youthful days he acquired all the polite learning that could give ornament to the gown. . . . Musick gave way to his unbended hours; and it was hard to determine whether he touched the strings himself, or set the numbers for others to do it, with the greatest exactness; that his last composition exceeded the skill of those who were to perform it, his sudden death was too fatal a proof . . . from whence his soul indignant flew to the place where alone it could meet with the harmony that equalled it.

Another Fellow of King's and an old Etonian was Joah Bates. A 'zealous votary' of Handel, Joah, though an amateur, was a fine performer on the harpischord, and 'as long as he remained at college, he performed the part of Coryphæus at all public and private concerts.' Joah Bates was the first to conduct a performance of Handel's 'Messiah' north of the Trent, when he produced the work at Halifax, his native town. He conducted the Antient Concerts, but his chief claim to fame is his direction of the Handel Commemoration performances in 1784, which, we are told, 'were conducted in a manner never to be forgotten by those who had the happiness of being present.'

Christopher Tye was a chorister of King's. He can be traced as fifth choir boy in 1511, and as the second in August, 1512, though he probably joined the choir before the first-named date. At Christmas, 1527, the name of Tye appears in the commons book as one of the singing-men, but the full name, 'Christopher Tye, clericus,' is first met with in the Mundum books for Lady-day to Michaelmas, 1537. Christopher Tye seems to have had a long connection with King's. In 1545 he proceeded to the degree of Mus. Doc., and as there were no distinctive robes for musical graduates at that period, he was permitted to wear those of a doctor of medicine. Orlando Gibbons became a chorister in February, 1596, during the organistship of his elder brother, Edward. At Michaelmas 1601, 1602, and 1603, he received from the College sums varying from 2*s.* to 2*s.* 6*d.* for music composed 'in festo Dominæ Reginæ,' and at Christmas, 1602 and 1603, similar payments were made to him for music for the Feast of the Purification.

Coming to later times, we find among the choristers of King's, from 1824-26, one known to his fellow singers as Willie Bennett, but who was baptised in the church of St. Edward, Cambridge, with the names of William Sterndale Bennett. His grandfather was a lay clerk of King's, a post held in the sixties by one Edward Lloyd, who, like Sterndale Bennett, has since acquired fame in the divine art.

Some open-air music-makings at King's of eighty years ago are thus recorded by an old Kingsman:—

> In the summer of my first year, Maturin, afterwards Vicar of Ringwood, organised an instrumental Band of Kingsmen and others. Some dozen or so of players with Band instruments, formed a circle in the midst of Old Court, Maturin, a very fair violinist, stood at their head as conductor and leader. The programme chiefly from overtures. Bishop's Guy Mannering was a favourite, and if I remember rightly Rossini's William Tell. They rehearsed in Maturin's rooms, and played in the Court remarkably well. No one was invited; but the strains were full and sonorous—waving afar; and many came within the iron gates to listen. Vice Provost, Deans and Tutors took not the slightest notice;—perhaps they were musical.

A very striking feature of the Chapel is the organ, with the figures of angels blowing their trumpets down the ante-chapel. The screen upon which this fine instrument stands was originally called the Rood-loft; the term 'organ loft' first occurs in the Chapel accounts of 1660-61. There was certainly a small organ in use in the earliest years of the Chapel's history, although nothing is known about it, either as to its size or its position. But the important landmark in this respect is the year 1605, when one Dallam (or Dalham) built his noble instrument. Dallam and his workmen took up their abode in Cambridge, June 22, 1605. They lodged in the town, but were boarded in the College. The accounts of the College give full details of the payments made to Dallam and his men. From these entries, it appears that they were not altogether satisfied with the fare provided for them by the College, as we find :—

Photo. by Mr. W. Clennett, Cambridge.

King's College Chapel, Cambridge.

Item payd for his owne and his menes frydays and fasting night suppers at 12*d* a supper being in all 87 nights ..	iiij li	vij s
Item more Mr. Dallams mens dyett in the hall	xiij li	vj s	viij d
Item bread & beer by Mr. Dallam the Joyner and their men for the whole tyme esteemyd at	v li

Some less comestible items may be quoted :—

Imprimis payd to Mr. Dallam for his journey from London to Cambridge before he tooke the woork in hand		xv s
Item for a thowsand six hundred of tynn at 3*li* 12*s* le C ..	lvij li	xij s
Item for ebony for the Kayes ..		iij s	iiij d
Item for brasse for the shaking stoppe*		iiij s
Item for carriage of the hamper, Mr. Dallam's tooles, and other things from London at dyvers tymes		xv s
Item paid for a grindlestone & hanging yt		iij s
Item payd to the Carver for the King's Armes standing upon the chayre organ	iij li
Item payd to Knockle the Limber for laying the sayd gould &ce. upon the pypes, Armes and scutchins of the Chayre Organ	iiij li
Item to him for embossing and strawing with byce† the 2 lesser pypes of the sayd organ		x s
Sma total cclxxi li	xvij s	j d

It is interesting that the organ was 'made up on the spot,' and that the materials—'tin, lead, ebony, box-wood, ash-wood, leather, &c.'—were 'bought in divers places of the Citie.' The total cost of the instrument was about £214, and that of the case £156, but in estimating these amounts as compared with similar sums in the present day, the great difference in the value of money must of course be taken into account. Unfortunately no specification of this organ has been preserved; but it was a complete two-manual organ, the earliest English specimen of which we have any trace. Although nothing of Dallam's internal work remains, the case has undergone only slight alterations, and it stands to this day as a beautiful specimen of Jacobean woodwork. The names of other organ builders of note who have built or rebuilt succeeding instruments, are Thamar, René Harris, Avery, and Hill. At the present time the organ is a four-manual instrument of fifty-five speaking stops.

* Doubtless a tremulant. † Colour for painting.

The record of organists of this famous College Chapel covers a period of more than three hundred years. The post was held by Edward Gibbons, the elder brother of Orlando Gibbons, in the closing years of the sixteenth century. 'Gibbins,' as he was called, received a quarterly payment of twenty shillings as his salary, and the sum of 11s. 8d. every three months as payment for the instruction of the choristers; moreover, he had to provide for the making and mending of those young gentlemen's habiliments! Henry Loosemore was organist before and after the Commonwealth, his services and those of the Lay Clerks being retained by the College throughout the Cromwellian period of silenced organs and choirs. According to an interesting paper on 'Organ-building at Cambridge in 1606,' contributed to the Ecclesiologist for 1859 by Mr. Brocklebank, it appears that :—

> The year after the Restoration the College set about reviving the Choral service, which had been grievously interrupted by the troubles of the times, and we find Mr. Henry Loosemore, the organist, lending his chamber organ for use in the chapel, xxxvs. being charged for its removal thither from his room by Lancelot Pease. It did not, however, remain there long, and the College, not satisfied with the effect of Lancelot Pease's Chaire organ, laid out in 1675 and the immediately following year £130 with Thomas Thamar, of Peterborough, erga erectionem altioris organi in Sacello.

The celebrated Dr. Thomas Tudway, noted for his bad puns, held the chief musicianship of King's from 1670 to 1726. He was also organist of Pembroke College, University organist, and Professor of Music; but his chief claim to fame is the fine collection of 244 anthems and 70 services by 85 composers, made by him at the instigation of Lord Harley. His Lordship paid Tudway thirty guineas per volume for his work, and the six volumes are now in the British Museum (Harleian MSS., 7337-7342) and known as the Tudway Collection.*

The choicest specimen of Tudway's puns seems to have been prompted by the paucity of patronage bestowed by the Chancellor of the University. Tudway remarked: 'The Chancellor rides us all, without a bit in our mouths.'

Dr. John Randall—organist from 1743 to 1799—was another man of mark. Like Tudway, he held the University organistship, as well as the Professorship of Music. He is widely known as the composer of two double chants. A poem, entitled 'The Cambridge Commencement,' which appeared in the European Magazine of 1787, furnishes evidence that Dr. Randall wielded the baton. Here is the extract :—

> The Music that plays in the church
> Attracts them, tho' boiling the weather;
> Like the good folks by Orpheus of old
> Who sat list'ning, and steaming together.
> Doctor Randall stuck up in the front
> (With the gay London fiddlers behind)
> Like a fine paper punch pull'd by strings,
> Throws his arms and his legs to the wind.

* A complete list of the compositions in the Tudway collection is given in Grove's Dictionary of Music and Musicians, iv. 198.

These lines probably refer to an oratorio, or University Exercise for a Musical Degree, on the occasion of its performance in Great St. Mary's Church.

John Pratt held the post for fifty-six years (1799-1855); to him succeeded Mr. William Amps (1855-76), and then came the present organist, Arthur Henry Mann — appointed June 7, 1876 — who has worthily maintained all the best traditions of King's music for a quarter-of-a-century.

Dr. Mann was born at Norwich, May 16, 1850, and became a chorister in the Cathedral under Dr. Zechariah Buck, the famous trainer of boys' voices. He received a salary of £2 per annum plus a free 'education'—such as it was! 'The training we underwent,' recalls Dr. Mann, 'was of a most laborious character—it was singing, singing, singing, from early morning until night, and sometimes until a late hour of the night. I am afraid that many of us were ultimately so tired of so much of it, that we were glad when our voices broke. I was positively thankful when my voice gave way, and vowed that I would never sing again, and up to the present time I have kept my word.' At the termination of his choristership he was apprenticed to Dr. Buck, and thereupon became one of his assistants at the Cathedral. Dr. Buck himself never played during the time Dr. Mann knew him. He says, 'I saw him at the organ once, and once only.'

THE CHOIR SCHOOL OF KING'S COLLEGE, CAMBRIDGE.

After leaving Norwich, in 1870, Dr. Mann held, successively, the organistships of St. Peter's Church, Wolverhampton, Tettenhall Parish Church, and Beverley Minster. He entered upon his duties at King's College Chapel, Cambridge, July 16, 1876, and was appointed organist to the University five years ago. He is the founder as well as the conductor of 'Dr. Mann's Festival Choir,' and of Newnham College Musical Society. His latest appointment is the important one of chorus-master of the Norwich Musical Festival, to be held this year. He became a Fellow of the Royal College of Organists in 1871; Mus. B., 1874; Mus. D. (Oxon.), 1882; and he is an Honorary Member of the Royal Academy of Music. His compositions include a Te Deum and an Evening Service in E, for chorus, orchestra, and organ; one in E, for double choir, without accompaniment; another in A flat, for double choir and organ, performed at the re-opening of the Nave of Norwich Cathedral; anthems, part-songs, &c. He has edited Tallis's Forty-part Motet, and is the musical editor of the 'Church of England Hymnal'; he is the joint editor, with Mr. J. A. Fuller Maitland, of the invaluable Catalogue of the fine collection of music including some important manuscripts, preserved in the Fitzwilliam Museum, Cambridge.

Dr. Mann is a most enthusiastic antiquary. Nothing gives him greater pleasure than to copy an inscription from some ancient tomb—the older the better—or to search old newspapers for a musical date in his native city, or at the British Museum, or to 'pick up' some old musical book or print. He has an interesting library, which includes many autographs, among them being the well-known service in D minor by T. A. Walmisley. His collection of word-books of anthems, gathered together during many years, is probably unique. Like other men, Dr. Mann has his little hobby. In his case it is the unusual one of collecting used railway tickets. He has a large collection of such tickets, numbering as many as 10,000, and he is as proud of these coloured pieces of pasteboard as he is of his musical manuscripts. It is well known to his friends that he never goes on a railway journey without skilfully endeavouring to pass the barrier without giving up his ticket—one ticket collector evading another. The organist of King's is a thorough Handel scholar. For a long time he has been collecting information for a Life of Handel, and his voluminous

ARMS OF KING'S COLLEGE, CAMBRIDGE.

(From Mr. J. W. Clark's 'Guide to Cambridge,' by kind permission of the publishers, Messrs. Macmillan and Bowes, Cambridge.)

and carefully-ordered notes form very valuable material for some future biographer. He has made a manuscript full-score of the 'Messiah,' interleaved with copious notes of the many variants, both manuscript and printed. He revived Handel's oratorio of 'Alexander Balus' at the Scarborough Conference of the Incorporated Society of Musicians, on January 5, 1900, and while his love for the old Saxon master amounts to passion, it is tempered with discretion.

He resides in a charming house, built in 1892 by the College authorities, specially for the organist, on a part of the cricket field belonging to King's and Clare Colleges, and named King's Field. This is one of the pleasantest parts of Cambridge. Close to the organist's residence is the Choir School, of which we give an illustration. This well-planned house and well-equipped establishment is the outcome of an effort made by Dr. Mann soon after he became organist in 1876. Sixteen boys are boarded, clothed and educated, and they have a right good time. They wear cloth gowns over the usual Eton suits, and top hats, and on Sundays white neckties. There is a fine esprit de corps among those happy boys; an instance of it may be seen in a brass tablet in their vestry in the Chapel, erected by them to the memory of an old chorister, Lieutenant Parsons, of the Essex Regiment, who perished in the South African War, after having obtained the Victoria Cross. The advantage to Dr. Mann of having the boys so close to his residence, and always available, enables him to call a rehearsal at any time, and as there is only one service each day (at 5 p.m.), they have ample time for their general studies. The remainder of the choir consists of four Lay Clerks, two volunteer adult singers (members of the College), and four choral scholars. The value of these scholarships varies from £60 to £100 per annum. The choir of King's College has a great reputation for its refined and devotional singing. Dr. Mann is a masterful choir-trainer, but mere technique is not his all-in-all. The splendid results he obtains are not a little due to his poetic spirit and art-infused temperament; these precious qualities also impregnate his restrained and sympathetic organ accompaniments.

It is the hour of Evensong. On this particular day of the week (Wednesday) the organ is silent, and the entire service is sung without accompaniment. In the twilight of the Ante-chapel, the rise and fall of those smooth, perfectly in tune and perfectly-blended voices in the distance greet the ear with an ethereal beauty. Every word of the Psalms for the day is clearly distinguishable, and the renderings of a fine eight-part Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis, composed specially for the choir by Dr. C. W. Pearce, and Mendelssohn's 'Judge me, O God,' are worthy of the perfect acoustic properties of this glorious building. A certain Cambridge undergraduate of nearly three centuries ago, in all probability received an inspiration at a similar pæan of holy song. John Milton was his name, and his familiar lines, which recall the 'service high, and anthems clear,' are in perfect accord with the strain of praise which is uplifted to-day in King's College Chapel, Cambridge.

F. G. E.

LISZT IN ENGLAND.

The visits of great musicians to our shores have furnished much interesting material to the musical historian. Those of Mozart and Haydn, for instance, have been fully and ably treated by the late Carl Ferdinand Pohl, in two volumes which have never been translated, as they deserve to be, into the English language. No less interesting are the sojournings in London and the provinces of Spohr, Weber, Mendelssohn, Chopin, Berlioz, Verdi, and Wagner. 'The King of Pianists' has not hitherto received the attention due to him in this respect, and the following chit-chat upon his English experiences is offered as a small contribution to the existing biographical information concerning a great man.

Franz—or, to be more precise—Ferencz Liszt was born at Raiding, Hungary, on October 22, 1811. He was therefore a boy of twelve years of age when he made his first appearance in London in the year 1824. At that time, Rossini shone as the bright particular star in the London musical firmament. The composer of 'Il Barbiere' actually gave concerts. 'Persons desiring of obtaining tickets are requested to send their names to Signor Rossini, 90, Quadrant [Regent Street],' so the advertisements stated. It was therefore thought desirable to postpone the appearance of the little Hungarian pianist until after Rossini had finished his music-makings.

The first appearance of Liszt in England was of a semi-private nature. On June 5, 1824, the Annual Festival of the Royal Society of Musicians took place. The account of the dinner given in the Morning Post contains the following information :—

Master Liszt (a youth from Hungary) performed on a Grand Pianoforte with an improved action, invented by Sebastian Erard, the celebrated Harp-maker, of very great power and brilliancy of tone.

To do justice to the performance of Master Liszt is totally out of our power; his execution, taste, expression, genius, and wonderful extemporary playing, defy any written description. He must be heard to be duly appreciated.

Among those who heard Master Liszt was a certain Master Wesley (Samuel Sebastian of that ilk), who, as a Chapel Royal Chorister, took part in the glees sung at that festive board. The Quarterly Musical Magazine and Review of 1824 (p. 241) thus referred to the young pianist's performance :—

We heard this youth first at the dinner of the Royal Society of Musicians, where he extemporised for about twenty minutes before that judgmatical audience of professors and their friends.

The announcement of Liszt's concert appeared in the Morning Post in these terms :—

NEW ARGYLL ROOMS.

Master Liszt, aged 12 years, a native of Hungary . . . respectfully informs the Nobility, Gentry, and the Public in general, that his Benefit Concert will take place this evening, June 21, 1824, to commence at half-past 8 precisely, when he will perform, on Sebastian Erard's new patent Grand Pianoforte, a Concerto by Hummel, New variations by Winkhler, and play extempore on a written Thema, which Master Liszt will request any person of the company to give him. . . .

Leader, Mr. Mori. Conductor, Sir George Smart. Tickets, half-a-guinea each, to be had of Master Liszt, 18, Great Marlborough Street.

In an account of the concert, the Morning Post said : 'Notwithstanding the contrary motions which occurred on Monday night of Pasta's benefit and a Grand Rout given by Prince Leopold, there was a numerous attendance.' The musicians present included Clementi, J. B. Cramer, Ries, Neate, Kalkbrenner, and Cipriani Potter, all of whom 'rewarded Master Liszt with repeated bravos.' The programme included an air with variations by Czerny, played by Liszt, who also took part in 'Di Tanti Palpiti,' performed 'as a concertante with Signor Vimercati on his little mandolin with uncommon spirit.' The remainder of the Morning Post notice may be quoted in full :—

Sir G. Smart (who conducted the Concert) invited any person in the company to oblige Master Liszt with a Thema, on which he would work (as the phrase is) extemporaneously. Here an interesting pause took place; at length a Lady named "Zitti, Zitti." The little fellow, though not very well acquainted with the air, sat down and roved about the instrument, occasionally touching a few bars of the melody, then taking it as a subject for a transient fugue; but the best part of this performance was that wherein he introduced the air with his right hand, while the left swept the keys chromatically; then he crossed over his right hand, played the subject with the left, while the right hand descended by semi-tones to the bottom of the instrument! It is needless to add, that his efforts were crowned with the most brilliant success.

Liszt took part in two grand miscellaneous concerts given at the Theatre Royal, Manchester, on the 2nd and 4th of August, the other chief attraction being 'The Infant Lyra,' a prodigy harpist 'not four years old,' and nine years younger than the juvenile Hungarian pianist. The programme included 'an extempore fantasia on Erard's new patent grand pianoforte of seven octaves by Master Liszt, who will respectfully request a written thema from any person present.' The advertisement of the second concert included the following :—

Master Liszt being about to return to the Continent, where he is eagerly expected in consequence of his astonishing talents, and the Infant Lyra being on his way to London, the only opportunity which can occur for the inhabitants of Manchester to hear them has been seized by Mr. Ward; and to afford every possible advantage to the Voices and Instruments, he has so constructed the Orchestra, that the Harp, and Piano-Forte will be satisfactorily heard in every part of the house.

The young gentleman was honoured with a 'command' to perform before King George the Fourth at Windsor Castle. In the words of the Windsor Express of July 31, 1824 :—

On Thursday evening, young Lizt (sic), the celebrated juvenile performer on the pianoforte, was introduced to the King at Windsor by Prince Esterhazy. In the course of the evening he played several pieces of Handel's and Mozart's upon the piano, which he executed in a style to draw forth the plaudits of His Majesty and the company present.

In the following year (1825), Master Liszt paid his second visit to England and again appeared in Manchester.

At his third visit (in 1827), he made the acquaintance of the late Charles Salaman, two years his senior, who heard Liszt play Hummel's Concerto. In his pleasantly-written recollections of 'Pianists of the past' (Blackwood's Magazine, September, 1901), Mr. Salaman says :—

Very shortly afterwards—just before Liszt's morning concert, for which my father had purchased tickets from his father—we became acquainted. I visited him and his father at their lodgings in Frith Street, Soho, and young Liszt came to early family dinner at my home. He was a very charmingly natural and unaffected boy, and I have never forgotten his joyful exclamation, 'Oh, gooseberry pie!' when his favourite dish was put upon the table. We had a good deal of music together on that memorable afternoon, reading several duets. Liszt played some of his recently published 'Études,' Op. 6, a copy of which he gave me, and in which he wrote specially for me an amended version of the sixth study, Molto agitato.

Here is the programme of the morning concert above referred to :—

NEW ARGYLL ROOMS.

MASTER LISZT

Has the honour to inform the Nobility, Gentry, and his Friends, that his MORNING CONCERT will take place at the above rooms on SATURDAY, JUNE 9, 1827.

PART I.

Overture to Les Deux Journées, arranged by Mr. Moscheles for four performers on two Grand Piano Fortes, Mr. Bfale, Master Liszt, Mr. Martin, and Mr. Wigley... ... ... Cherubini.
Aria, Mr. Begrez ... ... Beethoven.
Fantasia, Harp, on Irish Airs, Mr. Labarre ... ... Labarre.
Duetto, Miss Grant (Pupil of Mr. CRIVELLI at the Royal Academy of Music) and Signor Torri ... ... Rossini.
Concerto (MS.), Piano Forte, with Orchestral Accompaniments, Master Liszt ... ... Master Liszt.
Song, Miss Stephens.
Solo, French Horn, Mr. G. Schuncke ... ...G. Schuncke.
Aria, Miss Betts ... ... Rossini.
Duetto, Miss Fanny Ayton and Mr. Begrez, "Amor! possente nome" ... ... Rossini.
Fantasia, Violin, Mr. Mori.
Scena, Mr. Braham ... ... Zingarelli.
Extempore Fantasia on a given subject, Master Liszt.

PART II.

Quartet for Voice, Harp, Piano Forte, and Violin, Miss Stephens, Mr. Labarre, Master Liszt, and Mr. Mori ... ...Moscheles and Mayseder.
Aria, Miss Fanny Ayton, "Una voce poco fa" ... ... Rossini.
Solo, Guitar, Mr. Huerta ... ... Huerta.
Duet, Miss Stephens and Mr. Braham.
Song, Miss Love, "Had I a heart."
Fantasia, Flute, Master Minasi ... ... Master Minasi.
Song, Miss Grant, "The Nightingale" ... ... Crivelli.
Brilliant Variations on "Rule Britannia," Master Liszt. Master Liszt.

Leader, Mr. Mori ... Conductor, Mr. Schuncke.

THE CONCERT WILL COMMENCE AT HALF-PAST ONE O'CLOCK PRECISELY.

Tickets, Half-a-Guinea each, to be had of Mr. Liszt, 46, Great Marlborough Street, and at all the principal Music Shops.

Thirteen years elapsed before Liszt again favoured us with his presence. He had in the meantime passed from boyhood to manhood, from having been a prodigy to becoming a mature artist. The year was 1840—an important one, as we shall presently see. He appeared, for the first time, at the Philharmonic Concert of May 11, 1840, which was conducted by Sir Henry Bishop. Liszt played his own version of Weber's Concertstück in which, according to a contemporary account, 'passages were doubled, tripled, inverted, and transmogrified in all sorts of ways.' Be this as it may, the Philharmonic Directors showed their appreciation of his performance by a presentation, an account of which appeared in a snappy and short-lived paper called the Musical Journal. Here is the extract :—

Liszt has been presented by the Philharmonic Society with an elegant silver breakfast service, for doing that which would cause every young student to receive a severe reprimand—viz., thumping and partially destroying two very fine pianofortes. The Society has given this to M. Liszt as a compliment for performing at two of its concerts gratuitously! Whenever did they present an Englishman with a silver breakfast service for gratuitous performances?

The foregoing is written in the strain which characterised the attitude of a section of the musical press towards the great pianist. His use of the word 'Recitals' appears to have been as a red rag to those roaring bulls. The familiar term owes it origin to Liszt's performances. The late Willert Beale records that his father, Frederick Beale, invented the designation, and that it was much discussed before being finally adopted. The advertisement reads thus :—

LISZT'S PIANOFORTE RECITALS.

M. Liszt will give at Two o'clock on Tuesday morning, June 9, 1840, RECITALS on the PIANOFORTE of the following works :—No. 1. Scherzo and Finale from Beethoven's Pastorale Symphony. No. 2. Serenade, by Schubert. No. 3. Ave Maria, by Schubert. No. 4. Hexameron. No. 5. Neapolitan Tarentelles. No. 6. Grand Galop Chromatique. Tickets 10s. 6d. each; reserved seats, near the Pianoforte, 21s.

The 'Recitals'—the plural form of the term will be noticed—took place at the Hanover Square Rooms, and the piece entitled Hexameron (a set of variations on the grand march in I Puritani) was the composition of the following sextet of pianists : Thalberg, Chopin, Herz, Czerny, Pixis, and Liszt, not exactly 'a singular production,' as the Musical World remarked, but 'an uncommon one.' In connection with the 'Recitals,' Mr. Salaman may be quoted :—

I did not hear Liszt again until his visit to London in 1840, when he puzzled the musical public by announcing 'Pianoforte Recitals.' This now commonly accepted term had never previously been used, and people asked, 'What does he mean? How can any one recite upon the pianoforte?' At these recitals, Liszt, after performing a piece set down in his programme, would leave the platform, and, descending into the body of the room, where the benches were so arranged as to allow free locomotion, would move about among his auditors and converse with his friends, with the gracious condescension of a prince, until he felt disposed to return to the piano.

The Musical World referred to the 'Recitals' as 'this curious exhibition'; that the performance was 'little short of a miracle'; and that the Hexameron contained 'some difficulties of inconceivable outrageousness.' Another specimen of critical insight may be quoted—it refers to Liszt's participation in a concert given by John Parry :—

On being unanimously recalled, he tore the National Anthem to ribbons, and thereby fogged the glory he had just achieved. Let him eschew such hyper erudite monstrosities—let him stick to the "recital" of sane and sanative music, and he will attain a reputation above all contemporary musical mono-facturers—and what is more, deserve it.

In the autumn of the same year (1840), Liszt formed one of a concert-party, organised by Lavenu, in a tour in the south of England. The party included John Parry, the composer of 'Wanted, a governess,' and the comic man of the Lavenu troup. Like Mendelssohn, Liszt seems to have taken to the jocose Parry, and he quite entered into the fun of the fair. For instance, at Bath, 'in addition to the pieces announced in the bills, Liszt played an accompaniment to John Parry's 'Inchcape Bell,' sung by the author, in which he introduced an extemporaneous storm, which had a most terrific effect.' We can well believe it. This storm was not 'a local disturbance,' as meteorologists would say, but it followed the party wherever they went, and it was doubtless received with thunderous applause.

In November, a second and more extended tour, also under Lavenu's auspices, was undertaken, and the journey embraced the great provincial towns of England, Ireland, and Scotland. The preliminary announcement was couched in terms more or less pungent:—

Mr. Lavenu with his corps musicale will enter the lists again on the 23rd instant, when it is to be hoped the *list*less provinces will *list*en with more attention than on his last experiment, or he will have en*list*ed his talented list to very little purpose.

Liszt again appeared in London in 1841, and took the town by storm. Musical critics of the present day may be glad to enlarge their vocabulary from the following notice, which appeared in the columns of the Musical World of sixty years ago:—

M. Liszt's Recitals.—We walk through this world in the midst of so many wonders, that our senses become indifferent to the most amazing things: light and life, the ocean, the forest, the voice and flight of the pigmy lark, are unheeded commonplaces; and it is only when some comet, some giant, some tiger-tamer, some new Niagara, some winged being (mental or bodily, and unclassed in the science of ornithology) appears, that our obdurate faculties are roused into the consciousness that miracles do exist. Of the miracle genus is M. Liszt, the Polyphemus of the pianoforte—the Aurora Borealis of musical effulgence—the Niagara of thundering harmonies! His rapidity of execution, his power, his delicacy, his Briareus-handed chords, and the extraordinary volume of sound he wrests from the instrument, are each and all philosophies in their way that might well puzzle all but a philosopher to unriddle and explain.

Shortly before the 'recitals' above referred to, Liszt was thrown out of a carriage, and the accident resulted in a sprained wrist. At the performance, he apologised in French to the audience 'for his inability to play all the pieces advertised.'

It is strange, but true, that no less than forty-five years had come and gone before Liszt again set foot on Albion's shores. In the year 1886, aged seventy-five, he came again, and charmed everybody with the geniality of his presence.

It was at the invitation of the late Mr. Henry Littleton (then head of the firm of Novello & Co.) that Liszt paid his last visit to England in 1886. The great pianist arrived on May 3, and remained under Mr. Littleton's hospitable roof at Westwood House, Sydenham, during the whole of his sojourn in this country. The events of those seventeen days were a series of triumphs to the grand old man of pianists. A command visit to Windsor Castle, when he played to Queen Victoria; dining with the Prince and Princess of Wales (now the King and Queen) at Marlborough House; a visit to the Baroness Burdett Coutts; attending performances of his oratorio 'St. Elizabeth' (conducted by Sir, then Mr. A. C. Mackenzie) at St. James's Hall and the Crystal Palace; concerts of Chev. Leonard E. Bach; the Royal Amateur Orchestral Society (when he was seated next to the King, then Prince of Wales); Monday Popular; pianoforte recitals by Mr. Frederic Lamond and Herr Stavenhagen; a visit to the Royal Academy of Music; in addition to receptions given by his devoted pupil and attached friend, the late Walter Bache at the Grosvenor Gallery, and the 'at homes' of his host and hostess at Westwood House.

As an indication of the general interest aroused by the coming of Liszt, Punch burst forth in the following strain:—

A Brilliant Variation.—Mr. and Mrs. Littleton's reception of the Abbé Franz Liszt, at Westwood House, Saturday night last, was an event never to be forgotten. But it was not until all the Great 'uns had left the Littletons that the Greatest of them all sat at the piano in the midst of a cosy and select circle, and then, when Mr. P-nch had put on his Liszt slippers . . . . . but to say more were a breach of hospitality. Suffice it that on taking up his sharp-and-flat candlestick in a perfectly natural manner the Abbé, embracing Mr. P-nch, sobbed out, "This is the Abbé'ist evening I've ever had. Au plaisir!"—(Extract from a Distinguished Guest's Diary. Privately communicated.)

Although he was in his seventy-sixth year at the time of this, his last sojourn in England, his pianoforte technique astonished those who were capable to form an opinion, and who were amazed that he did not 'smash the pianoforte, like his pupils!' He was immensely gratified at his visit, and in parting with Mr. Alfred and Mr. Augustus Littleton, at Calais, he said: 'If I should live two years longer I will certainly visit England again!' But alas! a little more than three months after he had said 'Good bye' to these friends, Franz Liszt closed his long, eventful, and truly artistic career at Bayreuth on July 31, 1886. In concluding an appreciative obituary notice of the great pianist which appeared in these columns, Professor Niecks said, 'Liszt has lived a noble life. Let us honour his memory.'

The photograph of Liszt (which forms one of our Special Supplements) is the last for which he sat; it was taken by Mr. Augustus Littleton.

Dr. C. H. Lloyd was the gratified recipient of a silver salver presented to him at the Royal Albert Institute, Windsor, on February 17. The gift bore upon it this inscription:—

Presented to Charles Harford Lloyd, Mus. Doc., by the members of the Windsor and Eton Choral Society, in grateful recognition of his valued services as conductor, 1897 to 1901.

Sir Walter Parratt has consented to resume the conductorship of the Society, and in the course of his return-thanks remarks, Dr. Lloyd said he was glad that his old friend Sir Walter Parratt was willing to take up the reins again; 'that he had added one more straw to his camel's back—he would not say "the last straw."' Sir Walter remarked that he hoped he should not get the hump!

A NEW EDITION OF HANDEL'S MESSIAH.

'Wanted, an edition of the Messiah that will be authoritative and practicable.' Such, in effect, is the frequent cry of conductors, the result of their trying experiences of the chaotic condition of the score. The unsatisfactory manner in which the work is presented is largely due to its excrescence of additional accompaniments, by Mozart, and by others who are not Mozarts. But this is not all. The text itself needs careful overhauling in order that the stereotyped errors of a hundred and fifty years may be eradicated, and that Handel's notational intentions may at least receive their proper interpretation. This necessity of a thoroughly revised score, one prepared on practicable lines, has been very strongly brought under the notice of Messrs. Novello, who came to the conclusion that the time had arrived for the issue of what may be termed a clean version of Handel's masterpiece, and at the same time one that should be acceptable as a reliable performing edition.

Having determined to supply so great a need, the publishers had to consider the all-important question of an Editor. There seemed to be only one man who could gain the confidence of the public in this respect, and that was Ebenezer Prout. Negotiations were opened with that erudite Handelian scholar, and he, the Professor of Music in the University of Dublin, the city in which the Messiah was first performed, consented to undertake the urgent task of revision. The scheme includes (a) the preparation of an entirely new and revised edition of the full score; (b) the engraving of new orchestral parts, with the bowing of the strings carefully indicated throughout; (c) the writing of an organ-part; (d) the insertion of marks of expression and metronomic indications; (e) an entirely new edition of the octavo vocal score, printed from new type, with the accompaniments arranged for the keyboard by the Professor; (f) an exhaustive preface; and (g) historical notes concerning the history and first performance of the oratorio which will be contributed by Mr. F. G. Edwards.

The foregoing outline sketch of the proposal will suffice for the present; but a few details may be added concerning its accomplishment. In the first place, Professor Prout (who has now completed the full score) makes bold to say that no score is so corrupt as that of the Messiah! Misprints which appeared in the first edition of Walsh have cropped up over and over again. He is convinced that many of the 'additional accompaniments' attributed to Mozart are not by Mozart at all, and so on. With that painstaking thoroughness so eminently characteristic of him, Professor Prout has collated every page of the oratorio with (a) the original autograph, (b) the Dublin copy in the handwriting of Christopher Smith, kindly placed at his disposal by the Trustees of Tenbury College, (c) a contemporary manuscript copy in the possession of Mr. Otto Goldschmidt, and (d) a large number of printed editions.

Finally, the Editor's elaborate Preface will be in the nature of a manifesto. It will deal with many things of vital importance and of supreme interest; and in it the entire oratorio will be thoroughly discussed from various points of view. This new edition of Handel's Messiah will, it is hoped, be ready by the autumn.

HAWKINS AS A GOSSIP.*

Sir John Hawkins, Justice of the Peace, may have been a toady, a bully, 'a most unclubable man,' and all the other sad things that contemporary scandal reported him to be, but he was a genuine music lover and a painstaking antiquary; and if his protestations of reluctance to accept a county magistracy make us smile, we may at least credit his statement that his hours of leisure were consistently devoted to the compilation of his 'General History of Music,' which appeared in 1776. From the cathedral to the barber's shop, from the intricate theories of mediæval schoolmen to the uncertain notes of the domestic hen, there was little that escaped his observation. And while the grave and almost strenuous dignity of his 'History' betokens an author who took himself very seriously, there is a pleasant vein of anecdote discoverable—just as much unbending as is compatible with the dignity of an eighteenth-century magistrate.

It must not be supposed that he ever becomes light and flippant; on the contrary, the hen aforesaid is treated with as much respect as any Doctor of Music. According to his researches, that noble fowl, at the time of laying, clucks an interval of a sixth, and her colleagues, the barnyard cock and the bantam cock, crow intervals of a second and a fifth respectively: let the cuckoo look to his laurels. Lord Peterborough's canary had a still finer musical instinct. The waggish peer had smuggled it into a coffee-house near Charing Cross, taking away in exchange one which the proprietor of the house refused to sell at any price; and after avoiding the subject for a couple of years or so, ventured to ask why the 'songster' was silent. 'Ah, my Lord,' was the reply, 'since our good King [George II.] was forced to go abroad and leave us, the dear creature has not sung a note!' 'The dear creature' happened to be a hen bird.

The selection which Hawkins makes from the numerous fantastic stories of the effects of music on animals, he wisely keeps in the comparative obscurity of foot-notes. The best of them is on the dancing elephants of Domitian. Suetonius relates that one of them was one day beaten for not having his performance perfect, and that he was discovered the same night in a meadow, practising by himself! In this connection, however, our author quotes a delightfully quaint conceit from Descartes' 'Musicae Compendium' (1617):—

* A companion article, 'Burney as a Gossip,' appeared in the issue for March, p. 161.

This only thing seems to render the voice of man the most grateful of all other sounds, that it holds the greatest conformity to our spirits. Thus also is the voice of a friend more grateful than that of an enemy, from a sympathy and dispathy of affections: by the same reason perhaps that it is conceived that a drum headed with a sheep's skin yields no sound though strucken, if another drum headed with a wolf's skin be beaten upon in the same room.

This is certainly prettier than the fable of the wolf and the lamb, and much more subtle.

Hawkins gives some interesting examples, too, of the effects of music on exceptional temperaments. Among these is a long story of Ericus, King of Denmark about 1130, to the effect that he was so excited by the playing of a famous minstrel that he killed several men in his fury, and did not desist till he was overwhelmed with —beds! Noblesse oblige! undoubtedly, and the sovereign of early days must perforce do everything on a scale adequate to his exalted rank.

Comedy, however, has more frequently marked the association of monarchs with music than tragedy. One of the Kings of France, who, like Mendelssohn's brother-in-law, was completely ignorant of music, wished to have a part in a vocal composition to be written by his precentor. Next day, a canon for two boys' voices duly appeared, with an obbligato—entirely on middle D—for the royal ignoramus, and an obbligato for the composer in which tenor D recurred frequently—for the express purpose of keeping His Majesty steady. This precentor, at any rate, was free from the imputation cast on his order by Pope John XXII., who bitingly remarked that a precentor was like a drunkard, 'which indeed goeth home, but by what path he cannot tell.'

The musical progress of English princes was facilitated by the institution of a 'whipping boy,' who received the floggings which were appointed for the royal idler. In Rowley's comedy, 'When you see me you know me,' Archbishop Cranmer and Dr. Christopher Tye are made to hand over a certain 'Young Browne' to his tormentor with grim satisfaction:—

Cranmer—
Goe beare this youngster to the chappell straight,
And bid the maister of the children whippe him well,
The prince will not learne, Sir, and you shall smart for it.

Browne—
O good my lord, I'll make him ply his booke to-morrow.

Cranmer—
This shall not serve your turne. Away I say.
(Exit Browne.)
(To Tye) So, Sir, this policy was well devised:
Since he was whipt thus for the prince's faults
His grace hath got more knowledge in a moneth,
Than he attained in a year before.

At the other end of the social scale were poor students whose difficulties were not confined to their struggles with the theorists. In a sermon preached at 'Poules Cross,' in 1550, by Thomas Lever, there is an account of some 'poor dilygent studentes' which under its archaic diction is pathetic enough. Speaking of Cambridge 'yong scolars,' he says:—

There be divers which rise daily between iiii and fyve of the clocke in the morninge. . . . At ten of the clocke they go to dinner, where as they be contente with a pennie peice of befe amongest iiii, havinge a few potage made of the brothe of the same beefe, with salt and oatmeal, and nothing elles. After this slender dyner they be either teachinge or learninge until v of the clocke in the evyning, when as they have a supper not muche better than their dinner, immediately after the which they go either to reasoning in problemes, or unto some other studie, until it be nyne or tenne of the clocke, and there beyinge without fire, are faine to walke or runne up and downe halfe an houre to get a hete on their fete when they go to bed.

It is pleasant to turn to an example of musical instruction under conditions which even at an interval of more than three centuries may well seem ideal. Unhappily the conditions only existed, in all probability, in a book—Morley's 'Plaine and easie Introduction to practicall Musicke.' With a disregard of time which seems positively heroic, the sixteenth century music master commences a lesson thus:—

Master.—Whom do I see afar off, is it not my scholar Philomathes? Out of doubt it is he, and therefore I will salute him. Good morrow, scholler.

Phil.—God give you good morrow and a hundreth, but I marvayle not a little to see you so early, not only stirring, but out of doors also.

Mast.—It is no marvayle to see a snayle after a rayne to creep out of his shell and wander all about seeking the moisture.

Phil.—I pray you talk not so darkely, but let me understand your comparysons playnely.

Mast.—Then in playne termes being over wearied with studie, and taking the opportunity of the fayre morning, I came to this place to snatch a mouthful of this holsome ayre, which gently breathing upon these sweet-smelling flowers and making a whispering noise amongst these tender leaves delighteth with refreshing, and refresheth with delight my over wearied senses; but I pray you tell me the cause of your hither coming. . . . .

The pupil then relates at considerable length his efforts towards self-tuition, and his desire for adequate instruction.

Mast.—The heate increaseth, and that which you demand requireth longer discourse than you looke for, let us therefore go and sit in yonder shadie arbor to avoyde the vehementness of the sunne.

For the masses, a less esoteric and perhaps more rapid mode of instruction was propounded by Thomas Mace, in his 'Musick's Monument.' The method (as far as organ playing is concerned) is, apparently, quite simple:—

HOW TO PROCURE AN ORGANIST.

The certain way I will propose shall be this, viz., I will first suppose you have a parish clark, and such an one as is able to set and lead a psalm, although it be never so indifferently.

Now this being granted, I may say that I will, or any musick master will, or many more inferiours, as virginal players, or many organ makers, or the like; I say any of those will teach such a parish clark how to pulse or strike most of our common psalm-tunes, usually sung in our churches, for a trifle, viz., 20, 30, or 40 shillings, and so well that he need never bestow more cost to perform that duty sufficiently during his life.

This I believe no judicious person in the art will doubt of. And then, when this clark is thus well accomplished, he will be so doated upon by all the pretty ingenuous children and young men in the parish, that scarcely any of them but will be begging now and then a shilling or two of their parents to give the clark, that he may teach them to pulse a psalm-tune; the which any such child or youth will be able to do in a week or fortnight's time very well.

And thus little by little the parish will swarm or abound with organists, and sufficient enough for that service.

The accomplishment of 'pulsing' a psalm-tune no longer entitles its proud possessor to be described as an organist, even if he has bestowed his shilling on the parish clerk; and Mace's vision of an England swarming or abounding with pulsers or strikers is still—luckily, may it be said?—unfulfilled.

With the true instinct of the antiquary, our historian has scattered anecdotes on a variety of curious subjects—music houses, hymn-books, innovators, impostors, and many more, and his 'History' would repay reading for these alone. It might almost be said that Hawkins, reversing an all too familiar process, set out to be dull, and ended by being interesting.

H. B.

Occasional Notes.

Many happy returns of the day to:—

Hans Richter	April 4.
Madame Blanche Marchesi	,, 4.
Miss Hilda Wilson	,, 7.
J. A. Fuller Maitland	,, 7.
Eugene D'Albert	,, 10.
Basil Harwood	,, 11.
J. L. Roeckel	,, 11.
Alberto Randegger	,, 13.
Wilfred Bendall	,, 22.
T. H. Collinson	,, 24.
Richard Gompertz	,, 27.
Alfred R. Gaul	,, 30.
Henry Watson	,, 30.

In the same house in which her uncle, Sir George Smart, drew his last breath—12, Bedford Square—there passed away, on the 6th ult., Miss Anne Caroline Smart, at the age of eighty-six. The death of Miss Smart severs an interesting link with the musical past. As she was left an orphan in her early childhood, she resided with her uncle, and rendered him valuable assistance in his musical work. A chat with the alert old lady was a pleasant experience. Her memory was very clear. She well remembered all the circumstances attendant upon the death of Weber, in the year 1826. He was found dead in his bed at Sir George Smart's residence, whose guest he was, at 103 (according to the present numbering), Great Portland Street. Mendelssohn, too, she knew well. After the death of her uncle, the deceased lady became the life-long friend and companion of her cousin, Miss Margaret Rose Smart, the only daughter of Sir George Smart. The autograph album, which she inherited from her uncle, contained some very interesting letters, &c., of distinguished musicians.

The Fitzwilliam Museum, Cambridge, contains among its interesting odds-and-ends a copy of the programme of the first performance given in England of Beethoven's Mass in D, which took place at the residence of Mr. Thomas Massa Alsager, Queen Square, Bloomsbury, on Christmas Eve, 1832. Here it is:—

FIRST PERFORMANCE IN ENGLAND OF BEETHOVEN'S MASS IN D, Op. 123

December 24th, 1832.

Conductor,
Mr. Moscheles.

Piano Forte ... Mr. W. P. Beale. | Organ ... Mr. Novello.

Solo voices.

Soprano ...	Miss Clara Novello.	Alto ...	Miss H. Cawse.
Tenor ...	Mr. E. Hawkins.	Bass ...	Mr. A. Novello.

Chorus.

Sopranos ...	Mrs. H. R. Bishop. Mrs. Hunt. Miss G. Hayward.	Altos ...	Mrs. C. C. Clarke. Master Hopkins. Master C. Hopkins. Master G. Goodban.
Tenors ...	Mr. T. Cooke. Mr. Holmes. Mr. Drewry. Mr. Calvert. Mr. T. Hawkins. Mr. Goodban. Mr. Goodban, junr.	Basses ...	Mr. E. Novello. Mr. Hurlock. Mr. W. Street. Mr. W. Turner. Mr. C. C. Clarke.

Band.

Violins ...	Mr. Tolbecque. Mr. Watts. Mr. Remy. Mr. Nadaud. Mr. A. Griesbach.	Clarinets	Mr. Willman. Mr. Powell.
		Bassoons	Mr. Baumann. Mr. Mancor.
		Horns ...	Mr. Platt. Mr. Rae. Mr. Daniel. Mr. Rousselot.
Tenors ...	Mr. Appleby. Mr. Laroche.
Violoncellos	Mr. Banister. Mr. Grimal.	Trumpets	Mr. J. Irwin. Mr. Harper, junr.
Double Basses	Mr. Flower. Mr. Reinagle.	Trombones	Mr. Albrecht. Mr. Smithers.
Flutes ...	Mr. Card. Mr. Card, junr.		Mr. Smithers, junr.
Oboes	Mr. Florke. Mr. G. Irwin.	Drums ...	Mr. Alewyn.

PRESENTED

As a very humble Memorial of a most interesting occasion, to the Ladies and Gentlemen who generously gave their assistance to it.

A. GRIMAL,
Sec. to the Queen Square Concerts.

This programme, fancifully printed on a card, was presented to the Fitzwilliam by Vincent Novello, the organist on that occasion. It will be observed that no less than six members of the Novello family, including Mr. and Mrs. Cowden Clarke, took part in this interesting performance. The 'Master Hopkins' was doubtless 'E. J.' of that musical family. The 'Life of Moscheles' (vol. 1, p. 279) throws an interesting side-light on the production in England of this masterpiece.

Mr. Grimal, a great musical enthusiast, brought him [Moscheles] Beethoven's Mass in D (Op. 123), a work hitherto unknown and unheard in London, requesting him to conduct it at the house of Mr. Alsager, the contributor of the City article to The Times, and a complete fanatic in his Beethoven worship. In his large music-room, Beethoven's works are given with full orchestral accompaniments. On the 23rd [24th] of December, [1832], Moscheles first acted there as conductor of a most efficient band, although consisting partly of amateurs, and subsequently his services as conductor were repeatedly called for. 'I had,' wrote Moscheles, 'become by dint of study, completely absorbed in that colossal work (the Messe Solenelle). Occasionally isolated phrases seemed unequal to the elevation of Church music, but these, compared with the work in its entirety, are as the details of a broadly conceived picture. The enthusiasm of my English friends also fired my zeal to give an interpretation worthy of the great work. Miss Novello and Miss H. Cawse did their best. The Benedictus, with the heavenly violin solo (Mori), enchanted us all.'

The engagement of Mori, one of the most distinguished violinists of the day, was doubtless an afterthought.

The outline programmes of the Norwich and Worcester Musical Festivals have now been issued. The chief works to be performed in each city are subjoined.

NORWICH.
October 21—25.

Ode to Music	Hubert Parry.
Golden Legend and In Memoriam Overture	Sullivan.
Elijah	Mendelssohn.
Requiem	Verdi.
Redemption	Gounod.
London Day by Day (Suite for Orchestra), new	Mackenzie.
Snow-White (Cantata), new	Cowen.
High Tide (Cantata), new	Elgar.
Overture, new	Stanford.
Overture, new	Hervey.
Rhapsody on march themes, new	German.
Scena for Contralto, new	Cliffe.
Duet (Romeo and Juliet), new	Herbert Bedford.

Conductor, Mr. Randegger. Chorus Master, Dr. Mann.

WORCESTER.
September 7—12.

Elijah and Hymn of Praise	Mendelssohn.
Coronation Anthems and Messiah	Handel.
The Dream of Gerontius	Elgar.
Stabat Mater	Dvorák.
St. Christopher (Part III.)	Horatio Parker.
Symphony, No. 5	Beethoven.
Third Symphony	Brahms.
Pathetic Symphony	Tschaïkowsky.
Cantata, 'The Lord is a sun and shield'	J. S. Bach.
(First time of performance in England.)
The Song of Deborah, new	Hugh Blair.
The Temple, new	H. Walford Davies.

Conductor, Mr. Ivor Atkins,
Organist of Worcester Cathedral.

The prominence given to native works in both the above schemes is highly commendable.

The Round, Catch, and Canon Club, although nearly sixty years old, is a little-known musical institution of the Metropolis. It was founded in the year 1843 by one Enoch Hawkins for the purpose of singing the new compositions of the professional members, written in the form of the Round, Catch, or Canon; hence the name of the Club. Among the early members were J. W. Hobbs, and Henry Phillips. The meetings are held every fortnight, from November to March, at St. James's Hall. The professional and non-professional members have one thing in common—dinner. And here it may be remarked that the dinners given by the Club are very good—especially that very savoury dish, 'The Club Pudding.' The professional members at the present time are Messrs. James Brown, Mr. Fred Walker (Librarian), Mr. William Coates (Chancellor of the Exchequer), and Mr. Robert Hilton (Clerk of the Records). The chairman of the evening is always addressed as 'Mr. Speaker.' The non-professional members have, from time to time, offered prizes for the composition of Glees. In 1869, the first prize was gained by the late Mr. William Winn, and the second by Mr. William Coates; but in 1870, Mr. Coates beat the former victor, Winn not being the winner.

After dinner, the professional members, assisted by other able-voiced brethren from the St. Paul's Cathedral and Westminster Abbey choirs, sing a selection of part-music, to the great enjoyment of the non-professional members and the visitors. The Signature Books of the latter record some interesting names: e.g., Hatton, William Horsley, Sir Henry Bishop, Jullien, W. H. Weiss, Goss, Turle, Stainer and Sullivan (as youths), Sir A. C. Mackenzie, Sir Frederick Bridge, Sir George Martin, the Brothers Macfarren, and others. The execution of the various glees, &c., sung at the final meeting of the Season (on the 15th ult.) was in the highest degree commendable. Amid the storm and stress of much modern instrumental music, it was pleasant to listen to purely vocal strains cast in a form so essentially English in character. Such an Institution deserves support if for no other reason than that of maintaining the old English customs of good fellowship and concerted vocal music. In giving the programme of the meeting above referred to, we wish the Round, Catch, and Canon Club all success and increased prosperity.

1.	In the pleasant summer day	W. Beale.
2.	Hail, bounteous Nature	T. Cooke.
3.	Come forth, sweet spirit	Bishop.
4.	Oh my love is like the red, red rose	Hatton.
5.	Queen of the valley	Callcott.
6.	You gave me your heart	Webbe.
7.	Sailor's Song	Hatton.
8.	Come, bounteous May	Spofforth.
9.	In a cell or cavern deep	J. Parry, Senr.
10.	The long day closes	Sullivan.

Victor Hugo's want of appreciation of, at any rate, some manifestations of musical art, is amusingly illustrated in a small volume of recollections by the late Jules Laurens, the painter, which has just been published under the title of 'La Légende des Ateliers: 1842-1900.' Speaking of the operas 'Ernani' and 'Rigoletto,' the writer states, 'I asked Victor Hugo if he new Verdi personally. 'Verdi!' exclaimed the poet, 'he is a wretch!' I am not a Shakespeare, and I do not know whether Verdi is the equal of either a Rossini or a Donizetti; but I am dead set—not from personal motives, but with a view to the religion of art—against those who have musicated (musiqué), 'Hernani,' 'Lucrezia Borgia,' 'Le Roi s'amuse,' 'Ruy Blas,' and so forth. If I had been given the chance of holding the as yet unpublished score of Rossini's 'Othello' in my hand, while standing near a big fire, I should have thrust that music into the flames, sans peur ni reproche. And similar treatment should have been meted out to the 'Faust' of Gounod, the 'Hamlet' of Thomas, and other similar falsifications. Speaking from an æsthetical point of view, all this kind of thing resembles nothing so much as a painted Venus de Medicis, modelled in wax and rotating in the window of a coiffeur!' On the other hand, it is well known that the great poet distinctly favoured the introduction of incidental music in his own plays. Indeed, it is on record—and an article recently published in Le Ménestrel recalls the fact—that he himself, on one occasion, suggested the melody to the refrain in the drinking song in 'Lucrezia Borgia' to Alexandre Piccini for the performance of the drama at the Porte Saint-Martin, by rhythmically beating out the measure upon the prompter's table. To that extent, then, even musicians may claim the French national poet, the centenary of whose birth has just been so magnificently celebrated in his native country, as having been one of themselves.

There still remains some leeway to be made up in provincial musical criticism—not that London newspapers are above reproach in this respect. An important journal with a large daily circulation recently referred to the Overture to the 'Hymn of Praise.'

Sir George C. Martin has been elected an Honorary Member of the Worshipful Company of Musicians.

We understand that Sir Frederick Bridge, the director of the music at the approaching Coronation Service, has completed his scheme for the music to be performed on that auspicious occasion. This scheme has been submitted to the Coronation Committee, who will take the pleasure of His Majesty the King on the proposals contained therein. In a short time, therefore, we may expect the programme of the music to be made public, and thus become available for general use.

At the first Court of the present reign, held by the King and Queen at Buckingham Palace, on the evening of Friday, the 14th ult., the King's Private Band played the following selection of music:—

Pas du Voile (Callirhoë)	Chaminade.
Andalouse and Aubade (Le Cid)	... Massenet.
Dance of Nymphs and Reapers (Tempest) ...	... Sullivan.
Vision (Jeanne d'Arc)	... Gounod.
Wiegenlied	... Schubert.
Liebesgruss	... Elgar.
Scherzo (Midsummer Night's Dream) ...	Mendelssohn.
May Song	... Elgar.
Prelude and Gavotte	Saint-Saëns.

Conductor, Sir Walter Parratt.

The interesting ceremonies connected with the Jubilee of Owens College, Manchester, included the conferring by the Victoria University of the degree, honoris causâ, of Doctor of Music on Mr. Adolph Brodsky, Principal of the Royal College of Music, Manchester, and on Dr. Hans Richter. In presenting Mr. Brodsky to the Chancellor of Victoria University (Earl Spencer), Dr. Hiles, Lecturer on and Examiner in Music of Owens College, said:—

It was with especial pleasure that he presented Mr. Brodsky, an artist renowned in all the great Continental schools of music, who—being entrusted with the management of the Manchester Royal College of Music,—had, by his never-failing geniality, his unwearied care for the welfare of those committed to his guidance, and especially by his self-denying exertion on behalf of those who, without assistance, could not grapple with the expense of a prolonged course of training, gained not only the respect, but the warm affection of those most closely associated with him in his work.

In regard to Dr. Richter, Dr. Hiles remarked:—

The work carried on by Sir Charles Hallé was so unique, and exercised so wide an influence not only in the North of England but throughout the whole kingdom, as to cause it to be felt that it could be fittingly continued only by a musician of world-wide celebrity—Dr. Hans Richter, the most renowned of living orchestral conductors, upon whom, years ago, the University of Cambridge conferred the honorary degree of Doctor of Music.

Montreal can boast of some excellent chorus singers. According to a correspondent, they created an immense effect in a public rehearsal of Mendelssohn's 'Elijah,' given in Windsor Hall, on the 5th ult., under the direction of Mr. W. O. Stewart Taylor. Our informant, who has had a wide experience of English choirs, both in London and the Provinces, writes:—

The singing of the choral numbers in 'Elijah' was most bright and intelligent; and characterized throughout by great breadth, fulness of tone, attack, precision, and clearness of enunciation. The choir was very evenly balanced, and their work gave evidence of most painstaking training. It would, indeed, be really difficult to give too much praise to the performance.

Any dismal forebodings in regard to the after effects of the orchestral concerts given at the Glasgow Exhibition last year, have not been justified by the results. It will be remembered that excellent concerts were given at popular prices, at which the Scottish Orchestra, under Dr. Cowen, played to huge and highly appreciative audiences. 'Will not these concerts damage the attendance during the regular winter season?' asked the pessimists. The best answer to that question is the fact that the subscription list of the season just closed shows an increase of £500 on that of last year.

Expectation that the L section of Dr. Murray's great English Dictionary would throw fresh light on the term 'ledger lines,' has resulted in disappointment. The great lexicographer disposes of the origin léger (a light line) as baseless. (Musical Dictionary makers please note.) He says that the origin of its use is not clear, but perhaps it can be traced to ledgers, horizontal poles of a scaffold, they being added one after another according to the requirements of the building in progress. The term, in this sense, has been traced to the year 1571. According to Dr. Murray, the earliest reference in musical treatises to Ledger lines appears to be Playford's 'Skill in Music,' 1700. We give the extract:—

Now, altho there is but Twenty-two Notes set down in the Scale, Musick is not confin'd to that Number, but sometimes you'll meet with Notes both below and above what I have set down (according to the Will of the Composer) and then you add a Line or two to the five Lines, as the Song requires, those Lines so added being called Ledger-Lines.

A letter written by Mr. Charles J. Evans to The Musical Times of June, 1877 (p. 327), gives some interesting information on the subject.

We understand that the University of Cambridge proposes to confer the degree of Doctor of Music honoris causâ on Professor Horatio W. Parker, of Yale University, the distinguished American composer. Honour to whom honour is due!

The following reaches us from the banks of the river Clyde:—

MUSICAL TUITION.

5/6 per quarter, or 12/- per Annum—Pianoforte and Organ Taught by Experienced Teacher: progress guaranteed. Address, 873, Telegraph Office.

The correspondent who favours us with this progress-guaranteed announcement calls the 12s. per annum 'a masterstroke of genius.' But some of the 'masterstroke of genius' may be on the part of the printer's boy, or even the master printer, in having transposed the figures 1 and 2. In any case the terms do not strike us as being exorbitant, considering that 'progress is guaranteed.'

At a Grand Champion Choral Contest which recently took place across the seas, the adjudicator, in making his award, is reported to have remarked on the various renderings of 'O great is the depth' ('St. Paul') in these terms:—

The pin animato was rather too slow.
The pin animato was as it should be.
The pin animato was better done by this choir than by those who sang before it.

We hope that all the choirs saw the point.

A HUDDERSFIELD MUSIC-MAKING.

Huddersfield is not a very fertile field from an antiquarian point of view. It is true that the surrounding country contains some Druidical remains, that the adjoining township of Longwood was once a Roman station known as Cambodunum, and that the Castle Hill, Almondbury, is the site of a Saxon fortress. But Huddersfield itself—called in the Domesday Book Odersfelt, after the first Saxon colonist in the place—is an important business centre of a century's growth. Ninety years ago an entry was made in the Parish Church books to this effect:—

> Resolved: That a standing constable to act as police-officer is highly necessary, and shall be elected for this township.

Five years later the church books record, as one of the duties of the aforesaid standing police-constable, that he had 'to visit the public-houses frequently.' Within living memory it was customary for the churchwardens to pay official visits, after the reading of the second lesson at Morning Prayer, to clear the churchyard of loiterers and dogs, and then to visit the public houses—of course, in an official capacity! A curious financial entry in the church books reads thus:—

1817. May 2, Paid Hedghogs, Weasles, & Co. 4s. 8d.

The musical history of Huddersfield may be said to have commenced with the year 1812, when a youth, Thomas Parratt, by name, just passing out of his teens, became the first organist of the Parish Church. The congregation, to avoid any difficulties that might arise in regard to charges on the church rate (then levied on the whole parish), raised an endowment, which was settled in trust to provide a salary for the organist in perpetuity. Mr. Parratt began his duties on December 25, 1812, and played at fifty Christmas services. He was succeeded by his son, Henry, who has played on forty similar occasions—thus father and son between them have officiated for ninety Christmas Days without a break—probably an unique record. A younger son of Thomas Parratt is Sir Walter Parratt, Master of the Musick to the King and organist of St. George's Chapel, Windsor.

It may not be without interest to give the specification of the first organ in Huddersfield Parish Church, erected by William Gray, in the year 1812:—

Great (8 stops).
1. Double Diapason (to CC).	5. Twelfth.
2. Open Diapason.	6. Fifteenth.
3. Stopped Diapason.	7. Sesquialtera, III ranks.
4. Principal.	8. Trumpet.
Choir (5 stops).
9. Stopped Diapason.	12. Fifteenth.
10. Principal.	13. Violoncello.
11. Flute.
Swell (6 stops).
14. Open Diapason.	17. Cornet, III ranks.
15. Stopped Diapason.	18. Trumpet.
16. Principal.	19. Hautboy.

Compass: Great and Choir, GG (no GG sharp) to f^3 in alt., 58 notes. Swell, Tenor C to f^3 in alt., 42 notes.

Mr. Thomas Parratt (of whom we give a portrait) is to this day referred to in terms of high esteem. He was an excellent organist, and it is from him that his two sons have inherited their accompaniment gifts. In the old days of the West Gallery organ and singing pew, the quartet of soloists at Huddersfield Parish Church included the celebrated Mrs. Sunderland, known as 'the Yorkshire Queen of Song'—now an octogenarian—and Mrs. Lister Peace, the mother of Dr. A. L. Peace, himself a native of the town, and now organist of St. George's Hall, Liverpool. Thomas Parratt was not only the first professional musician who started in practice in Huddersfield, but he worthily held the chief place there for half-a-century. A tablet placed in the South Gallery of the Parish Church records his worth in these words:—

In Memory of Thomas Parratt
of this town,
Who died 27 March, 1862,
In the 70th year of his age.
He was the first organist of this Church,
and filled that office with zeal and ability during 50 years.
This monument is erected by members of the congregation and other friends.

In addition to Mr. Henry L. Parratt, already referred to, the names of Mr. Joshua Marshall and Mr. John North must be mentioned as having done good work for the cause of music in the town for many years.

MR. THOMAS PARRATT (1793-1862),
ORGANIST OF HUDDERSFIELD PARISH CHURCH FROM 1812 TO 1862.
(From an oil painting by G. D. Tomlinson.)

The reputation of Huddersfield stands high as a music-loving centre. Its townsmen have gone forth to various parts of the world as organists and singers, and their attainments—as, for instance, Sir Walter Parratt and Dr. Peace—have given distinction to their birthplace. And then what shall be said of those glorious West Riding voices? The books of reference state that Huddersfield 'is the chief seat of the fancy woollen trade,' but the voices of the inhabitants thereof are anything but 'woolly.' Choral music has long characterised the town and surrounding country, and its deep-rooted traditions of magnificent tone and genuine enthusiam are splendidly maintained in present-day attainments. The strongest proof of these precious qualities was furnished at a concert of the Huddersfield Choral Society on the evening of the 7th ult.; but let us first take a peep at the early days of this vigorous Society.

The Huddersfield Choral Society was founded at the Plough Inn, Westgate, June 7, 1836. Here are a few extracts from its eight-and-twenty Rules and Regulations, as revised on December 16, 1842:—

I. That this Society shall be designated "The Huddersfield Choral Society," and shall have for its object the improvement of the talent and taste of this town and neighbourhood, in the performance of Sacred and Choral Music, Overtures, etc.; for which purpose meetings shall be held on the Friday on or before the full of the moon in every month.

There were no street lamps in those days, hence the full-moon reference. After very strictly laying down the law in regard to management, membership, subscriptions, &c., there is a reference to creature comforts in these words:—

IX. That on the Monthly nights each member shall have allowed three gills of ale, bread, cheese, etc.; and on the Quarterly, such other refreshments as shall be agreed upon by the Committee.

'Fines,' ranging from sixpence to five times that amount, figure largely in the Society's original constitution—a fine Society, one might call it. Here is a salutary rule:—

XIII. Should any member or members leave the Orchestra before the conclusion of any performance, without giving a satisfactory reason to the Leader, he or she shall be fined sixpence.

The next to be quoted might be liable to abuse, though it has the merit of novelty—

XXI. That at the Monthly meetings any member shall be allowed to give his or her opinion on any piece of music, providing it be done in a respectful, friendly and becoming manner; but not to stop, interrupt, or make any disturbance during the performance, on pain of forfeiting the sum of two shillings and sixpence for each offence, or be excluded.

Rules XXII. and XXVI. are of disciplinary excellence:—

XXII. Any member being intoxicated, or using obscene or abusive language, at any of the meetings, shall forfeit sixpence for each offence.

XXVI. That any member taking a copy away without first acquainting the Librarian, shall be fined two shillings and sixpence.

No one who is acquainted with Yorkshire folk and their warm-hearted camaraderie could doubt that one of the fundamentals of the Society was a fostering of a social spirit, but socialism was tabooed. Rule XXVIII. reads:—

That no person shall be a member of this Society, who frequents the "Hall of Science" or any of the "Socialist Meetings," nor shall the Librarian be allowed to lend any copies of music (knowingly) belonging to this Society to any Socialist, upon pain of expulsion.

At the present time the Society—which is eighty years old—consists of 345 singing members, distributed thus:—

Sopranos	116
Altos (19 males)	86
Tenors	72
Basses	71
Total ..	345

Thirty years ago there were only two contraltos in the choir, and the men who sang the alto part thought nothing of changing their registers, with ludicrous effect, in such a phrase as 'And the glory of the Lord.' At the present time, members are admitted into the Society 'if approved by the Committee,' the gentlemen paying an entrance fee of two shillings and sixpence, the ladies being admitted free. The Society possesses a fine library of choral works, ranging from 'The Messiah' to 'King Olaf.' A new departure was taken at the beginning of the season 1901-2 by the appointment of Dr. Henry Coward, of Sheffield, to the office of conductor. This happy arrangement has had a marked effect upon the Society in more respects than one. Many of the members had got into the way of attending the rehearsals only as a duty; others, being less dutiful, became very lax in this respect; but now, under Dr. Coward's inspiring leadership, the weekly practisings have become a real pleasure to all concerned, and this vigorous Society has entered upon a new lease of life. Enthusiastic devotion to a cause is half the battle of success.

The 239th concert of the Society took place in the Town Hall, Huddersfield, on the 7th ult., when the programme comprised Mendelssohn's 'Hymn of

THE OLD PARISH CHURCH, HUDDERSFIELD.
(From an old print kindly lent by Sir Walter Parratt.)

Praise,' and 'Athalie,' both works being performed in the presence of a large and enthusiastic audience. The band of sixty-six performers, for the most part local, we are glad to say—gave a good account of themselves in Mendelssohn's more familiar work. Miss Agnes Nicholls—in excellent voice, and full of artistic energy—Madame Annie Phillips, Miss Emily Berry, Madame H. England, Miss Ethel B. Ramsden, and Mr. Joseph O'Mara, were the soloists, while Mr. J. Edgar Ibeson—an excellent pianoforte accompanist, by-the-way—rendered good service at the organ.

The honours of the evening were, however, carried off by the choir. How magnificently they sang those Praise choruses of Mendelssohn's! Tone, attack, and pure intonation were not the only commendable features of the choral performance; intelligence and enthusiasm—and, indeed, refinement, as in 'I waited for the Lord'—were present to a very marked degree. The ease with which the sopranos took their high B flats, and the electrifying F's and G's of the tenors were, indeed, thrilling to a degree. The altos and basses were no less fit, and the choir was one about which any conductor and any town might boast. It would be invidious to single out any special point of excellence when all reached the high-water mark; but the unaccompanied strains of Nun danket ('Let all men praise the Lord') greeted the ear with a peculiar beauty that will not soon be forgotten. 'Athalie'—of which, it may be observed, the overture was composed by Mendelssohn in London, during his visit of 1844—had not, we were informed, been sung by the Society for some twenty-five years, therefore the music was much less familiar to both band and chorus than the earlier work which formed the first part of the programme, but the March of the Priests made its usual effect. It only remains to be said that Dr. Coward conducted with that exuberance of spirit which characterises everything he takes in hand, including

MR. BEN STOCKS.
PRESIDENT OF THE HUDDERSFIELD CHORAL SOCIETY.
(Photograph by Mr. John E. Shaw, Huddersfield.)

his baton. He is evidently the right man in the right place as conductor of the Huddersfield Choral Society. Long may it flourish under his invigorating sway!

Huddersfield, like other cities and towns, is to be congratulated on its Choral Society officers:—Mr. Ben Stocks, the President, and Mr. J. Eagleton, Secretary, as chiefs, though yeoman service has been rendered by Mr. William Harrop, Mr. J. A. Wrigley, J.P., and Mr. J. J. Grist, members of the committee. In the course of a pleasant chat (after the concert) at the Borough Club—located in the very house in which the Parratt family resided—Mr. Ben Stocks relates the story of his early music-makings in Huddersfield forty or fifty years ago. It was then the custom to meet for a feast of song, on the Friday nearest the full moon, in various neighbouring towns and villages. The method of conveyance from place to place was 'Shanks's mare,' and a walk of eight miles over the hills to get to the rendezvous was a mere nothing to those enthusiastic music lovers. Places like Honley, Brighouse, New Mill, were visited in rotation; and it was a common experience, for instance, to walk to New Mill on a Saturday afternoon, have 'a good sing,' then supper, leave the place of rehearsal at about eleven o'clock, walk home in the moonlight, and yet be at church at 9.30 on the following (Sunday) morning, ready for rehearsal, and as fresh as cucumbers!

No less enthusiastic is the honorary secretary of the Society, Mr. John Eagleton, who, like Mr. Ben Stocks, is a fine specimen of an amateur musician and a sturdy Yorkshireman, yet genial withal. A native of Huddersfield, Mr. Eagleton joined the Society forty years ago. Six years later he was placed on the Committee, and, since 1872, he has been the ever-alert Secretary. History says that Mr. Eagleton has not been altogether unacquainted with burnt cork; but in 1870 he took up the more serious study of the bassoon. He and Mr. Cyril Spottiswoode are the only amateur double-bassoon players in this country and Mr. Eagleton has played his monster instrument at the Handel Festivals, and at several London concerts. With such a trio of able officers as Ben Stocks, John Eagleton, and Henry Coward, and with such splendid singers as those who form the chorus, the Huddersfield Choral Society bids fair to sustain the reputation of the West Riding of Yorkshire as the Home of the Oratorio.

Dotted Crotchet.

NOTES ON SOME FORGOTTEN SYMPHONY COMPOSERS:

C. Ph. E. Bach, Dittersdorf, and Ignaz Pleyel.

By Professor Niecks.

The Programme of Professor Niecks's Fourth Historical Concert, 'Some Forgotten Symphony Composers,' given at Edinburgh on February 19th, contained the following interesting introductory remarks.

To recall the forgotten, or, rather, to disinter the buried, is profitable in more than one respect. It enables us to realise tastes, styles, and personalities of the past better than the most graphic of descriptions can do, enables us to learn the lesson that older forms may be different phases without being lower stages of development, and enables us to prove the fact that many things shelved are worthy to be brought forth again.

C. Ph. E. Bach (1714-88), the son of J. S. Bach, he whom Haydn and Mozart called their father, was a cultivator of the 'gallant' style (so-called in contradistinction to the contrapuntal and fugal style), and one of the chief developers of the modern sonata. As a composer of sonatas he is better known than as a composer of symphonies. From 1741 to 1776 the master composed, however, as many as eighteen symphonies, five of which were printed in his life-time, and four of these reprinted in 1860. Characteristic of C. Ph. E. Bach's works are liveliness of imagination and variety of form. The masterly Symphony in D, among others, illustrates this strikingly. It consists of three movements—the first a well-developed, spirited Allegro di molto, the second a short, singing Largo of only twenty-seven bars, and the third a nimble, by no means long, Presto. The unconventionality of the composer comes out in the continuity of the work (the first movement leads into the second, the second into the third); it comes out in the keys of the movements (D, E flat, D); and in the thoughts, form, and instrumentation. In the first movement we have highly developed, but freely treated modern sonata form, in the last movement, freely treated modernised old sonata form.

Ignaz Pleyel (1757-1831), a pupil of Wanhal and for five years of Haydn, was one of the most popular composers of his time, and enjoyed such a reputation that when Salomon brought Haydn to London in 1792, to be the principal attraction at his concerts, the directors of the Professional Concerts engaged Pleyel for their concerts as a counter attraction. Master and pupil in becoming rivals remained friends. Pleyel was neither a man of genius nor an imposing personality, but a musician of great talent who had mastered the craft of his art and knew how to write pleasingly and effectively. Neither his form nor his matter requires comment—both are obvious.

Carl Ditters von Dittersdorf (1739-99), another very popular composer, gave to the world not only a great number of symphonies, string quartets, and other instrumental compositions, but also oratorios and operas. One or two of his comic operas are still occasionally performed in Germany, some of his string quartets have been recently revived, and in 1899 there were printed at Leipzig six programme and two other symphonies, an overture, and a divertimento for orchestra. We are concerned now, not with his symphonies in general—of which he is said to have written about eighty—but with his programme symphonies, the best produced before Beethoven. They are twelve in number, were composed in 1783-85, and are based on scenes from Ovid's Metamorphoses, indicated by a verse or two placed above the movements. Three of these symphonies were printed during the composer's life-time, three of the unprinted were discovered at the Dresden Library in 1896, and the fate of the other six is still unknown. The form of these compositions, although sometimes influenced by the programme, adheres as a rule to the lines of absolute music, to those of the Haydn-Mozart period. There are always four movements, or rather divisions—one in first-movement sonata form (not, however, always the first), one a minuet, one an orthodox slow movement, and one of a different disposition, mostly with several changes of tempo. Of material tone-painting there is not a very great deal; and what there is, is artistic.

Much foolish programme music has been written, but still more foolish criticism has been written on programme music. You have only to misinterpret the intentions of the composer, or to dwell upon a subordinate detail as the main feature, and infinite scope for ridicule will present itself to you. Of Ditters von Dittersdorf's twelve symphonies, one is based on the well-known story of Actæon, who surprises Diana bathing, and is by the angry goddess changed into a stag, and then hunted and torn to pieces by his own dogs (Metamorphoses III., 144-252); and another is based on the less-known story of Latona and the Lycian peasants, which can, however, be told in almost as few words. The mother of Apollo and Diana, persecuted by Juno, comes to a lake in Lycia, and is about to slake her thirst, when rustics, gathering bulrushes, forbid her, and not only remain deaf to her entreaties, but even insult her. To revenge herself she transforms them into frogs (Metamorphoses, IV., 313-381). Now, does Dittersdorf make the impossible attempt of telling these stories? Nothing of the kind. What he does is this. He merely illustrates certain situations of the stories musically, just as artists of the pencil, burin, and brush do pictorially without blame and hindrance from any one. The first symphony illustrates: in the first movement, Actæon and his companions hunting; in the second movement, Diana, surrounded by her nymphs, bathing in a sylvan stream; in the third, Actæon surprising Diana; and in the fourth, Actæon fleeing, pursued and killed by his dogs. The second symphony illustrates: in the first movement, the simple ways of the rustics, both rude and idyllic; in the second, the beseeching words of Latona, and the brutal refusals of the peasants; in the third, their churlishness and jeers; and in the fourth, Latona's appeal to heaven (Adagio), and rage and curse, 'Live, wretches, ever in the pool' (Vivace), and, in conclusion, the croaking of the frogs. What, however, will strike the hearer immeasurably more than the indication of croaking (by the horns) towards the end of the latter symphony, and the yelping of dogs in the first and last movements of the former, is the freshness, expressiveness, and beauty, often, indeed, exquisite beauty, of the pictures represented by the composer in the several movements.

The programme consisted of the following four symphonies, played by an orchestra of twenty-six players selected from the Scottish orchestra (leader, Mr. F. Siegl), and conducted by Professor Niecks:—

I. Carl Ditters von Dittersdorf (1739-99):

The Transformation of Actæon into a Stag. No. 3 of the Symphonies after Ovid's Metamorphoses (composed about 1783-85).

(a) Allegro, 6-8.
Cum juvenis placido per devia lustra vagantes
Participes operum compellat Hyantius ore.
. . . sated with the chace, Actæon stood,
And hail'd his comrades wand'ring thro' the wood.

(b) Adagio (più tosto Andantino), C.
Hic dea silvarum venatu fessa solebat
Virgineos artus liquido perfundere rore.
Here Dian lov'd to cast her cares aside,
And bathe her virgin body in the tide.

(c) Tempo di minuetto, 3-4.
Ecce nepos Cadmi.
Thither Actæon wanders.

(d) Finale, Vivace, C.
Dilacerant falsi dominum sub imagine cervi.
On ev'ry side the ruthless blood-hounds pour'd,
And mangling tore their metamorphos'd lord.

II. Carl Philipp Emanuel Bach (1714-88).
Symphony in D major (1776).

(a) Allegro di molto, C.
(b) Largo, 3-4.
(c) Presto, 3-8.

III. Carl Ditters von Dittersdorf (1739-99):

The Transformation of the Lycian Peasants into Frogs. No. 5 (in the now printed, No. 6 in the original order) of the symphonies after Ovid's Metamorphoses.

(a) Allegretto non troppo Presto, C.
. . . . agrestes illic fructicosa legebant
Vimina cum junctis gratamque paludibus ulvam.
. . . . . certain hinds stood by
The lake, collecting water-lilies, weeds,
Twigs of pale osier, rushes, sedge, and weeds.

(b) Adagio, ma non molto, 2-4.
Quem non blanda deae potuissent verba movere?
What heart could eloquence like this withstand?

(c) Minuetto, 3-4.
Hi tamen orantem perstant prohibere.
Yet with abuse, and rude assault beside,
The heartless monsters drive her from the tide.

(d) Finale—alternately Adagio, 3-8, and Vivace, ma moderato, C.
Vox quoque jam rauca est.
Hoarsely they croak.

IV. Ignaz Pleyel (1757-1831):
Symphony in C major (composed about 1790).

(a) Allegro assai, C.
(b) Andante grazioso, 3-8.
(c) Minuetto, 3-4.
(d) Allegro assai, 2-4.

A CAMBRIDGE COLLEGE CONCERT.

(BY ONE WHO WAS THERE.)

A College Concert in an University town is naturally associated with mere man. But why should not 'sweet girl graduates' court the muse in concerted strains? A highly satisfactory answer to this question was furnished at the concert given by the Newnham College Musical Society, on the evening of the 11th ult. This enjoyable function took place in the beautiful Clough Hall (the exterior of which is shown in our illustration), a spacious and graceful building erected to the memory of the first Principal of Newnham, Miss Clough, whose name and deeds are held in reverent remembrance far beyond the confines of the College she loved so well, and its location, Cambridge.

Before setting forth the programme of the concert, it may not be without interest to give a short history of the N.C.M.S., from some particulars kindly supplied by Miss Elles, one of the Fellows of the College and conductor of the orchestra.

The Newnham College Musical Society was founded in 1882, in response to a desire expressed by several students that some organised musical practices should be held in the College. It was decided that during the winter term, meetings should be held once a week to practise choral works, and the Society was fortunate enough at the outset in securing the valuable services of Dr. A. H. Mann as its conductor. Ever since that date, in spite of the increasing demands upon his time, Dr. Mann has always remained the guiding spirit of the Society, and it owes much to his kindly interest in its welfare.

In a College Society whose members must of necessity be continually changing, and whose hours for practice are strictly limited, there must be good and bad seasons, and the N.C.M.S. has had its share of both. Some important works have, however, been studied from time to time, and among these may be mentioned Kiel's 'Stabat Mater,'

NEWNHAM COLLEGE, CAMBRIDGE.

THE CLOUGH HALL IS SHOWN ON THE RIGHT OF THE PICTURE.

(Photograph by Mr. W. Clennett, Cambridge.)

Rheinberger's Mass, the Mendelssohn motets, and, quite recently, Elgar's 'Snow' and 'Fly, Singing Bird.' The Orchestral Society has only been in existence for six seasons, and, like the Choral Society, aims at meeting once a week.

There is also in the College a small private musical society called the Raleigh Musical Society, the members of which are elected according to merit, and may never exceed twenty in number. Admission is eagerly sought, but applicants often fail to reach the required standard. This Society meets in the students' rooms to practise glees and instrumental trios and quartets.

The stringed orchestra consists of twelve players—eight violins, two violas, and two violoncellos—and forty-seven voices form the chorus. Criticism would of course be out of place in recording so pleasant a College function; moreover, it would be invidious to mention individuals when all did so well; but reference may be permitted to the refined and artistic interpretations of the whole of the evening's music—purely for the love of the thing. The beautiful strains of Pergolesi's 'Stabat Mater' are as welcome as ever, and after a verse of the National Anthem, audience and performers intermingle, and the pretty scene is changed to a duet of tea and conversation, the pleasant blend of which concludes a very enjoyable evening's music.

The selection of music performed at the said invitation-concert, under the direction of Dr. A. H. Mann, was as follows, the orchestra being conducted by Miss Elles:—

PROGRAMME.

Orchestra Dances from 'Nell Gwyn,' Nos. 1 and 3. ... German.
Glee ... ... 'Serenade' ... ... Schubert.
A. E. Lewis, E. G. Willcock, N. E. Jessop.
K. W. Rigby, E. G. Woodgate.
Violin Solo ... ... 'Canzone' ... ... Carl Bohm.
M. L. Duncan.
Song ... ...'Oh! bid your faithful Ariel fly'... ... Linley.
E. G. Willcock.
Piano Trio Largo from Trio in G Major, Op. 1, No. 2 ...Beethoven.
M. L. Duncan, D. M. Pennycuick, M. K. Welsh.
Song ... ... 'Die Junge Nonne'... ... ... Schubert.
J. Diver.
Piano Solo ... ... 'Liebeslied' ... Schumann-Liszt.
E. Newcomb.
Chorus ... ... 'Stabat Mater' ... ... Pergolesi.
N.C.M.S., N.C.O.S.

Soloists.

E. A. R. Moxon, E. G. Willcock, E. M. Yates,
J. C. Forsyth, C. J. Gaskell, N. E. Jessop, K. W. Rigby,
M. R. Spencer, W. M. West.

'GOD SAVE THE KING.'

Church and Organ Music.

A FAMOUS OLD REPEAT-TUNE.

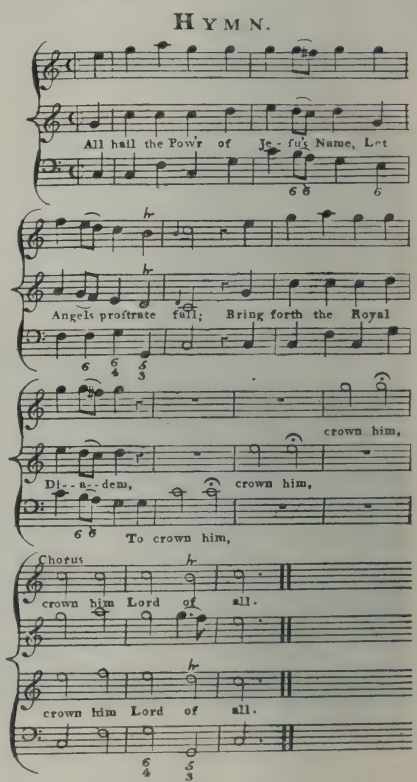
'Miles's Lane' is one of the few remaining repeat-tunes so beloved by our grandfathers. The obscurity of its origin is in inverse ratio to its long life and extraordinary popularity. So far as can be ascertained, it made its appearance in a monthly periodical called the Gospel Magazine, for November, 1779, in the form shown in our facsimile reproduction. From this it will be seen that both words and music were anonymous. Five months later, in the same magazine (April, 1780), there appeared, again anonymously, but without music, the complete hymn of eight stanzas. An editorial foot-note says: 'For the music of this hymn, see our Magazine for November, 1779.' The words can be traced to Edward Perronet, a lay preacher of Canterbury.

William Shrubsole, the composer of the tune, is otherwise obscure. The son of Thomas Shrubsole, farrier, he was born at Best (or Betts) Lane, Canterbury, where his father worked in the smithy. He was baptized at All Saints' Church, January 13, 1760, and from 1770 to 1777 he was a chorister in the choir of Canterbury Cathedral, during the organistship of Samuel Porter. He subsequently settled in London as a teacher of music, two of his pupils being William Russell, organist of the Foundling, and Benjamin Jacob, organist of Surrey Chapel, both of whom made their mark. Shrubsole can next be traced as organist of Bangor Cathedral in 1782 (ætat 22), which post he held for two years. The following extracts from the Cathedral records speak for themselves:—

September, 1782. William Shrubsole was named Organist with a Salary of forty guineas a year, payable, from the 22nd day of August last, from which time he has attended the duties of the Organist's place in a manner so satisfactory and promising that we think proper for his encouragement to direct the Treasurer to pay him also the sum of eight guineas towards the expenses of his journey, the removal of his Harpsichord and other effects from London to Bangor.

October, 1783. Mr. William Shrubsole the Organist of this Church, having given great offence to the Dean and Chapter, by his close connection with one Abbott, late of this place, as by his frequenting Conventicles, that Mr. Dean be impowered to discharge the said William Shrubsole from his place of Organist, if the said Abbott, (who is supposed to be gone to reside in Dublin) shall at any time hereafter return in order to abide in the town of Bangor, or the neighbourhood thereof, or if the said William Shrubsole shall be found to frequent any Conventicle or Religious Assembly, where anything is taught which is contrary to the Doctrine or discipline of the Church of England.

December, 1783. That William Shrubsole be employed to play on the Organ of our Cathedral Church till Lady-day next and no longer, that in case it should not be convenient for him to continue in that employment till Lady-day next, he shall be at liberty to leave it before that time, and shall be paid the full allowance to Ladyday next notwithstanding.



Hymn.
All hail the Powr of Je - sus Name, Let Angels prostrate fall; Bring forth the Royal crown him,
Di - a - dem, crown him,
To crown him,
Chorus
crown him Lord of all.
crown him Lord of all.

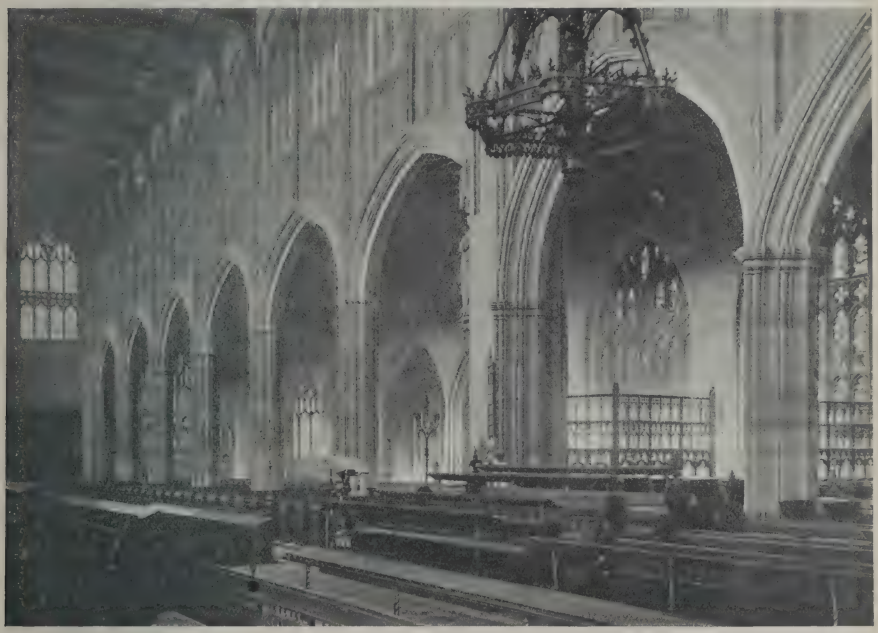
FACSIMILE OF THE ORIGINAL FORM OF THE TUNE MILES'S LANE, REPRODUCED FROM THE GOSPEL MAGAZINE OF NOVEMBER, 1779.

After his apparently arbitrary dismissal from Bangor, Shrubsole returned to London and became organist of Spa Fields Chapel (Countess of Huntingdon's Connexion). He held that appointment till his death, which took place, at the age of forty-six, on January 18, 1806. He is buried in Bunhill Fields, Finsbury; his tombstone now bears the first strain of his famous tune, added to the record of his name and dates, at the instigation of the present writer. This William Shrubsole must not be confused with his namesake, a Bank of England clerk, the author of the lines beginning 'Arm of the Lord, awake, awake!' and other hymns.

In regard to the origin of the music, it is said to have been composed by Shrubsole in the organ loft of Canterbury Cathedral, but this needs confirmation. The late Major G. A. Crawford was of opinion that Perronet showed the words to his young musical friend, who thereupon wrote the tune. Perronet held Shrubsole in high esteem. He appointed him one of his executors, and bequeathed him some property at Wandsworth. The concluding clause of his (Perronet's) testamentary depositions quaintly reads thus :—

Lastly, I do here give and bequeath all and every property I am at this time or may at the time of my decease be possest of both real and personal to the afore-mentioned Mr. William Shrubsole . . . and to the male heirs of his body lawfully begotten to be by them . . . possest, enjoyed, and disposed of as they shall see meet, for ever, in consideration of his respect for me his services to me and that fine and disinterested affection he has ever shown me from our first acquaintance even when a proverb of reproach cast off by all my relations disinherited unjustly and left to sink or swim as afflictions and God's providence should appoint.

The name 'Miles's Lane' in all probability owed its origin to an old Meeting House which formerly stood in Meeting House Court, leading off Miles's Lane, Upper Thames Street, close to London Bridge. The building was demolished about 1831 when the approaches to the new bridge were made, but the thoroughfare (doubtless a corruption of St. Michael's Lane) still exists, as does also a portion of the court in which the old Meeting House formerly stood.



ST. MICHAEL'S CHURCH, COVENTRY.

(Photograph by Mr. Fred J. Harker, Assistant Organist and Secretary of the choir.)

A glance at the facsimile reproduction will show that the tune has been much altered by editors of hymnals, many of whom have spared no pains to elaborate the simple form of the refrain not only by destroying its climax character, but by clothing it with all sorts of inconsistent harmonies. The melody, too, has not escaped their tinkering hands. For example, in 'Hymns Ancient and Modern' the last melody-note of line 2, instead of proceeding down to the key-note, is made to ascend to the third of the scale, an unwarrantable alteration which suggests this change in the words :—

Let angels prostrate rise !

A certain Scotch editor, who has had many followers North of the Tweed, had the audacity to change the melody of the second line thus :—

It is no wonder that this outrageous piece of tinkering caused an eminent Scotch divine to say to Precentors: 'As they would deprecate being regarded barbarians, let those Precentors not intermeddle with this gorgeous tune who cannot guide a congregation in the singing of it without taking the octave [seventh] at the end of the second measure. It produces the sensation as if one would vomit!'

ST. MICHAEL'S CHURCH, COVENTRY.

One of the largest parish churches in England is that of St. Michael's, Coventry. With its imposing spire, rising to a height of 300 feet, it is a noble specimen of lighter Gothic architecture. For at least a century, music has been a prominent feature of this beautiful Midland church. An organ, built by Thomas Schwarbrook in 1733, was considered the masterpiece of that eminent artist. It cost £1,400, a large sum in those days, and contained three remarkable stops—the harp, lute, and dulcimer; but, in consequence of 'the difficulty of keeping the strings in tune,' they were removed in 1763. The instrument was opened in May, 1733, by Dr. Thomas Deane, to whom was given the post of organist at a salary of £40 per annum. To Dr. Deane succeeded Capel Bond, a famous anthem composer of his day, and the conductor of the first Birmingham Musical Festival, held in the year 1768.

The next organist of note was Mr. Edward Simms, appointed in 1828, who worthily discharged the duties for the long period of sixty years. During his organistship, oratorios were performed in the church by the Coventry Choral Society. Upon the retirement of Mr. Simms, and after the church had been restored at a cost of about £50,000, the Vestry, in 1886, appointed Mr. A. Herbert Brewer, who officiated at the fine four-manual organ of fifty-four stops, built by Father Willis. Upon the departure of Mr. Brewer as music-master of Tonbridge School, Mr. (now Dr.) H. C. Perrin was appointed, and when he left (in 1898), to become organist of Canterbury Cathedral, Mr. Walter Hoyle, sub-organist of Exeter Cathedral, one of 227 competitors, obtained the post, the adjudicator being Sir Walter Parratt.

Mr. Walter Hoyle, who is a Fellow of the Royal College of Organists, has continued the Sunday evening and Bank Holiday organ recitals instituted by his predecessors, two of whom have been appointed to important cathedrals. A perusal of the service-lists shows the ambitious nature of the music sung and played at St. Michael's, and which, we are assured, reflects great credit on Mr. Hoyle and the members of his choir. These few words on one of Tennyson's 'three tall spires' furnish the opportunity for expressing regret at an unfortunate slip of the pen in our last issue (p. 169). The church from which Mr. C. H. Moody proceeds to the organ loft at Ripon Cathedral, should have been given as Holy Trinity, and not St. Michael's, Coventry, of which latter church Mr. Walter Hoyle still retains the organistship.

Dr. A. L. Peace, organist of St. George's Hall, Liverpool, gave two recitals on February 24 and 25 in the Town Hall, Manchester, when his programmes included an Air with Variations in B flat by Dr. Henry Hiles—a graceful compliment to an esteemed musician resident in Cottonopolis.

The name of Sir John Goss should be added to the list of Composers of the Chapel Royal (p. 92 of February issue). He held the office from 1856 till his death, in 1880; he also occasionally played the organ at the services in the Chapel.

SPECIAL SERVICES.

At Canterbury Cathedral, on February 20, Mendelssohn's 'St. Paul,' with full band and chorus: an excellent performance under the direction of Dr. H. C. Perrin. —— On the 16th ult., at Brixton Church, Spohr's 'Last Judgment,' by the Brixton Oratorio Choir of one hundred voices and full professional orchestra; one of the admirable oratorio services on Sunday afternoons organised by Mr. Douglas Redman.——The second annual performance at Christ Church, Westminster Bridge Road, of 'The Last Night at Bethany,' also on the 16th ult., under the careful guidance of Mr. J. R. Griffiths, with Dr. F. Abernethy at the organ.

ORGAN RECITALS.

Dr. A. B. Plant, St. John's, Horninglow (Concerto Grossi, Corelli).—Mr. J. H. Bannister, Town Hall, Burton-on-Trent (Scherzo, Hoyte).—Mr. Thomas J. Crawford, St. Clement Danes, Strand (Finale from G minor Sonata, Carl Piutti).—Mr. R. H. Turner, Parish Church, Portsmouth (Postlude in D, R. H. Turner).—Mr. Roger Ascham, Feather Market Hall, Port Elizabeth (Première Suite, Borowski).—Mr. Thomas Curry, St. Stephen's, Walbrook, City.—Mr. A. E. Thorne, St. John the Evangelist, Drury Lane (Festal March, E. H. Thorne).—Mr. C. H. Moody, Christ Church, South Banbury (Suite in A major, Felton, and Evening Song, E. C. Bairstow).—Mr. William Rigby, New Road Congregational Church, Bury (organ duet—with Mr. Walter Ramwell—illustrating Psalm 42, vv. 6, 7, 8, 10, by Merkel).—Mr. Nelson Govier, St. Clement Danes, Strand (John E. West's Allegro Maestoso in D).—Mr. Ernest H. Smith, St. Bede's, Liverpool (Adagio in E, Merkel).—Mr. W. R. Hedden, Church of the Incarnation, New York (Concertsatz in C minor, Thiele).—Dr. Bunnett, St. Peter's Wesleyan Chapel, Norwich.—Mr. Percy C. Mull, Holy Trinity, Richmond (Fantasia on an air by G. Rode, Best).—Mr. Thomas Curry, St. Stephen, Walbrook.—Mr. H. Mozart Sheaves, Moss Side Baptist Church, Manchester (Sonata in A minor, Rheinberger).—Mr. W. E. Kirby, Parish Church, Fenny Stratford (Toccata in G, Dubois).—Mr. I. Charles Long, St. James's, Marylebone (Intermezzo, Hollins).—Mr. Westlake Morgan, St. Mary's, Beaumaris (Fantasia in C minor, Hesse).—Mr. W. R. Hedden, Church of the Incarnation, New York (Concertsatz in C minor, Thiele).

ORGANIST AND CHOIRMASTER, AND CHOIR APPOINTMENTS.

Mr. A. T. Lee Ashton, St. Paul's, York Place, Edinburgh.

Mr. William Bradley, Christ Church, Armley, Leeds.

Miss Trotter Brown, Rosebank Wesleyan Church, Cape Town.

Mr. T. Hume Dunlop, the Congregational Church, Waterloo, Liverpool.

Mr. H. A. Fricker, St. Michael's, Chard, Headingley.

Mr. William E. Jones, sub-organist of Bangor Cathedral.

Dr. A. W. Marchant, Public Hall, Stirling, and conductor of the Stirling Choral Society.

Mr. Harold Oswald, St. Andrew's Church, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

Mr. Frederick E. Sparrow, Canonbury Presbyterian Church.

Mr. H. J. Taylor, the Town Hall, Dover.

Mr. H. M. Turton, St. Aidan's Church, Leeds.

Mr. Walter G. Withers, St. Mary's, Edghill, Liverpool.

Mr. Montague Borwell, Assistant Lay Vicar of Westminster Abbey.

Mr. Harry Collins and Mr. John G. Cooke (Basses), Bangor Cathedral.

Mr. Edwin Gellett (Bass), St. Martin-in-the-Fields.

Mr. Joseph Jevons (Tenor), Ripon Cathedral.

Mr. P. R. Milliard (Alto), Bangor Cathedral.

Mr. R. R. Morris (Bass), Southwell Cathedral.

Mr. Llewelyn Roberts (Bass), Carlisle Cathedral.

Royal Academy of Music.—The following prizes have been awarded:—The Llewelyn Thomas Prize, to Thérese Grabowski, a native of Garelochhead, Dumbartonshire; the Evill Prize, to George Henry Gardner; the Goldberg Prize, to George Clowser; the Sterndale Bennett Prize, to Florence Reeves; the three last named are natives of London.

Reviews.

MUSICAL LITERATURE.

Life of Wagner. Being an authorised English Version, by Wm. Ashton Ellis, of C. F. Glasenapp's 'Das Leben Richard Wagner's,' Vol. II.

(Kegan Paul, Trench, Trübner and Company, Limited.)

The first volume of this interesting life (noticed in our issue of February, 1901) ended with an extract from a letter written by Wagner to Schumann in 1843, concerning his appointment of 'Königlicher Kapellmeister' at Dresden, and 'in high glee' he communicated that news. The second volume tells the story of that capellmeistership, which lasted for six years. These proved a time of sore tribulation, and the end of it was flight. Yet in it the seeds of future fame and future glory were sown. On October 20, 1842, his 'Rienzi' had been produced in that city, and in spite of the length (over six hours) of the performance, it proved an 'unquestioned victory.' On January 2 of the following year, the 'Flying Dutchman' was given, and another success was scored. Certainly no capellmeister ever entered on his duties under more auspicious circumstances. Two distinguished composers visited Dresden soon after the appointment; first, Berlioz, who conducted two concerts of his own compositions, and who was supported by Wagner at rehearsals with, to quote the words of the former, 'zeal and great readiness'; and next the famous Gewandhaus conductor, Mendelssohn, for a performance of his oratorio of 'St. Paul,' an appreciative notice of which, by Wagner, appeared in these columns in March, 1899 (Wagner on Mendelssohn's 'St. Paul').

With a performance of Mozart's 'Don Juan,' troubles soon began; the critics found fault with Wagner's tempi, and from high quarters came the order that 'the Kapellmeister should follow, not lead his band.' Spohr's visit to Dresden, resulting in his deciding to give the 'Flying Dutchman,' at Cassel, under his own direction, made some amends for these attacks on the conductor. This was also in 1843, and before the end of that year, Wagner had commenced his 'Tannhäuser.' The translation of Weber's remains from Moorfields to Dresden, and the visit of Liszt to that city, when for the first time he heard any of Wagner's music, were, in connection with Wagner, notable events of 1844. There is an amusing account of Spontini, who came to Dresden to conduct his 'La Vestale,' in which is told a little anti-Mendelssohn anecdote. In fact, nearly every time that composer is mentioned in the volume it is accompanied by a sneer more or less covert. This is to be regretted. Mendelssohn's tempo of a certain movement in Beethoven's Eighth Symphony may have been wrong; the performance, under his direction, of the 'Tannhäuser' overture at Berlin may have been a very bad one; his music to 'Antigone' may have deserved Spontini's cutting criticism; but these and other references seem to be made in an uncharitable spirit. Mendelssohn, like Judy in Mr. Punch's show, comes off badly.

On April 13, 1845, the score of 'Tannhäuser' was completed. One whole chapter is devoted to its production, and to the chorus of hostile criticism which it aroused. In a letter to Liszt, written about two months before the performance, Wagner speaks of himself as 'a poor German opera-composer, who will have enough to do if he gets his work a little way across the frontier of his province.' Then follows the account of the famous performance of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony on Palm Sunday, 1847 In Chapter VI., there is a telling account of 'Hiller's salon,' and of the notable painters, sculptors, writers, and musicians who assembled there week after week. At the end of this chapter and the beginning of the next, copious extracts are given from a very remarkable letter written by Wagner to Hanslick on New Year's Day, 1847, from which we see how deeply the question of the future of opera was engaging the attention of the former.

With Chapter VIII. we enter what may be termed the political arena. Although deeply interesting, all the events connected with von Lüttichau's hostility to the Capellmeister, the 'revolutionary' tendencies of the latter, his disgrace and flight from Dresden, may be passed over in this brief notice, as only touching indirectly on Wagner's art-work. Chapter X., entitled 'Dramatist or Musician?' claims a moment's notice. The sketch of a Rothbart drama, its abandonment for Siegfried's Tod, which 'was never set to music,' the poetic sketch of 'Jesus von Nazareth,' all show curious stages in Wagner's mental evolution from opera to music-drama. Mr. Ashton Ellis's version is ably written, and, as usual, he provides useful Supplemental Notes, and an excellent Index.

Shakespeare in Music. By Louis C. Elson.

[David Nutt.]

This is a delightful book. Its intent and purpose—admirably carried out, let us add—may be estimated by its sub-title, which reads; 'A collation of the chief musical allusions in the plays of Shakespeare, with an attempt at their explanation and derivation, together with much of the original music.' Mr. Elson, who is already favourably known as an American writer on music, gives us a further clue in the Preface to the why and wherefore of his book. He says, after referring to how closely the great poet allied himself to the Divine Art, 'few of the readers of Shakespeare are aware of how much his musical material can be traced home; many are unable to follow some of the poet's most subtile metaphors because they are unfamiliar with the musical works to which he refers, or with the song or melody which enriches the scene. It is hoped that this effort may in some degree give light upon a few dark places in the text.' To say that it does, and moreover, in a very interesting manner, is not all the praise which is due to the book.

Mr. Elson refers to Shakespeare's appreciation of music and his technical knowledge of the art. Of the thirty-seven plays (including 'Titus Andronicus') only five are barren of allusions to music. Our author is of opinion that Shakespeare himself was a singer. An excellent point is made of the fact that the 'Elizabethan poets' and the literature of that period are, as school subjects, allowed to overshadow the musicians of that time; he well says: 'Farrant, Weelkes, Morley, Byrd, Orlando Gibbons, Dowland, Bull, Ravenscroft, Tye, Tallis, Willbye, Ford, and others, form a musical roll of honour that ought not to be thrown into the background by the list of literati; in fact, if the great name of Shakespeare be eliminated, the musical list may balance the poetic one.'

In connection with the Shakespearian themes which have inspired composers, we are told that 'Romeo and Juliet' has furnished the librettos of no less than seventeen operas, ranging from Bellini's 'I Capuletti ed i Montecchi'—with a female Romeo, a part loved by Madame Pasta—to a burlesque, entitled 'Rhum et Eau en Juillet.'

Mr. Elson says: 'It is a significant fact that almost all Shakespeare's musicians [performers] are pictured as Bohemians or vagabonds;' but does not this portrayal accord with the general depreciation of professional singers and players in the great Bard's day?

Our author refers to 'the startling transformation' which Shakespeare's words, put into the mouth of Petruchio ('The Taming of the Shrew,' Act. II., Sc. 1), have undergone in the process of concocting the words of Bishop's familiar soprano song 'Should he upbraid!' 'The above rhymes,' he says, in quoting the words of the song, 'are ticketed as being "by Shakespeare"!'

As this dainty little book will doubtless soon reach a second edition, we venture to point out the omission of the name of Sir Arthur Sullivan as a composer of Shakespearian music. The rather misleading statement (p. 53), that Dallam's organ in King's College, Cambridge, contained 'some tremendous pedal pipes,' needs amendment, as there were no actual pedal pipes in England at that time—1606. The book is printed in America and some of the music type examples need a little revision. May we in England be preserved from such an abbreviation as 'Alltto modto.' But these are minor blemishes in an attractive and illustrated volume which should interest many readers.

CORONATION MUSIC.

Coronation March. By Edward German.
Coronation March. By H. W. Wareing.
The Village Organist. Coronation Number.
The Music for an Order for Special Services (Coronation) in South Africa. By Charles Macpherson.
Eight Hymns with Tunes. Suitable for use at services in celebration of the Coronation of His Majesty King Edward VII. By various authors and composers.
Now know I that the Lord. Anthem by Myles B. Foster.
The King shall rejoice. Anthem by Cuthbert Harris.
This is the day which the Lord hath made. Anthem by Bruce Steane.
The King shall rejoice. Anthem by E. Vine Hall.
The British King. Words by Harold Begbie, music by A. A. Needham.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

The march form, as a means of musical expression, typifies the pageantry associated with so stately a ceremony as a Coronation. The former of the two marches in our list, that by Mr. Edward German, consists of a dignified and diatonic theme in the key of D, with a characteristically melodious trio section in the sub-dominant. The composition by Dr. Herbert W. Wareing is of a more festive nature. It opens with ten bars of trumpetings, to which succeeds an animated chief melody, relieved, in due course, by the broad sweeping subject of the trio. Both marches are scored for full orchestra (Mr. German's for military band in addition), and arranged for organ, and pianoforte.

The Coronation number of the Village Organist is as practicable as it is cheap. It contains 'God save the King' in two simple forms suitable for congregational singing, and one with variations written by Mr. F. Cunningham Woods. Mr. Alfred Hollins specially contributes a King Edward Coronation March, in which towards the end he ingeniously introduces the melody of the National Anthem in the pedal part and in quadruple rhythm. The remaining marches are the popular 'Coronation' (from Le Prophète) by Meyerbeer, that in D, by Mr. Edward German, above referred to, and the evergreen Scipio of Handel, but herein printed in its original key—G, not D. Lastly, we have an arrangement of the Fanfare usually played by the State trumpeters during certain portions of the Coronation Service in Westminster Abbey.

A special service, based upon the ancient form and prayers to be found in Liber Regalis, and to be used on the day of the Coronation of King Edward VII., has been authorised by the Most Reverend the Archbishop of Capetown and Metropolitan for use in his own diocese, and, with the consent of his suffragans, throughout the Province of South Africa. The special musical settings of this service consist of 'Let thy hand be strengthened (Firmetur manus), 'Zadok the Priest,' an Introit ('Behold, O God, our Defender'), and an Offertory ('Let my prayer be set forth'). All the above are from the able pen of Mr. Charles Macpherson, sub-organist of St. Paul's Cathedral, who has furnished simple and appropriate music well within the capabilities of parish choirs, and with the accompaniments arranged for playing on a harmonium. An edition of this service-book with words only has also been issued.

The Eight Coronation Hymns—written by Mr. A. C. Benson, the Rev. S. Childs Clarke, the Bishop of Durham, Canon Rawnsley, and others—have been set by Mr. A. H. Brewer, Dr. Elgar, Mr. Myles B. Foster, Mr. Alfred Hollins, Sir George Martin, Mr. J. H. Maunder, Sir Hubert Parry, and Mr. John E. West. These names are a sufficient guarantee of the musicianly qualities of this octet of hymn-tunes, all appropriate for use at services in celebration of the approaching Coronation of the King. Editions in the tonic sol-fa notation, and with words only, are procurable.

Of the four anthems composed for the forthcoming Coronation, that by Mr. Myles Foster, 'Now know I that the Lord,' claims priority of attention by reason of its scope and excellence. It is scored for strings, trumpets, drums, and organ—a combination that is excellent from an ecclesiastical and practicable point of view. The opening section in the key of C, is set for soprano solo with responsive choruses. An imitative passage, 'Some put their trust in chariots,' leads to a majestic 'King of kings,' in solid eight-part harmony for voices only. A more extended solo (still soprano, but in E) is not only very melodious, but affords variety to the tonality. An allegro marziale, in the main key, in which the trumpet, as in the first movement, has some solo work, brings to an impressive close a remarkably fine and attractive work. In his setting of 'The King shall rejoice,' Dr. Cuthbert Harris starts with jubilant strains, wherein dotted quavers play an important part and add vigour to the music. The voices proclaim the opening words in a bold unison passage. After some effective development of this material (key A), there ensues a very beautiful soprano solo and semi-chorus in F, to the words 'O pray for the peace of Jerusalem.' The contrast with that which has gone before is very striking and effective. A repetition of the opening portion, followed by a verse of 'God save the King,' satisfactorily concludes a satisfactory anthem.

Mr. Bruce Steane's 'This is the day' will not unduly tax the powers of those who make its acquaintance. It comes under the 'very useful' definition in the anthem region. Excellent use is made of some unison phrases; there is a tuneful tenor solo, with chorus; and the last three pages contain some diatonic fugal work of the kind which always proves acceptable to singers. Village choirs and those of similar capacities who are unable to tackle Handel's 'The King shall rejoice,' may probably find an outlet for their Coronation enthusiasm in a setting of those words by the Rev. E. Vine Hall, a composer who has already given proof of his capacity to write unambitious music.

Mrs. Needham has most happily caught the spirit of Mr. Harold Begbie's lines in her song entitled, 'The British King.' The music is essentially English (using the definition in a wide sense), and the strains are moving in two senses of the word. This attractive ditty deserves to become very popular at this patriotic time. The following extract will serve as a specimen of what may be termed Mr. Begbie's 'national characteristics' poetry:—

Republics come, Republics go,
The British King he moves more slow,
He sits where he is, and he taps his toe
With a hey nonny nonny O!

PIANOFORTE MUSIC.

Silhouettes, Trois Morceaux; Tableaux Lyriques; Scherzo in D. For Pianoforte Solo. By Franco Da Venezia

[Hug Frères and Co., Leipzig and Zurich.]

The three 'Silhouettes' are severally named 'Sentimentale,' 'Passionée,' and 'Coquette,' titles which indicate the composer's intentions. The music requires some dexterity of finger, but it is by no means difficult. The strains are genial in character and suggestive of sentiments which lie pleasantly on the surface of life. The 'Tableaux Lyrics' comprise five short pieces, the most engaging of which are a 'Poème d'Amour,' of discreet passion, a 'Danse arabe' in five-four measure with a three-bar theme—a distinctive and fascinating piece, and 'La Chasse,' of an impetuous character. The Scherzo is more important in design than the preceding. It occupies ten pages, but it is easy to read, and, brightly played, will be found attractive.

CHURCH MUSIC

Te Deum laudamus, in E flat. By A. Herbert Brewer.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, in A. By C. H. Lloyd.
(Novello's Parish Choir Book.)

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

These settings of the Church Services have been composed for the annual celebration of the Gloucester Diocesan Choral Union, to take place in June next. Consequently, the music is laid out on a somewhat extended scale. It is noticeable, that in the opening sentences of the Te Deum, Mr. Brewer lays the stress on the word 'Thee,' and throughout the setting it is manifest that great care has been bestowed on correctness of accentuation. The music is dignified and scholarly in character, and preserves the best traditions of the noble English Church School. The imitative entrances require unanimity of attack, and in this respect the confidence the composer has in his singers speaks well for the musical abilities of the Union. Dr. Lloyd's setting of the Evening Service indicates a similar trust in the intelligence of this choral force. The part-writing, however, will well repay the care bestowed upon it at rehearsal, and, well sung, there would result some very impressive effects. It should be added that the accompaniment includes ad libitum parts for cornets, trombones, and timpani.

Obituary.

The death took place, on February 9, of Konrad Adam Stehling, who was born at Marburg, Germany, September 8, 1824. He came to London about the year 1850, and rose to a good position, being principal viola in the Crystal Palace, Italian Opera, Philharmonic Society's orchestra, &c. He was also a very fine guitar player. A friend, who intimately knew the deceased musician, gives the following interesting information concerning Stehling's career: 'By the time he attained twenty-one he had thoroughly mastered the violin and guitar. He fought in four of the battles incident to the Revolutionary movement of 1848. When the fighting was over, but before peace was actually declared, he hurriedly left for England, in order to resume his musical career; covering his retreat by the device of placing a straw figure, clothed in his uniform, at the door of his sentry-box. During the steamboat journey on the Rhine, he so fascinated the captain with his guitar playing that, on reaching the frontier, the latter concealed him under a bed in a cabin, whereby he avoided capture and a year's confinement in a fortress. Two or three days later he was playing in Drury Lane Theatre. At a subsequent period, he and Giulio Regondi gave guitar concerts in various parts of England; but the scheme was not pecuniarily successful, and guitar-playing in public was abandoned, Stehling adopting the viola as his principal instrument, and Regondi (as is well known) the concertina.' Mr. Stehling was practically a professor of the Royal Academy of Music, and occasionally gave lessons, although his instruments (guitar and mandoline) have never been officially recognised at the Institution. Owing to his reserved disposition, his sound attainments as a musician were but little known.

In regard to the death of the well-known song-writer, known as 'Piccolomini,' one who knew him writes:—Henry 'Piccolomini,' whose real name was Marie Henri Pontet, has passed away under sad circumstances. Born in the City of Dublin, in 1835, he was given a good education, being particularly keen, as a boy, on music and languages. His father, Monsieur Desireé Pontet, had settled in Dublin, as a teacher of French, in 1820. Of an adventurous spirit, young Pontet enlisted in the Papal Zouaves, and subsequently fought in the Franco-Prussian War. Exiled for some political offence to Algeria, he spent three years in strict seclusion, during which, under the tutelage of a French Abbé, his musical faculties were highly developed. Returning to 'dear old dirty Dublin,' in 1874, he blossomed forth as a composer of much sacred music, published by the late Michael Gunn, and wrote a few songs. In 1877, he settled in London, when, under his own name of Henri Pontet, he issued many now forgotten, but once popular, drawing-room songs. About the year 1879, he changed his name to that of Piccolomini, through admiration for the singer of that name. Henry 'Piccolomini' made a great success by his songs, 'Whisper and I shall hear' and 'Ora pro nobis.' Bad times fell upon the popular song writer. Eighteen months ago it was found necessary to place him in Hanwell Lunatic Asylum, where he lingered till the 9th ult. Through the intervention of a few kind friends, Pontet was saved from a pauper's grave, and his remains were interred in the Roman Catholic Cemetery at Mortlake.

Many Cambridge men will regret the loss sustained by the death, at Keswick, on the 13th ult., of Robert Pendlebury, Fellow of St. John's College, and formerly lecturer on Mathematics. Mr. Pendlebury was an excellent pianist, and took much interest in the progress of music at the University. His splendid collection of music, full scores and the like, he generously presented to the Fitzwilliam Museum, but under such liberal conditions as to make it a lending library of invaluable utility to earnest-minded students of the art in the University town.

Mr. William Simpson, late head of the firm of Messrs. Puttick and Simpson (known as 'Puttick's'), the auctioneers of Leicester Square, died on the 5th ult., at the age of eighty-nine. He must have conducted many interesting sales during his long life.

'PAOLO AND FRANCESCA.'

MR. PERCY PITT'S INCIDENTAL MUSIC.

The subject of 'Paolo and Francesca' has exercised as great a fascination over composers as over poets and painters. It has formed the subject of several operas—including 'Francoise de Rimini,' by Ambroise Thomas, 'Francesca,' by Hermann Goetz, 'Des Malatesta,' by Pons Moreno—and every one knows Tschaïkowsky's Symphonic Poem. These things do not make the task of writing incidental music to a play any easier, and in these days the musician who has to deal with the subject of a violent love is confronted with another difficulty. If he imitates 'Tristan' he is called a plagiarist; if he does not, he runs the risk of being told that his music is wanting in life and fire, almost in sincerity—so immutably does Wagner seem to have fixed the phraseology of love.

One of the greatest merits of Mr. Percy Pitt's incidental music to 'Paolo and Francesca' (produced on the 6th ult., at the St. James's Theatre) is that he has steered with rare discretion between Scylla and Charybdis. His music is thoroughly modern, not only in its free employment of polyphony and chromatic harmonies, but in the spirit in which it strives to illustrate the psychology rather than the action of the drama. It deals in a Lisztian and Straussian spirit with ideas as much as with men and women as things. Unfortunately, we are not able to judge of all of it, because managerial ukases led to the illogical and inconsistent curtailment of much of the mélodrame, to the disadvantage, we cannot help thinking, of the whole. But what there is left of it is enough to show that Mr. Pitt has artistic insight of a rare and subtle kind, and to distinguish his work from most of that which we usually hear. Mélodrame is much neglected in this country, but in Germany it has recently been undergoing developments of no little significance. The best example of the most modern methods as applied to it is probably Humperdinck's 'Königskinder' music. And we are told by German critics of the importance, as an attempt to create a new art form, of Thuillé's 'Lobetanz'; there is also Richard Strauss's melodrama to 'Enoch Arden' (which somebody might be enterprising enough to let us have in England some day), and in a recent German publication we read of no fewer than seven composers who have illustrated Hauptmann's 'Versunkene Glocke.' Naturally enough, the modern mélodrame is built of leitmotives employed, not so much mechanically, to label the characters of a drama and accompany them whenever they appear, as psychologically, to emphasise their influence on each other and on the course of the action. Thus we hear the motives associated with certain personages when they themselves are not on the stage, and by such means they are made visible to the mind's eye.

As far as we know, Mr. Pitt is the first of our composers who has addressed himself to his task with such aims as these, and his success should encourage others to apply to this branch of music the theories which have conditioned the later developments of all other branches of the art. Incidental music has of late years been making enormous strides in our midst. Managers have realised that music can do a great deal to help a play, but they have, so to speak, asked only for help from outside. The music has remained a thing apart, instead of being woven into the very texture of the play itself.

The list of incidental music written by our chief composers at the suggestion of our leading managers during the last few years is instructive and encouraging; but excellent as has been its quality, it has stood on the ancient ways. We have had Sir Arthur Sullivan's music to 'Macbeth'; Sir A. C. Mackenzie's music to 'Ravenswood,' 'Coriolanus,' and 'The Little Minister'; Mr. Henschel has illustrated 'Hamlet,' and Mr. Edward German has done the same for 'Henry VIII.,' 'Richard III.,' 'As You Like It,' 'The Tempter'; Mr. Coleridge-Taylor has written for 'Ulysses' and 'Herod'; Mr. Corder's music to 'The Termagant' was more like an attempt to give incidental music a new form; and what Mr. Hamish McCunn's music to 'Macbeth' is like we do not know, as it was never performed, but report spoke of it as modern (in the sense above indicated). However, Mr. Percy Pitt's music to 'Paolo and Francesca' remains as the first example of a newer style.

Mr. Pitt has not made any attempt to introduce local colour—early or contemporary Italian. He has written twentieth century music, which is characteristic of him. Besides mélodrame, it consists of four preludes, three interludes and an epilogue, a soldiers' song and a marriage song. The prelude to the first Act, the prelude to the third Act (containing the Love Music), and the mélodrame at the end of the first Act, with the Marriage song were, as far as could be judged, the most impressive portions of the music. It is marked throughout by great skill in handling of polyphony and real mastery of orchestral colour, and thematically seems the strongest music Mr. Pitt has yet written.

The chief leitmotives employed are connected with Paolo, Francesca, Giovanni, Lucrezia, and the Nurse Angela (the last a very striking theme, generally given out by stopped horns). There is another group, entitled respectively Festivity, Fate, Death, and Love; and it is characteristic that these, though not employed so often as the others, are really as significant if not more so. It remains only to add that the performance of the music was extremely good, though Mr. Robbins has not under him, owing to a decree of the County Council, an orchestra as large as was originally intended.

SULLIVAN AS A NATIONAL STYLE-BUILDER.

On the 11th ult., at the meeting of the Musical Association, Dr. W. H. Cummings in the chair, Dr. Charles Maclean delivered a lecture on the above subject.

The lecturer combated the view that national style in highly-developed music either did not exist or was now disappearing. Such a view was perhaps specially liable to be taken in England, where during most of the nineteenth century there had been a complete obsession by what the lecturer designated as the Teutonic style. But however great that style, there were others beyond it; and at the present day certainly the spectacle presented throughout Europe was not that of composers of various countries merging themselves in a general eclectic and cosmopolitan style, but rather of composers differentiating themselves according to their nationality. In support of this statement brief note was taken of the state of art-music in Russia, South Italy, North Italy, Switzerland, Spain, France, Belgium, and Scandinavia; while even within German-speaking countries there were quite separate styles, e.g., in Austria, Bohemia, Bavaria, and North Germany.

For a composer to take part in building up a national style in this way, there were two requisites; he must have original power within himself, and he must have national musical traits to work upon. The former point scarcely needed elaboration; if a composer was only a funnel through which the contemporary musical style of his day was poured, he might be in many other ways serviceable, but he did not contribute to progress or development. The latter point, though also a truism, involved much difficulty if strict definition was looked for. The nearest attempt the lecturer himself could make towards a definition was, that the native material in question consisted of certain art-tendencies, in a small way evidenced in church-music, but mostly evidenced in the outpourings of the laity; such material not of course being copied by the composer, but still acting as a general mould to influence his musical thoughts. And the limitations of this mould were to a considerable extent even actually technical. It was then shown how the Volkslied lay at the basis of all German formal music of the last century at least, ending with Brahms; and how the national airs of England, Scotland, Ireland, and Wales differed radically from such a germ, and indeed were antagonistic in their nature to the developments of sonata-form and other forms essentially Teutonic. In this ultimate fact, said Dr. Maclean, lay indisputably the fundamental difficulty found by the modern Englishman in creating an English style for general art. Sullivan's success in breaking away from the Teutonic style in the face of these difficulties, and in substituting a style of his own, constituted the true measure of his genius.

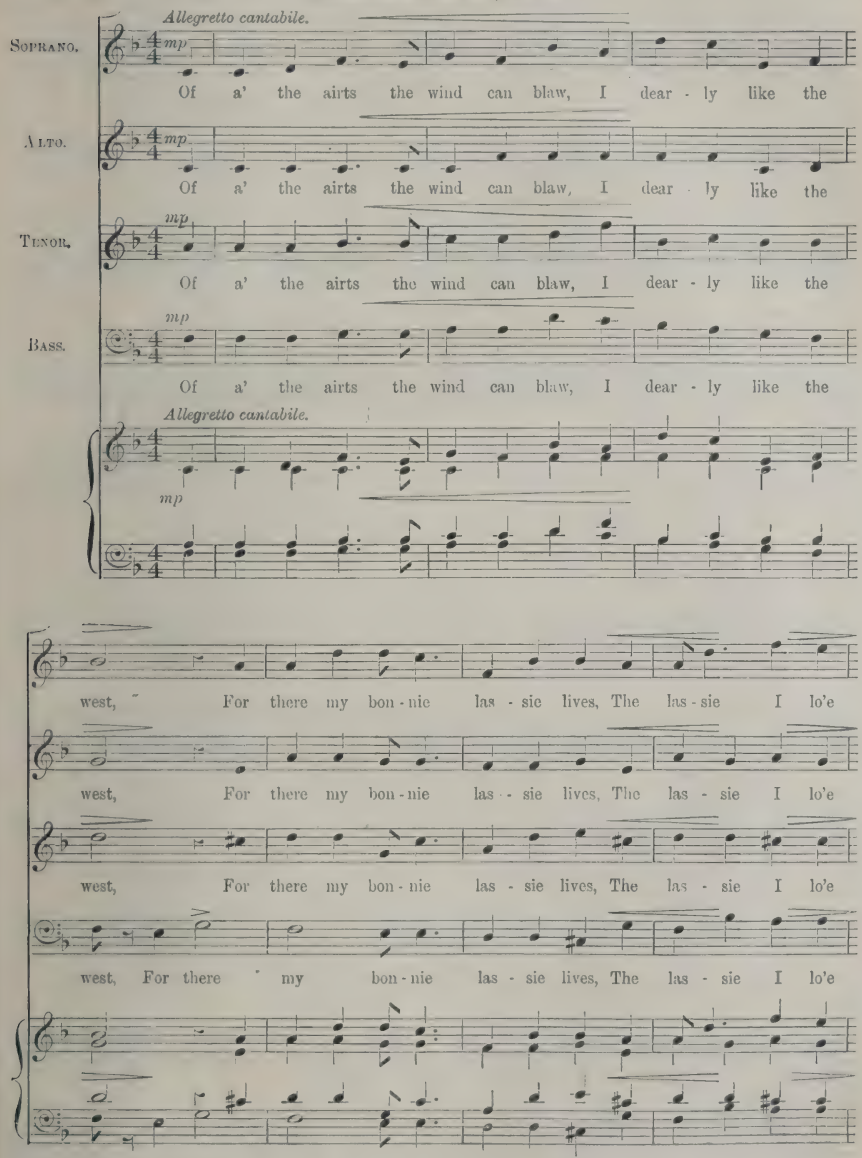
Some exact facts were given as to Sullivan's partly Italian origin. His childhood and early education were dwelt upon sufficiently to show that he was never forced or treated as a musical prodigy, his being a singularly healthy development. His works were then for the purposes of the lecture analysed in five periods, from the age of 14 till his death. As to the first period, or that of musical training from 14 to 21, the lecturer agreed with Sir Alexander Mackenzie in his recent lectures that the works then evidenced no originality. A list of these was given. Even with regard to the 'Tempest' music which closed the period, although this was received with merited delight by an English audience as a most brilliant youthful performance, yet it was in the pure Leipzig style of the day. After a year or two in England the case was quite different, and in the 'Kenilworth' cantata at Birmingham in 1864 Sullivan made his début as a national composer; that work was unwisely neglected. This second period, a septennium from age 21 to 28, contained also the Symphony in E and the 'In Memoriam' and 'Di Ballo' overtures, all quite individual works marking the complete formation of Sullivan's instrumental style; and on the other hand the 'Prodigal Son' oratorio, still on the traditional Mendelssohnian oratorio lines. The third period was one of fifteen years (age 28 to 43). It saw mainly the development of the operetta, through 'Trial by Jury,' 'Sorcerer,' 'Pinafore,' and the 'Pirates of Penzance,' to the 'Mikado'; though Sullivan's career led him to appeal to the masses, his instincts as an artist caused him perpetually to elevate the Savoy style, and he did this while eliminating the Italian and French elements. The same period saw 'The Light of the World,' and 'The Martyr of Antioch,' the latter of which was almost wholly emancipated from the style of the early-Victorian oratorio. The fourth period (age 43 to 50) opened with 'The Golden Legend,' wherein Sullivan 'brought up purely English art to a level never dreamed of before'; it ended penultimately with 'Ivanhoe,' which was just not strong enough to create an English style of serious opera; and ended finally with 'The Foresters,' a most engaging English work written for America and now strangely neglected. The fifth period was one of eight years, from age fifty till death. This was one of contented mastery, but ended with 'The Rose of Persia,' the masterpiece of the operetta-series. Dr. Maclean regarded the following as the most significant large works for purposes of this lecture, the ages being attached:—'Kenilworth' (22), 'In Memoriam' and the Symphony in E (24), overture 'Di Ballo' (28), 'Mikado' (43), 'Golden Legend' (44), 'Macbeth' music (46), 'Gondoliers' (47), 'Ivanhoe' (49), 'Foresters' (50), 'Rose of Persia' (58).

I love my Jean.

FOUR-PART SONG.

Words by Robert Burns. Composed by H. Elliot Button.

London: Novello and Company, Limited; and Novello, Ewer and Co., New York.



Allegretto cantabile.
Soprano.
Alto.
Tenor.
Bass.
mp
Of a' the airts the wind can blaw, I dear - ly like the west, For there my bon - nie las - sie lives, The las - sie I lo'e best : There wild woods grow, and riv - ers row, And mon-y a hill be - best : and riv - ers row, And mon-y a hill be - best : There wild woods grow, And mon - y a hill be - - best : And mon - y a hill be - -

- tween ; . . Baith day and night my fan - cy's flight Is ev - er wi' my Jean.
- tween ; . . Baith day and night my fan - cy's flight Is ev - er wi' my Jean.
- tween ; . . Baith day and night my fan - cy's flight Is ev - er wi' my Jean.
- tween ; . . Baith day and night my fan - cy's flight Is ev - er wi' my Jean.

The Musical Times. EXTRA SUPPLEMENT. April 1, 1902

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO ANTHEMS
No. 718.

NOW KNOW I THAT THE LORD

A CORONATION ANTHEM

COMPOSED BY

MYLES B. FOSTER.

PRICE FOURPENCE.
Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED
AND
NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

Copyright, 1902, by Novello and Company, Limited.

NOW KNOW I THAT THE LORD

A CORONATION ANTHEM *

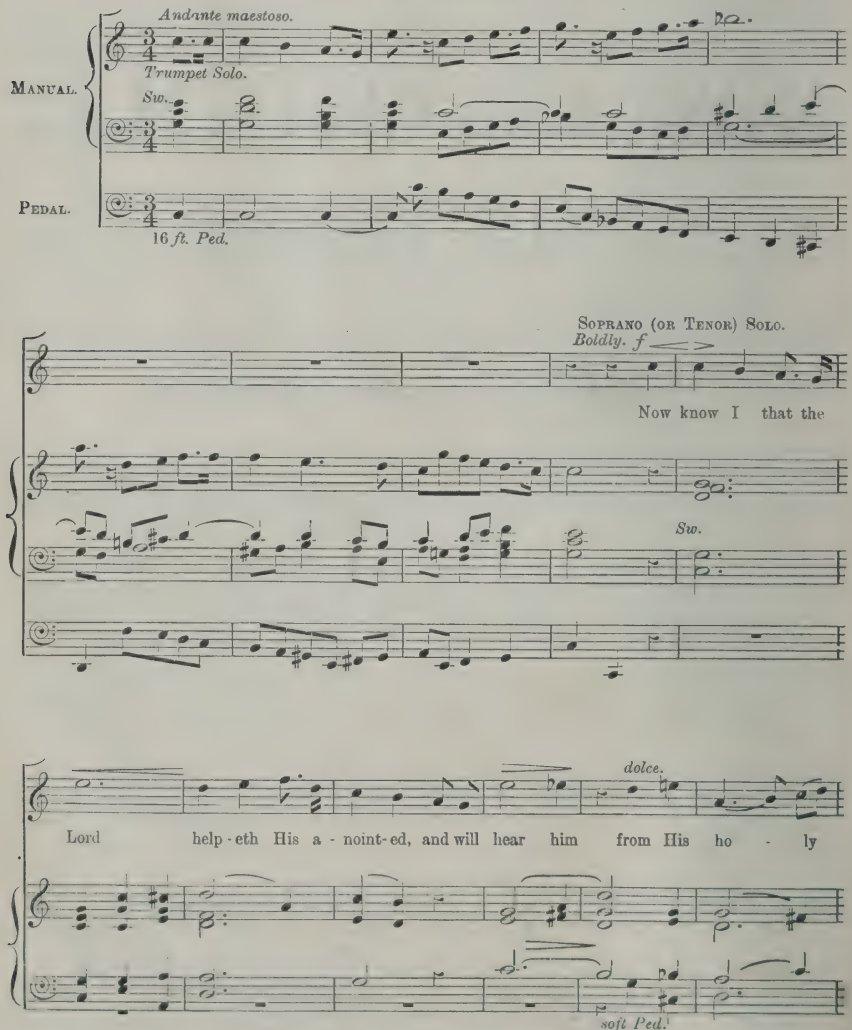
COMPOSED BY

MYLES B. FOSTER.

From the Psalms in the "Accession Service."

Price Fourpence.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED; AND NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.



* May also be used on the Anniversary of His Majesty's Accession Orchestral Parts (Strings, Trumpets, Drums and Organ), price 3*s.* 9*d.* Separate String Parts price 6*d.* each.

Copyright, 1902, by Novello and Company, Limited.

Full.
Hea - ven. Now know I that the Lord help - eth His a noint - ed, and will Alto.
Now know I that the Lord help - eth, help - eth His a - noint - ed, and will
Tenor.
Now know I that the Lord help - eth His a - noint - ed, and will
Bass.
Now know I that the Lord help - eth, help - eth His a noint - ed, and will Gt.
dim.
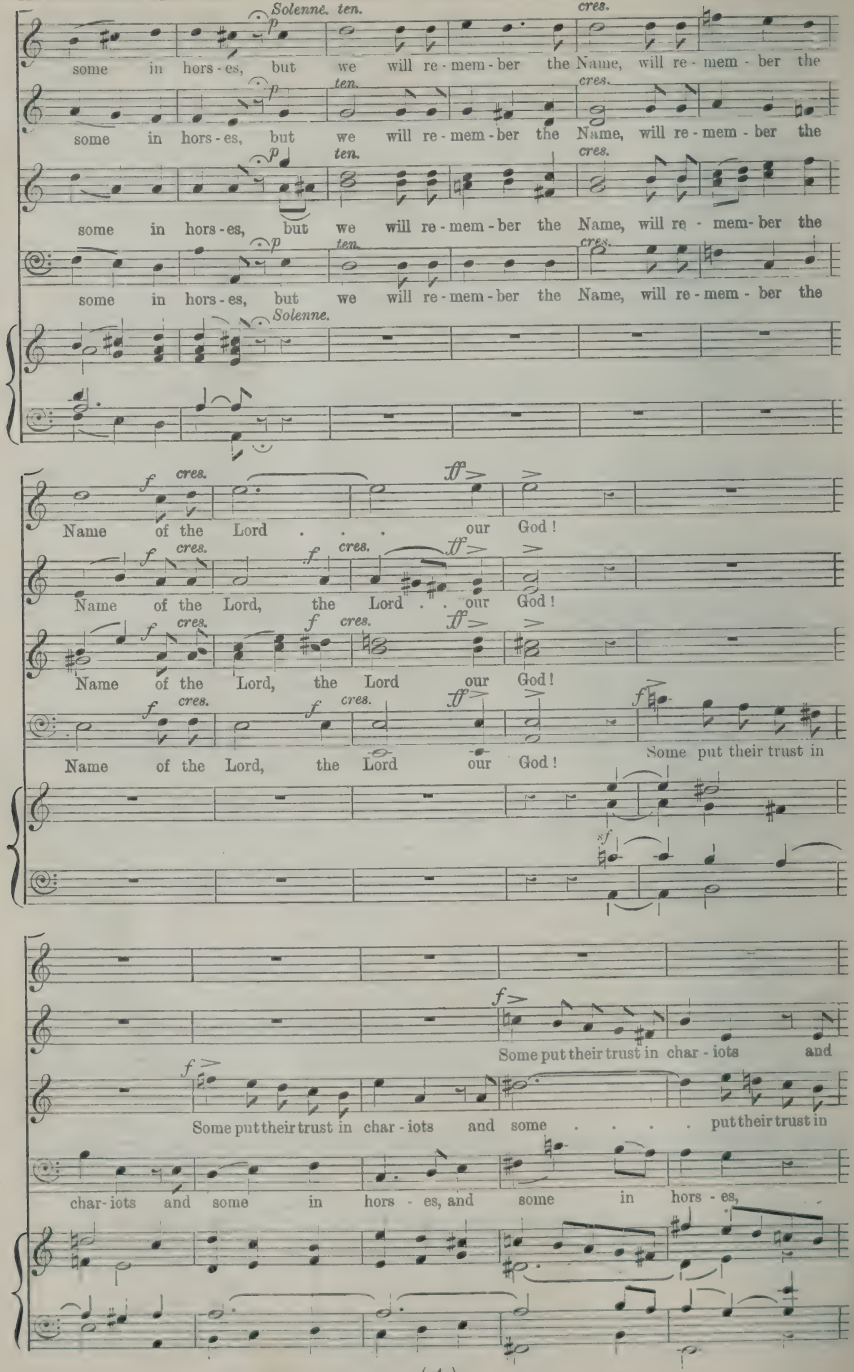
mf Solo. hear him from His ho - - ly Hea - - ven. Some put their trust in hear him from His ho - - ly Hea - - ven.
hear him from His ho - - ly Hea - - ven.
hear him from His ho - - ly Hea - - ven.
Sw.
Reed.
f Full.
sempre f
char - iots and some in hors - es, some . . put their trust in char - iots and
Some . . put their trust in char - iots and
Some . . put their trust in char - iots and
Some . . put their trust in char - iots and



Solenne. ten. cres.
some in hors-es, but we will re-mem-ber the Name, will re-mem-ber the some in hors-es, but we will re-mem-ber the Name, will re-mem-ber the some in hors-es, but we will re-mem-ber the Name, will re-mem-ber the some in hors-es, but we will re-mem-ber the Name, will re-mem-ber the Solenne.
f cres. ff
Name of the Lord . . . our God!
Name of the Lord, the Lord . . our God!
Name of the Lord, the Lord our God!
Name of the Lord, the Lord our God!
Some put their trust in
Some put their trust in char-iots and
Some put their trust in char-iots and some . . . . put their trust in char-iots and some in hors-es, and some in hors-es,

f
sempre f
Some put their trust in char - iots and some in some in hors - es, some in char - iots, some in hors - es, in hors - es. some in char - iots and some . . in some, some . . in char - iots and some . . in hors - es, in p ten. cres. f cres.
hors - es, but we will re - mem - ber the Name, will re - mem - ber the Name of the hors - es, but we will re - mem - ber the Name, will re - mem - ber the Name of the hors - es, but we will re - mem - ber the Name, will re - member the Name of the hors - es, but we will re - mem - ber the Name, will re mem - ber the Name of the rit. marcato. Solo. f
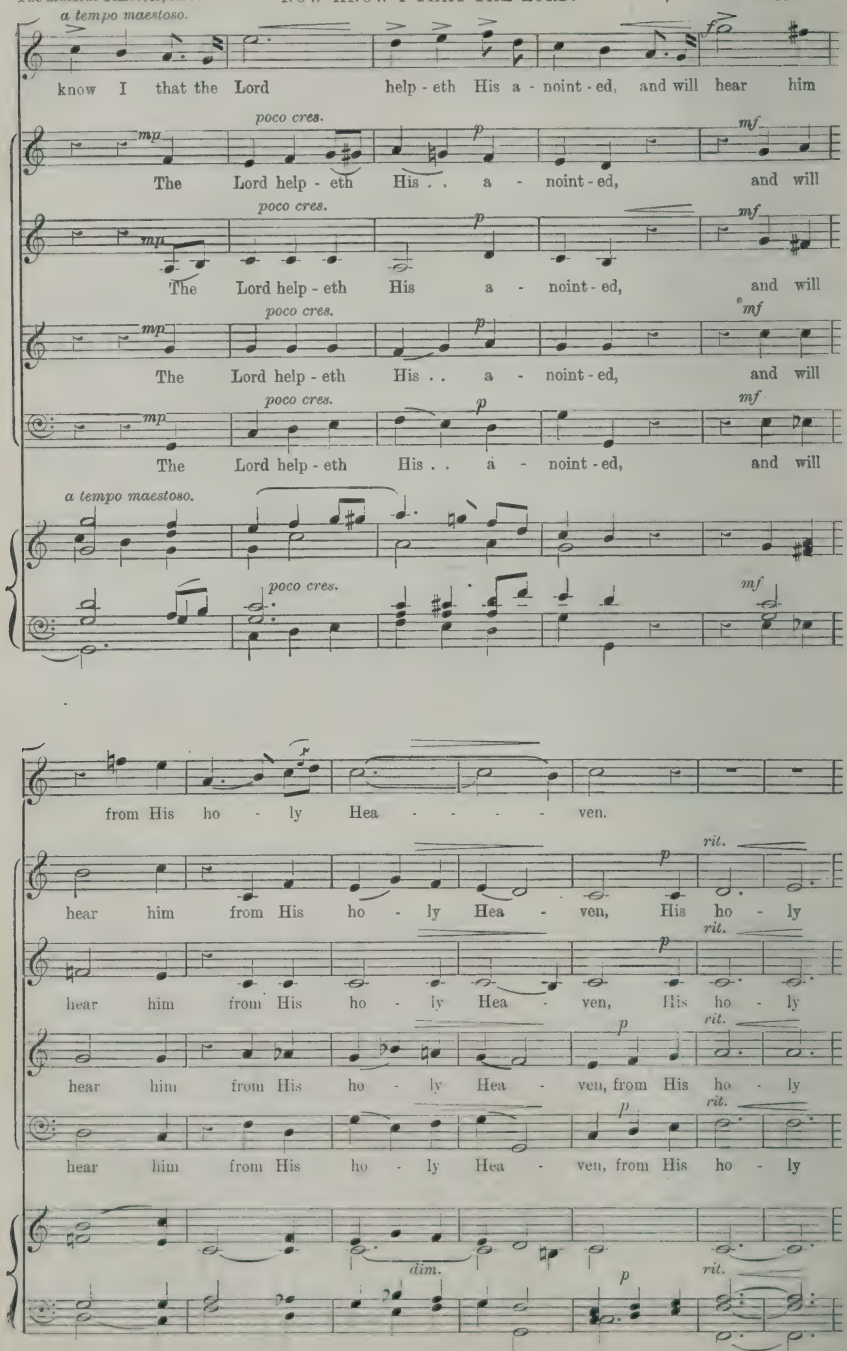
Now
ff con forza.
Lord . . . our God, King of kings!
Lord, the Lord . . our God, King of kings!
Lord, the Lord our God, King of kings!
Lord, the Lord our God, King of kings! rit. marcato.
mp p



a tempo maestoso.
know I that the Lord help - eth His a - noint - ed, and will hear him
poco cres.
mp
p
mf
The Lord help - eth His . . a - noint - ed, and will
The Lord help - eth His a - noint - ed, and will
The Lord help - eth His . . a - noint - ed, and will
The Lord help - eth His . . a - noint - ed, and will
a tempo maestoso.
poco cres.
mf
from His ho - ly Hea - - - - - ven.
rit.
hear him from His ho - ly Hea - ven, His ho - ly
hear him from His ho - ly Hea - ven, His ho - ly hear him from His ho - ly Hea - ven, from His ho - ly hear him from His ho - ly Hea - ven, from His ho - ly
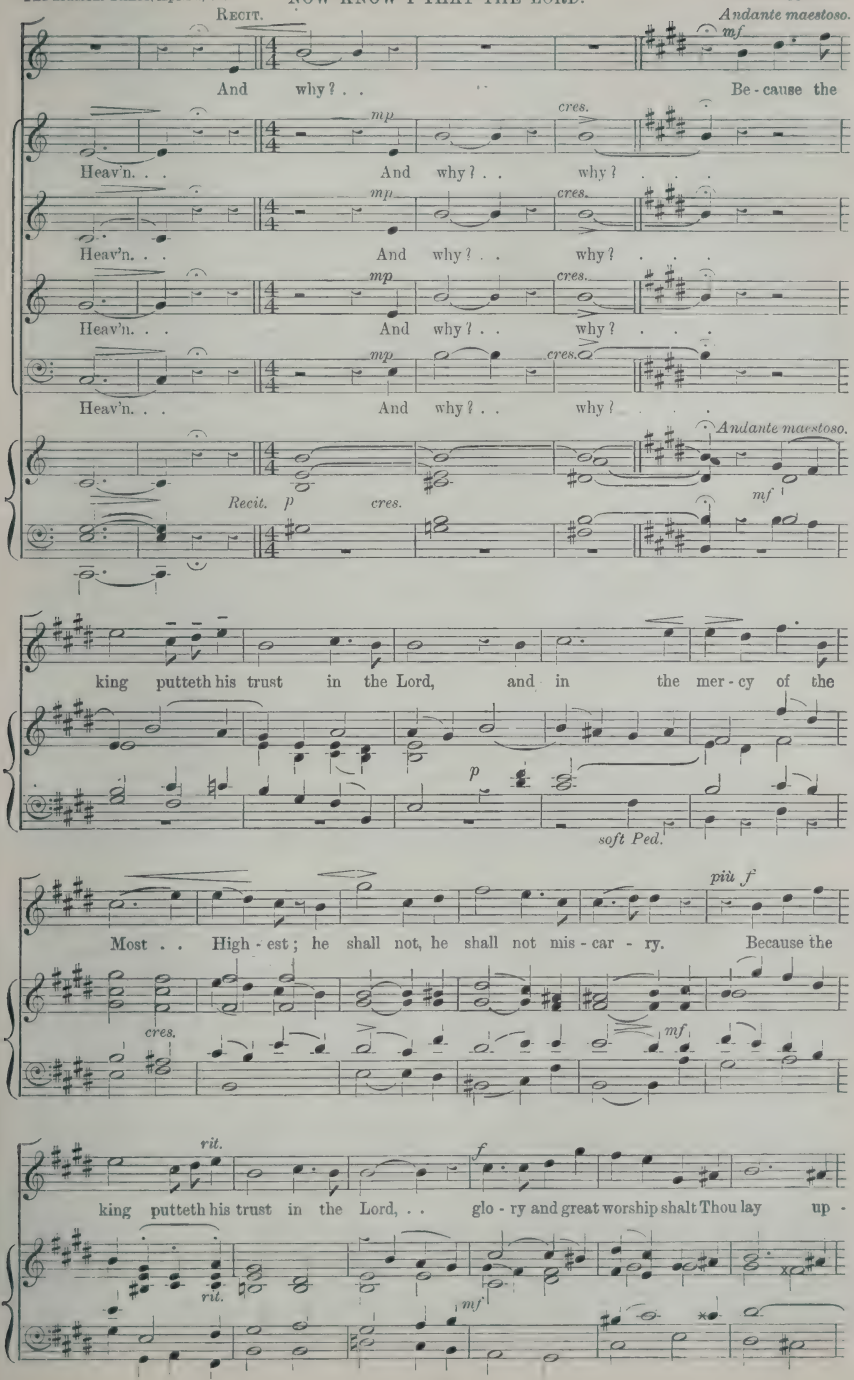
dim.
rit.



Recit.
Andante maestoso.
mf
And why? . . Be - cause the mp
cres.
Heav'n. . . And why? . . why? . . .
Heav'n. . . And why? . . why? . . .
Heav'n. . . And why? . . why? . . .
Heav'n. . . And why? . . why? . . .
Andante maestoso.
Recit. p cres.
mf
king putteth his trust in the Lord, and in the mer - cy of the p soft Ped.
più f
Most . . High - est; he shall not, he shall not mis - car - ry. Because the cres.
mf
rit.
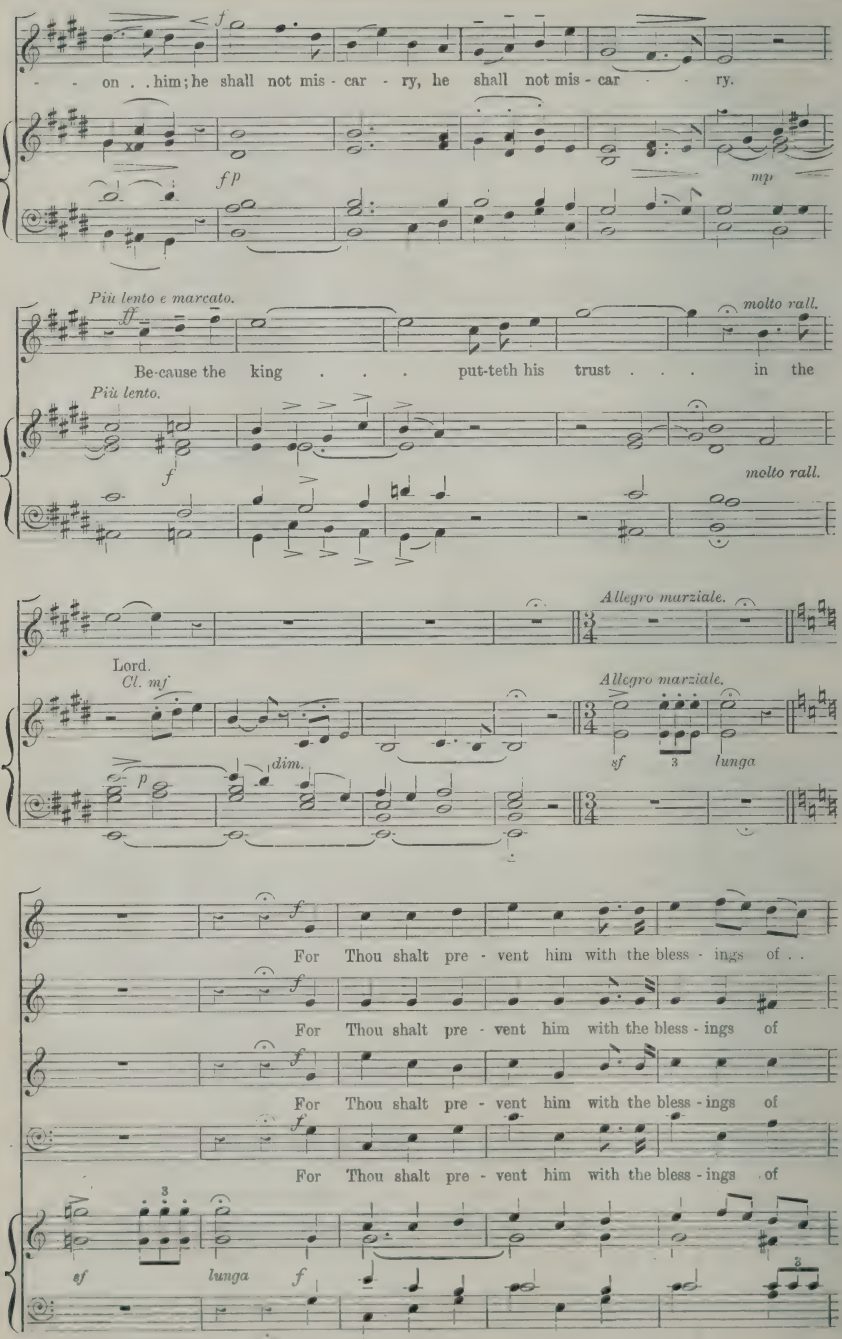
f king putteth his trust in the Lord, . . glo - ry and great worship shalt Thou lay up -
rit.
mf



- - on . . him; he shall not mis - car - ry, he shall not mis - car - - ry.
Più lento e marcato.
molto rall.
Be-cause the king . . . put-teth his trust . . . in the Più lento.
molto rall.
Allegro marziale.
Lord.
Cl. mf
Allegro marziale.
dim.
lunga
For Thou shalt pre - vent him with the bless - ings of . .
For Thou shalt pre - vent him with the bless - ings of
For Thou shalt pre - vent him with the bless - ings of
For Thou shalt pre - vent him with the bless - ings of lunga

ff
good - ness, with the bless - ings of . . good - ness, and shalt good - ness, with the bless - ings of good - ness,
good - ness, with the bless - ings of good - ness,
good - ness, with the bless - ings of good - ness,
Trumpet Solo.
Trumpet off.
3
set . . a crown of pure gold on his head, and shalt and shalt set a crown of pure gold on his head, and shalt and shalt set a crown of pure gold on his head, shalt set and shalt set a crown of pure gold on his head, and shalt set a crown of pure gold on his head.
set a crown of pure gold on his head.
mf
. . a crown of pure gold on his head. Ex-ceed-ing glad shall he be . . of glad . . . shall he set a crown of pure gold on his head. Ex-ceed-ing glad shall he be . . of Sw.
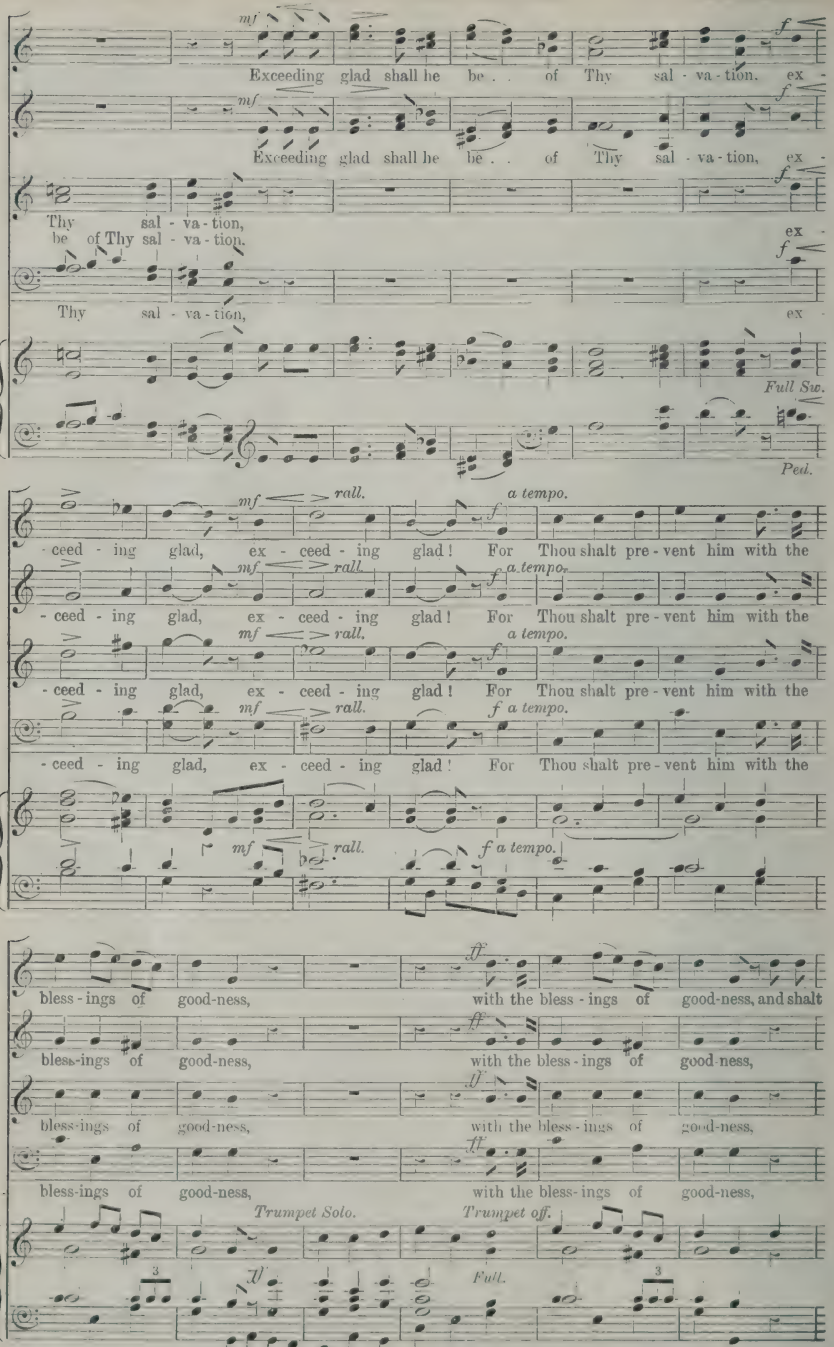
senza Ped.



mf
Exceeding glad shall he be . . of Thy sal - va - tion, ex -
f
Thy sal - va - tion,
be of Thy sal - va - tion.
Full Sw.
Ped.
rall.
a tempo.
- ceed - ing glad, ex - ceed - ing glad! For Thou shalt pre - vent him with the
ff
bless - ings of good - ness, with the bless - ings of good - ness, and shalt Trumpet Solo.
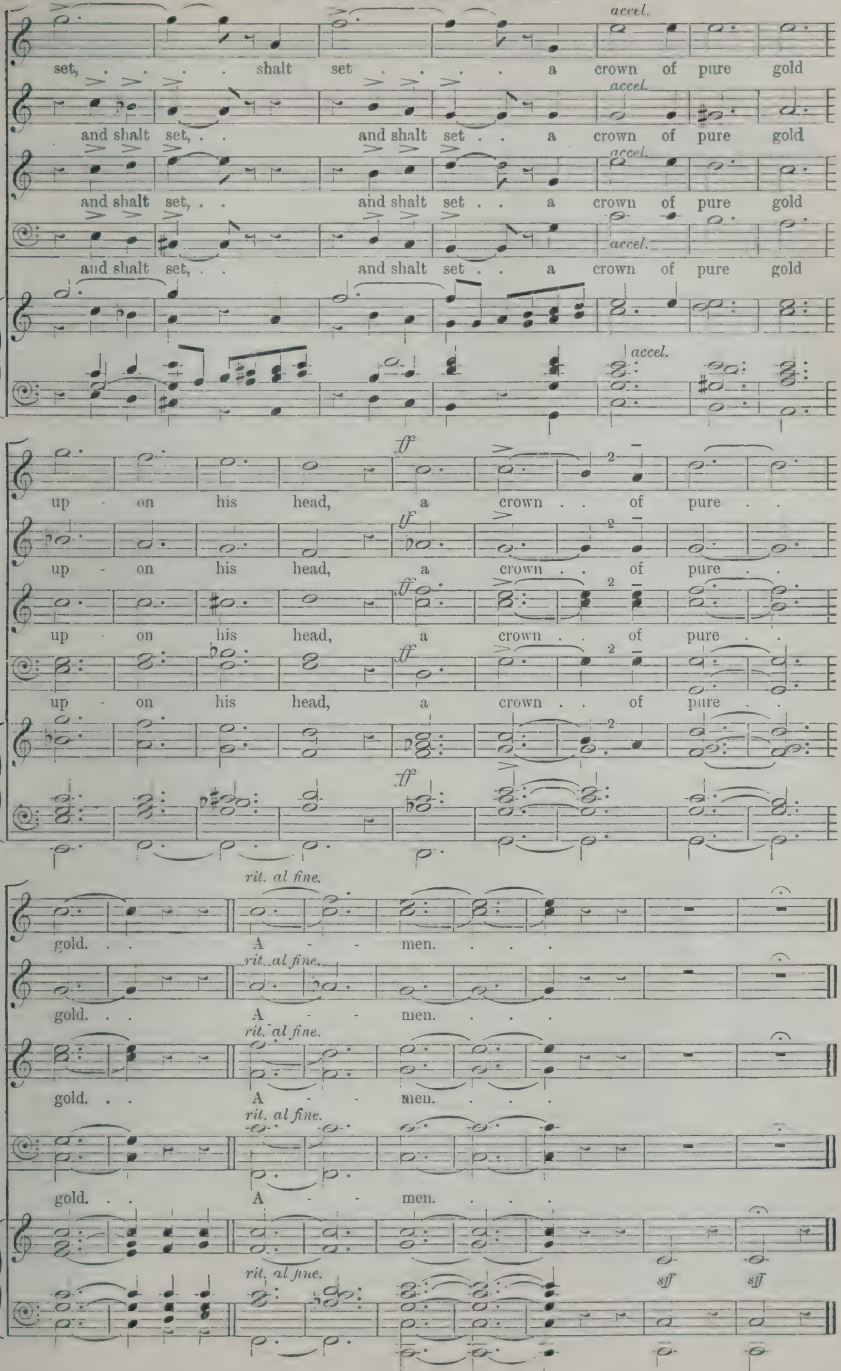
Trumpet off.
Full.



accel.
set, . . . shalt set . . . a crown of pure gold
and shalt set, . . and shalt set . . a crown of pure gold
and shalt set, . . and shalt set . . a crown of pure gold and shalt set, . . and shalt set . . a crown of pure gold
ff
up - on his head, a crown . . of pure . .
rit. al fine.
gold. . . A - - men. . . .
sff

NOVELLO'S

OCTAVO EDITION OF ANTHEMS.

SIXTEEN VOLUMES NOW READY, BOUND IN CLOTH, PRICE 7s. EACH.

424. Abide with me ... R. Dunstan 3d.
478. A few more years shall roll H. Blair 3d.
592. Alleluia! now is Christ risen T. Adams 3d.
247. All nations whom B. Luard Selby 4d.
113. All they that trust ... Dr. Hiller 8d.
50. All Thy works ... E. H. Thorne 3d.
475. All Thy works ... J. Barnby 4d.
505. All Thy works ... G. H. Ely 4d.
719. All ye who seek ... H. M. Higgs 3d.
9. All ye who weep ... ... Gounod 3d.
261. And all the people saw J. Stainer 6d.
220. And it was the third hour Elvey 4d.
485. And Jacob was left alone J. Stainer 6d.
658. And Jesus entered into the Temple H. W. Davies 4d.
675. And the Lord said T.W. Stephenson 5d.
357. And the wall of the city Oliver King 3d.
402. And when the day C. W. Smith 3d.
611. Angels from the realms ... Cowen 3d.
642. Angel voices, ever singing E.V. Hall 3d.
597. A prayer for peace ... Crotch 3d.
228. Art thou weary ... C. H. Lloyd 6d.
311. As I live, saith the Lord E.T. Chipp 3d.
333. As it began to dawn Ch. Vincent 3d.
498. As Moses lifted up F. Gostelow 3d.
643. As the earth bringeth A. H. Brewer 4d.
24. As the hart pants (S.S.T.B.) Gounod 3d.
24.* Ditto (T.T.B.B.) Gounod 3d.
147. Ascribe unto the Lord ... Travers 6d.
100. Ascribe unto the Lord S. S. Wesley 8d.
399. At the Lamb's High Feast we sing E. V. Hall 3d.
456. At the Sepulchre H. W. Wareing 4d.
700. Awake, awake, put on ... F. R. Greenish 4d.
56. Awake, awake, put on J. Stainer 6d.
749. Awake, awake, put on M. Wise 4d.
660. Awake, awake ... J. E. West 3d.
199. Awake, thou that sleepest Stainer 6d.
150. Awake up, my glory M. Wise 3d.
578. Be glad and rejoice ... B. Steane 3d.
212. Be glad, O ye righteous H. Smart 4d.
567. Be Thou exalted ... C. Bayley 3d.
440. Before the heavens H. W. Parker 3d.
651. Behold, all the earth G. F. Huntley 4d.
598. Behold, God is great E. W. Naylor 4d.
636. Behold, God is my salvation F. C. Woods 4d.
349. Behold, how good (A.T.T.B.) A. J. Caldicott 3d.
349.* Ditto (S.A.T.B.) A. J. Caldicott 5d.
419. Ditto Hamilton Clarke 4d.
89. Behold, I bring you J. Barnby 3d.
296. Ditto E. V. Hall 3d.
348. Ditto J. Maude Crament 4d.
713. Behold, I have given you C. Harris 3d.
554. Behold, I send ... J. V. Roberts 4d.
387. Behold My servant J. F. Bridge 3d.
65. Behold now, praise J. B. Calkin 3d.
631. Behold now, praise F. Iliffe 4d.
315. Behold, O God ... F. W. Hird 4d.
524. Behold, the days come Woodward 4d.
652. Behold the Name ... Percy Pitt 4d.
501. Behold, two blind men J. Stainer 3d.
143. Be merciful ... ... H. Purcell 6d.
297. Be merciful ... E. A. Sydenham 3d.
597. Be peace on earth ... Crotch 3d.
585. Be ye all of one mind A.E. Godfrey 3d.
471. Be ye therefore followers of God A. S. Baker 3d.
693. Blessed are the dead B. L. Selby 2d.
467. Blessed are the pure A. D. Arnott 3d.
77. Blessed are they ... W. H. Monk 3d.
616. Blessed are they ... H. Blair 3d.
182. Blessed are they ... Arthur Page 3d.
390. Blessed are they A. W. Batson 3d.
15. Blessed be the God S. S. Wesley 2d.
185. Blessed be the Lord Dr. Heap 6d.
331. Blessed be the Lord C. L. Williams 4d.
724. Blessed be Thou E. C. Bairstow 4d.
400. Blessed City A. C. Fisher 4d.
262. Blessed is He ... C. H. Lloyd 8d.
84. Blessed is He F. E. Gladstone 2d.
292. Blessed is He A. C. Mackenzie 4d.
64. Blessed is the man ... Sir John Goss 4d.
206. Blessed is the man Clarke-Whitfeld 3d.
286. Blessed Jesu (Stabat Mater) Dvorák 6d.
5. Blessing, glory, wisdom B. Tours 4d.
378. Bless the Lord ... M. Kingston 4d.
374. Bless thou the Lord Oliver King 3d.
450. Bless thou the Lord C. Bayley 4d.
632. Blow up the trumpet F. Iliffe 3d.
97. Blow ye the trumpet Henry Leslie 3d.
118. Bow Thine ear ... W. Bird 3d.
92. Break forth into joy R. Prentice 6d.
415. Ditto S. Coleridge-Taylor 3d.
491. Ditto B. Steane 3d.
323. Brightest and best ... E. V. Hall 4d.
340. Bring unto the Lord F. E. Gladstone 3d.
98. Brother, thou art gone Sir J. Goss 4d.
270. By Babylon's wave Gounod 6d.
197. By the rivers of Babylon I.. Samson 4d.
121. By the waters of Babylon Boyce 4d.
511. Ditto ... H. Clarke 4d.
611. Ditto S. Coleridge-Taylor 3d.
116. Call to remembrance J. Battishill 6d.
680. Calm on the list'ning ear of night H. W. Parker 3d.
197. Christ both died E. W. Naylor 3d.
454. Christ is risen G. B. J. Aitken 3d.
568. Christ is risen ...J. M. Crament 3d.
666. Christ is risen ... C. W. Jordan 4d.
533. Christ is risen ... J. V. Roberts 3d.
307. Christ our Passover E. V. Hall 3d.
370. Christ the Lord ... E. V. Hall 3d.
488. Christians, awake ... J. Barnby 4d.
618. Christians, awake ... H. M. Higgs 4d.
455. Cleanse me, Lord G. F. Wrigley 3d.
452. Come, and let us return Sir J. Goss 3d.
95. Come, and let us return W. Jackson 3d.
201. Come, Holy Ghost J. L. Hatton 4d.
285. Come, Holy Ghost Sir G. Elvey 4d.
717. Come, Holy Ghost C. L. Williams 2d.
293. Come, my soul ... G. C. Martin 4d.
314. Come now, and let us H.W. Wareing 4d.
1. Come unto Him ... Gounod 2d.
635. Come unto Me ... G. J. Elvey 3d.
103. Come unto Me (Bach) J. Stainer 3d.
236. Come unto Me H. R. Couldrey 3d.
533. Come, ye faithful ... E. V. Hall 3d.
622. Create in me a clean heart P. J. Fry 3d.
688. Crown Him the Virgin's Son B. L. Selby 2d.
356. Daughters of Jerusalem H. J. King 3d.
449. Dawns the day ... R. H. Legge 3d.
213. Day of anger (Requiem) ... Mozart 6d.
602. Day of wrath ... J. Stainer 2d.
282. Death and life ... Walter Parratt 4d.
60. Distracted with care ... Haydn 4d.
703. Drop down, ye heavens ... Stainer 4d.
277. Enter not into Judgment Dr. Clarke 2d.
362. Eternal source ... F. Brandeis 2d.
628. Except the Lord build H. Gadsby 4d.
470. Eye hath not seen (two-part) Foster 3d.
584. Ditto (S.A.T.B.) M. B. Foster 3d.
626. Far be sorrow ... E. V. Hall 3d.
32. Far from their home Woodward 3d.
672. Far from the world H. W. Parker 4d.
364. Father, hear the prayer F. Brandeis 2d.
46. Father of Heaven Dr. Walmisley 3d.
384. Father of Life ... S. J. Gilbert 3d.
671. Father of mercies ... J. E. West 3d.
28. Fear not, O land ...Sir John Goss 6d.
446. Flee from evil Rev. W. J. Clarke 3d.
583. For a small moment ... J. Stainer 2d.
254. For ever blessed ... Mendelssohn 3d.
198. For the mountains... L. Samson 3d.
273. From the deep I called Spohr 6d.
227. Give ear, O Lord T. M. Pattison 2d.
433. Give ear, O Shepherd A. Whiting 3d.
88. Give ear, O ye heavens Dr. Armes 3d.
624. Give thanks, O Israel Ouseley 4d.
309. Give the Lord ... C. H. Lloyd 8d.
383. Give unto the Lord H. W. Parker 4d.
2. Glory be to God ... S. S. Wesley 2d.
341. God be merciful ... A. H. Mann 4d.
49. God be merciful ... S. S. Wesley 3d.
236. God be merciful unto us C. F. Lloyd 6d.
105. God came from Teman Dr. Steggall 4d.
128. God is gone up ... Dr. Croft 4d.
605. God is my salvation ... C. F. Bowes 3d.
131. God is our hope ... Dr. Greene 6d.
101. God is our refuge ... Dr. H. Hiles 6d.
332. God is our refuge ... A. Foote 4d.
75. God said, Behold Sir G. Macfarren 4d.
473. God so loved the world J. V. Roberts 3d.
342. God, that madest earth A. C. Fisher 2d.
344. God, who at sundry times J. H. Mee 4d.
715. God's peace is peace eternal Grieg 3d.
388. Grant, we beseech Thee J. V. Roberts 3d.
550. Grant, we beseech Thee M. Elvey 2d.
708. Great is the Lord A. W. Marchant 3d.
187. Great and marvellous ... Dr. Monk 3d.
517. Ditto ... J. F. Bridge 4d.
223. Great is Jehovah ... Schubert 4d.
602. Great is our Lord M. B. Foster 4d.
136. Great is the Lord ... Dr. Hayes 4d.
237. Great is the Lord Sir F. Ouseley 6d.
481. Great is the Lord ... B. Steane 3d.
220. Grieve not the Holy Spirit Stainer 3d.
609. Guide me, O Thou Great Redeemer ... H. Blair 3d.
427. Hail! gladdening Light J. T. Field 2d.
545. Hail! gladdening Light Martin 4d.
326. Hail, thou that art ... A. Carnall 4d.
560. Hail to the Christ ... J. Barnby 3d.
499. Hallelujah, Christ is risen Steane 3d.
382. Hallelujah! the Light O. King 3d.
173. Happy is the man ... E. Prout 3d.
681. Hark the glad sound M. B. Foster 3d.
487 Hark the glad sound E. V. Hall 3d.
345. Hark, the herald angels E. V. Hall 3d.
444. Hark! what news... ... O. King 3d.
404. Harvest Hymn ... E. Tozer 2d.
377. Have mercy upon me, Kellow J. Pye 3d.
401. Have mercy upon me J. Shaw 3d.
535. Have mercy upon me J. Goss 4d.
389. Hear me when I call T. Distin 2d.
146. Hear my prayer ... C. Stroud 4d.
339. Hear my prayer Mendelssohn 4d.
442. Hear my words C. H. H. Parry 8d.
310. Hear, O God ... A. Friedländer 6d.
138. Hear, O heavens P. Humphreys 3d.
94. Hear, O Lord Sir John Goss 2d.
139. Hear, O Lord ... C. King 2d.
162. Hear, O Lord Sir F. Ouseley 4d.
303. Hear, O Thou Shepherd Dr. Clarke 4d.
522. Ditto T. A. Walmisley 4d.
707. He that dwelleth ... J. Booth 4d.
701. He will swallow up death F. R. Greenish 3d.
376. Hide not Thy face Kellow J. Pye 2d.
330. Holy Ghost, to earth descending (Ludmila) .. .. Dvorák 4d.
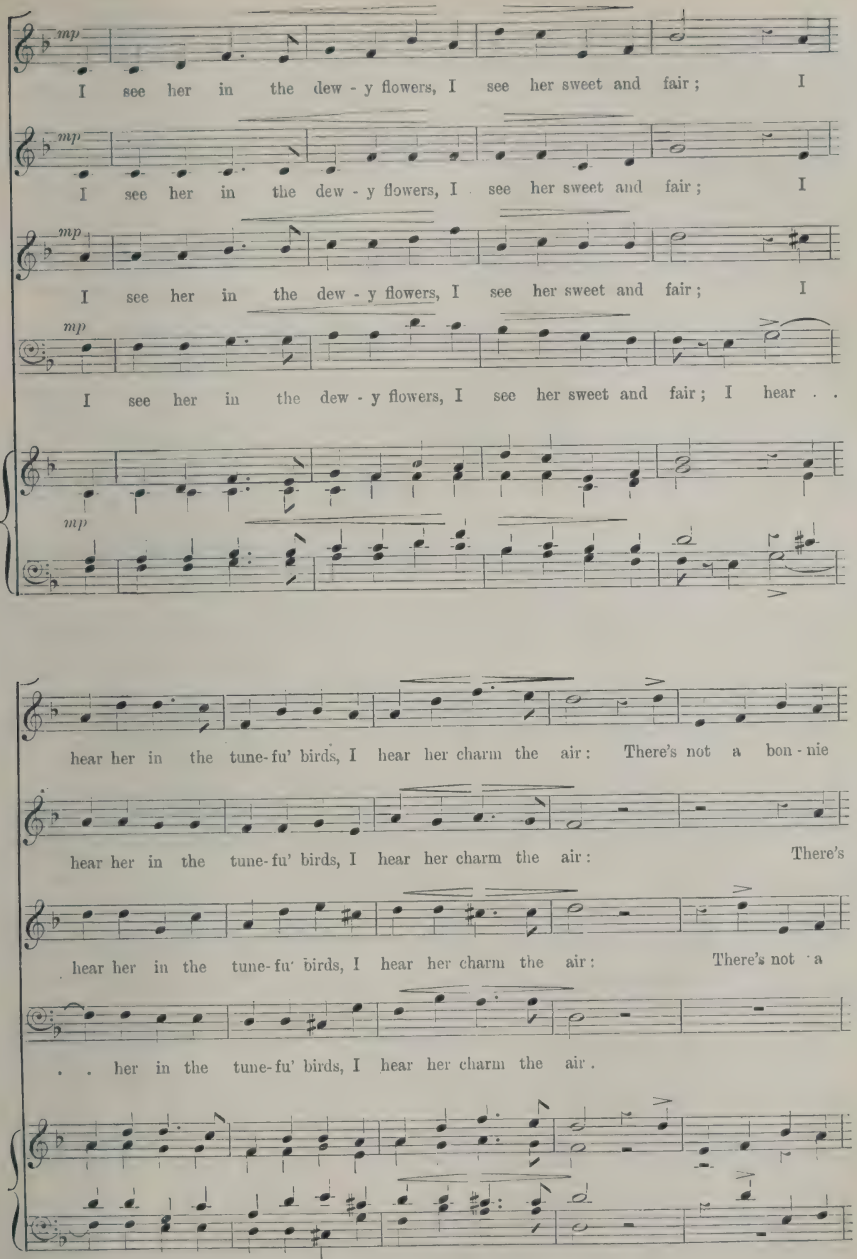
111. Holy, holy, holy ... Dr. Crotch 3d.
246. Ho! every one ... G. C. Martin 4d.
366. Ho! every one ... J. M. Crament 4d.
422. Honour the Lord ... J. Stainer 4d.
129. Hosanna ... ... O. Gibbons 3d.
43. Hosanna ... Sir G. A. Macfarren 3d.
646. Hosanna to the living Lord B. L. Selby 3d.
657. Ditto C. W. Jordan 4d.
260. How beautiful are the feet Handel 3d.
691. How blest are they Tschaikowsky 4d.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED



mp
I see her in the dew - y flowers, I see her sweet and fair; I
mp
I see her in the dew - y flowers, I see her sweet and fair; I
mp
I see her in the dew - y flowers, I see her sweet and fair; I
mp
I see her in the dew - y flowers, I see her sweet and fair; I hear . .
mp
hear her in the tune-fu' birds, I hear her charm the air: There's not a bon - nie hear her in the tune-fu' birds, I hear her charm the air: There's hear her in the tune-fu' birds, I hear her charm the air: There's not a
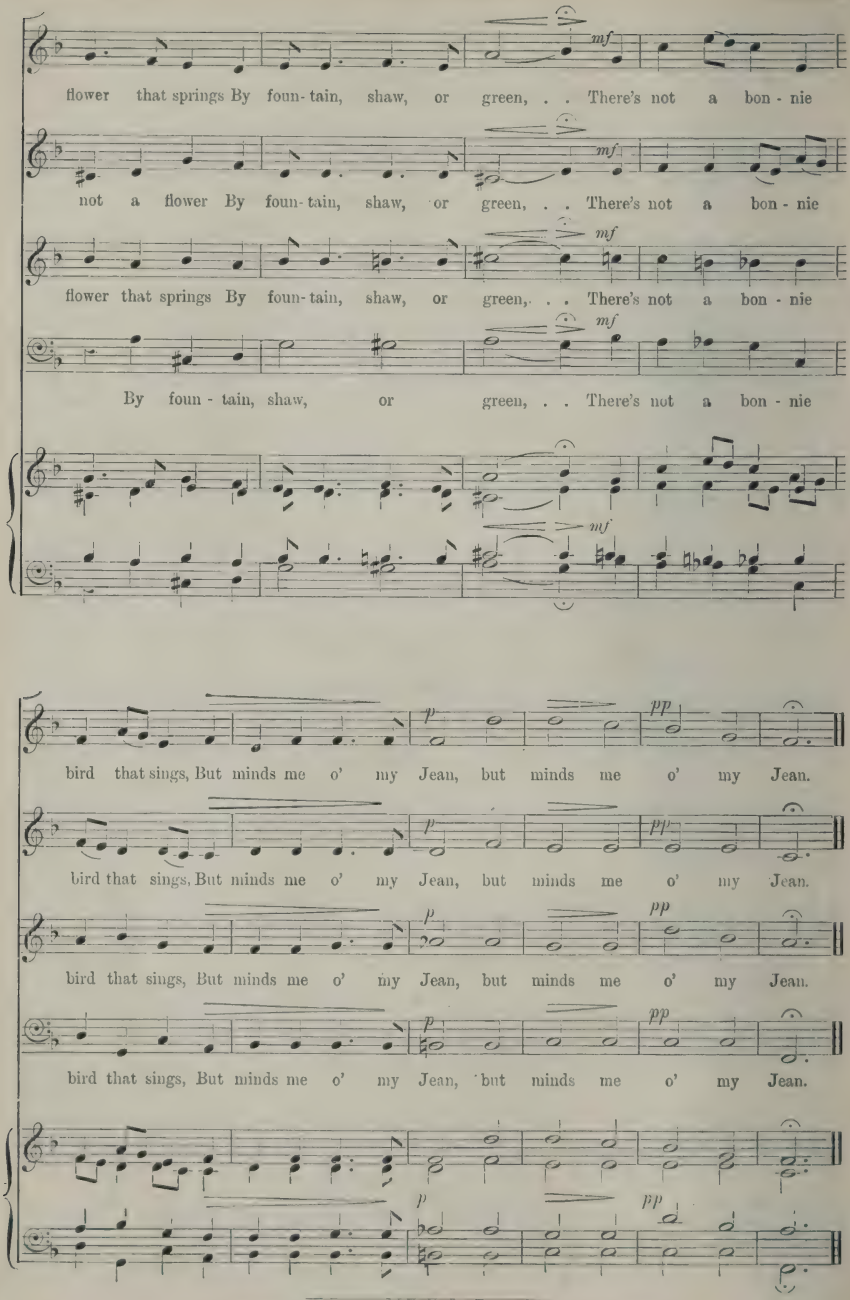
. . her in the tune-fu' birds, I hear her charm the air.



mf
flower that springs By foun-tain, shaw, or green, . . There's not a bon-nie not a flower By foun-tain, shaw, or green, . . There's not a bon-nie flower that springs By foun-tain, shaw, or green, . . There's not a bon-nie
By foun-tain, shaw, or green, . . There's not a bon-nie
p
pp
bird that sings, But minds me o' my Jean, but minds me o' my Jean.
bird that sings, But minds me o' my Jean, but minds me o' my Jean.
bird that sings, But minds me o' my Jean, but minds me o' my Jean.
bird that sings, But minds me o' my Jean, but minds me o' my Jean.

Also published in Novello's Tonic Sol-fa Series, No. 1255, price 1*d*.

MUSICAL CRITICISM.

The paper on 'Musical Criticism,' read by Mr. F. Gilbert Webb before the Incorporated Society of Musicians, on the 8th ult., at 20, Hanover Square, attracted a large audience. Opening his remarks with a definition of the word 'criticism' as 'a judgment,' he showed that the mission of the critic was as much to praise as to point out errors. The expectation of the public differed considerably from that of the artist. The former liked the unadulterated truth, the latter did not. According to Ruskin, 'Men have commonly more pleasure in the criticism that hurts, than in that which is innocuous.' It was not unnatural that the artist should hold that the chief duty of criticism was to make known his abilities.

After referring to the equipment which he considered necessary for a musical critic, Mr. Webb said: There was no school of critics. They were called from the bar, were metamorphosised composers, or strolling musicians, but they all illustrated 'the importance of being earnest,' and English musical criticism in its entirety was the most unbiassed in the world. This might be attributed in considerable measure to national independence of temperament, which presented an almost impregnable barrier against bribery and corruption. English critics, indeed, had been known to use their pens against each other in defence of their opinions. Criticism had accomplished most by causing people to think about the intellectual side of music, by acting as an interpreter between the composer and the listener, by widening the understanding of the multitude, and cultivating good taste by pointing out the beauties, fine workmanship, and subtleties of masterpieces. In these respects the art was eternally indebted to such writers as Schumann, and in our own day to Sir Hubert Parry, who had brought a singularly comprehensive and vigorous critical faculty to bear on the development and æsthetics of music.

There were many styles of modern criticism, but they all helped to elicit the truth. The active agent in progress was opposition, and truth was often established by erroneous statements. We owed much to the antiquarian writer. He showed the source of true development, and was the antidote to the impressionist, who was inclined to forget the influence of the past on the present. The critic with good literary style and little knowledge throve because editors of newspapers rarely knew anything about music, but they appreciated a facile pen.

The life of the ideal critic should be divided between the concert-room, a hansom cab, and an unlocated flat. While possessing a power to change his mental attitude with the mobility of a Boer commando, he himself must be no bore. His judgment must not suffer from suffocating concert-rooms, or his keenness of perception be interfered with by the keenest of draughts, and as he was trundled home in his hansom to his unlocated flat, the ideal one would feel he had been no idle one, but that, although himself unknown, he would speak to thousands the following morning in the cause of the art he loved. In conclusion, the lecturer said, 'If any think I have treated my subject too lightly, I would remind you that the essentials of life are laughter and slumber, and it is better for a lecturer to excite the former than the latter.'

Dr. Shinn, who occupied the chair, and Dr. W. H. Cummings, Mr. J. S. Shedlock, and Mr. Edgar F. Jacques took part in the subsequent discussion.

HANDEL AND PURCELL AT PENLEY'S THEATRE.

When our opera season at Covent Garden is announced, most musical critics and many amateurs eagerly scan the list of works to discover the novelties it contains, but Mr. Gordon Craig, stage director, and Mr. Martin Shaw, musical director, opened the above-named theatre on the 10th ult., and hoped for a fortnight to interest the public in music belonging to a far past. Unfortunately, the want of this interest limited the performances to a week. The first of these was Handel's Serenata 'Acis and Galatea,' a familiar work, or, at any rate, the greater part of it. The composer (as mentioned on p. 166 of our last issue), once gave it on the stage, with scenery, but without action. The work does not, in fact, require it; the music is more than sufficient in itself. The grand 'Wretched lovers'' chorus loses something of its grandeur when Acis and Galatea are actually exhibited to view, looking fearfully uncomfortable, while nymphs and shepherds, effectively grouped, we admit, in the rear, sing of the sad decree of fate. Again, what can be fresher or more delightful than 'O ruddier than the cherry'? A visible Polyphemus, however, not really a giant, but only artificially swollen-out, does not intensify interest in the music. The mourning for Acis was the most impressive stage picture. Of the soloists, Miss Gertrude Woodall (Galatea) and Mr. Robert Maitland (Polyphemus) best deserve mention.

Purcell's 'Masque of love' from his opera 'Dioclesian' followed. This, of course, was really intended for the stage, but though Mr. Craig's presentation of the Masque showed considerable imagination, it certainly had at times a suggestion of pantomime. The trouble and expense, and labour in getting up these performances must have been great, and the good intentions of Messrs. Craig and Shaw must be fully recognised. We ought to mention that the chorus of the Purcell Operatic Society acquitted itself commendably.

London Concerts.

RICHARD STRAUSS'S 'DON JUAN.'

The programme of Mr. Newman's Symphony Concert at Queen's Hall, on the 8th ult., commenced with Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. For the choral section, the soloists were Mesdames Ella Russell and Kirkby Lunn, and Messrs. Lloyd Chandos and Ffrangcon-Davies, all excellent artists, yet their voices did not properly blend. The Queen's Hall Choir rendered the trying choruses with great courage and good results. Richard Strauss's orchestral fantasia 'Don Juan,' was given for the first time at these concerts, and the performance, under the direction of Mr. Wood, was exceedingly fine. The form of the work, the subject which the composer seeks to illustrate in tones, may be open to exception; but there is such skill, such strong character in his music that one cannot but endorse the opinion of those who regard him as the foremost composer of the day in Germany. To use an oft-quoted yet most convenient phrase: he has something to say, and knows well how to say it. In some of his tone-poems there are peculiarities, extravagances, but of such things 'Don Juan' is well-nigh free. Let us hope that Mr. Wood will soon give us an opportunity of hearing Strauss's 'The life of a hero.' Mr. Mark Hambourg played Saint-Saëns's Pianoforte Concerto in C minor. He has a fine technique, and, of course, the work enabled him to display his powers as a virtuoso; but of this he took at times undue advantage, for he thus emphasized the weak side of the music.

THE PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

The first concert of the ninetieth year took place on February 27. Mr. William H. Bell furnished the novelty on that occasion by two orchestral tone-pictures from 'Mother Carey,' a suite in three movements, representing the parting, absence, and return of a voyager. As the first movement ('Outward bound') was not played, owing to its undergoing the process of revision, only the sections 'In the night watches' and 'In the Fo'c's'le' were presented. The former of these, admirably reflects the gloom of the night watches, the storm at sea, and the grey light of the early dawn. In the second movement much use is made of the sea-song, 'The Arethusa.' (The history of this song, generally attributed to William Shield, was given by Mr. Frank Kidson in The Musical Times for October, 1894.) This 'In the Fo'c's'le' section would benefit by compression, whereby some of its fragmentariness might be relieved. The work is, however, a distinct advance upon what Mr. Bell has hitherto done by its clearness of orchestration and restraint from over-elaboration, the insidious snare against which young composers should continually be on their guard. The remainder of the programme consisted of Beethoven's 'Coriolanus' overture, Tschaïkowsky's oft-heard 'Pathetic' symphony, and the showy but dry Pianoforte Concerto in F minor by Henselt, the arpeggioist, of which the solo part was brilliantly played by Herr Sauer. Madame Amy Sherwin was the vocalist.

Owing to the unavoidable absence, through illness, of Madame Blanche Marchesi, the programme of the second concert (on the 8th ult.) lost some of its interest by the omission of Max Bruch's 'Ave Maria' (from 'Das Feuerkreuz') and Stanford's 'Die Wallfahrt nach Kevlaar.' A mere record of the performance may therefore suffice. Dvorák's delightful symphony, 'From the New World,' was a most welcome revival, the other orchestral piece being three movements from Tschaïkowsky's Serenade for Strings, Op. 48. Franz Ondricek played the solo part of Brahms's Violin Concerto, and Miss Jennie Norelli (who, at very short notice, replaced Madame Blanche Marchesi) charmed greatly by her fluent vocalization in 'Je suis Titania' from the 'Mignon' of Ambroise Thomas. Both concerts took place at Queen's Hall, and were conducted by Dr. Cowen in a manner calling for high commendation.

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY.

The concert on the 6th ult. was greatly handicapped by the fog, which ruled supreme within and without the great building at Kensington, and which affected performers and audience alike by its irritating presence. The only advantage it had was to give local colour to Dvorák's 'Spectre's Bride,' and Mendelssohn's 'Walpurgis Night,' the two works forming the programme. Under such abnormal conditions it would be unfair to judge the interpretation, but a special word of praise is due to Madame Sobrino for her excellent singing in the title-part of Dvorák's dramatic cantata. The remaining vocalists were Miss Edna Thornton, Mr. William Green, and Mr. Daniel Price. Sir Frederick Bridge conducted.

VARIOUS CONCERTS AND RECITALS.

The concert of that admirable artist, Madame Frickenhaus, at Bechstein Hall, on the 11th ult., deserves special mention for the group of shorter pianoforte pieces she so excellently interpreted, and of which we give the titles for the benefit of our readers: Chaconne (Op. 29), by Richard Franck; Arietta, by Leonardo Leo; Allemande, Sarabande, Gavotte and Musette (from the Suite in E minor, Op. 46), by M. Pery; Romance (Op. 38, No. 2), by E. Schütt; Gondellied, by M. Balakirew; Hexentanz (Op. 17), by E. A. MacDowell. The concert-giver also played Schumann's Faschingsschwank aus Wien, and co-operated with Mdlle. Marie Motto in Schubert's Fantasie for pianoforte and violin (Op. 159). Mr. Lawrence Rea was an acceptable vocalist.

A composer is not always well advised in giving a performance consisting entirely of his own works, but Mr. D'Erlanger, on the 16th ult., at Bechstein Hall, was justified in doing so by the variety of form in which he has written, and by the finished workmanship of his compositions. The most important production was his Pianoforte Quintet in C minor, which was added to the repertory of the Popular Concerts on the 1st ult. A second hearing confirmed the previous favourable impressions. The first movement is a strong and interesting example of thematic development. The second is refined, the third extremely vivacious and pleasing, and, albeit the finale is less satisfactory, the work in its entirety excites esteem. Another example of Mr. D'Erlanger's constructive skill was an Andante Symphonic for violoncello solo and orchestra, rendered by Mr. W. H. Squire and the composer, the latter playing a pianoforte arrangement of the score. The principal theme possesses rhythmic freshness, and is well contrasted by the second subject of graceful character, and their treatment is terse, clear, and artistic.

Miss Ethel Barns and Mr. Charles Phillips' concert (Bechstein Hall, the 8th ult.), brought forward for the first time a set of three Negro Fantasias for violin and pianoforte by Mr. Coleridge-Taylor, capitally played by Miss Ethel Barns and the composer. The titles of the three pieces are 'Kroo Song,' 'Chloe's tune,' and 'Hemo Dance.' Mr. Coleridge-Taylor needs to be cautioned against the complexity which characterises these pieces, and which thereby lose much of the charm and spontaneity of his earlier compositions for the violin.

Miss Janet and Mr. Arthur Goundry gave their first vocal recital at Steinway Hall, on the 17th ult., with much success. The concert-givers contributed some interesting songs to the evening's music, including two by Purcell (probably for the first time since the composer's death) entitled 'My dearest, my fairest' and 'Sound the Trumpet!' Modern composers were represented, among others, by Mr. John E. West, whose song 'Cheerily O' (MS.) was sung for the first time by Mr. Arthur Goundry and accompanied by the composer. Miss Ethel Barns excellently played an old Sonata for Violin by Jean Baptiste Senallié (1687-1730), a distinguished violinist of Paris.

At the second recital of the Herbert Sharpe Trio (Steinway Hall, the 4th ult.), the programme included a new Trio in D minor (MS.), by Mr. Frank Bridge, a pupil of the Royal College of Music. The work showed much promise, especially the Scherzo and Andante sections, and the audience twice recalled the composer to the platform.

Herr Sauer gave a pianoforte recital at Queen's Hall on the 5th ult., at which he played with fine poetic insight Beethoven's Sonata in E minor (Op. 109), and gave proof of his fine technical equipment in other pieces.

Miss Rosa Leo gave two artistic vocal recitals at Bechstein Hall on the 4th and 18th ult.

CHORAL AND ORCHESTRAL SOCIETIES.

The Westminster Orchestral Society gave their first concert this season on February 26, in their new locale, the Kensington Town Hall. The programme included Sir A. C. Mackenzie's fine 'Coriolanus' Suite, which was admirably performed under the direction of the composer, Beethoven's Concerto in E flat, the solo part played by Mr. Leonard Borwick, and Dvorák's Symphony 'From the New World,' these works being well rendered under the able direction of Mr. Stewart Macpherson. Miss Beatrice Spencer was the vocalist.

The South London Choral Association performed Sullivan's 'Golden Legend' and Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha's Departure,' at the South London Institute, on the 5th ult. The choir sang extremely well, especially in the hymn 'O gladsome light,' which was given with excellent expression. The solo vocalists were Miss Beatrice Stanley Lucas, Miss Hester Kimbell, Mr. Charles Ellison, Mr. John Lacey, and Mr. Charles Knowles. The orchestra was led as usual by Mr. T. E. Gatehouse, and Mr. L. C. Venables conducted with his usual alertness.

The Bow and Bromley Choir gave a Concert Recital of Gounod's 'Faust,' on the 1st ult., at the Bow and Bromley Institute. The solo vocalists were Mdlle Titiens, Miss Florence Power, Mr. James Horncastle, Mr. Meurig James and Mr. Arthur Winckworth. The orchestra and chorus consisted of over 100 performers, and Dr. W. Lemare conducted.

The second annual festival of the Hampstead Nonconformist Choir Union was held in Lyndhurst Road Church, on the 12th ult., when Handel's 'Messiah' was performed under the careful conductorship of Mr. J. Douglas Macey, the soloists being Miss Kate Cherry, Miss Evelyn Bridgman, Mr. Henry Holyoake, and Mr. Arthur Barlow. The chorus of 150 voices sang with much intelligence, and invaluable aid was rendered at the organ by Mr. G. Dorrington Cunningham.

Messrs. Bevington and Sons, the organ builders, of Soho request us to state that the fire which occurred at their factory at the end of February, has in no way impeded their business, as they have obtained temporary premises and the work will go on as usual.

COMPETITIONS.

An Eisteddfod was held at Exeter Hall on February 19. It was promoted by the authorities connected with the Welsh Church, Falmouth Road, S.E., and appealed mainly to Welsh people for support. The choral sections were open to all comers, but they were patronised mainly by about a dozen choirs who journeyed from South Wales for the not altogether novel object of competing against one another. The proceedings presented all the well-known features of a Welsh Eisteddfod, even including the callous disregard of the convenience and comfort of the competitors and the public in the matter of keeping time. The chief choral competition for male voice choirs was announced for 7.30 p.m., but did not commence until after 9 p.m. Eleven Welsh choirs had entered, but only nine competed. The test piece was a long dramatic chorus, 'The last day of Pompeii,' by Ritz. The singing was generally remarkably good. The Treherbert Society and the Cardiff Male Voice Choir particularly distinguished themselves. The prize of £40 was awarded to the Cardiff Choir. In the female voice section a beautiful performance of 'To a skylark (Dr. C. H. Lloyd), by the Stockwell Pupil Teachers' Choir, under Mr. Maskell Hardy, gained the first place. The solo singing was meritorious, but never reached a high level. Dr. Roland Rogers and Mr. W. Davies adjudicated.

An interesting competition of Ladies' choirs was held at Kensington on the 6th ult. Six choirs appeared. A feature of the scheme was the arrangement of sections according to the number of parts in the test pieces. Thus there was a prize for two-part singing, another for three-part, and another for four-part. There was also a class for church choirs and a compulsory class for two-part sight singing. Miss Wray's choir and Mrs. Layton's choir each gained two prizes, and St. John's choir gained the church choir prize. Dr. W. G. McNaught adjudicated, and Lady Mary Lygon distributed the prizes.

The prospectus of the Westmorland Musical Festival of 1902, to be held on the 10th, 11th, and 12th inst., is, as usual, an interesting document. The entries for the competitions show a considerable improvement on recent years, and the most important feature of all, viz., the Festival Chorus, trained in small contingents all over the county and neighbourhood by their local conductors, under Mr. Rathbone as chorus-master, promises to be finer than ever under the conductorship of Mr. Coleridge-Taylor. The band, as before, will be almost entirely composed of members of Richter's Manchester Orchestra, under the leadership of Signor Risegari, and the works to be performed include 'Sleepers, wake' (Bach), 'The Song of Destiny' (Brahms), 'Lord Ullin's Daughter' (MacCunn), and 'Elegy' (Somervell), in addition to Mozart's G minor Symphony, and Mr. Coleridge-Taylor's 'Toussaint' Overture. For the Children's Concert, Dr. Cowen's melodious cantata 'Village Scenes,' will be sung—an exceedingly happy choice. Mr. A. H. Willink, Burneside, Kendal, is the resourceful honorary secretary.

The dates of other coming provincial competitions and festivals of the type to be held this spring are as follows: Brigg (Lincolnshire), April 14-15-16; Carlisle, April 16-17; Northampton, April 18; York, April 22-23; Wincanton (Somersetshire), April 24; Madresfield (Malvern), April 26-28; Morecambe, April 23, May 1-2-3; Spilsby (Lincolnshire), May 5-6; Swaledale (Yorks), June 4-5.

MUSIC IN AMERICA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

New York, March 11, 1902.

The advent of Mr. Paderewski and the departure of the Opera have been the chief incidents in the musical life of New York since last I wrote. Stirring incidents they have been, especially in the phase which they assumed on the 8th inst., which prompted the Tribune newspaper to recall a story that was decidedly àpropos. The story goes, that once upon a time a patriotic son of Uncle Sam who, mayhap, was a little given to boasting, desiring to impress a foreigner with a proper appreciation of the valor of our countrymen, remarked that, having 'licked' the British and creation generally, we looked around for somebody else worthy of our steel, and finding none we turned about and 'licked' ourselves. For years, come sunshine, come storm, Mr. Paderewski's popular successes have been the same. It made no difference what the counter attraction chanced to be—when he played he always 'licked' all creation. On Saturday last he gave his second recital in Carnegie Hall, and at the same time his opera 'Manru' had its third performance at the Metropolitan Opera House. Both of the vast audience-rooms contained as many persons as the law permitted to enter them. It is a modest estimate to say that 7,000 persons paid 15,000 dollars to hear Paderewski's composition and his playing on that day. Did anything like this ever happen to musicians before? I think not.

Mr. Paderewski's opera was produced on February 14. Though fairly pitchforked on the stage, it had a beautiful setting, and so admirable were the artists employed that its book and score had excellent exposition. Madame Sembrich, out of friendship for the composer, assumed the role of the heroine, and though it belongs to the dramatic genre, and she is essentially a lyrist, she sang with a poignancy of expression and acted with a pathos that thrilled the audience. The tenor was Alexander von Bandrowski, of the Frankfort Opera, who had already sung the titular role twenty times in Polish before coming to America for the express purpose of creating it here. Others in the cast were Mr. Bispham, Mr. Blass, Mr. Mühlmann, and Madame Homer.

The newspapers devoted many columns to this work at its first performance, and though there was a general condemnation of the book as weak in incident and faulty in construction, there was also a general agreement that the score contained many strong and beautiful elements. The orchestration was universally praised for its richness and wealth of color. The composer has made the orchestra the real exposition of the drama, which deals with the struggle in the soul of a gypsy between duty towards his gentile wife and a racial passion for roaming. The pleadings of his tribe, who offer him the chieftainship, and the seductions of a gypsy Venus are successfully resisted, but he yields at last to the strain of gypsy music. This artistic motive Mr. Paderewski has treated with remarkable power and beauty. It is as effective as it is novel in operatic literature. The composer attended the première and received an ovation from the audience. The second representation was given outside the subscription, but the house was again crowded. Popularly at least the opera has scored a distinct success.

The fifteenth biennial music festival, at Cincinnati, will be held under the direction of Mr. Theodore Thomas, on May 14, 15, 16, and 17. The principal works to be performed are Franck's 'Les Béatitudes,' Bach's Mass in B minor, Berlioz's 'Requiem,' selections from Gluck's 'Orpheus,' and fragments from Wagner's dramas. There will be an orchestra of 100 and a chorus of 500. Solo parts will be in the hands of Mrs. Marie Zimmermann, Miss Clara Turpen, Madame Schumann-Heink, Ben Davies, Ellison Van Hoose, Andrew Black, and Gwilym Miles.

H. E. Krehbiel.

MUSIC IN VIENNA.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

Vienna, March 15.

I shall have to refer rather more fully than usual, on the present occasion, to matters operatic. There has been a series of performances by an Italian company taking place at the theatre An der Wien; the house where, one hundred and eleven years ago, Mozart's 'Die Zauberflöte' was produced for the first time. The musical director of this company, Alfredo Donizetti, a relative of the celebrated composer, may be mentioned in the first place, since the decided success of the stagione is chiefly owing to him. Indeed, it would be difficult to find a more competent conductor of Italian Opera. The works produced are chiefly those of the old and well-tried répertoire, such as Rossini's 'Il Barbiere,' Bellini's 'La Sonnambula' and 'I Puritani,' Donizetti's 'La Favorita,' Verdi's 'Rigoletto,' and others. The efficiency of the company seemed to increase as the series progressed, and with it the interest taken in the performances by the public. It was a clear demonstration of the fact that, given an adequate performance, these old-time operas will attract many eager listeners even nowadays. The vocalists included some noteworthy artists, as, for, instance, Signora Barientos, an excellent interpreter of florid music, but deficient in feeling. A magnificent impression was produced by Signora Cucini, with her noble contralto voice and superb dramatic powers, particularly in 'La Favorita.' Amongst the male singers of the company, special praise is due to the baritone, Signor Rossi, as well as to the tenor, Signor Bonci, the latter creating quite a furore on account of his splendid vocal art and remarkable histrionic qualities. Thus it came to pass that the enthusiasm of our grandfathers was rendered feasible to us for the nonce, for we had the spectacle of a great audience profoundly moved by Bellini's 'I Puritani'!

A new and somewhat curious little work has been brought out at the Imperial Opera, from the pen of a Viennese musician, Joseph Forster, the composer of a very charming ballet, 'Der Spielmann,' and other works. The new production, 'The Dead Man,' is a setting to music of an old 'Fastnachts Spiel, by Hans Sachs, the cobbler-poet, rendered a familiar personality in our days by Wagner's 'Die Meistersinger.' The action of the piece is of the simplest, showing how a husband endeavours to test the affection of his wife by feigning death, and the composer has wisely refrained from interfering with the original text. There is some quaint rustic humour in the little play, but unfortunately this element is but inadequately represented in the music, and the work is not likely to remain long in the repertory. The performance, however, was excellent, with Frau Schoder-Gutheil as a remarkably clever representative of the amusingly matter-of-fact wife.

Considerable interest was manifested in musical circles by the performance of a new oratorio by Father Hartmann, a member of the Order of St. Francis and a scion of an aristocratic family. These two facts combined were no doubt responsible for the extraordinary stir caused by the production of 'Franciscus,' set to Latin words of his own, by a musician, well grounded, indeed, in the practical elements of his art, but devoid of all inspiration or inventive power. Aided by the active support of the clerical and aristocratic world, including the Emperor himself, the work was able, however, to live through no less than three performances before crowded audiences. Seeing that these were given for a charitable purpose, it would be uncharitable, perhaps, to insist upon further criticism.

The fact of our being encompassed, here in Vienna, by Slavonic nationalities was brought home to us in a special manner by the grand concert with which the 'Slavische Gesangverein' celebrated the fortieth anniversary of its foundation. This Society numbers amongst its members nearly every Slav residing in Vienna, and the programme on the present occasion was, of course, devoted solely to Slavonic composers. These included choral works by Nesvera, the distinguished musical director of Olmütz Cathedral; Hubad, the conductor of the Laibach Musikverein; Antonin Dvorák, the greatest amongst the Czechs, whose 'Hymnus' was performed; Tschaïkowsky, and others, all the pieces being sung in the different Slavonic languages to which they were set. A feature of special interest to an outsider was the performance of a number of Volkslieder appertaining to the various Slavonic races, and which are zealously cultivated by this Society. Some little time after the above event, we had an opportunity of hearing a concert of Russian music, given by Russian artists, including Madame Gorlenko-Dolina, the prima donna of the St. Petersburg Opera, and an artist of the very first order; Leopold Auer, the famous violinist and conductor of the Imperial Russian Musical Society, who conducted Tschaïkowsky's Second Symphony, hitherto unknown here, and who superbly played the same composer's Violin Concerto, dedicated to Auer; while M. Paul de Conne, a young Russian pianist, recently appointed to a professorship at the Vienna Conservatorium, gave a masterly interpretation of Rubinstein's Concerto in E flat major. Amongst other instrumentalists whom we have heard lately, the Italian violinist, Arrigo Serato, may be specially mentioned as having created a marked interest. He had brought with him a new violin concerto by his compatriot, Leone Sinigaglia, a thoughtful and finely-elaborated work, demanding, however, a somewhat greater breadth and warmth of tone than its interpreter was able to impart to his instrument. At one of the Philharmonic Society's concerts, the French violinist, M. Thibaut, charmed the audience with his rendering of Bruch's G minor Concerto, while M. Raoul Pugno gave a very fine interpretation of Grieg's Pianoforte Concerto in A minor, and Frau Erica Wedekind, of Dresden, gained fresh admirers by the display of her excellent vocal art.

As regards the doings of our various societies, I may instance the performance by the Gesellschaft der Musikfreunde, of Mendelssohn's 'St. Paul'; that of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony, by the Concert Verein (given twice, on account of the excessive demand for tickets on the first occasion); and the production, by the Vienna Männergesang-Verein, under its new director, Richard Heuberger, of Wagner's 'Das Liebesmahl der Apostel' and Bruch's Greek poem, 'Salamis.' Nor should I omit to mention the laudable and successful endeavours on the part of the Evangelical Choral Society, under the direction of Herr Rückauf, to resuscitate, in a 'Renaissance Concert' recently given by it, the interest in some of the choral compositions of German masters of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries.

Mandyczewski.

MUSIC IN BIRMINGHAM.

(from our own correspondent.)

Too late for notice in your last number was the concert of the City Choral Society towards the end of February. Stanford's 'Phaudrig Crohoore,' and a lengthy selection from Wagner, formed the programme. The works drawn upon were 'Rienzi,' 'The Flying Dutchman,' 'Tannhäuser,' 'Lohengrin,' 'Die Meistersinger,' and 'Siegfried.' The vocalists were Madame Sobrino, Mr. Philip Brozel, and Mr. Wilfred Cunliffe; Mr. F. W. Beard conducted. The Town Hall was crowded, and the concert was a great popular success.—On February 27, the Festival Choral Society gave its third concert, with a fine programme. Leonardo Leo's 'Dixit Dominus' came first, and it was given by the chorus with grand tone. Mesdames Ella Russell, Marie Hooton, Florence Gittings, and Messrs. William Green and Andrew Black were the principals. The organ accompaniment of Mr. C. W. Perkins was a special feature. The Grail scene, from 'Parsifal,' and Goring Thomas's cantata, 'The Swan and the Skylark,' also went well, the latter in particular winning popular favour. Dr. Sinclair conducted.

Messrs. Harrisons' last concert was given in the Town Hall on the 3rd ult. The vocalists were Madame Clara Butt, who created a furore, the Misses Bush, Mr. Gregory Hast, and Mr. Kennerley Rumford. New to us were Miss Margaret Horne, violinist, and Mr. Archie Rosenthal, pianist. Both achieved success. Mr. F. A. Sewell was a capital accompanist. The programme was miscellaneous, but good of its kind.

On the 4th ult., the Halford Concerts Society gave the eighth orchestral concert of the series. The programme included Sterndale Bennett's powerful overture to 'Parisina,' Beethoven's Symphony No. 7, and Granville Bantock's 'Helena' variations, repeated by desire. All were finely played, and the Symphony, given for the fifth time by Mr. Halford, went magnificently. Rachmaninoff's Pianoforte Concerto, No. 2, was down for the second time, with M. Siloti as soloist, but again Mr. Halford was disappointed, through the illness of the pianist. Mr. Leonard Borwick, at short notice, stepped into the breach, and his splendid playing in Beethoven's Third Concerto (in C minor), and the Caprice, 'Africa,' of Saint-Saëns, more than made up for any disappointment the audience might have felt. The ninth concert, held on the 18th ult., had a very fine programme, consisting of Beethoven's 'Leonora' overture, No. 3, Tschaïkowsky's Symphony, No. 4 (in F minor), and Liszt's Symphonic poem, 'Hungaria.' The last two were new here, and created much interest. The famous scherzo in the symphony would have been encored, only Mr. Halford is proof against such weakness. 'Hungaria' was finely performed, but coming last, it lost its power over the audience. Mr. Désiré Lalande played the solo in Handel's Concerto for oboe and strings, in G minor, an early and unknown work, said to have been composed at Hamburg in 1703. The music is simple, but highly interesting, and the performance was extremely good. Miss Rosina Buckmann, a rising young soprano, gave vocal pieces by Schubert and Wagner. Mr. Halford's conducting was, as always, masterly.

Mr. Max Mossel's drawing-room concerts closed for the season on the 13th ult. A miscellaneous programme was artistically interpreted by Mrs. Henry J. Wood (vocalist), Mr. Max Mossel (violinist), and Signor Consolo (pianist). Mrs. Wood's singing of Russian songs, to Mr. Wood's accompaniment, was an interesting feature of the concert. The Chamber Concerts Society's function of February 26, introduced Arensky's Quintet in D minor (Op. 51), for pianoforte and strings, a work of marked character. It was finely played by Mr. G. H. Manton and the Max Mossel String Quartet. The other principal work was Mozart's Quartet in D (No. 21 in the complete edition of Breitkopf and Härtel), which went well. Mrs. Montague Fordham was the vocalist.——The historical chamber concerts have been continued in the Temperance Hall every Saturday afternoon. Mr. E. van der Straeten has given the explanatory lectures, and the programmes have included examples from Haydn to Spohr, but the items are too numerous for individual mention. The Johannessen String Quartet have borne the brunt of the work; the pianists have been Mr. F. W. Beard, Mrs. A. L. Richardson, and Dr. Rowland Winn, and the vocalists Mr. W. Cunliffe, Miss Dodd-Delano, and Miss R. Buckmann. On Saturday, the 15th ult., Hummel's 'Military' Septet was performed at these concerts for the first time in Birmingham.

The Town Hall Saturday Concerts are well supported. The Choral Union, under Mr. Thomas Facer, gave a performance of the 'Messiah,' on February 22. The Midland Musical Society, conducted by Mr. H. M. Stevenson, gave a concert recital of Gounod's 'Faust,' on the 1st ult., and popular concerts have been given by Mr. A. E. James, and Mr. W. G. Halliley. Under Mr. Oscar Pollack's direction, a series of subscription concerts at the Botanical Gardens terminated on the 15th ult.

Sir Frederick Bridge lectured at the Midland Institute on the 10th ult., his subject being 'Early English Dramatic Music.' Illustrations were rendered by students of the Institute School of Music. The next evening, in the Town Hall, a public exhibition of the work of the students was held. The choir, conducted by Mr. Granville Bantock, gave Wesley's anthem 'The Wilderness,' affording evidence of serious study. The Ladies' String Orchestra played, under Mr. E. W. Priestley's direction, Elgar's Serenade in E minor, and several students appeared as soloists. The Moseley Choral Society gave a good performance of 'Eli' on the 14th ult. Mr. Berridge Hicks conducted.

MUSIC IN BRISTOL.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

There was a crowded attendance at the Victoria Rooms on February 26, when the Clifton Choral Society gave a concert. The chief work performed was Goetz's 'By the waters of Babylon.' An efficient orchestra, Mr. F. S. Gardner holding the principal first violin, played the accompaniments, and likewise rendered Schumann's Fourth Symphony. Mr. F. W. Rootham conducted.

The annual concert of the Western Ladies' Orchestra was held, on February 27, at the Victoria Rooms, under the direction of Mr. J. W. Duys, violinist, of Bath. This is a society composed of about sixty lady amateurs, who reside in various towns of the West of England, and meet weekly for practice in Bristol. Their performances were highly creditable. The vocalist was Mrs. Aylmer Jones, and the accompanist, Mr. Eaton Young.

The final concert for the season of the Bristol Quartet Society was given at All Saints' Hall, on the 7th ult. The executants were Mr. Bertram Fletcher (first violin), Miss Evelyn Trotman (second violin), Miss Elaine Griffin (viola), Mr. R. le Duc Bucknall (violoncello), and Mrs. Newman Neild (pianoforte). An effective interpretation was afforded of Beethoven's Quartet in E flat (Op. 74); the Sonata in A for violin and pianoforte (Op. 100) by Brahms; and Schubert's Quartet in A minor (Op. 29).

The Mid-Lent concert of the Bristol Choral Society, on the 8th ult., at Colston Hall, was devoted to the performance of Dvorák's 'Stabat Mater,' and Beethoven's 'Engedi.' The choir and band numbered about 600. Mr. George Riseley conducted with his accustomed ability, and the works were effectively rendered. The principal vocalists were Miss Agnes Nicholls, Miss Hilda Wilson, Mr. Charles Saunders, and Mr. Daniel Price, all of whom were favourably received.

MUSIC IN DUBLIN.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The Dublin Orchestral Society, on February 19, performed Mendelssohn's 'Scotch' Symphony, and this charming work excited a good deal of interest. The programme also included, for the first time at these concerts, the orchestral arrangement of Wagner's Albumblatt in C, and Smetana's sparkling overture to 'Die Verkaufte Braut.' Admirable performances of Beethoven's 'Fidelio' overture, and Saint-Saëns's 'Danse Macabre' completed an interesting programme, conducted, as usual, by Signor Esposito.

At the Chamber Music Union's recital, on February 27, Mr. Montagu Nathan joined Signor Esposito and Herr Bast in Tschaïkowsky's Pianoforte Trio in A minor. At the recital on the 8th ult., Mr. Denis O'Sullivan's singing of Signor Esposito's new vocal suite on old Irish airs to lyrics entitled 'Roseen Dhu,' by Mr. A. P. Graves, formed the principal attraction. This suite consists of seven songs, and, as sung by Mr. Denis O'Sullivan, forms quite a complete drama in miniature. Mr. O'Sullivan also sang a group of Irish melodies, including, 'The Lark in the Clear Air,' and 'The West's Awake,' both beautifully arranged by Signor Esposito. The last named, besides playing all the accompaniments and joining Herr Bast in Mendelssohn's theme and variations for violoncello and pianoforte, and an arrangement of two Irish melodies by Herr Bast, played the andante and finale from Beethoven's 'Appassionata' sonata, and responded to an imperative re-demand by playing Chopin's study in G flat (Op. 25).

On the 5th ult., the Dublin Musical Society gave their third and last subscription concert for the season. The fare provided consisted of Sullivan's Festival Te Deum and Act III. of 'Lohengrin.'

Much interest was shown in the first performance in the Gaiety Theatre, on the 14th ult., of the operetta 'The Post Bag,' the libretto by Mr. A. P. Graves and the music founded on old Irish tunes, composed and arranged by Signor Esposito. This charming work was beautifully performed by Miss Evangeline Florence, Mr. Joseph O'Mara and Mr. Denis O'Sullivan. The composer conducted an unusually efficient orchestra, and the whole was produced under the direction of Mr. Denis O'Sullivan. The composer, author and performers were several times called before the curtain at the close of the performance. 'The Post Bag,' with the same caste, was also performed on the previous evening at Dublin Castle by command of His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, K.G., before a brilliant audience, which included T.R.H. the Duke and Duchess of Connaught.

The Orpheus Choral Society gave their second concert for this season on February 25. The programme consisted mainly of part songs and madrigals, which were conducted as usual by Dr. J. C. Culwick.——The Hallé Orchestra, under the conductorship of Herr Richter, gave two concerts on the 10th and 11th ult., at which the principal attractions were Beethoven's Seventh Symphony, Stanford's Irish Symphony, and Tschaïkowsky's '1812' Overture.

MUSIC IN EAST ANGLIA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

A very instructive and interesting lecture was given at St. Stephen's Parochial Hall, Norwich, on the 6th ult., by Dr. Bates, the Cathedral organist, who took for his subject 'The influence of the Church upon music.' The lecturer traced the gradual development of the art of music from the first known specimen up to the present time. The illustrations included a specimen of part-singing used in the tenth century, followed by a melody said to have been sung by the Norman soldiers at the Battle of Hastings. The most piquant illustration consisted of several chants which were in common use during the eighteenth century, very different from the grand harmonies we now associate with the canticles. Modern church music was illustrated by the soprano solo from Stainer's anthem, 'Lead, kindly light.' Dr. Bates had the assistance of the choristers from the Cathedral and several of his articled pupils.

With the assistance of a few outside friends, the choir of St. Mary's Baptist Church, Norwich, gave an acceptable performance of Parts 1 and 2 of Haydn's 'Creation' on the 20th ult., conducted by Mr. R. Lowne, the Church organist. Miss Lancum, Mr. S. Hemmings and Mr. A. T. Springall were responsible for the solo numbers, and with the assistance of a small band, led by Mr. W. Johnson, with Dr. Bunnett at the organ, both airs and choruses received a careful rendition.

MUSIC IN GLASGOW.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

As is customary at the close of the Choral and Orchestral Union's season, church choirs and miscellaneous musical organisations take the opportunity of exhibiting the result of their winter's work, and this month's record, which will not be strictly chronological, is almost wholly one of local effort On February 20, the choir of Renfield United Free Church, under the able direction of Mr. George Stewart, gave a highly interesting Mendelssohn programme, consisting of 'Lauda Sion,' 'Hear my prayer,' and selections from 'Elijah' and 'St. Paul.' The programme of the recital by the choir of Claremont Church (Mr. R. Hutton Malcolm, organist and conductor), on February 28, was probably unique in the annals of local church choirs, including, as it did, Bach's cantata 'Ach wie Flüchtig' and part 2 ('The Flight into Egypt') of Berlioz's 'The Childhood of Christ.' In the former the singing of the choir was wholly overpowered by the organ accompaniment, but in the latter, especially in the chorus 'Farewell of the Shepherds,' the tone, phrasing, and expression were excellent. The choir of Caledonia Road United Free Church gave an exceedingly creditable interpretation of Gade's cantata, 'The Erl King's Daughter,' on the 8th ult. Mr. Robert Turnbull, the organist and choirmaster, conducted, and accompaniments were played on the pianoforte and harmonium by Messrs. D. S. Eadie and D. M. Mackay respectively. On the 9th ult., the choir of Bellahouston Parish Church (Miss Emily Ray, organist and conductor), sang Spohr's 'God, Thou art great' and some anthems, to a crowded congregation at the evening service.

The programme of the Glasgow Glee and Catch Club, under Mr. George Taggart, on February 26, was notable chiefly for the number of new (to the club, at least) part-songs it contained, and the finished performance of the various numbers. That the Pollokshields Philharmonic Society continues to hold a high place in the esteem of the musical public was shown by the large audience which assembled at its performance of Mendelssohn's 'Elijah,' on February 27. The chorus, which consists largely of young, fresh voices, sang with good effect, and a capable orchestra, led by Mr. John Daly, supplied the accompaniments. The solo music was given by Misses Clara North and Nellie Pritchard, and Messrs. Fred Fallas and Charles Tree, and Mr. John Cullen ably conducted. The same work was given, with pianoforte and harmonium accompaniment, by the Leuzie Musical Association, on the 8th ult., Mr. J. H. Hinton conducting the performance.

The United Free Church Training College Musical Association, under Mr. James Gallie, submitted a programme of glees and part-songs at its concert, on the 8th ult. Mr. T. Ashcroft Melville contributed some violin solos, and Miss Maggie Wilson played the pianoforte accompaniments excellently. Johnstone Choral Union essayed Dr. Cowen's tuneful cantata 'The Rose Maiden' at its second concert, on the 11th ult., the performance being conducted by Mr. Allan Craig. The choir of the Sabbath School Union, under its new conductor, Mr. A. Steven, gave a good performance of Handel's 'Messiah.' An efficient orchestra, led by Mr. W. H. Cole, played the accompaniments.

Amateur opera performances have been represented by the Opera Class of the Athenæum School of Music and the Orpheus Club, Jakobowski's 'Erminie' being taken by the former, and Sullivan's 'The Gondoliers' by the latter. The Athenæum students sang and acted exceedingly well, and the orchestra, composed of professors and pupils of the School, contributed not a little to the success of the performance. Mr. James Barr, who conducts the Orpheus Club, evidently favours the works of Sullivan, as the Club's performances are almost invariably of that composer's operas. Both with respect to principals and chorus the performance of 'The Gondoliers' was most creditable.

The annual students' concert of the Athenæum School of Music took place on the 11th ult. The programme, arranged to show the progress and attainments of the students, consisted of songs, pianoforte and violin solos, and orchestral pieces. On this occasion, Mr. Allan Macbeth made his final appearance as conductor, as, owing to a complete re-organisation of the School, he has resigned the Principalship, a post he has held since the School was opened.

The members of Pollokshields West United Free Church Choir are to be congratulated on the successful appearance they made in Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha' (parts 1 and 2), on the 18th ult. The choruses were sung with great precision and good expression, and the solo music received adequate interpretation from Miss Eadie and Messrs. McCallum and McLintock. A quintet of strings, supplemented by the organ (capitally handled by Mr. Wilby) and pianoforte, gave the accompaniments, and Mr. D. S. Eadie, the organist and choirmaster of the Church, conducted.

On the same evening, the choir of the Young Men's Christian Association, conducted by Mr. R. L. Reid, sang Handel's 'Samson' to a large audience. The principals were Madame Ruth Lamb and Miss Mainds, and Messrs. Brearley and Fleming, with Mr. Clapperton as organist, and Mr. W. H. Cole as leader of the orchestra.

The Glasgow Amateur Orchestral Society, a body of eighty-seven performers, continues to give evidence of healthy life and activity. Quite an ambitious programme was presented at its second concert, on the 20th ult. Part I. consisted of Tschaikowsky's 'Marche Solennelle,' Weber's 'Concertstück' for piano and orchestra (Miss Vera Margolies in the solo part), prelude to Act 3 of Cyrill Kistler's 'Kunihild,' Sullivan's 'Ouvertura di Ballo,' and some songs sung by Miss Mary Macarthur. Beethoven's C minor Symphony, which formed the second part of the programme, was a distinct achievement. Mr. W. T. Hoeck conducted the performance. The Moody-Manners Opera Company gave a week's performances, producing Stanford's 'Much ado about nothing' for the first time in Glasgow.

MUSIC IN GLOUCESTER AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The second of the three concerts given by the Gloucester Choral Society during the season, was held in the Shire Hall, on February 25, too late for notice last month. The two chief works were Brewer's biblical-scene, 'Emmaus,' and 'The Hymn of Praise,' and under Mr. Brewer's most competent training and conducting the choral numbers in each were most admirably sung. The principal vocalists were Madame Sobrino (soprano), and Mr. E. Branscombe (tenor), and Miss Ellicott joined with Madame Sobrino in the duet in 'The Hymn of Praise.' A capable band (professional and amateur), was led by Mr. W. H. Reed, and one of the most acceptable features of a successful concert was the able rendering given of Sullivan's 'In Memoriam' Overture.

The Gloucester Civic Band gave a good concert at the Shire Hall, Gloucester, on February 27, and under the direction of Mr. Frank Dawes, played with considerable success a number of selections including Elgar's military march, 'Pomp and Circumstance,' which was most heartily received. Miss Bessie Dallimore sang very acceptably two songs. The Lichfield Cathedral Quartet party made a great success by their perfect ensemble in unaccompanied part-songs

Miss Ellicott and Miss Hirschfeld have every reason to be satisfied with the result of their first series of Chamber Concerts for Gloucester and Cheltenham, the fourth concert of which was given in the latter town on the 5th ult. The concerted pieces on this occasion were Schumann's Trio in D minor (Op. 63) and Beethoven's Trio in C minor (Op. 1, No. 3), the executants being Miss Hirschfeld (pianoforte), Mr. Henry Such (violin) and Mr. Whitehouse (violoncello). Mr. Whitehouse and Miss Hirschfeld also played Mendelssohn's 'Variations Concertantes,' and Mr. Such gave as a violin solo Tartini's sonata, 'Trillo del Diablo,' which was a fine exhibition of genuine violin playing. The vocalist was Miss Gleeson-White, who sang with great taste songs by Scarlatti, Liszt, Moorat, Willeby, and Maude Valerie White. Mrs. Arthur Sly was the efficient accompanist.

The performance of 'Elijah,' by the Cheltenham Musical Festival Society, of which Mr. J. A. Matthews is conductor, drew a very large audience to the Winter Gardens on the afternoon of the 6th ult. By general consent this was the best performance of Mendelssohn's oratorio that has been given in the Garden Town for a great many years, the choral numbers being sung with commendable spirit, freshness, and accuracy, and in addition to a full orchestra (led by Mr. E. G. Woodward) a strong and attractive list of principals was announced. Of these, the greatest interest was shown in Mr. Santley, who sang the Prophet music in a manner that aroused the greatest enthusiasm. Miss Agnes Nicholls was the soprano, Miss Hilda Wilson the contralto, and Mr. Charles Saunders the tenor soloist. The large chorus was drawn from Cheltenham, Gloucester, Stroud, Tewkesbury, &c. Assistance was given in the quartets, &c., by Miss Palmer, Miss Lane, Miss Stephens, Mr. Gridley, Mr. C. Eynon Morgan, and Mr. W. E. Davies.

Local musicians heard with regret of the death of Mr. Thomas Hackwood, which took place at Stroud on the 12th ult. As organist of the parish church and conductor of the Stroud Choral Society, Mr. Hackwood did much for music in the district. He was a pupil of Dr. C. Harford Lloyd, when he was organist of Gloucester Cathedral, and a Fellow of the Royal College of Organists. He was only thirty-nine years of age.

MUSIC IN LIVERPOOL AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The Philharmonic Society offered an interesting scheme at their concert of the 4th ult., when excellent renderings were given of Schubert's 'Unfinished' Symphony, Humperdinck's 'Hänsel and Gretel,' and Tschaïkowsky's 'Romeo and Juliet' overtures, the latter being presented for the first time at these concerts. Mr. Arthur W. Payne played Spohr's 'Dramatic' Violin Concerto in a particularly artistic manner. Mr. Payne has richness of tone and that desideratum, 'soul,' besides an accomplished technical faculty. Mr. Charles Reynolds played as an oboe solo a Fantasia on 'Dinorah.' Miss Annie Nelson, called upon at short notice, gained well-deserved applause by her charming vocalisation. Dr. Cowen conducted with his usual resourcefulness. The twelfth concert of the same Society occurred on the 18th ult., when Part I. was allocated to Sullivan's 'Golden Legend,' with Madame Emily Squire, Miss Florence Oliver, Mr. Lloyd Chandos, and Mr. Watkin Mills as solo vocalists. I should be lacking in proper appreciation were not mention now made of the particularly interesting concert of the Societa Armonica, which took place on February 12. Under Mr. Akeroyd's able conduct the orchestra gave enlightened readings of Beethoven's Eighth Symphony, Dvorák's Legend (Op. 59), and Mendelssohn's 'The Midsummer Night's Dream' overture. Miss Lillie Wormald, a soprano singer of quickly increasing popularity in Liverpool, gave a Scena from Donizetti's 'Lucia di Lammermoor' with much artistic feeling, and her second item, an excerpt from 'Figaro,' was sung in really admirable fashion. Mr. Walter Hatton (violoncello) played Saint-Saëns's Concerto in A minor, and Boellman's Symphonic Variations. This concert was one of the most interesting given by this quietly-conducted, but admirably-directed, organisation.

The fourth 'Ladies'' concert of the Liverpool Orchestral Society took place at the Philharmonic Hall on the 15th ult., when chief interest centred in the first performance in Liverpool of the 'Prelude and Angel's Farewell' from Dr. Elgar's 'Dream of Gerontius.' This singularly beautiful, suggestive, and imaginative music was played by the able orchestra of this remarkable Society with a fine appreciation of its composer's meaning, and a breadth of effect deserving of warm praise. Mr. A. E. Rodewald, the industrious honorary conductor, is to be congratulated also on the excellent performance he obtained of Tschaïkowsky's Symphony, No. 5, in E minor. Miss Pauline St. Angelo played Saint-Saëns's Pianoforte Concerto in B minor with charm, and the talented young artist was recalled several times. Miss Lillie Wormald was the vocalist.

Mr. Ernst Schiever's concerts are invariably fraught with the maximum interest, and that which took place on the 8th ult. was no exception to the rule. Mr. Schiever, in conjunction with his friends, Mr. V. V. Akeroyd, Mr. C. Courvoisier, and Mr. Walter Hatton, presented Glazounow's Fifth Quartet (in D), and, with the addition of Mr. Isidor Cohn at the pianoforte, Brahms's Quintet in F minor (Op. 34), Mr. Schiever played Max Bruch's beautiful 'In memoriam.' The distinguished violinist was, in tone and sympathy, at his best.

Miss Charlotte Davies, a talented pupil of the late Madame Schumann, gave a pianoforte and violin recital, assisted by Mr. Theodore Lawson, at the College of Music, on February 24. Miss Davies is a pianist possessing great natural talent.

The annual concert of the Cymric Vocal Union was given on the 8th ult., at Hope Hall. This excellent choir acquitted themselves admirably, whilst Miss Helen Jaxon sang with her usual taste Dr. Cowen's 'Snowflakes,' and other ballads. The other soloists were Miss L. Teify Davies, Mr. Meurig James, Mr. Walter Hatton (violoncellist). Mr. J. T. Jones directed the choir, and Mr. Robert Harvey acted as accompanist.

The Wirral Amateur Orchestral Society gave their second concert of the season in the Music Hall, Birkenhead, on the 19th ult., when the works of Dvorák, Suk, and Doring were drawn upon, under the able direction of Mr. Ernst Schiever. Mr. F. Weingærtner was the violinist, Miss Evelyn Barry, the violoncellist, and Mrs. T. Fletcher, the solo-pianist. Mr. F. Austin sang 'Die Ehre Gottes aus der Natur' (Beethoven), 'Alt Heidelberg' (Jensen), in addition to young Mr. Cyril Meir Scott's dramatic 'Helen of Kirkconnel'—a notable and strongly coloured ballad, the first performance of which I noted in my last letter. The Students' concert at the College of Music passed off with something like éclat, under the skilled conductorship of Mr. Carl Courvoisier. Its orchestral features were Beethoven's overture to 'Prometheus' and Mozart's Symphony in E flat major, and the young musicians deserve more than a passing word of encouragement. Mr. Johannes Weingærtner's annual concert took place at the Liverpool Institute on the 10th ult., in the presence of a numerous and appreciative audience. Mr. Weingærtner was assisted by Messrs. Fridolm Weingærtner, Finger, Wright, A. H. Scott, Caradog Roberts, and others. The 'Scottish' concert at the Philharmonic Hall, on the 7th ult., was largely attended. The band of the 2nd Highland Light Infantry were the staple attraction, though the Manchester 'Scottish' Choir won many plaudits by reason of their excellent part-singing. The soloists were Miss Flora Donaldson, Miss M. Browning Dickson, Mr. John A. Robertson, and Mr. Mackenzie Murdoch, with Mr. Carl H. Miller as accompanist.

In last month's notes I was led into an error of statement by reason of a too close following of the pro-season circular, issued by the Liverpool Orchestral Society. The programme provided on February 22 was chiefly occupied with Wagner's 'Faust' overture, the Variations by Brahms on the 'St. Anthony' Chorale of Haydn, and Dvorák's Symphony in G, No. 4, and not with the items originally named on this busy Society's forecast.

MUSIC IN MANCHESTER.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The forty-fourth season of the Hallé Subscription Concerts has been extremely successful. At almost every one of the twenty meetings the Hall was crowded, frequently to inconvenience; and the applause during and after the performances on the 13th ult., proved the entire satisfaction of the public with the general arrangements. For that closing night a very liberal provision was made, the programme commencing with the wonderful 'Midsummer Night's Dream' overture of Mendelssohn, and concluding with that masterpiece of Beethoven, the 'Eroica' Symphony; and anything finer than the rendering of both works could scarcely be imagined. Mr. (now Dr.) Brodsky was thoroughly in sympathy with Bach in his playing of that master's Violin Concerto in A minor, and did all he could to interest us in the Sinding work in the major mode of the same key. A strong disinclination of the lovers of music to take leave till October of our wonderfully improved band brought a large gathering to the annual concert of the 20th ult. in aid of the benevolent orchestra fund, but probably a more attractive selection of works might have been even more alluring. Glancing through some of the schemes of recent meetings, we find that Dr. Cowen's 'Phantasy of Life and Love' was given, for the first time here, on February 27, when we enjoyed some most excellent pianoforte-playing by Mr. Wilhem Backhaus; and that on March 6th, for the nineteenth time, the 'Faust' of Berlioz was relied upon with a confidence which was thoroughly justified.

At the last of the Brodsky recitals of chamber music, some inconvenience was caused by the sudden illness which prevented Mr. Siloti's fulfilment of his engagement; but the repetition of Tschaïkowsky's quartet and of Busoni's violin and piano duet (Op. 36, No. 2), so lovingly interpreted by Mr. Brodsky and Mr. Dayas, was not unwelcome; and the large audience led to the hope that the aid which these meetings bring to the sustentation fund of our Royal College may be even greater than in any preceding season.

For the last of the Harrison gatherings, on the 7th ult., a large provision of singers and soloists was made, including Madame Clara Butt, Mr. Kennerley Rumford, and Madame Amy Sherwin. Mr. Lane also has bidden farewell, for a time, to his friends, who clustered round him on the first evening of March in undiminished numbers. But, happily, we have not yet done with Dr. Pyne's Saturday evening organ performances at the Town Hall, where Dr. Peace (of St. George's Hall, Liverpool) gave two extra recitals on February 24 and 25, introducing many pieces hitherto unknown here. It is very good news for the lovers of the 'king of instruments' that the magnificent Willis organ now being erected (through the liberality of Mrs. Rylands) in the new Whitworth Hall of Owens College, will occasionally attract to this city many of our best players.

The charm of the meetings of Dr. Watson's Vocal Society is often greatly enhanced through the revival of some ancient classic much more frequently extolled than heard; and the polished rendering of Palestrina's Missa Papæ Marcelli, on the 19th ult., was as pleasurable to the listeners as the work itself evidently was to the singers.

MUSIC IN NORTHUMBERLAND AND DURHAM

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

A very creditable performance of Mendelssohn's 'Hymn of Praise' was given in the Masonic Hall, Morpeth, on February 21, by the Morpeth Choral Society, under the conductorship of Mr. Thomas Robinson. The solos were very ably sung by Miss Janet Reed, Mrs. Rutherford and Mr. J. W. Coward, and the choruses were given with precision and good effect.

On February 26, the Alnwick Choral Union produced Gaul's 'Holy City' in the Corn Exchange, Alnwick, Mr. C. E. Moore conducting. Solos and choruses—the former entrusted to Miss Maggie Wilson, Mrs. Robson, Mr. Charles Blow, and Mr. Arthur Lambert—were well sung, and the work was listened to with evident enjoyment by a large audience.

The National Telephone Vocal Society gave the second Subscription concert of its third season in the Town Hall, Newcastle-on-Tyne, on the 5th ult., producing on the occasion Sterndale Bennett's 'May Queen' and Sir Frederick Bridge's 'Battle of the Clampherdown.' The chorus appeared to greatest advantage in the first-named cantata, but evidence of careful training was perceptible in all the choral work. The soloists were Miss Gertrude Woodall, Miss Cluly Alderson, Mr. Anderson Nicol, and Mr. Hargreaves Hudson, all of whom acquitted themselves most satisfactorily. Mr. George Dodds conducted, Mr. H. Yeaman Dodds was the organist, and Mr. H. M. Renwick the pianist.

The annual invitation concert of the Northumberland Orchestral Society was given in the Town Hall, Newcastle, on the 10th ult. The principal work performed was Mendelssohn's 'Scotch' Symphony, an excellent interpretation of which was secured. Mr. Robert Smith, jun., gave an admirable performance of the solo part in Mozart's Clarinet Concerto. The vocalist was Miss Jenny Taggart, and Mr. J. H. Beers conducted.

The Newcastle Musical Society gave its tenth concert of Chamber Music, in the Grand Assembly Rooms, Newcastle, on the 12th ult., when a very capable performance of Mozart's Clarinet Quintet was given by Mr. R. A. Smith (clarinet), Mr. Alfred Wall, Miss F. Davis, Mr. Joseph Perry and Miss H. Page. Other works performed were Schumann's Fantasiestucke (Op. 73), for piano and violin, Kalliwoda's Introduction and Variations for clarinet solo, and Brahms's Sonata (Op. 100), for pianoforte and violin, the pianist being Mr. Oscar Cohen. Miss Emily Forster was the vocalist.

On the same evening, the Gateshead Vocal Society gave a performance of Goring Thomas's 'The Swan and the Skylark,' in the Town Hall, Gateshead, which, taken as a whole, was hardly equal to the Society's previous efforts. The soloists were Madame Jeannette Rainè, Miss Eleanor Wayman, Mr. Edwin Kellett, and Mr. Herbert Brown, and Mr. Newton Laycock conducted as usual.

A more successful concert was that of the Jarrow Philharmonic Society, which took place in the Mechanics' Hall, Jarrow, on the 13th ult., and at which a sacred cantata, entitled 'The Annunciation,' from the pen of Mr. J. E. Jeffries, the conductor of the Society, was produced. The work is tuneful and interesting, and the performance was eminently successful, the choir, especially, being possessed with a desire to do the composer justice. The soloists were Miss Perceval Allen, Miss Ada Shaw, Mr. J. W. Coward, and Mr. Hargreaves Hudson. Mr. Jeffries, who conducted, was heartily congratulated on the success of his work.

The tenth annual concert of the Durham College of Science Choral Society took place in the Lovaine Hall, Newcastle, on the 18th ult., when Mr. Goring Thomas's 'Sun Worshippers,' Dr. Eaton Faning's 'The Miller's Wooing,' and portions of Mr. Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha,' were performed, under the careful and efficient conductorship of Mr. W. G. Whittaker.

Also, on the 18th ult., the Sunderland Philharmonic Society gave, in the Victoria Hall, Sunderland, the fourth portion of Haydn's 'Seasons' (Winter), Liszt's setting of the 13th Psalm, and a miscellaneous programme. The principals were Madame Sobrino, Mr. William Green, and Mr. H. Lane Wilson, whose abilities were clearly demonstrated in Haydn's tuneful work. Mr. Green gave a remarkably fine rendering of the difficult solo part in Liszt's Psalm, which was on the whole the most enjoyable feature of the concert. The choruses in both works were well sung, and the orchestra was eminently satisfactory. Mr. N. Kilburn conducted with his customary skill.

For its final concert of the season, on the 9th ult., the South Shields Choral Society gave, in the Royal Assembly Hall, South Shields, Rossini's 'Stabat Mater,' and Brahms's 'Song of Destiny.' The soloists, Miss Ruth Lamb, Miss Violet Simpson, Mr. Henry Turnpenny, and Mr. Charles Knowles, acquitted themselves creditably, and the concert in other respects was very successful. Mr. M. Fairs conducted.

The most important concert of the month was that given in the Town Hall, Newcastle, on the 19th ult., by the Newcastle and Gateshead Choral Union. The works performed—'The Sleeping Beauty,' 'The Butterfly's Ball,' 'The Dream of Endymion,' and the 'Ode to the Passions'—were all from the pen of Dr. F. H. Cowen, who personally conducted the performances. The principals, all of whom were distinctly successful, were Miss Helen Jaxon, Miss Edna Thornton, Mr. William Green, and Mr. William Thornton. Mr. Green especially distinguished himself in 'The Dream of Endymion.' The splendid chorus of the Union and the Hallé Orchestra gave a magnificent account of the choral and orchestral portions of the works, all of which, with the exception of 'The Sleeping Beauty,' were fresh to Newcastle. Dr. Cowen received quite an ovation, rounds of applause greeting his appearance, and the utmost enthusiasm prevailed throughout the evening. The Choral Union is doing a splendid work in this district, and its conductor, Mr. J. M. Preston, and his committee, are to be warmly commended for the broad-minded policy which they are pursuing.

MUSIC IN NOTTINGHAM AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The last of the Nottingham orchestral concerts to be conducted by Mr. Henry J. Wood took place on the 6th ult. The programme comprised Mendelssohn's 'Ruy Blas' overture and Schubert's Unfinished Symphony. Excerpts from Wagner supplied the remainder of the programme. The vocal numbers were contributed by Miss Florence Schmidt.

On the 13th ult., the West Bridgford Choral Society gave a very excellent programme, the chief number of which was Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha's Wedding-Feast.'

The Derby Choral Union's concert, on the 18th ult., was noticeable for one of Handel's Coronation Anthems, and the 'Death of Minnehaha' (Coleridge-Taylor), besides including Mozart's motet, 'O God, when Thou appearest.' The orchestra also contributed Grieg's 'Peer Gynt' suite.

On the 20th ult., Mr. Henry J. Wood conducted 'Elijah,' and brought the season and his connection with the Nottingham Sacred Harmonic Society to a conclusion. The work of the Nottingham St. Cecilia Choir is too good to be passed in silence; comprised in their concert on the 10th ult., were Mendelssohn's motet 'Surrexit Pastor Bonus,' a chorus from Schumann's 'Paradise and the Peri,' and the 'Spinning Song' from the 'Flying Dutchman' (Wagner). Among the churches, choral work has been well represented in Nottingham, Bridge's 'Cradle of Christ' was performed at Halifax Place Chapel on the 10th ult., and Stainer's 'Crucifixion' at St. John's Church on the 16th ult.

MUSIC IN OXFORD.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

There has been no lack of music here this term, in fact, concerts and musical entertainments have been planted so thickly upon us, that some of them have been necessarily very thinly attended, while others have had to be postponed for the present term altogether. Following our usual custom, we give a 'digest' of the more important concert performances. On January 30, Miss Leila Taylor, a very promising young violinist, and daughter of the late Dr. Taylor, organist of New College, gave a very enjoyable chamber concert in the Assembly Room of the Town Hall, assisted by Miss Fanny Davies and Mr. Edward Iles. Miss Taylor's principal solo was the 'Air Varié' (Op. 22) by Vieuxtemps, while Miss Fanny Davies's contributions were Nos. 2, 3, and 6 of Schumann's Novellettes. Mr. Iles gave a couple of songs by Brahms, and later in the programme 'The Pipes of Pan' by Dr. Elgar.

Next came an excellent concert on Shrove Tuesday, in the Town Hall, under the auspices of the Musical Club, when the first item in the programme was Beethoven's ever-welcome Septet, which was admirably rendered. We must not omit to mention a bassoon solo, 'Adagio and Rondo Ungarese in C minor,' by Weber, well played by Mr. E. F. James.

On Ash Wednesday, the Professor of Music, Sir Hubert Parry, discoursed in the Sheldonian Theatre, on 'The Differentiation of Style in Music,' this being a continuation of his former lecture, and on the same lines.

On February 27, at the Town Hall, under the auspices of the Musical Club, the 'Richard Gompertz' String Quartet gave a chamber concert; the principal works constituting the programme were Tschaïkowsky's Quartet in E flat minor (Op. 30), and Mozart's Quartet in D minor. Miss Gleeson White sang very beautifully two songs, 'Die Allmacht,' by Schubert, and air, 'Divinités du Styx,' from the 'Alceste' of Gluck.

On March 3, another good chamber concert was given in the New Examination School, this time under the auspices of the Musical Union, when the Schiever String Quartet artistically entertained a capital audience; the two works forming the back-bone of the programme being Beethoven's Quartet in B flat major (Op. 130), and Mozart's in C major (No. 17).

The great event of the present term was the performance in the Town Hall, on the 6th ult., of Bach's St. Matthew Passion, sung by the united forces of the Choral and Philharmonic Society and also of the Bach choir, accompanied by the orchestra, under the able conductorship of Dr. Allen, organist of New College. The Town Hall was crowded. It was well known that great care was being bestowed upon its preparation, and the greatest interest was shown in the rendering of the work. The Matthew Passion of the great Leipzic Cantor is not to be attacked with a light heart, quite the contrary, for it bristles with difficulties unknown to most oratorios, and it is only those who are in the thick of the fight who realise to the full the immensity of those difficulties. To say that they were one and all surmounted in the present performance would obviously be carrying praise too far, but we say at once that the slips were comparatively few and far between, and that it is many a year since such excellent chorus singing has been heard in Oxford—indeed, we doubt if ever before. The response of the voices to the beat of the conductor was prompt on nearly all occasions, and they succeeded in bringing forth a volume of excellent tone. Needless to say, the soloists did excellently well. Space does not permit of details, but we tender to Dr. Allen and his triple force our heartiest congratulations. Many 'ups and downs' have fallen to the lot of the Oxford Choral and Philharmonic Societies in recent years; the Bach Choir also (though as yet only a young Society here) has not been able to proceed upon a path which a recent American writer has described as 'pecuniarily level'; yet, in spite of all this, the present performance should amply prove what excellent results it is possible to achieve by amalgamation and co-operation under a thoroughly excellent enthusiastic conductor, and if the Bach Choir could see the way to a future joining of hands, for the highest artistic aims, with the Societies we have mentioned, there would then be a brilliant future before what might be designated as the 'Oxford Oratorio Society.' We trust, and firmly believe, that there are a very large number with us in the expression of these views.

MUSIC IN SHEFFIELD AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The district societies have been to the fore during the past month, and the various performances which have taken place have, in the aggregate, proved the gratifying fact that the musical revival of the last decade is still gathering both in force and extent. Small colliery villages, more pretentious market towns and scattered rural districts are alike affected by this awakening, and possess their own choral and orchestral societies. A typical instance is that of the Chapeltown and District Sacred Harmonic Society, which, though older than most similar district organisations, being now twenty years old, has developed wonderfully during the latter half of its existence. Mendelssohn's Forty-second Psalm, Beethoven's 'Mount of Olives,' and Rossini's 'Stabat Mater,' performed on the 11th ult., make up a 'triple bill,' of which any society might be proud. Mr. Thos. Bool, who conducted, Mr. H. Parkes, the leader of an excellent band, and Mr. F. Senior, the organist, contributed to the success of the concert. The principals were Miss Clara North, Miss Lilian Hovey, Mr. Leyland, and Mr. J. Browning. Another Society flourishing in the same rather grimy but enthusiastic district is the Rawmarsh and Parkgate Choral Union. A thoroughly admirable performance of Mendelssohn's 'St. Paul,' on the 6th ult., gave evidence that, under Mr. A. E. Simmonite, the quality of the chorus-singing of this go-ahead Society is still on the up-grade. Doncaster, the type of another class of musical centre, is also very much alive. Mr. Thomas Brameld now directs the Doncaster Musical Society, which, in Mr. Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha' (complete), performed on the 13th ult., reached a high level of excellence. Chorus, band, and soloists (Madame Goodall, Mr. H. Brearley, and Mr. C. Knowles) shared in a notable success. The bleak and scattered district of Penistone boasts an energetic choral society, which, under Mr. J. Cooper's able direction, does excellent work, Haydn's 'Creation' being given on the 19th ult. The Suburban societies at Burngreave and Norton Lees have also given successful concerts, the former under Mr. H. C. Jackson, with 'Elijah,' and the latter (under Mr. H. Reynolds) with Wallace's 'Maritana.'

Oratorio in church is another encouraging sign of the times, the labours of Mr. J. C. V. Stacey at St. John's (Ranmoor), and Mr. J. A. Rodgers at St. Mary's, having recently found many emulators. At the first-named church, Mendelssohn's 'Christus' and Stainer's 'Crucifixion,' and at the latter, Mendelssohn's 'Hymn of Praise,' on an extensive scale, have been among the month's musical doings.

At the Sheffield Musical Union's concert, held in the Albert Hall on the 18th ult., the greater part of Wagner's 'Flying Dutchman' was performed. The ladies in the Spinning Chorus, and the basses and tenors in 'Helmsman, leave the watch,' were respectively successful, and the other choral items were admirably sung. The soloists were Miss Estella Linden, Miss Nellie Chisholm, Mr. Thomas Thomas, and Mr. Andrew Black. Mr. W. S. Jessop at the organ and Mr. J. H. Parkes at the head of a fine band were the efficient lieutenants of Dr. Coward, who conducted. At Rotherham, on the following evening, the Drill Hall was filled to hear the Rotherham Choral Society perform Bach's Mass in B minor and Mendelssohn's 'Walpurgis Night.' Mr. Thomas Brameld, the veteran conductor of this sturdy body of choristers, was largely responsible for the choral success attained in each work. Miss Alice Lakin, Mr. Webster Miller, and Mr. Fowler Burton were the principals, and Mr. H. Parkin led the orchestra.

The latter portion of the month included a number of attractive fixtures, among them being the concert of the Barnsley St. Cecilia Society on the 20th ult., at which 'The Golden Legend' was performed, under Dr. Coward, and the Good Friday concert of the Sheffield orchestra, when, assisted by members of the Sheffield Musical Union, and directed by Dr. Coward, Spohr's 'Last Judgment' was performed. The same work was also given at Oxford Street Chapel on the 23rd ult., where, under Mr. Joseph Kaye's direction, musical services are becoming of increasing importance.

In connection with the University College free lectures, Dr. Coward is delivering a series of six discourses on 'The rise and development of English music.'

MUSIC IN STAFFORDSHIRE.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

On the 11th ult., a performance of Mendelssohn's oratorio 'Elijah' was given by the joint choruses of the Stafford and Uttoxeter Choral Unions in the Borough Hall, Stafford, under the conductorship of Mr. Herbert Drury, with conspicuous success. It was not absolutely perfect; for one reason, the hall is not lofty enough for a chorus of 200 voices and orchestra. The band of 40 instrumentalists was under the leadership of Mr. H. T. Freeman, of Birmingham, and Mr. J. Jackson presided at the organ. The soloists, who all sustained their parts in a manner worthy of high commendation, were Miss Estella Linden, Miss Alice Lakin, Mr. Charles Tree, and Mr. Fred Fallas. Mrs. Harry Ford, Miss Edith Briddon, Mr. Geo. Noon, and Mr. J. W. Rowland appeared as principals in the concerted numbers with success.

MUSIC IN YORKSHIRE.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

LEEDS.

Chamber music in a concert hall, where one is accustomed to witness a large chorus and orchestra disporting themselves, is necessarily at a disadvantage, and Brahms's String Quartet in B flat, played with the utmost sympathy by Mr. Kruse's quartet-party, seemed out of place in the spacious and resonant Leeds Town Hall, at the subscription concert on February 26. The addition of the pianoforte (Miss Fanny Davies) in Dvorák's Quintet made an appreciable difference in point of effectiveness, and Miss Davies's solos, in which she displayed even more than her usual warmth and brilliance, were thoroughly enjoyed. Miss Agnes Nicholls's interesting singing was not the least notable feature of the concert. On the 4th ult., Mr. Frederick Dawson returned to his native town to give a pianoforte recital, whose long, exacting, and varied programme showed the extent of his resources. His phenomenal execution and memory have long been features of his performances, and to them he has now added a greater thoughtfulness and increased restraint. On the following day, the Leeds Symphony Society, whose labours are primarily for the musical education of its own members, gave interesting performances of two concertos for two pianofortes, Bach's in C minor, and Mozart's only work of the kind, in E flat, the soloists being Messrs. Bernard Johnson and Ernest Sharpe. Mr. A. E. Grimshaw conducted, and Mrs. E. Taylor was the vocalist. The last of the experimental series of Free Orchestral Concerts, which have been given at the cost of a few public-spirited citizens, took place on the 8th ult, Mr. Edgar Haddock, the conductor, has not only given his services, but has contributed to the expenses, and the majority of the orchestra receive no fees, so that the only persons who derive any pecuniary benefit from the concerts are the Corporation, who retain the shillings charged for admission to the gallery. At this concert, Maurer's once famous concertante for four violins, cleverly played by four young violinists, Wagner's 'Meistersinger' overture, and Strauss's always welcome 'Blue Danube' waltz, were among the most enjoyable things in a very varied programme, which was thoroughly enjoyed by a crowded and enthusiastic audience. The excellent 'Bohemian Concerts,' where chamber music is heard under the favourable condition of a room not too large to destroy all sense of intimacy, to which many would add the pleasurable liberty to smoke, came to an end for the season on the 12th ult., when Schumann's quartet in A minor, and Tschaïkowsky's in D, together with Haydn's 'Emperor' variations, were heard. On the same date, a miscellaneous concert was given by Mr. Christensen, a local pianist. On the 19th ult., the Leeds Choral Union did honour to both itself and Sir Hubert Parry by giving, under his direction, a worthy performance of 'King Saul,' before a large audience. Miss Agnes Nicholls, Madame Clara Butt, Messrs. John Coates, Kennerley Rumford, and R. Mintland were the principals.

BRADFORD.

As at Leeds, so at Bradford, orchestral music for the masses is on its trial. The Bradford Permanent Orchestra has been in existence a good many years, and has now a band of over eighty which, under Dr. Cowen, has reached the highest degree of efficiency. While its performances have been good, its programmes have mingled the useful with the sweet, yet the public support has fallen off, and those who attend the concerts do not always attend to the music—at least, in the more expressive places, where one is the unwilling listener to much whispered conversation about matters quite foreign to the music. On February 22, Sir A. C. Mackenzie came to conduct some of his music, the bright 'Britannia' overture, and pieces from 'The Troubadour' and the 'Coriolanus' music, and Mr. F. Dawson played Dr. Cowen's clever Concertstück. At the last concert of the season, on March 15, the assistance of the Festival Choral Society gave variety to the programme, and exceptionally finished performances of the first 'Peer Gynt' suite and the 'Lohengrin' prelude indicated the high degree of efficiency attained by the band under Dr. Cowen's teaching. On February 28, Mr. S. Midgley gave one of his chamber concerts, and followed his own precedent in introducing something of special interest, César Franck's fine violin sonata, and Dr. Walford Davies's beautiful work of the same class, in E minor (Op. 5), which were sympathetically played by Mr. Dunn and the concert-giver, the vocalist being Miss Elizabeth Andrews. On the 7th ult., the subscription series came to a close with a fine all-round performance, under Dr. Cowen, of 'The Flying Dutchman.' The principals were Miss Ella Russell, who was quite at her best as the heroine, Mr. Andrew Black, Mr. Ben Davies, Madame Cockcroft, and Mr. Thomas Meux, who was an admirable representative of Daland. The chorus of the Bradford Festival Society was, on the whole, well up to its difficult task, and the Hallé orchestra was, of course, at home in a work so suited to its powers. On the 11th ult., the Bradford Old Choral Society gave an exceedingly good performance of 'Elijah,' the chorus, under Mr. Hartwell Robertshaw, singing with spirit and fresh, vocal tone. Madame Duma, a contralto who came as a substitute and whose name did not transpire, Mr. William Green, and Mr. Watkin Mills were the principals.

OTHER YORKSHIRE TOWNS.

The concert of the Huddersfield Choral Society, on the 7th ult., is dealt with by another pen, so I may pass on to mention the two subscription concerts on February 25 and the 11th ult. At the former, Dr. Richter conducted Glazounow's Sixth Symphony, and Schumann's Pianoforte Concerto, which, much as we love it, one inclines to regard as one of the most familiar of all instrumental works, was heard 'for the first time at Huddersfield!' The soloists was Mrs. E. Haley, a clever local pianist, and Miss Ethel Wood was the vocalist. On the 11th ult., an opportunity was afforded to local talent, the concert being entitled a 'Grand Huddersfield Night,' in which the Glee and Madrigal and Philharmonic Societies, both under Mr. Ibeson's direction, together with the borough organist, Mr. Pearson, and other musicians of the town, took part. The Glee and Madrigal Society (should not the title be inverted, on grounds of both history and merit?) gave a concert on its own account on the 4th ult., when a programme of the usual type was offered to its supporters.

At Halifax, the Choral Society gave a most interesting, but wearisomely prolonged, programme on February 28. The choral works were Dr. Cowen's setting of Collins's ode, 'The Passions,' which was exceedingly well sung under Mr. English's conductorship, and if Dr. Harford Lloyd's fine motet, 'The Righteous live,' was less effective, it was because the division into eight parts betrayed a lack of sufficient weight and beauty of tone in some sections of the chorus. There was a fine performance of the 'Pathetic' symphony, but the most notable thing of the evening was the exceedingly fine reading Dr. Richter gave of the 'Midsummer Night's Dream' overture, revealing points which are obvious enough in the score, but which our native conductors have hitherto taken pains to conceal. On the 13th ult., the Halifax Orchestral Society showed signs of distinct progress made under its new conductor, Mr. H. Van Dyk. Beethoven's First Symphony was most creditably performed, and Schubert's 'Rosamunde' was another marked success. The leader, Mr. Sutcliffe, played Wieniawski's Violin Concerto in D, and Miss Beetlestone sang very pleasantly.

Another local orchestra which has of late attained considerable efficiency is that of Dewsbury, where, however, to judge from the audience assembled on the 6th ult., there is no pressing demand for anything of the kind. Some of Mr. Edward German's music, including two movements from the 'Seasons' Suite, Dr. Cowen's 'English Dances,' Sir. A. C. Mackenzie's 'Little Minister' Overture, and Smetana's 'Lustspiel' Overture, were well played under the direction of Mr. G. H. Hirst, who, unhappily, is compelled, for private reasons, to give up his conductorship. The Harrogate Choral Society gave, under Mr. C. L. Naylor's direction, a good performance of Stanford's 'Revenge,' on the 14th ult., together with the Epilogue from Dr. E. W. Naylor's cantata, 'Arthur, the King,' the whole of which is promised for next season. The most striking feature of the concert was perhaps the introduction of the last two movements from Brahms's Second Symphony, the very creditable playing of which showed Mr. Naylor's power to make the most of a scratch band and a single rehearsal. Miss Marie Brema's dramatic singing of the 'Fiancée du Timbalier' was another interesting feature in the concert. On the 13th ult., the Morley Choral Society gave, under Mr. Alfred Benton, a careful and sympathetic performance of Parry's cantata, 'A Song of Darkness and Light,' Miss Jenny Taggart being the soloist. Coupled with it were the 1st and 2nd parts of 'The Creation,' in which Messrs. Riley and Tree also took part as principals.

On the 14th ult., the Hull Harmonic Society gave a concert, the programme of which was entirely given up to Sullivan's music, the principal works being 'The Martyr of Antioch' and the 'In Memoriam' Overture. The chorus-singing, under Mr. Walter Porter, was good. The principals were Miss Agnes Nicholls, Miss Jessie King, and Messrs. Copland and Beaumont. Verdi's Requiem, together with Schubert's 'unfinished' Symphony and Handel's 'Zadok, the Priest,' were given by the Hull Vocal Society, under Dr. Geo. Smith, on the 18th ult. The chorus has seldom, if ever, done better work, and the principals, Miss Maggie Jaques, Miss Muriel Foster, Mr. Harry Stubbs, and Mr. Joseph Lycett, were efficient.

The York Musical Society's concert, on the 18th ult., was given under adverse circumstances, the conductor, Mr. T. Noble, being unavoidably absent. An able substitute was procured in his predecessor, Canon Pemberton, who gave a good account of Bach's 'Sleepers, wake' and a Haydn Symphony Elgar's 'Light of Life' was less adequately performed. The principals were Miss Helen Jaxon, Madame Dewhurst, Mr. C. Saunders, and Mr. Mansell Lewis.

Miscellaneous.

A highly meritorious performance of so important a work as Dvorák's Mass in D, by the New Torquay Musical Association, on the 5th ult., reflected much credit on the hon. conductor, Mr. T. Henry Webb, and the band (led by Mr. J. Sparke) and chorus of 120 performers, who responded so well to his baton. The soloists were Miss Mabel Manson, a young New Zealand soprano of much promise, Miss Gertrude Hicks, Mr. Albert Collings, and Mr. Walter Belgrove. The remainder of the programme consisted of Mendelssohn's G minor Pianoforte Concerto (the solo part played by Mrs. W. H. Mortimer), Sterndale Bennett's Parisina overture, and Schubert's Unfinished Symphony—an excellent selection. These few words of appreciation of the Association's efforts for the cause of music in the delightful South Devon watering-place, must include a brief reference to the long list of cantatas, symphonies, pianoforte concertos, overtures, &c., which have been performed since 1892. Madrigals, too, such as the Silver Swan of old Orlando Gibbons, appear largely in the survey of that decade. May there be no decadence of the enthusiasm and artistic earnestness which so strongly animate Mr. Webb and his colleagues at Torquay!

Mr. Thomas F. Dunhill, an assistant music master at Eton College, delivered a very interesting lecture upon 'Henry Purcell,' before a crowded audience, at the Albert Institute, Windsor, on the 4th ult. The subject was made the more attractive by musical illustrations furnished by several friends, including Miss Delia Mason and the Rev. T. B. Everett, Minor Canon of St. George's Chapel, as soloists, with a small chorus and a string orchestra. Mr. Dunhill accompanied on the pianoforte, and played several short melodious pieces. 'Mad Bess,' 'Come, if you dare!' and selections from 'Dido and Æneas,' and 'Dioclesian,' were also included. A hearty vote of thanks was given at the close to the lecturer and the performers. Dr. C. H. Lloyd was an admirable chairman.

A General Meeting of the Union of Directors of Music in Secondary Schools will be held in the large hall of the Royal College of Organists (Hart Street, Bloomsbury), on the 30th inst., at 10.30 a.m., under the presidency of Dr. C. H. Lloyd, Precentor of Eton. Those who wish to be enrolled as members of the Union (of which the annual subscription has been fixed at three shillings and sixpence) are invited to communicate with the Hon. Secretary, the Rev. Dr. S. J. Rowton, The Close, Bradfield, Reading.

The Board of Trinity College, London, announces the appointment of four examiners to conduct this year's examinations in practical subjects, in India and the Colonies—viz.: India, Dr. W. Creser; South Africa, Mr. G. E. Bambridge; Australia, Mr. Charles Edwards; New Zealand and Tasmania, Mr. Alfred Mistowski, Mus.B.

The concert announced to be given at the Royal College of Music, on February 24, and which T.R.H. the Prince and Princess of Wales had intimated their intention of honouring with their presence, had to be postponed in consequence of a case of illness in the College.

The Imperial Grand Opera Company, of which Mr. Kelson Trueman is the director, announced 'a tour of Grand Opera in the Suburbs,' to commence on Easter Monday (March 31). The localities to be visited are Clapham, Brixton, Fulham, Stratford, and New Cross. The artists engaged include Madame Blanche Marchesi, who makes her first appearance in opera in England.

The Kyrle Choir, under the direction of Mr. F. A. W. Docker, gave a performance of 'St. Paul,' in St. Botolph's Church, Aldersgate, on the 12th ult. The solo vocalists were Miss Georgina Dupuis, Miss Ethel Alboun, Mr. John Probert, and Mr. Robert Grein. Dr. Turpin accompanied on the organ.

Dr. Frank J. Sawyer is announced to give, at the Royal College of Organists, on the afternoons (at 3 p.m.) of the 16th and 23rd inst. and May 3, three lectures on Extemporization. A novel feature of these discourses will be the musical illustrations, performed by eminent musicians.

The final competition for Free Open Scholarships at the Royal College of Music, took place on February 22. The following are the names of the successful candidates:—Composition: Thomas P. Fielden (Chichester); Pianoforte: Helen Boyd (Baillieston, N.B.) and Edmund O. N. Phillips (Cheltenham); Singing: Maria Yelland (St. Austell), Frank A. Millward (Birmingham), and Israel Wasserzug (London); Organ: Giles J. Higgins (Bristol) and James Macdougall (Edinburgh); Violin: Henry H. Kinze (London); Violoncello: Adelina S. Lion (London) and Charles H. W. Evans (London).

A lover of Glee-Singing announces that, in order to stimulate the practice of Glee-writing and to mark the present year of Coronation, he intends to offer a Prize of Ten Guineas for the best original Glee. Sir Frederick Bridge, Dr. W. H. Cummings, and Mr. Arthur H. D. Prendergast, have kindly consented to act as Judges, and all particulars of the competition may be obtained of Mr. W. A. Everington, Lealholme, Shawfield Park, Bromley, Kent.

Miss Muriel Foster (contralto), who has unfortunately been compelled to cancel all her many engagements during the last few months through serious illness, hopes to resume her professional work in the present month. Miss Muriel Foster is engaged for the Düsseldorf Musical (Lower Rhine) Festival, when she will sing the part of The Angel in Dr. Elgar's 'The Dream of Gerontius,' besides taking part in Bach's B minor Mass.

Foreign Notes.

Basel.—A new and as yet unpublished Symphony in G major, entitled 'Heroic,' by Hans Huber (the composer of the 'Böcklin' Symphony), has recently been produced. The work, which is in four movements, is intended to illustrate the struggles of a hero in the service of his country, the final movement including a 'Sanctus,' sung by a solo voice, indicative of the apotheosis of the warrior.

Bergamo.—The production of oratorios by Italian composers, stimulated by the success obtained in that art-form by Don Lorenzo Perosi, is growing apace. The completion of two new works is now announced, one entitled 'L'Immacolata,' set to scriptural texts, by Guglielmo Mattioli, the organist of St. Mary's; and another, 'Il Calvario,' by the maestro Parodi, recently performed with much acceptance at Rome. To these may be added a sacred drama in two acts, with a prologue entitled 'Job,' by a priest, Don Giovanni Pagalla.

Bruges.—A grand concert, devoted to the less known works of the late Peter Benoit, given last month under the direction of M. Jules Sabbe, included a remarkably fine 'Epithalame' for a solo voice, with harp and string quartet accompaniment.——A newly-formed choral society, conducted by M. Alphonse Wybo, recently gave its first concert, when an effective interpretation was given of the motet, 'O vos omnes,' by Vittoria, and pieces by Gevaërt and Van Duyse.

Cologne.—At the ninth Gürzenich Concert of the season, under Dr. Wüllner's direction, an enthusiastic reception was given to the new choral ode, 'Frühlingsfeier,' by Anton Urspruch, the performances also including portions from Max Bruch's 'Achilles.' Considerable success was achieved at the Stadt Theater by a new two-act opera, entitled 'La Pompadour,' a melodious and dramatically effective work by the young Hungarian composer, Emanuel Moór, which is likely to make its way in Germany.

Fulda.—A most successful performance of Handel's 'Alexander's Feast' was given recently by the Cecilia Society, under the conductorship of Dr. Kilb.

Forst.—An excellent performance was given, last month, by the Concert Association, of Heinrich Hofmann's choral work 'Editha,' under the direction of Cantor Scraback, and with noted Berlin artists in the solo parts. The performance was so successful that it had to be repeated a few days later.

Hamburg.—The Philharmonic Society, which has numbered Julius Stockhausen and Hans von Bülow amongst its conductors, gave its five-hundredth concert last month. On this occasion, Professor Joachim played Beethoven's Violin Concerto, which he was the first to introduce at this society when making his début here in 1848. The Philharmonic Society was founded in 1828.

Königsberg.—Weigl's once immensely popular, but now apparently forgotten opera, 'Die Schweitzerfamilie,' has been revived at the Stadt Theater, in a somewhat condensed form, with complete success.

Leipzig.—The Singakademie has just celebrated the hundredth anniversary of its foundation with a festival performance of Handelian compositions. The proceedings opened with a prologue, spoken by the author, Herr Albin Mittelbach, after which, Herr Paul Homeyer, the distinguished organist of the Gewandhaus, played the Saxon master's organ concerto in G minor, which was followed by a most impressive rendering by the choir, and with very efficient representatives of the solo parts, of the ode 'Alexander's Feast,' under Herr Wohlgemuth's direction. The Singakademie, founded in 1802 by the Cantor of St. Thomas's, Johann Gottfried Schicht, has numbered amongst its conductors such well-known musicians as Friedrich Schneider, Ferdinand David, Carl Reinecke, and others, and it is a satisfactory sign of the vitality of its organisation that its present active membership (260) is the highest which the venerable Institution has attained for many years.——Felix Weingartner's new trilogy 'Orestes' was produced on February 15, at the Stadt Theater, and with an extremely fine performance, under the poet-composer's direction, achieved a complete success. The work, which in its action follows pretty closely the 'Orestiad' of Æschylus, is practically a music drama in three acts, entitled respectively, 'Agamemnon,' 'The Sacrifice,' and 'The Furies.' Of these, the second proved the most highly impressive. It is the general opinion, that the eminent conductor's latest stage work is also the one in which he shows himself most happily inspired.——The concert of the Riedel Verein, on February 26, was rendered specially interesting by the first performance in Germany of the late Anton Bruckner's grand mass in E minor, and his setting of the 150th Psalm, two very difficult works which, under the direction of Dr. Goehler, produced a profoundly marked impression.

Mannheim.—Considerable success has been obtained by a new opera 'Herbart und Hilda,' by Waldemar von Baussnern, the composer being recalled a number of times at the first performance.

Monte Carlo.—'Le Jongleur de Notre Dame,' a 'miracle' in three acts, Massenet's latest opera, which has just been brought out at the Grand Theatre, has proved a very charming work. The libretto, by Maurice Léna, a professor at the Paris University, is poetical and effective, and the music, admirably adapted to the quaint legend, is throughout melodious and full of animation and colour. A peculiarity of the piece is that it contains only male parts. It was exquisitely mounted, and the performance, under M. Jehin, all that could be desired.

Munich.—At one of the concerts of the Kaim Orchestra, last month, the conductor, Herr Siegmund von Hausegger, introduced two interesting and much appreciated novelties by young, but already favourably known composers. These were, an Idyl, entitled 'Pan,' for grand orchestra, by Hermann Bischoff, having Schiller's 'Die Götter Griechenlands' for its poetic basis; and two movements from a symphony in E minor, by Guido Peters. A new string quartet in G minor, by Hans Koessler, an organist of some note, produced a good impression at its performance by the Miroslaw Weber Quartet Party. Richard Strauss recently conducted a performance, with the co-operation of the Kaim Orchestra, of a number of excerpts from his new opera 'Feuersnoth,' with a success which should bring the production of the work at the Royal Theatre within measurable distance. The composer's father, Franz Strauss, has just celebrated his eightieth birthday. He was for a number of years the leading horn player in the Royal Orchestra, and teacher of that instrument at the Royal Akademie der Tonkunst.

Oberhausen (on Rhine).—The newly-founded Musikverein gave an interesting concert of unaccompanied vocal compositions last month, which included an 'Ecce quomodo,' by the sixteenth century composer Händl, and an eight-part 'Crucifixus,' by Lotti, as well as numbers by Mendelssohn and the talented conductor of the society, Musik-director Steinhauer.

Prague.—The fifth symphony concert of the Czech Philharmonic Society introduced a remarkable new work by Carl Bautzky, viz., a Rhapsody in C minor, in which the composer's rich fancy, original invention, and mastery of orchestral colouring are exhibited to the best advantage.——The talented Prague composer, Ludwig Losták, gave a concert of his compositions, with the co-operation of the Philharmonic orchestra, amongst the most successful of which was a 'musical epic,' entitled Song of Victory.——Fräulein Magda Dvorák, a daughter of the distinguished composer, made her début at a recent concert of the Conservatorium as a concert singer, and in an air from Verdi's 'Aida' proved herself a young artist of considerable attainments.

Rome.—A smartly-written new operetta, 'Il Popò,' is delighting Roman audiences nightly just now, the libretto being from the pen of the Milanese critic, Romeo Carugati, and the music the joint production of the maëstri Grandi and Albertoni.

Venice.—Princess Polignac, an enthusiastic admirer of Wagner, has endowed the municipal orchestra with a fund in order to ensure the continuance of the annual commemorative performances, in front of the Palazzo Vendramin, where the Bayreuth master died.

Warsaw.—A Polish version of the book of Wagner's 'Lohengrin' has just been published from the pen of M. Urbanski, a well-known litterateur.

Zurich.—A new pianoforte quartet, superscribed 'Waldlieder,' by Hans Huber, a melodious and finely-elaborated work, was performed for the first time at one of the recent concerts of the Chamber Music Society.

Brief Summary of Country and Colonial News.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this summary, as the notices are either collated from local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

Bootle.—The fourth subscription concert this season took place, at the Town Hall, on February 21, when the programme included the overtures Gazza Ladra and Preciosa, Pizzicato ('Sylvia'), Delibes, the Ballet music in Gounod's 'Faust,' and Moszkowski's Spanish Dances, Nos. 2 and 5, played by the orchestra. The vocalists were Miss Ada Crossley and Mr. R. Wynne Jones, and Mr. Albert E. Workman conducted.

Bournemouth.—Mr. Charles Fletcher gave his annual concert on the 8th ult., at the Winter Gardens. The chief features of the programme were a Serenade for string orchestra, by Joseph Suk (Op. 6), and Max Bruch's 'Kol Nidrei' for violoncello and orchestra (the solo part played by Miss Maud Fletcher), and the same composer's 'Fantasie Ecossaise' (the solo violin part played by Mr. Fletcher). In all these works the orchestra acquitted itself with much credit. Other artists who assisted were Madame Emily Squire and Mrs. Howard May (vocalists), Miss Miriam Timothy (harp), and Miss Winifred S. Barrett and Mr. H. Holloway (pianoforte).——At the forty-fifth Symphony concert in the Winter Gardens, which took place on the 13th ult., Schubert's Symphony in C, No. 7, was the chief feature. The programme also included Beethoven's overture 'Prometheus,' Wotan's Abschied and Feuerzauber (Die Walküre), sung by Mr. Arthur Walenn, and a 'Coronation March' and 'Legende and Meditation' by Mr. W. H. Speer, the latter given under the composer's direction and for the first time. The rest of the concert was conducted, as usual, by Mr. Dan Godfrey, junr.

Brighton.—The Sacred Harmonic Society gave their third concert of the season on the 11th ult., when the programme consisted of Spohr's 'Last Judgment,' and Handel's 'Acis and Galatea.' The choir acquitted itself with much credit in both works, and the orchestra (led by Mr. W. A. Baker) was also heard to much advantage. The solos in the first work were undertaken successfully by Miss Kate Cherry, Miss Hilda Taylor, Mr. Frank Tebbutt, and Mr. Robert Radford. The same artists (with the exception of Miss Taylor) appeared in Handel's Serenata, Miss Rose Miller taking the part of Damon. Mr. Percy Taylor gave valuable help at the organ, and Mr. Robert Taylor conducted.

Conway.—The Conway Male Voice Choral Society, conducted by Mr. J. P. Griffiths, performed, on the 18th ult., J. H. Maunder's popular cantata, 'The Martyrs.' The principal vocalists were Mrs. Eivion Jones, Mr. W. Vaughan, and Mr. R. Madoc Davies.

Dover.—Mr. H. J. Taylor's sacred cantata, 'The Last Supper,' was given at Christ Church on the 13th ult. The solos were sung by Miss Daisy Boyton and Mr. J. Davies, and the choruses by a contingent from the Dover Choral Union.

Erdington.—The newly-formed Choral and Orchestral Society gave their first concert in the Public Hall on February 19, when Gade's cantata 'The Erl King's Daughter' was the chief feature of the programme. The solo parts were excellently sung by Miss Editha Sankey, Miss Marguerite Gell, and Mr. Hickman-Smith. The choir and orchestra (led by Mr. Reginald Chamberlain) performed their duties with efficiency, and Mr. H. M. Stevenson, junr., conducted with care and skill.

Gravesend.—Mr. Howard Moss gave an interesting lecture on Weber and Schumann at the Gravesend and Milton Literary and Debating Society, on the 6th ult., when he was assisted in the illustrations by Miss Bertha Acworth, Miss Turnbull, and Mr. A. J. Mann (vocalists), Miss Goddard, Miss Daisy Nicholls, and Miss Mabel Boorman (pianists), the first-named pianist giving Weber's Concertstück and Miss Boorman the Concertstück by Schumann.

Hull.—A concert was given at the Literary Institute by the Choral and Orchestral Societies connected with the Institute, on the 13th ult., when Barnby's cantata 'Rebekah' was performed, with Miss Florry Roscoe, Mr. E. Kellett, and Mr. G. W. Haller as principal vocalists. The orchestra also played the Overture 'Masaniello,' Andante from Haydn's Surprise Symphony, and the choir sang the part-songs 'Hark, 'tis the horn of the hunter' (Mackenzie), 'The first day of Spring' and 'The Primrose' (Mendelssohn), and Market Chorus 'Masaniello.' Mr. T. G. Buffey conducted.

Leicester.—Handel's 'Jephtha' was performed by the Highfields Choral Society, on February 27, at the Temperance Hall. The choir sang, on the whole, with great care and fairly good tone, reflecting much credit on the training of the conductor, Mr. C. H. Ellson, and there was a small orchestra led by Mr. G. H. Barker. The principal solo vocalists were Madame Annie Norledge, Miss Marshall Ward, Mr. H. Beaumont, and Mr. H. Dobson, minor parts being undertaken by Miss Annie Green and Mr. A. Stork.——The last of this season's concerts by the Philharmonic Society took place, in the Temperance Hall, on the 13th ult., when Sullivan's 'Martyr of Antioch' was performed, with a miscellaneous selection from the same composer's works. The Choir sang with excellent expression, especially in the unaccompanied chorus, 'Brother, thou art gone before us,' and the orchestra was fully efficient. The solo vocalists were Miss Agnes Nicholls, Madame Dews, Mr. Lloyd Chandos, and Mr. Ivor Foster. Mr. H. B. Ellis was an able conductor.

Newport (Monmouth).—The Philharmonic Society commenced their 21st season by giving an excellent performance of Sullivan's 'Light of the World,' with full orchestral accompaniment, on February 27. The principal vocalists were Miss Kate Cherry, Mrs. E. Dixon, Miss Lilian Hovey, Mr. E. T. Morgan, and Mr. Bantock Pierpoint. The choir numbered 170 performers, and there was a complete orchestra (led by Mr. F. S. Gardner). Mr. J. A. Gaccon, the newly-appointed conductor, directed the performance.

Oldbury.—The Choral Class gave a concert in the Town Hall on the 18th ult., when they performed Romberg's 'Lay of the bell,' and a miscellaneous selection which included Hatton's Glee 'The Ballad of the weaver' and Bishop's 'Calm be thy slumbers.' The class, numbering over forty voices, is composed principally of Technical Students. The solo parts were sung by Mrs. W. Aston, Miss Clarissa Crowther, Mr. G. Powell, and Mr. S. Harvey. The accompaniments were played on the pianoforte and organ by Mr. J. Standing and Mr. B. Wilkes respectively, and Mr. J. R. Cooke conducted.

Petersfield.—A concert was given on February 27 in aid of a local charity, in which, prominent among the artists who appeared, were Mr. Leonard Borwick, who played Schumann's Novellette in D and Chopin's Etude (for black keys), Miss Cordelia Grylls, who sang Elgar's 'Where corals lie' and Schubert's 'Who is Sylvia?' and Mr. F. Austin, who gave Somervell's 'Maud.'

Stamford.—The opening concert of the newly-formed Musical Society was given in the Corn Exchange on the 13th ult., when Gaul's 'Holy City,' was the chief item of the programme. The choir and orchestra (led by Herr Kienle) comprised about 100 performers, who acquitted themselves very creditably and gave promise of good work in the future. The principal vocalists were Miss Florence Robinson, Miss Constance Brown, Mr. Leonard Pearce, and Mr. A. G. Colledge, who also, with Herr Kienle (violin), assisted in the miscellaneous part of the programme. Much credit is due to Mr. Harold Parsons, who directed the performance to a successful issue.

Lowestoft Church.—Mr. J. T. Pye was presented by the clergy and choir of St. John's, on his resignation of the organistship of that church, with a brass inkstand and candlesticks, together with a silver-mounted penholder from the choir-boys, and a cheque from the churchwardens, sidesmen, and other friends.

Stirling.—The Choral Society gave its first concert under its recently-appointed conductor, Dr. A. W. Marchant, on February 28, when Mendelssohn's 'Elijah' was performed. The choir sang on the whole extremely well. The principal solo vocalists were Miss Perceval Allen, Mrs. Marchant, Mr. Fallas, and Mr. Charles Tree, who was specially excellent in the title-part. Mr. G. F Forsyth presided at the organ, and Dr. Marchant conducted with conspicuous ability.

Sunderland.—Mr. Andrew Bevan's second chamber concert took place in the Subscription Library Hall, on the 14th ult., when the chief features of the programme were Brahms's Sonata in A major (Op. 100), Beethoven's 'Kreutzer' Sonata, and Bach's Sonata, No. 3, all for pianoforte and violin, which were played by Miss Ethel Cave and the concert-giver.

Tunbridge Wells.—The Vocal Association gave a performance of the 'Messiah,' on the 12th ult., in the Great Hall. The solo vocalists were Madame Emily Squire, Miss Jessie King, Mr. James Leyland, and Mr Daniel Price. The choir and orchestra, consisting of the members of the Association (augmented professionally from London and from the Royal Engineers' Band and led by Mr. W. A. Easton), numbered 170 performers. Mr. F. H. Brackett presided at the organ, and Mr. W. W. Starmer conducted.

Whitehaven.—The Choral Union gave a concert in the Oddfellows' Hall, on the 21st ult., at which the Whitehaven Orchestral Society assisted. The orchestra and chorus numbered over 100 performers. The concert opened with Handel's Coronation Anthem 'Zadok the Priest,' which was followed by Haydn's 'Creation' (Parts I. and II.). The soloists were Miss Annie Nelson, Messrs. Walter Lawley and Arthur Weber. The choir was well balanced, and displayed excellent tone and quality, and the orchestra was fully efficient. Mr. Henry W. Radford conducted with ability.

Answers to Correspondents.

Ceoil.—Wagner's 'Siegfried' Idyll was composed in the year 1870, shortly after the completion of the music of the drama 'Siegfried' and the birth of the composer's son of the same name, and in honour of Madame Wagner. It was first performed on the latter's birthday, as a morning serenade in front of the villa at Triebschen, on the lake of Lucerne, where Wagner then resided. Wagner engaged musicians from Zurich and at Lucerne, who were drilled by Hans Richter, and the performance, a surprise one to Madame Wagner, was directed by Wagner, Richter playing the trumpet part. The themes on which 'Poem for orchestra' is constructed are mainly derived from the drama 'Siegfried'; but, in its poetical aspect, as a glowing picture of the happy boyhood of the boy Siegfried—the composer's son—in the idyllic days of the quiet life at Triebschen. The work is scored for a small orchestra—string quartet, wood-wind, two horns, and one trumpet. (The foregoing information is condensed from an analysis of the music contributed by Mr. C. A. Barry to a Richter Concert programme-book.)

Dot.—(1) 'Be thou faithful unto death' (Mendelssohn's 'St. Paul') is accompanied by a solo violoncello, and the pp, four bars from the end, to which you refer, belongs to the wind and other stringed instruments, in order that the solo instrument shall not be overpowered. In the full score, there is no f to the voice part twelve bars from the end, nor are there any further marks of expression from there onwards, so far as the voice part is concerned, but there is plenty of scope for variety of tone and expressive singing in those twelve bars. (2) You can obtain a papier-maché model of the throat and voice apparatus from Messrs. Mayer and Metzler, surgical instrument makers, 71, Great Portland Street, London, at a cost of thirty shillings.

A Country Choirmaster.—The following anthems are in accord with your requirements: 'Rejoice in the Lord' (Hollins), 'O bountiful Jesu,' 'Sing a song of praise' and 'Lo, summer comes again' (Stainer), 'Magnify His Name' and 'Hail, gladdening light' (Martin), 'Great is the Lord' (Bruce Steane), 'Lead, kindly light' (Pugh-Evans), 'Jesu, priceless treasure' and 'Seek ye the Lord' (J. V. Roberts), 'Great and marvellous' (J. C. Bridge), 'Sing praises' (Cruickshank), 'Nearer, my God' (T. Adams), 'The day is past and over' (J. C. Marks), 'Praise the Lord' (J. H. Maunder), 'Angels from the realms of glory' (F. H. Cowen).

A. B.—(1) There is no English translation of Dr. Hugo Riemann's 'Theory of musical composition'; (2) Richard Hoffmann's 'Praktische Instrumentationslehre' is issued in an English version, price forty shillings net; (3) The first volume only of Thayer's 'Life of Beethoven' (revised edition) has as yet been published. It is in the German language, and the price is twelve shillings net. It is not being issued in monthly parts.

C.M.—The place of his interment is not known; but you might apply to Mr. Algernon Ashton, he being a gentleman who leaves no stone unturned to discover these things. So far as we know, he (Mr Ashton) has not written a series of orchestral variations on 'Down among the dead men'; if he did, he would, as you say probably rehearse them.

Musicatus.—(1) Sir Hubert Parry's 'Studies of great composers' (Routledge) would probably meet your needs. (2) Wagner's 'Tristan und Isolde' is published by Messrs. Breitkopf and Haertel, and 'Parsifal' by Messrs. Schott and Co. (3) Naumann's 'History of Music' has been issued in monthly parts by Messrs. Cassell.

D. R.—The pianoforte part of Henselt's Pianoforte Concerto in F minor is published; but the full score (in MS.) would cost about fifty shillings, net. The Concerto is not published in the form you mention; but a second pianoforte part (a condensation of the orchestral score) is procurable.

Kendrick.—The only part-song in your list that we can trace is 'The little church' (Becker), which is published by Messrs. Ashdown.

Armuen.—In singing the words 'Many a sorrow, many a labour, many a tear' to the usual tune, the slur over the two crotchets is temporarily nullified, but the syllables should be sung very smoothly. The letter 'i' in the word 'respite' is sung with a broad vowel pronunciation.

Gamba.—The first four-manual organ in England was the instrument in Salisbury Cathedral erected by Renatus Harris in the year 1710. But its 'second great organ' manual consisted of a complete borrowed organ of thirteen stops derived from the fifteen (real) stops of the 'first great organ.'

Organist.—Fifty-eight or sixty degrees is considered the average temperature at which an organ should be kept, and instruments are finished and tuned as nearly as possible to this. The more even the temperature, the better the organ stands in tune.

I. M. S.—There are two English versions of Thibaut's 'Purity in Music,' one (translated by W. H. Gladstone) issued by John Murray, and another (English form, by John Broadhouse) is published by William Reeves.

E. J. W.—The attitude on the part of an audience of standing during the singing of the Sanctus at oratorio performances, is an act of reverence that has become general of late years in churches.

S. S.—In order to obtain instrumental works of early seventeenth century composers, you would have to get copies made from old music (manuscript and printed) at the British Museum or Bodleian Libraries.

Diapason.—The comparative rates of speed indicated by the Ihlenburg and Maelzel metronomes may be examplied in the Holberg Suite of Grieg, quoted by you, as follows:—

Prelude: Ihlenburg (minim) 92—Maelzel 76.
Rigaudon: ,, ,, 144— ,, 126.

A Subscriber.—'Organs and tuning,' by Thomas Elliston (Weekes and Co.), and 'Practical Organ Building,' by Canon Dickson (Crosby, Lockwood and Co.).

G. F. D.—We do not know of an examination for pianoforte tuners.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO & CO., Limited.

AKERMAN, R. F. MARTIN—"Lo, my Shepherd is Divine." Anthem. For A.T.T.B.B. (No. 57. Novello's Services, Anthems, &c., for Men's Voices.) 2d.

BLACOW, F. W.—"God save and bless our King." Coronation Anthem. 3d.

BRICKDALE-CORBET, H. M.—"A song of night." For Mezzo-Soprano or Tenor. 2s.

BROWNE, JAMES A.—"My bonnie wee forget-me-not Song for Tenor. The words written by Captain A. L. Harrington Kyle. 2s.

BUCK, PERCY C.—Six Short Anthems: 1. "Let the peace of God"; 2. "O God, Whose nature and property"; 3. "Brethren, whatsoever things are true"; 4. "The Lord is gracious"; 5. "They that sow in tears"; 6. "Mercy and truth." 1s.

BYNNES, LEONA, Two Kyries. 2d.

COLERIDGE-TAYLOR, S.—"The Blind Girl of Castél-Cuillé" (Op. 43). A Cantata. 1st Violin, 2s. 6d.; 2nd Violin, 2s. 6d.; Viola, 2s. 6d.; Violoncello, 2s. 6d.; Basso, 2s.

—— "Hemo Dance" (Op. 47, No. 2). Scherzo. For Violin Solo, with Accompaniment for the Pianoforte. 2s. 6d.

DENTON, RICHARD—"God save the King." A National Anthem. Words and melody (Old Notation and Tonic Sol-fa). On Card. 1½d.

DIEMER, P. H.—"One sweetly solemn thought." Hymn. For Four Voices and Organ. 4d.

DYKES, Rev. J. B.—"The Reproaches." (No. 736. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

ELGAR, EDWARD—"Imperial March" (Op. 32). Full Score, 3s. 6d.

—— "O Mightiest of the mighty." From "Eight Hymns with Tunes." (No. 595. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 1d.

FLACK, ARTHUR M.—(in D.)—Benedicite, omnia Opera. 2d.

GOSS, JOHN—"List! for the breeze." Glee. For Men's Voices (A.T.T.B.). (No. 353. The Orpheus.) 2d.

—— "O little harbinger of day." Glee. For Men's Voices (A.T.T.B.). (No. 354. The Orpheus.) 3d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

HAM, ALBERT—"Let the people praise Thee, Lord." A Coronation Anthem. 4d.

HICKMAN, WALTER T.—"For all Thy mercies." Imperial Hymn. For the Coronation and other Festivals. 1½d. Words only, 3s. per 100.

HIGGS, H. M.—"All ye who seek." Anthem. For Solo, Quartet, or Semi-Chorus. (No. 719. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

JUNIOR VIOLINIST.—Edited by C. Egerton Lowe. Book 10. Three Pieces: Funeral March in B minor, Prelude in E minor, and Waltz in B minor. Composed by Chopin. Arranged for Violin and Pianoforte. First to Fifth Position. 1s. 6d.

LEHMANN, LIZA—"Lead, kindly Light." A Hymn. For Soprano Solo and Chorus (S.A.T.B.); or Quintet of Solo Voices, with Organ or Pianoforte Accompaniment. No. 2, in D minor. 2s.

MACKENZIE, A. C.—Solemn March ("Story of Sayid"). (No. 61. Organ Arrangements, edited by George C. Martin.) 1s.

MACKENZIE, HENRY A.—"Sunset." Song. For Soprano or Tenor. 2s.

MALKIN, HAROLD—Litany, Tune. On Card. 1d.

MENDELSSOHN-BARTHOLDY, F.—Songs. Transposed edition. Newly revised. Paper boards, 4s.; Cloth, gilt, 6s.

NAYLOR, E. W.—(in A flat). Te Deum laudamus. For Men's Voices (T.B.B.). (No. 59. Novello's Services, Anthems, &c., for Men's Voices.) 3d.

—— (in G). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. For Men's Voices (T.B.B.). (No. 60. Novello's Services, Anthems, &c., for Men's Voices.) 3d.

NEEDHAM, ALICIA ADÉLAÏDE—"The British King." Song. The words written by Harold Begbie. No. 1, in F. For Contralto or Baritone; No. 3, in B flat. For Soprano or Tenor. Each 2s.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL OF PIANOFORTE MUSIC. Edited by Karl Klindworth:—

			s.	d.
No. 1.	Rondo in C	L. van Beethoven	1	6
,, 2.	Rondo in G	,, ,,	2	0
,, 3.	Andante in F	,, ,,	2	0
,, 4.	The Italian Concerto	J. S. Bach	3	0
,, 5.	Aria con variazioni (The Harmonious Blacksmith)	G. F. Handel	1	6
,, 6.	Fugue in E minor	,, ,,	1	6
,, 7.	Andante con variazioni in F minor	Joseph Haydn	2	0
,, 8.	Rondo in E flat	J. N. Hummel	2	0
,, 9.	Rondo in B minor	,, ,,	2	0
,, 10.	Prelude and Fugue in E minor	F. Mendelssohn-Bartholdy	2	0
,, 11.	Fantasia in C minor	W. A. Mozart	2	0
,, 12.	Rondo in A minor	,, ,,	2	0
,, 13.	Impromptu in B flat	F. Schubert	2	0
,, 14.	Rondo brillant	C. M. von Weber	2	0

OESTEN, MAX—Twelve Short Voluntaries (Op. 215). For the Harmonium or Organ. Third Set. 1s.

O'CONNOR, LEONARD M.—"Carmen Imperatorium." Coronation Unison Song. For Children. 3d.

O'LEARY, ROSETTA—"I know my love loves me." Song. For Soprano or Tenor. 2s.

PARRY, C. H. H.—"English Lyrics." First Set. 2s. 6d. For contents, see page 287.

—— "English Lyrics." Second Set. 2s. 6d. For contents, see page 287.

POWELL, Rev. JAMES BADEN—"Hail! Festal Day" ("Salve! Festa Dies"). Words of the Processional Proses for the Feasts of Easter, Ascension, Whitsun, Dedication, Corpus Christi, with those of "Lift high the Cross." 3d.; or, 7s. per 100.

SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW. No. 118. Contains the following Music in both Notations: "How beautiful are the feet." Air (Soprano) from "The Messiah." Transposed edition. Composed by Handel. "Dance." For Pianoforte Solo. By Charles Braun. 1½d.

SCHOOL SONGS.—Edited by W. G. McNaught. Published in two forms. A. Voice Parts in Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, 8vo size; B. Voice Parts only in Tonic Sol-fa Notation.

			A.	B.
No. 552.	Learning French. Action Song	Fredk. A. Keene	2d.	—
,, 665.	Faint not, fear not. Two-part Song	Henry Smart	—	1d.
,, 671.	Come, gladsome Spring. The celebrated "Largo"	Handel	1½d.	—

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

QUILLIAM, S. LINDSAY—"Come, ye faithful, raise the strain." Hymn. 1d.

SMITH, BOYTON—"Lead, kindly Light." Anthem. For Tenor (or Soprano) Solo and Chorus. 1d.

SPEER, WILLIAM H.—"Meditation" (Op. 11, No. 2). For small Orchestra. 1st Violin, 6d.; 2nd Violin, 6d.; Viola, 6d.; Violoncello, 6d.; Basso, 6d.

—— "Legend" (Op. 11, No. 4). For small Orchestra. 1st Violin, 6d.; 2nd Violin, 6d.; Viola, 6d.; Violoncello, 6d.; Basso, 6d.

STAINER, JOHN—"The Daughter of Jairus." Cornetti (transposed from Trombe parts). 1s.

STANFORD, C. VILLIERS—"The Revenge." Cornetti (transposed from Trombe parts). 1s.

SULLIVAN, ARTHUR—"Lord of Might, our land's defender." Coronation Hymn. (No. 596. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 1d.

TONIC SOL-FA SERIES. Edited by W. G. McNaught:—

No. 1247.	The Lord Omnipotent reigneth. Anthem. For Easter	Thomas Adams	1½d.
,, 1248.	Now dawning glows the day of days. Anthem. For Easter	David Stanley Smith	1½d.
,, 1249.	Now know I that the Lord. Coronation Anthem	Myles B. Foster	2d.
,, 1250.	The King shall rejoice. Coronation Anthem	Rev. E. Vine Hall	2d.
,, 1251.	The King shall rejoice. Coronation Anthem	Cuthbert Harris	2d.
,, 1252.	O death, where is thy sting? Easter Anthem	Alfred Hollins	2d.
,, 1254.	Alleluia! the Lord liveth. Easter Anthem	Cuthbert Harris	1½d.

DVOŘÁK, ANTON—"Stabat Mater." For Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra. 1s. 6d.

WEST, JOHN E.—"With gladsome feet we press." Hymn. (No. 599. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 1d.

WHITE, MARY LOUISA—Coronation Hymn. 1d. Words only, 2s. 6d. per 100.

WILLIAMS, C. LEE—"The King shall rejoice." Coronation Anthem. 2d.

In the Press.

GOD SAVE THE KING

ARRANGED BY

EDWARD ELGAR.

Price Threepence.

Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d. Full Score and Band Parts (in the Press).

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Just Published.

TRISTESSE

POUR

VIOLONCELLE

Avec Accompagnement de Piano

PAR

J. HOLLMAN.

Price Two Shillings net.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

CORONATION ANTHEM BY SIR JOHN STAINER.

BLESSED IS THE NATION.

A Festival Anthem, by the late Sir John Stainer, Organist of St. Paul's Cathedral.

This Anthem, which has never before appeared as a separate publication, is one of the finest of Sir John Stainer's shorter works. No more suitable Anthem for the Coronation can possibly be published. Done in Old Notation, Super Royal 8vo, price 4d.

Andrew Melrose, 57 and 59, Ludgate Hill, and 16, Pilgrim St., E.C.

GRAND CORONATION PROCESSIONAL, "Brightly gleams our Banner." Composed by R. Gould Thorne. Price 2d.; per dozen, 1s. 6d.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

CONTENTS.

	Page
King's College, Cambridge (Illustrated)	225
Liszt in England (with Special Portrait)	231
A New Edition of Handel's "Messiah"	234
Hawkins as a Gossip	234
Occasional Notes	236
A Huddersfield Music-Making (Illustrated)	239
Notes on some forgotten Symphony Composers	241
A Cambridge College Concert (Illustrated)	243
Church and Organ Music (Illustrated)	244
Reviews	247
Obituary	249
Mr. Percy Pitt's Music to 'Paolo and Francesca'	249
Sullivan as a National Style Builder	250
Musical Criticism. Mr. F. Gilbert Webb's Lecture	255
Handel and Purcell at Penley's Theatre	255
London Concerts	255
Competitions	257
Music in America	257
,, Vienna	257
,, Birmingham	258
,, Bristol	259
,, Dublin	259
,, East Anglia	260
,, Glasgow	260
,, Gloucester and District	261
,, Liverpool and District	261
,, Manchester	262
,, Northumberland and Durham	262
,, Nottingham and District	263
,, Oxford	263
,, Sheffield and District	264
,, Staffordshire	264
,, Yorkshire	264
Miscellaneous	266
Foreign Notes	266
Brief Summary of Country and Colonial News	267
Answers to Correspondents	269
Music published during the last Month	269
Part-Song—'I love my Jean.'—H. Elliot Button	251

THREE Extra Supplements are given with the present number :—

1. A Portrait of Franz Liszt. By Mr. Augustus Littleton.
2. 'Now know I that the Lord.' Coronation Anthem. Composed by Myles B. Foster.
3. New Coronation hymn-tune, by Arthur Sullivan ('Lord of might, our land's defender').

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	3	0
Three Lines	0	3	4
For every additional Line	0	0	10
Half a Column	2	0	0
A Column	4	0	0
A Page	7	10	0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.
A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To ensure insertion in proper position Advertisements for the next issue should reach the Office NOT LATER THAN APRIL 18.

GRESHAM COLLEGE.—SIR FREDERICK BRIDGE will deliver a COURSE of LECTURES on April 22, 24, and 25. The first will be given in the College, the others in the City of London School.

AMATEUR COMPOSERS can have copies of their Compositions lithographed, for private circulation or otherwise, from 24 copies and upwards. Mention specimen required (free). Dinham, Blyth and Co., 27, Fenchurch Street, London. Established 1872.

MADAME EUGENIA MORGAN can receive a few PAYING GUESTS. Highly recommended by Lady Superintendent, Guildhall School of Music. Special arrangements for Students. 69, Elgin Avenue, Maida Hill, W.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

PUBLISHED ON THE 1ST OF EVERY MONTH. Price 1½d. ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION, INCLUDING POSTAGE, 2s.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW FOR APRIL CONTAINS:—

GENERAL NOTES.
DATES OF CHORAL COMPETITIONS IN 1902.
THEORY QUESTIONS.
THE HARMONIZATION OF MELODIES IN FOUR VOCAL PARTS. By CUTHBERT HARRIS—(continued).
SOCIETY OF ARTS EXAMINATIONS IN HARMONY, 190 .
SCHOOL MUSIC IN IRELAND.
,, ,, IN TORONTO.
,, ,, AT THE CAPE.
,, ,, IN THE UNITED STATES.
TONIC SOL-FA IN WALES.
ANSWERS TO THEORY QUESTIONS.
MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

THE APRIL NUMBER CONTAINS THE FOLLOWING MUSIC:—

"GOD SAVE THE KING." For Soprano and Alto Soli, and Three-part Chorus (with accompaniment). Adapted from Sir MICHAEL COSTA'S Arrangement.

"HERE'S A HEALTH UNTO HIS MAJESTY." Solo and Three-part Chorus. By JOHN SAVILE.

"ALL THROUGH THE NIGHT." Unaccompanied Trio (S.S.A.).

SIGHT-SINGING TESTS.

Also, EXTRA SUPPLEMENT, containing "LEARNING FRENCH." Action Song. By FREDK. A. KEENE.

(No. 552 of Novello's School Songs. Price 2d.)

The Music and Exercises can always be obtained separately. Price 1½d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

MISS
BEATRICE PALLISTER
(SOPRANO. Pupil of Henry Blower, Esq.).
Terms, Broxholme Lane, Doncaster.

MR. JOSEPH RIPLEY
(TENOR).
Engaged: "Messiah," Southend, Reading, and Brighton; "Judith," Plymouth; "May Queen," five times; "Hiawatha," twice, and "Hymn of Praise." c/o Charles Woolhouse, 174, Wardour St., W.

MR. HENRY SUNMAN
(BASS).
Licentiate (Artist) of the Royal Academy of Music, of the Gloucester and Cheltenham Festivals, &c.
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c.
Please address, Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford.

MISS BEATRICE CROSSE (Soprano)
For Concerts, Dinners, &c.
"Sang with real pathos."—Aldershot Gazette.
Address, 4, Chandos Road, Bruce Grove, Tottenham.

MISS CHARLOTTE DICKENS, R.A.M. Med.
(Soprano).
10, Ashchurch Park Villas, Ravenscourt Park, W.

MISS ETTIE SPICE (Soprano)
MISS EMILY TANNER (Contralto)
Will sing at Concerts, At Homes, &c., for expense fees. Duets a specialty. 19, Tay Bridge Road, Clapham Common, S.W.

MR. HENRY BEAUMONT (Tenor)
For Oratorio.
All new works in répertoire. Now booking for next season. Address, Principal Agents, or, 83, Maida Vale, London, W.

MR. CYRIL FLAMSTEED (Tenor)
St. Katherine's Royal Chapel.
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c.
Of St. James's Hall, Crystal Palace and London Ballad Concerts, &c.
Please note change of address: 38, Goldhurst Ter., S. Hampstead, N.W.

MR. ALBERT PIPER (Tenor)
55, Wolfington Road, West Norwood, S.E.

MR. BURFORD THORP (Tenor)
Of St. James's and Queen's Halls; Soloist of St. Alban's, Teddington.
Address, 13, Greville Road, Kilburn, N.W.

MR. STANLEY TITTERTON (Tenor)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
92, Canonbury Park, South Canonbury, London, N.

EVERY ORGANIST should send for DINHAM, BLYTH & CO.'S Specimens and Price List (free) for Lithographing Anthems, Kyries, Hymn Tunes, &c., from twenty-four Copies and upwards. 27, Fenchurch Street, London. Established 1872.

MR. E. H. THORNE has a VACANCY for a RESIDENT PUPIL. 19, Clarendon Gardens, Maida Vale, W.

FREE ORGAN TUITION.—Organist (Mus. Bac.) requires YOUTH as PUPIL. Exceptional advantages. Fashionable West of England seaside resort. Folio, 50, Claremont Road, Highgate, London.

SINGING. — Good CONNECTION for DISPOSAL to Lady Teacher of Shakespeare Method. Address, No. 336, Keith and Co., 43, George Street, Edinburgh.

PIANOFORTE TEACHER wishes to PURCHASE CONNECTION, or PARTNERSHIP in School. Advanced Theory. Teacher, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners St., W.

PIANOFORTE and THEORY TEACHER wishes DAILY ENGAGEMENT. Has successfully prepared for Associated Board and Trinity College Examinations. Piano, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, for St. Peter's, Belsize Square, N.W., SOLO BOY. £15. Full voice, experienced leader, necessary. Solo Tenor. £20. Apply, by letter, Stanley Hawley, 6, Buckland Crescent, Belsize Park, N.W.

ST. MARTIN-IN-THE-FIELDS, Charing Cross.—ASSISTANT-ORGANIST REQUIRED. Apply, by letter, stating age and experience, to W. J. Kipps, 93, Lewisham High Rd., S.E.

TUNER, thoroughly experienced (from Collard and Collard) desires ENGAGEMENT for two or three days a week (out-door). Town or Country. Highest references. A., 223, Junction Road, Upper Holloway, N.

ORGAN for SALE. Two manuals, pedals, and bourdons. 12 stops. Compass, CC to G. B. Williams, 2, St. Jude's Villas, Meeting House Lane, Peckham, S.E.

ORGAN for SALE.—Three manuals and pedals. 17 stops. Hydraulic engine. 343, Coldharbour Lane, Brixton.

ORGANS.—Fine toned modern Two-manual Organs. No. 1, £85; No. 2, £150; No. 3, £200; No. 4, £250. All warranted for ten years. Full particulars on application. Organist, 24, Endsleigh Gardens, Euston Road, London.

BROADWOOD small BOUDOIR GRAND PIANO, iron frame. 7 octaves. 42 gns.; cost 130 gns. Also BECHSTEIN UPRIGHT GRAND, 7¼ octaves; overstrung; cost 80 gns; for little over half. Slightly used; like new. View at Mr. Fieldwick's, Organist of St. John's (Cromer House), Putney.

FOR SALE, a VIRGIL PRACTICE CLAVIER. Nearly new. Apply, Clavier, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANOFORTE and SMALL GOODS SALESMAN desires POSITION, with, or without, capital. £500 ultimately. Abstainer. G. C. S., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners St., W.

In the Press.

THE DIOCESAN CHANT BOOK.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE SONG OF THE SEA-KINGS.—Vigorous Part-Song, for Men's Voices. Words by Rev. W. GRIFFITHS, M.A.; Music by JOHN J. JONES. Price Twopence.
London: WEEKES AND CO., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.

EBENEZER PROUT'S WORKS. Bound, each net, 5s.
HARMONY: Its Theory and Practice. Fourteenth Edition.
COUNTERPOINT: Strict and Free. Seventh Edition.
DOUBLE COUNTERPOINT and CANON. Third Edition.
FUGUE. Fourth Edition.
FUGAL ANALYSIS. Second Edition.
MUSICAL FORM. Fourth Edition.
APPLIED FORMS. Third Edition.
THE ORCHESTRA.
Vol. I—"THE TECHNIQUE OF THE INSTRUMENTS." Second Edition.
Vol. II.—"ORCHESTRAL COMBINATION." Second Edition.
London: AUGENER AND CO., 199, Regent St., and 22, Newgate St.

CHORD DENOTER; or, HARMONY WITHOUT A MASTER. FR. VON KOMATZKI'S PATENT. Price, net, 6s. Most interesting, most wonderful; any person of ordinary intellect can learn harmony without a master. Harmony teachers can teach with greater facility. Full particulars on application to THE ST. CECILIA MUSIC PUBLISHING COMPANY, Ltd.,
182, Wardour Street, W.

THE TRAINING of ALTOS.—TUITION by MUNRO DAVISON, L.R.A.M. (Singing), F.R.C.O., L.T.C.L., Professor of Alto Singing, G.S.M. Solo Alto, Temple Church. 142, Stroud Green Road, N.

Now ready. Price 1s. each. Post-free.
THE TENOR VOICE AND ITS TRAINING.
By E. DAVIDSON PALMER, Mus. Bac., Oxon. Revealing the Secret of Voice-Production. THE BOY'S VOICE AT THE BREAKING PERIOD. By E. DAVIDSON PALMER, Mus. Bac., Oxon. Showing how Nature develops her best Voices. May be obtained from the AUTHOR, 28, Digby Road, Finsbury Park, N.; or, from Joseph Williams, Ltd., 32, Great Portland Street, W.

NEW FOREIGN PUBLICATIONS

	s.	d.
ADAM, AD.—Marche Religieuse de l'Annonciation." For Orchestra. Full Score ... ... net	7	6
—— Marche Religieuse (in D). For Orchestra. Full Score ,,	7	6
BEMBERG, H.—" Melancolie." For Violoncello and Pianoforte ... ... net	2	6
BLOCH, J.—Ungarische Rhapsodie. For Orchestra. Op. 31:— Full Score ... net 12 0 Parts ... ... net	16	0
BORODDINE, A.—2nd Symphonie (B minor). For Two Pianofortes (4 hands) ... ... net	8	0
BÜSSER, H.—" Un soir de Mai au bois." For Clarinet and Pianoforte ... ... net	3	0
D'ALBERT, E.—Vorspiel, "Kain." For Orchestra:— Full Score ... net 10 0 Parts ... ... net	14	0
DUBOIS, TH.—"Adonis." Poème Symphonique. For Pianoforte Duet ... ... net	5	0
—— The same. For Orchestra:— Full Score ... net 25 0 Parts ... ... net	50	0
—— "Au Jardin." Scenes mignonnes complete, ,, 1. Les Oiseaux, 1s. 6d. net; 2. Roses et Papillons, 1s. 6d. net; 3. Les Petites Visites, 1s. net; 4. Gouttes de Pluie, 2s. net; 5. Les Petits Canards, 1s. net; 6. La Première Etoile net	5	0
FAURÉ, G.—Fileuse. For Pianoforte Solo ... ... ,,	1	0
FLEGIER.—Concerto. For Pianoforte Solo ... ... ,,	2	6
FUCHS, R.—Sonata, No. 3. For Violin and Piano. Op. 68 ,,	4	0
GULBINS, M.—Sonata, No. I., C minor. For Organ. Op. 4 net	7	6
—— Sonata, No. II., F minor. For Organ. Op. 18 ... ,,	4	0
—— Sonata, No. III., B major. For Organ. Op. 19 ... ,,	4	0
GRIEG, E.—Lyric Pieces, Book 10. Op. 71 ... ... ,,	2	2
HAHN, R.—Pastorale de Noël. Mystère du XV. Siècle, en 4 Tableaux. For Voice and Pianoforte ... ... net	8	0
HEUSER, E.—Three Pianoforte Pieces. Op. 36:— 1. Humoreske, 1s. 6d. net; 2. Fantasie Gavotte, 2s. net; 3. Capriccio brillant ... ... net	2	0
—— Trio. For Pianoforte, Violin, and Violoncello. Op. 37 ,,	10	0
HOLMES, A.—"Dans les Boutons d'Or." For Voice and Pianoforte	5	0
—— "Prière." For Voice and Pianoforte...	4	0
—— "Rosa Benedicta." For Voice and Pianoforte	5	0
HUBAY, J.—"Hejre Kati." For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 32	5	0
—— "Hullamzo Balaton." For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 33	5	0
—— "Sarga Cserelogar." For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 34 ... ... net	3	0
JUNKER, W.—"Alla Tarantella." Concertstudie. For Pianoforte. Op. 19 ... ... net	1	6
LIAPOUNOW.—Symphony (B minor). For Orchestra. Op. 12:— Full Score ... net 20 0 Pianoforte Duet ... net	10	0
MASSENET.—"Le Jongleur de Notre-Dame." Miracle, en Trois Actes:— Vocal Score ... ... net	20	0
—— Quelques Chansons Mauves. For Voice and Pianoforte ,,	3	0
MIDDELSCHULTE, W.—Passacaglia. For Organ ... ... ,,	3	0
MOSZKOWSKI.—Valse de Concert. For Pianoforte. Op. 69 ,,	3	0
MOTTL, F.—String Quartet. Score ... net 15 0 Parts ... ... net	15	0
NAPRAWNIK, E.—Suite, "Don Juan." For Orchestra. Op. 54:— Full Score ... net 18 0 Parts ... ... net	42	0
PESSARD, E.—Elegie. For Cello and Piano. Op. 42, No. 2 ,,	2	6
—— Romance sans paroles. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 49, No. 2 ... ... net	3	0
POLDINI, E.—Lyrische Stücke For Piano Solo. Op. 36 ,,	2	6
RACHMANINOFF.—2nd Concerto. Op. 18:— Pianoforte Solo ... net 10 0 Two Pianofortes ... net	20	0
RAMEAU, JEAN-PHILLIPE.—Œuvres-completes (SAINT-SAËNS) Tome VII. "Les Indes Galantes" Full Score net	80	0
—— "Hippolyte et Aricie." Airs de Ballet. For Orchestra:— 1st Suite. Full Score net 4 0 Parts ... ... net 2nd Suite, Full Score ,, 2 0 Parts ... ... ,,	6 4	0 0
REBIKOFF, W.—Réveries d'automne. For String Orchestra. Op. 8:— Full Score ... net 3 6 Parts ... ... net	6	0
REYER, E.—Marche gaie. For Pianoforte Solo ... ,,	2	6
—— Pièce dans le style ancien. For Pianoforte Solo ... ,,	2	0
RHEINBERGER.—20th Sonata. For Organ ... ... ,,	4	0
RUBINSTEIN.—Romanza. For Harmonium and Pianoforte. Op. 44 ... ... net	1	6
RÜDNIGER, A.—Technische Studien. For Violoncello ,,	5	0
SAINT-SAËNS.—Septuor. For Pianoforte Duet. Op 65 ,,	8	0
SITT, H.—Concerto. For Viola and Orchestra. Op. 68:— Parts ... ... net	15	0
SPORCK, G.—"Orientale." For Orchestra:— Full Score ... net 6 0 Parts ... ... ,,	1	6
—— Exercices chromatiques ... ... ,,	7	0
STRAUSS, R.—Liebesszene, from "Feuersnot." Op. 50:— Full Score ... net 18 0 Parts ... ... ,,	30	0
THOMAS, A.—Messe Solennelle. For Voice and Pianoforte ,,	10	0
—— Marche Religieuse (in B). For Orchestra. Full Score ,,	20	0
TSCHAÏKOWSKY.—Andante cantabile (from Op. 11). For Harmonium and Pianoforte ... ... net	1	6
—— Andantino marciale (from 2nd Symphony). For Two Pianofortes (4 hands) ... ... net	3	0
—— Finale (from 2nd Symphony). For Two Pianofortes (4 hands) ... ... net	4	6
WIDOR, CH. M.—Valse romantique. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 26, No. 2 ... ... net	2	6

Sold at half-price, if not marked net.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

ANTHEMS FOR ASCENSIONTIDE.

*Above all praise and all majesty ... ... Mendelssohn 1½d.
*Achieved is the glorious work ... ... Haydn 1d.
*Achieved is the glorious work (2nd Chorus) ... Haydn 1½d.
*All glory to the Lamb ... ... Spohr 1½d.
Awake up my glory ... ... M. Wise 3d.
Christ became obedient unto death ... ... J. F. Bridge 1½d.
Christ is not entered into the Holy Places ... Eaton Faning 1½d.
For it became Him ... ... Oliver King 1½d.
God is gone up ... ... Croft 4d.
*God, my King ... ... Bach 1½d.
Grant, we beseech Thee ... ... H. Lahee 1½d.
*Hallelujah unto God's Almighty Son ... ... Beethoven 3d.
*How excellent Thy Name, O Lord ... ... Handel 1½d.
If ye then be risen ... ... J. Naylor 3d.
If ye then be risen (Two Parts) ... Myles B. Foster 3d.
In My Father's house ... ...J. Maude Crament 3d.
In that day ... ... George Elvey 8d.
*It shall come to pass ... ... B. Tours 1½d.
*King all glorious ... ... J. Barnby 6d.
*Leave us not, neither forsake us ... ... J. Stainer 1½d.
Let not your heart be troubled (Double Chorus, unaccompanied) Myles B. Foster 3d.
*Ditto (Four-part arrangement, with organ) Myles B. Foster 3d.
*Let their celestial concerts all unite ... ... Handel 1½d.
*Lift up your heads ... ... Handel 1½d.
*Lift up your heads ... ... S. Coleridge-Taylor 3d.
*Lift up your heads ... ... J. L. Hopkins 1½d.
O, all ye people, clap your hands ... ... H. Purcell 2d.
*O clap your hands ... ... J. Stainer 6d.
O clap your hands ... ... T. T. Trimnell 3d.
*O God, the King of Glory ... ... H. Smart 4d.
*O God, when Thou appearest ... ... Mozart 3d.
*O how amiable ... ... J. Barnby 3d.
*O Lord our Governour ... ... H. Gadsby 3d.
O Lord our Governour ... ... Marcello 1½d.
*O risen Lord ... ... J. Barnby 1½d.
Open to me the gates ... ... F. Adlam 3d.
*Rejoice in the Lord ... ... J. Baptiste Calkin 3d.
*Rejoice in the Lord ... ... George Elvey 1½d.
The earth is the Lord's ... ... T. T. Trimnell 4d.
The Lord is exalted ... ... J. E. West 1½d.
The Lord is King ... ... H. Gadsby 6d.
The Lord is King ... ... H. J. King 4d.
*Unfold, ye portals ... ... Ch. Gounod 6d.
Where Thou reignest ... ... Schubert 2d.
Who is this so weak and helpless ... ... Rayner 2d.

 Anthems marked thus () may be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. to 2d. each.*

ANTHEMS FOR WHITSUNTIDE.

And all the people saw ... ... J. Stainer 6d.
And suddenly there came ... ... Henry J. Wood 3d.
And when the day of Pentecost ... ... Charles W. Smith 3d.
As pants the hart ... ... Spohr 1½d.
As the hart pants ... ... Mendelssohn 1½d.
*Behold, I send the promise ... ... J. Varley Roberts 4d.
Come, Holy Ghost ... ... T. Attwood 1½d.
Come, Holy Ghost ... ... J. L. Hatton 4d.
Come, Holy Ghost ... ... George Elvey 4d.
Come, Holy Ghost ... ... C. Lee Williams 2d.
*Eye hath not seen (Two-part setting) ... Myles B. Foster 3d.
Eye hath not seen (Four-part setting) ... Myles B. Foster 3d.
*Give thanks unto God ... ... Spohr 4d.
*God came from Teman ... ... C. Steggall 4d.
*God is a Spirit ... ... W. S. Bennett 6d.
Great is the Lord ... ... W. Hayes 4d.
Grieve not the Holy Spirit ... ... J. Stainer 3d.
Happy is the man ... ... E. Prout 8d.
He that dwelleth in the secret place ... ... Josiah Booth 4d.
Holy Spirit, come, O come (Ad Spiritum Sanctum) G. C. Martin 1½d.
*I was in the Spirit ... ... Blow 6d.
*I will not leave you comfortless ... ... Bruce Steane 2d.
*I will pray the Father ... ... Rev. G. W. Torrance 1½d.
If I go not away ... ... Thomas Adams 1½d.
If ye love Me ... ... C. S. Heap 1½d.
*If ye love Me ... ... W. H. Monk 1½d.
*If ye love Me ... ... Tallis 1½d.
*If ye love Me ... ... R. P. Stewart 1½d.
If ye love Me ... ... Herbert W. Wareing 3d.
If ye love Me ... ... Bruce Steane 2d.
In My Father's house ... ...J. Maude Crament 3d.
It shall come to pass ... ... G. Garrett 6d.
It shall come to pass ... ... B. Tours 1½d.
Let God arise ... ... Greene 6d.
Let God arise ... ... T. T. Trimnell 4d.
*Let not your heart be troubled ... ... H. G. Trembath 3d.
*O clap your hands ... ... J. Stainer 6d.
*O give thanks ... ... George Elvey 3d.
*O Holy Ghost, into our minds ... ... G. A. Macfarren 1 d.
*Oh! for a closer walk with God ... ... Myles B. Foster 1½d.
*O taste and see ... ... Goss 3d.
O taste and see ... ...A. H. Mann 3d.
*O taste and see ... ... Sullivan 1½d.
O Thou, the true and only Light ... ... Mendelssohn 3d.
O where shall wisdom be found ... ...Boyce 6d.
*Our blest Redeemer ... ... Rev. E. V. Hall 3d.
Praise be the Lord daily ... ...J. B. Calkin 1½d.
Sing to the Lord ... ... Smart 1s
*Spirit of mercy, truth, and love ... ... B. Luard Selby 1½d.
The eyes of all wait upon Thee ... ... Gibbons 4d.
*The glory of the God of Israel ... ... T. Adams 3d.
The Lord descended ... ... Hayes 1½d.
The Lord is in His Holy Temple ... ... J. Stainer 1½d.
The Lord is in His Holy Temple ... ... E. H. Thorne 1½d.
The love of God is shed abroad ... ... S. Reay 3d.
There is no condemnation ... ... H. S. Irons 3d.
*The wilderness ... ... Goss 6d.
The wilderness ... ... S. S. Wesley 8d.
When God of old came down from Heaven Rev. E. V. Hall 3d.
We will rejoice ... ... [illegible] 4d.
Whosoever drinketh ... ... J. T. Field 1½d.

 Anthems marked thus () may be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. to 2d. each.*

ANTHEMS FOR TRINITYTIDE.

*Almighty and everlasting God... ... ... Gibbons 1½d.
Ascribe unto the Lord ... ... S. S. Wesley 8d.
Behold, God is great ... ... E. W. Naylor 4d.
Beloved, if God so loved us ... ... J. Barnby 1½d.
Beloved, let us love one another ... ... Gerard F. Cobb 1½d.
Be ye all of one mind ... ...Arthur E. Godfrey 3d.
*Blessed is the man ... ... John Goss 4d.
Blessing and glory ... ...Boyce 1½d.
Blessing, glory ... ... Bach 6d.
God came from Teman ... ... C. Steggall 4d.
God so loved the world ... ...Matthew Kingston 1½d.
Grant, O Lord ... ... Mozart 1½d.
Hail, gladdening Light ... ... J. T. Field 2d.
Hail, gladdening Light ... ... G. C. Martin 4d.
He in tears that soweth ... ... F. Hiller 1½d.
Holy, holy, holy ... ... Crotch 3d.
How goodly are Thy tents ... ... F. Ouseley 1½d.
How lovely are Thy dwellings ... ...Spohr 1½d.
I am Alpha and Omega ... ... J. Stainer 1½d.
I am Alpha and Omega ... ... J. Varley Roberts 3d.
I behold, and lo! ... ... Blow 6d.
I know that the Lord is great ... ... F. Ouseley 1d.
I saw the Lord ... ... J. Stainer 6d.
I will magnify ... ... J. Shaw 3d.
I will sing of Thy power ... ... Greene 4d.
I will sing of Thy power ... ... A. Sullivan 1½d.
I will sing unto the Lord ... ... H. Wareing 3d.
*In humble faith ... ... G. Garrett 1d.
In Jewry is God known ... ...J. Clarke-Whitfeld 1½d.
In sweet consent ... ... E. H. Thorne 3d.
In the fear of the Lord ... ... J. Varley Roberts 3d.
Let the peace of God ... ... J. Stainer 3d.
Light of the world ... ... E. Elgar 3d.
*Lord of all power and might ... ... William Mason 1½d.
Ditto (men's voices) ... ... J. Barnby 2d.
*Lord, we pray Thee ... ... J. Varley Roberts 1½d.
O Father blest ... ... J. Barnby 3d.
O joyful Light ... ... B. Tours 4d.
O Lord, my trust... ... ... King Hall 1½d.
*O taste and see ... ... J. Goss 3d.
*O taste and see ... ... A. Sullivan 1½d.
O taste and see ... ...A. H. Mann 3d.
O where shall wisdom be found? ... ...Boyce 6d.
Ponder my words, O Lord ... . Arnold D. Culley 1½d.
*Praise His awful Name ... ... Spohr 3d.
Rejoice in the Lord ... ... G. C. Martin 6d.
*See what love hath the Father ... ... Mendelssohn 2d.
Sing to the Lord ... ... Mendelssohn 3d.
*Stand up and bless ... ... J. Goss 3d.
Teach me Thy way ... ... W. H. Gladstone 1½d.
*The Lord hath been mindful ... ... S. S. Wesley 3d.
*The Lord is my Shepherd ... ... G. A. Macfarren 1½d.
*The Lord is my Shepherd ... ... J. Shaw 3d.
The Lord is my Shepherd ... ... H. Hiles 6d.
The Lord will comfort Zion ... ... Alan Gray 1½d.
Thou shalt shew me the path of life ... ... H. Aldrich 1s.
We have heard with our ears ... ... H. Oakeley 3d.
Whatsoever is born of God ... ... Mozart 3d.

 Anthems marked thus () may be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. to 2d. each.*

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited
and
NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

ANTHEMS FOR WHITSUNTIDE.

RECENTLY PUBLISHED.

I WILL PRAY THE FATHER
COMPOSED BY
G. W. TORRANCE.
Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

OUR BLEST REDEEMER
COMPOSED BY
REV. E. VINE HALL.
Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

SPIRIT OF MERCY, TRUTH, AND LOVE
COMPOSED BY
B. LUARD SELBY.
Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

THE GLORY OF THE GOD OF ISRAEL
COMPOSED BY
THOMAS ADAMS.
Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

EYE HATH NOT SEEN
(Four-part Setting)
COMPOSED BY
MYLES B. FOSTER.
Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

I WILL NOT LEAVE YOU COMFORTLESS
COMPOSED BY
BRUCE STEANE.
Price Twopence; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.

IF I GO NOT AWAY
COMPOSED BY
THOMAS ADAMS.
Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

ANTHEMS FOR TRINITYTIDE.

RECENTLY PUBLISHED.

LIGHT OF THE WORLD
Final Chorus from "The Light of Life"
COMPOSED BY
EDWARD ELGAR.
Price Threepence.

BEHOLD, GOD IS GREAT
COMPOSED BY
E. W. NAYLOR.
Price Fourpence.

O JOYFUL LIGHT
COMPOSED BY BERTHOLD TOURS.
Price Fourpence.

I AM ALPHA AND OMEGA
COMPOSED BY
J. VARLEY ROBERTS.
Price Threepence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CANTIONES SACRÆ
MUSICAL SETTINGS
OF
THE ROMAN LITURGY
EDITED BY
Dom SAMUEL GREGORY OULD,
Monk of the Order of St. Benedict.

33. ADESTE FIDELES. The complete Text (8 verses), with a Prelude by Dr. F. E. Gladstone, and varied Accompaniments by H. B. Collins, Dom Samuel G. Ould, Sir Walter Parratt, Sir C. Hubert H. Parry, Dr. C. W. Pearce, William Sewell, Dr. A. E. Tozer, and S. P. Waddington 1s.
4. ADORAMUS TE, CHRISTE .. Mozart 2d.
22. ADOREMUS (for Benediction) F. E. Gladstone 2d.
2. ADOREMUS (Motet) .. C. W. Pearce 6d.
10. ALMA REDEMPTORIS MATER W. Sewell 2d.
27. AVE MARIS STELLA S. P. Waddington 6d.
11. AVE REGINA CŒLORUM W. Sewell 2d.
35. AVE VERUM (In the Press) .. E. Elgar 2d.
26. BENEDICTA ET VENERABILIS F. E. Gladstone 6d.
6. BENEDICTION SERVICE (Unison) S. Ould 3d.
9. BENEDICTION SERVICE (Unison) J. E. West 3d.
32. BENEDICTION SERVICE (Four-part) Agnes Zimmermann 2d.
29. COMPLINE HYMN .. .. .. S. Ould 3d.
3. DEUS MISEREATUR .. F. E. Gladstone 6d.
12. DOMINE, SALVUM FAC .. A. E. Tozer 2d.
30. DOMINE, SALVUM FAC .. .. E. Silas 2d.
34. DOMINE, SALVUM FAC .. .. Gounod 2d.
17. HÆC DIES .. .. .. F. E. Gladstone 3d.
7. HODIE SANCTUS BENEDICTUS P. Philips 4d.
20. LITANY OF LORETTO .. F. E. Gladstone 6d.
23. MAGNIFICAT in A .. .. F. E. Gladstone 8d.
1. MAGNIFICAT in B flat .. .. E. Silas 6d.
28. MAGNIFICAT in D .. .. .. E. Silas 1s.
31. MAGNIFICAT in E flat .. .. W. Sewell 4d.
15. MISERERE in F .. .. F. E. Gladstone 3d.
16. MISERERE in F sharp minor F. E. Gladstone 6d.
25. MISERERE (Gregorian Chant) V. Novello 3d.
19. O SALUTARIS HOSTIA .. F. E. Gladstone 2d.
8. REGINA CŒLI .. .. .. W. Sewell 2d.
14. RESPONSES AT MASS AND OFFICE Harmonised by S. Ould 3d.
36. SALVATOR MUNDI (In the Press) Dr. John Blow 4d.
13. SALVE, REGINA .. .. .. Schubert 2d.
5. SALVE, REGINA .. .. W. Sewell 2d.
24. SALVE, REGINA .. R. L. de Pearsall 3d.
18. SALVE, REGINA .. S. P. Waddington 4d.
21. TANTUM ERGO .. .. F. E. Gladstone 2d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CORONATION ANTHEM
(Graciously accepted by His Majesty The King).

GOD SAVE THE KING
The Words by Thomas Jenner
THE MUSIC BY RICHARD DENTON.
Price, vocal score, Twopence.
Cards, with all words, and the melody (only) in both notations, Three-Halfpence each.

Obtain specimen at once.
London: Novello and Company, Limited.

NEWLY ENGRAVED AND REVISED.
REDUCED PRICES.

SONGS

COMPOSED BY

Felix Mendelssohn-Bartholdy.

TRANSLATED BY LADY MACFARREN
AND
WILLIAM BARTHOLOMEW.

TRANSPOSED EDITION:

Price, in paper boards ... ... 4s.
Cloth, gilt ... ... 6s.

EXTRACT FROM PREFACE.

"The present (transposed) edition contains not only all the songs composed by Mendelssohn—in addition to an air originally written for "St. Paul"—but five by his sister, Fanny Hensel. The latter (see pages 3, 6, 64, 68, and 72, of this volume) were originally published under her brother's name, and were included in his Op. 8 and 9, as she did not wish to court publicity as a composer.

"The translations have been made to agree with the Novello edition of the songs in their original keys; moreover, this reprint has furnished the opportunity for thoroughly revising the songs, and for so laying out the accompaniments that the notes assigned to each hand are now placed in their proper staves. This improvement, in the carrying out of which not a single note of the composer's has been altered, conduces to clearness and will greatly facilitate the important work of the accompanist."

The editions of the Songs in their original keys are still published at the same prices.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

(No. 52. Novello and Co.'s Music Primers and Educational Series. Edited by Sir JOHN STAINER and Sir C. HUBERT H. PARRY.)

A DESCRIPTION AND HISTORY
OF THE

PIANOFORTE

AND OF THE

OLDER KEYBOARD STRINGED INSTRUMENTS

BY

A. J. HIPKINS, F.S.A.

Author of the Articles on the Pianoforte in the "Dictionary of Music and Musicians" and in the "Encyclopædia Britannica," also of "Musical Instruments, Historic, Rare and Unique."

THE WOOD ENGRAVINGS BY JOHN HIPKINS.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence. Paper boards, Three Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

THE BRITISH KING

SONG

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY
HAROLD BEGBIE

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
ALICIA ADÉLAIDE NEEDHAM.
(In Three keys, F, G, and B flat.)

Price Two Shillings net.

SCHOOL MUSIC

BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

THE ELFIN HILL

AN OPERETTA.

"'The Elfin Hill' is founded on one of Hans Anderson's charming stories, and the libretto has been written in dainty and graceful language by Miss Baldwick. The operetta opens with a short overture describing moonlight on the Dovrefield Mountains, and Mr. Gaul has been particularly happy in infusing the Norse spirit into that portion of his music which deals with goblin life in Norway. When the goblins become visitors in fairyland, the character of the music changes; lightness is its predominant feature, perhaps the choicest fragment being a fairy dance. This latter, together with a very characteristic dance of elves and a shadow dance, were beautifully executed."—Birmingham Gazette.

Price Two Shillings.
Words, Seven Shillings and Sixpence per hundred.

TOILERS OF THE DEEP

CANTATA

FOR FEMALE VOICES

Verse by JAMES STRANG.

"Mr. Gaul has written nothing finer, nor more melodious and captivating in this branch of composition specially adapted for High Schools for Girls."—Birmingham Daily Mail.

Price Two Shillings.
Words, Five Shillings per hundred.

THE LEGEND OF THE WOOD

A JUVENILE OPERETTA.

Price One Shilling.
Words, Four Shillings per hundred.

THE MONTHS

TWELVE VOCAL DUETS

Words by EDWARD OXENFORD.

"There are in this series of duets the sweetest things of the kind we have ever met with. Things to be treasured in households where sisters or friends delight in joining voices."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

	s.	d.
Parts I. and II. ... ... each	1	0
Complete, paper cover	1	6
Ditto, paper boards	2	0
Ditto, scarlet cloth	3	0
Or, in Twelve Numbers ... ... each	0	2

THE BIRDS

SIX VOCAL TRIOS

Words by EDWARD OXENFORD.

1. The Robin.
2. The Nightingale.
3. The Dove.
4. The Skylark.
5. The Owl.
6. The Swallows.

"A valuable addition to the many beautiful and useful compositions he has formerly given to the public. Mr. Gaul's music is unfailingly charming, the voice-parts being so disposed that they may be easily learnt, and the accompaniments are as characteristic as they are pretty. Each separate piece is so good that we cannot make references to special favourites."—Birmingham Daily Gazette

	s.	d.
Complete, paper cover	1	0
,, scarlet cloth	2	6
Or, in Six Numbers ... ... each	0	2

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

Coronation Festival Music.

EIGHT HYMNS WITH TUNES

SUITABLE FOR USE AT

SERVICES IN CELEBRATION OF THE CORONATION OF

HIS MAJESTY KING EDWARD VII.

	First line.	Author.	Composer.
No. 1.	All the hosts of Britain gather	Rev. W. H. Draper	Sir George C. Martin.
,, 2.	God of all created things	A. C. Benson	Sir C. H. H. Parry.
,, 3.	How blest the land	Rev. W. H. Draper	.. Alfred Hollins.
,, 4.	Lord of Lords, and King of Kings ..	Rev. W. St. Hill Bourne	.. John E. West.
,, 5.	Mighty Lord God, Great Ruler over all	Rev. H. C. Douglass	.. A. H. Brewer.
*,, 6.	O Mightiest of the Mighty	Rev. S. Childs-Clarke	.. Edward Elgar.
,, 7.	Raise the song, ye loyal voices	The Right Rev. The Bishop of Durham ..	.. J. H. Maunder.
,, 8.	She wears to-day no earthly crown ..	The Rev. Canon Rawnsley	.. Myles B. Foster.

* Also published separately, price 1d.

All the above Hymns and Tunes have been expressly written for this occasion (1902).

Price Three-Halfpence. Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.
Words only, Three Shillings per 100.

JUST PUBLISHED.

TEN NATIONAL HYMNS AND TUNES

FOR CHILDREN'S USE

AT

CORONATION FESTIVALS.

	First line.	Author.	Composer.
No. 1.	Children gather, children gather ..	Rev. W. H. Draper	Sir George C. Martin.
,, 2.	To Thee our God we fly	W. Walsham How	H. Walford Davies.
,, 3.	Raise the song, ye loyal voices	The Right Rev. The Bishop of Durham ..	.. J. H. Maunder.
,, 4.	Lord of heaven, and earth, and ocean	J. Crosse	.. J. Barnby.
,, 5.	Hark, boys! the hymn is rising ..	F. C. Carey Longmore	.. Frederic Clay.
,, 6.	Lord of life eternal	A. C. Benson	C. Harford Lloyd.
,, 7.	Our voices clear as summer joy ..	The Right Rev. The Bishop of Caledonia	.. John E. West.
,, 8.	God of our Fatherland	Bishop E. H. Bickersteth	H. Davan Wetton.
,, 9.	The Lord, by Whom earth's princes rule	A. Midlane	.. .. B. Tours.
,, 10.	God save the King.

Edited by W. L. R. McCLUER (Organist of St. Paul's, Canonbury).

Price Twopence; Tonic Sol-fa, Twopence.
Words only, Three Shillings per 100.

THE MUSIC

FOR AN

ORDER FOR SPECIAL SERVICES

AUTHORIZED BY THE

Most Reverend The ARCHBISHOP OF CAPETOWN

For use in his Diocese and, with the consent of his Suffragans, throughout the Province of South Africa, on the Day of

THE CORONATION OF HIS MAJESTY KING EDWARD VII.

COMPOSED BY

CHARLES MACPHERSON

(Sub-Organist of St. Paul's Cathedral).

Price Sixpence. Words, with Special Prayers, &c., 10s. per 100.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Coronation Festival Music.

ANTHEMS.

†NOW KNOW I THAT THE LORD.	By Myles B. Foster.	Price 4d.	Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.
THE KING SHALL REJOICE.	By Cuthbert Harris.	Price 4d.	Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.
THE KING SHALL REJOICE.	By E. Vine Hall.	Price 4d.	Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.
THIS IS THE DAY.	By Bruce Steane.	Price 4d.	Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.

	s.	d.
(Attwood, T. I was glad. (Sung at the Coronation, 1838)	0	4
Boyce, W.—Give the king Thy judgments	1	0
*Bridge, J. F.—Blessed be the Lord the God	0	6
Child, W.—O Lord, grant the king a long life	0	1½
Clarke, Jeremiah.—Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	0	3
Corfe, Joseph.—The king shall rejoice	1	0
Croft, William.—O Lord, grant the king a long life	1	6
*Elvey, George.—I was glad when they said	0	3
†Foster, Myles B.—Now know I that the Lord	0	4
†—— My heart is inditing	0	4
Friedlander, A. W.—Hear, O God, hear my cry	0	6
*Goss, J.—The king shall rejoice	0	1½
Greene, Dr.—The king shall rejoice	1	9
—— O God, grant the king a long life	2	0
†Handel, G. F.—My heart is inditing	0	8
†—— Let Thy hand be strengthened	0	6
†* —— The king shall rejoice } (Sung at the Coronation, 1838)	0	6
†* —— Hallelujah Chorus (Messiah) }	0	2
†* —— Zadok the Priest }	0	3
†Hall, E. Vine.—The king shall rejoice	0	4
*Harris, Cuthbert.—The king shall rejoice	0	4
Hird, F. W.—Behold, O God, our Defender	0	4
Hopkins, E. J.—The king shall rejoice	3	0
*Mackenzie, A. C.—Lord of Life	0	3
*Martin, G. C.—Kings shall be thy nursing fathers	0	2
†—— Magnify His Name	0	4
Nares, Dr.—O Lord, grant the king a long life	0	9
Purcell, H.—O Lord, grant the king a long life	4	0
†—— Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	0	4
†Stainer, J.—Lord, Thou art God	0	8
*—— Let every soul be subject unto the higher powers	0	1½
*Steane, Bruce.—This is the day	0	4
Stewart, R.—The king shall rejoice	0	6
†Sullivan, A.—O Lord, save Thy people }	0	6
—— Vouchsafe, O Lord
Walmisley, T. F.—Behold, O God, our Defender	1	6

COME, HOLY GHOST (VENI CREATOR).

*Attwood, T.	0	1½
*Elvey, George (Folio, 1s. 6d.)	0	4
Dowland, J.	0	1½
Hatton, J. L.	0	4
Monk, E. G.	0	2
Monk, E. G.	0	3
Palestrina	0	1
Smith, Samuel	0	1
Tallis	0	1½
Williams, C. Lee	0	2

DOMINE, SALVUM FAC.

Barnett, J. A.	1	0
Gounod, C. (also with English words, 1½d.)	0	2
Mozart (arranged by V. Novello)	1	0
†Novello, V.—(First Mass in C)	1	0
Silas, E. (Folio, 6d.)	0	2
Sullivan, A.	0	4
Tozer, A. E.	0	2
Webbe (T.T.B.) (arranged by V. Novello)	0	6

SERVICES—TE DEUM LAUDAMUS.

Barnby, J., in E	0	4
†Blair, H., in D	0	6
Boyce, in A. (Sung at the Coronation in 1838)	0	3
†Brewer, A. H. (for 2 Cornets, 2 Trombones, and Timpani)	0	4
Bridge, J. F., in G	0	6
Coleridge-Taylor, S., in F	0	4
†Cusins, W. G., in B flat	1	6
†Elgar, E., in F (with the Benedictus)	1	0
Garrett, G. M., in D	0	3
Garrett, G. M., in E	0	4
*Garrett, G. M., in F	0	4
*Goss, J. (Thanksgiving Te Deum)	0	6
†Handel (Chandos Te Deum)	1	0
†Handel (Dettingen Te Deum)	1	0
†Haydn, in C	1	0
Hopkins, E. J., in A	0	6
Hopkins, E. J., in F	0	6
†*Jordan, C. Warwick, in C	0	6
Lemare, E. H., in E flat	0	6
†*Martin, G. C., in A	0	6
Martin, G. C., in C (with Benedictus)	0	3
Mendelssohn, in A	0	6
†*Purcell, in D	1	0
†Romberg, A., in D	1	0
†*Smart, H., in F	0	3
*Stainer, J., in A	0	4
*Stainer, J., in B flat	0	6
*Stainer, J., in E flat	0	6
Stanford, C. V., in A	0	4
†*Stanford, C. V., in B flat	0	4
Sullivan, A. (with the Domine, Salvum Fac). Thanksgiving Te Deum	1	0
Wesley, S. S., in E	0	6
†West, J. E., in G	0	3

JUBILATE DEO.

†Blair, H., in D	0	6
Hopkins, E. J., in A	0	3
†*Jordan, C. Warwick, in C	0	4
†Martin, G. C., in A (Cornets, Trombones, and Drums)	0	9
†Purcell, in D	1	0
†Stanford, C. V., in B flat	0	3

MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS.

†Alsop, J. R., in E	0	4
†Barnby, J., in E flat	0	8
†Bennett, G. J., in A	0	6
†Bennett, G. J., in B flat (Magnificat only)	0	4
†Blair, H., in B flat	0	6
†Brewer, A. H., in C	0	6
†Bridge, J. C., in C	0	6
†Bridge, J. F., in G	0	6
†Calkin, J. B., in G	0	6
Cobb, G. F., in G	1	0
Coleridge-Taylor, S., in F	0	4
Cooke, B., in G	0	4
Elvey, S., in A	0	4
†*Faning, Eaton, in C	0	6
†Foster, M. B., in A	0	6
†Gadsby, Henry, in F	0	6
†Gadsby, Henry, in F	0	6
†Garrett, G. M., in F	0	6
*Garrett, G. M., in D	0	4
*Garrett, G. M., in E flat	0	6
†Haynes, Battison, in G	0	4
Hopkins, E. J., in D	0	6
Lemare, E. H., in A	0	6
Lloyd, C. H., in E flat	0	6
†Lloyd, C. H., in F	0	6
†Lloyd, C. H., in A (for 2 Cornets, 2 Trombones, and Timpani)	0	4
†Mann, A. H., in E	1	6
†Martin, G. C., in A	0	6
†Martin, G. C., in B flat (for Military Band)	0	6
†Martin, G. C., in C	0	6
†Martin, G. C., in G (for Cornets and Trombones)	0	6
Ditto (for Orchestra)	0	6
Mendelssohn, in A	0	6
Prout, E., in F	0	6
†Roberts, J. V., in C (for 2 Cornets and 2 Trombones)	0	4
†*Selby, B. Luard, No. 1, in A	0	6
†Selby, B. Luard. Second Service in A (for Soprano Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra)	0	6
†Smart, H., in B flat	0	6
*Smart, H., in F	0	6
Smart, H., in G	0	6
*Stainer, J., in E	0	4
Stainer, J., in E flat	0	4
†*Stainer, J., in A	0	6
†Stainer, J., in B flat	0	6
†Stanford, C. V., in A	0	6
†*Stanford, C. V., in B flat	0	4
†Steggall, C., in C	0	6
†Steggall, R., in G	0	6
†Stewart, R. P., in G	0	4
†*Tours, B., in F (String Parts, 2s.; Wind Parts, 4s. 6d.)	0	4
†Tours, B., in D (for Strings and Organ)	0	6
Walmisley, T. F., in D minor	0	4
Wesley, S. S., in E	0	6
West, J. E., in E flat	0	6
†Williams, C. L., No. 1, in C	0	6
†Williams, C. L., No. 2, in C	0	6
†Williams, C. L., in F	0	4
†Wood, W. G., in B flat	0	4

* Published also in Tonic Sol-fa.

† Orchestral Parts can be supplied.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CORONATION FESTIVAL MUSIC.

FOR THE ORGAN.

THE CORONATION NUMBER
(BOOK 31)

THE VILLAGE ORGANIST

CONTENTS.

* God save the King ... ... Sir J. F. Bridge.
* God save the King ... ... Sir Michael Costa.
Coronation March ... ... Edward German.
March, "Scipio" (original key) ... ... Handel.
King Edward Coronation March ... ... Alfred Hollins.
Coronation March ("Le Prophète") ... ... Meyerbeer.
* Two Variations on the National Anthem ... ... F. C. Woods.
Bourrée in F, from "The Water Music" ... ... Handel.
Fanfare—as played by the State Trumpeters. ... Thomas Harper, Sen.

* Can be used as organ voluntaries, or to accompany voices.

PRICE ONE SHILLING.

TWENTY-FOUR POPULAR MARCHES FOR THE ORGAN
IN TWO VOLUMES

Price, Paper, Four Shillings and Sixpence each; Cloth, Six Shillings and Sixpence each.

VOL. I.

1. Marche Triomphale ... ... F. Archer.
2. Bride's March, "Rebekah" ... ... J. Barnby.
3. Harvest Thanksgiving March ... ... J. B. Calkin.
4. March for a Church Festival ... ... E. T. Driffield.
5. Imperial March ... ... E. Elgar.
6. March to Calvary, "Redemption" ... ... C. Gounod.
7. Religious March ... ... G. A. Macfarren.
8. March from "Abraham" ... ... B. Molique.
9. March in B flat ... ... E. Silas.
10. Festive March in D ... ... H. Smart.
11. March in G ... ... B. Tours.
12. March in D minor... ... ... A. Zimmermann.

VOL. II.

13. March for a Church Festival ... ... W. T. Best.
14. Processional Wedding March ... ... H. R. Bird.
15. Festal March ... ... J. B. Calkin.
16. Solemn March ... ... E. Elgar.
17. Festal March ... ... G. Elvey.
18. Marche Solennelle ... ... C. Gounod.
19. March, "St. Polycarp"... ... ... F. A. G. Ouseley.
20. March with Pastoral Trio ... ...B. L. Selby.
21. March in G ... ... H. Smart.
22. Jubilant March ... ... J. Stainer.
23. March in F ... ... J. H. Wallis.
24. Commemoration March ... ... J. E. West.

ORGAN PIECES.

	s.	d.
Archer, Frederic.—Marche Triomphale	1	6
Beethoven.—Hallelujah ("Mount of Olives"), (arranged by E. J. Hopkins)	1	6
Best, W. T.—March for a Church Festival (Book 2. Pieces for Church use)	3	0
Brewer, A. H.—Triumphal Song	1	6
Buck, Dudley.—Triumphal March	1	6
Button, H. Elliot.—March in C	1	0
Calkin, George.—Festal March	1	0
Calkin, J. B.—Festal March	2	0
Cherubini.—Marche Religieuse (composed for the Coronation of Charles X.) (in two staves)	1	3
Clarke, Hamilton.—Grand March	1	6
Driffield, E. T.—March for a Church Festival	1	0
Elgar, Edward.—Imperial March	2	0
—— Triumphal March ("Caractacus")	2	0
Elvey, George.—Festal March	1	6
Gounod, C.—Wedding March, No. 1) The Duke of Albany (	2	0
—— Wedding March, No. 2 ...) Wedding Marches (	2	0
—— Marche Solennelle (arranged by E. Prout)	1	6
Guilmant, A.—Marche Triomphale	1	6
—— Grand Chœur	3	6
Handel.—Occasional Overture (played at the Coronation of Queen Victoria, 1838), (arranged by W. T. Best)	2	0
—— March ("Scipio") do. do.	2	0
—— Zadok the Priest ... ...) And all the people rejoiced God save the King ... ... Let Thy hand be strengthened) Arranged by W. T. Best	1	3
—— Alleluja (3rd Coronation Anthem)) The King shall rejoice Alleluja (4th Coronation Anthem) Kings shall be thy nursing Fathers) Arranged by W. T. Best	1	3
—— Zadok the Priest (arranged in two staves by Nixon) ...	0	6
—— Alleluja (4th Coronation Anthem) do. do. ...	0	6
—— Let Thy hand be strengthened do. do. ...	0	6
—— My heart is inditing do. do. ...	0	6
—— The King shall rejoice do. do. ...	0	6
—— Kings' daughters do. do. ...	0	6
—— Upon Thy right hand do. do. ...	0	6
Handel.—Zadok the Priest (arranged in two staves by John Goss)	1	0
—— Welcome, welcome Mighty King ("Saul"). Edited by G. C. Martin	1	0
—— Awake the trumpet's lofty sound ("Samson") Do. do.	1	0
—— The King shall rejoice (arranged in two staves by J. Hiles)	1	6
—— Zadok the Priest (arranged by E. J. Hopkins)	1	3
Heap, C. S.—Festal March in E flat	1	6
Hesse, A.—God save the King (with variations)	1	6
Higgs, H. M.—Processional March	2	6
Macfarren, G. A.—Sonata in C (last movement, introducing "Rule, Britannia")	4	0
—— Secular March	1	0
Mendelssohn.—War March ("Athalie"), (arranged by C. Steggall)	1	6
—— Do. do. (arranged by W. T. Best)	2	0
—— First Movement ("Hymn of Praise"), (arranged by W. A. C. Cruickshank)	2	6
Meyerbeer.—Coronation March (arranged by W. T. Best) ...	2	0
Molique, B.—March, ("Abraham") do. do. ...	1	6
—— Do. do. (arranged by A. C. Edwards)	1	0
Ouseley, F. A. G.—March ("St. Polycarp")	1	0
Rink, C. H.—God save the King (with Variations and Finale) ...	1	6
Selby, B. L.—Orchestral March	1	0
Silas, E.—March in B flat	1	0
Smart, H.—Grand Solemn March in E flat	2	0
—— March in G	1	0
—— Festive March in D	1	6
Stainer, J.—A Jubilant March	1	6
Stone, J. T.—Marche Triomphale	1	6
Wareing, H. W.—Festival March	1	6
—— Coronation March	1	6
Wagner, R.—Grand March (Introduction Act III. "Lohengrin"), (arranged by W. Creser)	1	0
—— Bridal Chorus ("Lohengrin"), (arranged by W. Creser) ...	1	0
Wesley, S. S.—National Anthem with Variations in G. Edited by G. M. Garrett	2	0
West, J. E.—Commemoration March	2	0
Zimmermann, A.—March in D minor (arranged by J. Stainer)	1	6

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Coronation Festival Music.

GOD PROSPER HIM—OUR KING

A NATIONAL CHORUS
WRITTEN BY
A. C. AINGER
AND ADAPTED TO THE MUSIC OF
VICTORIA—OUR QUEEN
COMPOSED BY
JOSEPH BARNBY.

VOCAL SCORE (S.A.T.B.), price 3d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.
Arrangement for two parts (S.A.), 1d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.
Words only, 3s. per 100. Full Score, MS.
Orchestral Parts—Strings, 1s.; Wind Parts, 2s. 3d.

CORONATION SONG

A NATIONAL CHORUS
WRITTEN BY
SHAPCOTT WENSLEY
AND ADAPTED TO THE MUSIC OF
THE QUEEN'S SONG
COMPOSED BY
EATON FANING.

Vocal Score (S.A.T.B.), 4d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.
Arranged as a Trio (S.S.A.), 3d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.
Words only, 3s. per 100; Full Score, MS.;
Orchestral Parts: Strings, 2s.; Wind, 5s.
Arrangement for Military Band, 7s. 6d.

HIS MAJESTY THE KING

A NATIONAL CHORUS
WRITTEN BY CLIFTON BINGHAM
AND ADAPTED TO THE MUSIC OF
ALL HAIL THE GLORIOUS REIGN
COMPOSED BY
FREDERIC H. COWEN.

Vocal Score (S.A.T.B.), 4d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.
Arranged as a Trio (S.S.A.), 3d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.
Words only, 3s. per 100. Full Score, MS.
Orchestral Parts: Strings, 2s.; Wind, 6s.

NOBLE CHIEF, THEE WE HAIL

POLONAISE, WITH CHORUS
From "Life for the Czar"
TRANSLATED BY
H. W. DULCKEN
COMPOSED BY
M. I. GLINKA.

Vocal Score (S.A.T.B.), 3d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.
String Parts, 2s.; Wind Parts, MS.; Full Score, 4s.
Arrangement for Military Band, 12s.

Just Published.

CHILDREN'S CORONATION SONG

("COME, RAISE WE NOW OUR VOICES")
In celebration of the Coronation of King Edward VII.
Words and Music by the Rev. Canon Torrance, Mus. Doc., M.A.

Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.
Awarded the Prize at the recent competition in connection with "The School Music Review."

Just Published.
ARRANGED FOR UNISON SINGING
OR FOR
SOPRANOS AND CONTRALTOS

The Soldiers' Chorus from Faust

COMPOSED BY
CHARLES GOUNOD.
With the original words by Henry F. Chorley.*

Price 1½d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.
* By arrangement with Messrs. Chappell and Co., Ltd.

CORONATION MARCH

COMPOSED BY
EDWARD GERMAN.

FULL SCORE. Price 3s. 6d.

Violin I. ... ... 6d.	Viola ... ... 6d.
Violin II. ... ... 6d.	Violoncello and Bass ... 6d.

Wind Parts ... ... 4s. 3d.
Military Band ... ... 7s. 6d.
Brass Band ... ... 7s. 6d.
Pianoforte Solo ... ... 2s. 6d.
Organ arrangement (Village Organist, Book 30, 1s.

CORONATION MARCH

COMPOSED BY PERCY PITT.

FULL SCORE. Price 5s. 0d.

Violin I. ... ... 6d.	Viola ... ... 6d.
Violin II. ... ... 6d.	Violoncello and Bass ... 1s.

Wind Parts (in the Press).
Pianoforte Solo, 2s.

CORONATION MARCH

COMPOSED BY
HERBERT W. WAREING.

FULL SCORE, MS.

Violin I. ... ... 6d.	Violoncello ... ... 6d.
Violin II. ... ... 6d.	Basso ... ... 6d.
Viola ... ... 6d.

Wind Parts ... ... 4s. 9d.
Pianoforte Arrangement ... ... 2s. 6d.
Organ Arrangement ... ... 1s. 6d.

IMPERIAL MARCH

COMPOSED BY
EDWARD ELGAR.

FULL SCORE. Price 3s. 6d.

Violin I. ... ... 6d.	Viola ... ... 6d.
Violin II. ... ... 6d.	Violoncello and Bass ... 6d.

Wind Parts ... ... 7s. 0d.
Military Band ... ... 9s. 0d.
Pianoforte Solo ... ... 2s. 0d.
Organ Arrangement ... ... 2s. 0d.

COMMEMORATION MARCH

COMPOSED BY
JOHN E. WEST.

FULL SCORE, MS.

Violin I. ... ... 6d.	Viola ... ... 6d.
Violin II. ... ... 6d.	Violoncello and Bass ... 6d.

Wind Parts ... ... 5s. 6d.
Military Band ... ... 9s. 0d.
Pianoforte Solo 2s. 0d
Organ Arrangement ... ... 2s. 0d.

OUR QUEEN

(QUICK MARCH)
COMPOSED BY
H. M. HIGGS.

FULL SCORE, MS.

Violin I. ... ... 6d.	Viola ... ... 6d.
Violin II. ... ... 6d.	Violoncello and Bass ... 6d.

Wind Parts ... ... 5s. 3d.
Military Band ... ... 5s. 0d.
Pianoforte Solo ... ... 2s. 0d.

JUST PUBLISHED.

LEAD, KINDLY LIGHT

WORDS BY

CARDINAL NEWMAN

SET TO MUSIC FOR

SOPRANO SOLO AND CHORUS, OR QUINTET FOR SOLO VOICES

WITH ACCOMPANIMENT FOR THE PIANOFORTE OR ORGAN

BY

LIZA LEHMANN.

No. 1, in E minor; No. 2, in D minor.
Price each, Two Shillings net.
Vocal Parts, One Shilling the set.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

THE KING SHALL REJOICE

SHORT CORONATION ANTHEM

Written especially for the Gloucester Diocesan Choral Union (June, 1902).

AD LIB. PARTS FOR TWO CORNETS, TWO TROMBONES, AND TYMPANI

BY

C. LEE WILLIAMS.

Price Twopence.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Just Published.

THREE

Seventeenth Century Settings of the Litany

AS SUNG IN LICHFIELD CATHEDRAL.

EDITED BY

JOHN B. LOTT, Mus.B., Oxon.

No. 1. SET TO MUSIC IN A MAJOR

BY

WILLIAM KING, Mus.B., Oxon.,
Organist of New College, Oxford.
(1664-1680.)
Price Threepence.

No. 2. SET TO MUSIC IN D MINOR

BY

HENRY LOOSEMORE, Mus.B., Cantab.,
Organist of King's College, Cambridge.
(1627-1670).
Price Fourpence.

No. 3. SET TO MUSIC IN C MINOR

The celebrated "York Litany"

BY

THOMAS WANLESS, Mus.B., Cantab.,
Organist of York Minster.
(1691——)
Price Fourpence.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Just Published.

MANUAL OF THE ORCHESTRAL LITERATURE OF ALL COUNTRIES

COMPILED AND EDITED BY

A. ROSENKRANZ.

In cloth, price Two Shillings and Sixpence net.

The Manual contains an almost complete list of the orchestral compositions written by composers of all countries, from Lully and Rameau (1651) up to the present time—Edward Elgar, Camille Saint-Saëns, and Richard Strauss (1902)—a period covering 250 years.

The 5012 separate works for Orchestra scheduled in the Manual are written by 1337 different composers, and are classified as follows:—

Overtures	1272	Miscellaneous Pieces ...	434
Symphonies	588	Marches	467
Various Concert Pieces...	1542	Music for String Orchestra	709

A special table, showing the degree in which the different nationalities of the various composers are represented, is given in the preface.

The alphabetical list of the names of the composers is placed at the end of the Manual, and whenever it was obtainable, the year in which each composer was born is stated.

In order to keep "The Manual of Orchestral Literature" up to date, and make it absolutely reliable as a Handbook of reference, supplementary lists will be issued at regular intervals.

London: Novello and Company Limited.

LEGEND

BY

WILLIAM H. SPEER

SCORED FOR SMALL ORCHESTRA

(Strings, 1 Flute, 1 Oboe, 2 Clarinets, 2 Bassoons, 2 Horns, and Drums)

By THE COMPOSER.

String Parts, 2s. 6d.; Wind Parts and Full Score, MS.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

The above for PIANO AND VIOLIN. Price 4s.
London: Laudy and Co., 139, Oxford Street, W.

MEDITATION

BY

WILLIAM H. SPEER

SCORED FOR SMALL ORCHESTRA

(Strings, 1 Flute, 1 Oboe, 2 Clarinets, 2 Bassoons, 1 Horn)

By THE COMPOSER.

String Parts, 2s. 6d.; Wind Parts and Full Score, MS.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

The above for PIANO AND VIOLIN. Price 4s.
London: Laudy and Co., 139, Oxford Street, W.

Just Published.

KILLIECRANKIE

(The Burial March of Dundee)

A BALLAD

FOR TENOR SOLO, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

The Words from "Lays of the Scottish Cavaliers," by PROFESSOR AYTOUN

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

J. A. MOONIE.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.
Tonic Sol-fa, Eightpence.
String Parts, 7s.; Wind Parts and Full Score, MS.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

COMPOSITIONS
BY ARTHUR HENRY MANN.

SERVICES.	s.	d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in A flat	0	6
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E. For Double choir, unaccompanied	1	0
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E. For Chorus, Orchestra, and Organ	1	0
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in D	0	2
ANTHEMS, &c.
God be merciful unto us	0	4
I will lay me down in peace.. .. (Sol-fa, 1½d.)	0	1½
O love the Lord .. .. .. (Sol-fa, 1½d.)	0	1½
O taste and see	0	3
Twelve popular Hymn Tunes. Two sets each	0	3
SONG.
Unrest in rest	2	0

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Just Published.

HEMO DANCE
SCHERZO
FOR VIOLIN SOLO
With Accompaniment for the Pianoforte
composed by
S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR.
(Op. 47, No. 2.)

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Just Published.

THE JUNIOR VIOLINIST.
Edited by C. Egerton Lowe.

BOOK 10.

THREE PIECES
No 1. FUNERAL MARCH IN B MINOR (From Op. 35).
,, 2. PRELUDE IN E MINOR (Op. 28, No. 4).
,, 3. WALTZ IN B MINOR (Op. 69, No. 2).
BY CHOPIN.

Arranged for Violin and Pianoforte
(First to Fifth Position.)

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Just Published.

KING GOLDEMAR
(The Story of Elfin Mount)
AN OPERETTA FOR JUNIOR SCHOOLS AND CLASSES
THE LIBRETTO WRITTEN BY
K. SIDFORD.
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
THEODORE S. HOLLAND.

Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa combined, price Two Shillings.
Tonic Sol-fa, Ninepence.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

NOVELLO'S
ALBUMS FOR PIANOFORTE AND STRINGED INSTRUMENTS
(Two Violins, Viola, and Violoncello).

The Pieces in most of these Albums are so arranged that if any Part, or Combination of Parts, in addition to the First Violin and Pianoforte is used they will sound complete.

No. 1.
SUITE OF FOUR PIECES
By ARNOLD DOLMETSCH.
Price 2s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 2.
SUITE OF FIVE PIECES
By HENRY PURCELL.
Price 2s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 3.
THREE DANCES
From the Music to "Henry VIII."
By EDWARD GERMAN.
Price 5s. Separate String Parts, 1s. each.

No. 4.
GAVOTTE IN D
By RAMEAU.
Price 2s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 5.
SIX PIECES FROM THE WATER MUSIC
By G. F. HANDEL.
Price 3s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 6.
TWO BOURRÉES
By G. F. HANDEL.
Price 2s. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 7.
BENEDICTUS
By A. C. MACKENZIE.
Price 3s. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 8.
JUDEX FROM "MORS ET VITA"
By CHARLES GOUNOD.
Price 3s. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 9.
WEDDING MARCH
By MENDELSSOHN.
Price 2s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 10.
WAR MARCH ("Athalie")
By MENDELSSOHN.
Price 2s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 11.
CORNELIUS MARCH
By MENDELSSOHN.
Price 2s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 12.
FUNERAL MARCH
By MENDELSSOHN.
Price 2s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 13.
GAVOTTE ANCIENNE
By GEORGE ELVEY.
Price 2s. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

Nos. 14—17.
FOUR ENGLISH DANCES
By F. H. COWEN.
Price 2s. 6d. each. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

Nos. 18—21.
FOUR CHARACTERISTIC WALTZES
By S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR.
Price 2s. each. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 22.
ANDANTINO
From the Symphony "The Consecration of Sound."
By L. SPOHR.
Price 3s. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

A Modern School for the Violin

BY

AUGUST WILHELMJ and JAMES BROWN.

THE purpose of this Work is to provide, in one systematic and comprehensive scheme, all that is necessary for the acquirement of the Art of Modern Violin Playing.

"A Modern School for the Violin" will consist of Six Books devoted to Daily Technical Practice, Six Books of Studies for Violin alone, and a large number of Pieces with Pianoforte Accompaniment, the Violin parts being specially edited for the purposes of teaching.

SECTION A.—TECHNICAL PRACTICE. IN SIX BOOKS.

The foundation of "A Modern School for the Violin" is laid by means of a series of Six Books dealing exclusively with the important subject of Daily Technical Practice. The First Book of Technical Practice (Book 1A) is limited to the 1st Position; the Second Book (2A) to the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd Positions; the Third Book (3A) to the first five Positions; and so on. Bowings and other technical devices are introduced in a similarly progressive manner throughout. Each Book of Technical Practice is divided into "Lessons" (or Chapters), and each Lesson contains a number of short repeating Exercises on some definite point of Violin Technique—as Fingering, Bowing, &c., with the needful explanations. Included in each Book will be found a complete set of Scales and Arpeggi, arranged according to the particular stage of advancement reached.

Taken as a whole, this Section is intended to facilitate, and to insist on, a thorough, steady, and continuous progress in the mastery of the Instrument, this being the only possible means of preparing the groundwork for artistic achievement with all its lasting delights.

SECTION B.—STUDIES. IN SIX BOOKS.

Section B is formed of a series of original and selected Studies, in Six Books. Each Book of Studies (Section B) is carefully co-ordinated, in respect of difficulty and range of subject, with the correspondingly numbered Book of Technical Practice (Section A). Thus the First Book of Studies (1B) is written in the 1st Position; the Second Book (2B) in the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd Positions; the 3rd Book (3B) in all Positions up to and including the 5th; and so on. It should further be explained that the two Sections are designed to complement one another, and that the "School" must be practised, not in single Books of Technical Practice and Studies alternately, but in pairs. Thus, Books 1A and 1B are to be taken concurrently, then Books 2A and 2B, 3A and 3B, and so on.

1A.	TECHNICAL PRACTICE (1st Position)	2s. od.	1B.	STUDIES (1st Position)	2s. od.
2A.	Ditto (1st, 2nd, and 3rd Positions)	2s. od.	2B.	Ditto (1st, 2nd, and 3rd Positions) ..	2s. 6d.
3A.	Ditto (1st to 5th Position)	3s. od.	3B.	Ditto (1st to 5th Position)	3s. od.
4A.	Ditto (all Positions)	2s. 6d.	4B.	.. ..
5A.	Ditto		5B.	.. ..
6A.	Ditto		6B.	.. ..
	Books 1A, 2A, 3A, and 4A now ready.			Books 1B, 2B, and 3B now ready.

PIECES.

In completion of the scheme of "A Modern School" a large number of Pieces will be published, in a form designed to fulfil the requirements of Violin Teachers and Students. In each number the Violin part will be furnished with complete Fingerings and Bowings, besides remarks as to the methods of rendering, &c.

Now Ready.

No. 13.	TWELVE FOLK DANCES FROM DENMARK. (1st Position)	2s. od.
No. 14.	SONATA IN G MINOR. G. Tartini. (All Positions)	2s. od.
No. 15.	OVERTURE TO SAMSON. G. F. Handel. (1st, 2nd, and 3rd Positions)	2s. od.
No. 16.	SONATINA IN D. Franz Schubert. (1st, 2nd, and 3rd Positions)	2s. od.
No. 17.	EIGHT HYMN TUNES. Various Composers. (1st Position)	1s. 6d.
No. 18.	STYRIAN DANCES (LÄNDLER). Josef Lanner. (1st to 5th Position)	2s. od.
No. 20.	SONATA IN G Joseph Haydn. (1st to 5th Position)	2s. od.
No. 21.	CONCERTO IN A MINOR. J. S. Bach. (1st to 6th Position)	2s. od.
No. 22.	CONCERTO IN A MINOR. Pierre Rode. (Op. 9.) (All Positions)	2s. 6d.
No. 23.	TWELVE CAROLS. (1st Position)	2s. od.
No. 25.	RÊVERIE. Henri Vieuxtemps. (Op. 22, No. 3.) (Advanced)	2s. od.
No. 26.	FOUR LITTLE PIECES. (From Op. 8.) Ignaz Pleyel. (1st Position)	2s. od.
No. 27.	SARABANDE AND TAMBOURIN. Jean-Marie Leclair. (1st to 5th Position)	2s. od.
No. 28.	BOURRÉE AND GIGUE. J. S. Bach. (1st and 3rd Positions)	1s. 6d.

In the Press.

No. 19.	PRELUDE AND FUGUE IN G MINOR. J. S. Bach. (Advanced)
No. 24.	SONATA IN A. W. A. Mozart. (1st to 5th Position)
No. 29.	BALLADE AND POLONAISE. Henri Vieuxtemps

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited
and
NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

HENRY LESLIE'S PART-SONGS.

PART-SONGS FOR MIXED VOICES.

(S A T.B. unless otherwise stated.)

*A dream of calm	4d.
†A rose of the garden...	4d.
Arise, sweet love	3d.
Awake, awake, the flowers unfold... (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.)	3d.
*Bridal Song	4d.
Charm me asleep (S.S.A.T.B.B.) ... (Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.)	3d.
Daylight is fading ... ... (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.)	1½d.
Down in a pretty valley	3d.
Evening (also for A.T.T.B., 2d.)	1½d.
†Golden Slumbers kiss your eyes	4d.
Hail to the Chief (also as a Song, 2/-; and as a Trio, S.A.B., 2/6)	3d.
Homeward (or, as a Song, The day died slowly, 2/-) (Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.)	4d.
How sweet the moonlight ... ... (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.)	1½d.
†Kind Words	4d.
Ladye fair, thou hast my life ... (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.)	2d.
Land-Ho	3d.
†Lullaby of Life	4d.
My love is fair (S.A.T.B.B.) ... ...(Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.)	3d.
My soul to God, my heart to thee	3d.
Now the bright morning star ...(Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.)	3d.
†O let me play the fool (S.S.A.T.B.B.)	6d.
*O gentle sleep	4d.
One morning sweet in May	3d.
Parting and Meeting. (Volkslied, Mendelssohn) (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.)	1½d.
Raise again the bold refrain. (Russian Melody) ...	1½d.
*Resurgam	4d.
*Song of the Flax-spinner	4d.
†The Angel's Visit	4d.
†The Golden Year	6d.
The Lass of Richmond Hill ... (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.)	4d.
The Pilgrims ... ... (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.)	3d.
The Primrose...	1½d.
†The Rainbow	4d.
The Troubadour (S.A.T.B.B.) ... (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.)	4d.
The Violet	3d.
Thine eyes so bright (S.S.A.T.B.B.) (Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.)	4d.
This morning, at the dawn of day... (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.)	2d.
Up, up, ye dames	3d.
†We roam and rule the sea	4d.
*Welcome, Spring	4d.
What ho! are all on board asleep	3d.
*When the shades of eve descending	4d.
†Who is the Angel that cometh	6d.
*Ye mariners of England	4d.

PART-SONGS FOR MALE VOICES.

Evening (A.T.T.B.) (also for S.A.T.B., 1½d.)	2d.
Pibroch of Donuil Dhu (A.T.T.B.)	3d.
†Song of the Minne-singers (Come, fill your glasses) (T.T.B.B.)	4d.
†The red sun is setting. A Lullaby (T.T.B.B.)	4d.
*The rejected lover (A.T.B.B.)	4d.

PART-SONGS FOR FEMALE VOICES.

Good-night (S.S.A.) ... ... (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.)	3d.
Hark! the lark (Dr. Cooke) (S.S.A.A.) (Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.)	3d.
O happy fair; or, The Loadstars (Shield) (S.S.A.) (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.)	3d.
Rise again, glad Summer Sun (S.S.A.) (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.)	3d.
The Swallow (S.S.A.)... ...(Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.)	3d.
The Nightingale (Weelkes) (S.S.A.) (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.)	2d.

* Hitherto published by Messrs. J. B. Cramer and Co.
† Hitherto published by Messrs. Stanley Lucas and Co., Ltd., and E. Hatzfeld.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

Just Published.

A MODERN SCHOOL
FOR THE VIOLIN
BY AUGUST WILHELMJ
AND
JAMES BROWN.

BOOK 4A.
(FOURTH BOOK OF TECHNICAL PRACTICE.)

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

REVISED EDITION
AS PERFORMED AT THE ROYAL ALBERT HALL, JANUARY 23, 1902.

THE BLIND GIRL OF CASTÉL CUILLE
CANTATA
THE POEM TRANSLATED FROM THE GASCON OF JASMIN BY
H. W. LONGFELLOW
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR.
(Op. 43.)
Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

THE LAY OF THE BROWN ROSARY
A DRAMATIC CANTATA
IN FOUR SCENES
THE WORDS ADAPTED FROM THE POEM OF
ELIZABETH BARRETT BROWNING
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
A. VON AHN CARSE.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Second Edition.

NARCISSUS AND ECHO
CANTATA FOR CHORUS, SOLI, AND ORCHESTRA
Price 3s.; Choral Parts, 1s. each. Also,
"GOD IS OUR REFUGE" (Ps. 46)
For Chorus, Soli, and Orchestra. Price 1s.
COMPOSED BY
EDWIN C. SUCH,
Mus. Bac., Cantab.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS (S.A.T.B.)
By W. W. PEARSON.

BEN BOWLEGS ... ... 3d.
"Ben Bowlegs" is funny, but so delicately handled as to commend itself even to the most critical listener."—Musical Times.
THE SNOW-WHITE DOE ... ... 4d.
"The well-known hunting song rhythm is happily travestied."—Musical Times.
A RYGHTE MERRIE GESTE ... ... 4d.
"The florid style of some of the old glee writers is caricatured with capital effect."—Musical Times.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS. By A. B. ALLEN.
"Tom, the Piper's son." S.A.T.B. Price 3d.
"Dickory, dickory dock." S.A.T.B. Price 4d.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE VILLAGE ORGANIST

NEW NUMBERS.

BOOKS 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, and 30, NOW READY.
Book 31.—Coronation Number. (Just Published.)

Price One Shilling each.
Books 25 to 30 together, forming Volume V., bound in cloth, price Six Shillings.

Detailed List on application.

NOVELLO'S ANTHEM BOOKS

NEW NUMBERS

BOOKS 7, 8, and 9, NOW READY.

Price One Shilling each.
Tonic Sol-fa, Eightpence each.

Detailed List on application.

NOVELLO'S

REVISED LIST OF WORKS SUITABLE FOR

PRESENTS AND SCHOOL PRIZES

Detailed List on application.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Just Published.

CHAMPAGNERLIED

FOR TENOR SOLO, CHORUS OF MEN'S VOICES (T.T.B.B.), AND ORCHESTRA

THE POEM WRITTEN BY
COUNT STRACHWITZ
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
HEINRICH HOFMANN.
(Op. 17.)

The English Translation by G. E. Troutbeck.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

REVISED EDITION.
INCLUDING THE NEW TITLE OF THE
PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES
And containing the new Forms of an Accession Service for January 22nd.

THE CATHEDRAL PRAYER BOOK

Being the BOOK OF COMMON PRAYER with the Music necessary for the use of Choirs, together with the CANTICLES and PSALTER (the Cathedral Psalter), Pointed for Chanting.

Edited by Sir JOHN STAINER, M.A., Mus. Doc., Oxon.
AND
The Rev. WILLIAM RUSSELL, M.A., Mus. Bac., Oxon.

New Editions on India Paper.

		s.	d.
No. 1.	Demy 8vo., 628 pp., large type. With Canticles and Psalter pointed for Chanting:—
	Rutland Morocco, India paper	11	0
	Turkey Morocco, India paper	15	0
	Russia leather, India paper	16	6
No. 2.	Demy 8vo., 600 pp., large type. With Canticles and Psalter pointed, set to appropriate Chants (Cathedral Psalter Chants):—
	Rutland Morocco, India paper	11	0
	Turkey Morocco, India paper	15	0
	Russia leather, India paper	16	6
No. 3.	Imperial 32mo., 696 pp., Pocket Edition. With Canticles and Psalter pointed for Chanting:—
	Rutland Morocco, India paper	7	0
	Turkey Morocco, India paper	9	0
	Russia leather, India paper	10	6

The Clergy can be supplied with copies, in quantities of not less than 25, at 20 per cent. discount.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

The Posthumous Works of Mendelssohn.

Messrs. NOVELLO have the honour to announce that the following Works by Mendelssohn are still Copyright, and that they are the property of their Firm; also that it is contrary to Law to import any Foreign editions of the same into Great Britain or the Colonies, or to sell or purchase copies of any such editions which may have been at any time unlawfully imported, viz.:—

Opus 46. "For His is the Sea," being the Appendix to "O come, let us sing."

Opus 98. ("Ave Maria," Sop. Solo and Chorus for Female Voices / "Vintage Song") From "Loreley."

Opus 101. Overture in C (Trumpet Overture).

Opus 102. The Songs without Words. Nos. 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, and 48. Constituting the whole of the Eighth Book.

Opus 103. Funeral March. Composed for a Military Band.

Opus 104. (a) Three Preludes for the Pianoforte. (b) Three Studies for the Pianoforte.

Opus 105. Sonata in G minor for the Pianoforte.

Opus 106. Sonata in B flat for the Pianoforte.

Opus 107. Symphony No. 5. The "Reformation."

Opus 108. The Cornelius March.

Opus 109. Romance sans Paroles for Violoncello and Pianoforte.

Opus 110. Sestetto for Pianoforte, Violin, two Violas, Violoncello, and Contrabasso.

Opus 111. "Tu es Petrus," Chorus for Five Voices (S.S.A.T.B.)

Opus 112. ("But the Lord will gather all them." / "Thou who has doomed man to die." Originally composed for the Oratorio "St. Paul.")

Opus 113. Opus 114. (Two Concert Pieces in F minor and D minor for Clarinet and Basset-horn, with Pianoforte Accompaniment.

Opus 115. ((No. 1). "For ever blessed" (Beati mortui). (No. 2). "The righteous living for ever" (Periti autem).

Opus 116. "Saw ye not the pallid Angel."

Opus 117. Album-Blatt for the Pianoforte.

Opus 118. Capriccio in E minor for the Pianoforte.

Opus 119. Perpetuum Mobile for the Pianoforte.

Opus 120. Four Part-Songs for Men's Voices:—
No. 43 in Novello's Series.—A Festal Greeting.
,, 44 do. Gipsy Song.
,, 45 do. Hunting Song ("Waken, Lords").
,, 46 do. Land of Beauty.

Opus 121. Responses and Hymn for Men's Voices and Organ.

WITHOUT OPUS NUMBERS.

The Maiden's Lament. No. 76 of Novello's Edition of Mendelssohn's Songs, edited and translated by Natalia Macfarren. (See also Opus 112, above.)

Two Pieces for the Organ:—
Andante with Variations. Allegro in B flat.

NOVELLO & CO., Ltd.,
1, Berners Street, W.
February 1, 1902.

JUST PUBLISHED.

NOVELLO'S
SCHOOL OF PIANOFORTE MUSIC

EDITED BY

KARL KLINDWORTH.

PREFACE.

The characteristic features of Novello's School of Pianoforte Music are accuracy of text, minuteness of phrasing indications, and careful fingering. With these fundamental principles of good editing has been combined the important, though often neglected essential of the artistic presentment of the music to the eye. Special attention has accordingly been paid to clearness, especially in the direction of ample spacing of the notes, legibility, and, as far as possible, in providing convenient turning-over places – important matters which will materially assist the player in the study of the pieces contained in this series. The annotations of the Editor, the use of which will greatly aid the students in a proper interpretation of these works, speak for themselves.

		s.	d.
No. 1.	RONDO IN C ... ...L. van Beethoven	1	6
„ 2.	RONDO IN G ... ...L. van Beethoven	2	0
„ 3.	ANDANTE IN F ... ...L. van Beethoven	2	0
„ 4.	THE ITALIAN CONCERTO ... ... J. S. Bach	3	0
„ 5.	ARIA CON VARIAZIONI—The Harmonious Blacksmith G. F. Handel	1	6
„ 6.	FUGUE IN E MINOR ... ... G. F. Handel	1	6
„ 7.	ANDANTE CON VARIAZIONI IN F MINOR ... Joseph Haydn	2	0
„ 8.	RONDO IN E FLAT ... ... J. N. Hummel	2	0
„ 9.	RONDO IN B MINOR ... ... J. N. Hummel	2	0
„ 10.	PRELUDE AND FUGUE IN E MINOR F. Mendelssohn-Bartholdy	2	0
„ 11.	FANTASIA IN C MINOR ... ... W. A. Mozart	2	0
„ 12.	RONDO IN A MINOR ... ... W. A. Mozart	2	0
„ 13.	IMPROMPTU IN B FLAT ... ... F. Schubert	2	0
„ 14.	RONDO BRILLANT ... ...C. M. von Weber	2	0

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited
AND
NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

Orchestral Works by British Composers.

			Strings.	Wind.	Full Score.
William Henry Bell	...	"A Song in the Morning"	7 0 ...	—	—
,, ,,	...	Mother Carey (Three Sailor pieces)		—	—
Frederic H. Cowen	...	Symphony No. 4 (The Welsh)	7 0 ...	13 0 ...	15 0
,, ,,	...	Four English Dances in the Olden Style	6 0 ...	12 0 ...	10 6
,, ,,	...	Do. (Small Orchestra)	6 0 ...	9 0 ...	—
,, ,,	...	Waltz from "The Sleeping Beauty"	2 0 ...	6 6 ...	5 0
,, ,,	...	Overture, "The Butterfly's Ball"	6 6 ...	14 3 ...	10 6
S. Coleridge-Taylor	...	Four Characteristic Waltzes (also for Small Orchestra)	6 0 ...	12 0 ...	5 0
,, ,,	...	Ballade in D minor (Violin and Orchestra)	2 6 ...	—	—
,, ,,	...	Overture to "The Song of Hiawatha"	5 0 ...	13 6 ...	—
,, ,,	...	Solemn Prelude	2 6 ...	—	—
,, ,,	...	Ballade in A minor	4 6 ...	10 6 ...	7 6
,, ,,	...	Scenes from An Everyday Romance	9 6 ...	—	—
,, ,,	...	Romance in G (Violin and Orchestra)	2 6 ...	—	—
,, ,,	...	"Toussaint l'Ouverture"	5 6 ...	—	—
,, ,,	...	Idyll	2 6 ...	—	—
Frederick Cliffe	...	Symphony in C minor	11 0 ...	21 0 ...	—
,, ,,	...	Ballade from do.	3 6 ...	6 6 ...	5 0
Edward Elgar	...	Variations on an Original Theme	10 0 ...	22 0 ...	25 0
,, ,,	...	Prelude and Angel's Farewell ("Gerontius")	3 0 ...	—	—
,, ,,	...	Imperial March	2 0 ...	7 0 ...	3 6
,, ,,	...	Meditation ("The Light of Life")	2 0 ...	5 6 ...	—
,, ,,	...	Froissart. Concert Overture	4 6 ...	9 0 ...	7 6
,, ,,	...	Triumphal March ("Caractacus")	2 6 ...	10 6 ...	—
,, ,,	...	Chanson de Nuit	1 3 ...	1 6 ...	2 6
,, ,,	...	Chanson de Matin	1 6 ...	1 6 ...	2 6
,, ,,	...	Three Pieces. 1. Mazurka	2 6 ...	5 0 ...	5 0
,, ,,	...	2. Sérénade Mauresque	2 6 ...	4 3 ...	5 0
,, ,,	...	3. Contrasts	2 6 ...	5 3 ...	5 0
,, ,,	...	Intermezzo ("Dorabella") for strings, woodwind, and drums (from Variations on an Original Theme) ...	2 3 ...	1 6 ...	3 0
Ernest Ford	...	Grand Valse from the "Faust" Ballet	2 6 ...	11 3 ...	—
,, ,,	...	Scène Bacchanale from the "Faust" Ballet	5 0 ...	—	—
Henry Gadsby	...	"The Forest of Arden." Intermezzo and Tantarra	4 0 ...	6 0 ...	7 6
Edward German	...	"Henry VIII." Overture	3 0 ...	—	—
,, ,,	...	Do. Prelude, Act II.	2 0 ...	—	—
,, ,,	...	Do. Prelude, Act III.	2 0 ...	—	—
,, ,,	...	Do. Coronation March	2 0 ...	4 3 ...	—
,, ,,	...	Do. Prelude, Act V.	2 0 ...	4 3 ...	3 6
,, ,,	...	Do. Three Dances	4 0 ...	—	—
,, ,,	...	"As you like it." Masque (Three Dances)	4 6 ...	7 6 ...	7 6
,, ,,	...	English Fantasia, "In Commemoration"	5 6 ...	10 6 ...	7 6
,, ,,	...	"Gipsy Suite." Four Characteristic Dances	7 0 ...	—	—
,, ,,	...	"Hamlet." Symphonic Poem	6 6 ...	14 0 ...	10 6
,, ,,	...	"The Seasons." Spring	5 0 ...	13 0 ...	—
,, ,,	...	Do. Harvest Dance (Summer)	5 0 ...	12 3 ...	—
,, ,,	...	Do. Autumn	2 6 ...	12 6 ...	—
,, ,,	...	Do. Winter	7 0 ...	16 6 ...	—
,, ,,	...	Suite in D minor	13 6 ...	26 6 ...	—
,, ,,	...	Do. Valse Gracieuse	4 0 ...	10 0 ...	7 6
,, ,,	...	"Richard III." Overture	2 6 ...	7 0 ...	7 6
,, ,,	...	"Romeo and Juliet." Prelude	2 6 ...	5 6 ...	5 0
,, ,,	...	Do. Pastorale	2 0 ...	5 6 ...	—
,, ,,	...	Do. Pavane	2 0 ...	5 6 ...	3 6
,, ,,	...	Do. Nocturne	2 0 ...	5 6 ...	—
,, ,,	...	Do. Dramatic Interlude	2 0 ...	5 6 ...	—
,, ,,	...	"Much ado about nothing." Overture	4 6 ...	10 6 ...	—
,, ,,	...	Do. Bourrée and Gigue	4 0 ...	9 0 ...	7 6
Battison Haynes	...	"Westwood" Gavotte (also for Small Orchestra)	2 0 ...	4 3 ...	—
,, ,,	...	Idyll (Violin and Orchestra)	2 0 ...	2 9 ...	—
George Henschel	...	Incidental Music to Shakespeare's "Hamlet"	7 6 ...	15 0 ...	30 0
Oliver King	...	Concert Overture (No. 1), "Among the Pines"	2 6 ...	7 3 ...	4 0
,, ,,	...	Concert Overture (No. 2)	2 0 ...	—	—
,, ,,	...	"Night." A Symphony in F	8 6 ...	—	10 6
Alex. C. Mackenzie	...	Benedictus	1 6 ...	2 0 ...	5 0
,, ,,	...	"Burns." 2nd Scotch Rhapsody	3 6 ...	6 6 ...	5 0
,, ,,	...	"Colomba." Prelude	2 0 ...	4 9 ...	4 0
,, ,,	...	Do. Ballet Music and Rustic March	4 0 ...	9 3 ...	10 6
,, ,,	...	Concerto for Violin	6 6 ...	10 3 ...	21 0
,, ,,	...	Highland Ballad	2 6 ...	4 0 ...	—
,, ,,	...	"Jason." Intermezzo	2 0 ...	5 3 ...	7 6
,, ,,	...	"La belle dame sans merci"	5 6 ...	11 9 ...	7 6
,, ,,	...	"The Little Minister." Overture	4 6 ...	10 0 ...	—
,, ,,	...	Do. Three Dances (also for Small Orchestra)	4 6 ...	11 0 ...	—
,, ,,	...	"Manfred." "Astarte"	3 0 ...	—	—
,, ,,	...	Do. Pastorale	4 0 ...	—	—
,, ,,	...	Do. "The Flight of the Spirits"	5 0 ...	—	—
,, ,,	...	Morris Dance	2 6 ...	—	—
,, ,,	...	Pibroch Suite (Violin Solo and Orchestra)	6 6 ...	11 6 ...	—
,, ,,	...	Processional March	2 6 ...	—	—
,, ,,	...	"Ravenswood" Music (Prelude and 1st, 2nd, and 3rd Entr'actes)	8 6 ...	—	—
,, ,,	...	Do. Courante (3rd Entr'acte)	2 0 ...	6 0 ...	—
,, ,,	...	Rhapsodie Ecossaise (No. 1)	3 6 ...	8 0 ...	5 0
,, ,,	...	"Story of Sayid." Solemn March	1 6 ...	3 9 ...	—
,, ,,	...	"Twelfth Night." Overture	6 6 ...	12 0 ...	12 0
Hamish MacCunn	...	"The Land of the Mountain and the Flood"	4 0 ...	8 0 ...	10 6
C. H. H. Parry	...	Symphonic Variations	4 6 ...	8 6 ...	10 0
,, ,,	...	Symphony in F, No. 3 (The Cambridge)	12 0 ...	—	In the Press.
,, ,,	...	Suite in F (for Strings)	5 0 ...	—	In the Press.
Percy Pitt	...	Air de Ballet (for Strings)	2 6 ...	—	2 0
,, ,,	...	Ballade (Violin Solo and Orchestra)	2 6 ...	6 0 ...	10 6
,, ,,	...	Coronation March	2 6 ...	In the Press.	5 0
C. Villiers Stanford	...	The Irish Symphony	11 0 ...	22 6 ...	30 0
,, ,,	...	Prelude to "Œdipus Rex"	4 0 ...	8 0 ...	6 0
,, ,,	...	Symphony (No. 4) in F major	11 0 ...	26 0 ...	30 0
,, ,,	...	Suite for Violin and Orchestra	7 0 ...	12 6 ...	21 0
Arthur Sullivan	...	Overture, "In Memoriam"	4 6 ...	8 6 ...	15 0
,, ,,	...	Overture, "Di Ballo"	5 0 ...	12 0 ...	12 0
,, ,,	...	"The Tempest." Incidental Music	11 6 ...	19 0 ...	30 0

 MS. copies can be lent on hire in all cases where no prices are inserted.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ENGLISH LYRICS

SET TO MUSIC BY

C. HUBERT H. PARRY.

FIVE SETS. Price 2s. 6d. each.

FIRST SET.

1. My true love hath my heart .. Sir Philip Sidney.
2. Good-night .. .. Shelley.
3. Where shall the lover rest .. .. .. Scott.
4. Willow, Willow, Willow .. .. .. Shakespeare.

SECOND SET.

1. O Mistress Mine .. .. Shakespeare.
2. Take, O take those lips away .. .. ,,
3. No longer mourn for me .. .. .. ,,
4. Blow, blow, thou winter wind .. .. ,,
5. When icicles hang by the wall .. .. ,,

THIRD SET.

1. To Lucasta, on going to the wars .. Lovelace.
2. If thou would'st ease thine heart .. Beddoes.
3. To Althea, from prison .. .. .. Lovelace.
4. Why so pale and wan .. .. .. Suckling.
5. Through the ivory gate .. .. Julian Sturgis.
6. Of all the torments .. .. William Walsh.

FOURTH SET.

1. Thine eyes still shined for me .. .. Emerson.
2. When lovers meet again .. Langdon Elwyn Mitchell.
3. When we two parted .. .. .. Byron.
4. Weep you no more .. .. Anon.
5. There be none of beauty's daughters .. Byron.
6. Bright star .. .. Keats.

FIFTH SET.—In the Press.

1. A stray nymph of Dian .. .. Julian Sturgis.
2. Proud Maisie .. .. Scott.
3. Crabbed age and youth .. .. .. Shakespeare.
4. Lay a garland on my hearse Beaumont and Fletcher.
5. Love and laughter .. .. .. Arthur Butler.
6. A girl to her glass .. .. .. Julian Sturgis.
7. A Lullaby .. .. C. O. Jones.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

MUSIC SUITABLE FOR USE AT THE SERVICE OF HOLY MATRIMONY.

ANTHEMS, HYMNS, &c.

	s.	d.
Blessed are all they that fear the Lord ... ...E. G. Monk	1	6
Vocal parts	1	0
Blessed are they that fear the Lord ... ... Sir George Elvey	0	1
Tonic Sol-fa	0	1½
Except the Lord build the house ... ... F. A. G. Ouseley	0	6
Vocal parts	0	6
Father of Life (Hymn) ... ... Jas. Turle	0	3
Father of Life (Hymn) ... ... W. Creser	1	6
Father of Life ... ... Samuel J. Gilbert	0	3
For the flame of love is as Fire ... ... A. C. Mackenzie	0	4
Give the King Thy judgments ... ... S. S. Wesley	4	0
God, be merciful unto us ... ... S. S. Wesley
Octavo	0	3
Vocal parts	1	0
Folio	1	6
O God, Thou art worthy ... ... Arthur Sullivan
Vocal parts	1	0
Octavo	0	4
Tonic Sol-fa	0	1½
Folio	1	6
O Perfect Love (Anthem) ... ... J. Barnby	0	3
Tonic Sol-fa	0	1
Ditto (Arranged as a Two-part Chorus). Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa combined	0	1½
Ditto (Hymn) ... ... J. Barnby	0	1½
Ditto (Hymn) ... ... G. J. Bennett	0	1½
Ditto (Anthem) ... ... H. Elliot Button	0	1½
Ditto (Anthem) ... ... Charles L. Naylor	0	2
Holy Ghost, to earth descending ... ... Antonin Dvorák	0	4
The Blessing of the Lord ... ... A. C. Mackenzie	0	3
The Blessing of the Lord ... ... J. Frederick Bridge	0	2
There was a marriage in Cana of Galilee ... ... J. Stainer	0	3
Protect them, Almighty. Chorus ... ... J. Barnby	0	3
The Service for the Solemnization of Holy Matrimony, as used at Westminster Abbey, with a special Anthem composed by J. Frederick Bridge	0	6
Music for the Marriage Service. Edited by Rev. J. Baden-Powell	0	2
My God, I thank Thee ... ... E. H. Lemare	0	3
Now is the earth with God's glory rejoicing (Hymn) J. Stainer (Words only, 2s. 6d. per 100.)	0	1
O God of Grace (Hymn) .. .. J. Stainer (Words only, 2s. 6d. per 100..	0	1

ORGAN MUSIC.

Nuptial March ... ... B. Luard Selby	1	0
Wedding March (Gounod), No. 1. Arranged by G. C. Martin	2	0
Wedding March, No. 2 ... ... Charles Gounod	2	0
Wedding March (Mendelssohn) ...Arranged by W. T. Best	2	0
Wedding March ,, Arranged by C. E. Willing	1	0
March in "Athalie" ,, Arranged by Ch. Steggall	1	6
March in "Athalie" ,, Arranged by W. T. Best	2	0
Benedictus (A. C. Mackenzie) Arr. by C. Palmer and J. B. Lott	1	6
Largo (Handel) ... ... Arranged by G. C. Martin	1	0
March in "Tannhäuser" ... ... Arranged by F. Archer	2	0
Processional Wedding March ... ... Henry R. Bird	1	0
A Wedding Piece ... ... A. C. Mackenzie	1	0
The Bride's March ("Rebekah," J. Barnby), Arr. by James Shaw	1	0
March in B flat ... ... E. Silas	1	0
Grand March ("Lohengrin," Act III., Wagner) ... W. Creser	1	0
Bridal Chorus ("Lohengrin," Wagner) ... ... W. Creser	1	0
Wedding March ... ...Composed by W. Creser	1	6

THE VILLAGE ORGANIST.—Book 17.

1. Wedding March ... ... A. Guilmant.
2. Ditto ... ... Mendelssohn.
3. Bridal Chorus ("Lohengrin") ... ... Wagner.
4. Be thou faithful ("St. Paul") ... ... Mendelssohn.
5. Wedding Procession ... ... H. Hofmann.

Price One Shilling.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL SONGS

Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations combined, with Pianoforte Accompaniment.

Book 122.—SIXTEEN NATIONAL SONGS.

Arethusa, The ... ... Shield
Blow, blow, thou winter wind ... ... Arne
British Grenadiers, The ... ... Old English
Cherry ripe ... ... C. E. Horn
Dulce Domum ... ... J. Reading
Empire Flag, The ... ... A. C. Mackenzie
Hardy Norseman, The ... ... Norse National Song
Let the hills resound ... ... B. Richards
Loud Tattoo, The ("The Soldier's Life") ... ... C. Dibdin
March of the Men of Harlech ... ... Welsh Air
Meeting of the Waters, The ... ... Irish Air
Mermaid, The ... ... Old English
Minstrel Boy, The ... ... Irish Air
Tight Little Island, The ... ... Old English
We be three poor mariners ... ... Old English
With jockey to the fair ... ... Old English

Price Eightpence.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

IN THE PRESS.

THE CELEBRATED

BALLET MUSIC ("FAUST") BY GOUNOD

FOR

ORCHESTRA.

In consequence of the many inquiries for the above for Orchestra, Messrs. Chappell and Co., the sole Proprietors of the Copyright for Great Britain, have decided to publish an entirely new edition, uniform with the well-known "Nell Gwyn" Dances by Edward German.

Great care has been taken in the Editing, so that while the work remains as originally written, all the necessary cues have been added in order to facilitate the performance by Small Orchestras, for which purpose a Pianoforte Accompaniment has been specially arranged.

Messrs. Chappell hope to have the new Edition ready shortly. Prices as follow:—

	s.	d.
Full Orchestral Score	10	0	net
Orchestral Parts, Complete	10	0	„
Separate Parts	1	0	„
Piano Accompaniment (for Small Bands)	2	0	„

BEHNKE'S VOICE-TRAINING EXERCISES.

In separate Books for Soprano, Mezzo-Soprano, Contralto, Tenor, and Bass.

Used by all the Principal Teachers.

Paper Covers ... ... 1s. 6d. net.
Cloth Boards ... ... 3s. od. „

BEHNKE'S VOICE-TRAINING STUDIES.

These are intended to follow the Voice-Training Exercises, and are published for the same Voices.

Paper Covers ... ... 1s. 6d. net.
Cloth Boards ... ... 3s. od. „

SANTLEY'S SINGING-MASTER.

In Two Parts.

"The Work is one which recommends itself to all who wish to study the Art of Vocalization."—Times.

In Two Parts ... 4s. od. net each.

BEHNKE'S VOICE-TRAINING PRIMER.

Paper Covers ... ... 2s. od. net.
Cloth Boards ... ... 3s. od. „

SIMS REEVES ON THE ART OF SINGING.

This Work should be read by all Singers and Professors, as it contains much useful information.

Paper Covers ... ... 1s. od. net.

CHAPPELL & CO., Ltd., 50, New Bond St., London.

Printed by Novello and Company, Ltd., at the Novello Works, Soho, and published at 1, Berners St. (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen St. (E.C.). Sold also by Simpkin, Marshall, Hamilton, Kent & Co., Ltd., Paternoster Row (E.C.).—Tuesday, April 1, 1902.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 711.—Vol. 43. MAY 1, 1902. Price 4d.; Postage, 1½d.
Registered for transmission abroad. Annual Subscription, Post-free, 5s.

LINCOLN FESTIVAL.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 4, at 8 p.m.

ORCHESTRAL CONCERT in the DRILL HALL: Works by Sir Alexander Mackenzie, Mr. Edward German, and Dr. G. J. Bennett (conducted by the Composers); Tschaikowsky's "Pathetic Symphony," &c.

THURSDAY, JUNE 5.

ORATORIO SERVICES at the CATHEDRAL, at 2 p.m.: Handel's "Zadok the Priest"; Dvorák's "Stabat Mater"; Beethoven's Symphony, No. 7; Parry's "Blest Pair of Sirens."

7 p.m.: Sullivan's "In Memoriam" Overture; Mendelssohn's "Elijah"

Principal Vocalists:

Madame Ella Russell. | Miss Muriel Foster.
Mr. William Green. | Mr. Andrew Black.

FULL BAND AND CHORUS OF 500 PERFORMERS.

Principal Violin ... .. Mr. A. Burnett.
Organists ... ... Dr. Keeton and Mr. Tertius Noble.
Conductor ... ... Dr. G. J. Bennett.

Prospectus, giving full information, and Tickets may be obtained at the Festival Office, 347, High Street, Lincoln.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC,

TENTERDEN STREET, W.

Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.
Patron: HIS MOST GRACIOUS MAJESTY THE KING.
President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF CONNAUGHT, K.G.
Principal: Sir A. C. MACKENZIE, Mus.D., LL.D., F.R.A.M.

MIDSUMMER TERM began Monday, April 28.
Examination for Licentiateship (L.R.A.M.) Syllabus now ready.
Prospectus, Entry Forms, and all information may be obtained from the Secretary.

F. W. RENAUT, Secretary.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

The Midsummer F.R.C.O. Examination commences on July 14, 1902. The solo-playing tests are: Toccata (without Fugue) in D minor (Dorian mode), Bach; No. 3, Vol. III., p. 30, Peters' edition; Book X., Novello & Co.; Vol. V., p. 360, Augener & Co. Prelude and Fugue in A major, Samuel Wesley; Cecilia Book 31, Augener & Co. Fantasia in C minor, Op. 35, A. Hesse; Cecilia Book 24, Augener & Co.

The A.R.C.O. Examination commences on July 21.

Dr. F. J. Sawyer, F.R.C.O., will deliver the final lecture of the course on "Extempore Playing," with musical illustrations, at 3 p.m., on Saturday, May 3.

The Annual College Dinner will take place at the Holborn Restaurant, on Thursday, May 22, at 7. The President, Sir C. Hubert H. Parry, D.C.L., Mus.D., will take the chair. Tickets for members and friends, 5s. each (exclusive of wine), may be obtained at the College. Morning Dress.

The Book of Examination Papers may be obtained by Members, price 5s., postage 5d.

The College Library is open daily from 10 to 5. On Saturdays the College is open from 10 to 1.

Members desiring practice on the College organ may obtain particulars on application.

The large Hall, and sundry smaller rooms, can be hired for Concerts, Meetings, &c.

E. H. TURPIN, Hon. Secretary.

Hart Street, Bloomsbury, W.C.

THE GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Managed by the Corporation of the City of London.
Principal: WILLIAM H. CUMMINGS, Mus.D., Dub., F.S.A., Hon. R.A.M.

Pupils can enter at any time.

Individual tuition by eminent teachers at moderate fees. Within three minutes of Ludgate Hill, Fleet Street, and Blackfriars Stations (District Railway).

110 Prizes, Medals, and Scholarships, giving free and assisted tuition, competed for annually. Subjects taught: Piano, Singing, Organ, Harmony, all Orchestral and Solo Instruments, Stage Training in Elocution, Gesture, Fencing, and Opera. Lady superintendent has charge of all ladies attending the school. Prospectus and form of entry free on application to H. SAXE WYNDHAM,
Victoria Embankment, E.C. Secretary.

UNIVERSITY OF DURHAM.

The Examinations for Degrees in Music are held in Durham in March (testamur only) and September.

For particulars, with copies of former Examination Papers, apply to the Secretary of Examinations, or to Dr. Armes, Durham.

PROGRAMMES

OF THE

LONDON MUSICAL FESTIVAL,

1902

(UNDER THE MANAGEMENT OF MR. ROBERT NEWMAN).

QUEEN'S HALL.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, APRIL 30, AT 8.
CONDUCTOR—HERR NIKISCH.
Vocalist - - - - Miss ALICE NIELSEN.
Solo Pianoforte - - Mr. MARK HAMBOURG.

Overture—"Die Meistersinger" ... ... Wagner
Valse-Song—"Romeo and Juliet" ... ... Gounod
Symphony, No. 5, in E minor ... ... Tschaikowsky
Pianoforte Concerto in B flat minor ... ... Tschaikowsky
Suite for String Orchestra ... ... Bach
Overture (Tannhäuser) ... ... Wagner

FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 2, AT 8.
CONDUCTOR—HERR WEINGARTNER.
Vocalist - - - Madame KIRKBY LUNN.
Solo Pianoforte - - - Signor BUSONI.

Symphony, No. 8, in B minor ("Unfinished") ... ... Schubert
Aria—"Mon cœur s'ouvre à ta voix" (Samson and Delilah) Saint-Saëns
Symphonic Poem—"King Lear" ... ... Weingartner
(First performance at these Concerts.)
Pianoforte Concerto, No. 5, in E flat ("Emperor") ... Beethoven
Symphony, No. 3, in E flat ("Eroica") ... ... Beethoven

TUESDAY AFTERNOON, APRIL 29, AT 3.
CONDUCTOR—MONS. YSAYE.
Vocalist - - - Mr. FRANGCON-DAVIES.
Solo Violoncello - - Prof. HUGO BECKER.

Overture—"Euryanthe" ... ... Weber
Carnival of Paris ... ... Svendsen
(First Performance at these Concerts.)
Violoncello Concerto in D ... ... Haydn
(First Performance at these Concerts.)
Symphony No. 5, in C minor ... ... Beethoven
Siegfried Idyll ... ... Wagner
Wotan's Abschied and Feuerzauber ... ... Wagner

THURSDAY AFTERNOON, MAY 1, AT 3.
CONDUCTOR—HERR WEINGARTNER.
Vocalist - - - - Madame CLARA BUTT.
Solo Violoncello - - Prof. HUGO BECKER.

Overture—"Alceste" ... ...Gluck
Aria—"Divinités du Styx" ... ...Gluck
Symphony No. 2, in D ... ... Brahms
Violoncello Concerto ... ... Dvorák
Symphonic Poem—"Vltava" ... ... Smetana
(First Performance at these Concerts.)
Overture—"Leonora No. 3" ... ... Beethoven

SATURDAY AFTERNOON, MAY 3, AT 3.
CONDUCTORS—DR. SAINT-SAËNS AND MR. HENRY J. WOOD.
Vocalist - - - Madame ELLA RUSSELL.
Solo Violin - - - - Mons. YSAYE.

Symphonic Poem—"Don Juan" ... ... Richard Strauss
Overture—"Les Barbares" ... ... Saint-Saëns
Violin Concerto, No. 3, in B minor ... ... Saint-Saëns
Symphony, No. 4, in F minor ... ... Tschaikowsky
Aria—"Ocean, thou mighty monster" ... ... Weber
Entr'acte—"Phryné" ... ... Saint-Saëns
(First performance in London.)
Overture—"Cockaigne" ... ... Elgar
(First Performance at these Concerts.)

MR. ROBERT NEWMAN'S

QUEEN'S HALL ORCHESTRA

OF 110 PERFORMERS.

Principal Violin - - - MR. ARTHUR W. PAYNE.
Organist and Accompanist - - - MR. PERCY PITT.

Single Tickets:—Numbered and Reserved, 15s., 10s. 6d., 7s. 6d.; Unreserved, 5s., 2s. 6d.

Full particulars of the usual Agents, and at
ROBERT NEWMAN'S BOX OFFICE,
Queen's Hall, Langham Place, W.

ST. STEPHEN'S, WALBROOK, E.C.

FOUR ORGAN RECITALS

WILL BE GIVEN BY

MR. FRED GOSTELOW

(F.R.C.O., A.R.A.M., A.R.C.M.)

On WEDNESDAYS in MAY, at 5 o'clock, p.m.

BIRMINGHAM AND MIDLAND INSTITUTE.

SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Principal ... ... GRANVILLE BANTOCK.

SESSION 1901-02.

The Session consists of Autumn Term (September 16 to December 21), Winter Term (January 20 to April 5), Summer Term (April 7 to June 21). Instruction in all branches of music. Students' Choir, Students' Orchestra, Fortnightly Rehearsals, Students' Concerts.

Prospectus and further information may be obtained from

ALFRED HAYES, Secretary.

BAKER STREET CHURCH OF ENGLAND HIGH SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, LTD.,

6, UPPER BAKER STREET, N.W.

(One Minute from the Metropolitan Station.)

The Rev. Canon FRANCIS J. HOLLAND, M.A., Chairman.

PIANO.—Mr. Oscar Beringer, Miss Ethel Boyce, A.R.A.M., Miss Bryant, certificated Frankfort Hoch Conservatoire, Miss Jessie Davies, A.R.A.M., Miss Kate Robinson, certificated Raff Conservatoire, Frankfort, Misses M. Moore and D. Lucas, Miss Barwell, pupil of Miss K. Robinson.

VIOLIN.—Herr Josef Ludwig, Miss L. M. Nunn, R.A.M., Miss Eveleigh, L.R.A.M., Silver Med., R.A.M.

VIOLONCELLO.—Miss A. F. Vernet, L.R.A.M.

ORGAN.—Mr. F. A. W. Docker, A.R.A.M., Organist of St. Andrew's, Wells Street, Professor of the Organ at the Guildhall School of Music, &c.

SINGING.—Mrs. Hutchinson, Miss Margaret Barter.

SIGHT READING AND ENSEMBLE PLAYING.—Miss Harrison and Miss Holland: Piano and Strings.

ELOCUTION.—Miss Chute.

HARMONY CLASSES.—Miss Ethel M. Boyce.

ORCHESTRAL AND CHORAL CLASSES during Advent and Lent Terms.

For Prospectus, &c., apply to the Headmistress, Miss Lilla B. Strong, 6, Upper Baker Street, N.W.

VICTORIA COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

(Under the direction of The Victoria College Corporation, Ltd.)

INCORPORATED 1891.

Hon. Patron: HIS GRACE THE DUKE OF ARGYLL, K.G., K.T.

BOARD OF EXAMINATION.

J. H. LEWIS, Mus. Doc., D.C.L. (Principal).
GEORGE PRIOR, Mus. Doc., Oxon., F.R.C.O. (Registrar).
J. M. BENTLEY, Mus. Doc., Cantab., Hon. F.R.A.M.
(Chairman of the Board).

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT.

Director of Studies: CHURCHILL SIBLEY, Mus.D.

West-End Premises: 42, Berners Street, Oxford Street, W.
First-class instruction in all musical subjects. Moderate terms.
Provincial Examinations in all subjects, for Certificates and Diplomas, A.V.C.M., L.V.C.M., F.V.C.M., throughout the year.
Metropolitan Examination in April, 1902.
Local Theoretical Examination at all Centres in June and July, 1902.
Holder of the Victoria College Vocal Scholarship, 1901: Miss Lottie L. Wakelin, L.R.A.M.; 1902, Miss Audrey Willows, L.V.C.M.
Gold, Silver, and Bronze Medals are offered for competition.
Local Secretaries required for towns not already represented.
All communications to be addressed as usual to the Central Office, 11, Burleigh Street, Strand, W.C.

GEO. A. STANTON, F.G.C.M., Secretary.

NATIONAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC, LIM.

Patrons: THE DUCHESS OF MARLBOROUGH.
Madame PATTI.
Warden: Dr. TINDALL, A.T.C.L.

Exams. (Local), all grades, and for Diplomas, Medals, Certificates, June and July.
Local Secretaries wanted. Composers' Works published. Great advantages. W. J. MOSS, Sec., 192, Sutherland Avenue, W.

NATIONAL CONSERVATOIRE

INST., 1895. OF MUSIC, LTD. INCOR., 1900.

Warden: Professor ALEX. PHIPPS, Mus. Bac.

London Office and Educational Department, 60, Berners Street, W.
Musical Examinations in all Towns, June and July. Medals awarded, Diplomas of Associate, Licentiate, and Fellow, granted to Teachers, Organists, Bandmasters, Conductors, &c. Also Gold and Silver Medals.
Private and Class Lessons all subjects. Staff of 40 Professors.
Branches: The Conservatoire, 5, Hardman St., L'pool, M'chester, &c.

ST. ANNE'S, Soho.—BACH ORGAN RECITALS, by Mr. E. H. THORNE. Saturdays in May, at 3.30 p.m.

GUILD OF CHURCH MUSICIANS.

42, BERNERS STREET, OXFORD STREET, LONDON, W.

Patron: His Grace the ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY.
President: The Very Rev. FRANCIS PIGOU, D.D., Dean of Bristol.

A.G.C.M. and F.G.C.M. Diploma Examination, in June and July, 1902, at the following Centres: London, Birmingham, Liverpool, Manchester, Bristol, Leicester, Leeds, Glasgow, and Belfast.
Annual Membership Subscription, 10s. 6d. Life, £5 5s.
Lecture and Concert (free), Brinsmead Galleries, May 15, by H. Travers Adams, Esq., B.A., F.G.C.M., entitled "Systematic Voice Production."
Free register for Organists requiring appointments.
For new Calendar and further particulars, apply to
Dr. LEWIS, 42, Berners Street, London, W.

CORONATION PRIZE GLEE COMPETITION, 1902.—A lover of Glee-Singing and member of the Abbey Glee Club and other similar Clubs, has the pleasure to announce that, in order to stimulate the practice of GLEE-WRITING and to mark the present year of CORONATION, he is enabled, with the assistance of friends, to offer a PRIZE of TEN GUINEAS for the best original GLEE. Sir J. Frederick Bridge, Dr. W. H. Cummings, and Arthur H. D. Prendergast, Esq., have consented to act as Judges. Terms and conditions of the competition may be obtained of W. A. Everington, Esq., Lealholme, Shawfield Park, Bromley, Kent. The last date for sending in compositions is August 31, 1902.

MANY VALUABLE PRIZES in money are given by the MUSIC, POETRY, ART, and LANGUAGE SOCIETY to students, artists, and amateurs. Advantageous. Instructive. With the motto "Learn and Earn."
Write immediately for free specimen monthly, containing inspiring South African March, to W. H. Winter, Secretary, 1, Crawford Street, Baker Street, W., London.
Additional copies of the March, 1s. 6d. May number will contain: Dirge and Vision (slow March); Coronation-Minuet; the Lord's Prayer for four voices.

MUSICAL COMPOSITION.—JAMES BROADBENT & SON offer PRIZES for ANTHEMS and TUNES. Particulars and Hymns, &c., on receipt of two stamps. 13, Brunswick Place, Leeds.

FOUR PRIZES, of £3 each, for FESTIVAL HYMN TUNES, Manchester Sunday School Union. Send stamp for conditions to F. Womersley, 53, Brown Street, Manchester.

IN THE PRESS.

TO BE PRODUCED BY THE LONDON PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY THIS SEASON.

CORONATION MARCH

COMPOSED BY

F. H. COWEN.

PIANOFORTE SOLO, PRICE TWO SHILLINGS.
Full Score, price 5s.
String Parts, 4s.; Wind Parts, 11s. 3d.
Military Band Arrangement, by DAN GODFREY, Jun.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JUST PUBLISHED.

CROWN 8VO, CLOTH GILT, PRICE 3s. 6d.

GOD SAVE THE KING

THE ORIGIN AND HISTORY

OF THE

MUSIC AND WORDS

OF

THE NATIONAL ANTHEM

BY

WILLIAM H. CUMMINGS,

Mus. Doc., Dub., F.S.A., Hon. R.A.M.

WITH TWO PORTRAITS OF DR. JOHN BULL.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MISS CHARLOTTE DICKENS, R.A.M. Med.
(Soprano).
10, Ashchurch Park Villas, Ravenscourt Park, W.

MADAME GOODALL (Soprano)
Oratorios and Concerts.
Burley Road, Leeds.

MADAME ANNIE HAYMAN (Soprano)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Thornecliffe, Lowfield Road, Stockport.

MISS GERTRUDE HEY (Contralto)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Lawn Side, Clarendon Road, Whalley Range, Manchester.

MR. GWILYM RICHARDS (Tenor)
(Of the Queen's Hall Choral and Wagner Concerts; Crystal Palace; St. James's Hall; London Musical Festival); Promenade Concerts.
105, North Side, Clapham Common, S.W.

MR. WILLIAM A. SHEEN
(Principal Tenor, The City Temple).
Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 116, High Street, Kingsland, N.E.

MR. WILLIAM D. VINCENT (Tenor)
(Late of Farm Street Choir): Ballad Concerts, Song Recitals.
Address, 167, Tachbrook Street, Belgrave Road, S.W.

MR. GORDON HELLER (Baritone)
A.R.C.M., Solo Singing and Teaching Singing.
For Concerts, &c. Address, 1, Craven Mansion, Lancaster Gate, W.

MR. AND MRS. WALLIS A. WALLIS
(Baritone, Soprano, and Elocutionists).
Concerts, Lyrical Recitals. Pupils (Resident, &c.). Sharon, Acton, W.

MR. JOSEPH BURLEY (Bass-Baritone)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c.
24, New Bond Street, Leicester.

MR. EATON COOTER (Basso-Cantante), A.R.C.M.
St. George's and H.M. Private Chapels, Windsor Castle.
Address, The Cloisters, Windsor.

B. E. KENT (Lyric Authoress).
Apply, 155, Rye Lane, Peckham, S.E.

MISS MARY WILSON (Contralto)
Sainton-Dolby Scholar, and Medalist at the R.A.M., London.
Contralto Soloist at the Westmorland Musical Festival, 1901.
For Oratorio, Concerts, At Homes, Lessons in Singing and Elocution.
Apply, 21, Portland Road, Holland Park Avenue, W.

MISS EMILY VAUGHAN (Soprano), Medalist, Society of Arts, will sing at Concerts, At Homes, &c., for expense fees. Fernside, 44, Craven Park, Harlesden.

MISS FANNY CHETHAM
(DRAMATIC SOPRANO)
Queen's Hall Choral Concerts.
Daily Telegraph: "Sang in splendid style."
Address, Miss Chetham, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

MISS ESTELLA LINDEN
(YORKSHIRE SORANO).
"Flying Dutchman." Sheffield Musical Union, March 18, 1902.
"Excellent reading of Senta's ballad. In the duet with Mr. Black sang magnificently."—Sheffield Telegraph.
"Senta admirable. In great duet rose to possibilities of part and won high esteem, and hearty applause."—Independent.
"Elijah." Stafford Choral Union, March 11, 1902.
"Possesses voice of remarkable range and power. Interpretation throughout of a high character."—Chronicle.
35, Lancaster Road, S. Hampstead, N.W.

MISS
BEATRICE PALLISTER
(SOPRANO. Pupil of Henry Blower, Esq.).
Terms, Broxholme Lane, Doncaster.

MISS VIOLET PERRY
(SOPRANO)
For Concerts, Oratorios, Ballads, &c. Press notices.
Monnow House, The Spa, Gloucester.

MISS AMY SARGENT
A.R.A.M. (SOPRANO)
39, Blandford Square, N.W.

MISS EVELYN WEST
(SOPRANO), Pupil of Mr. Henry J. Wood.
For Concerts, At Homes, Oratorios, &c.
"Promises to become deservedly popular."—Vide Press.
Address, 5, Tavistock Crescent, Westbourne Park.

MISS BERYL CLIVE
(CONTRALTO),
14, Gladsmuir Road, Whitehall Park, N.

MISS
KATHERINE HAWKINS
(CONTRALTO), L.R.A.M.
For Oratorios, Ballad and Chamber Concerts.
Bryn-tirion, Sutton Court Road, Sutton, Surrey.

MISS ADELAIDE LAMBE
(CONTRALTO). Principal, Peterboro' Triennial Festival, Queen's Hall, and Crystal Palace Concerts, &c.
Please note change of address: Holmwood, Roxborough Park, Harrow.

MISS K. KELYN WILLIAMS
(CONTRALTO)
(Late John Thomas Welsh Scholar)
Goldberg Prize, Silver Medalist, and Certificate, R.A.M., Medalist, Society of Arts.
15, South Grove, Peckham, S.E.

MR. OTTO DENE
(TENOR).
For Oratorios, Ballads, &c.
Address, Ullswater Lodge, West Norwood, S.E.

MR. W. TREVOR EVANS
(TENOR).
Dublin Musical Society.—"Lohengrin," March 5, 1902.—"Mr. Trevor Evans' chief characteristic was the vigour with which he aimed at full, faultless singing. The famous passage in which Lohengrin reveals his identity was given by him with excellent dramatic effect."—Irish Times, March 6, 1902.
"I am delighted with his voice, which I consider charming."—Adelina Patti
Oratorios, Concerts, &c. All standard and new works in répertoire.
Address, 19, Lady Somerset Road, Kentish Town, London, N.W.

MR. WILLIAM FELL
(TENOR)
Lay-Vicar of Westminster Abbey
Of the Royal Choral Society, Albert Hall, &c.
On tour in Canada and America, April 3 to June 16.
Address, 36, Lorn Road, Brixton, S.W.

MR. C. EMLYN JONES
(TENOR)
Of the Royal Choral Society, London.
For Oratorios and Ballads.
Address, 34, Red Lion Square, Holborn, London, W.C.

MR. JAMES LEYLAND
(TENOR).
For vacant dates apply, 106, Bolingbroke Grove, Wandsworth Common, S.W.

MR. SAMUEL MASTERS
(TENOR),
61, Alexandra Road, Wimbledon, S.W.

MR. JOS. REED
(PRINCIPAL TENOR),
Trinity College, Cambridge.
Tenor, Madame Clara Butt's Tours, October, 1900; Spring, 1902.
Vacant dates. 55, Chesterton Road, Cambridge.

MR. BURFORD THORP
(TENOR)
Address, 13, Greville Road, Kilburn, N.W.

Mr. Henry J. Wood (Conductor, Queen's Hall Concerts) writes:—
"1, Langham Place, W., Feb. 14, 1901.
"Mr. Montague Borwell is an excellent vocalist.
"He has been most successful both at Queen's Hall, and at my Nottingham and Wolverhampton Concerts, in most difficult and trying rôles, and I consider him one of the most reliable and painstaking baritone vocalists now before the public.
"Henry J. Wood."

MR. MONTAGUE BORWELL
(BARITONE).
(Assistant Vicar-Choral, Westminster Abbey)
"Elijah."—Bromley.—"The title part was splendidly interpreted by Mr. Montague Borwell, and the main feature was manly devotionalism. The audience was made to feel that the Prophet was a sincere worshipper. There was no trace of boastfulness, and only a suggestion of righteous irony in the delivery of the Prophet's words in the Baal scene. The dramatic significance of the other portions seemed to arise out of the intense feeling of the singer. Mr. Borwell's earnestness of artistic aim and complete musical intelligence was revealed in every bar he sang. He made a great and genuine success throughout, and in 'Is not His Word' he produced a profound impression on many of his hearers."—Bromley Chronicle.

AND

MISS WINIFRED MARWOOD
(Mrs. Montague Borwell—SOPRANO).
Address, 56, Forburg Road, Stoke Newington, N.

MR. BENTLEY WEST

(TENOR)

is now Booking Dates for next season.

ORATORIOS—a specialty.

"Messiah," "Elijah," "Hymn of Praise," "St. Paul," "Samson," "Judas Maccabæus," "Jephtha," "Israel in Egypt," "Acis and Galatea," "Creation," "Golden Legend," "King Saul" (Parry), "Dream of Gerontius" (Elgar), &c.

Address, 18, Edna Street, Crumpsall, Manchester.

MR. HENRY DOBSON

(BARITONE)

(Of the London, Provincial, and Scottish Concerts).

BIRMINGHAM.—"An artistic début was made by Mr. Henry Dobson, baritone, whose method is distinctly scholarly in every way."—Birmingham Daily Mail, October 7, 1901.

"... His voice is of a high timbre and well trained, his excellent phrasing being a feature of his singing."—Birmingham Daily Post, October 7, 1901.

"The vocal contributions were of a high standard of excellence, and Mr. Henry Dobson, baritone, is entitled to much distinction for his artistic efforts."—Birmingham Daily Gazette, October 7, 1901.

7, Station Terrace, Hucknall Torkard, Nottingham.

MR. JOHN BROWNING

(BARITONE),

SOLOIST, LEEDS MUSICAL FESTIVALS, 1898 and 1901.

"CREATION," LYTHAM, MARCH 17, 1902.

"Carried the honours easily. He fairly revelled in the lusty descriptive parts, though never missing the light and shade of the contrasting music."—The Times.

ROSSINI'S "STABAT MATER," ROCHDALE, MARCH 18, 1902.

"Was always safe and reliant, and his robust bass was well suited to the work."—The Times.

CORK MUSICAL SOCIETY, "CREATION," "MESSIAH," AND MISCELLANEOUS, MARCH 20, 21, 22, 1902.

"Sang magnificently ... has remarkable expression and strength ... won a series of successes."—Constitution.

"Maintained to the fullest his reputation as a distinguished singer in oratorio, and sang magnificently ... was in splendid voice, and greatly pleased the audience by his admirable art."—Examiner.

BACH'S "PASSION MUSIC," LEEDS, MARCH 24, 1902.

"Sang the Saviour's words with great dignity and reticent expression ... entered thoroughly into the spirit of the part, of which he gave a fine reading."—Yorkshire Post.

DOUGLAS (I. of M.), SACRED CONCERT, MARCH 28, 1902 (GOOD FRIDAY).

"This is Mr. Browning's first visit to the Isle of Man, and we have no hesitation in saying that he has established himself a favourite. ... All his items were rendered in perfect style."—Herald.

LOWESTOFT, APRIL 10, 1902.

"Fine voice, good register and his enunciation is remarkably clear. This is Mr. Browning's first visit, and it is to be hoped it will not be long before he comes again."—Journal.

"SAMSON," KETTERING, APRIL 15, 1902.

"What fell to his lot was executed in a manner that secured the highest encomiums of praise from his musical critics. He sings with correctness of style and the ease of a born musician."—Northamptonshire Evening Telegraph.

Address, Marlbro' Grove, Leeds.

MR. CHARLES KNOWLES

(BARITONE)

Of the Leeds, London, Sheffield, and Chester Festivals.
Queen's Hall Promenade and Symphony Concerts.
Crystal Palace and principal Provincial Concerts.

STOCKPORT.—"ELIJAH."—"Mr. Charles Knowles sang the dramatic music apportioned to the Prophet, and to select any single number as being the best rendered would be but expressing individual taste. We have very few baritones who can sing this arduous part creditably, but we shall certainly place Mr. Charles Knowles in the forefront of that limited number. He has a voice resonant and powerful, and well suited to the exacting declamatory music of this oratorio. The top F which he sang at the end of 'Is not His word' was as full and clear as the tone he gave from notes lower down the scale."—Cheshire Echo, Jan. 30, 1902.

EXETER MUSICAL FESTIVAL.—"ELIJAH."—The title part was sung by Mr. Charles Knowles, who not only presented the dramatic element, but thoroughly made potent the religious conception of the part. ... From the first recit., Mr. Knowles led his audience to believe that it might expect great things from him, and he did not disappoint them. ... Nothing finer could be imagined than his despairing 'It is enough'; and the beautiful prayer 'Lord God of Abraham,' and 'Is not His word' were magnificently sung. Indeed, throughout the eight scenes in which the Prophet stands forth as principal figure, Mr. Knowles sang with intense descriptive power."—Western Morning News, April 4, 1902.

EXETER.—"BRIDE OF DUNKERRON."—(Evening Concert).—"Mr. Charles Knowles sang with great dramatic power the boastful recit. and air, 'Wherefore are ye calling,' and the denunciatory solo with chorus, 'Hurl him back,' bringing the scenes vividly before his audience. ... Mr. Knowles in the second part gave an expressive rendering of Henschel's stirring song, 'Young Dietrich.'"—Western Morning News, April 4, 1902.

For terms, &c., address—
24, Acacia Road, St. John's Wood, London, N.W.

MR. BERNARD FOUNTAIN

(BASS-BARITONE)

Oratorios, Ballads, Masonic.
Mentmore, Southwold Road, Upper Clapton, N.

MR.

RANDALL HARGREAVES

4, Church Row, Fulham, S.W.

"A fine baritone voice."—Standard. "Gave some delightful vocal music."—Gentlewoman. "A voice of considerable beauty."—Times.

MR. CHARLES TREE

"ELIJAH."—WALSALL.—April 15, 1902.

"Never in the history of the Society has a better selection been made than that of Mr. Tree. He has had a training rare even with our best vocalists. His singing was a masterpiece of art, and had the most stirring effect on chorus and audience alike. His rendition of the role will not soon be forgotten by those who had the fortune to hear him."—Free Press.

"By the time he reached the 'Baal' music, we saw the sympathetic artist who identified himself with his work. His Elijah was that of the prophet, he lived his part, and we offer him our congratulations."—Advertiser.

"GOLDEN LEGEND."—YARMOUTH.—April 17, 1902.

"But the great feature of the evening was the splendid emphasis with which Mr. Tree declaimed Lucifer's part. Invested it with saturnine glee, and gave it just the required significance of diabolical craft and malevolence."—Independent.

"GOLDEN LEGEND."—ACCRINGTON.—March 26, 1902.

"A grand voice, which he used to perfection."—News.

"Rich, dramatic, and powerful. Sang with refreshing ease and brilliancy."—Gazette.

"A baritone with a great and deserved reputation."—Observer.

"GOLDEN LEGEND."—DUNFERMLINE.—Mar. 25, 1902.

"A voice of glorious richness, and perfect enunciation. A fine bit of powerful singing, which was the gem of the evening."—Journal.

"Infused a great deal of his satanic majesty into the part. A better Lucifer would be hard to find."—Press.

"GOLDEN LEGEND."—SHEFFIELD.—NOV. 19, 1901.

"Intensely dramatic. Rose to all the possibilities of the part. Stood out by conspicuous excellence."—Independent.

Address, 23, Clifton Road, Maida Vale, W.

MR. ARTHUR WALENN

(BARITONE)

Of the Albert Hall, Queen's Hall, St. James's Hall Popular Concerts, Crystal Palace Saturday Concerts, Walenn Chamber Concerts, &c.
20, Ashworth Mansions, Elgin Avenue, London, W.

MR. EDGAR ARCHER

(PRINCIPAL BASS of the City Temple, of the Crystal Palace and St. James's Hall Concerts).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Apply, Langdale, Rutland Park, Willesden Green, N.W.

MR. ARTHUR SEDGLEY

(BASS)

Oratorio and Miscellaneous Concerts.
For terms, &c., apply, 51, Worcester Street, Wolverhampton.

MISS MARIAN JAY

(SOLO VIOLINIST)

5, Hollywood Road, South Kensington.

MR. HERBERT WALENN

(SOLO VIOLONCELLIST).

Address, 5, Wellington Place, London, N.W.

MR. F. G. H. MOORE (A.R.A.M.)

(Walter Macfarren Gold Medalist, R.A.M.).

Solo Pianist and Accompanist, Concerts, At Homes, Lessons.
27, Lady Somerset Road, Highgate, N.W.

MISS ELLEN CHILDS

(CHROMATIC HARPIST)

Having studied in Paris under the direction of the Inventor, Miss Childs is prepared to give LESSONS on the NEW CHROMATIC HARP (without pedals). For terms, apply, 170, Belsize Road, N.W.; or, care of Messrs. Pleyell Wolff, Lyon and Co., 79-80, Baker Street, Portman Square, W.

REDUCED PRICES
FOR THE UNREVISED EDITIONS.

THE CATHEDRAL PSALTER
THE CATHEDRAL PRAYER BOOK.

The Publishers, having in stock a limited number of the above publications, handsomely bound in Red Basil with Red Edges, but unrevised as regards the recent alterations in the Titles of The Prince and Princess of Wales and in the Accession Service, are prepared to dispose of the remaining copies at specially reduced prices.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

MR. W. C. AINLEY, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (1884), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Correspondence. Terms moderate. Eastfield House, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who OBTAINED DEGREES OF MUS.D. AND MUS.B. at Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, London, and Durham Universities. Diplomas of L.R.A.M., A.Mus. L.C.M., L.Mus. L.C.M., F.R.C.O., and A.R.C.O.; Appointments at College and School of Music, and as English Cathedral and Parish Church Organists; Gold Medals, Silver Medals, Prizes, "Honours" and Pass Certificates (of the Colleges of Music) to the number of seven hundred. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Revision of Compositions, by Post, to correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Theory, Singing, Organ, and Pianoforte. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

REVISION OF MUSICAL COMPOSITIONS. Dr. Horton Allison, Mus.D., 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

DR. ARNOTT, Mus. Doc., Dunelm, Organist to The Honble. Society of Gray's Inn, PREPARES CANDIDATES for all Examinations, and receives Pupils for Pianoforte, Organ, Singing; also, Harmony, Counterpoint, and Composition, personally or by correspondence. Scores revised and compositions scored. All letters to The Common Room, Gray's Inn.

MR. J. PERCY BAKER, A.R.A.M., Mus. Bac., Dunelm, teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Post. Personal Lessons in Pianoforte or Theory at own or pupil's residence; or, at 60, Berners Street, W. Schools attended. Address, 289, High Road, Lee, S.E.

MR. JOHN E. CAMPBELL (Composer of a Series of Organ Pieces, two Humoreskes for Piano, &c.,—The Vincent Co.) gives CORRESPONDENCE LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c. Special attention given to Composition. Address, Cuba House, Ramsgate.

MR. A. CHATFIELD, F.R.C.O., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., prepares CANDIDATES for MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS, personally or by post. Schools attended. Engagements accepted for Organ Recitals and Accompanist. Address, 4, Granville Road, North Finchley, N., and at 33, Rathbone Place, W.

THOMAS J. CRAWFORD, Mus. Bac. (Dunelm), F.R.C.O., 1st Prizeman Leipsic Cons., Organist of St. Paul's, Camden Square. COACHING for EXAMS. by POST. Private Lessons in Organ, Piano, and Theoretical Subjects. Recital and Oratorio work undertaken; schools visited. Testimonials from Carl Reinecke, Sir Frederick Bridge, &c. 41, Mercers Road, Tufnell Park, N.

HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, and FORM TAUGHT by Correspondence, on very moderate terms. Apply to Mr. E. Fry, Abbey Street, Cerne Abbas, Dorchester.

MR. T. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.R.C.O., L.Mus.T.C.L., gives LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., and prepares CANDIDATES for ARTS and MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Latest successes, Mus.Bac., Oxford and Durham, L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., F.R.C.O., A.R.C.O., &c. Sheppard Street, Stoke-on-Trent.

DR. CUTHBERT HARRIS, Mus. Doc., Dunelm, F.R.C.O., preparation Personally or by Post for Mus. Bac., R.C.O., and all other Exams. Many past successes. Moderate fees. Ardencote, Buckleigh Road, Streatham, S.W.

DR. ATHELSTAN G. IGGULDEN, Mus. Doc. (Dunelm), F.R.C.O., gives LESSONS and prepares for all MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by post. The Dingle, Reigate, Surrey.

OLIVER IVE, Mus. Bac., Oxon.—LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, COMPOSITION, &c., by correspondence or otherwise. Candidates prepared for University and other Examinations, as well as for Preliminary Arts. Address, 24, Carmalt Gardens, Putney, S.W.

DR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac., Cantab.; Mus. Doc., Trinity College, Toronto; gives LESSONS, Personally or by Post, in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, FORM and ANALYSIS, ORCHESTRATION, ACOUSTICS, &c., and prepares for Musical Examinations. Latest successes: MUS. BAC., LONDON, Dec., 1901; DURHAM, 1901, 1900, and all previous years; OXFORD FINAL and FIRST MUS. BAC., 1900; F.R.C.O. and A.R.C.O., 1900 and 1901; L.R.A.M. (Composition and Pianoforte), 1900, 1899, &c.; A.R.C.M. (Theory of Music, Composition, and Pianoforte Teaching); CAMBRIDGE and DUBLIN, MUS. BAC., L.Mus. and A.Mus., L.C.M.; L.T.C.L., A.T.C.L., and Special Certificates, 1900, 1901, &c.; Senior Associated Board. Special and individual attention given to Correspondents. Terms moderate. Address, 70, Parkhill Road, London, N.W.

DR. F. J. KARN corrects MSS. for Publication, and writes Analyses of Classical Works for Examinations. 70, Parkhill Road, London, N.W.

DR. MARCHANT, Mus.D., Oxon., F.R.C.O., (Author of "500 Fugue Subjects and Answers," Novello's Primers, No. 35), &c., PREPARES CANDIDATES for all Musical Examinations by Post. 10, Glebe Crescent, Stirling, N.B.

MR. A. MANGELSDORFF, L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., Pianist, Coaches for DIPLOMAS in PIANOFORTE PLAYING and TEACHING. Paper work, postal. Address, Atherstone.

ŠEVČÍK VIOLIN METHOD.
Upon which MM. KUBELIK and KOCIAN have been trained.
PROFESSOR HERMAN KOENIG
(Of Prague, Pupil of Herr Ševčík)
AND
MISS ELOISE DAGMAR (Pianist and Vocalist),
Will give Private and Class LESSONS in VIOLIN and PIANOFORTE at the Brinsmead Rooms, Wigmore Street, W. (by kind permission of Messrs. Brinsmead).
For terms, &c., apply to Professor H. Koenig, 124, Regent's Park Road, N.W.

MR. H. H. L. MIDDLETON, Mus.B., desires to state that TWENTY-ONE of his Pupils were SUCCESSFUL at the A.R.C.M. EXAM., 1901. Hazelwood, Dollis Rd., Finchley, N.

SPECIAL COACHING for DIPLOMAS by Post. A.R.C.M., 1895-1901, SEVENTY-SEVEN passes, L.R.A.M., 1897-1901, TWENTY-SEVEN passes. Many successes in other Degrees. Lessons in all branches of Theory, Piano, Organ, and Singing. Address, Mr. H. H. L. MIDDLETON, MUS. BAC., F.R.C.O., Hazelwood, Dollis Road, Finchley, N.

DR. HAMILTON ROBINSON, Mus. Doc., Dunelm, A.R.A.M., F.R.C.O., Lecturer on Harmony in King's College, Lond., Organist and Choirmaster, St. Stephen's, South Kensington. PIANOFORTE and ORGAN LESSONS, HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, COMPOSITION, &c., Personally or by Correspondence. Preparation for University, R.C.O., and all other Examinations. Classes. 25, Palliser Road, West Kensington, W.

MR. STRETTON SWANN, Mus. Bac., Dunelm, F.R.C.O., gives LESSONS or prepares for EXAMINATIONS. Personally or by Post.
181, Longley Road, Tooting, S.W.

MR. ALFRED W. TOMLYN, Mus. Bac., Dunelm, L.Mus.T.C.L., COACHES for EXAMS. Lessons follow closely lines of latest Exam. papers. Terms strictly reasonable. Many years' experience. 58, Comiston Road, Edinburgh.

MR. ALLEN GILL, F.R.A.M., attends at 60, Berners Street, for LESSONS in VOICE PRODUCTION, SINGING, and for REPERTOIRE. For terms, apply to 21, Cathcart Hill, N.

MISS JEAN HUNTER, L.R.A.M. LESSONS at 60, Berners Street, W., in VOICE PRODUCTION, SINGING, and PIANOFORTE. Letters, 87, Herbert Rd., Plumstead.

MADAME CLARA DOWLE is open to take a few PUPILS for SINGING. Terms moderate. 10, Great Queen Street, W.C.

SOLO BOYS.

LONDON TRAINING SCHOOL FOR CHORISTERS,
POLYTECHNIC, REGENT ST., W.

PRESIDENT, MR. ALBERTO RANDEGGER.
PRINCIPAL, MR. JAMES BATES.

Thoroughly trained, experienced Solo Boys, holding positions as Solo Boys at twenty-four of the principal London Churches, can be strongly recommended for Church Festivals, Oratorios, Concerts, Organ Recitals, &c.

Over 100 excellent Chorus Boys also available for all kinds of concerted music.

A special branch for the preparation of scholars (resident or day) for Cathedral or other Choristerships has now been opened. Full particulars of Mr. Bates, as above; or, 7, Blomfield Crescent, Upper Westbourne Terr., Hyde Pk., W. Telegrams—"Musicomane, London."

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.

MR. DUTTON (St. Paul's Cathedral) supplies Boys, personally trained and thoroughly reliable, for Church Festivals, Concerts, At Homes, &c. For terms, vacant dates, and further particulars, address, Mr. Henry J. Dutton, 17, Alpha Rd., New Cross, S.E.

MR. TANN'S SOLO BOYS.

MR. W. R. B. TANN, Organist and Choirmaster of St. Saviour's Church, Paddington, is prepared to supply well-trained Solo Boys for Oratorios, Festival Services, Organ Recitals, Concerts, At Homes, &c.

A number of excellent Chorus Boys also available.

For terms and vacant dates, address, Mr. W. R. B. Tann, 55, Warwick Road, Maida Vale, W.

CHESTER CATHEDRAL. There is a VACANCY for a SOLO BOY. Board, lodging, and first-class education. For further particulars, apply to The Chapter Clerk, Chester.

KING'S COLLEGE, Cambridge.—CHORISTERSHIPS.—The TRIAL of VOICES to fill vacancies in the Choir School will be held on Thursday, May 15.

Candidates must have a good ear and good voice, and should be between nine and twelve years of age.

For particulars, apply to the Dean.

Names to be sent in by May 8.

SALISBURY CATHEDRAL.—There will be a COMPETITION for one CHORISTERSHIP, on Monday, May 5, 1902, at 12 noon, at the Organist's House. Candidates must, as a rule, be between the ages of eight and ten, but exceptions may be made. Apply as soon as possible for information as to references required, payments, &c., to Rev. A. G. Robertson, The Close, Salisbury.

WANTED, LADY SOPRANO, for the choir of Little Portland Street Unitarian Chapel, Regent Street. Two services Sunday, one practice weekly. Salary, £10. Address, the Organist, A. F. Jones, 64, Upper Gloucester Place, N.W.

SALISBURY CATHEDRAL.—An ALTO LAY VICAR REQUIRED.—Applicants should be under thirty, and communicants. Stipend, £90. Copies of not more than three testimonials as to character and musical ability to be sent to the Organist, C. F. South, Esq., The Close, Salisbury, by May 15.

ALTO WANTED. £10. Apply, Grosvenor Chapel, South Audley Street, Tuesdays, at 8 o'clock.

ALTO WANTED, £10 per annum, for St. Mary's, Berkeley Square. Apply, by letter, or personally, at the Church, 9 p.m., Fridays.

ALTO WANTED, St. James's, West Hampstead. Good reader. Cathedral Service. £15. W. E. Sanderson, Mus. Bac., L.R.A.M., 30, Greencroft Gardens, N.W.

ALTO WANTED, for Church near Marble Arch. £15. Must be good reader. Address, B. B., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

TENOR REQUIRED. Good reader. Two Services on Sunday. £9. H., 29, Redcliffe Gardens, S.W.

ST. MARGARET'S, Westminster.—WANTED, immediately, good TENOR. Good reading indispensable. Apply, Mr. Goss-Custard, St. Margaret's, Westminster.

TENOR and BASS WANTED. West suburban Church. Ordinary duties. Address, stating salary and experience, Choir, 347, King Street, Hammersmith, W.

ETON COLLEGE CHAPEL.—There is a VACANCY for a BASS (not Baritone) in the Chapel Choir. Salary, £100. Age not over thirty. Candidates must be good readers. Application should be made by letter, enclosing copies of two testimonials, one as to character, one as to musical qualifications, and addressed to the Precentor, Dr. C. H. Lloyd, Eton College, Windsor, not later than Saturday, May 10.

TO TENORS and BASSES.—LESSONS in SINGING, ORGAN, or PIANO offered in return for ASSISTANCE in Nonconformist choir (Thursday and Sunday evenings). Expenses also to capable vocalists. Apply to F.R.C.O., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

THE ORGANIST of WINCHESTER CATHEDRAL (Mr. William Prendergast, Mus. Bac. Oxon.) requires an additional ARTICLED PUPIL. Address, The Close, Winchester.

MR. REGINALD GOSS-CUSTARD has a VACANCY for an ARTICLED PUPIL. Practice on fine Organ. Must have knowledge of accompanying. Apply, R. Goss-Custard, St. Margaret's, Westminster.

MR. HERBERT C. MORRIS, F.R.C.O., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., Organist of St. David's Cathedral, has a VACANCY for a PUPIL-ASSISTANT. Last pupil passed F.R.C.O. and L.R.A.M., and appointed to Newark-on-Trent Parish Church. Address, The Close, St. David's, Pembrokeshire.

KEBLE COLLEGE.—An ORGAN SCHOLARSHIP, of £100 a year, will be filled up on May 14, 1902. The Scholar will be expected to go through the course for the degree of B.A. Candidates must be members of the Church of England, unmarried, and of the usual age of Undergraduates. They will be examined in Classics and Mathematics, as well as in Organ-playing and Harmony.

Ability to accompany Plain-song is of the utmost importance.

The Examinations will begin at 9.30 a.m. on May 14.

The Scholar will be expected to begin residence about the middle of October, 1902.

Applications for additional information should be addressed to the Bursar, Keble College, to whom names must be sent by May 5.

EALING PARISH CHURCH.—ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED. Competent musician; experienced; good disciplinarian. Candidates are asked to send copies of testimonials. Apply, by letter only, with necessary particulars, Rev. Dr. Oliver, Vicarage, Ealing, W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER REQUIRED, Congregational Church, Buckhurst Hill. Plain service. Brilliant playing unnecessary, but good time-keeper indispensable. Apply, stating terms, to W. J. Richardson, Hillcote, Buckhurst Hill, Essex.

ST. MARK'S, Bromley, Kent. ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER REQUIRED. £45. Applications, with full particulars and copies of testimonials, to be sent to Mr. F. Fertel, 33, Holwood Road, Bromley, Kent.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED, for Brechin Parish Church (Cathedral). Salary, £65. Organ, 3 manuals, pneumatic action, and hydraulic engine. Ability to train Choir a special recommendation. Apply, with testimonials, before May 3, to Andrew Robertson, Sessions-Clerk, Brechin, N.B.

WANTED.—DEPUTY ORGANIST, for Presbyterian Church, Streatham, in return for practice and assistance in work. J. Charlesworth, Mus.B., 110, Stockwell Park Road, S.W.

CHOIRMASTER WANTED, for Church (Peckham) where there is already an Organist. Good choir (chiefly Sol-faists). Apply, W. J. D., 36, Great George Street, Westminster.

WANTED, an ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER for Wembley Presbyterian Church. Salary, £15 per annum. Apply, enclosing testimonials, to R. P. Hamp, Esq., Park House, Wembley, Middlesex.

THE ORGANIST of Exeter College, Oxford, is open to DEPUTISE during the months of July, August, and September. Apply to J. S. Heap, Exeter College.

WANTED, immediately, YOUNG GENTLEMAN to assist with junior pianoforte pupils in return for LESSONS and small remuneration. Apply to J. Herbert Williams, F.R.C.O., L.R.A.M., 22, Bloemfontein Road, W.

A COMPETENT TUNER WANTED, at once. One who can assist in show room and sheet music. Good character indispensable. Apply, C. F. H., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, good PIANO and ORGAN TUNER and REPAIRER. Permanency, if suitable. State age, salary required, give references and enclose photo. Apply, Allen & Sons, Ltd., Queen Street, Wolverhampton.

FIRST-CLASS TUNER REQUIRED, with knowledge of regulating, for West of England. Must be thoroughly capable. References and photo to X. Y. Z., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED a TUNER and REPAIRER from the country. Must not object to canvassing. State salary required, age, and enclose references and photo to Fork, Messrs. Novello and Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, for the Midlands, TUNER for Outdoors. Permanency for competent, trustworthy man. One preferred with good ability for increasing the business. State age, salary required, height (with photo). D. W. T., Novello & Co., Ltd.

MESSRS. BREITKOPF & HÄRTEL, of Leipzig, have a VACANCY for a Young ENGLISH GENTLEMAN. Excellent opportunity for learning the German language, and the German Music Trade in all its branches. No salary paid for the first 12 months. Breitkopf & Härtel, 54, Great Marlborough St., London, W.

WANTED, a Gentleman already representing an English Manufacturer of Pianofortes, and having a good connection, to introduce and sell a HIGH-CLASS GERMAN PIANO. Small salary and commission. Address, giving full particulars, H. B. M., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, PIANOFORTE SALESMAN, to assist in Saloon and canvass. Tuner preferred. Apply to Energetic, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, YOUNG LADY, for Music Saloon. Must have a thorough knowledge of Catalogues, Book-keeping, and the trade generally. Enclose photo and references and particulars of experience to Llewellyn Hart, Pianoforte Saloons, Eastbourne.

TRAVELLER.—WANTED, a smart, energetic, and gentlemanly YOUNG MAN, to represent a well-known Firm of Music Publishers in the Country. Preference will be given to a Young Man thoroughly acquainted with German musical publications. Address, with references, stating experience, age, and salary required, to O. K., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, PRACTICAL MAN, to manage Branch Shop in Midlands. Married. Cyclist. Good house. Apply, with terms, to Music, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners St., W.

OUT-DOOR SALESMAN and CANVASSER WANTED, experienced, first-class, for South Wales. Good wages to competent man. Apply, F. C. S., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

SCORING for ORCHESTRA.—Mr. WM. LANE FROST undertakes this and all kinds of music work: Arranging, Revising, Copying, &c. Address, Avonley, Hatcham Park, S.E.

MUSICAL COMPOSITIONS REVISED. Apply. Bruce Steane, Eardley Road, Sevenoaks.

AS RESIDENT MUSICAL COMPANION to Lady, by experienced Accompanist. Undertake full Church Service. American organ. Good correspondent and needlewoman. Aged 29. Gentlewoman. Excellent references. Elkcup, 24, Westbere Road, West Hampstead.

ACCOMPANIST (L.R.A.M.), experienced, excellent reader at sight and transposer, desires ENGAGEMENTS. Apply, A., 6, Harley Street, Marylebone Road, N.W.

ACCOMPANIST, daughter of Professor of Music, desires ENGAGEMENT, practice or otherwise, preferably with violinist or 'cellist. Has had much experience with violinist. Read anything at sight. Recommendation from Mr. HENRY BIRD. Miss N., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

EXCELLENT ACCOMPANIST and SIGHT READER desires ENGAGEMENT to professional Soloist, Choral Society, &c. P., 66, Southwood Lane, Highgate, N.

FIRST-CLASS SOLOIST open to ENGAGEMENTS. Oratorios, Concerts, Solos, &c. Aged 14. Well trained. Horace, 48, Shaftesbury Road, W.

AS AMANUENSIS or SECRETARY.—A Bachelor of Music of Oxford, good correspondent, with literary ability, business knowledge, and experience in correcting music proofs, desires EMPLOYMENT as above, or in some similar capacity. Address, P. E. D., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGANIST, skilled; long experience; DISENGAGED June. Apply, O. R. G., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER. Gentleman requires POST. London, or within 50 miles. Teaching not necessary. Experienced; good Churchman. Used choral celebrations. Successful with boys. Organo, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners St., W.

THOROUGHLY competent, reliable TUNER, DISENGAGED. Address, Cyclist, Novello & Co., Ltd, 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANOFORTE TUNER, 25 years' experience, DISENGAGED in May. Good all round. Very successful in sales and repairs. A. W., Oxford Villa, Severn Road, Weston-super-Mare.

WANTED, in July, SITUATION to improve in TUNING. Good knowledge of Pianoforte, American Organ, and Harmonium repairs. Apply, A. E. L., Novello & Co., Ltd.

SOPRANO (Queen's Hall, St. James's Hall, Crystal Palace Concerts), will give SERVICES for limited number of CONCERTS for expenses. For testimonials, &c., write "E. D.," Novello and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MISS NELLIE SUTCLIFFE, L.R.A.M., Pianist, will play at Concerts, At Homes, &c., for expense fees. Address, 30, Wilson Street, Clapham Junction.

ALTO.—Voice up to Soprano, F or G. Good reader. Age 35. Wants POST in good choir. Could also assist organist. Moderate salary. Address, D., care of Reeks, 54, Paternoster Row, E.C.

Note Change of Address. Extension of Business.

ALICE E. JOSEPH

Late Private Secretary to Sir Augustus Harris, Drury Lane Theatre, Royal Opera, Covent Garden,

OPERA AND CONCERT AGENCY,

8, Stafford Street, Old Bond Street, W.

MADAME MELBA and the best Artists have been engaged through above agency.

Telegraphic address: "Alicetta," London.

MR. STEDMAN'S MUSICAL AGENCY

(Established 1877).

Artists for Opera, Theatre, Oratorio, At Homes, Banquets, &c.
Choruses, Choir Boys and Girls.
Singing Lessons and Coaching.
58, Berners Street, W.

LONDON CONCERT & CHOIR AGENCY.

SOLOISTS and CHORUS VOICES for Festivals, Oratorios, Concerts, Glee and Madrigal Societies, At Homes, Banquets, &c.
Mr. James Bates, Polytechnic, Regent Street, W.

CHOIR EXCHANGE and MUSIC PUBLISHING AGENCY. Chief Office: 5, East 14th Street, New York.
Church positions secured in the United States for Organists and Singers for May, 1902. Publication secured for Composers' Manuscripts. For terms, address The John E. Webster Co.

AMATEUR COMPOSERS can have copies of their Compositions lithographed, for private circulation or otherwise, from 24 copies and upwards. Mention specimen required (free). Dinham, Blyth and Co., 27, Fenchurch Street, London. Established 1872.

BAYREUTH FESTIVALS, 1902.—English Lady has ROOMS TO LET for the FESTIVALS. Apply to Mrs. Linhardt, Hofgartenstrasse 6, Bayreuth.

MADAME EUGENIA MORGAN can receive a few PAYING GUESTS. Highly recommended by Lady Superintendent, Guildhall School of Music. Special arrangements for Students. 69, Elgin Avenue, Maida Hill, W.

VIOLINISTS of all GRADES should see Messrs. F. W. CHANOT & SON'S advertising OFFER, now appearing in The Strad, how to obtain cheap Violin Music, and a £14 14s. Violin Outfit free.

EVERY ORGANIST should send for DINHAM, BLYTH & CO.'S Specimens and Price List (free) for Lithographing Anthems, Kyries, Hymn Tunes, &c., from twenty-four Copies and upwards. 27, Fenchurch Street, London. Established 1872.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—ORGANISTS can PRACTISE on the Grand four-manual Organ by Willis (blown by hydraulic engines controlled from keyboard) in the Concert Hall of the Hampstead Conservatoire. The Hall is warmed by hot water. Specification of the organ, and terms of practice on application to the Secretary, Hampstead Conservatoire, Swiss Cottage, N.W.
N.B.—The Conservatoire is eight minutes by rail from Baker Street, Metropolitan Railway. Trains every ten minutes.

NEW ORGAN STUDIO, with Three-manual PIPE ORGAN, blown by water. Terms for Practice, 1s. per hour. At Smyth's Music Depôt, 54, London Road, Forest Hill, S.E.

The Swanton £50 Challenge is still unaccepted. See current No. of Musical Opinion.

HUGH SWANTON,

THE LEADING EXPERT IN ORGAN BLOWING.

ELECTRIC BLOWING.	THE COMPOUND CENTRIFUGAL ORGAN BLOWER.	GAS ENGINE BLOWING.

This beautiful apparatus may now be inspected in actual operation at my Factory at Stepney (six minutes from City).

The Compound Centrifugal Organ Blower offers the ONLY SATISFACTORY SOLUTION for blowing an Organ by Electric Motor or Gas Engine. All other devices, including that abomination, the noisy and inefficient Fan, are completely superseded by this new and most ingenious invention.

It is self-controlled. Its speed is slow and constant. Its wind supply is automatic. It is almost noiseless. It takes small space. It is simple. It is low in first cost. It is low in running cost.

79, WHITEHORSE STREET,
STEPNEY, LONDON, E.

Installations now in operation at—

St. Paul's Cathedral,	Dundalk Cathedral,
Norwich Cathedral,	Armidale Cathedral, N.S.W.,
Llandaff Cathedral,	Church House, Westminster, &c.
Milan Cathedral,

Installations now in hand for—

Dublin Cathedral,	Horsham,
Aachen (Germany),	London,
Betchworth,	Portmadoc,
Cheltenham,	Redhill,
Cork,	Stockport,
Edinburgh,	Weston-super-Mare.

ORGANS for SALE or HIRE, or payable in five years. Five new superior high-class Organs ready for delivery, £230, £240, £260, £265, £280, and five Second-hand Organs at £35, £80, £100, £165, £200. Price List, with specifications for building organs, from £10 to £2,000. Alterations, additions, repairs, and tunings.
Alfred Monk, Organ Works, 556, Holloway Road, London.

TRINITY COLLEGE LONDON.

(Instituted 1872.)

President:
The Right Hon. LORD COLERIDGE, M.A., K.C.

Warden:
EDMUND H. TURPIN, Mus.D.

Director of Examinations:
JAMES HIGGS, Mus.D.

MAY 21 is the LAST DAY OF ENTRY for the MUSICAL KNOWLEDGE (Theory) EXAMINATION, which takes place on June 21.

The forthcoming Local Examinations in INSTRUMENTAL and VOCAL MUSIC take place up to and including July, at the various centres throughout the United Kingdom, and include Pianoforte and Organ Playing, Solo Singing, and Violin Playing.

JUNE 1 is the LAST DAY OF ENTRY for the following OPEN SCHOLARSHIPS, tenable for three years, and EXHIBITIONS tenable for one year:—

One Pianoforte Scholarship.
One Vocal Scholarship.
Benedict Pianoforte Exhibition.
Sims Reeves Vocal Exhibition.
College Violin Exhibition.
College Viola Exhibition.
College Violoncello Exhibition.
College Double-Bass Exhibition.
College Organ Exhibition.

JUNE 21 is the LAST DAY OF ENTRY for the next Half-yearly HIGHER EXAMINATIONS, taking place at the College on July 21 and following days.

Particulars and Entry Forms on application.

By order,
SHELLEY FISHER, Secretary.

Mandeville Place, Manchester Square, W.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

PRINCE CONSORT ROAD, SOUTH KENSINGTON, S.W.
Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1883.

Patron: His Majesty The King.
President: H.R.H. The Prince of Wales, K.G.
Director: Sir C. Hubert H. Parry, D.C.L., M.A., Mus. Doc.
Hon. Sec.: Charles Morley, Esq., M.P.

THE NEXT TERM begins on Monday, May 5. Entrance Examination, Friday, May 2.

Syllabus and official Entry Forms, may be obtained at the College, Prince Consort Road, South Kensington.

FRANK POWNALL, Registrar.

Under Distinguished Patronage.

SALLE ERARD, 18, Gt. Marlborough Street, W.

MISS ANNIE M. CARNES, L.R.A.M.

(Pupil of Mr. John Thomas, Harpist to H.M. THE KING)

WILL GIVE A

HARP RECITAL

ON

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON, MAY 28, at 3 o'clock,

Assisted by the following Artists:

MR. JOHN THOMAS
(Harpist to His Imperial Majesty King Edward VII.)

MISS ETHEL BARNS
(Violinist)

MISS A. M. CRISP, L.R.A.M.
(Pianist)

MISS ELSIE MACKENZIE and
MR. CHARLES PHILLIPS
(Vocalists).

The Programme will include the following pieces:—
Duet for Two Harps, "Scenes of Childhood" ... ... J. Thomas.
Sonata in E flat, for Violin and Harp ... ... Spohr.
Concertstück, for Harp and Orchestra (Piano Accomp.) .. Von Wilm.
Also: SONGS WITH HARP ACCOMPANIMENTS.

Seats (all Reserved), 10s. 6d. and 5s.

Tickets to be obtained from Messrs. J. and P. Erard, 18, Marlborough Street, W.; W. Whitehead's Ticket Office, St. James's Hall; and from Miss Carnes, care of 63, Westwick Gardens, West Kensington, W.

John Broadwood & Sons'

Limited,

NEW SHORT OVERSTRUNG GRAND

105 Guineas.

"MULTUM IN PARVO."

33, GREAT PULTENEY STREET, LONDON, W.

THE LONDON ORGAN SCHOOL

AND INTERNATIONAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC,
Established 1865.

22, Princes Street, Cavendish Sq., W. (close to Oxford Circus).
Director and Principal: T. H. Yorke Trotter, M.A., Mus.D., Oxon.
Director of the Violin School: Wilhelm Sachse.

The School is open daily from 9 a.m. till 9 p.m., and provides a THOROUGH EDUCATION for PROFESSIONAL and AMATEUR MUSICIANS. Lessons may begin on any date, and a single subject taken if desired.

PRIVATE LESSONS are given in Harmony, Counterpoint, and Composition; Pianoforte, Organ, Singing, Violin, Viola, Violoncello and Double-Bass; all Wind and other Orchestral Instruments; Choir Training, Elocution and Stage Deportment, Modern Languages, &c.

DAY AND EVENING CLASSES are held in Harmony and Counterpoint, Musical Dictation, Quartet and Ensemble Playing, and in Elocution (Mr. Charles Fry), and Modern Languages.

The School has two Full Orchestras, a String Orchestra, and two Choral Classes.

The CONCERT ORGAN and two other three-manual Instruments are available for practice.

Prospectus on application to the Secretary.

Just Published.

GOD SAVE THE KING

ARRANGED BY

EDWARD ELGAR.

Price Threepence.
Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. Full Score and Band Parts (in the Press).

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

BOSWORTH EDITION.

Dedicated, by gracious permission, to His Majesty King Edward VII.

CORONATION MARCH

BY

ALEX. C. MACKENZIE.

The following Arrangements are ready, and may be ordered at once:—

PIANO SOLO, 2s. net. PIANO DUET, 2s. 6d. net.
MILITARY BAND (Hawkes and Son).
FULL ORCHESTRA, with Score, ready shortly.

OSCAR BERINGER

Daily Technical Studies, 6s. net.

New and enlarged Scale and Arpeggio Manual, 2s. net.

In the Press.

PIANOFORTE TUTOR

In this work, Mr. Beringer has gone entirely out of the beaten track and produced an elementary method on quite a novel system, the originality and simplicity of which should certainly prove of immense interest to the profession.

BOSWORTH EDITION.

ŠEVČÍK VIOLIN METHOD.

The School for beginners will be shortly issued in two Books, at 3s. each.

SATURDAY AFTERNOON, MAY 10,
THURSDAY EVENING, MAY 22.

KOCIÂN RECITALS

ST. JAMES'S HALL.

BOSWORTH AND CO.
LONDON, LEIPZIG, PARIS, VIENNA.

THE MUSICAL TIMES
AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.
MAY 1, 1902.

HENRY SMART.

1813—1879.

'The Te Deum of the deservedly popular service in F by Henry Smart proves how much breadth and dignity can be thrown into the "late simple harmonic" style by the hand of genius.' Thus wrote the late Sir John Stainer in the article 'Service,' contributed by him to Grove's 'Dictionary of Music and Musicians.' This setting of the great Ambrosian Hymn is, we understand, to find a place in the approaching Coronation Service of King Edward the Seventh in Westminster Abbey. So interesting a circumstance seems to furnish an opportune moment for a biographical sketch of the composer of the said Te Deum in F.

Henry Thomas Smart was born in Foley Place (now Langham Street), on the eastern side of Great Portland Street, October 26, 1813. He received his second name from his uncle, Sir George Thomas Smart, Thackeray's 'Sir George Thrum.' His father, Henry Smart, the son of a music publisher, was a violinist of repute, being leader (in turn) of the Philharmonic Society and Drury Lane orchestras. Music was not the only pursuit of his life. At one time he, with his father, was part proprietor of a brewery; he had a pianoforte manufactory in Berners Street; and he invented a metronome. He died, November 27, 1823, at the early age of forty-five, of typhus fever, in Dublin, whither he had gone to superintend the debut of his gifted pupil, Mary Anne Goward, afterwards the celebrated and nonogenarian Mrs. Keeley, who, although she acquired fame as an actress, made her first public appearances in the capacity of a soprano singer.* Curiously enough, his son subsequently gave singing lessons to the two daughters of Mrs. Keeley; and another student of the vocal art who came for instruction to Henry Smart the younger, was Mr. Arthur Chappell, of 'Monday Pops' fame. On his mother's side, the subject of this biographical sketch could claim lineal descent from Robin Hood.

AN INVENTIVE TURN OF MIND.

The boy inherited his father's hobby for mechanical invention. The constant companion of his father, Master Henry would find his true delight in stage machinery, especially when a pantomime was in preparation, while his father fiddled away at rehearsal. The house became strewn with models of pantomime tricks, and other wonderful achievements of those little fingers, one of them being a miniature engine invented to crack hemp-seed for the domestic canary. At the death of his easy-going, indulgent father, the boy (aged ten), one rather difficult to manage, was sent regularly to school. Music, in the ordinary school-curriculum sense of the term, found no place in his daily round. The common task of practising gave place to extemporizings oft, much to the chagrin of his mother. But upon making the acquaintance of Cramer's Pianoforte Studies he changed his methods; he not only became enamoured of that excellent work, but soon played much of its contents from memory.

The boy's leisure hours were often spent in the factory of Robson, the celebrated organ builder of the day, where he had the advantage of gaining much practical experience in the mechanical construction of the instrument, and of trying any organs that were playable. He made the acquaintance of Mr. Nield, organist of All Souls' Church, Langham Place. On Sunday mornings the boy was allowed to sit by the side of the old organist and to accompany some part of the service. These opportunities of acquiring knowledge by observation and practical experience were eagerly made the most of by young Henry Smart. It should be recorded that, by permission of his uncle, Sir George Smart, he was allowed to occupy a seat in the orchestra at Covent Garden Theatre during the preparations for Weber's 'Oberon'; though Master Smart showed more interest in the fairy machinery of that opera than in the composer of its music. A boyish passion for private theatricals may be traced to these operatic surroundings.

EARLY ENGINEERING EXPLOITS.

Another uncle, Captain Bagnold, who was on friendly terms with Sir Humphrey Davy, Faraday and others, took the boy to scientific lectures at the Royal Institution; on these occasions the youthful listener would sometimes put some puzzling questions to the leaders of science within those learned walls. A mysterious disappearance and prolonged absence on a certain half-holiday caused the anxious enquiry on his return home: 'Where have you been, Harry?' 'At Maudslay's,' was the unconcerned reply, as he produced a great roll of mechanical drawings. By what means he obtained an introduction to the great engineering firm, with permission to make those drawings, no one ever knew; but repeated visits gave him an opportunity of exercising his wonderful magnetic and fascinating power of extracting information from those with whom he came into contact, no less than his own highly-developed bump of concentrative observation. 'Superior' people may sneer at these 'picking up' methods, or in attention being called to them; but they cannot explain away the fact that such invaluable self-help in life's equipment produces men of grit and power who play no small part in a nation's progress.

* Further information concerning Henry Smart, the elder, will be found in the Quarterly Musical Magazine and Review, vols. iii., 303; and v. 561.

The remarkable skill of this twelve-year-old boy's mechanical drawings pointed to his becoming a civil engineer; but the means were not forthcoming wherewith to realise so promising a future. After a period of boarding-school life at Lauderdale House, Highgate—where he was chief musician and head assistant in the laboratory of the establishment—he, at the instigation of his mother's well-to-do relations, was articled to a solicitor. The choice of the legal profession as a means of livelihood proved to be sorely against his will—which, by-the-way, was a very strong one. As clients were, like angels' visits, few and far between, the youth learnt from his master more about rowing and billiards than deeds and costs, and in course of time, owing to the sudden disappearance of his chief, Smart's articles were transferred to another solicitor. He had, however, acquired sufficient knowledge of the law to show him that the assignment of the clientless solicitor—a man of little principle and less practice—was informal. To the great dismay of his mother, but in tones of joyful exultation, he said: 'I took up law to please my relations, and now I'll leave it to please myself.' Upon being asked what he would like to be, he replied, 'To go to sea'; but as he was then too old to enter the Navy, that wish could not be gratified.

PEDALS AND THE FRENCH HORN.

Music thenceforward became the work of his life. He made the acquaintance of George Alexander Macfarren (seven months his senior) and John Barnett, of 'Mountain Sylph' fame. The trio of youths had a thorough belief in each other, and Smart soon made another life-long friend in Bach's '48.' The pedal fugues of the great Cantor next gained his affections. But how could he practise them? In course of time quantities of wood, wire, glue, and leather mysteriously found their way into the young man's attic bedroom. Before long they were brought down stairs in the form of a complete set of organ pedals, which were at once applied to his mother's square pianoforte. A keen desire to know how to write for 'the horns' resulted in the purchase of a French horn as a means to that end. This most human member of the orchestra and its tyro performer were relegated to the attic, but the tones—not over tender, perhaps—of the instrument made their mournful way through the house. A set of quadrilles and the charming setting of 'Ecco quel fiero' can be put down to the composition record of those early days.

SPOHR AND YARMOUTH.

A great stride was made when Sir George Smart (his uncle) produced a version of Spohr's opera, 'Zemire und Azor,' called 'Azor and Zemira, or the Magic Rose,' at Covent Garden Theatre, April 5, 1831. Henry, then seventeen, almost lived at the theatre during the period of rehearsal. Here he made the acquaintance of William Henry Kearns, a viola player and excellent musician, from whom, though not actually a pupil, he learnt much. After a few performances of Spohr's opera, young Smart had memorized the whole of the work—music and dialogue—and he would play any portion of it on the pianoforte to the great amusement of his friends. And here it may be mentioned that Henry Smart was practically a self-taught musician. In after life, he declared how much the lectures on painting by Sir Joshua Reynolds had helped him in his own branch of art. This is interesting, not only as a means to an end, but in the means itself as broadening the horizon of his artistic environment.

During one of several annual visits to Yarmouth with his mother, Smart had access to the organ in the noble parish church (St. Nicholas) of that Peggotty watering-place. But the instrument possessed no composition pedals. He never rested until he had obtained permission from the Mayor of Yarmouth to supply the deficiency. He thereupon shut himself up with a carpenter and materials, and in due time this boy of seventeen gave such a performance on the fine old organ as had never been known before, to the delight of the inhabitants and to the satisfaction of His Worship. Yachting and lighthouse matters—he could tell all the lights and buoys along that coast—greatly engrossed his attention, and at Yarmouth he acquired much of the skill and experience which in after years made him so keen a yachtsman, and the joint-owner of a craft. By this time (ætat eighteen) he had become tall in stature and powerful in frame, for which his mother's family were remarkable; and although he possessed an exceedingly vigorous constitution, his sight became a constant source of anxiety. The best advice was obtained, but happily the sad prognostications of the most eminent oculists of the day were not fully realized until Smart had entered his fifty-second year, when, alas! he became totally blind.

BLACKBURN.

The organ had become the all-absorbing interest in the life of the young musician, and by degrees he drifted into music as a profession. He applied for and obtained the organistship of the parish church of Blackburn, and, at something under twenty years of age, he started for the Lancashire town in order to make his own way in the world. The Blackburn people were very kind to him; the country round was a source of constant delight, and was he not in the midst of his old love, machinery? The vicar of the church soon took a fancy to this young man 'o' pairts,' as they say in Scotland. The organist was frequently a guest at the parson's table, and their after-dinner chats often turned upon theological subjects. To commemorate the Tercentenary Commemoration of the Reformation, Smart composed an anthem, the words —'I saw an angel fly in the midst of heaven'— selected by the vicar, and performed in Blackburn Church, on October 4, 1835. This anthem, Spohrish in character, was Smart's first work of importance. It was dedicated to Archbishop Howley, and published by subscription. Dr. Whittaker, his vicar, seems to have been a broad-minded man. We find that Smart at times lent his aid to the Roman Catholic Church at Blackburn. On one occasion he conducted Beethoven's Mass in C entirely from memory; and for a great missionary meeting held by the Nonconformists of the town, he composed his hymn-tune 'Lancashire,' set to 'From Greenland's icy mountains.' At Blackburn he worked very hard. Organ practice until late into winter nights in the church, and equally diligent theoretical studies formed a part of that self-taught curriculum which has helped so many students along the road which leads to success. He trained his church choir to sing without their music, and the fine voices of those Lancashire singers were to him a source of constant delight. At a concert he gave at Blackburn, March 29, 1833, we find that he played a solo on the French horn! He sang, as an alto, in the chorus of the Westminster Abbey Festival in 1834. Although his compositions had hitherto been almost exclusively for the church, he began his career of a successful composer of secular vocal music by writing some graceful duet-waltzes for two of his pupils, and three ariettes, the words for which were furnished by his favourite and invalid sister, who for many years supplied the text of his songs and part-songs above the initials 'E. M. S.'

TWO WESLEY TESTIMONIALS.

It has seldom fallen to the lot of a musician to receive testimonials from Samuel and Samuel Sebastian Wesley, father and son, but Henry Smart could claim that distinction. Through the kindness of Mr. Unwin Sowter, Mr. Smart's son-in-law, we are able to give these interesting tributes:—

I consider Mr. Henry Smart fully competent to the situation of Organist at any Church, being an excellent Performer on that Instrument.

King's Row, Pentonville. S. Wesley.
July 26, 1832.

Exeter, September 13, 1841.

I do not hesitate to express the most favourable opinion of the qualification of Mr. Henry Smart for the office for which he is a candidate. I consider him to be a Professor of very uncommon abilities, possessing an unusually refined taste for music in all its branches, as well as great practical skill as an organist.

I cannot doubt that he would afford perfect satisfaction in his performance of the duties he is desirous to be intrusted with; and should the parties with whom the election rests, prefer Mr. Henry Smart, I do presume to think they will at all times have reason to be pleased with their choice.

Saml. S. Wesley, Mus. Doc.,
Organist of Exeter Cathedral.

A MUSICAL CRITIC.

In 1838, Smart returned to London on becoming organist of St. Philip's Chapel (now Church), Regent Street. He soon afterwards accepted the post of musical critic to the Atlas, a weekly journal which gave much attention to music, and from the columns of which the musical historian may often gain information by reason of the well-compiled index to each yearly volume. Always a very outspoken and fearless man, Smart spared not the lash in his criticisms when he thought a castigation necessary. The editor of the Atlas was so pleased with his musical contributor's work, and having discovered the wide range of his knowledge, that he suggested Smart should contribute, week by week, an article on a scientific subject. Notwithstanding the claims of these various avocations, Smart found time to fall in love, and on July 2, 1840, he was married in the same church of which he held the organistship at his death—St. Pancras, which forms so striking an architectural feature in Euston Road.

DAVISON v. CHORLEY.

A passing reference may now be made to a criticism on a second edition of the once popular song 'Estelle,' composed by Smart, not only by reason of its chronological fitness, but as a specimen of the critical humour of Mr. J. W. Davison in scoring off his colleague, Mr. Chorley, of the Athenæum. Here it is (Musical World, July 13, 1843):—

This may justly be styled the most popular classical song that has proceeded from the pen of an Englishman. It has managed to outlive the cavils and petty malice of such inveterate enemies to everything in the shape of native ability as Mr. Asinæum Chorley, and others of the same miserable fraternity.

After referring to Smart's 'great command of all the intricacies of harmony and modulation,' his 'fine fancy,' &c.—qualities which, by inference, 'Mr. Asinæum Chorley' failed to appreciate—'J. W. D.' concluded his notice thus:—

We are glad to see a second edition of this splendid song, and shall be yet gladder to welcome a twentieth.

ST. LUKE'S, OLD STREET.

In February, 1844, Smart was one of sixteen candidates who competed for the organistship of St. Luke's Church, Old Street, the umpires on that occasion being Goss, Turle, and Topliff. 'Mr. Henry Smart,' said the Musical Examiner (edited by J. W. Davison), 'was unanimously pronounced the best player, and (which is not very often the case) was elected in consequence.' The same journal thus describes Smart's organ performances at the opening of the rebuilt instrument at St. Luke's:—

Mr. Henry Smart, the organist of the church, is an excellent player, and well calculated to develop the points of an instrument of such pretension; in an extemporaneous solo in the first part, he gave some exquisite discursive passages, to show off the swell and choir: he overflows with feeling, and evidently enjoys the moment when a bright thought, decorated with some new harmonic fancy, gets life under his finger, a moment dear to the inspired organist; as a pedalist, he lacks no mechanical readiness. It requires no little strength of hand to work a fugue or chorus upon a modern organ; a man should be of brawny condition, and indifferent to toil, who undertakes the work; by the sweat of his brow, literally, he earns his reward.

BACH, AND OTHER MATTERS.

During his residence in Howland Street, Smart instituted weekly practisings of old English madrigals, motets by Bach, masses and other concerted vocal music at his own house, purely for the enjoyment of the thing. He was one of the earliest members of the Bach Society, and officiated at the first performance given by the members on July 29, 1850, to celebrate the centenary of the great composer's death. 'The vocal music was conducted by Mr. Henry Smart,' said the Morning Post, 'who did his utmost to keep his refractory choristers together.' In the autumn of that year, he went to Paris in order to inspect the famous organs of Caváillé-Col. In the French capital he made the acquaintance of Lefébure-Wély, and caused a great sensation among the Paris organists by his remarkable extemporizings on the organs in the Madeleine and the Cathedral of St. Denis. He won a prize offered by the Sheffield Apollo Glee Club, the adjudicator being Sir Henry Bishop.

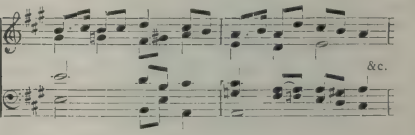
Smart formed one of the quintet of organists who played at the opening, by Queen Victoria, of the Great Exhibition in 1851. During the Royal Procession, the five organs built respectively by Willis, Walker, Hill (all of London), Du Croquet (Paris), and Schulze (Erfurt), were played upon, also respectively—though not simultaneously!—by S. S. Wesley, E. J. Hopkins, George Cooper, M. Danjou (organist of Nôtre Dâme, Paris), and Henry Smart. Thalberg and Smart afterwards caused much amusement by their duet extemporaneous pranks on the curious double American pianoforte then on show in the great glass house in Hyde Park.

At various times operatic affairs greatly engrossed him. The pretty German story of 'Undine' first attracted his attention; but so fastidious was he in his ideals, that long concerted numbers, after having been written, were often torn up, and 'Undine' came to nothing. A romantic opera, 'Berta, or the 'Gnome of the Hartzberg,' was, however, produced at the Haymarket Theatre, on May 26, 1855, with moderate success, Mr. and Mrs. Sims Reeves taking leading parts. Later on he worked at a libretto previously supplied by Chorley to Mendelssohn, entitled 'The Siege of Calais,' which, however, shared the fate of the earlier attempts, and the turbulent seas of opera were forsaken for smoother channels.

THE ST. PANCRAS APPOINTMENT.

After having held—and worthily held—the St. Luke's appointment for twenty years, Smart became, in 1865, organist of St. Pancras Church, which post he retained till his death in 1879. Mr. J. S. Curwen, in his 'Studies in Worship Music' (1st series) gives an interesting account of the service at St. Pancras during Smart's organistship. The singing, led by about twenty boys from the National School, was in unison throughout and entirely congregational. Smart was therefore perfectly free to vary his accompanying harmonies according to his fancy, or such as was prompted by the changing sentiment of the words. The first of the two specimens which Mr. Curwen gives is 'a fine effect' in the last line of the tune 'Hanover':—

The second example pathetically illustrates the words 'Deeply wailing' in the hymn 'Lo! He comes with clouds descending,' as sung to the tune 'Helmsley':—



In concluding some personal recollections of the distinguished organist of St. Pancras Church, Mr. Curwen, in the book above referred to, says:—

It was the accompaniments and the extemporising of Mr. Smart that attracted so many musicians to the St. Pancras service. Extemporising is generally formless and lackadaisical, but Mr. Smart's was rhythmic and thematic. He kept up whatever time he adopted until he came to a change of rhythm and style. He extemporised three times: before and after service, and before the sermon. The opening voluntary was generally a cantabile or slow movement, expressive of sweetness rather than power. The sortie, as the French organists call it, was generally marked by spirit and motion, and a sustained development of form that made it hard to believe that it was not premeditated. The voluntary before the sermon filled up the time while the minister was changing his gown, and was of a meditative kind, always ending in the playing over of the hymn-tune that was about to be sung. It lasted three or four minutes. When the clergyman had reached the pulpit, the youth I have before mentioned touched Mr. Smart's shoulder, and he began to work back towards the key of the hymn-tune. I remember that at the moment he was recalled from his delicious wanderings he was in D flat, and he had to get to D. The masterly way in which he modulated through related keys, using sequence and figures, until he reached the goal, almost made one hold breath with interest.

'MILES'S LANE.'

An amusing incident of Smart's organist experiences may find a place here. In his early days it was the custom for an organist to play a few interludic chords between each verse of a hymn. A certain grumbler in the congregation adversely criticised his accompaniments to the service. Smart said nothing, but waited his opportunity. It came when the tune 'Miles's Lane' was given out. He started it in the usual key, B flat. All went well at the first verse, and everybody seemed prepared to 'make a joyful noise.' But in the interlude between verses one and two, the organist modulated, very cleverly and almost imperceptibly, into the key of B, one semitone higher; between verses two and three the key became changed to C, when it was found that the high notes on 'Crown Him' did not come with their former facility; between verses three and four, the pitch was again raised one semitone, and so on, until those high notes must have joined the company of 'the lost chord.' At all events, the organist effectually silenced his complaining critic.

The mechanical genius of Henry Smart has already been referred to. It found a practical outlet in the organs he designed for Leeds Town Hall (in 1858) and St. Andrew's Hall, Glasgow, 1877—the former instrument built by Messrs. Gray and Davison, the latter by Messrs. T. C. Lewis and Co. His thoroughness showed itself in many ways. Once, when examining the Leeds organ long after it had been erected, he said to Dr. Spark: 'Just let the tuner fetch me out that D of the great organ harmonic trumpet.' The pipe is handed to him, and though totally blind, he takes off the boot of the pipe, feels its tongue, and then says with perfect confidence: 'Just what I thought. These reeds should be taken out, cleaned, and re-burnished, and when I come down again we shall hear that they are as pure and even as on the day when they were first put in.'

A DINNER IN A SWELL BOX.

An amusing and probably unique incident has to be recorded in regard to the building of the Leeds organ at the factory in London. Smart suggested that, as the swell-box was the largest that had been made, a dinner should be given therein, and that as many friends as the box would hold should be invited to the feast. The meal was arranged on the co-operative principle, in that the various guests provided the viands—one a fine salmon, another a haunch of venison, and so on, and it may be assumed that the pipes in that dinner-equipped swell-box were non-speaking. The company numbered ten, and included George Cooper, Howard Glover, William Spark, Henry Smart, and J. W. Davison—the two last-named being the life and soul of the party. It was perhaps natural that the temporary occupants of the box should regard themselves as 'swells' greater than any swell that would ever come out of it; but what shall be said of George Cooper, who likened the swell-box to a ship's cabin because it was going to be a C organ!

COMPOSITIONS.

Henry Smart was a most prolific composer. His creative output included no less than eighty part-songs, forty vocal trios, fifty vocal duets, and 167 songs. Some of these attained wonderful popularity—e.g., 'Ave Maria' and 'The Shepherd's Farewell' (part-songs); 'Rest thee on this mossy pillow,' Bishop Heber's words (trio); 'When the wind blows in from the sea' (duet), and 'The lady of the lea' (song). His hymn-tunes have become favourites in all English-speaking countries; as typical specimens of his manly diatonic style there may be mentioned those known as 'Regent Square' (named after the Presbyterian Church there), and 'Pilgrims,' a setting of Faber's familiar words beginning 'Hark! hark, my soul,' which first appeared in the Appendix to 'Hymns Ancient and Modern,' 1868. All his tunes, and, indeed, the whole of his church music—of which his noble setting of the Te Deum in F is a fine example—is untainted with the false sentimentality of a mere striving after effect which characterizes so much of the church music of the present day. In addition to the well-known Service in F (morning, evening, and communion settings), there is a fine five-part Evening Service in G, which he contributed to George Haycraft's second collection of Sacred Music in 1850. For the late Dr. Spark's 'Practical Choirmaster' he wrote another but complete Service in G, and for the Festival of the Sons of the Clergy, held in St. Paul's Cathedral in 1870, he composed his B flat setting of the Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis, in which he introduced the tuba with fine effect. This was probably an early employment of that stop in a vocal composition for the church. Of his twelve or more anthems—the initial attempt has already been referred to—two were commissioned by the London Church Choir Association for their Annual Festivals in St. Paul's Cathedral: 'Sing to the Lord' (1876), and 'Lord, Thou hast been our Refuge' (1878). His Easter anthem, 'The Lord is my Strength,' written for THE MUSICAL TIMES, has attained great popularity.

His larger works include 'Jacob,' his only oratorio, composed for the Glasgow Musical Festival of 1873; 'The Bride of Dunkerron' (Birmingham Musical Festival, 1864), a work concerning which Mr. Davison wrote in The Times, 'in truth, is of its kind a masterpiece'; 'King René's Daughter' and 'The Fisher-maidens'—the two last named written for female voices. His organ music is so well known that there is no need to refer to it in detail. The following words of Ouseley on Smart's organ music may, however, be quoted: 'He had an inexhaustible store of lovely melody, which invested all his works with a charm peculiarly their own, while his harmonies were always masterly, his counterpoint irreproachable, and his power of bringing out the best points of his instrument unrivalled.'

PERSONALITY.

A few words, in conclusion, as to the personality of Henry Smart. His early training was for the most part of the theatre and orchestra. Unlike Goss, Hopkins, Sullivan, and others, he never held a choristership in a cathedral, or church; therefore it is all the more remarkable that he developed into a vocal composer of such sterling excellence. No one can point to an unvocal bar in Smart's music. This rather rare and precious qualification he doubtless acquired by his early love for and study of Handel and Purcell. Had he been brought up on modern German music, as seems to be the fare set before young music students of the present day, Smart would never have become a master of melody and form. 'Dear old Sebastian' was another of his dearly beloveds.

The high ideals which he strenuously set before himself may be instanced in the following letter, so eminently characteristic of the man. It was written in 1864 to a young musician who had sought his opinion upon an anthem:—

My dear Sir,—I return your anthem by this post. I think the criticisms are hypercritical, and do not point out any special faults, while it is certainly gross rudeness to disfigure your MS. by writing remarks on it in ink. I must be candid enough, however, to tell you that I do not much like your anthem as a whole, and I think you could and ought to do better.

The whole manner of the anthem is not, to my thinking, sufficiently elevated; and, as an instance, there is a passage on page 2 which I have marked in pencil, which has a modern littleness about it that annoys me. Also on pages 6 and 7, all that to the words, 'The Lord Almighty,' is in three-bar phrases, which destroy the rhythm. Moreover, for such a short piece there is too much unison for my taste. You asked for my opinion, and you have it.

I am sure I am quite right in telling you that if you aspire to distinction as a composer, you must be very careful what you do. There are very VERY few men ever born in the world who can afford to write themselves down on paper without a great deal of thought and labour. Of course, au contraire, there are a great many donkeys in the world, but if I thought you were one of these, I shouldn't take the trouble to give you six words of advice.

Remember always that a thing's being little is no excuse for its being bad; and the attention to this golden fact is one great secret of success.

Truly yours,
HENRY SMART.

DICTATION METHODS.

The weakness in the eyes which took a threatening form in his boyhood culminated, when he had entered his fifty-second year, in a total eclipse of his visual organs. Thenceforward he was forced to adopt the irksome method of dictating all his compositions. His daughter, Clara (afterwards Mrs. Sowter), not only cheered and encouraged him in his terrible affliction, but devoted herself heart and soul to his interests and work. She was so careful in taking down her father's dictation, and her calligraphy was so neat and clear, that alterations or corrections were seldom necessary in any of the many works her willing hands had committed to paper. With ordinary songs his plan was to have the poem to be set read over to him two or three times; this process firmly fixed the words in his memory. He would then light his pipe, pace up and down his study, or walk in the garden, and subsequently play on the pianoforte the piece he had mentally composed. Calling his amanuensis-daughter, he would proceed to dictate to her thuswise:—

'Symphony to a song, key G. Treble and bass clefs. Two-four time. Treble: crotchet chord, tail up—D and B below the lines; two quavers, bound together—G second line, B above, bar. Crotchet chord, A second space, E below, C below. Two quavers, tails up, bound together—E first line, A second line,' and so on. This would result in nothing more than two bars—treble only:—

The labour involved in such a process is extremely tedious, and must be a sore trial to one's patience; but it assumes herculean proportions when an entire oratorio in full score has to be thought out and dictated by a method so wearisome to composer and amanuensis.

AN APPRECIATION.

'An old pupil,' who is the organist of a country church in Surrey, has, in response to our request, sent us the following 'appreciation':—

No task could be more welcome to one who had the privilege of more than thirty years' acquaintance with Henry Smart, during many of which his teaching proved to be of the highest value, than that of attempting to write down some of the many recollections which crowd upon the mind concerning him.

All who were acquainted with his brilliant conversational powers must remember how vast were his stores of information on endless subjects. It was impossible to be in his society without learning something worth knowing. No wonder that by the foreman of some engineering works which he once visited, he was supposed to be a distinguished civil engineer. No wonder, either, that the writer of these lines was told by a barrister who knew him well that he would have made a splendid lawyer.

As a master, whether for pianoforte or organ, for singing, or for the study of harmony and composition, he could not be surpassed. The infinite pains bestowed on every detail of the study in hand, the clearness of explanation, the patience when difficulties were felt, the mastery of them insisted on—all were inimitable, and the power of his personality made the necessary work light, so that his approbation were won. Wisely, he was not lavish of praise, but when given, it was given freely and heartily. The first pianoforte lesson to the child not ten years old, and the first organ lesson, years after, are alike fresh in memory. Some years of struggling alone with organ difficulties, rather than of seeking other instruction when Henry Smart's was out of reach, were cheered with his message, 'Take care of your touch' (in allusion to the keeping up of pianoforte practice), 'and work.' But when at last at the organ of St. Pancras, after the playing of a few passages came the first well-remembered admonition: 'Your hands are all right—but you kick!' Then the pupil gave place to the master, who, his powerful frame now on the bench, called forth loveliness from the organ's tones, repeating the while his directions for pedalling:—'You must creep, and crawl, and slide, and glide;' and this, though his perfection could never be reached, was found to be possible.

Too few were the lessons that followed, then or later; but the freely-given permission, 'Come whenever you like, and pick up all you can,' was eagerly accepted, and much that was invaluable has been learned in watching and hearing him on many a happy occasion. The influence of his genius, exercised on his pupil from childhood to maturity, and onwards till within the last suffering months—borne how patiently—of his life, is as strongly felt to-day as during the many years when 'some more lessons' from Henry Smart added sunshine to the brightest days.

GREGORIANS!

A man of strong opinions, Henry Smart was not afraid of expressing them, sometimes in humorous terms. On one occasion a young curate said to him: 'I am strongly of opinion, Mr. Smart, that there is a fine ecclesiastical, devotional character about Gregorian tones which no other church music possesses.' Smart pushed back his chair, and with a significant gesture said: 'Now, look here, sir, this won't do. Who asked your opinion upon a musical question of which you know absolutely nothing? You may rely on it, that some day when you and your friends are shouting those ugly Gregorian chants, Heaven will punish you, and rain down bags of crotchets upon your heads, and prevent you from ever singing them again!' Once he was invited to 'try' a 'beautiful organ' in a certain chapel. After much persuasion he went. He tested the flue work, and made no comment; but on drawing the reeds, he uttered a significant 'bah!' One of those present said: 'Now, Mr. Smart, I think those reeds are fine.' 'Fine, indeed! Are they?' replied Mr. Smart. 'The only sort of fineness I can liken them to is what I have heard in walking past cottages when they are frying sausages!'

Mr. Frank Kidson informs us that there is a manuscript composition, probably unpublished, of Smart's, in the Public Library, Leeds, bearing the following title—evidently a jeu d'esprit:—

Romanzetta for Pianoforte, Violin, and Violoncello, dedicated to his friends W. Spark, D. Delices, and G. Tetley, Esqrs. HENRY SMART.

At the end of the music the composer has added the following little note:—

N.B.—The composer hereof satisfies himself at present with thus winning his wager, but after having refreshed himself with the meats and drinks thus won aforesaid, he will probably feel disposed to expand this Romanzetta into a Romanza, for the special behoof of the said W. S., D. D., and G. T., Esqrs., and their latest posterity.

H.S.

Very few honours came to Henry Smart in the course of his lifetime. He was a member of the Philharmonic Society, and received the honorary fellowship of the Royal College of Organists; but no University or Archbishop bestowed on him any honorary degree. Henry Smart he lived, so he died, and so is his memory honoured. Within a month of his death he received the news that Queen Victoria, on the advice of Lord Beaconsfield, had granted him a Civil List pension of £100 a year in recognition of his services to music; but as in the case of Tom Hood, this gratifying recognition of his abilities came too late. The sterling worth of the man—fearless and independent in thought and action throughout his strenuous life—received a better testimony in the Henry Smart Scholarship at the Royal Academy of Music, founded by subscription in 1880.

During the last years of his busy career, Smart suffered terrible agony from cancer on the liver, which completely undermined his splendid constitution. But his indomitable courage against every difficulty characterised all his actions up to the last. He paid a visit to Dublin to examine the organ in Christ Church Cathedral, and to report thereupon to the Dean and Chapter. He composed the fine anthem, 'Lord, Thou hast been our refuge,' for the sixth annual festival of the London Church Choir Association, held in St. Paul's Cathedral, in 1878, and within three months of the fatal termination of his distressing illness he played the services at St. Pancras.

On Sunday, July 6, 1879, in his sixty-eighth year, at his residence, 30, King Henry's Road, South Hampstead, the generous heart of Henry Smart ceased to beat, and those who knew him had to mourn the loss of a dear and sympathetic friend. His remains were interred in Hampstead Cemetery. He was the first of five distinguished musicians to be laid to rest in that pleasant parcel of ground at London's Northern Height—the others who have followed him thither being his old friend, George Alexander Macfarren (sightless, like himself), Joseph Maas, Walter Bache, and Edward John Hopkins.

No apology is needed for the presentation (on p. 311) of an instalment of Professor Prout's Preface to the new edition of the Messiah, which Messrs. Novello hope to publish in the autumn. Its importance, judged from either the historical, æsthetic, or technical standpoint, cannot be over-estimated, and we feel sure that our readers will read with interest the Dublin Professor's manifesto on the subject of Handel's masterpiece.

THE FOUNDLING HOSPITAL AND ITS MUSIC.

More than one hundred and fifty years have come and gone since good Thomas Coram founded the 'Hospital for the Maintenance and Education of Exposed and Deserted Young Children in Lamb's Conduit Fields,' which we know as The Foundling. The kind-hearted old mariner little thought when, in 1739, he petitioned King George II. for a charter, that the Institution established under his beneficent auspices would be associated, and so worthily associated, with the great master of music known the world over as George Frederick Handel. The scheme of the Hospital buildings, erected between 1740 and 1750, on the then outskirts of London, included a chapel. Handel was quick to perceive that the chapel—of which we give, by special and kind permission of the Committee, an interesting drawing as it was in Handel's day—would be the very place for a great music-making. The Minutes of the Committee furnish most interesting and fresh information concerning Handel and his noble benefactions to the Foundling Hospital.

The first entry must be given in full:—

At the Hospital, May 7, 1749.

Mr. Handel being present and having generously and charitably offered a performance of vocal and instrumental musick to be held at this Hospital, and that the money arising therefrom should be applied to the finishing the chapel of the Hospital.

Resolved — That the thanks of this Committee be returned to Mr. Handel for this his generous and charitable offer.

Ordered—That the said performance be in the said Chapel on Wednesday, the 24th inst., at eleven in the forenoon.

Resolved—That the gentlemen present and the rest of the members of the General Committee, or any two of them be a Committee to carry into execution this intention with the advice and direction of Mr. Handel.

Resolved — That George Frederick Handel Esq. in regard to this his generous proposal be recommended to the next General Court to be then elected a Governor of this Hospital.

Brownlow, in his history of the Hospital, says that Handel was actually made a Governor at this time, and this statement has been copied over and over again. But the generous-hearted musician, while much appreciating the proposed honour of being elected a Governor, informed the Secretary that he 'desired to be excused therefrom, for that he should serve the charity with more pleasure in his way than being a member of the Corporation.' However, as we shall presently see, the Court of Governors overruled Handel's objection by electing him a Governor in the following year (1750), more especially as an acknowledgment of his gift of an organ to the chapel, but doubtless not without consideration of the initial and memorable performance of 1749.

The advertisements stated that the performance would be in the chapel, 'which will be sash'd and made commodious for the purpose.' The obsolete word 'sash'd' evidently refers to the light framework inserted in the windows to hold the glass. We also learn from the newspapers of the day that the performance was postponed from May 25 to 27, 'the alteration being necessary for the reception of some persons of high distinction.' The following notice, from the Gentleman's Magazine, informs us on that 'high distinction' point and other matters of no less interest:—

Saturday 27th. May, 1749.

The P. and Prss. of Wales, with a great number of persons of quality and distinction, were at the chapel of the Foundlings' Hospital; to hear several pieces of vocal and instrumental musick, compos'd by George Frederick Handel, Esq.; for the benefit of the foundation.

1. The musick for the late fire-works, and the anthem on the peace.
2. Select pieces from the oratorio of Solomon, relating to the dedication of the Temple; and
3. Several pieces composed for the occasion, the words taken from Scripture, and applicable to the charity, and its benefactors.

There was no collection, but the tickets were at half-a-guinea, and the audience above a thousand, besides a gift of 200*l* from his majesty, and 50*l* from an unknown.

No. 3 consisted of the anthem, 'Blessed are they that consider the poor,' which Handel composed specially for the Foundling, the manuscript of which, partly in his autograph, and partly in the handwriting of Christopher Smith, is one of the treasures of the Hospital.

The General Advertiser, one day before the concert, stated that 'above one hundred voices and performers have engaged to assist on that laudable and charitable occasion'; and we also learn that the performance was 'most complete and solemn.' The London Evening Post, of May 27-30, 1749, referred to the 'several curious pieces of music composed by Mr. Handel,' and, in regard to the audience, 'a prodigious concourse of the Nobility and Gentry.' The thanks of the Committee of the Hospital to Handel and his coadjutors were conveyed in these terms, as recorded in the Minutes of May 31:—

That the thanks of the Committee be returned to George Frederick Handel Esq. for the generous assistance he gave to this charity by his most excellent performance of musick on Saturday last; and that Mr. Handel be desired to return the thanks of this Committee to the performers who voluntarily assisted him upon that occasion.

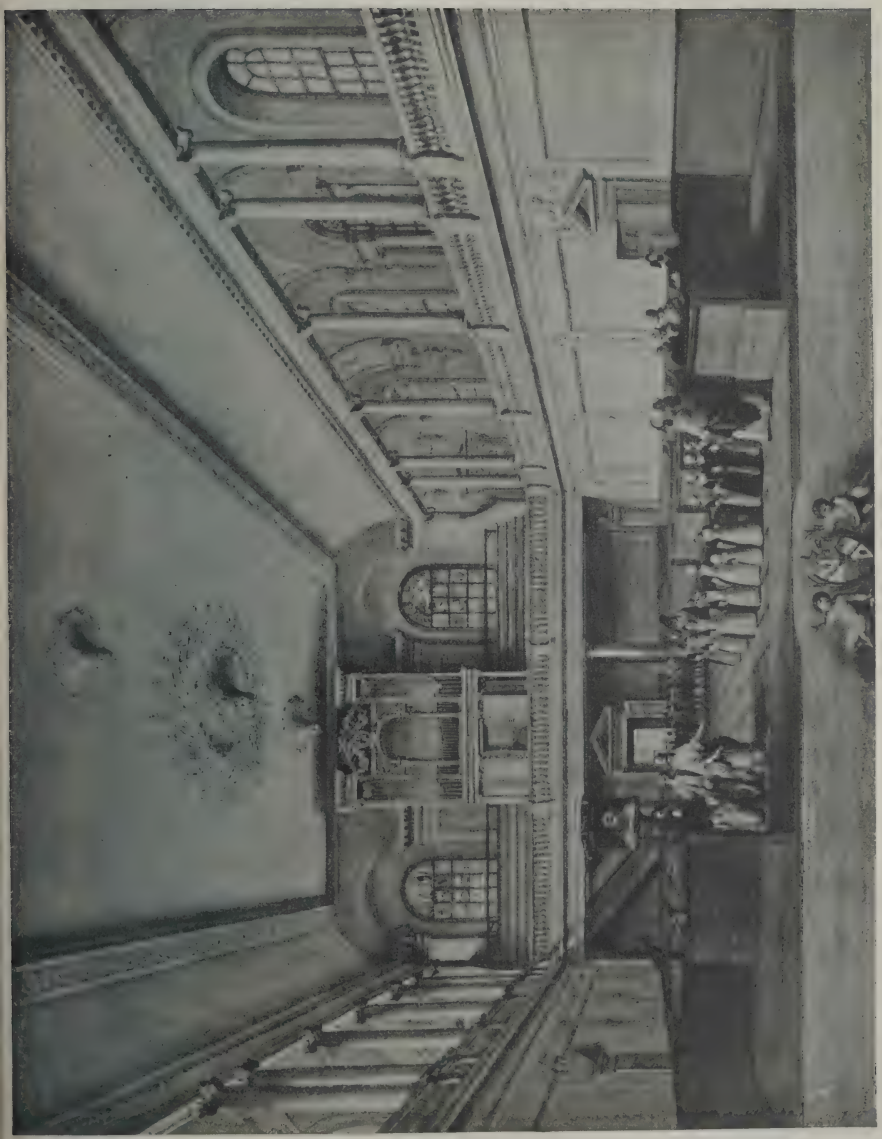
That the thanks of this Committee be returned to the Master of the Children of the King's Chapel for his and their attendance at the said performance.

That the treasurer do pay the secretary £50 for Mr. Handel to dispose of in such manner as he shall think fit.

According to the invaluable Minutes—there is nothing like first-hand information in these matters—a year was not allowed to elapse before the Committee resolved, on February 7, $17\frac{49}{50}$—

That it be referred to the Sub-committee to consider of the manner of opening the Chapel, and having a performance of musick, and that they do consult Mr. Handel thereupon.

That the Secretary do wait upon Mr. Handel to propose a performance of musick and voices on Tuesday, the first of May next [1750].



THE FOUNDLING HOSPITAL CHAPEL IN HANDEL'S TIME.

Reproduced, by kind permission, from an original Water-Colour Sketch in the possession of the Governors of the Foundling Hospital.

The good-natured composer at once, and doubtless very heartily, fell in with the proposal, as the Minutes of April 18, 1750, contain the following interesting information :—

The Secretary acquainted the Committee that Mr. Handel had agreed to the following Advertizement to be published for his intended Performance.

Hospital for the Maintenance and Education of Exposed and Deserted Young Children in Lamb's Conduit Fields April 18th, 1750.

George Frederick Handel Esq. having presented this Hospital with a very fine Organ for the Chapel thereof, and repeated his offer of assistance to promote this Charity; on Tuesday the First Day of May 1750 at Twelve o'clock at noon, Mr. Handel will open the said Organ; and the sacred Oratorio called 'Messiah' will be performed under his direction.

Tickets for this performance are ready to be delivered by the Steward at the Hospital, at Batson's Coffee-House in Cornhill, and White's Chocolate House in St. James's Street, at half a Guinea each.

Ordered—That the said Advertizement be published in the Daily Advertizer, on Friday next, and every day after to Tuesday the first of May; Twice a week in the General Advertizer, twice a week in the Gazetteer, and twice a week in some evening papers.

The 'advertizements' duly appeared with, however, the following important addition: 'There will be no collection'! As to the performance—and it is interesting to find the use of the term 'open the organ'—one newspaper of the day actually stated that 'upwards 1,200 Hundred (!) Persons of Distinction' were present, while another, nearer the truth, referred to 'a great Appearance of Nobility and Gentry to hear the oratorio.' The identical receipt for the payment of the performers at the organ-opening is still preserved at the Hospital. Here is a transcript :—

May 4, 1750.

Received of Taylor White Esq., Treasurer to the Hospital for the maintenance and Education of exposed and deserted young children, Thirty-five pounds for the performers in the oratorio of 'Messiah' on Tuesday, the 1st inst., in the Chapel of the said Hospital, to be distributed and paid over pursuant to the Directions of my Master, George Frederick Handel Esq. by £35 . 0 . 0. Christopher Smith.

The net proceeds of this 'Messiah' organ opening performance amounted to the sum of £728 3s. 6d. 'Peter, Mr. Handel's servant,' was paid one guinea, but Mr. Beard, the solo tenor, and Mr. Christopher Smith, returned their fees—two guineas and one guinea respectively—to the funds of the charity. On the following day (May 2) Handel attended the meeting of the Committee, when he most generously offered to give a second performance of his great oratorio. An advertisement in the daily papers furnishes us with full particulars :—

A computation was made of what number of persons the Chapel of the Hospital would conveniently hold, and no greater Number of Tickets were delivered to hear the Performance there on the First instant. But so many Persons of Distinction coming unprovided with tickets and pressing to pay for tickets, caused a greater number to be admitted than were expected; and some that had tickets not finding room going away. To prevent disappointment to such persons, and for the further promotion of this charity, this is to give notice that George Frederick Handel, Esq., has generously offered that the sacred oratorio called 'Messiah' shall be performed again under his direction, in the chapel of this Hospital, on Tuesday the 15th instant, at twelve of the clock at noon; and the tickets delivered out, and not brought in on the 1st instant, will then be received.

Note.—There will be no collection; and it is hoped, that no Persons will take it ill, that they cannot be admitted without Tickets (General Advertiser, May 4, 1750).

An interesting Minute of April 18, 1750, must not be omitted. The Treasurer reported :—

That Mr. Hudson had offered to present the Hospital with Mr. Handel's picture, and that Mr. Handel had consented to sit for it.

Mr. Hudson was duly thanked; but what has become of that particular Hudson portrait? It is not in the Hospital collection; perchance it is one of several of Handel by that artist which are scattered in various places.

The Court Minutes of the Governors—who met quarterly—of May 9, 1750, record the following appreciation of Handel's benevolence :—

George Frederick Handel, Esq., having presented this Hospital with an Organ, for the Chapel thereof. . . . . .

Resolved—That the thanks of this General Court be severally given to the said Mr. Handel . . . . for the same, which the Vice-President accordingly did.

Resolved—That they [Handel and six other benefactors] be now Balloted for, to be Elected Governors and Guardians of this Hospital, and the said George Frederick Handel [and others] were accordingly elected by Ballot.

This shows that Handel was not elected a Governor till the year 1750, and not in 1749, as is generally stated.

And now as to the organ given by Handel to the Foundling Hospital. Extracts from the Minutes of the Committee meeting held on May 2, 1750, at which, by-the-way, Handel was present, read thus :—

Mr. Handel acquainting the Committee that Dr. Morse, of Barnet, had not finished the organ for the Chapel of this Hospital pursuant to the contract he made with him in July last for that purpose, Ordered—That the Secretary do write to Dr. Morse to press his finishing the organ for immediate use, and that he may find able persons to have as many stops therein as he can, for chorus's, before Tuesday, the 15th inst.

On May 30, Dr. Morse attended the Committee meeting and promised to proceed without delay; and on February 6 in the following year, it is recorded that Dr. Morse had 'delivered all the pipes,' and that he was paid £20 'for the diapason stop.'

But who was 'Dr. Morse, of Barnet'? All authorities, including William Russell, organist of the Foundling, 1801-13, state that the Handel presented organ was built by Parker, or Glyn and Parker. (Rockstro gives the name as 'Parkes,' and this error has been copied in the article on Handel in the Dictionary of National Biography.) Parker was an organ-builder, residing at Salford. Dr. Henry Watson (who has most kindly made enquiries for the purpose of this article) finds him as Richard Parker, 'at the Sign of the Organ,' in Chapel Street, Salford, the identical thoroughfare in which Dr. Watson himself resides! Glyn may have been a London partner. The story goes that Handel heard the organ built by Parker in Poynton Church, Cheshire, on the Lancashire border, and that he was so pleased with it that he selected Parker to supply an instrument at his (Handel's) expense for the Foundling Hospital Chapel. But, from his researches made on the spot, Dr. Watson is strongly of opinion that the Parker organ heard by Handel was not in Poynton Church, as that

GEORGE FREDERICK HANDEL, Esq.
A GOVERNOR OF THE FOUNDLING HOSPITAL.
From the painting by Denner, in the possession of Mr. Alfred Littleton.

sanctuary was not consecrated till 1789, but the decayed old instrument, still standing, but unplayable, in Adlington Hall, two miles from Poynton, the residence of the Legh family. Handel was a frequent guest of Colonel Charles Legh, the Lord of Adlington, and it was without doubt that he made his acquaintance of Parker's work under the hospitable roof of his host, the Colonel.

According to the invaluable manuscript collection of organ matter made by the late Dr. E. J. Hopkins, and now in the possession of the present writer, the Foundling instrument built by Parker was a very remarkable one, more especially by reason of its profusion of quarter tones. Here is the information, which, it should be added, Dr. Hopkins copied from a manuscript account made early in the last century by William Russell, the fifth organist of the Foundling, who regularly played on the Parker instrument :—

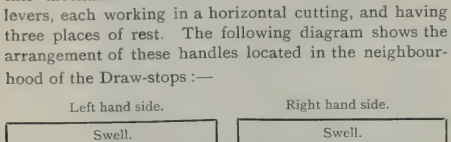
This organ originally contained sixteen notes in the octave; that is to say, in addition to the seven naturals, and the five unequally tempered short keys,—E flat, C sharp, G sharp, and B flat,—it also had four others which sounded D sharp, D flat, A flat, and A sharp. These supplementary notes were not furnished with extra keys, after the manner of Father Smith's organ in the Temple Church; but certain mechanism was provided whereby they could be substituted for those ordinarily associated with the short keys. The external part of this mechanism consisted of a number of handles or levers, each working in a horizontal cutting, and having three places of rest. The following diagram shows the arrangement of these handles located in the neighbourhood of the Draw-stops :—



If a piece of music in the key of E, 4 sharps, were about to be played, the handle on the left hand side was moved to its extreme left, with the result that D sharp would be substituted for the normal E flat. If, on the contrary, a piece in 4 flats were going to be performed, the handle was shifted to the extreme right, when a D flat would be brought on in place of the usual C sharp. All the other handles effected similar alterations. Five handles belonged to a single set of keys. When the handles were placed in the middle of the slides or cuttings, the organ was like the common or unequally tempered organ of the period.

The original specification of the Foundling Organ was as follows :—

	GREAT. 12 Stops.
1. Double Std. Diapason	76 pipes	8. Twelfth	76 pipes
2. Open Diapason ...	76 ,,	9. Fifteenth	76 ,,
3. Open Diapason ...	76 ,,	10. Block Flute	76 ,,
4. Stopped Diapason ...	76 ,,	11. Sesquialtera, III. ranks	228 ,,
5. Principal	76 ,,	12. Trumpet	76 ,,
6. Principal	76 ,,
7. Flute	76 ,,
	CHOIR. 5 Stops.
13. Dulciana to CC ...	71 pipes	16. Fifteenth	76 pipes
14. Stopped Diapason ...	76 ,,	17. Vox Humane ...	76 ,,
15. Principal	76 ,,
	SWELL. 4 Stops.
18. Open Diapason ...	46 pipes	20. Trumpet	46 pipes
19. Stopped Diapason ...	46 ,,	21. Cremona	46 ,,

Compass—Great and Choir, GG, long 8ves, to e3, 76 notes.

Swell—Fiddle g to e3, 46 notes.

Dr. Hopkins (or Russell) adds :—

Handel evidently did not favour much mixture-work; for on comparing the above with the Temple Organ it will be seen that to less than half the quantity of mixture, he disposed twice the amount of unison and octave-work, i.e., two Open Diapasons and two Principals. There was also a second 'Large Fifteenth' or Block Flute.

The keyboard of the old organ is still preserved: it has black natural and white sharp keys.

As to whether Parker or Morse built the first organ erected in the Foundling Hospital Chapel, is a mystery that has yet to be solved. This we shall endeavour to do.

Year after year, until his death, Handel gave a performance of his 'Messiah' at the Foundling Hospital, in aid of its funds. It is not necessary to refer to these music-makings in detail, but one or two features of interest, derived from the Minute Book and old newspapers of a century and-a-half ago, deserve to be mentioned. The Gentleman's Magazine of May, 1751, says :—

The Oratorio of 'Messiah' was again performed at the Foundling hospital under the direction of George Frederick Handel Esq., who himself play'd the organ, for the benefit of the charity; there were above 500 coaches besides chairs, &c., and the tickets amounted to above 700 guineas.

The General Advertiser furnishes this additional information: 'A Voluntary on the Organ was played by Mr. Handel, which met with universal Applause'—and this in the chapel! It is interesting to find from the Minutes that in this year, Bernard Gates, Master of the Children of the Chapel Royal, returned to the Treasurer the sum of £5 7s. 0d., being the amount of the fees (six guineas) paid to the King's choristers for singing in two performances, 'deducting nineteen shillings for their coach hire.' That Mr. Bernard Gates was heartily thanked goes without saying. A year later the General Advertiser of April 18, 1752, stated :—

We hear that the Ladies who have tickets for the oratorio of 'Messiah' at the Foundling Hospital, this Day the 18th inst., intend to go in small Hoops, and the Gentlemen without Swords, to make their Seats more convenient to themselves.

On that occasion 'the number of tickets given out' was 1200, each at 10s. 6d.

An extract from the Minutes concerning this 1752 performance must be quoted. Does it not speak for itself? :—

. . . A most noble and grand audience, who expressed the greatest satisfaction at the exquisiteness of the composition, the completeness of the performance, and the great benevolence of Mr. Handel.

At the next performance (in 1753) of the 'Messiah,' we learn that 'the inimitable composer thereof, in the organ concerto, play'd himself a voluntary on the fine organ he gave to that chapel.'

We must now pass on to the year 1754, when it was reported to the Committee that Handel intended to assign his rights in the 'Messiah' to the Hospital authorities! This, however, could only be done by an Act of Parliament, which the Governors lost no time in proceeding to obtain. A petition was duly drawn up in these terms :—

That in order to raise a further sum for the benefit of the said Charity, George Frederick Handel, Esq., hath been charitably pleased to give to this corporation a composition of music, called 'The Oratorio of the

"Messiah,"' composed by him the said George Frederick Handel, reserving to himself the liberty only of performing the same for his own benefit during his life: and whereas the said benefaction cannot be secured to the sole use of your petitioners except by the authority of Parliament, your petitioners, therefore, humbly pray, that leave may be given to bring in a bill for the purposes aforesaid.

When one of the Governors submitted this petition to Handel, he soon discovered that the Committee of the Hospital had built on a wrong foundation. No sooner had Handel read the document than, bursting into a rage, he exclaimed: 'Te Deivil! for vat sal de Foundling put mein oratorio in de Parlement! —Te Deivil! mein music sal not go to de Parlement.' The Minutes of the Hospital Committee do not record this outburst of unparliamentary language, but more temperately state that 'the same did not seem agreeable to Mr. Handel for the present.'

The minutes of April 7, 1756, record:—

Mr. Handel having renewed his charitable offer of performing the Oratorio 'Messiah,' at the Chapel of this Hospital,

Resolved—That the said performance be on Wednesday, the 19th of next Month, and that the Secretary do write a letter to Mr. Handel to return him Thanks and acquaint him with the Day fix'd upon, and to desire that he will please to give people Directions to Mr. Smith the Organist of this Hospital, in relation thereto.

A View of the Foundling Hospital
Vue de l'Hopital des Enfans Trouvez.
London printed for Rob.t Sayer Map and Printseller at the Golden Buck, near Serjeants Inn Fleet Street.

THE FOUNDLING HOSPITAL IN THE OLDEN TIME.

(From a print in the possession of Mr. H. Davan Wetton.)

Mr. Moffatt, the organ tuner (or 'turner'), seems to have given some trouble. The Minutes record that he was discharged, and that (on March 9, 1757) the Committee—

Resolved—That John Crang, Organ Builder, at the White Lyon in Wych Street, near St Clements, be organ turner (sic) in the room of Mr. Moffatt at the same salary of five Guineas a year, to begin the 25th of this Month.

A touching incident connected with Handel's noble connection with the Foundling Hospital has now to be recorded. On Saturday, April 14, 1759, the Public Advertiser contained an advertisement that the usual annual performance of the 'Messiah,' 'under the direction of George Frederick Handel, Esq.,' would take place; but the next issue of that journal records:—

Last Saturday and not before died at his house in Brook Street Grosvenor Square, that eminent master of musick George Frederick Handel Esq.

The performance, however, took place—Handel could not have wished it otherwise—on May 3, under the direction of his pupil and amanuensis, John Christopher Smith. Smith's bill of the expenses of that performance has fortunately been preserved, and it clearly proves that Handel employed horns in his orchestral accompaniments to the 'Messiah.' Through the kindness of the Committee of the Hospital, we are permitted to print this most interesting document:—

A list of the Performers in the Oratorio called 'Messiah' at the Foundling Hospital, May 3rd, 1759.

		£	s	d			£	s	d
Violins.	Mr. Brown ..	1	1	0	Bassons.	Mr. Miller ..		10	6
	,, Collet		15	0		,, Baumgarden		10	6
	,, Freeke ..		15	0		,, Goodman		8	0
	,, Frowd ..		15	0		,, Owen ..		8	0
	,, Baumgarden		10	0	Violoncelli & Contra Bassi.
	,, Wood ..		10	0		,, Gillier ..		10	6
	,, Wood Junr.		10	0		,, Haron ..		10	6
	,, Abbington		10	0		,, Hebden		10	6
	,, Grossman		10	0
	,, Jakson ..		10	0
	,, Malchiar		10	0
	,, Richards		10	0		,, Dietrich		15	0
						,, Sworms		10	0
Tenners.	,, Rash ..		8	0
	,, Warner		8	0
	,, Stockton		8	0	Trumpets, Horns, & Kettledrums.
						,, Adcock		10	6
						,, Willis		10	6
Hautbois.	,, Eyferd		10	6		,, Trova		10	6
	,, Teede ..		10	6		,, Miller		10	0
	,, Vincent		10	6		,, Vincent		10	6
	,, Weichsel		8	0			£	17	15	0

Singers.	£	s	d
Sigra. Frasi ..	6	6	0
Sigr. Ricciarelli	5	5	0
Mrs. Scott ..	3	3	0
Mr. Beard ..	,,	,,
Mr. Champness	1	11	6
6 Boys	4	14	6
Mr. Bailden ..	1	1	0
,, Barrow ..	1	1	0
,, Champness..		10	6
,, Bailden Junr.		10	6
,, Ladd ..		10	6
,, Cox ..		10	6
,, Munck ..		10	6
,, Wass ..	1	1	0
,, Walz ..		10	6
,, Kurz ..		10	6
,, Courtney ..		10	6
,, Reinhold ..		10	6
	£28	17	6

Servants.	£	s	d
Evens		10	6
Condell		10	6
Mason		10	6
Green		10	6
~~Thomas~~
~~Mr. Handels man~~		10	6
John Duburgh ..	1	1	0
The Musick porters	1	11	6
	5	5	0
Singers	28	17	6
Orchestra ..	17	15	0
In all ..	51	17	6
Ths. Mr. Handels man absent ..		10	6
	51	7	0
Mr. Smith ..	5	5	0
	£56	12	0

J. C. Smith, orgst.
Howard

May 10th, 1759, Recd. of Mr. Lancelot Wilckinson, the sum of fifty-six pounds twelve shills, in full of all Demands, by me
Christopher Smith.

There are several features of special interest in this bill of costs—e.g., the fees paid to the principal singers (Frasi and others) and the players in the band; the voluntary help of Mr. Beard, he chief tenor of Handel's day—one who must have loved the composer; the balance of chorus and orchestra—only six soprano chorus singers; the name of Walz, Handel's cook, as one of the basses in the chorus; and, pathethic beyond words to express, the scoring through of 'Thomas, Mr. Handels man.'

Handel did not forget the Hospital in his will He bequeathed to the charity 'A fair copy of the score and all the parts of my Oratorio called the 'Messiah.' The former, in three oblong volumes, and in the handwriting of Christopher Smith, has been carefully preserved. The parts, of even greater importance, seem to have been overlooked until Mr. H. Davan Wetton, the present organist, discovered them eight years ago, in an old cupboard close to the organ, where they had probably lain undisturbed and unknown for many a day.

The 'Messiah' performances were annually continued for several years under the direction of John Christopher Smith, Handel's factotum, and John Stanley, the blind organist. According to Burney, the total amount accruing to the Institution from performances of the 'Messiah' alone reached the splendid total of £10,299, of which £6,935 was realised during the composer's lifetime—a magnificent result of his warm-hearted generosity. It may be mentioned that, among the 'tokens' still preserved at the Hospital, of former children, is a large coin-like piece of metal bearing the inscription, 'Maria Augusta Handel, born April 15, 1758,' the explanation being that it was often the custom in former years to name a poor deserted wee bairnie after one of the Governors.

A digression to another artistic path may be permitted in referring to some other treasures in the possession of the Foundling Hospital. And here it may be mentioned that the fine collection of pictures, prints, sculpture, &c., within the walls of the Institution gave rise to the origin of the Royal Academy Exhibition of paintings, now so important a feature of the London season. Hogarth, like Handel, was a great benefactor to the charity. His famous picture 'The March of the Guards to Finchley' hangs on the walls of the Secretary's office. The story goes that Hogarth, being unable to sell it to any one purchaser, resolved to do so by lottery, and gave the Hospital, of which also, like Handel, he was a Governor, 167 tickets which remained unsold, and it was one of these which gained the picture. A fine life-size picture of Captain Thomas Coram, the founder of the Hospital, the portrait which Hogarth 'painted with most pleasure,' adorns the walls of the beautifully-proportioned Board Room, the very apartment in which Handel and Hogarth, as members of the governing body, must have fraternised. This room, with its richly-decorated ceiling, contains eight interesting medallions of the principal London hospitals contemporary with the Foundling, one of which is from the brush of Gainsborough. A Raffael cartoon, 'The murder of the innocents'; an altar-piece in the chapel, 'Christ presenting a little child,' painted by West; and a bust of Handel by Roubiliac—the same artist who designed the famous Vauxhall statue, now in the possession of Mr. Alfred Littleton, was made—are among the other numerous art-treasures in the Hospital. Hogarth's punch-bowl may also be seen, and there is a letter from Charles Dickens, dated 'February 26, 1840,' in which he regrets having to give up his pew in the chapel, by reason of his removal, 'as we miss it [the service] very much,' he says. Handel's tuning-fork, oil paintings of Weber (by Cawse), and Sir George Smart as a young man—the two portraits discovered by Mr. Davan Wetton—add interest to a very interesting collection of art possessions.

Further consideration of the history of the music at the Foundling Hospital Chapel—including the performance of Gounod's 'Redemption,' under Mr. H. Davan Wetton's careful direction, on the 15th ult.—must, by considerations of space, be held over until next month; but full acknowledgment must not be deferred of the facilities afforded to us through the kindness of Mr. Robert Grey, Treasurer, Mr. W. S. Wintle, Secretary, and Mr. H. Davan Wetton, Organist, in the preparation of this article on the music of the Foundling Hospital.

F. G. E.

(To be continued.)

HANDEL'S MESSIAH:

PREFACE TO THE NEW EDITION.

By Professor Prout.

I.

So many editions of Handel's greatest and most popular oratorio exist that the appearance of a new one seems to require some explanation. To give such explanation is the object of the present Preface.

There are two chief reasons which have induced the publishers to decide upon issuing a new and revised edition of the 'Messiah.' These are—first, the corruptness of the text of all existing editions,* and secondly, the unsatisfactory condition of the additional accompaniments in general use. Each of these reasons it will be necessary to discuss in some little detail.

It is extremely doubtful whether any other great musical work exists, the text of which is in even approximately so corrupt a condition as that of the 'Messiah.' Only those who have carefully collated the published editions, whether of the full or vocal score, with the original manuscript (now readily accessible through the photo-lithographed facsimiles), or with contemporary transcripts made by Handel's amanuensis, Christopher Smith, can have the least idea either of the number or character of the mistakes which are to be found in many movements. This will be seen when, later in this Preface, the text of the present edition is discussed.

The deplorable condition of the existing text is not difficult to account for, though the explanation is hardly to the credit either of the critical acumen or the care of successive editors. The earliest edition of the score, published for the first time in a complete form by Randall and Abell, the successors of Walsh, and known as the Walsh Edition,* is, like most of the first editions of Handel's works, extremely incorrect. Arnold's edition, which was the next to follow, appeared in 1789, and is little more than a reprint of that which had preceded; the internal evidence proves clearly that it had never been collated with the original manuscript. Subsequent editors have, with hardly an exception, copied from these early editions, or from one another. Of all the numerous editions consulted in the preparation of the present volume, not a single one is even approximately correct in its text. Surely it is high time that musicians should at least have the opportunity of knowing what Handel actually wrote!

The other reason for a new edition is the unsatisfactory state of the additional accompaniments commonly used. Into the general question of the necessity for additional accompaniments it is not needful to enter at great length. It must however be pointed out that, from various causes, it is all but impossible in the present day to reproduce the effect of one of Handel's oratorios as it was given under his own direction. The balance of chorus and orchestra is, owing to the growth of chorus singing and the great size of our modern choral societies, absolutely different from what it was in Handel's time; the composition of the orchestra itself, and therefore its tone-quality, are not at all the same; the organs in our chief concert-rooms are far larger; and the harpsichord, to which Handel allotted so important a part in the accompaniment of his songs, has vanished altogether from the orchestra. That, under quite exceptional conditions, it is possible to give an approximate reproduction of Handel's chorus and orchestra was proved by the performance of 'Alexander Balus,' given at the Conference of the Incorporated Society of Musicians at Scarborough, in January, 1900; but the attempts made from time to time by our musical societies to give Handel's music as he meant it to be given must, however earnest the intention, and however careful the preparation, be foredoomed to failure from the very nature of the case. With our large choral societies, additional accompaniments of some kind are a necessity for an effective performance; and the question is not so much whether, as how they are to be written.

The additional accompaniments to the 'Messiah' used in this country, and I believe also abroad, are those known as Mozart's, for

* It is probable that the edition prepared by the late Dr. Chrysander for the German Handel Society will contain a correct text; but this edition, though stated to be in the press, is still unpublished at the time these lines are written.

* Schoelcher, in his 'Life of Handel' (p. 273), gives 1768 as the date of the first complete edition of the 'Messiah,' but it appeared in the year 1767.

which, as will be seen directly, he is only partially responsible. During the later years of his life, Mozart wrote additional accompaniments, at the request of Baron von Swieten, to four of Handel's works: 'Acis and Galatea,' 'Messiah,' 'Ode for St. Cecilia's Day,' and 'Alexander's Feast.' From the autograph catalogue of his compositions, which he kept from February, 1784, till within a few weeks of his death, we learn that he arranged the 'Messiah' in March, 1789. The work was published in 1803 by Messrs. Breitkopf and Härtel, but unfortunately not in the state in which Mozart had left it. Johann Adam Hiller, a musician of much repute in his day, and the first conductor of the celebrated Gewandhaus concerts at Leipzig, had already made an arrangement of the oratorio, and much of his version (or, to speak more accurately, 'perversion') was incorporated in the published score, which bore the title 'F. G. (sic) Händel's Oratorium Der Messias, nach W. A. Mozart's Bearbeitung'—i.e., after (not 'in') Mozart's arrangement. As bearing upon the wording of this title, it is worthy of notice that the full score of Mozart's arrangement of 'Alexander's Feast,' also published early in last century, bears on the title 'mit neuer Bearbeitung von W. A. Mozart' ('with new arrangement by W. A. Mozart').

The credit of the first discovery of Hiller's participation in the so-called Mozart score is due to the late Professor E. F. Baumgart, of Breslau, who, in an article which appeared in 1862 in the Niederrheinische Musikzeitung, showed that the song 'If God be for us,' in the distorted form in which it appears in Mozart's score, was copied without alteration from Hiller's arrangement of the 'Messiah,' mentioned above. The question has since been fully investigated by Julius Schäffer, of Breslau, and the results will be found, by those who wish to go into the question, in his two elaborate articles on the subject in Nos. 43, 44 of the Musikalisches Wochenblatt for 1881. There is no longer room for the least doubt that the score attributed to Mozart was considerably altered and touched up by Hiller; and we now see why it was described on the title as 'after,' and not 'in' Mozart's arrangement.

The next question to be considered is: How much of the published score is Mozart's, and how much is Hiller's? As Mozart's autograph has disappeared, this point cannot be decided with absolute certainty; yet it is quite possible to form an approximately correct opinion on the subject. The autographs of Mozart's arrangements of the three other works by Handel—'Acis and Galatea,' 'Alexander's Feast,' and the 'Ode for St. Cecilia's Day'—are all in the Royal Library at Berlin, and the full scores of all of them are now published. I have carefully collated every page of these scores to ascertain, by comparing them with Handel's originals, what was really Mozart's method of procedure; and I believe I cannot be far wrong in assuming that everything in the 'Messiah' score to which nothing analogous can be found in the genuine Mozart arrangements may be safely attributed to Hiller. The more important of these will be referred to in the detailed account of the revision of the text to be presently given; some of the worst of them are always omitted in performances of the oratorio in this country.

Not the slightest disparagement of Mozart's unsurpassed genius is intended when I say that, even after eliminating everything that could possibly have been added by Hiller, Mozart's score of the 'Messiah' cannot be considered wholly satisfactory. In the first place, the text is very incorrect. This was, under the circumstances, inevitable; because the only score published at the time that Mozart made his arrangement was that of Walsh, which, as has been already said, is full of bad mistakes. This will appear later in the collation of the text. As most of these mistakes were not obviously wrong, and, even if they had been, Mozart had no means of access to the original manuscript, he is not to be blamed for incorporating them in his edition. In any case, one result has probably been the perpetuation of some of the corrupt readings; for it is only natural that these should be copied by later editors, who would assume that so great a master as Mozart was not likely to be wrong.

A more serious blemish in the Mozart edition is that, in many of the solo passages which are accompanied by a more or less fully figured bass, the harmonies are not filled up. If there is one thing which may be considered certain with regard to the performance of Handel's music, it is that such passages were intended to be filled up either on the harpsichord or organ—generally the former. This we know, not merely from tradition,* but from the very fact of the basses being figured. In Handel's autographs figures are somewhat sparingly used, and are mostly omitted when the harmony is obvious; but in the printed editions a much fuller figuring is given. It is absurd to suppose that editors or printers would have taken the trouble to indicate the harmony if none was intended to be supplied. In a large number of such passages, Mozart omits to add anything. In 'But who may abide,' twelve bars are left with only two-part harmony; in 'Rejoice, greatly,' seventeen bars; and in 'But Thou didst not leave,' thirteen bars, or very nearly one third of the whole air. The same thing is to be found in the other works which Mozart arranged. It is possible that he intended the harmonies to be filled up on the piano; for Jahn, in his 'Mozart' (vol. iii., p. 219, of the English translation), tells us that at the oratorio performances given by Baron von Swieten in his palace, Mozart conducted, 'and young Joseph Weigl accompanied on the piano.' There is, however, no hint of a pianoforte, or of any keyed instrument, in any manuscript of the scores which Mozart arranged.

* See 'Proceedings of the Musical Association,' 1885-86, pp. 39, 40.

It is unnecessary to dwell upon the fact that Mozart (or possibly Hiller) has given a large part of the choruses 'And he shall purify,' 'For unto us,' and 'His yoke is easy' to solo voices, because in this country these movements are invariably sung as Handel intended. But attention must be called to the quite arbitrary alterations which Mozart makes in the instrumentation. In the chorus 'Their sound is gone out'—the only movement of the oratorio which has independent parts for oboes—Mozart has given the oboe parts to clarinets; while in the air 'How beautiful are the feet,' Handel's violin part is transferred to a flute for a considerable part of the movement. Still worse, Handel's brilliant and most effective trumpet parts in 'Hallelujah' and 'Worthy is the Lamb' are either cut out altogether (as in the opening of the last-named chorus) or so modified as to absolutely destroy their character. Jahn says that there were no players in Mozart's day who could manage them. Whatever may have been the case in Germany, it is quite certain that there are many players in England who can be safely trusted with them—excepting for an occasional high note, such as the upper D in the second bar of 'Worthy is the Lamb.' In this edition, therefore, Handel's trumpet parts have been restored, with a few slight alterations where they are written very high.

It has been already incidentally mentioned that Mozart's score is never heard exactly as printed—at least, not in England. This is in some degree a source of the confusion that exists; for there is no uniformity in the modifications that are made, and conductors, especially in the provinces, are frequently much troubled by the discrepancies in the orchestral parts. The edition by the late Robert Franz, published in 1885, might have remedied this, had he not hampered himself too much by too close an adherence to Mozart. On the title he describes his score as 'founded on Mozart's, with the necessary completions.' It is true, he has filled up the harmony in most of the passages left empty by Mozart; but, besides such points as his allotting the first part of 'He shall feed his flock' to a soprano, instead of to a contralto, according to Handel's later arrangement (seen in the Dublin score), and the retaining of the abridged and distorted version of 'The trumpet shall sound,'—two points which, apart from anything else, would prevent his edition from being acceptable in this country—his text is just as full of inaccuracies as Mozart's. Although in his preface he mentions the facsimile of the autograph as one of the sources of his edition, his collation of it, judging from the number of mistakes left uncorrected, must have been of a very cursory, not to say perfunctory character.

[Further instalments of Professor Prout's Preface will appear in these columns from time to time.—Ed. M.T.]

Occasional Notes.

Many happy returns of the day to:—

Charles Lee Williams	May 1
Frederic Cliffe	,, 2
Edmund Hart Turpin	,, 4
John Christopher Marks	,, 4
George J. Bennett	,, 5
Thomas Tertius Noble	,, 5
Edward H. Thorne	,, 9
Jules Emile Frédéric Massenet	,, 12
Albert Visetti	,, 13
Arthur H. Mann	,, 16
Eaton Faning	,, 20
W. E. Whitehouse	,, 20
Joseph Parry	,, 21
Emile Sauret	,, 22
George F. Huntley	,, 31
Fritz Hartvigson	,, 31
Mark Hambourg	,, 31

All the details of the music for the approaching Coronation of King Edward the Seventh and Queen Alexandra are now practically settled, Sir Frederick Bridge having submitted his complete scheme, which has been 'entirely approved of.' The music embodies works of English Cathedral writers covering no less a period than five centuries, beginning, as it does, with Tallis and Merbecke, and including the names of Orlando Gibbons, Purcell, Handel, Wesley, Smart, Sullivan, and Stainer. The music specially composed for the occasion consists of the Processional Anthem, 'I was glad,' by Sir Hubert Parry; an Introit, 'Be strong and play the man,' by Sir Walter Parratt, Master of the Musick to the King, to be sung immediately after the Crowning ceremony; and the Homage Anthem, 'Kings shall see, and arise,' by Sir Frederick Bridge, which will be sung during the time the Peers are doing homage to His Majesty.

Messrs. Novello are preparing a book containing the whole of the music which will be sung on the above auspicious occasion, and they will issue it at an early date. The Homage Anthem, specially composed by Sir Frederick Bridge, for the Coronation, will be published on the 8th inst.

Sheffield is to have the honour of furnishing the chorus for the State performance of the Coronation Ode, composed by Dr. Edward Elgar, at Covent Garden Theatre next month. This choice of Dr. Elgar's—who had a free hand in the matter of selection—is not to be wondered at, as Yorkshire is the county where choral singing flourishes in excelsis, especially in the city of Sheffield. In enlisting the aid of the Sheffield Festival Choir, the feelings of all separate musical organisations are spared; moreover, there is this advantage—that the Sheffield chorus will be rehearsing throughout the summer months, whereas other Yorkshire choral bodies are at that time of the year practically disbanded. The stage of Covent Garden will be untrodden ground for those 160 Sheffieldites, selected from the Festival chorus; but they will doubtless be on their mettle (to this extent they will feel at home) and, in spite of the name of their valiant chorus-master, they are sure to make a brave show. Dr. Coward and his faithful followers are to be heartily congratulated.

In regard to the music of the Coronation Ode—the words of which are from the able pen of Mr. Arthur Christopher Benson, we understand that Dr. Elgar has laid out his work for four soloists (the usual quartet), chorus, orchestra and military band (ad lib.) The movements are as follows :—

1. Introduction, Soli and Chorus ... 'Crown the King.'
2. Chorus ... ... 'Daughter of ancient kings.'
3. Solo and Chorus ... ... 'Britain, ask of thyself.'
4. (a) Soli (Soprano and Tenor) 'Hark upon the hallowed air.'
   (b) Quartet ... ... 'Only let the heart be pure.'
5. Soli and Chorus (unaccompanied) ... 'Peace, gentle peace.'
6. Finale (Contralto Solo and Tutti) ... 'Land of hope and glory.'

It will be seen that great variety is achieved in what is necessarily a somewhat short work. It is understood that the soloists are not yet decided upon, but it is a refreshing feature that the whole of the performers will be of British origin. We understand the Opera authorities have placed the whole matter, including the arrangement of the performers on the stage, in the hands of Dr. Elgar, who will conduct the imposing array of executants, and the representative English musician may be depended upon to make the performance a notable event musically and, perhaps, scenically.

In his recently-published 'History of God save the King,' Dr. Cummings suggests that 'the form of words used in 1745-6' (Query '1740?' Vide p. 83 of his book), should now by resuscitated :—

God save our Lord, the King,
Long live our noble King, etc.

But His Majesty King Edward VII. has decided to retain the Victorian form, with, of course, the substitution of 'King' for 'Queen' :—

God save our gracious King,
Long live our noble King, etc.

It may not be without interest to supply information as to how, when, and where this version of the words came into use. Up to the death of the last of the Georges, the first line of the National Anthem read (and was sung) :—

God save great George, our King.

The coming to the throne of a monarch whose name contained more than one syllable, upset this form of the supplication, as, of course, neither of the abbreviations of William could be entertained. George IV. died on June 26, 1830, a Saturday. On the Monday following, Arnold, a son of Dr. Samuel Arnold, put forth the following version, which was sung by the company performing at the English Opera House, really the Adelphi Theatre :—

God save our noble King,
William the Fourth we sing, etc.

(There were other still-born alterations which need not be mentioned.)

On the following night, Tuesday, June 29, 1830, the first line, with which we are all so familiar, was introduced probably for the first time at the King's Theatre :—

God save our gracious King,
William, our noble King, etc.

This version, 'the words and music arranged by J. Goss and W. Ball,' was published by Mori and Lavenu, in the same year (1830). The clumsy and meaningless second line doubtless soon reverted to the earlier form, 'Long live our noble King.' It seems, therefore, that William Ball is responsible for the initial line of our National Anthem. The metamorphosis of the words is hardly less curious and difficult of explanation than the music.

The following table, taken from the 'Catalogue of Orchestral Music' edited by Mr. A. Rosenkranz, and recently published by Messrs. Novello, is interesting as showing the different nationalities of the various composers represented in that Handbook :—

	Composers.	Works.	Overtures.	Symphonies.	Various Concert Pieces.	Miscellaneous Pieces.	Marches.	String Orchestra.
Great Britain	89	251	62	12	84	31	46	16
America	13	41	4	4	18	0	11	4
Belgium	41	87	19	5	42	6	7	8
Bohemia	51	148	34	30	50	6	12	16
Denmark	27	85	15	21	34	2	3	10
Finland	2	5	0	1	4	0	0	0
France	256	1242	226	55	489	196	112	164
Germany	649	2324	725	385	484	133	227	370
Holland	20	50	10	7	20	2	1	10
Hungary	19	137	25	10	50	17	19	16
Italy	69	185	88	5	38	14	7	33
Norway	10	45	2	6	22	3	2	10
Poland	18	27	8	1	—	5	2	2
Russia	53	322	43	33	176	16	12	42
Spain	6	8	0	0	2	3	0	3
Sweden	6	16	2	2	10	0	1	1
Switzerland	8	39	9	11	10	0	5	4
	1337	5012	1272	588	1542	434	467	709

The new edition of that excellent compilation Gesetze über das Urheberrecht in allen Ländern ('The Copyright Laws and Treaties of all countries'), which has just been issued by the publishing house of G. Hedeler, Liepzig, contains in the German language the text of about 250 laws, treaties, etc. The revision of this compendious volume has been undertaken by Prof. Ernst Röthlisberger, who, as Secretary of the Bernese International Bureau for Intellectual Property, is the recognized authority on copyright matters, and the book has been brought close up to date.

In the letter from our esteemed correspondent in Vienna, reference is made to some posthumous Chorale Preludes by Johannes Brahms. As it has been very generally supposed that the 'Four serious Songs (Op. 121) were the last compositions of the master, we may add that the Organ Preludes in question were found amongst the posthumous papers (now in the possession of the Viennese Gesellschaft der Musikfreunde), and that there can be no doubt whatever, from internal evidence, of their having all been written shortly before Brahms's death. A writer in the Leipzig Signale, moreover, has been informed by Herr Richard Heuberger, of Vienna, that Brahms played to him, on the pianoforte, some of these pieces, on June 24, 1896, at Ischl, when the existing series was as yet incomplete. The 'Vier ernste Gesänge' were finished by May 7 of that year, when the composer showed them to some of his more intimate callers, with the jocular remark that he had written them for his own birthday present. There are eleven preludes in all, of various length, seven of them having been prepared for publication by the composer himself, while the remaining four have been revised for that purpose by Dr. Mandyczewski, in his capacity of librarian of the Gesellschaft der Musikfreunde. Each prelude is superscribed with the first line of a well-known German chorale, to which it is an introduction. By a pathetic coincidence—or was it in actual anticipation of his approaching dissolution?—the master has chosen for his last chorale the one beginning with the words: 'O Welt, ich muss dich lassen'—'O world, I must leave thee'! Alas, too soon for the world of music, the farewell implied in the line had to be finally taken by the genial master!

The Spectator of March 29 contained a thoughtful article, above the well-known initials 'C. L. G.,' entitled 'Expert and Amateur Criticism.' After stating that 'quite a large proportion of our modern musical critics seem to rest their claim to competency on wholesome denunciation of the favourites of a former generation,' the writer goes on to say:—

It is really quite difficult at the moment, in view of the ubiquitous searchlight of publicity and the opportunities and facilities extended to aspiring talent, to conceive the case of a Schubert re-enacting itself in our midst.—But this ready and instantaneous appreciation of the new men, this enthusiastic adoration of the modern masters, is unluckily too often combined with the lues comparativa, the habit of making invidious comparisons between the idols and bugbears of the writer. Surely it should be possible to be enlightened and emancipated without adopting a partisan attitude,—to be able to adore Wagner and Berlioz, Liszt and Cornelius, Dvorák and Tschaïkowsky, without dragging in depreciatory references to Rossini and Mendelssohn, Meyerbeer and Spohr, Gounod and Brahms. It is the old story of Wilkes being no Wilkesite, of the partisans outstripping and misrepresenting their chiefs. Wagner, at any rate, has left on record what he thought of Mendelssohn's talent as an aquarelliste, Liszt did not think it beneath his dignity to make transcriptions of Meyerbeer's operas, or Brahms refrain from expressing his regret that he had not written 'The Beautiful Blue Danube.'

Extremes meet, and up-to-date musical criticism is every bit as vehemently partisan as the reactionary attitude of the Chorleys and Davisons.

No truer words were ever written.

The professors of the Royal Academy of Music have erected in Bishop's Hull churchyard, near Taunton, a headstone and kerbing to the grave of their first Principal, Dr. William Crotch. This worthy musician died in Taunton, at the house of his son, headmaster of the Grammar School (the building is now used as the Municipal Chamber), on December 29, 1847, and was buried in the then parish churchyard. The deplorable condition of the headstone and grave was fortunately brought to the notice of the Tenterden Street authorities by Mr. Harold A. Jeboult (their hon. local representative), and it is satisfactory to record that they have thus prevented from going to decay the last resting-place of him who did so much for music.

Herr Max Klinger, the well-known Leipzig sculptor, has just completed the Beethoven statue upon which he has been at work for the past fifteen years. It is executed in white marble, the master, considerably above life size, being represented seated on a bronze throne, supported by symbolical figures in relief. At the foot of the statue, an eagle, chiselled in black marble, spreads its wings.

'He plays false, father!'
'How? Out of tune on the strings?'
'Not so; but yet so false, that he grieves my very heart-strings.'

I will carry no crotchets,
I'll re you; I'll fa you. Do you note me?
SHAKESPEARE.

The outline programme of the Cardiff Triennial Musical Festival, announced to be held on October 8, 9, 10, and 11, under the conductorship of Dr. Frederic Cowen, consists of the following choral and instrumental works:—

Elijah	Mendelssohn.
Song of Destiny	Brahms.
Ruth	Cowen.
The Beatitudes	César Franck.
Flying Dutchman (Acts 2 and 3)	Wagner.
Stabat Mater	Rossini.
Samson and Delilah	Saint-Saëns.
Orpheus	Gluck.
Faust	Berlioz.
New Orchestral work	Arthur Hervey.
Symphonies—Eroica (Beethoven), and Pathétique	(Tschaïkowsky).
Overtures—Idomeneo (Mozart), Meistersinger (Wagner), Egmont (Beethoven), and Cockaigne (Elgar).
Air and Variations from Suite No. 3 in G	Tschaïkowsky.
March	Mackenzie.

The discovery of a Bach autograph is recorded in the Athenæum of the 19th ult. It is No. 15 of the second part of the Wohltemperites Clavier, and like those of the 'Wesley' autographs of Bach (now in the British Museum), the prelude is written on one side of the paper, and the fugue on the other, in order to save turning over the page during the performance. Professor Prout is of opinion that Bach made three copies of at least a part, if not the whole of Part II. of the '48,' and, as the writer of the notice above referred to says, 'this appearance of a duplicate autograph of No. 15 confirms his opinion.' Mr. W. Westley Manning is the fortunate possessor of this newly-discovered autograph.

Dr. W. H. Cummings delivered two interesting lectures on Saturday, the 12th ult. At the first—the initial discourse of three Royal Institution lectures on British National Song—the Principal of the Guildhall School of Music spoke on 'God save the King,' a subject upon which he is an acknowledged authority. His researches into the history of our National Anthem have recently been published in a book which is reviewed on p. 318 of our present issue. In the evening, at a crowded meeting of the Incorporated Society of Musicians, held at 20, Hanover Square, Dr. Cummings was thoroughly at home in chatting about Handel. Not a little of the evening's enjoyment was due to the lime-light views, etc., selected from the illustrations which appeared in the special Handel number of THE MUSICAL TIMES in December, 1893. Dr. A. H. Mann—who described himself as 'a young man from the country,' and who had probably taken a return-ticket which he did not intend to return—made some thoughtful remarks, at the end of the lecture, on one of his pet hobbies, Handel's 'Messiah.' Dr. C. W. Pearce proved himself to be a genial chairman.

Professor Hugo Riemann, the distinguished Leipzig musical savant, greatly interested a numerous audience by a discourse on Japanese music, recently delivered by him at the Grassi Museum. The lecturer was supported by admirable illustrations of Japanese melodies, played by Miss Ko Koda, of Tokio, on the Koto, a national instrument with thirteen strings. Herren Nesslar (pianist) and Malz (violinist) also contributed to the musical programme. Miss Ko Koda was formerly a pupil of Professor Joachim.

Mr. Allen Gill has been appointed conductor of the Nottingham Sacred Harmonic Society. Sincere congratulations to him and to the Society.

Sir Frederick Bridge has been elected a member of the Athenæum Club, under the special rule which empowers the Committee to open its doors to gentlemen distinguished in art, science, or literature.

Old-time criticism, whatever its shortcomings as judged by present-day standards, has in it a sense of humour which makes it readable. In the year 1829 a certain Felix Mendelssohn Bartholdy visited London. At one of the concerts at which he appeared, he played the solo part in Weber's Concertstück. The musical critic of the Literary Gazette thus records the event:—

A German gentleman—with a long Christian name, too long for any Christian to pronounce with impunity—made his début on this occasion, and performed on the piano a piece termed on the card a 'concert-stück.' The pianist, however, never once stuck in his performance; but on the contrary, appeared to get through his work with not less satisfaction to his audience than to himself.

The following, from the Liverpool Mercury, is authenticated as 'a fact':—

A player of a wind instrument in the Richter orchestra boastfully told his colleagues that the Doctor had not detected a slip which he made during a concert. Next day, in another town, a rehearsal occurred, and when a particular passage was approached, Richter, with that quietude of causticity which is his, addressed the peccant player in this fashion:—"Mr. ——, you owe me an A flat from last night; please give it me now."

In consequence of the great overflow from the pit on the 30th of January last, the Theatrical orchestra will be opened for the accommodation of the public.

The above, from an advertisement of eighty years ago, reads innocently enough, per se. But what caused 'the great overflow'? Bochsa's oratorio 'The Deluge'!

Church and Organ Music.

AN AGGRIEVED ORGANIST.

Competitions for organ appointments are conducted very differently nowadays from what they were in the long ago. The following letter, from the Gazetteer and Daily Advertiser of November 3, 1766, throws a curious light on the organistic customs of nearly a century-and-a-half ago:—

To the worthy Inhabitants of the United Parishes of St. Augustine and St. Faith.

Ladies and Gentlemen,

Your Votes and Interest are most humbly desired for

TIMOTHY SMART, Musician,

To be your ORGANIST.

I flatter myself, should I be so happy as to be made choice of, I shall always make it my study to discharge the duty by a constant and personal attendance. Having no other organ, and serving my apprenticeship in one of the parishes, I am extremely sorry I must lay myself under the necessity of acquainting my friends, that one of the candidates has been mean enough to insinuate that I had declined standing a candidate any longer, though he well knew to the contrary.

Mr. William Abbott has recently retired from the organistship of Richmond Parish Church (Surrey), having worthily held that office for the long period of fifty-two years. It is not surprising that a testimonial to him is being promoted in acknowledgment of his services to the cause of church music in Richmond for upwards of half-a-century.

THE NEW ORGANIST OF CHICHESTER CATHEDRAL.

Mr. Frederick J. W. Crowe, organist of St. Mary Magdalene Church, Upton, Torquay, has been appointed to the organistship of Chichester Cathedral, in succession to Dr. F. J. Read, who has resigned. Mr. Crowe was formerly a chorister and assistant organist of Wells Cathedral, having been an articled pupil of the late Mr. C. W. Lavington. Before going to Torquay, eleven and a-half years ago, he held an organ appointment at Ashburton. He has done excellent work at his present church in the way of organising orchestral services and training a large choir of forty voices, meeting also with much success as a teacher at Torquay. He has been honorary secretary of the School of Science and Art, a captain of Volunteers, and a leading Freemason. A few years ago, he contributed to the Musical Courier a series of articles on 'Cathedral organists and their work.' Former organists at Upton Church have included Mr. C. Lee Williams, late organist of Gloucester Cathedral, and the late Dr. G. B. Arnold, of Winchester; and, according to Mr. John E. West's 'Cathedral Organists,' Mr. Crowe's predecessors at Chichester have included Thomas Weelkes, of madrigal fame, Thomas Kelway, Dr. Philip Armes, Mr. E. H. Thorne, Dr. F. E. Gladstone, Mr. J. K. Pyne, and Dr. Wood, now of Exeter. Mr. Crowe thus succeeds to a goodly heritage. May all success attend him.

(Photograph by Mr. J. C. Dinham, Torquay.)

Mr. Harold E. Mackinlay has been presented by the members of the choir of the Islington Presbyterian Church with a silver-mounted ivory baton, upon his retirement from the organistship to take up similar duty at St. Mark's Church, Noel Park.

In Memoriam John Stainer.

It was exceedingly appropriate to commemorate the first anniversary of the lamented death of Sir John Stainer, by the insertion of a memorial window in Holywell Church, Oxford. Sir John had not only held the offices of churchwarden and sidesman of the church and lived in the parish for many years, but he was very much attached to the little sanctuary. The subject of the window, the gift of Lady Stainer, and placed at the east end of the south aisle of the church, is the Adoration

THE MEMORIAL WINDOW TO SIR JOHN STAINER IN HOLYWELL CHURCH, OXFORD.
From a Photograph by Messrs. Hills and Saunders, Oxford.

of the Lamb of God by a group of angels, some playing instruments of music, others singing. The design represents the highest use of the art, the ideal sought by Sir John throughout his distinguished career, and embodies the idea conveyed in two of his anthems, the words of which are taken from Revelation. The window was dedicated on March 23, when the Rev. G. B. Cronshaw paid a fitting tribute to the life-work of one whose loss continues to be deplored.

CHURCH AND ORGAN MUSIC (Continued).

OLD-TIME ORGANIC MATTER.

Cathedral archives are prolific in interesting material from the historical point of view, and in throwing light on the musical doings of long ago. The following extracts from Registrum A and B of Ripon Cathedral, relating to the organ of that northern sanctuary, may not prove unacceptable to our readers:—

4th Febry 1677.

Agreed by the reverend the Deane and Chapter above sd to give unto Mr. Willm Preston Organ Maker the sume of Tenne pounds, for making the Organ in the sd Collegiate Church, to have five stops such as shall be approved by Mr. Brownhill or Mr. Sorrell to be good and sufficient and to uphold maintain and keep the same Organ in good and sufficient Condition for the space of Three years next after it shall be approved as above allowing the said Mr. Preston Five Shillings for each time he shall be sent for by the said Deane and Chapter for his charges.

The next extract from Registrum needs no comment:—

31 May 1679.

Ordered that Mr. Sorrel have five Shillings pd him out of ye fabrick p. ann. for wire and his paines in repairing ye organ and that Mr. Deane pay him soe much for ye last yeare and charge it in his next Audits accounts.

A Minute of May 25, 1695, records the method of raising ways and means for erecting a new organ:—

Ordered and agreed that towards the purchasing of a new Organ for this Church the Deane shall contribute Tenne pounds and each Prebendary Five pounds and that it shall be left to ye Subdeane to give what he shall think fitting to the same.

The vagaries of the Trumpett Stop seem to have upset the internal arrangements of the instrument, as, at a later date, we read:—

Whereas the Organ of this Church hath been much damaged occasioned by the fall of the Trumpett Stop amongst the other small pipes, which hath been repaired by Mr. Thomas Preston the Organist for which the Chapter is well satisfyed that he deserves the sume of Tenne pounds which sume is therefore ordered to be paid to him as followeth vizd five pounds part thereof at Martianemasse next and five pounds the remainder so soone as the same can be spared out of the fabrick money.

ORGAN RECITALS.

Sir Frederick Bridge, Christ Church, North Finchley (Introduction and Fugue in C minor, T. W. Bourne; Organ Sonata in D, J. F. Bridge).—Mr. J. E. Adkins, Wigan Parish Church (Fantasia in E flat, Moritz Brosig).—Mr. Frederick Alexander, Woodward Avenue Baptist Church, Detroit, U.S.A. (Variations on a traditional Easter melody, John E. West).—Mr. R. E. Parker, Parish Church, Wilmslow (Triumphal March, Dudley Buck).—Mr. R. J. Pitcher, Holy Trinity, Scarborough.—Mr. A. E. Thorne, Christ Church, Newgate Street (Fugue in F sharp minor, E. H. Thorne).—Mr. Harry E. Wall, St. Mary, East Farleigh.—Mr. T. D. Edwards, Parish Church, Llandyssul, S. Wales (Festive March, Smart).—Mr. Roger Ascham, Feather Market Hall, Port Elizabeth (Introduction and Allegro, F. E. Bache).—Mr. H. Mozart Sheaves, Parish Church, Timperley.—Mr. Fred. Gostelow, Parish Church, Luton (Military Overture, Mendelssohn).—Mr. H. T. Gilberthorpe, Parish Church, Lynton (Berceuse, H. A. Wheeldon).—Mr. John E. Campbell, Parish Church, South Weald (Andante in D, Alfred Hollins).—Mr. Ferdinand Lawson, St. Peter-upon-Cornhill.—Mr. C. J. Brennan, Elmwood Presbyterian Church, Belfast (Meditation, E. d'Evry).—Mr. J. H. Pearson, Parish Church, Brighouse (Imperial March, Elgar).—Mr. P. Tottenham Lucas, St. Paul's, Covent Garden (Storm Fantasia, Lemmens).—Mr. Henry W. Weston, Holy Trinity, Wandsworth (Andante in F sharp minor, S. S. Wesley).—Mr. Herbert Walton, West United Free Church, Greenock (Sonata in F minor, H. Walton).—Mr. B. G. Thorne, Sherborne School Chapel (Marche Solennelle, E. H. Lemare).—Mr. W. R. Hedden, Church of the Incarnation, New York.—Mr. William Reed, Chalmer's Church, Quebec, Canada.—Mr. George S. Evans, Berkeley Parish Church (Variations on an original theme, E. H. Thorne).—Mr. John E. West, West Kensington Congregational Church (Overture in C, Thomas Adams, and his own Fantasia in F major).

ORGANIST AND CHOIRMASTER, AND CHOIR APPOINTMENTS.

Mr. Ernest Banks, St. Margaret's Parish Church, Lowestoft.
Mr. R. W. Brown, Westhoughton Parish Church.
Mr. W. H. Bullock, St. Andrew's Parish Church, Halstead, Essex.
Mr. John E. Campbell, South Weald Parish Church.
Mr. C. J. R. Coleman, St. John's Church, Lowestoft.
Mr. Ernest J. Downer, St. Barnabas Church, Sutton, Surrey.
Mr. J. C. Dunlop, St. Michael's Church, Northampton.
Mr. R. W. Gibson, St. David's Church, Birmingham.
Mr. H. E. Mackinlay, St. Mark's Church, Noel Park, Wood Green.
Mr. Frank Piper, English Church (St. George's), Lisbon.
Mr. Percy C. Taylor, Brighton College.

Mr. Arthur Fox (Choirmaster), St. Mary's Church, Acton.
Mr. Archibald J. Shearing (Alto), St. Andrew's, Ashley Place, Westminster.

Reviews.

MUSICAL LITERATURE.

God save the King. The origin and history of the music and words of the National Anthem. By William H. Cummings. [Novello and Company, Limited.]

In the year 1878, Dr. Cummings contributed a series of articles to The Musical Times on our National Anthem, thus supplying, to quote the words of Sir George Grove, 'an investigation of the subject more complete than any preceding it.' Since then he has made further researches which have resulted in the issue of the daintily got up book under notice, and which makes an opportune appearance in this Coronation year. Our author devotes considerable space to pulverising the statements of historians of the Richard Clark type, and in disposing of the claims of Henry Carey as the composer of the tune. His investigations give no encouragement to 'The mythical French origin, the suggested Scottish derivation, and the ridiculous Handel claim.' The pros and cons of this, that, and the other source of its genesis, the reader will find clearly set forth in these interesting pages. So much for the negative side. As to a more positive thesis, Dr. Cummings is of opinion that the tune 'is derived from the air by Dr. John Bull, and that the original Latin words were used in the Catholic Church service.' He adds: 'Of course, in the lapse of years, Bull's tune has been altered and improved by the vox populi, an inevitable and desirable process in the formation of a national melody.'

The Appendix, which occupies fifty pages of the book, contains the said air by Dr. John Bull, set out in extenso, and a biographical sketch of that old English worthy; Dr. Arne's arrangement of the tune; Foreign versions of 'God save the King'; and other collateral matter, all of which tends towards completeness. Two excellent portraits of Bull—one the reproduction of a particularly fine picture painted at Antwerp and now in the possession of Dr. Cummings—add to the interest of a volume which is sure to find many readers.

The Minstrelsy of England. Edited by Alfred Moffat, supplemented with historical notes by Frank Kidson.

[Bayley and Ferguson.]

This valuable volume of 320 pages contains 'a collection of 200 English songs, with their melodies, popular from the 16th century to the middle of the 18th century,' which Mr. Alfred Moffat has edited and arranged with pianoforte accompaniments. Mr. Moffat's achievements in this particular field are so favourably known that it is only necessary to say there is no apparent deterioration in the present volume. The accompaniments have been wisely kept to their original simplicity, and the disastrous anachronism of modern harmonies has happily been avoided. We learn that many hundreds of volumes of early music (in the library of Mr. Kidson) have been ransacked for suitable material, and it is evident that no pains have been spared to make the selection comprehensive and correct, and at the same time singable.

The historical notes appended to each song are of the greatest possible value. These annotations, which have been furnished by so able an expert as Mr. Frank Kidson, of Leeds, will be read with much interest and profit. Mr. Kidson is no mere hack worker who lives by copying, and what he does not know about old English songs is hardly worth the knowing. We have marked several passages in his 'historical notes' for quotation, but the exigencies of space will only allow the mention of one or two. The baritone who sings Hatton's noble song 'To Anthea' may here find that Henry Lawes set the same words, with the title 'Love's votary,' in or before the year 1669. For ourselves, we must say that Hatton's setting pleases our fancy more than that of Lawes. The song entitled 'The Merry Gregorians,' by Henry Carey, is not, as one might assume, descriptive of a convivial company of Plain Song devotees, but has reference to a social (and, of course, convivial) society existing in London before 1738, which was known as 'The Merry Gregs.' It comes as a shock to the natives of that little village on the Thames, known as London, to be told that 'The Bailiff's daughter of Islington' was considered by Bishop Percy to have belonged to a village in Norfolk bearing the same name as the Metropolitan Borough. But this cannot be. Mr. Kidson rightly protests against the nonsensical title of Boyce's fine nautical song being changed to 'Hearts' instead of 'Heart of Oak.' He puts forward a new theory for the composership (if that word may be used) of the National Anthem, but as Dr. Cummings has referred to it in his 'History of God Save the King,' the subject need not be discussed here. A printer's error on p. 237 gives Knyvelt for Knyvett. 'The Minstrelsy of England' is a book to have in one's library as well as in the region of the domestic instrument.

Novello's Catalogue of Orchestral Music. Compiled and edited by A. Rosenkranz.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

He who compiles a book of reference is a most useful member of Society, but only if the work is well done, otherwise he is a nuisance by reason of his misleading incompetence. Mr. Rosenkranz by no means comes within the latter category. He brings to his work capacity for exactness of detail, wide knowledge, and long experience—in fact, his pages give one the impression that he is a walking encyclopædia in the matter of 'the orchestral literature of all countries,' to quote the words of the subtitle of his valuable handbook. The manual contains an almost complete list of the orchestral compositions written by the composers of all countries, from Lully and Rameau (1651) to Richard Strauss and Edward Elgar—a period covering two and-a-half centuries. The works herein catalogued by Mr. Rosenkranz total up to the not inconsiderable number of 5,012, the product of 1,337 composers. The conductor who wishes to make a selection from the 1,272 overtures, the 588 symphonies, the 1,542 odds and ends of concert pieces, the 434 of the miscellaneous genre, the 467 marches, the 709 pieces for string orchestra whose titles are given in the book, has only to turn to its pages and he will find all particulars as to prices of orchestral parts and full scores, if the latter are published. Apart from this, its more practical feature, the Manual is interesting as showing the tremendous output of orchestral compositions, and the immense field from which a conductor may gather his crop of music for the delectation of his players and audiences. An excellently compiled index of composers' names, with the date of birth, or, when this is not known, the year (approximately) when the composition referred to was published, and a list of orchestral works by British composers (two of whom, by-the-way, are of American nationality), rounds off a capital compilation which does great credit to its industrious author.

Geigenzettel alter Meister vom 16. bis zur Mitte des 19. Jahrhunderts. Herausgegeben von Paul de Wit in Leipzig.

[Leipzig: Paul de Wit.]

This is a book that will interest fiddle fanciers and not a few players on stringed instruments. Herr Paul de Wit, who is an acknowledged authority on the subject, gives photographic reproductions of no less than 400 violin labels. These are arranged in alphabetical order of the makers; some of them are written, but the majority are printed, and they represent the various nationalities of fiddles, so to speak. England—or, to be strictly in order, Great Britain—does not bulk very largely among the 400; but, of course, the list does not pretend to be exhaustive (vide Miss Stainer's excellent primer, 'Violin Makers'). We find, however, Jacob Raymann, at ye Bell Yard, in Southwark, London, 1652; Robert Duncan, maker, Aberdeen, 1742 (Herr Paul de Wit, regardless of the feelings of Scotsmen, designates the said Robert Duncan 'Englischer Meister'!); Joseph Hill (the founder of the well-known firm of Messrs. W. E. Hill & Sons, of New Bond Street), first as 'Josh. Hill, at ye Violin, in Angel Court, Westminster, 1749,' and later on at the Harp and Flute, in the Hay Market; Samuel Gilkes fecit London, 1815; and, without date, Made by Peter Walmsley, at ye Golden Harp, in Pickadilly (with a k). An interesting preface by the compiler, and his notes on all the makers whose labels are reproduced, complete an attractive and admirably got up volume.

SONGS.

Lift my spirit up to thee. Words by Charles Grant. Music by A. C. Mackenzie.

Great is he who fused the might. O set the Sails. Words by Stephen Phillips. Music by S. Coleridge-Taylor.

My Paradise. Words by L. D. Music by Christopher Urswick.

A Song of Night. Words by Ethel Clifford. Music by H. M. Brickdale-Corbet.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

The first of these songs is from a set of eighteen by Sir Alexander Mackenzie. It is a composition which testifies to his genius, and it is one that should be in the repertory of all cultured soprano singers. The poem is a beautiful expression of woman's devotion and altruistic aspirations, and the music illustrates with rare subtlety the spirit of the text. Executively, the composition presents few difficulties, but it imperatively demands a vocalist possessing a musical soul. The songs by Mr. Coleridge-Taylor form part of Stephen Phillips's play, 'Ulysses,' recently produced at Her Majesty's Theatre. 'Great is he who fused the might' is a drinking song, of vigorous but graceful character, but it is surpassed in charm by 'O set the Sails,' which may be described as the gem of Mr. Coleridge-Taylor's incidental music to this play. Those who witnessed the production will have a lively recollection of the rendering of 'O set the sails,' by Mr. Courtice Pounds, and the poetic message of hope it conveyed to the despairing Penelope. The words of 'My Paradise' are described as 'After Anacreon,' and, consequently, it is meet that the poet's paradise should be 'the strait embrace' of his mistress. The music takes a bright view of the situation, and the sentiment is enlivened by a murmuring accompaniment. 'A Song of Night' is a lover's dreamings concerning the object of his affections. Words and music are meditative, with an appropriate touch of passion, and both the voice and instrumental parts will interest the musician.

A Cycle of Four Love Songs. Words by Edward Teschemacher. Music by Landon Ronald.
My heart is thine. Words by Jean Aicard. Music by Guy d'Hardelot.

[E. Ascherberg & Co.]

It is to be regretted that the word 'Cycle' is applied to sets of songs between which there is practically no connection, a useful descriptive term being thus lost; but, with this exception, nothing but praise is due to Mr. Landon Ronald's 'Cycle' so-called. No great depth of sentiment is plumbed, but the hopes and fears of the amorous state are deftly expressed by words and music, and in a manner congenial to twentieth century ideas. Mr. Ronald writes with commendable consideration for affording the vocalist opportunites for effective management of the voice, and the vocal part is not only cleverly supported, but its expressiveness is increased by the pianoforte accompaniments, which, however, require a well-trained pianist to do them justice. For English artists who prefer to sing in German, a translation into that tongue has been provided.

Madame Guy d'Hardelot is one of our most artistic song-writers, and her compositions always possess musical interest. The vocal part of 'My heart is thine' has been manifestly written to the French text, and the song will flow more smoothly if sung in that language, but a good English version has been furnished by E. Teschemacher. It is a song which demands what may be termed a 'speaking' style, and the announcement, therefore, on the title-page, that it has been 'sung by M. Maurice Farkoa with immense success,' is not surprising.

An End. Dream Land. Two Songs. Words by Christine G. Rossetti. Music by Alexander von Fielitz.

[Breitkopf and Härtel.]

These songs are worthy of the attention of mezzo-soprano and baritone singers. The first tells of a love that only lasted one summer, and the second is an elegy over the loss of a beloved one. The music sympathetically echoes the spirit of the text, and is effectively laid out for the voice, and the accompaniment will interest the cultured musician.

The Beautiful Land of Nod. Words by Ella Wheeler. Music by H. Chilver Wilson.
Such is Life. Words anonymous. Music by Lisbeth Gorringe.
Five Songs, With English and German words. Music by Giovanni Clerici.

[Weekes and Co.]

The words of the 'Beautiful Land of Nod' are somewhat enigmatical. Somebody with a head like a 'golden rod' is invited to go sailing to the 'Land of Nod,' but in spite of this vagueness, or perhaps because of it, there is a poetic undercurrent in the lines, and this Mr. Wilson has happily echoed in his music, which is tender, graceful and melodious. The lines of 'Such is Life' would seem to have been written by a dowerless old maid with no belief in man's generosity, but they are quaint, and this feature is accentuated by the music. A vocalist with clear articulation—and there are such to be found—would certainly be able to catch the fancy of an audience with this song. Signor Clerici's five songs are provided with German words by W. Ernst, and may be described as brief episodes. They are neatly written, and indicate artistic taste. The vocal compass points to their being designed for mezzo-soprano and baritone singers.

VARIOUS.

Six Short Anthems. Composed by Percy C. Buck.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

These anthems may be warmly recommended to choirmasters. They are excellent examples of modern church music, combining dignified melodiousness with devotional expression, and rich harmonisation. The first, entitled 'Let the peace of God,' is in six parts, those for the sopranos and tenors being respectively divided, but the music is quite simple. The fifth anthem, 'They that sow in tears,' has two soprano parts, and the sixth contains a soprano solo which, towards the end, is supported by the choir. No. 4 opens with a bass solo, to which succeeds an effective chorus in four parts. From what has been said it will be gathered that, although short, these anthems present variety and effective contrasts, and are calculated to increase the impressiveness of any services into which they are introduced.

Scales and Arpeggios. Fully explained and systematically fingered by S. Midgley.

[Vincent Music Company, Limited.]

Mr. Midgley boldly claims to have something new to say on the teaching of Scales and Arpeggi. It has long been recognized that the smoothness of scale playing depends upon the rapidity and freedom with which the thumb is passed across the palm, and the chief feature of Mr. Midgley's system is the cultivation of this movement, by playing five consecutive notes up and down with one of the fingers and the thumb alternately, in short, to play five-finger exercises with two digits. Later in his book various fingerings for the scales are prescribed, calculated to cultivate independence of the digital muscles, but in these devices there is nothing that is new.

The Music Students' Manuscript Note-book and Practice Register. Arranged by C. Egerton Lowe (Novello & Co., Ltd.). A useful compilation for both teachers and pupils of any instrument.——The Choirmaster: hints on voice and choir training. By John Adcock (Musical Journal office). A handy little book full of practical information derived from the long experience of the successful choirmaster of Nottingham.——The tenor voice and its training. By E. Davidson Palmer (Joseph Williams). The author of this pamphlet is of opinion that 'good or bad voice-production depends primarily, not upon the management of the breathing apparatus, but upon the condition of the vocal chords and the strength or weakness of the laryngeal muscles.'——The Pianist's A B C Primer and Guide. By W. H. Webbe (Forsyth Brothers). This is the second edition (enlarged to nearly 750 pages) of a useful and encyclopædic book of reference, the outcome of a New Zealand professor's painstaking industry, to which we have already referred in terms of approval. The amount of useful information contained in the volume is really quite astonishing.——Chart of the rules of harmony for Students. By Arthur Somervell (The Clarendon Press, Oxford). We think it was Sterndale Bennett who said that all the rules of harmony could be written on half-a-sheet of note paper. If Mr. Somervell has not exactly followed out Bennett's dictum, he has managed to get a good deal of note-book information on to his two-page quarto chart.

The concert of the Crystal Palace Amateur Orchestral Society, given on the 23rd ult., in the Crystal Palace Theatre, was entirely British, as befitted St. George's Day. Sterndale Bennett's G minor Symphony was very artistically rendered, and amongst other items that went specially well were Cowen's 'Four Old English Dances,' Sullivan's 'Merchant of Venice' music, and Elgar's Imperial March. Mr. Walter W. Hedgcock had his orchestra of seventy-two performers well in hand, and the concert was in every way successful.

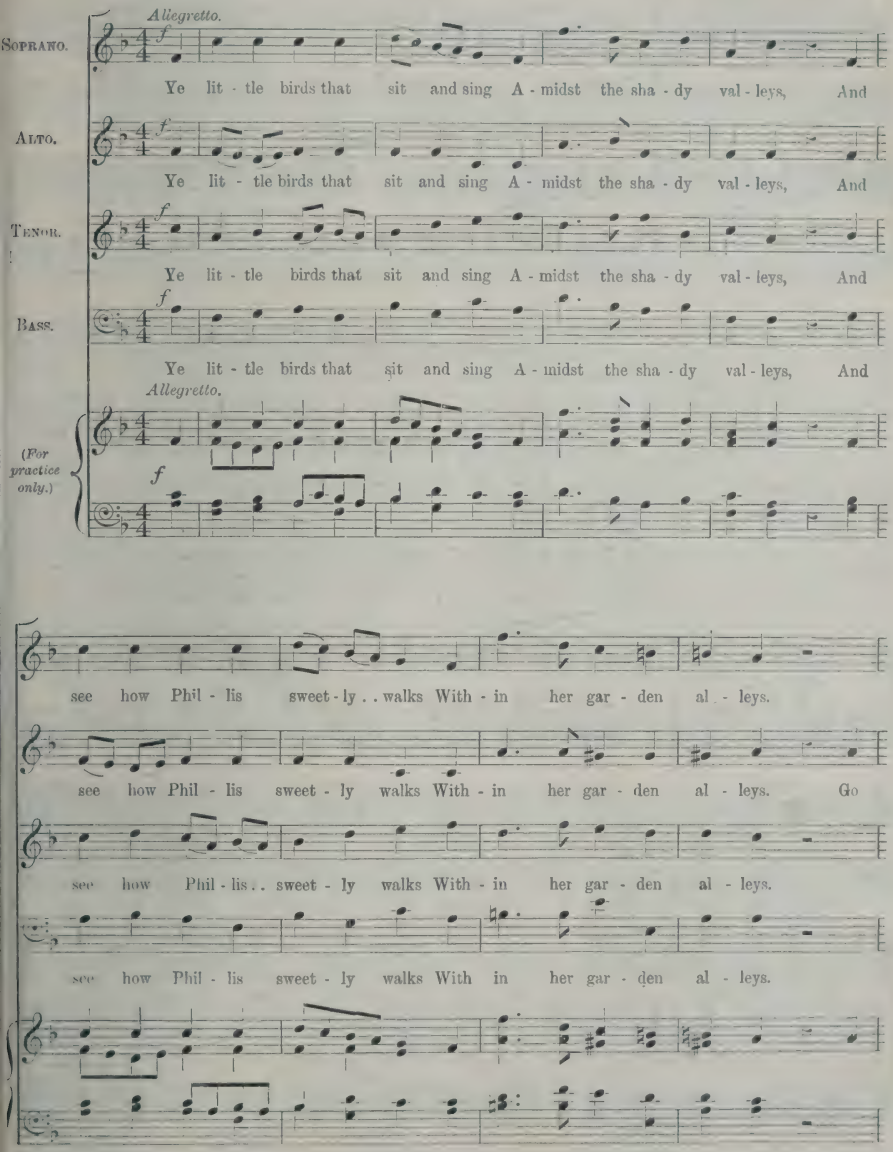
Ye little Birds.

FOUR-PART SONG.

Words from "The Fair Maid of the Exchange." (Anon, 1607.)

Composed by GUSTAV VON HOLST.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED: AND NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.



Allegretto.
SOPRANO.
Ye lit - tle birds that sit and sing A - midst the sha - dy val - leys, And
ALTO.
Ye lit - tle birds that sit and sing A - midst the sha - dy val - leys, And
TENOR.
Ye lit - tle birds that sit and sing A - midst the sha - dy val - leys, And
BASS.
Ye lit - tle birds that sit and sing A - midst the sha - dy val - leys, And Allegretto.
(For practice only.)
see how Phil - lis sweet - ly . . walks With - in her gar - den al - leys.
see how Phil - lis sweet - ly walks With - in her gar - den al - leys. Go see how Phil - lis . . sweet - ly walks With - in her gar - den al - leys.
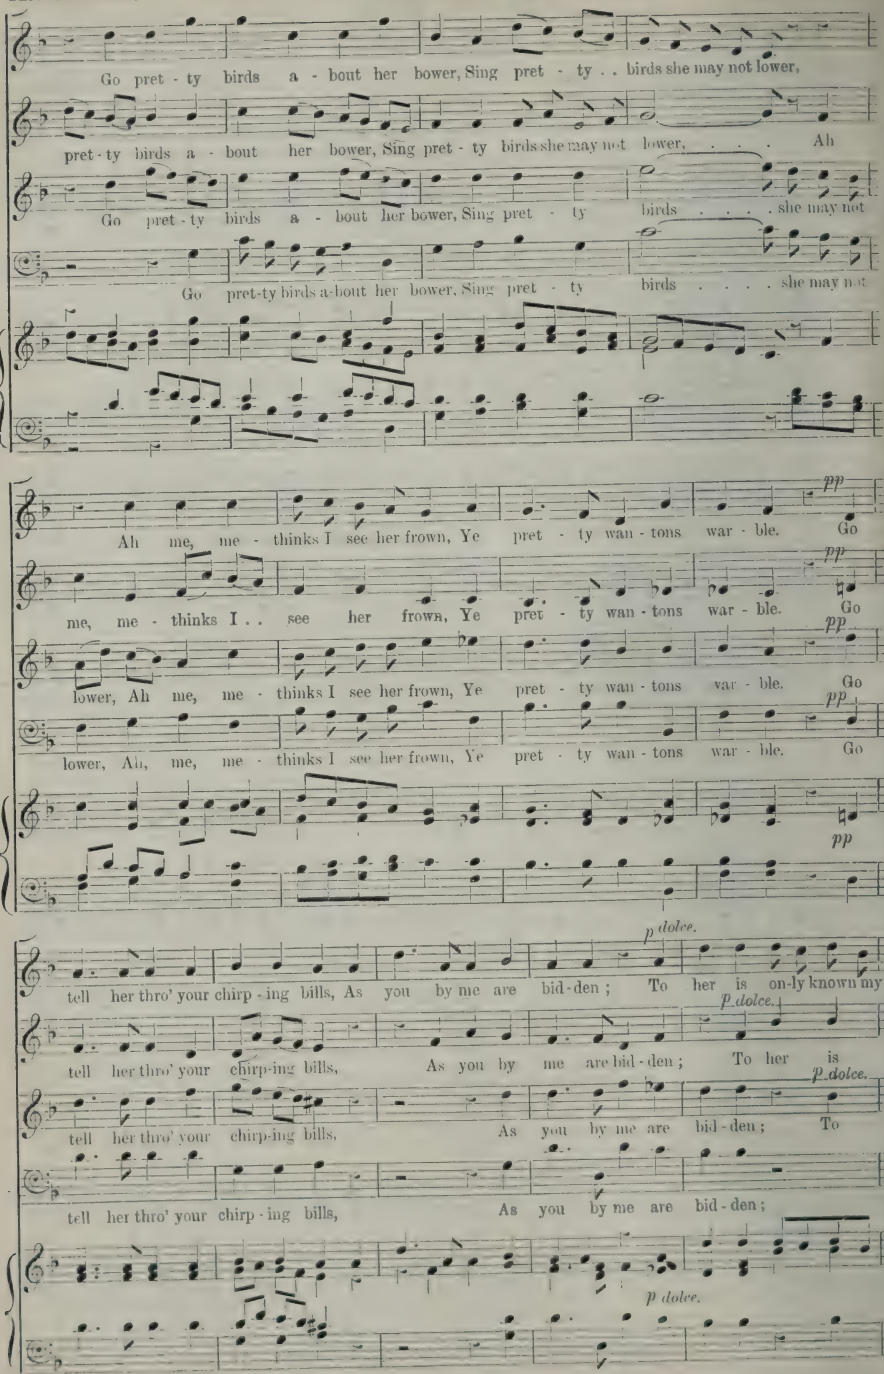
see how Phil - lis sweet - ly walks With in her gar - den al - leys.

Copyright, 1902, by Novello and Company, Limited.



Go pret - ty birds a - bout her bower, Sing pret - ty . . birds she may not lower, pret - ty birds a - bout her bower, Sing pret - ty birds she may not lower, ... Ah
Go pret - ty birds a - bout her bower, Sing pret - ty birds . . . . she may not Go pret-ty birds a-bout her bower, Sing pret - ty birds . . . . she may not Ah me, me - thinks I see her frown, Ye pret - ty wan - tons war - ble. Go me, me - thinks I . . see her frown, Ye pret - ty wan - tons war - ble. Go lower, Ah me, me - thinks I see her frown, Ye pret - ty wan - tons war - ble. Go lower, Ah, me, me - thinks I see her frown, Ye pret - ty wan - tons war - ble. Go pp
p dolce.
tell her thro' your chirp - ing bills, As you by me are bid - den ; To her is on-ly known my tell her thro' your chirp-ing bills, As you by me are bid - den ; To her is tell her thro' your chirp-ing bills, As you by me are bid - den ; To tell her thro' your chirp - ing bills, As you by me are bid - den ;
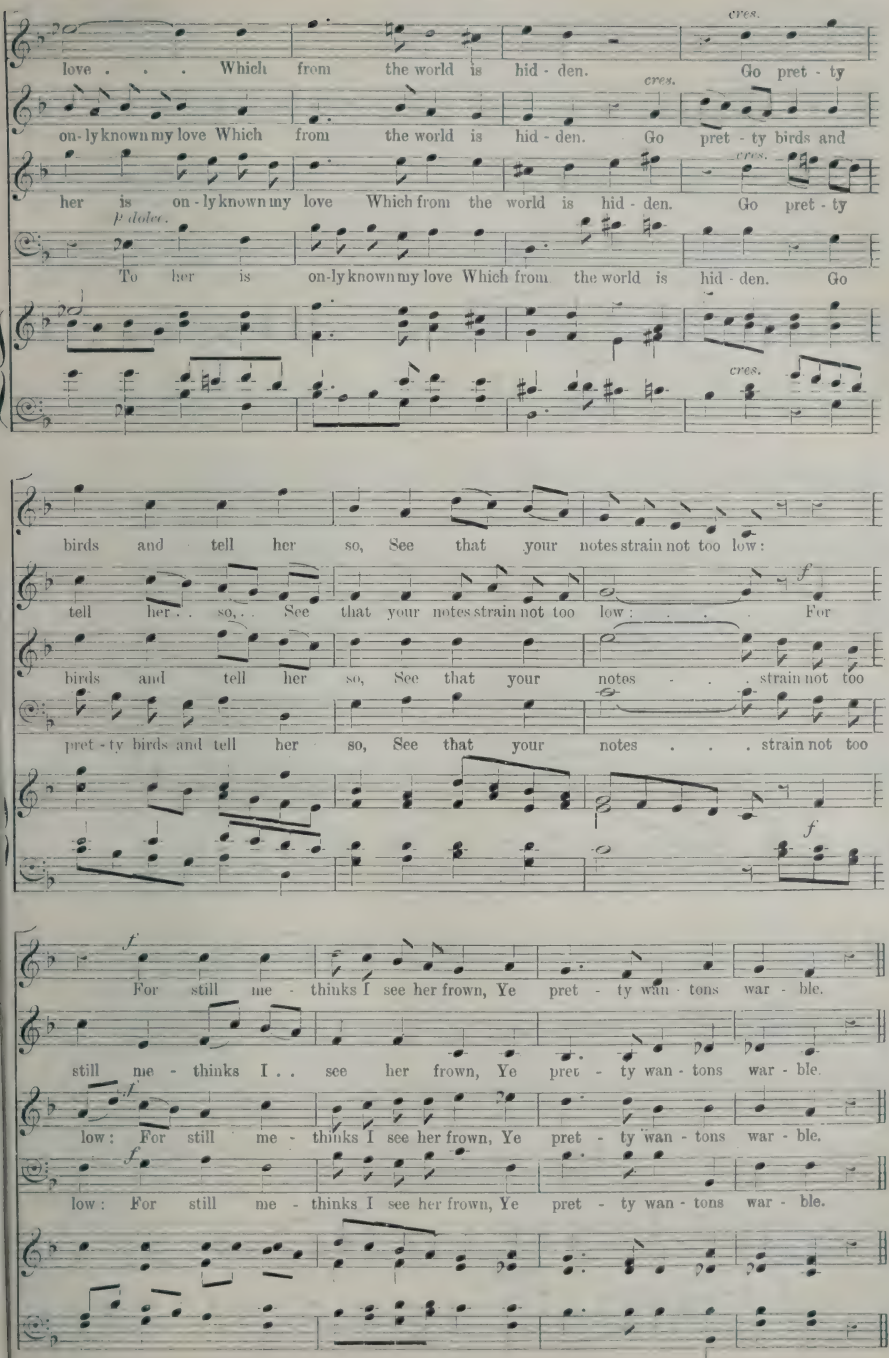
p dolce.



cres.
love . . . Which from the world is hid - den. Go pret - ty
cres.
on - ly known my love Which from the world is hid - den. Go pret - ty birds and
cres.
her is on - ly known my love Which from the world is hid - den. Go pret - ty
p dolce.
To her is on - ly known my love Which from the world is hid - den. Go
cres.
birds and tell her so, See that your notes strain not too low:
f tell her . . so, . . See that your notes strain not too low: . . . For birds and tell her so, See that your notes . . . strain not too pret - ty birds and tell her so, See that your notes . . . strain not too
f
f
For still me - thinks I see her frown, Ye pret - ty wan - tons war - ble.
still me - thinks I . . see her frown, Ye pret - ty wan - tons war - ble.
f low: For still me - thinks I see her frown, Ye pret - ty wan - tons war - ble.
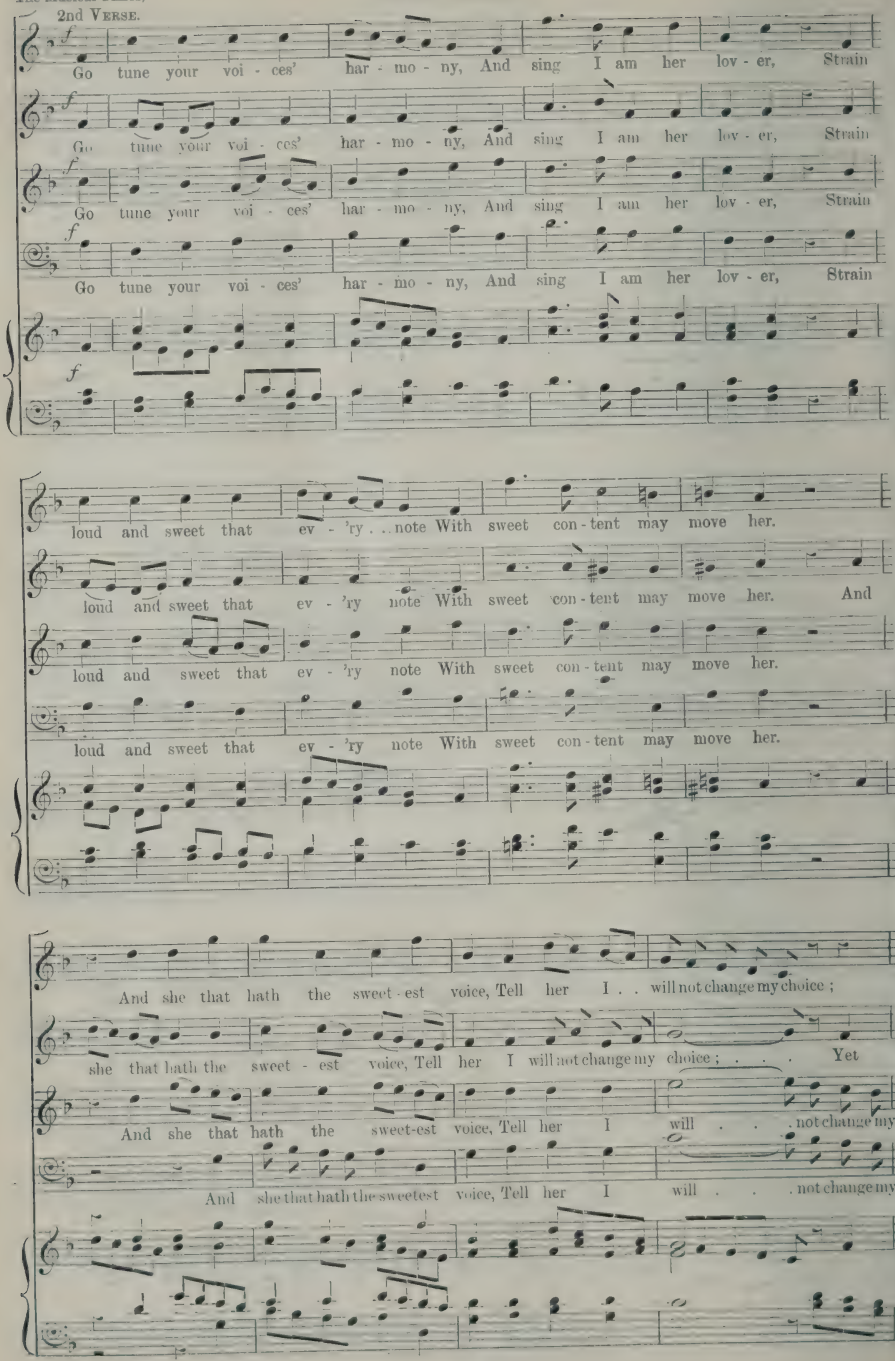
f low: For still me - thinks I see her frown, Ye pret - ty wan - tons war - ble.

2nd VERSE.



Go tune your voi - ces' har - mo - ny, And sing I am her lov - er, Strain
Go tune your voi - ces' har - mo - ny, And sing I am her lov - er, Strain
Go tune your voi - ces' har - mo - ny, And sing I am her lov - er, Strain
Go tune your voi - ces' har - mo - ny, And sing I am her lov - er, Strain loud and sweet that ev - 'ry . . note With sweet con - tent may move her.
loud and sweet that ev - 'ry note With sweet con - tent may move her. And loud and sweet that ev - 'ry note With sweet con - tent may move her.
loud and sweet that ev - 'ry note With sweet con - tent may move her.
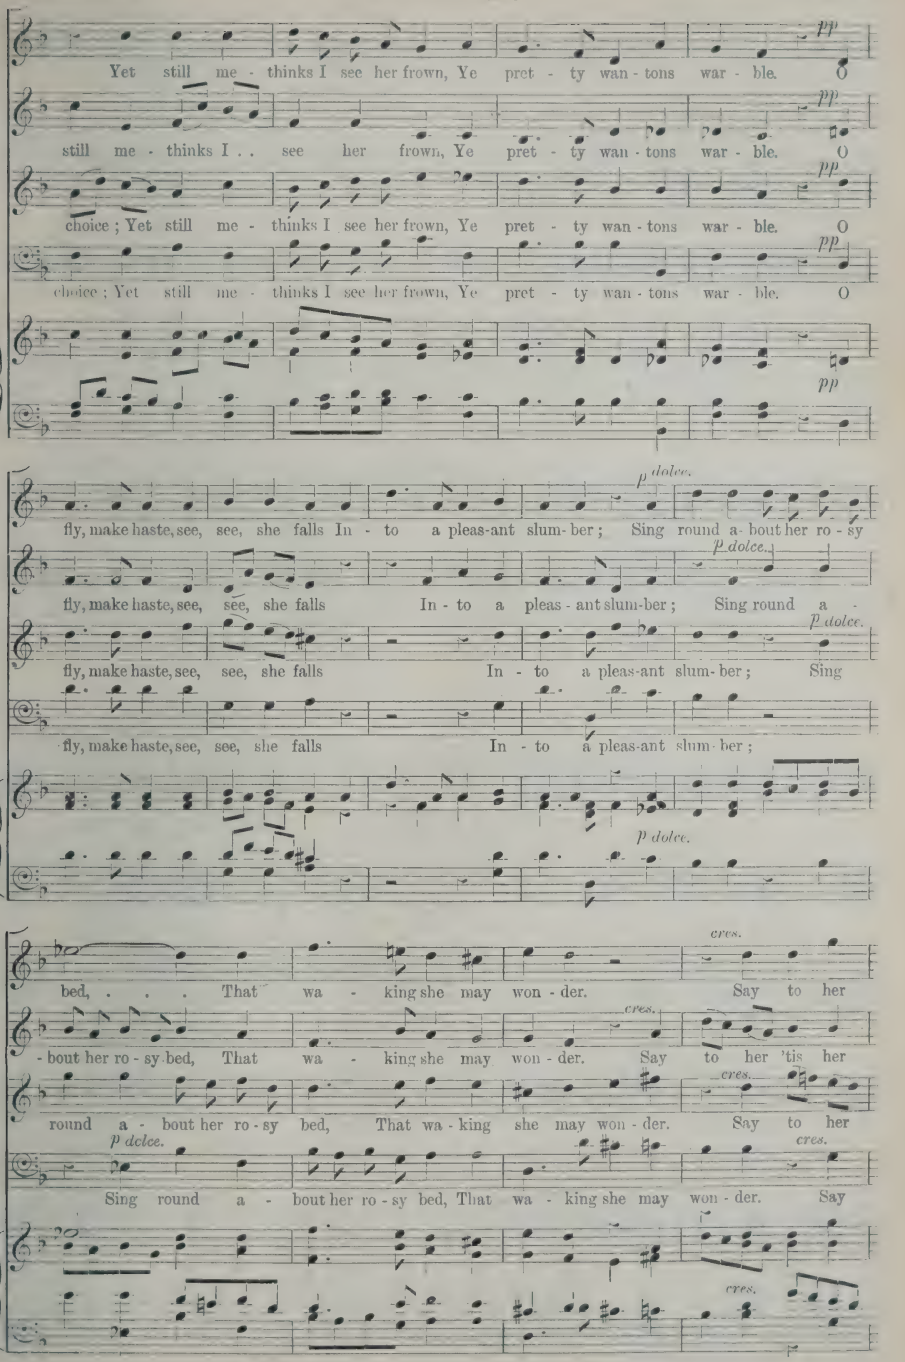
And she that hath the sweet - est voice, Tell her I . . will not change my choice ;
she that hath the sweet - est voice, Tell her I will not change my choice ; . . . Yet
And she that hath the sweet-est voice, Tell her I will . . . not change my
And she that hath the sweetest voice, Tell her I will . . . not change my



Yet still me - thinks I see her frown, Ye pret - ty wan - tons war - ble. O still me - thinks I . . see her frown, Ye pret - ty wan - tons war - ble. O choice ; Yet still me - thinks I see her frown, Ye pret - ty wan - tons war - ble. O choice ; Yet still me - thinks I see her frown, Ye pret - ty wan - tons war - ble. O
pp fly, make haste, see, see, she falls In - to a pleas-ant slum- ber ; Sing round a- bout her ro - sy fly, make haste, see, see, she falls In - to a pleas - ant slum-ber ; Sing round a - fly, make haste, see, see, she falls In - to a pleas-ant slum- ber ; Sing fly, make haste, see, see, she falls In - to a pleas-ant slum- ber ;
p dolce.
bed, . . . That wa - king she may won - der. Say to her
- bout her ro - sy bed, That wa - king she may won - der. Say to her 'tis her round a - bout her ro - sy bed, That wa - king she may won - der. Say to her Sing round a - bout her ro - sy bed, That wa - king she may won - der. Say
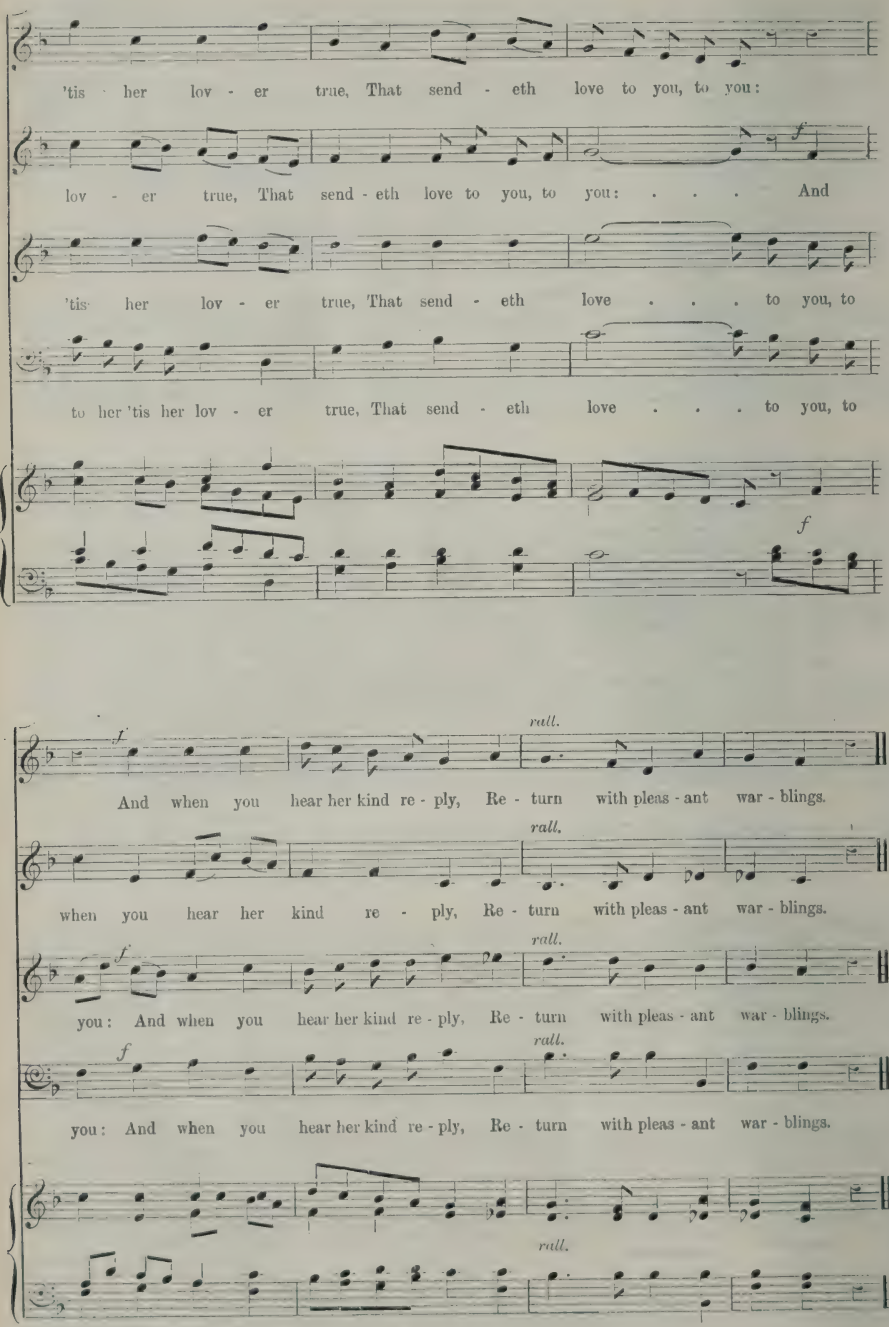
cres.



'tis her lov - er true, That send - eth love to you, to you:
lov - er true, That send - eth love to you, to you: . . . And 'tis her lov - er true, That send - eth love . . . to you, to to her 'tis her lov - er true, That send - eth love . . . to you, to
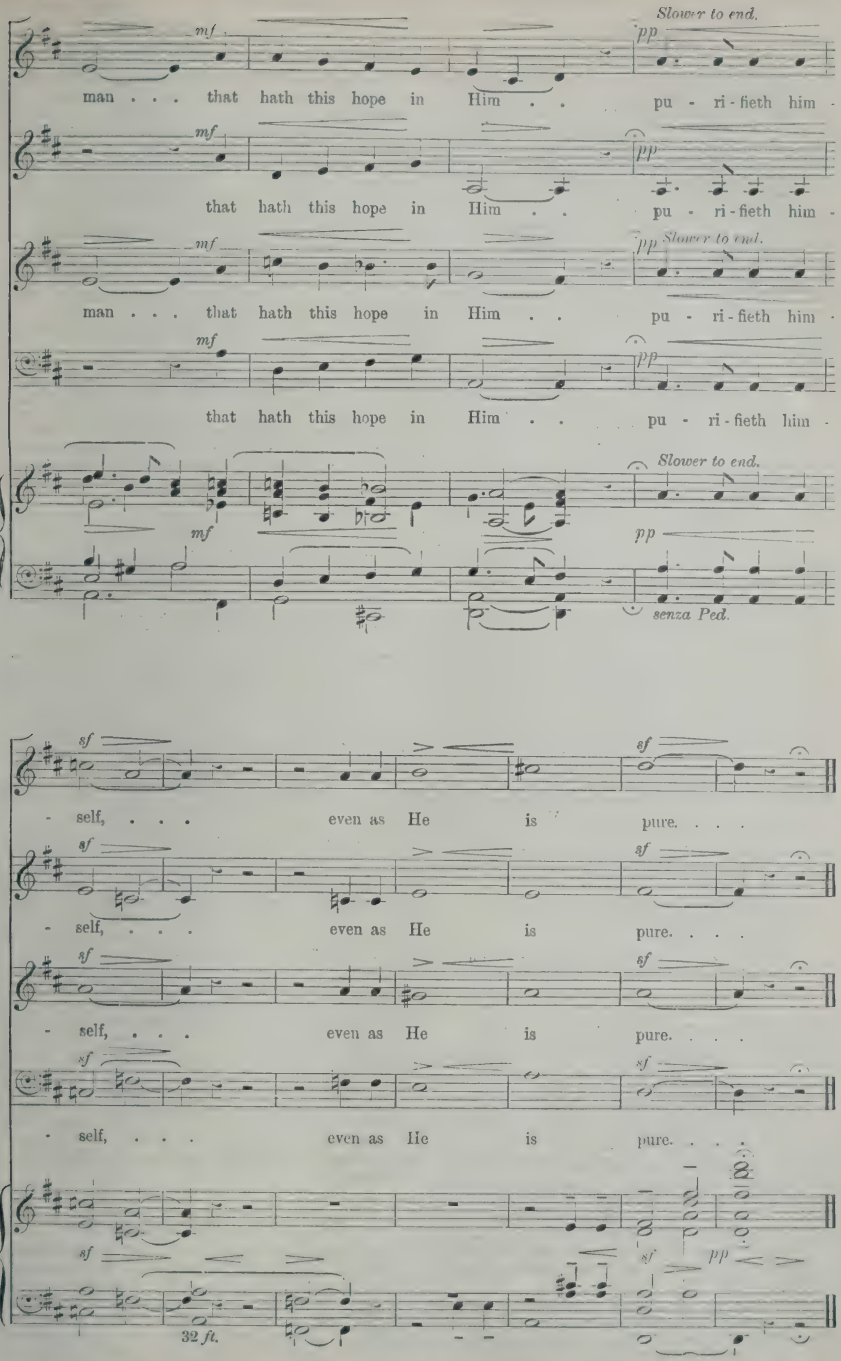
f
And when you hear her kind re - ply, Re - turn with pleas - ant war - blings.
when you hear her kind re - ply, Re - turn with pleas - ant war - blings.
you: And when you hear her kind re - ply, Re - turn with pleas - ant war - blings.
you: And when you hear her kind re - ply, Re - turn with pleas - ant war - blings.
rall.



Slower to end.
mf
pp
man . . . that hath this hope in Him . . pu - ri - fieth him - that hath this hope in Him . . pu - ri - fieth him -
Slower to end.
man . . . that hath this hope in Him . . pu - ri - fieth him -
that hath this hope in Him . . pu - ri - fieth him -
Slower to end.
senza Ped.
sf
- self, . . . even as He is pure. . . .
32 ft.

Obituary.

The death of Arthur Edwin Dyer, while walking along the street at Cheltenham, on the 10th ult., has to be recorded with regret, mingled with sympathy to those near and dear to him who have been so suddenly bereaved. Dr. Dyer, born at Frome, February 20, 1843, was for ten years (1865-75) organist of the Parish Church, Weston-super-Mare, but for more than a quarter of-a-century he has held the post of organist and director of music at Cheltenham College, where he has done excellent work. For a time he was conductor of the Cheltenham Musical Society. His compositions include a sacred cantata, 'Salvator Mundi'; 'Harold,' a cantata; music to the 'Electra' of Sophocles; an opera, 'The Lady of Bayonne,' and several smaller works, including a chorus, 'I wish to tune my quiv'ring lyre,' sung at the Gloucester Festival of 1883.

William Nicholl, the well-known tenor vocalist and teacher of singing, died, we regret to record, at his residence, 46, Canfield Gardens, Hampstead, on the 1st ult., in his fifty-second year. Born at Glasgow, June 30, 1851, Mr. Nicholl for several years followed the career of a civil engineer in his native city and in India, and did not enter the musical profession until he was thirty-three years of age. He became a student of the Royal Academy of Music, and, after having studied at Florence, a professor of the Institution in 1891. His services as a singer were in great request, and as a member of the Savage Club he was very popular there, and in other social circles. He gave much attention to the subject of voice production, and in collaboration with Dr. George Thorpe, issued a 'Text-book on the natural use of the Voice.'

We regret to place on record the death, at Southend, on the 10th ult., of Luther Hinton, aged seventy-three, who for a quarter of-a-century conducted the Crystal Palace Festivals of the London Sunday School Choir. In 1871, he, with Jonathan Barnard, founded that successful organisation, and thousands of singers will lovingly remember his boundless enthusiasm, genial personality, and the whole-heartedness of the man whose loss in Sunday School circles will be severely felt.

The death is announced, at New York, of the author of the words of the well-known song 'Ben Bolt,' who, although he bore the patronymic of Thomas Dunn English, was an American. Du Maurier's Trilby popularised the ditty in this country, but it was a relic of the early song days of North America, and sung to an old German melody adapted by a forgotten tenor named Nelson Kneas.

> Don't you remember sweet Alice, Ben Bolt
> Sweet Alice whose hair was so brown;
> Who wept with delight when you gave her a smile,
> And trembled with fear at your frown?

Franz Nachbaur, the celebrated Munich tenor and favourite singer of the unfortunate King Ludwig II. of Bavaria, died at Munich, on March 21, aged seventy-one. He was the Walter von Stolzing in the memorable first performance of Wagner's 'Die Meistersinger' in 1868.

Recent deaths include those of Alfred Plumpton, director of the music at the Palace Theatre, and formerly known as a composer at Melbourne; at Milan, of Señor Lago, aged seventy-two, a famous impresario, who revived Gluck's 'Orfeo' in London, and introduced Mascagni's 'Cavalleria Rusticana' to English audiences in 1891, at the Shaftesbury Theatre.

Their Majesties the King and Queen have graciously bestowed a Royal Warrant upon Messrs. John Broadwood and Sons, Ltd., the well-known pianoforte manufacturers, and a similar honour has been awarded to them by H.R.H. the Princess of Wales. Messrs. Broadwood have supplied the English Court continuously since the reign of King George II.

A competition for two Close Scholarships, recently held at the Royal College of Music, resulted as follows:—Berkshire Scholarship—Mabel L. Gillender, of Reading (singing); Heywood Lonsdale (Shropshire) Scholarship—Phyllis M. Owen, of Oswestry (violin).

'MERRIE ENGLAND.'

MR. EDWARD GERMAN'S NEW OPERA.

Time seems so to impress on the cultured musician the artistic value of the brilliant series of Gilbert and Sullivan operas, that a peculiar sense of anxiety is felt when a new opera is produced at the Savoy Theatre. Not unnaturally great hopes were entertained that the collaboration of Captain Basil Hood and Mr. Edward German would result in a work of distinction. The former 'hath a pretty wit' and considerable experience of stage-craft, and the latter has given us music instinct with English idiom, and notably 'Three dances' (Henry VIII.), which have carried his name round the world. Captain Hood was certainly happy therefore in selecting such a typical English subject as the gallantries of the courtly days of the Virgin Queen, and one of the greatest artistic merits of the opera is the perfection of accord which exists between the libretto and the music. The libretto itself is somewhat slight in construction. Practically, the story comes to an end at the close of the first act, and although it is ingeniously prolonged, one cannot but feel that the subsequent incidents have been devised to meet musical requirements, rather than being the inevitable consequences of what has gone before. The witticisms, albeit frequently of an intellectual character, are not so numerous as might have been expected, and consequently while the book excites esteem, it does not engender a desire to indulge in superlatives.

The lyrics are very neatly turned, and contain poetical passages and lines of genuine humorous character. Most of them have been very happily set, and all of them with musicianly skill by Mr. Edward German. In the first act the quintet, 'Love is meant to make us glad,' is most charming in its daintiness and finish. There is a fine breezy and manly ring in the setting of 'Who were the yeomen of England?' and Elizabeth's solo, 'Oh, peaceful England,' with its stately minuet, refrain, and pianissimo finale, is a beautiful number. The humorous in music, of which Sir Arthur Sullivan was such a master, is not conspicuous in Mr. German's score, but it is apparent in a song and chorus, 'King Neptune sat on his lonely throne,' and in a subsequent male quartet, 'We are four men of Windsor,' the latter being very cleverly written.

In the second act the witch's song 'Cat, cat, where have you been?' is quaint; the duet 'It is the merry month of May' possesses Mendelssohnian grace; the music trips delightfully in 'When Cupid first this old world trod,' and the finale is effectively worked up. Although in some places Mr. German has written somewhat too generously for the brass, the orchestration is most finished and skilful, and numerous artistic touches appeal to the ear of the musician. The opera was well cast, Miss Louie Pounds as the Witch, Miss Joan Keddie as the May Queen, and Miss Agnes Fraser as Bessie, were admirable exponents of their respective characters, and Miss Brandram as Queen Elizabeth in a pronounced farthingale was a host in herself. Mr. Henry Lytton's embodiment of Essex, and Mr. Robert Evett's impersonation of Raleigh, were conceived and carried out in traditional Savoy manner. On Mr. Walter Passmore, as usual, devolved the chief humours of the evening, and his quaint comicalities contributed in no small degree to the success of the production. The composer conducted on the first night, and, with Captain Hood, received, on their appearance before the curtain, the most cordial signs of the unanimous satisfaction of the audience.

THE ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY.

More than usual interest attached to the concluding concert, on the 17th ult., of the thirty-first season of the Royal Choral Society at the Albert Hall. The selection comprised, in addition to Sir Arthur Sullivan's 'Golden Legend,' Sir Frederick Bridge's latest cantata 'The forging of the anchor,' and the first performance of Godfrey's Coronation March, which gained the prize of £50, recently offered by the Worshipful Company of Musicians. It will doubtless be remembered that Sir Frederick's work was first produced at the Gloucester Festival in October last, and that the text is Sir Samuel Ferguson's patriotic poem, which he wrote when only twenty-one and contributed to Blackwood's Magazine. It is scarcely necessary to say that Sir Frederick's vigorous and bold music was heard to the greatest advantage at the Albert Hall. The picturesque opening chorus and the flowingly-written finale in particular were finely rendered, and the melodious baritone solo part was most effectively sung by Mr. Andrew Black. The work was warmly received, and the composer-conductor had twice to acknowledge the hearty applause at the close. Mr. Percy Godfrey's 'Coronation March' was also much applauded, and he himself called to the platform. It is not a work which calls for criticism. It has been written with keen appreciation for the style of music required. Had not Mendelssohn lived it would have been remarkably original; but it is only remarkably reminiscent. The march is richly scored, and designed and carried out with musicianly skill. There is little to say concerning Sir Arthur Sullivan's familiar cantata. The Kensington choristers are thoroughly at home in this beautiful music; but mention is due of the sympathetic singing of Miss Agnes Nicholls and Miss Marie Brema, and no less of Mr. William Green and Mr. Andrew Black, who severally interpreted the parts of Prince Henry and Lucifer.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

It is a rare occurrence for a student to secure the insertion of a cantata, which takes over an hour to perform, in the programme of a students' concert, and, which is still rarer, to get his work published. It was by reason of this combination of unusual happenings that the orchestral concert, given by the students of the Royal Academy of Music at Queen's Hall, on March 25, attracted more than ordinary attention.

The programme opened with a dramatic cantata, for soli, chorus, orchestra, and recitation, entitled 'The Lay of the Brown Rosary,' composed by A. von Ahn Carse, the Macfarren Scholar of the Institution. In the choice of Mrs. Browning's poem as a vehicle of musical expression, one indulges in the surmise that either the young composer has a fancy for pessimism, or that he considered it an excellent peg on which to hang Wagner-cum-Dvorák orchestration. It seems to be the fashion to select gloomy subjects as librettos for cantatas, or as 'programmes.' Why? Is the old English characteristic of merriment — 'of a cheerful countenance,' as the Psalmist has it — played out? And then in regard to melody. One longs to hear a rattling good tune—not in a vulgar sense — that one could whistle (sotto voce, of course) in Portland Place, on the way home. This leads us to say that Mr. Carse's cantata is lacking in melody, and that another shortcoming is a monotony of rhythm—one longs for even a few bars in other than quadruple time. The introduction of melodrama in the powerful Scene II. may, with all its effectiveness, become tedious, and chromatic progressions tire by their redundancy. On the other hand, the orchestration shows decided promise of greater things to come. As a matter of fact, the cantata may be regarded as an orchestral poem with vocal (soli and chorus) accompaniments, plus the melodrama. The young composer need not be discouraged at these and similar remarks in reviewing his work; he has undoubted ability, and his future career should prove fruitful unto good works.

The solo vocalists were Ethel M. Lister (a very promising young singer), Katie E. B. Moss, E. Margaret Llewellyn, and George Henry Gardner, and the reciters, Mabel Moore and Henry E. Butcher, while Sir Alexander Mackenzie did everything that was possible to secure a good rendering of the cantata.

The remainder of the concert consisted of Tschaïkowsky's Pianoforte Concerto in B flat minor (the solo part played by Winifred Christie), Elgar's 'Sabbath morning at sea' (sung by Margaret Thomas), and Liszt's symphonic poem 'Festklänge' for orchestra.

London Concerts.

The chief feature of the concert given by the Strolling Players, on the 17th ult., at the Queen's Hall, was the first performance of a new dramatic overture called 'Hamlet,' composed by the conductor of the Society, Mr. William Shakespeare. The apt association of the names is peculiar, and may be claimed as an extension of the long arm of coincidence. Mr. Shakespeare has long been recognised as an accomplished musician, and, although it cannot be said that he has risen to the heights or plumbed the depths of the Prince of Denmark, he has written a work so instinct with musicianly feeling, and so ingeniously constructed as regards effects, that the overture is likely to increase his reputation. The orchestra entered with manifest goodwill into its task, and also gave excellent renderings of three Slavonic dances by Dvorák, and effectively supported Miss Shakespeare in her intelligent reading of the pianoforte part of Schumann's Concerto in A minor. The programme also included the names of Miss Marian Edwardes and Mr. J. Campbell McInnes.

Miss Helen Henschel (daughter of Mr. George Henschel) gave her first concert at Bechstein Hall, on the 21st ult., with highly successful results. Miss Henschel not only has a voice of agreeable quality, which, perhaps it is needless to say, has been most carefully trained, but she has innate artistic feeling, and there can be little doubt will develop into a very fine singer. Her programme included a set of traditional National Songs, Schumann's 'Volksliedschen,' Brahms's 'Der Liebsten Schwur,' and her father's setting of 'Donald Blair.' The musical versatility of Miss Henschel was further displayed in her playing, with Miss Winifred Smith, movements from Bach's Double Violin Concerto.

The vocal recital given by Mr. Kelley Cole, at Bechstein Hall, on the 15th ult., deserves notice by reason of the introduction of some new songs by Mr. Reginald Somerville, of which the second, having the simple title 'With you,' stood out as being exceptionally good. The songs were admirably sung by Mr. Cole, who was accompanied by the composer. Another distinctive feature of the recital was the charming song 'Long Ago,' by the distinguished American composer. Interesting variety to an excellent selection of songs was afforded by a good performance of the Sonata in A for pianoforte and violin by Brahms, played with artistic earnestness by Miss E. V. Cave and Miss Ernestine MacCormac.

The Band of the Royal Artillery gave one of their excellent concerts at Queen's Hall, on the 18th ult., under the able direction of Cavalière Zaverthal. The programme included Mozart's Symphony in G minor, Massenet's 'Scènes Alsaciennes,' and Tschaïkowsky's 'Marche Slav,' amongst other pieces, and these all received an able interpretation at the hands of Mr. Zaverthal's capable musicians.

Choral and Orchestral Societies.

The Stock Exchange Orchestral and Choral Society's programme at Queen's Hall, on the 9th ult., had for its chief features Schumann's Symphony (No. 4) in D minor, which was, on the whole, well rendered, and Saint-Saëns's Concerto in G minor, the solo part in which was efficiently played by Miss Vera Margolies. Elgar's march, 'Pomp and Circumstance,' was also performed. Miss Blanche Gordon was the solo vocalist, and the contributions of the male-voice choir were artistically and intelligently rendered under Mr. Munro Davison, whose part-song 'Annabel Lee' was included in the selection. The orchestra was, as usual, conducted by Mr. Arthur Payne.

The West Ham Philharmonic Society, under the able conductorship of Mr. H. A. Donald, gave a concert at the Stratford Town Hall on the 17th ult. The programme included Beethoven's 'Leonora' overture, Schubert's 'Unfinished' Symphony, Tschaïkowsky's Capriccio Italien, Grieg's 'Peer Gynt' Suite, and Mendelssohn's Pianoforte Concerto in G minor, in which Miss Elsie Horne acquitted herself admirably in the solo part. Miss Lilian Gardner and Mr. S. Lockridge were the vocalists.

The Dulwich Philharmonic Society gave a highly successful performance of Mendelssohn's 'Hymn of Praise' and 'Rossini's 'Stabat Mater' at the Crystal Palace, on March 22, under the able direction of Mr. Arthur Fagge. The solo vocalists were Miss Perceval Allen, Miss Ethel Bevan, Mr. Lloyd Chandos and Mr. Franklin Clive.

Mendelssohn's 'Elijah' was performed at the Methodist Free Church, Manor Park, by the Manor Park Vocal and Orchestral Society. The choruses were excellently sung, reflecting much credit on the admirable training of the conductor, Mr. F. W. Long. The principal vocalists were Madame Alice Motterway, Miss Lucy Elliott, Madame Edith Hands, Mr. Gwilym Richards, and Mr. Charles Knowles. The orchestra was led by Mr. T. Davis, and Mr. Bernard Long presided at the organ.

The Devonshire Square Church Choral Society gave its last concert this season on the 17th ult., when Gaul's 'Holy City' and selections from Handel's 'Judas Maccabæus' were performed. The solo vocalists were Miss Alice Simons, Miss Alice Stroud, Mr. W. H. Fothergill, and Mr. Montague Borwell. Miss Edith Wells presided at the pianoforte, and Mr. Louis F. Goodman at the organ. Mr. G. Ernest Arundel conducted.

The Lewisham Choral Society performed Coleridge-Taylor's Leeds cantata, 'The Blind Girl of Castél Cuillé,' at the Court Hill Schools, on the 10th ult. The choir and orchestra numbered 120 performers, and the solo vocalists were Miss Lili Sharp, Master Willie Allen, Miss Bessie Woodward, and Mr. Lorne Wallet. Mr. Frank Idle conducted.

COMPETITIONS.

THE WESTMORLAND MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

The festival and competitions which took place at Kendal on the 10th, 11th, and 12th ult., formed the seventeenth event of the kind, and therefore it could hardly be expected to afford any very novel features. The event was, in fact, conducted on lines which this long experience has proved to be practicable and useful, yet it presented several elements that were new.

The most interesting of these, which represents, so far as I am aware, an entirely new departure in these competitions, was the class for Folk-Songs. To quote from the prospectus, this was for 'the best unpublished country dialect song, which has been handed down traditionally and orally in any one of the six Northern Counties; to be sung by the competitor. The prize is offered not so much for the best singing of the song as for the most interesting and curious of the old-fashioned songs now so seldom heard.' The idea was a happy one, and it is pleasant to be able to record that the experiment proved wonderfully successful, even if one leaves out of consideration the fact that it was a first attempt. The supply of old unpublished songs is of course not inexhaustible, but there must be sufficient in existence to provide for many more such competitions, and the idea, like many more that have originated at Kendal, is well worthy of imitation. Of course, the difficulty is to ascertain whether any given song has escaped the net of the publishers who issued the innumerable song books of a hundred years ago and more, but it was reduced to a minimum by the help of Mr. Frank Kidson of Leeds, who, in the matter of old songs, is a complete 'Enquire Within.' There were ten entries, out of which Mr. Kidson was able to pick three, both words and music of which had never to his knowledge appeared in print. In the order in which he and Dr. J. C. Bridge, of Chester (the general adjudicator of the competitions), placed them, the first was Miss E. Hayhurst's song of 'Sledburn Fair,' which was, from its numerous local allusions, obviously a production of the district. Equally racy of the soil was Miss Germain's 'Holm-Bank hunting song,' beginning thus:—

> 'One morning last winter to > Holm-bank there came
> A noble brave sportsman, Squire
> Sands was his name.'

and the pleasures of the chase were also the subject of Mr. C. J. Cropper's 'Hare-hunting song':—

> 'The morning looks charming, all > nature looks gay,
> Then away my brave boys, to your > horses away,'

which was, from a musical point of view, second to none, especially in the charming introduction of the conventional 'nonsense' refrain, but was less localised in its character.

Highly commended by the judges, but disqualified by prior publication, were the fine Cambrian song, 'Bleckell Murry Neet,' sung to a racy old tune by Mr. W. Henderson; the humorous but distinctly modern 'I once went a-coorting,' sung by Mr. V. S. Jones; and Col. Mason's 'There was an auld man,' which appeared, in somewhat different form, in the Orpheus Caledonius early in the eighteenth century. The competition was highly enjoyable, as well as of great antiquarian and musical interest. The quaintness of the words was, of course, delightful, and so was the music, the tunes in many instances being obviously derived from a common stock, and evolved rather than composed. I have dwelt on this feature of the festival because it was of great general interest, and deserves imitation.

Another novelty was a class for brass bands, which, if hardly requiring encouragement, calls for some control. Four appeared and played the march from 'Scipio,' and their restraint in the matter of noise deserves praise. The sight-reading competitions, which have always formed an essential and most wholesome part of the Kendal scheme, presented a fresh phase, which hardly can be said to have found favour, but points in the right direction. For the first time, words as well as music had to be sung, which presented a great difficulty, at least to the juvenile singers, who were decidedly below the usual standard of merit at Kendal. The senior candidates, both individual and choral, were tested privately (by the festival choirmaster, Mr. George Rathbone), but it was understood that they were not so materially inconvenienced by having to sing the words as were their juniors.

The other competitions may be dealt with briefly. Solo singers were, save in the folk-song class, altogether disestablished, which was the less regrettable since this was the feature of the competitions whose value was most open to doubt. There were some young violinists, however, whose playing was more than creditable, especially in the matter of intonation. Three village orchestras played Mozart's 'Idomeneo' overture with fair success. The choral societies had a severe but well-contrived test, being required not only to sing a set-piece, Dvorák's 'Slavonic cradle song,' but, in addition, any extract from the four works sung at the evening concerts that might be chosen for the purpose by the judge. In this and in the madrigal class, which is the chief event of all, the Kendal choir was an easy first, owing its supremacy in some measure, no doubt, to the greater opportunity for selecting voices afforded by a town of some size, but not less to the exceptional ability of the lady who is its trainer and conductor, Mrs. C. P. Banks. The madrigal chosen, it may be mentioned, was not an old classic, but a clever setting by a young composer, Mr. Sydney Nicholson, of the well-known words, 'Phillida flouts me.' The Windermere choir won the Novello prize for the highest aggregate of marks won in all the choral competitions

The two evening concerts were, on the whole, the best that have been given at these festivals. Bach's 'Sleepers, wake,' Brahms's 'Song of destiny,' McCunn's 'Lord Ullin's daughter,' and Somervell's 'Elegy' were sung with great vigour and confidence by the united choirs, well-trained by Mr. Rathbone, and ably conducted by Mr. Coleridge-Taylor, whose new symphonic poem

'Toussaint l'Ouverture' was also included in the programme. A band, recruited chiefly from the Hallé orchestra, played Mozart's G minor Symphony, and other things, with great force and spirit, under the conductorship of Mr. Risegari, who otherwise acted as leader. The principal soloists were Miss Agnes Nicholls, Mrs. Burrell, Mr. Webster Millar, and Mr. Denis O'Sullivan, the last-named of whom achieved a great popular triumph by his singing of Irish and other characteristic songs. The same quartet of singers took part in the children's concert on the last day, and sang Liza Lehmann's new song-cycle, 'More daisies,' with the happiest effect. Dr. Cowen's children's cantata, 'Village scenes,' was also given by a chorus of 550 children.

HUNSTANTON.

The competitions arranged for by the Association of North-West Norfolk Village Choirs took place at Hunstanton on the 5th and 7th ult. Some of the classes did not command such large entries as last year, but, on the whole, keen competitions had to be adjudicated upon by Mr. Arthur Somervell. On the second day, twenty-four choirs competed, and the singing in all classes was quite up to the high standard of recent years. In many cases, the adjudicator had a very difficult task to perform, only a mark or two separating the competitors. At the conclusion, Mr. Somervell expressed his pleasure at the result of the various contests, emphasizing the fact that the Association proceeded on the only correct lines, viz., teaching the children to sing from notes, for it gave choral societies of the future a reserve force to draw upon which otherwise would not exist.

MUSIC IN AMERICA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

New York, April 7, 1902.

The Metropolitan Opera Company is gone West; the Choral Societies have but little more to do before taking their annual rest; the Philharmonic Society and the other local and visiting orchestral organisations have completed their concert lists projected last Fall; for a month to come there will be a dozen or two per week sporadic concerts of the kind which only make for the vanity of concert-givers, and are a vexation and weariness to the flesh of the professional reviewer of musical affairs. The time seems fitted for reminiscence. Why should I not indulge it to-day so far as the American Metropolis is concerned? For a few days, I have been poring over my date-book and daily records for the purpose of gathering material to put into a picture of New York's musical activities. Scores of concerts given in hotel ball-rooms, in studios, by pupils to gratify their relations and friends, by teachers to advertise themselves shall not be considered here; I content myself with affairs which were given with the expectation of legitimate patronage from serious music-lovers. I fancy the record will not look large to persons familiar with the myriad activities of musical London; but it may furnish food for thought to those who have not realised how much the musical life of New York resembles that of the British Metropolis, in matter and manner if not in quantity.

Since the season opened on, say, about October 15, I count up easily sixty symphony concerts, by which term I mean concerts of orchestral music of the highest class, in which works of symphonic dimensions and dignity have dominated the scheme. Sixteen of these concerts were given by the Philharmonic Society, fifteen by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, two by the Pittsburgh Orchestra; the rest by local orchestras organised for specific purposes. In the last category there are included four concerts given by Mr. Sam Franko for the purpose of cultivating interest in archaic music—chiefly that of the eighteenth century. A small orchestra has played the old music (including this year as an absolute novelty a Concerto à quattro, by Dall' Abaco) in a small room, thus restoring the conditions which prevailed at and before the time of Haydn. Also concerts of classical music, with explanatory remarks designed for the edification of the young, given in the boroughs of Manhattan and Brooklyn, by Mr. Frank Damrosch, who is the Supervisor of music in the Public Schools of the City and conductor of the Oratorio Society. Likewise a series of concerts, with dignified programmes, given for the entertainment and education of the poorer classes by a committee of philanthropic people, and under the direction of Mr. Franz Arens. There have been about twenty popular orchestral concerts, such as those which employ the operatic band and the operatic singers at the Metropolitan Opera House on Sunday evenings.

Of choral concerts, I count up sixteen, the majority of them of a miscellaneous character, some with, some without orchestra. Of the large choral compositions, we have had adequate public performances of Handel's 'Messiah,' Mendelssohn's 'Elijah,' Rossini's 'Stabat Mater,' Verdi's 'Requiem,' and Schumann's 'Paradise and the Peri.' Handel's 'Israel in Egypt' and Liszt's 'St. Elizabeth' are still in prospect. Concerts of chamber music have numbered thirty-nine up to date; song recitals, thirty-eight; pianoforte recitals, twenty-nine; violin recitals, twelve. There remains of the record an unclassified and unclassifiable list of seventy odd concerts of a mixed order, of which the least dignified were those of military bands like Sousa's, which, nevertheless, seemed to be thought worthy of serious mention a few months ago by the newspapers of London. Add to this, sixty-five representations of grand opera by the Metropolitan Company, and the performances of operetta, which are more numerous than the days of the season, since several are always simultaneously with us, and my English reader will be able to form an idea of the demands made annually upon the patrons of music in the American Metropolis.

With its concert on the 5th inst., the New York Philharmonic Society completed its sixtieth season. It has endured as many years as the society of similar name in Vienna, but has had a more continuous and consistent career. The concerts of the Vienna Philharmonic have been suspended at times and have been few; the New York organization began with three concerts in its first season, gave four annually thereafter till the seventeenth season, five till the twenty-seventh, six till the fifty-sixth, and eight ever since. In its early days subscribers were permitted to attend all the rehearsals, a custom which became troublesome, and was abandoned in favour of the present plan of performing each programme twice, once on Friday afternoon and once on Saturday evening. There are therefore now not eight, but sixteen concerts a year. Although essentially a conservative body, our Philharmonic is largely influenced by its conductor (elected by the members), and this influence gives elasticity to its schemes. Sometimes, however, it works injuriously, so far as compromising the confessed mission of the Society, which is to conserve the best in the department of orchestral music. The present conductor is Emil Paur, whose devotion to Richard Strauss is so great that he did not scruple to choose an air from the opera 'Guntram' as a proper link between the first and ninth symphonies of Beethoven at the celebration of the sixtieth anniversary of the Society.

The Oratorio Society directed by Mr. Frank Damrosch, concluded its labours with a revival of Schumann's 'Paradise and the Peri,' which had not been heard in New York since 1876. An investigation of the local records led to the flattering discovery that, though badly neglected (for obvious reasons) now, Schumann's cantata was heard in New York as early as April 11, 1848—eight years earlier than the first London performance, and ten years earlier than the first performance in Vienna. Singularly enough, New York seems to have frequently been equally forward in the operatic and symphonic field. 'Paradise and the Peri' presented itself after its long absence as a pathetically lovable work, but one out of tune with the spirit of the age. The youthful critics, to whom it came as a novelty, fell a-foul of it most wofully and shamefully, for which fact, I fancy, a rather spiritless performance was responsible in part.

Mr. Paderewski made his last New York appearance this season at an orchestral concert in Carnegie Hall on the 6th inst. He is now en route again in his private car, and will end his fifth American tour in Washington on April 28. Mr. Reginald de Koven, composer of operettas, has undertaken the herculean task of establishing a concert orchestra in the National Capital, and Mr. Paderewski will give his blessing and support to the enterprise by playing with the new band. Two days later, he will sail for England on the 'Oceanic.' Mr. Grau, having completed his season of opera in Boston, rested during Holy Week. The Actors' Fund Society took advantage of the lull to arrange a performance of 'Manru' for the benefit of its charity. Mme. Sembrich and her colleagues contributed their services, and the fund was swelled by $10,000.

H. E. Krehbiel.

MUSIC IN VIENNA.

(from our special correspondent.)

Vienna, April 16.

The Concert-Verein brought its season to a close with two performances of Beethoven's Choral Symphony before closely-packed and reverently attentive audiences. The work was done full justice to under Herr Loewe's direction, Frau Seyff giving an admirable interpretation of the soprano solo part, and the orchestra completely justified the prominent position it has attained in our musical life during the two years of its existence, under so able a conductor. Herr Loewe also conducted a performance, in Easter week, by the Gesellschaft der Musikfreunde, of Liszt's oratorio 'Christus.' This work has been more frequently produced of late in German-speaking countries than formerly. In order to be heard to the best advantage, however, it should be given in a church, where the æsthetic appreciation is enhanced by devotional feeling.

Two concerts, conducted by distinguished foreign musicians, have been amongst the more noteworthy musical events. First, we have had Mascagni here, to conduct a performance of Rossini's 'Stabat Mater,' and then we had Massenet, with his oratorio 'Maria Magdalena.' Rossini's work was almost a novelty here, so completely had it disappeared from both church and concert-room. Nor does it conform to our ideas of truly sacred music. There was a large and what is called 'fashionable' audience, eager to see the composer of 'Cavalleria Rusticana' conduct, but the performance itself was inadequate, and the Italian solo vocalists he had brought with him unequal to their task. Excellent in every respect was, on the other hand, the production of the oratorio by Massenet, whose operas 'Manon' and 'Werther' have long been favourites at our Hoftheater. As in these, so likewise in 'Maria Magdalena,' the composer shows himself an expert master in writing effectively for both voices and instruments; his music is easily understood by everyone, without stirring any of the deeper emotions. Massenet, moreover, proved himself an excellent conductor on the occasion, and has been greatly felicitated and honoured during his stay here.

An interesting and peculiar experience was afforded by the concert given by the choir of the Russian Embassy, a small but remarkably well-trained body, whose artistic rendering of a number of unaccompanied sacred songs by Russian composers exercised a strange fascination upon the listener.

The Schubert-Bund, a large male choir chiefly consisting of school teachers, and which derives its name from the fact of Schubert himself having been at one time of their profession, gave a performance of Nicodé's ode, 'Das Meer.' This is a kind of descriptive choral piece, similar in that respect to Felicien David's 'The Desert,' but somewhat monotonous. It was given a capital first interpretation on the occasion in question. Wagner's 'Das Liebesmahl der Apostel' and Bruch's 'Salamis' have been well rendered recently by the Maennergesang-Verein.

There was a good array of talent at a Pupils' concert of the Conservatorium, amongst them an excellent pianist, Herr Groer, and a promising composer of advanced tendencies, Herr Weigl, the orchestra, under Herr Perger's direction, rendering a good account of itself in a Brahms's Symphony and a serenade by Richard Strauss, a charming early work of that composer.

On the anniversary of Brahms's death, a commemorative performance was given by the Tonkünstler-Verein, whose founder and president the master had been. Amongst the less-known works by Brahms produced, was the masterly motet, 'O Heiland reiss die Himmel auf,' a composition of an austere and truly Protestant character, which is, in fact, a setting of a chorale for mixed choir. There were also played, for the first time, three of the posthumous and as yet unpublished choral preludes for organ—the last production of the master's industrious pen. Herr Groer, whose name has already been mentioned, and who is also a very efficient organist, was the interpreter. The Pianoforte Sonata in F sharp minor, superbly played by Ernst von Dohnányi, and a number of secular choral pieces, completed the programme. The posthumous preludes are shortly to be published by Simrock, in Berlin, in accordance with the composer's testamentary directions.

The good time when Brahms was still with us is recalled in a special manner by the re-appearance here of a great artist and friend of his, Alice Barbi. She is once more giving two concerts in aid of the Brahms monument fund, and enormous crowds are availing themselves of the opportunity of hearing her, for she unites in herself the superlative charms of an incomparable vocal art and of a most interesting, irresistibly attractive personality. If, in the course of a year or two, a worthy monument should be erected to Brahms in the city where he was such a familiar figure, a conspicuous share in the realisation of it will have to be conceded to Alice Barbi.

Mandyczewski.

MUSIC IN BIRMINGHAM.

(from our own correspondent.)

Mr. Halford brought his fifth series of concerts to a close on the 1st ult. The programme consisted of Schumann's incidental music to Byron's 'Manfred' and Beethoven's Ninth Symphony (the 'Choral'). The first was given in its completeness, with the text dramatically recited by Mr. Charles Fry, whose fine elocution evoked enthusiastic applause. The principal vocalists were Miss Emily Davies, Madame Milward, Mr. H. Beaumont, and Mr. H. Sunman. Assistance in the 'Manfred' music was rendered by Messrs. A. W. Trevarthen, S. Stoddard, and Stevens. The chorus was made up of Mr. Halford's choir and that of the Stourbridge Concert Society. The concert was a great artistic success, and Mr. Halford received an ovation at the close.

On the 10th ult., the Festival Choral Society concluded its season with a magnificent performance of S. Coleridge-Taylor's 'Scenes from the Song of Hiawatha.' The chorus was in fine form, and the expression of the music was fully brought out. Madame Emily Squire, Mr. Henry Beaumont, and Mr. Andrew Black, did every justice to the solos, and Dr. Sinclair conducted with masterly skill. There was an overflowing attendance, and the work again made a great impression.

The Johannessen Chamber Concerts have taken place every Saturday afternoon. The novelties have been Goldmark's pianoforte Quintet (Op. 30) and Algernon Ashton's pianoforte Quartet in C minor (Op. 90). The latter was given on the 19th ult., with the composer at the pianoforte. It was the first of Mr. Ashton's compositions that has been performed in public in Birmingham, and the work and its composer met with a hearty reception.

At the Midland Institute, on March 24, the Amateur Orchestral Society gave a concert to the members, with an excellent performance of Max Bruch's third Symphony, and other pieces, under Mr. Halford's skilful direction. On the 12th ult., Mr. Johann Hock gave a recital to the students, playing, with Mr. G. H. Manton at the pianoforte, the Violoncello Sonatas in E minor (Op. 38) and F (Op. 99) of Brahms; and Mr. E. W. Carter, a student, sang the same composer's

'Four Serious Songs' (Op. 121). On the 19th ult., the students had an interesting programme placed before them. It consisted exclusively of music for wind instruments, some pieces with pianoforte also. Mr. Joseph Holbrooke, who has lately taken up his abode in this vicinity, was represented by his Sextet for flute, oboe, clarinet, horn, bassoon, and pianoforte, a work revealing much talent. Onslow's Quintet for wind (Op. 81), Glinka's Trio in D minor for pianoforte, clarinet, and bassoon, and Handel's Sonata in F, for flute, were also performed. Mr. Pantling played as a solo the melody for Cor Anglais that occurs as the curtain rises upon the third act of 'Tristan.' It was rather a risky experiment, but the performance was really beautiful, and the executant was re-called. The other artists were Messrs. W. Langston (flute), Mr. J. W. Ward (clarinet), Mr. A. Roberts (bassoon), Mr. A. Probin (horn), and Mr. Holbrooke (pianoforte). The lecture theatre of the Institute was crowded, and the concert was highly appreciated. Mr. Holbrooke had his first public recognition here at the Town Hall popular concerts on Saturday, the 12th ult., when a portion of his Trio for pianoforte and strings (Op. 49) was played by Miss Naughton, Mr. John Waterhouse, and Mr. Montague Pollack. Miss Clara E. Winwood, a young contralto vocalist, made a successful début at this concert, and gave two new songs by Mr. Holbrooke. Mr. G. A. Russell assisted as accompanist. Other concerts demanding mention were the operatic evening of the Choral and Orchestral Association, on the 5th ult., directed by Mr. J. H. Adams; the performance, under the same conductor, of Smart's 'Bride of Dunkerron,' at Sutton Coldfield, on the 8th ult.; the concert of the East Birmingham Choral Society, also conducted by Mr. Adams, on the 16th ult., when Barnett's 'Ancient Mariner' was given; the performance by the St. James's, Handsworth, Choral Society, on the 8th ult., of Gade's 'The Erl-King's Daughter,' with Mr. R. Richards as conductor; and an orchestral concert at Handsworth, on the 11th ult., conducted by Mr. G. H. Manton. All these concerts furnish evidence of artistic activity in the neighbourhood, which calls for full commendation.

Lastly, a word must be devoted to Dr. Arthur H. Mann's lecture on Handel's 'Messiah,' given in connection with the Midland Section of the Incorporated Society of Musicians. This took place in the large lecture-theatre of the Midland Institute, and the meeting was thrown open to the public. The lecture was illustrated by lantern slides, and was of great interest, Handel's composing and filling-in methods being happily explained by Dr. Mann, who had a most cordial reception.

MUSIC IN BRISTOL AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

There was a large attendance at the Victoria Rooms on the 1st ult., when a concert in connection with the conference of the National Union of Teachers, held this year in Bristol, was given. The vocalists were the Society of Bristol Gleemen (Mr. W. J. Kidner conductor), Miss L. A. Broome, Miss Essie R. Conway, Miss Nettie Courtice, Mr. B. Johnson, Mr. C. Davies, and Mr. W. G. Green. Violin solos were contributed by Mr. Philip Lewis, and Mr. W. E. Fowler was at the organ.

Mr. Maurice Alexander, a young violinist of ability, formerly a member of the Queen's Hall orchestra, London, has come to reside in Clifton, and, on the 10th ult., he gave a recital at the Victoria Rooms, his playing being much admired. He was assisted by Mr. Cuthbert Whitemore (pianoforte) and Miss Edith Evans (vocalist).

Considerable interest was experienced in the annual concert of the Society of Instrumentalists, on the 9th ult., at the Victoria Rooms. There were about 120 performers, chiefly amateurs, Mr. Harold Bernard holding the principal first violin, and Mr. George Riseley conducting with skill. The compositions given showed an advance upon those which the Society presented when it before appealed to the public, and included Beethoven's 'Egmont' overture, Mendelssohn's 'Italian' symphony, Elgar's 'Salut d'Amour' and 'Pomp and Circumstance' marches, and Weber's overture to 'Oberon.' Miss Adela Verne was the pianist, and songs were contributed by Miss Louise Dale and Mr. Hamilton Earle.

The spring concert of the Bristol and Clifton Philharmonic Society, on the 12th ult., attracted a large audience at the Victoria Rooms. The choir and band numbered 400, Mr. Ernest Lane being leader of the orchestra, Mr. Edward Cook at the organ, and Mr. Edward Pavey conducting. The programme consisted of Mr. J. F. Barnett's 'Ancient Mariner' and a miscellaneous selection. Miss Edith Evans, Miss Lucy Barton, Mr. Vivian Bennetts and Mr. Arthur Wills were the soloists. The favourite cantata was excellently rendered, the choruses being brightly and effectively sung.

The Clevedon Philharmonic Society, on the 2nd ult., gave a gratifying performance of Dr. Cowen's 'Sleeping Beauty,' at the Public Hall, with Miss Eveline Gerrish, Miss Rose Edgar, Mr. A. E. Edgar, and Mr. Caunter, soloists. There was a small but efficient orchestra, principally of players from Bristol. The conductor was Mr. Edward Cook.

On the 3rd ult., the Weston-super-Mare Philharmonic Society gave a concert at the Victoria Hall, and Gade's 'Psyche' was admirably rendered under the careful direction of Mr. Edward Cook.

The first choral festival of the Bristol District Psalmody Association, formed to improve congregational singing among Primitive Methodists, was held on the 16th ult., at the hall of the Young Men's Christian Association. The district includes towns and villages in the counties of Gloucester, Somerset, and Wilts, and there was a choir of about 400 from Bristol, Bath, Chippenham, Stroud, Midsomer Norton, Radstock, and other places. Under the direction of Mr. F. Stone some anthems, choruses from the 'Creation,' and hymns were effectively rendered. For variety were sacred solos, contributed by Miss Edith Evans, Miss Lily White, and Mr. G. W. Brierley.

MUSIC IN DUBLIN.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The Chamber Music Union gave their two last concerts for the season on March 26 and the 10th ult. At the former, Mr. Sigmund Beel, the American violinist, made his first appearance in Dublin, and delighted a critical audience by his fine playing. At the latter, Mr. John Dunn was the violinist, and played in Dr. Culwick's new Pianoforte Quartet, and in Beethoven's Septet. At both these recitals the other performers were Mr. P. Delany, second violin; Mr. Octave Grisard, viola; Herr Bast, violoncello; and Signor Esposito, pianoforte.

The Dublin Orchestral Society, on March 24, gave a second Wagner concert (in response to a generally-expressed desire). In addition to the Wagner items, the orchestra played Mozart's overture to 'Le Nozze di Figaro,' and Mr. D. Lalande played an arrangement of two Irish melodies by Signor Esposito for Cor Anglais and orchestra. On the 18th ult., the Society gave their last concert for the season, when the 'pièce de résistance' was Tschaïkowsky's 'Symphonie Pathétique,' performed (and well performed) for the first time by our local orchestra. The programme also included the new overture to 'Othello,' by Signor Esposito, which proved to be a work of great power, and no doubt in time will be heard in other musical centres. A selection from Tschaïkowsky's 'Casse Noisette' suite, Gluck's overture to 'Iphigénie en Aulis,' and Schubert's 'Rosamunde' ballet music completed the programme, which was as usual conducted by Signor Esposito. The Corporation of Dublin has recognised the value of the work of this Society by including in the estimates for the current year a grant of £50 towards its maintenance.

On the 14th and 16th ult., the Dublin Musical Society gave two 'Coronation Concerts,' at which the choir, conducted by Dr. Joseph Smith, sang three of Handel's Coronation anthems, and, besides singing in part-songs, joined with Madame Clara Butt in a rendering of Mendelssohn's '13th Psalm.'

MUSIC IN EAST ANGLIA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The last Popular Organ Recital of the season took place in St. Andrew's Hall, Norwich, on March 30, in the presence of the Mayor, several members of the Corporation, and a very large audience. In thanking those ladies and gentlemen who had voluntarily added to the pleasures of the citizens during the past season, by providing vocal and instrumental solos, and thereby helping Dr. Bunnett in his arduous labours, the Mayor referred to the success which attended these enjoyable entertainments.

A lecture was given, on March 21, at the Norfolk and Norwich School of Music, by Mr. W. Heaver, on 'The Life and Works of John Sebastian Bach.' Mr. Heaver was fortunate in securing the help of Miss Mildred Rix, Precentor Moss, Mr. Arthur Bent, and Dr. Bunnett to give the musical illustrations to his instructive discourse.

The Great Walsingham Choral Society sang several part-songs in commendable style at their concert on the 14th ult., when the opportunity was taken of presenting their esteemed conductor, the Rev. H. A. Wansbrough, with a silver-mounted bâton, in recognition of his valuable help and assistance so willingly given on the behalf of the Society.

A concert was given by the Diss Choral Society on the 15th ult., when Coleridge-Taylor's cantata, 'Hiawatha's Wedding Feast' was very creditably performed. Mr. Henry Franckiss sang the tenor solo with good effect. The band, led by Mr. T. E. Gatehouse, did good service, and Mr. T. M. Pullen conducted.

The Great Yarmouth Musical Society gave their second concert of the season on the 17th ult., when, under the conductorship of Mr. Haydon Hare, a most successful performance of Sullivan's 'Golden Legend' was given. The principal vocalists were Miss Maggie Jaques, Miss Edith Rutter, Mr. Samuel Masters, and Mr. Charles Tree.

MUSIC IN GLASGOW.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The performance of Parts I. and II. of Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha'—the third time that charming work has been heard here this season—by Woodlands Church Musical Association, on March 24, was one of undoubted excellence. The choral numbers throughout were sung with praiseworthy accuracy and attention to detail, and a small string band, augmented by the pianoforte and harmonium, made quite a passable substitute for the full orchestral accompaniment. The soloists were Miss Mary E. Alexander, Messrs. J. F. S. Adams and Harry Kemp, and Mr. James Smith, the organist of the Church, was conductor. On the same evening, the Cambuslang Choral Union, a Society which continues to do capital work under Mr. Herbert Walton, gave Mendelssohn's 'Elijah,' the accompaniments being played by members of the Glasgow Amateur Orchestral Society.

The annual concert of the Morris Glee and Madrigal Society took place on March 26. The aim of the Society is to foster a love for old glees and madrigals, and is, therefore, largely missionary. The programme on this occasion contained madrigals by Morley, Lassus, Benet, and Linley, and the Society's performance gave convincing proof of painstaking training and high regard for the subjects under study. Mr. W. R. Morris, the conductor, is to be congratulated on the success of his work.

On March 27, Coatbridge Choral Union, conducted by Mr. Thomas Dixon, gave a meritorious performance of Handel's 'Judas Maccabæus,' the orchestra of the Society, with some professional aid, supplying the accompaniments.

Spohr's 'God, Thou art great,' Mendelssohn's Psalm xiii., and miscellaneous selections formed the programme of Paisley Choral Union's closing concert for the session, on March 26, Mr. James Barr conducting, and Mr. James Pattinson acting as organist and accompanist.

The outstanding feature of the Paisley Philharmonic Society's concert on the 1st ult., was the performance of Mendelssohn's Pianoforte Concerto in G minor, the solo part being brilliantly played by Mr. Hopkins Ould, the popular conductor of the Society. The programme likewise included Schubert's 'Unfinished' Symphony and Beethoven's 'Egmont' overture. Mr. James Pattinson conducted the Concerto, and Mr. Ould the remaining items.

A very creditable rendering of Mendelssohn's 'St. Paul' was given, on the 10th ult., by the Clydebank and District Choral Union. The choruses were sung with great spirit, and the solo music was in the hands of Misses Thom and Borthwick, and Messrs. Hansen and Daniel Price. Mr. John Daly led the orchestra, and the whole performance was ably conducted by Mr. W. J. Clapperton.

MUSIC IN GLOUCESTER AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

A good deal of interest was shown in the Forest of Dean, on Easter Monday, in the Brass Band Contest held at Lydney. Prizes to the value of £40 were offered, and seven bands competed. The first prize in the open competition went to the 3rd Volunteer Battalion Gloucester Regiment (Bristol); the second to Bristol City Mission Band; the third to the Drybrook Band; and the fourth to the Northfield Military Band.

The concerts given annually by the Woodfield School of Music Choral and Orchestral Society, Gloucester, are always pleasant functions, and are invariably well attended. That given on the 10th ult. was no exception. Bennett's 'May Queen' was well performed by a full band and chorus of over 200, and the principals were Miss Kate Woodman (soprano), Miss May Yeoman (contralto), Mr. Stephen Wall (tenor), and Mr. A. Trowbridge, of Wells Cathedral (bass). The programme included Mendelssohn's 'Scotch Symphony.'

The Stonehouse Philharmonic Society, which is conducted by Mr. A. W. Keys, gave a creditable performance of Handel's 'Judas Maccabæus,' at the Subscription Rooms, also on the 10th ult. There was a small but efficient band; and the soloists were Miss Susan Harrhy, Miss Fanny Stephens, Mr. C. Eynon Morgan (Gloucester Cathedral), and Mr. F. Lightowler.

The sudden death of Dr. A. E. Dyer, of Cheltenham, who expired in the street of that town on the 10th ult., whilst speaking to a friend, caused quite a shock to musicians all over the County of Gloucester. As musical director of Cheltenham College, Dr. Dyer was very widely known, and he frequently conducted works of his own composition.

Sir Hubert Parry has set to music for the members of the Gloucester Orpheus Society some verses written for the Coronation by Mr. H. Godwin Chance. As a member of the Society, Mr. Chance is proud to find himself associated in this way with the genial director of the Royal College of Music.

MUSIC IN LIVERPOOL AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The third and last concert of the Hallé Concerts Society's season took place on March 25, when the programme included Beethoven's 'Leonora' overture, Tschaïkowsky's 'Pathétique' symphony, the humoresque for orchestra ('Till Eulenspiegel's Lustige Streiche') of Richard Strauss, Elgar's 'Cockaigne' overture, and Dvorák's Rhapsody in A flat (Op. 45, No. 3.) Chief curiosity centred in the Strauss number, which was played under Dr. Richter in a manner which denoted the fullest appreciation of its kaleidoscopic character.

The third annual festival, on the 15th ult., of the Liverpool Church Choir Association was in every way a more successful affair than either of those foregoing. As before, St. George's Hall was requisitioned, and the enormous auditorium was crowded. Your readers will remember that the Liverpool Choir Association aims, by the medium of a great annual amalgamation of the choirs of Liverpool and district for the united performance of Church music, at the improvement of the musical portion of the service. The united choir on this occasion numbered 650 voices, drawn from the chancels of some of the more prominent local edifices. The soloists were Master James Baines (St. Saviour's, Falkner Square), Mr. Ernest Percival (St. Matthew and St. James's, Mossley Hill), Mr. Harper Kearton (Westminster Abbey), and Mr. Frederick Ranalow (Westminster Abbey). Dr. A. L. Peace was at the organ, and Mr. H. A. Branscombe conducted; first and second trumpets, tenor and bass trombones, and kettle-drums were employed to strengthen the accompaniments. The programme included Handel's Coronation anthem 'Zadok the Priest,' Dr. Varley Roberts's Te Deum in E (the performance of which the composer conducted), Garrett's setting in B flat of the Nicene Creed, the Magnificat and Nunc dimittis of Hopkins in F, Sullivan's anthem 'Sing, O Heavens,' Goss's 'O Saviour of the World,' and Beethoven's 'Hallelujah' Chorus. The Festival has a most worthy object, and the officials of the Association are doing a good work and have a worthy ambition.

The Liverpool Musical Society provided Gounod's 'Redemption' (1st and 2nd parts) and Rossini's 'Stabat Mater,' at St. George's Hall, on Good Friday evening, March 28, when Miss Jenny Taggart and Miss Maud Foreshaw made successful first appearances as soloists with this Society. Mr. Henry Brearley and Mr. Bantock Pierpoint also sang. The band and chorus were 350 in number, with Mr. T. Shaw as leader, Mr. D. O. Parry as conductor, and Mr. E. Townshend Driffield as organist. The performance of 'Elijah,' at the Institute, on the 4th ult., by the Aintree Musical Society, revealed a meritorious ensemble. The principals were Mr. Herbert Brown, Mr. Kendal Clarkson, Miss Grace Collins, and Miss Bessie White. Miss Collins also successfully assisted during the month the Liscard Orchestral Society, at another of their interesting concerts. Miss Gertrude Sichel, Miss Alice Walker, Mr. Ernest Lunt, and Mr. Bantock Pierpoint were the principals at the free performance of Handel's 'Messiah,' in St. George's Hall, on Good Friday, when there was the usual enormous gathering. The conductor was Mr. J. C. Clarke, and the organist Mr. Branscombe.

Mr. Schiever's last concert of the season took place on the 19th ult., when a programme of the usually well-chosen order was presented. It included Mozart's Quartet in C and Beethoven's Quartet (Op. 131) in C sharp minor. A new pianoforte quartet was presented for the first time. It is from the pen of Mr. Cyril Meir Scott, who progresses with quickness towards fame.

It appears that Dr. Richter has been approached with the object of inducing him to conduct performances of 'Der Ring des Nibelungen,' in the great Theatre at New Brighton Tower, which, built on the Bayreuth lines, is admirably adapted for the purpose. Dr. Richter, having seen the building, and satisfied himself of its acoustic fitness, has expressed his willingness to co-operate.

MUSIC IN MANCHESTER.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The public examinations of the students of our Royal College annually afford us a little festival of music which comes very agreeably after the termination of the concert season. This spring, in the midst of the three miscellaneous programmes of concerted, vocal and instrumental works, intermingled with much highly creditable solo singing and playing, the splendid new Whitworth Hall of the Owens College was crowded for the recital, with full band, of Mozart's 'Don Giovanni,' under the conductorship of Dr. Brodsky. Several of the parts were admirably rendered, especially that of Leporello by Mr. Fowler Burton, and that of Donna Anna by Miss Blanche Cooper, who entered thoroughly into the spirit of her work. Miss Milly Jones, also, infused a proper coquettish life into the lighter character of Zerlina. Distinguishable among the performances given in the smaller concert-room of the College in the last week of March, were the violin playing of Dora Hochstein, Arthur Catterall, Clara Kloberg, and Jessie Morris, all pupils of the Principal; the pianoforte playing of Elizabeth Muirhead (Miss Neruda) and of Augustus Mayhew (Mr. Dayas); the organ performance of Frank Radcliffe (Dr. Pyne), and the violoncello playing of E. Hatton and W. Warburton, both pupils of Mr. Carl Fuchs.

The return to his native city of Mr. Rudolph Bauerkeller, after a prolonged training under the direction of Herr Joachim, naturally drew a very friendly audience to the first public appearance of the son of a highly-esteemed violinist for many years settled among us, and excited warm hope for the success of the talented young aspirant. For the concluding meeting, on the 4th ult., of his male-voice choir, Mr. E. Sachs secured the aid of the capital quartet of horns of the Hallé orchestra, and so was able to introduce several novelties.

To the list of forthcoming vocal competitions given in the April issue of THE MUSICAL TIMES, may be added the very important undertaking for June 7, fostered by the Union of Nonconformist choirs over which Mr. Granville Humphreys presides, and the yet greater meeting to be held on the following Saturday at New Brighton under distinguished auspices.

MUSIC IN NORTHUMBERLAND AND DURHAM.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

On March 21, the Newcastle Postal Telegraph Choral Society gave its second concert of the season in the Town Hall, Newcastle, the principal work performed being Gade's cantata 'Psyche.' Mr. J. E. Hutchinson conducted.

Mendelssohn's 'Elijah' was the work selected by the Consett Philharmonic Society for its final concert of the season, which was given in the New Town Hall, Consett, on the 2nd ult. The soloists were Miss Margaret Cooper, Madame Bellas Dryden, Mr. W. H. Plevy, and Mr. Dan Price. Mr. George P. Stephenson, who conducted, is to be commended for his praiseworthy efforts to popularise good music in Consett and the surrounding district.

The Tynemouth Amateur Vocal Society, which, under the able conductorship of Mr. M. Fairs, has recently shown signs of increased vitality, gave, for its second concert of the season, Spohr's 'Last Judgment' and Villiers Stanford's 'The Last Post,' with Madame Ruth Lamb, Miss Marie Fairs, Mr. Edwin Kellett, and Mr. W. Thornton as principal vocalists. The concert was given in the Tynemouth Palace on the 9th ult., and there was a very large attendance. Both works were performed in a very creditable manner. Mr. J. H. Beers led the orchestra, and Miss Lily Forrest presided at the pianoforte.

On the 10th ult., the Berwick Choral Union produced, at its annual concert in the Corn Exchange, Berwick, Gaul's 'Una,' with Miss Maggie Wilson, Miss Maggie Hobbs, Mr. Austin Mahoney, and Mr. E. E. Joynes, as soloists. Miss Barker officiated as accompanist, and Mr. W. S. Clarke conducted.

Henry Smart's 'Bride of Dunkerron,' which has not been heard in this district for a considerable time, was performed in the Benwell Parish Hall on the 14th ult., by the Benwell Choral Society, under the conductorship of Mr. W. Orde. The solos were very successfully sung by Madame Annie Carswell, Mr. Edwin Kellett, and Mr. Robert Burnett. The Society is small, numerically, but it is doing a useful work.

The concerts of the Auckland Musical Society are always enjoyable, both from the points of view of the programme and the performance. On the 16th ult., Mr. Kilburn set before his audience Schumann's New Year's Song, and W. H. Speer's 'The Jackdaw of Rheims,' while the orchestral selections included Gade's Symphony in B flat (Op. 20), and Elgar's Pomp and Circumstance marches. Mr. A. W. Arlom played the solo part in Bach's Suite in B minor, for flute and orchestra, and the vocalists were Miss Esmé Atherden and Mr. Norman Ridley. Mr. Kilburn conducted with his usual enthusiasm and artistic insight.

MUSIC IN SHEFFIELD AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The Stonebroom and District Choral Society is the outcome of an attempt to provide Mid-Derbyshire with an organization capable of performing the standard works on an adequate scale. It was formed last January, and now numbers 120 singing members, drawn from all parts of the county. Its foundation was due to the initiative of Dr. S. B. Siddall, who, as secretary and chorus-master, is entitled to a large share of the success of the Society's début, which took place in the Town Hall, Alfreton, on the 16th ult. 'Elijah' was the work performed, and for that occasion Dr. Siddall handed over the direction to Mr. A. E. Bonser, who conducted an admirable rendering of the oratorio. The qualities of the chorus, exemplified alike in material and training, were of a grade distinctly above the average of country choral societies, and if the present efficiency can be maintained, music in Mid-Derbyshire should receive a very marked impetus. The soloists were Miss Maggie Jaques, Miss E. Dennis, Mr. A. Dawes, and Mr. J. Lycett. A fine band was led by Mr. J. E. Pickerill.

The spring concert of the Sheffield Male Glee and Madrigal Society, on the 15th ult., afforded scope for the display of some finished unaccompanied part-singing. Huntley's madrigal, 'Come, sweet lass,' Goss's glee, 'Hark, heard ye not,' A. Thomas's descriptive part-song, 'The Tyrol,' John E. West's dainty 'Beware,' and a new part-song, 'Merrily every bosom boundeth,' by the Society's conductor, Mr. J. A. Rodgers, were among the principal items sung by the choir. Madame Belle Cole was the vocalist, and Mr. John Dunn played some violin solos.

The latter end of the month saw concerts given by the Sheffield Choral Union, which performed Sullivan's 'Martyr of Antioch' and Barnby's 'Rebekah,' under Mr. S. Suckley's direction, and the St. Peter's (Abbeydale) Choral Society (Mr. W. Gadsby). The last-named included Macfarren's 'May Day' and Lloyd's 'Hero and Leander' in an interesting programme. The Walkley Musical Society, a body also doing excellent work, performed Haydn's 'The Creation,' under Mr. W. Brown.

Amateur Instrumental Societies, of which there are several flourishing examples in the city and district, have played a prominent part in the month's music. The concert of the Sheffield Amateur Instrumental Society, given on the 17th ult., under Mr. H. Dean's excellent direction, was entirely successful, the band, in Mozart's Symphony in E flat, Beethoven's 'Fidelio' overture, and other pieces, displaying qualities of a distinctly high order. An interesting feature was Taubert's 'Love Song' for oboe solo (Mr. W. Brooke) and strings. The Heeley Orchestral Society, which, under Mr. W. Chapman, is rapidly progressing, gave an enjoyable concert on the preceding evening, playing Mozart's 'Magic flute' overture, Matt's 'Rural scenes,' and works by Herman and Henry Parker. The Brincliffe Musical Society's concert was fixed for too late a date in the month for detailed inclusion in this letter, but the programme, which included two works by Professor Prout—viz., the Symphony No. 3 in F and 'Triumphal March' was of more than usual attractiveness, and afforded fresh proof of Mr. J. H. Parkes's enthusiasm and enterprise.

MUSIC IN YORKSHIRE.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The winding-up of the season is all that has to be recorded of music in Yorkshire, which from Easter onwards is chiefly concerned with the al fresco performances of bands in parks and on piers. On March 21, two important choral societies brought their season to a close. The Leeds Philharmonic Society gave an excellent performance of Berlioz' 'Faust,' the variety and strong contrasts of which were well brought out by Dr. Stanford, while the artistic singing of the chorus spoke volumes for Mr. Fricker's work as choirmaster. The Hallé orchestra was, of course, thoroughly at home in the music, and the soloists, if less satisfying in some respects, were at least efficient. Miss Ethel Wood sang with much dramatic feeling, but was not perfectly suited to the part of Margaret; while Mr. Brearley took the tenor part at short notice. Mr. Andrew Black was, if possible, better than usual as Mephistopheles, and Mr. C Knowles made a powerful and incisive Brander. On the same evening, the Bradford Festival Choral Society, conducted by Dr. Cowen, gave Elgar's 'King Olaf' and Goring Thomas's 'Swan and the Skylark.' The chorus was good, if not at its best, but the Bradford Permanent Orchestra did its work exceedingly well. Miss Gleeson White, Miss Edna Thornton, Mr. C. Saunders, and Mr. Atherton Smith were the principal vocalists.

Resuming a most admirable practice, the Leeds Parish Church gave, on the Monday in Holy Week, a special service, at which Bach's 'St. Matthew' Passion was performed. There was no orchestra, nor any conductor, but Mr. Alfred Benton went far to supply the place of both by his judicious organ-playing. Perfect precision was, under these circumstances, not easily attainable, and it was the more creditable that it was on the whole so nearly reached. Of the soloists, the most successful in realising the character of the music was Mr. Browning, who sang the Saviour's words with reverence and sympathy.

On the 10th ult., a performance of 'Alexander's Feast' was undertaken by the St. Chad's Choral Society, Leeds. It was on a small scale, but deserves notice as a revival of a characteristic and interesting Handelian work. Mr. Percy Richardson conducted.

The Dewsbury Choral Society gave an interesting miscellaneous concert on March 25. The Society's new conductor, Mr. Fricker, contributed a setting of Psalm cxlviii., for chorus and orchestra, whose great merit was its suitability for showing off a powerful West Riding chorus. It is straightforward, vigorous music, as jubilant as the psalm itself, and for this reason lacking something, from a musical point of view, in point of contrast, while in style it reflects the solidity of the old English school of church composers. MacCunn's 'Lord Ullin's Daughter,' and Elgar's delightfully bright and gay choral suite, 'Scenes from the Bavarian Highlands,' were the other choral pieces, and were sung with the force and vigour that always distinguish the Dewsbury singers. Miss Ethel Wood was the vocalist, and Mr. E. Elliott was both leader and solo violinist.

On March 26, the last of the Halifax Chamber Concerts took place. Mozart's D minor Quartet displayed Mr. Rawdon Briggs' string quartet party in the happiest possible light, and they were very successful in Schumann's Quartet in A minor. Mr. H. F. Webster was, as usual, the pianist, and Mr. Fowler Burton, a singer with a powerful baritone voice, gave a series of songs, the selection and singing of which indicated exceptional artistic intelligence.

On Saturday, the 19th ult., the Clarion Vocal Union, an association of small choirs in Yorkshire and Lancashire, gave its annual concert and contest at Halifax. The quality of the eight choirs that competed was not what one is accustomed to in this part of the world, and it was evident that one of the chief merits of the Union is that it touches a different stratum than that of the ordinary choral society. Though tone and tune were capable of improvement, there was much precision in the singing, and the conductor's beat was closely followed by each choir. The judge, Mr. H. H. Pickard, of Leeds, had no difficulty in awarding the challenge baton to the Keighley choir, conducted by Mr. Wilkinson, for its superiority over all its rivals was most evident.

The final Subscription Concert at Huddersfield took place on March 25, when Mr. Edgar Haddock took his orchestra over from Leeds to supply the programme. The York Symphony Society, an amateur orchestra which, under Mr. T. T. Noble's teaching, has developed a considerable degree of efficiency, gave a concert on the 10th ult. Bruch's Violin Concerto in G minor was played by Mr. P. V. Sharman, and Weber's Concertstück by Mr. Padel, while Sullivan's 'Masque' and Grieg's 'Peer Gynt' Suite were given by the orchestra with marked refinement.

Miscellaneous.

The annual report of the Christchurch Musical Union (New Zealand) for 1901 is a very satisfactory one. The chief works that have been performed are Beethoven's 'Ruin of Athens,' Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha's Wedding-Feast,' Gade's 'Psyche,' Handel's 'Messiah,' Beethoven's 'Eroica' and Haydn's 'Clock' Symphonies, in addition to a large number of other orchestral works—the performances of which have reflected great credit on the excellent conductor of the Society, Mr. F. M. Wallace. Moreover, there is a cash balance on the right side, in addition to assets valued at £255 18s., and liabilities nil. Such results call for hearty congratulation, which is cordially sent across the seas to the conductor and members of the Christchurch Musical Union.

A Celtic opera, entitled 'Eos and Gwevril,' composed by Mr. Vincent Thomas, was produced at St. George's Hall, on the 18th and 19th ult., with a fair amount of success. There is a certain amount of originality in the writing, and the work is scored with a musicianly hand. Some folk-tunes are cleverly used, and the music at times reaches a very high standard. The principal parts were satisfactorily represented by Miss Ruth Vincent, Mr. Henry Franckiss, Mr. Joseph Payne, and Mr. F. H. Gould, and the performances were ably conducted by the composer.

Miss Jessie Grimson informs us that she has formed a string quartet party, all the players being of English nationality. The 'Miss Jessie Grimson String Quartet' will make their first appearance at Bechstein Hall on the evening of the 16th inst., when the programme will include a new string quartet by a British composer. All success to the new venture.

The following prizes have been awarded at the Royal Academy of Music: — The Louisa Hopkins Memorial Prize, for pianoforte playing, to Violet L. Stewart (a native of Allahabad, India); and the Charles Mortimer Prize, for composition, to Benjamin James Dale.

Dr. Edward Elgar, who resides in the Midlands, in testifying to the warm interest which he takes in the work of the Midland Institute School, has accepted the office of Visitor to the Midland Institute School of Music.

Mr. J. R. Griffiths contributed to the Nonconformist Musical Journal for April an interesting article on the hymn-tune called 'Munich,' but better known as the chorale used by Mendelssohn in his 'Elijah' to the words 'Cast thy burden upon the Lord.'

Mr. C. Welch took the subject of 'Hamlet and the Recorders' (Hamlet, Act iii., Scene 2) for his lecture delivered before the Musical Association on the 8th ult.

Mr. F. H. Torrington, of Toronto, is, we are glad to hear, soon to receive the honorary degree of Doctor of Music from the University of that city.

Foreign Notes.

Aix-la-Chapelle.—A new work for chorus, soli, and orchestra, by F. E. Koch, entitled 'Sonnenlied,' was produced for the first time, with much success, at the last subscription concert of the season of the Musik Verein, under the conductorship of Professor Schwickerath.

Antwerp.—A very successful performance took place on the 6th ult., by the Choral Society under M. de Bom's direction, of the oratorio 'The Rhine' ('De Rhyn'), by Peter Benoit, one of the last and most mature works of the Flemish master.

Berlin.—A very successful concert was given, at the Singakademie, of a number of excerpts of Xaver Scharwenka's new opera 'Mataswinta,' Professor Scharwenka also playing with his accustomed artistic finish, the C sharp minor Pianoforte Concerto from his pen with the co-operation of the Tonkünstler Orchestra. A new one-act opera, 'Der Wald,' by Miss Ethel M. Smyth, was brought out at the Royal Opera, under Dr. Muck's direction, on the 9th ult., and received with some favour. This is the second operatic work by this talented lady, who is a daughter of General Smyth, and whose musical studies were made under H. von Herzogenberg, at Leipzig.

Brussels.—Massenet's new opera 'Griseldis,' has been brought out at the Théâtre de la Monnaie with brilliant success.——At the last Conservatoire concert of the season a fine performance was given, under M. Gevaert's direction, of Gluck's 'Alceste,' chorus and orchestra particularly distinguishing themselves. An excellent reception has been given to the young English pianist, Mr. Vowles, at his pianoforte recital at the Salle Le Roy.

Budapest.—Mendelssohn's 'Elijah,' which had not been heard here for twenty years, was given an excellent performance on March 26, by the Verein der Musikfreunde, under Herr Bellovics's direction.

Chemnitz.—A most impressive first performance of Liszt's oratorio, 'Christus,' was given on March 28, in the St. Jacobi-Kirche, by the Choral Society under the direction of Herr Mayerhoff, the church being completely filled on the occasion.

Dresden.—At a recent symphony concert of the Gewerbehaus Orchestra, two new compositions, viz., a Symphonic Poem, by Schulz-Beuthen, and an Orchestral Suite by Oscar Kœhler, met with the unqualified approval of the audience.

Elberfeld.—The young pianoforte virtuoso, Raoul Koczalski, has completed the score of a three-act opera, entitled 'Rymond,' which is to be first brought out at the Stadt Theater, and has also been accepted for performance at Cologne and Geneva.

Graz.—Richard Strauss, whose symphonic poems Graz amateurs were amongst the first to appreciate, has just given a recital of his songs, with the co-operation of his gifted wife, both being received with enthusiastic applause.

Guben.—Heinrich Hofmann's 'Prometheus' was the work chosen for performance at the recent festival concert, in celebration of the fortieth anniversary of the foundation of the Gesangverein.

Leipzig.—A new violoncello concerto with orchestral accompaniment, by G. Gutheil, was heard for the first time at a concert given by Herr Julius Klengel. The Leipzig Liedertafel has just celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of its foundation by a festival concert, at which Paul Umlauff's melodious cantata, 'Agandecca' was impressively rendered under the composer's direction.

Lille.—The present concert season came to a brilliant close last month, with the performance, under M. Maquet's direction, of Gounod's oratorio, 'The Redemption.' The Hippodrome, where the performance took place, was crowded by a most enthusiastic audience, which at the conclusion of the work gave vent to its feelings by salvos of applause.

Lisbon.—Signor Mancinelli's 'Hero and Leander' was given for the first time, recently, at the San Carlos Theatre, under the composer's direction, with complete success. The work also has been much praised in the leading organs of the press.

Louvain.—At one of the recent Concerts Spirituels, under M. Dubois's direction, the interesting programme included the 'Improperia,' by Palestrina, the 'O vos omnes,' by Vittoria, and two sacred choral songs by Edgar Tinel. A new composition, for a solo voice with orchestra, entitled 'L'Idylle mystique,' by the young Belgian composer, Joseph Reylandt, finely sung by Mdlle. Jeanne Bourgeois, was very favourably received.

Milan.—A new opera, 'Germania,' by Alberto Franchetti, has been brought out at the Theatre della Scala with considerable success. The action is laid in Germany, during the period of the wars of liberation from Napoleonic dominion, and introduces many historical characters, as well as some of the patriotic songs, notably those of C. M. von Weber. The performance, under Signor Toscanini, was most praiseworthy

Munich.—The last popular concert, under Sigmund von Hausegger's direction, included the latter's symphonic poem, 'Barbarossa,' as well as the first performance of two very effective songs, with orchestral accompaniment, by the young Munich composer, Ernst Boehe. At a recent Academy Concert, the conductor, Herr Zumpe, gave a most impressive reading of the symphonic dirge 'Kaiser Rudolph's Ritt zum Grabe,' by the late Alexander Ritter, while an attractive feature also was the recitation, by Herr von Possart, of Wildenbruch's 'Hexenlied,' and Schiller's 'Eleusisches Fest,' for which Max Schillings has written some effective melodramatic music. In memory of the late Joseph Rheinberger, a performance took place at the Mariahilf-Kirche of that composer's grand Mass in C, for soli, chorus, and orchestra.

Nancy.—Bach's 'St. John' Passion was performed recently, for the first time, by the Choral Society under the able conductorship of M. Guy Ropartz. The noble work, which is as yet almost unknown in France, was given with much spirit, and produced a profound impression.

Paris.—The interest taken by French music-lovers in the compositions of César Franck appears to be decidedly on the increase, and a number of that remarkable, if somewhat erratic master's compositions have been vouchsafed a hearing at the leading concert institutions during the past few weeks. These included the D minor Symphony, the oratorio 'La Rédemption,' the symphonic poem 'Psyché,' for orchestra and chorus, and the Quintet in F minor. A fine performance of Bach's Mass in B minor was given at the Conservatoire on the 6th ult. At the Colonne concert of the 10th ult., two piquant and effective novelties were introduced from the pen of M. A. Périlhou, viz., a Berceuse Catalane, for violoncello and orchestra, and a Passepied, for violin and harp. Madame Ida Ekman, the Finnish vocalist, appeared for the first time, and in a number of songs was enthusiastically applauded.——A series of performances of Bach's works, including some of the master's cantatas, has recently been given by the excellent choir and orchestra of the Schola Cantorum, under M. Vincent d'Indy's direction, and with the co-operation of that eminent organist, M. Alexandre Guilmant. A 'mystère sacré,' 'La Passion,' by the Abbé Touin, the music by Alexandre Georges, brought out at the Nouveau Théâtre during Passion Week, has been attracting enormous audiences.

Posen.—A very fine performance of Friedrich Kiel's now seldom-heard oratorio, 'Christus,' has recently been given by the old-established Hennig'sche Gesangverein, and with very efficient interpreters of the important solo parts.

Recklinghausen.—An excellent performance of Handel's oratorio, 'Joshua,' was given last month by the Musik Verein. Under the zealous direction of Musik-director Arno Schütze, this Institution has attained a prominent position amongst German choirs, and its performances have become a feature of attraction to music-lovers from all parts.

Rome.—The opera 'Griselda,' by the veteran composer Giulio Cottrau, recently produced for the first time at the Teatro Adriano, before a select audience, has met with considerable success, which has been accentuated by subsequent performances. The work, which was written as far back as 1876, is rich in genuine melodic inspiration and effectively instrumented. Many numbers were re-demanded, and the composer, who was present, received an ovation from the audience.

St. Petersburg.—A new one-act opera, 'La Vengeance d'Amour,' by Alexandre Taneïew, has been successfully brought out at the Théâtre de l'Ermitage. The piece contains only female characters!

Strassburg.—An impressive performance of Astorga's 'Stabat Mater' was given during Passion Week by the newly-formed Church Music Choir, under Musik-director Roothan's conductorship.

Stuttgart.—In memory of the late Georg Vierling, two successful performances were given last month of that composer's oratorio, 'Alarich,' by the Neue Singverein, conducted by Professor Seyffardt.——Under the patronage of the King of Wurtemberg, a committee has been formed for the erection of a monument to Franz Liszt in the public gardens adjoining the royal palace.

Tammerfors (Finland).—Haydn's 'The Creation' has just been produced, for the first time, by a select choir under the direction of Herr Hellmesberger.

The Hague.—An excellent and much appreciated performance of Handel's 'Alexander's Feast' was given, on the 2nd ult., by the Maatschappy tot Bevordering der Toonkunst, under the able direction of M. Anton Verhey. Madame Noordewier-Reddingius, and MM. Humalda and Messchaert were the solo vocalists.

Wiesbaden.—Highly successful first performances have recently taken place at the Hoftheater of Klughardt's oratorio, 'Judith,' under Herr Schlar's direction, and of Berlioz's 'Requiem,' under that of Capellmeister Mannstaedt.

Zürich.—At a recent meeting of the Academical Literary and Musical Society, much interest was created by the performance of a number of representative English folk-songs, arranged, partly for mixed voices unaccompanied, and partly for two voices, with pianoforte accompaniment, by Musik-director Kissner. The performance was received with vociferous applause, as well as demonstrations of affectionate regard for the venerable, but still very active, Herr Kissner, who is in his eighty-eighth year.

Correspondence.

ENOCH HAWKINS—THE SINGER.

TO THE EDITOR OF 'THE MUSICAL TIMES.'

Sir,—I am surprised that the writer of the account, in your last issue, of the Round, Catch, and Canon Club, should have alluded to its founder as 'one Enoch Hawkins.' Why, Hawkins was not only a member of the three Metropolitan choirs, but also the finest counter-tenor singer of his day, and, as such, in constant request at all the important London concerts and provincial music-meetings.

From 1830 to 1838 he was engaged at St. Paul's, as an extra singer, at an annual stipend of £50, in addition to the six vicars choral, who, in those days, constituted the adult professional staff. He was never one of their deputies. Soon afterwards, he was appointed Gentleman of the Chapel Royal and lay vicar of Westminster Abbey, retaining these posts until his death.

In 1843, Hawkins became associated with James Calvert, the first choirmaster at the Temple, in the formation of a surpliced choir for cathedral service in that newly-restored church. Calvert resigned his post, soon after the opening, for a similar one at the Cathedral, Spanish Town, Jamaica, where he had a surpliced choir of black boys. One of his predecessors at Spanish Town was John Scott, composer of the well-known anthem 'Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem,' a pupil of Dr. Arnold and for some time his deputy at Westminster Abbey.

Hawkins was President of the Adelphi Glee Club, which, established in 1833, held its meetings at the London Coffee House on Ludgate Hill. At Hawkins' suggestion, Thomas Ludford Bellamy undertook, in 1840, the compilation of a book, 'The Lyric Poetry of Glees, Madrigals, Catches, Rounds, Canons, and Duets'—a useful supplement to works of a similar nature by Richard Clark and Robert Leete. I possess a series of letters, admirable in diction and penmanship, written by Hawkins to Miss Hackett, with whom he was associated during the 'thirties' and early 'forties' in the arrangement of various musical gatherings at the then newly-restored Crosby Hall, Bishopsgate Street.

Hawkins died, universally regretted, after a short, sudden, and painful illness, at 18, Gloucester Place, Marylebone Road, on January 9, 1847, aged 50, and ten days later he was buried with an impressive choral funeral near Dupuis, Cooke, Bartleman, and Vaughan, in the West ambulatory of the cloisters of Westminster Abbey, where a mural tablet was afterwards erected to his memory by the members of the Adelphi Glee Club.

Dr. W. H. Monk, for many years my neighbour here, in Stoke Newington, used often to talk to me about the Abbey services, at which, when he lived in Grosvenor Street during the 'forties,' he was a constant attendant. He used to say that Hawkins's singing of such things as Purcell's 'I was glad' and 'That I may see the felicity,' Croft's 'Whither shall I go, then, from Thy presence?' Greene's 'Acquaint thyself' and 'Have mercy upon me,' Handel's 'O thou that tellest,' and Boyce's 'Teach me, O Lord,' always produced a great impression upon him, and he retained a vivid recollection of it.

An appreciation of Hawkins—he seems to have been a devout and consistent churchman in his day and generation—together with an account of his funeral, appeared in The Parish Choir, a monthly periodical devoted to the improvement of church music. It was written by the Rev. Sir W. H. Cope, from 1842 to 1853, librarian and one of the Minor Canons of Westminster.

Beyond two hymn tunes, contributed in 1834 to Vincent Novello's 'Psalmist,' I am unable to name any published compositions of Hawkins', sacred or secular. He was succeeded in his appointments at the Chapel Royal and Westminster Abbey by the late Mr. Robert Barnby, who had previously officiated as deputy at the Chapel Royal and (if I mistake not) at St. Paul's also, for Mr. Hawes.

Glebelands,
Stoke Newington,
April 2, 1902.

Yours faithfully,
John S. Bumpus.

THE IRISH ORIGIN OF SHIELD'S 'ARETHUSA.'

TO THE EDITOR OF 'THE MUSICAL TIMES.'

Dear Sir,—In the notice given of Mr. W. H. Bell's orchestral tone pictures, performed at the Philharmonic Society's concert, reference is made to the second movement in which the motif is 'The Arethusa.' As much new matter regarding the history of this song has been unearthed since Mr. Kidson's paper on it appeared in The Musical Times for October, 1894, I think it only right to assert Ireland's undoubted claim for the air, which, in its present form, was given to William Shield by his Irish friend, John O'Keeffe, the great playwright. Mr. Alfred Moffat has well vindicated the claim of O'Carolan to the authorship of this fine tune, Englished as 'The Princess Royal,' and he mentions the fact that O'Farrell, in his 'Companion for the Irish or Union Pipes,' published circ. 1810, heads it 'Air by Carolan.' Bunting got it in 1800 from Arthur O'Neill, and states that the name 'Princess Royal' was given it as 'having been composed by Turlogh O'Carolan for the daughter of the MacDermot Roe,' who was the hereditary Prince of Coolavin — a title now merged into that of 'The MacDermot,' and borne to-day by the ex-Attorney General for Ireland, just as 'The O'Conor Don' is de jure an hereditary Irish Prince.

The English words of 'The Princess Royal' were written by Prince Hoare, but the old Irish name for this tune is 'Bainprionnsa Riogamuil.' It was composed by O'Carolan about the year 1700, for Madame MacDermot Roe (Roe being an Anglicised corruption of the Irish word Ruaidh = Red, in contradistinction to Donn = Brown), who was rightfully the Princess of Coolavin, or Princess Royal. He composed another lovely song for the wife of Henry, son of the Prince of Coolavin, and a third for their son-in-law, Robert Maguire, an air known as 'Planxty Maguire.' His 'Fanny Power' was written for Miss Fanny Power, subsequently Mrs. Frederick Trench, mother of Lord Clancarty. As is well known, Turlogh O'Carolan died at the house of Madame MacDermot, on March 25, 1738.

There are ten or eleven different Irish and English versions, dating from 1700 to 1810, adapted to O'Carolan's tune. As early as the year 1743 (sixty-seven years before the date assigned by Mr. Moffat), William Mainwaring published this air at 'Corelli's Head, College Green, Dublin,' and a second issue appeared in his Monthly Masque, in 1751.

Yours very truly,
Wm. H. Grattan Flood.

April 14, 1902.

Brief Summary of Country and Colonial News.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this summary, as the notices are either collated from local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

Ashburton.—The annual concert of the Choral and Orchestral Society, directed by Mr. Harold O. Jones, took place in the Market Hall, on the 2nd ult., when Mendelssohn's 'St. Paul' was successfully performed, together with a miscellaneous selection, which included German's 'Coronation March,' Elgar's Mazurka in D minor, and Gounod's 'Funeral March of a Marionette.' The choir sang throughout with much spirit, and the orchestra was fully efficient. The principal vocalists were Madame Gillespie, Miss Clara Robson, Mr. Charles Saunders, and Mr. Charles Knowles.

Berkeley.—The Choral Society gave their concert in the Town Hall, on the 9th ult., when Van Bree's 'Ode on St. Cecilia's Day' and a miscellaneous selection were given. The solo vocalist was Miss Gertrude Davies, and Mr. George S. Evans conducted.

Brighton.—A new cantata, entitled 'The Storm Bird,' by Miss Emma Lomax, was produced at the School of Music, on the 9th ult., with considerable success. The music displays a good deal of dramatic power, and the writing for the orchestra is distinctly clever and highly descriptive. The work was efficiently performed by the orchestra and Ladies' Chorus, the solo parts being sung by Miss Rose Miller, Miss L. D. Wakeford, Miss Alice M. Bone, Miss Alice Cox, and Miss Agnes Newington.

Bromsgrove.—The second annual concert of the Musical Club was held in the Drill Hall, on the 2nd ult., when Haydn's 'Creation' was performed, together with a short miscellaneous selection, which included Schubert's 'Unfinished' Symphony. The choir sang with admirable precision and attack. The principal vocalists were Miss Aimée Wathen, Mr. Bennetts, and Mr. Slater. Much credit was due to Mr. Frank Docksey, who conducted, and that this was fully appreciated by the members of the Club was evident by the presentation to that gentleman, at the final rehearsal, of a handsome carved oak writing-table, together with an address.

Bruton.—The Choral Society of this little Somerset town gave their annual concert on the 3rd ult., when Mendelssohn's 'Hymn of Praise' and Stanford's 'Last Post' were the leading features of the programme. The choir of sixty singers was assisted by an excellent orchestra (led by Miss Heginbotham), the brass, wood-wind, and percussion being supplied by professional players from Bath and Bristol. The solo vocalists were Mrs. Grant and Mr. Miller. Mr. Rowland Hughes conducted.

Bungay.—The Choral Society, under the conductorship of Mr. Warder Harvey, was sufficiently ambitious to give Mendelssohn's 'Elijah' at their concert on the 9th ult., and, on the whole, success attended their efforts. The vocal quartet comprised Miss Alice Hamilton, Miss Cockrill, Mr. Louis Godfrey, and Mr. A. Foxton Ferguson, the accompaniments being played by a band led by Mr. F. W. B. Noverre.

Calne.—The annual concert of the Musical Society was given, on the 1st ult., at the Town Hall, when Mendelssohn's oratorio 'St. Paul' was effectively performed, with full orchestra (led by Mr. J. W. Duys), and chorus. The solo vocalists were Master Craven, Miss Florence Evans, Mr. George Banks, and Mr. W. J. Ineson. The spirited and finished rendering of the choruses indicated the careful training bestowed on the choir by the conductor, Mr. W. R. Pullein.

Chesterfield.—The Orchestral Society gave its ninth annual concert, in the Stephenson Memorial Hall, on the 9th ult. The programme included Mendelssohn's overture 'Ruy Blas,' Tschaïkowsky's 'Casse Noisette' suite, Mozart's 'Jupiter' symphony, 'Dance of Nymphs and Reapers,' from Sullivan's 'Tempest' music, and a selection from Meyerbeer's 'Robert le Diable,' all of which were successfully rendered by the orchestra. Miss Clara Gilbert and Mr. Arthur Barlow were the vocalists, Mr. Percy Such, solo violoncellist, and Mr. H. N. Biggin conducted.

Devizes.—The Musical Society gave their last concert of the season in the Corn Exchange on the 16th ult. The programme consisted of Mendelssohn's 'Hymn of Praise,' and parts 1 and 2 of Haydn's 'Creation.' Miss Marjorie Eaton, Mr. Wilfrid Kearton, and Mr. Bell Kempton were the solo vocalists. The excellent band and chorus numbered over 100 performers, and Mr. H. H. Baker conducted.

Dorchester.—The Vocal Association, under the able conductorship of Mr. Edgar A. Lane, concluded its thirty-first season with a very successful performance of Gade's beautiful cantata, 'The Crusaders.' The principal vocalists were Miss Cecile Vicars, Mr. Gerald Lee, and Mr. Montague Borwell. Mr. W. Stone led the orchestra, and Miss Osmund proved an efficient accompanist.

Dover.—Mr. Wilfred Barclay gave his second orchestral concert this season at the Town Hall on the 9th ult. The orchestra of sixty-five performers was composed of the Dover Amateur Orchestral Society and a large contingent of the Band of the Royal Engineers. The programme consisted of Beethoven's Second Symphony, Wagner's 'Kaiser-Marsch,' the Ballet Music from Gounod's 'Faust,' Weber's 'Euryanthe' overture, 'Valse des Fleurs,' from the 'Casse-Noisette' Suite of Tschaïkowsky, and Elgar's Military March in D. Miss Greta Williams was the vocalist, and Miss Grace Evans, solo violoncellist. Mr. H. J. Taylor accompanied, and Mr. Wilfred Barclay conducted.

Downham Market.—A selection from Handel's 'Judas Maccabæus' formed the principal part of the programme at the Choral Society concert, on the 7th ult., when the band and chorus proved the careful training they had received at the hands of their conductor, Mr. G. H. Harvey. The soloists were Miss Maggie Purvis, Mr. Ben Johnson, and Mr. A. H. Gee.

Erdington.—The Chamber Concert Society gave their first concert in the Public Hall, on the 8th ult. The String Quartet—Mr. Reginald Chamberlain, Miss Kate Benson, Mr. W. E. Thomas, and Mr. A. H. Duncuff—played Beethoven's Quartet (Op. 18, No. 4), and an Adagio by Mozart (Mr. F. Madeley replacing Mr. Chamberlain). The solo vocalists were Miss Gertrude Yates and Mr. Hickman-Smith. Messrs. Madeley and Stevenson were excellent accompanists. ——On the 14th ult., Mr. H. M. Stevenson, Junr., gave his second musical evening, at the Public Hall, when he read a most interesting paper on Beethoven and Schubert. Among the musical illustrations must be specially mentioned the excellent singing of Miss Marguerite Gell and Mr. Hickman-Smith, and the brilliant pianoforte solos of Mr. Percy Stranders.

Henley-on-Thames.—The Choral Society closed its season, on the 16th ult., with a performance of Haydn's 'Creation.' The solo vocalists were Miss Amy Harding, Mr. Henry Beaumont and Mr. Henry Sunman. A small but efficient orchestra (led by Mr. Henry Lewis) added much to the success of the performance. At the last rehearsal, the conductor, Mr. W. G. Bayley, was presented by the members of the Society with a pair of handsome silver candlesticks, as a mark of their esteem and appreciation of his services.

Honiton.—The Choral Society gave their annual concert on the 17th ult., when Barnett's 'Paradise and the Peri' was given, followed by a miscellaneous programme. The principal vocalists were Miss Evelyn Cade, Miss Graddon, Mr. Dean Trotter, and Norman Kendall. Miss Read and Miss Smith played the violin and pianoforte respectively. The performance was conducted by Mr. R. W. Higgins.

Kettering.—The Choral Society concluded its season with a performance of Handel's 'Samson' on the 15th ult. The principal vocalists were Miss Perceval Allen, Miss May Hayden, Mr. Charles Saunders, and Mr. John Browning. Mr. Gotch conducted with his usual ability.

Launceston.—A special concert was given by the Choral Society, on the 4th ult., at the request of the Mayor, for the benefit of the fund for re-seating the Town Hall. The chief feature of the programme was Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha's Wedding Feast,' which was very efficiently performed under the direction of Mr. C. S. Parsonson, the solo sung by Mr. Charles Saunders.

Newtown.—The Harmonic and Orchestral Society gave a satisfactory performance of Handel's 'Judas Maccabæus (abridged), in the Victoria Hall, on the 11th ult. The solo vocalists were Miss Kate Cherry, Mr. E. St. Clare Barfield, and Mr. Ernest H. Ingram. The orchestra was led by Mr. A. J. Guest; Miss Mary A. Taylor acted as pianist, and Mr. J. Johnson presided at the harmonium. Mr. T. Mark Taylor conducted.

Newport (Mon.). — The Musical Society gave a miscellaneous concert, on the 17th ult., when the chief features were a 'Festival Ode' by Berthold Tours, and 'Evening' by Dr. Iliffe, both short works for contralto solo, chorus, and orchestra. Madame Kirkby Lunn sang the solos admirably, and excellent work was done by both band and chorus. Mr. E. G. R. Richards was the conductor, and he is to be congratulated on the success of the Society's first season.

Portsmouth.—The Borough Philharmonic Society gave its second concert this season, in the Town Hall, on the 17th ult., when Sullivan's 'Light of the World' was performed for the first time there. There was a full orchestra (led by Mr. M. Lewis) and choir, and the solo vocalists were Miss Kate Cherry, Miss Marie Bellas, Mr. Harry Stubbs, and Mr. Daniel Price. Mr. W. Monk Gould conducted.

Ruthin.—The Choral Society gave a concert on the 3rd ult., when 'Hiawatha's Wedding Feast' had an excellent rendering by a band and chorus of 120. The tenor solo was admirably sung by Mr. Fred Fallas. The concert concluded with Handel's Coronation Anthem, and was under the able direction of Mr. W. A. Lloyd.

Sidmouth.—The Choral and Orchestral Society gave their 27th annual concert on the 8th ult., when they performed Barnby's 'Rebekah,' and Barnett's 'Ancient Mariner.' The orchestra (led by Mr. R. H. Passmore) and choir numbered 100, and Mr. J. A. Bellamy conducted. The solo vocalists were Mrs. Herbert, Miss Jessie Beer, Mr. Albert Collins, and Mr. Norman Kendall, and the performance altogether was one of the most successful given by this Society.

Southampton.—The Philharmonic Society gave a very successful performance of Mendelssohn's 'Athalie' and Schubert's 'Song of Miriam,' with a short miscellaneous selection, at the Hartley Hall, on the 8th ult. The choir sang with excellent expression and attack, reflecting much credit on the training of the conductor, Mr. H. M. Pike, and the orchestra was fairly efficient. Madame Ruth Lamb was the principal solo vocalist, the other parts being sung by Mdlle. Rolda and Miss Ethel Home. Mr. Charles Fry was responsible for the illustrative verses in 'Athalie,' and also recited 'The Bells,' with Stanley Hawley's music ably played by Miss Beatrice Lonnon, who acted as accompanist throughout.

Stapleford.—The Choral Society gave a performance of 'Judas Maccabæus' at the Methodist Chapel on the 15th ult. The solo vocalists were Madame Annie Norledge, Miss Ethel Ball, Mr. George Sands, and Mr. Henry Dobson. Mr. F. Wyatt presided at the organ, and Mr. George Spencer conducted.

Worcester.—The Musical Society gave a highly interesting concert, mainly consisting of music of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries, in the Public Hall, on the 8th ult. The programme included the glees, 'Awake, Æolian lyre' (Danby), 'Amidst the myrtles' (Battishill), 'When winds breathe soft' (Webbe), 'The cloud-capt towers' (Stevens), and 'Hail, smiling morn' (Spofforth); madrigal, 'Come, let us join the roundelay' (Beale); part-songs, 'Purple glow' (Pearsall), 'My soul to God' (Leslie), 'When hands meet' (Pinsuti), 'You stole my love' (W. Macfarren), 'As torrents in summer' (Elgar), and 'The Vikings' (Faning). Appropriate vocal solos were contributed by Miss Marjorie Eaton and Mr. W. M. Dyson, and violoncello solos by Mr. J. E. R. Teague. Mr. W. Mann Dyson was an able conductor.

Answers to Correspondents.

C. B. H.—As you have 'a slight knowledge of the violin' you should work away at that instrument in order to qualify for admittance into an orchestra. In course of time you might become a 'musical director, or conductor of an orchestra'; but it is a little difficult for us to give information as to the 'amount of cash' you would require during the period of preparation, or as to how long before you could 'become competent to accept an engagement.' As to 'the best line to follow'—'the musical or theatrical profession'—we should say neither, presuming you are getting a living in some less precarious avocation.

T. G.—There are no English translations of Thayer's 'Life of Beethoven,' or Nottebohm's 'Beethoveniana.' The articles on Beethoven's sketch books to which you refer are probably those by Mr. J. S. Shedlock, which appeared in THE MUSICAL TIMES of June to December, 1892; January and September, 1893; and January, July, and September, 1894. Many thanks for your information in regard to the stage performances of Handel's 'Acis and Galatea' at Glasgow, 'about twenty-five years ago.'

L. P. C. S.—The conditions of 'Six short pieces of moderate length that harmonize well, and that are suitable for a quartet of mixed voices,' are fulfilled in the following:—'Boat Song' (Cowen), 'Stars of the Summer night' (Tours), 'The Haven' (Barnby), 'Night, lovely night' (Berger), 'The Ferry Maiden' (Gaul), 'O my love's like a red red rose' (Garrett).

SCALES.—For anthems 'with plenty of scope for expression and not too difficult,' try: 'O Bountiful Jesu' and 'Sing a song of praise' (Stainer), 'The day Thou gavest' (Woodward), 'The day is past and over' (Marks), 'The Lord is loving' (Garrett), 'O Lord our Governour,' (Gadsby), 'Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace' (C. Lee Williams), 'O how amiable' (Barnby).

J. W. A. (Para).—The following books on the violin will furnish some fiddle literature of interest:—'The Violin,' by George Hart; 'Violin making as it was and is,' by E. Heron-Allen; 'Researches into the early history of the violin family,' by Carl Engel; 'Dictionary of violin makers,' primer by C. Stainer. See a review on p. 319 of our present issue.

TEACHER.—For school cantatas, without scenery, suitable to pupils between nine and thirteen years of age, see 'The Spider and the Fly' and 'The Frogs and the Ox' (Bridge), 'A day in Summer' (Adams), 'The Court of Queen Summergold' (Wareing), 'The Hare and the Tortoise' (Gaul), and 'Singers from the Sea' (Behrend).

T. M.—Try the following vocal duets (mezzo-soprano, or mezzo-soprano and contralto): 'Oh! 'tis sweet to think' and 'Oh! where's the shore?' (Moore), 'Curfew,' five vocal duets (Cowen), 'Waken not the sleeper' (Reinecke), 'Bells at eve' and 'The violet's plea' (Abt), 'It was a lover and his lass' (German).

L. L.—We regret our inability to furnish you with information concerning T. B. Mason, editor and compiler of the 'Ohio Sacred Harp, published in 1834-36.' Perhaps some of our American readers can tell you something about that gentleman.

G. F. D.—A correspondent informs us that the Music Trades' Association of Great Britain holds periodical examinations for pianoforte tuners, and grants certificates. The Secretary is Mr. W. T. Peat, Richmond, Surrey.

M.E.—We believe that the Battoni portrait of Mozart was sold by the late John Ella before his death. A reproduction of it is to be found in Ella's 'Sketches at home and abroad.'

ST. DUNSTAN.—The Hon. Secretary of the London Gregorian Association is Mr. R. Alderson Turner, 4, Wemyss Road, Blackheath.

G. A. C.—Grove's Life of Beethoven, in the 'Dictionary of Music and Musicians,' is the best biography of the master in the English language at the present time.

REX.—The Daily Graphic, of November 21, 1901, gave particulars and a sketch of the Stroh violin.

E. L.—The extract could not have been taken from the Musical World, as that journal ceased to exist in 1891.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO & CO., LIMITED.

BATH, S.—A Confirmation Hymn ("Saviour, before Thy Throne"). 1d.

BENNETT, GEORGE J.—"Hark! hark! the organ loudly peals." Processional Hymn. (No. 598. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 1d.

BUTTON, H. ELLIOT—"I love my Jean." Four-part Song. (No. 710. The Musical Times.) 1½d.

CHILD, DR. W.—"O Lord, grant the King a long life." (No. 113. Novello's Short Anthems.) 2d.

COENEN, WILLEM—"Peace, perfect peace." (Hymns A. & M., No. 537.) Transcribed for the Pianoforte. 2s.

COLE, FREDERICK G.—Allegretto. For the Organ. 1s. 6d.

COLERIDGE-TAYLOR, S.—"Great is he who fused the might." Drinking Song, from "Ulysses." Written by STEPHEN PHILLIPS. For Tenor. 2s.

—— "O set the sails." Song, from "Ulysses." Written by STEPHEN PHILLIPS. For Tenor. 2s.

—— "From the green heart of the waters." For S.S.A. Nymphs' Song (from "Ulysses"). The words written by STEPHEN PHILLIPS. (No. 345. Novello's Octavo Edition of Trios, Quartets, &c.) 3d.

CORONATION MARCHES.—Books I. and II. Selected and arranged by H. ELLIOT BUTTON. Price, each, 1s. For Contents, see page 343.

CRADDOCK, CHARLES S.—"When he who adores thee." Four-part Song. (No. 884. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 2d.

CUMMINGS, WILLIAM H.—"God save the King." The origin and history of the music and words of the National Anthem. Cloth, gilt, 3s. 6d.

DENTON, RICHARD—"God save the King." A National Anthem. Words only, 2s. per 100.

ELGAR, EDWARD—"The Dream of Gerontius." Vocal Parts, 1s. 6d. each.

—— "God save the King." Arranged. (No. 885. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 3d.

FOSTER, MYLES B.—"Now know I that the Lord." An Anthem for the King's Coronation. 1st Violin, 6d.; 2nd Violin, 6d.; Viola, 6d.; Violoncello, 6d.; Basso, 6d.; Valve Trumpets, 6d; Timpani, 3d.; Organ, 6d.

GERMAN, EDWARD—Bourrée and Gigue. From the Music to "Much Ado about Nothing." Full Score, 7s. 6d.

—— Gipsy Suite. Four Characteristic Dances. Full Score, 10s. 6d.

—— Masque. From the Music to "As you like it." Full Score, 7s. 6d.

—— Overture to "Richard III." Full Score, 7s. 6d.

—— Pavane. From the Music to "Romeo and Juliet." Full Score. 3s. 6d.

GOODEVE, MRS. ARTHUR.—"Safe in Thy care." Funeral Hymn. 1d.

GOODHART, A. M.—"What can I give Jesus?" Hymn. For a Children's Flower Service. (No. 600. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 1d. Words only, 2s. 6d. per 100.

GOSS, SIR JOHN—"O Lord, Thou art my God." Anthem. For General Use. (No. 727. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

—— "Forsake me not." Anthem. For Tenor Solo, Quartet, and Chorus. (No. 728. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 4d.

HAM, ALBERT—A Manual on the Boy's Voice and its Culture. Cloth, 1s.

HANDEL, G. F.—"Judas Maccabæus." Cornetti 1 & 2 (transposed from the Trombe part). 1s.

HARBER, W. L.—"Hurrah! for Buller." Song. For Contralto or Baritone. 2s.

HEAP, JULIUS—Coronation Hymn ("Great King of Nations, hear us"). 1d.

JENNER, THOMAS—Coronation Canticles: Ode, Retrospect, Anthem. Words only, 2d.; Special Edition, 6d.

JOZÉ, T. R. G.—"The harvest rose." Old Irish Air. Arranged for S.A.T.B. (No. 887. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 3d.

—— "O'Sullivan Mór." Old Irish Air. Arranged for S.A.T.B. (No. 888. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 2d.

—— "When through life." Old Irish Air. Arranged for S.A.T.B. (No. 889. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 2d.

—— "A Lament." Irish Melody. Arranged for S.A.T.B. (No. 890. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 2d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

KEETON, HAYDN—"Thou Lord of Hosts." A Coronation Hymn. 2d.

KING, OLIVER A.—Offertoire, No. 1. (No. 298. Original Compositions for the Organ.) 1s. 6d.

LESLIE, HENRY—"The rainbow." Four-part Song. (No. 882. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 3d.

—— "Kind Words." Four-part Song. (No. 883. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 3d.

LOOSEMORE, HENRY—(in D minor). The Litany. Edited by JOHN B. LOTT. (No. 584. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 4d.

MACFARREN, G. A.—"May-Day." A Cantata. Cornetti (transposed from Trombe parts). 1s.

MACPHERSON, CHARLES—"If a man die, shall he live again." Anthem. For Advent, or General Use. (No. 711. The Musical Times.) 1½d.

MALKIN, HAROLD—Hymn Tune and Chant. On Card. 2d.

MENDELSSOHN-BARTHOLDY, F.—Cornelius March. Cornetti (transposed from Trombe part). 3d.

PARRY, C. H. H.—"English Lyrics" (Fifth Set). 1. A stray nymph of Dian; 2. Proud Maisie; 3. Crabbed age and youth; 4. Lay a garland on my hearse; 5. Love and laughter; 6. A girl to her glass; 7. A Welsh Lullaby. 2s. 6d.

PRICE, RICHARD—"Come, Holy Ghost." Hymn. For Whit-Sunday (or Confirmation). 2d.

ROGERS, BRENDAN J.—Irish Wedding Song. The "Kilkenny Air" arranged for S.A.T.B. (No. 886. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 3d.

ROSENKRANZ, A. — Novello's Catalogue of Orchestral Music. A Manual of the Orchestral Literature of all countries. Cloth, 2s. 6d.

RUBINSTEIN, ANTON—"Birdie." English and German words. (No. 122. Novello's Octavo Edition of Two-part Songs.) 3d.

—— "Night." English and German words. (No. 123. Novello's Octavo Edition of Two-part Songs.) 4d.

SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW. No. 119. Contains the following Music in both Notations: "God save the King." For Soprano and Alto Soli, and Three-part Chorus, with Accompaniment. Adapted from Sir MICHAEL COSTA'S Arrangement. "Here's a health unto His Majesty." Solo and Three-part Chorus. Composed by JOHN SAVILE. "All through the night." Unaccompanied Trio (S.S.A.) Welsh Air. 1½d.

SCHOOL SONGS.—Edited by W. G. McNAUGHT. Published in two forms. A. Voice Parts in Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, 8vo size; B. Voice Parts only in Tonic Sol-fa Notation.

		A.	B.
No. 325.	All among the Barley. Arranged for S.S.A. ELIZABETH STIRLING	1½d.	1d.
573.	The Instrumental Band. Action Song. PERCY E. FLETCHER	2d.	—
,, 587.	In a garden. Chorus for S.S.A. S. P. WADDINGTON	3d.	1d.
,, 588.	On departure. Trio for S.S.A. Staff Notation only ... ... FRANZ ABT	2d.	—
,, 677.	Coronation Day. Unison Song PERCY E. FLETCHER	1½d.	—
,, 678.	The crowning of the King. Unison Song HERBERT W. WAREING	1½d.	—
,, 679.	Heaven bless our Lord the King. Choral March. For Children's Voices CUTHBERT HARRIS	1½d.	—
,, 681.	The brook is rippling merrily. A Spring Song. Trio, for S.S.A. (Unaccompanied). Staff Notation only ... A. H. ASHWORTH	1½d.	1½d.
,, 687.	Where are the swallows fled? Four-part Song. For S.S.A.A. Staff notation only HENRY HILES	1½d.	1d.
Book 99.	Six Unaccompanied Trios. By Various Composers	6d.	3d.
Book 122.	Sixteen National Songs. By Various Composers	—	3d.

SMITH, DAVID STANLEY—"Doth not wisdom cry." Festival Anthem. For Baritone Solo and Chorus. (No. 737. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

—— "The Lord is my Shepherd." Anthem. For Baritone Solo and Chorus. (No. 738. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

—— "I will lift up mine eyes." Anthem. For Soprano Solo and Chorus. (No. 739. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

STAINER, J.—Jubilant March. (No. 299. Original Compositions for the Organ.) 1s. 6d.

STEANE, BRUCE—"This is the day." Coronation and General Thanksgiving Anthem. (No. 735. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 4d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

SULLIVAN, ARTHUR—"Lord of Might, our land's Defender." Coronation Hymn. Words only, 2s. 6d. per 100.

TEN NATIONAL HYMNS AND TUNES. For Children's Use at Coronation Festivals. 2d. Words only, 3s. per 100. For contents, see page 349.

THORNE, R. GOULD—Grand Coronation Processional ("Brightly gleams our banner"). 2d.; 1s. 6d. per dozen.

TONIC SOL-FA SERIES. Edited by W. G. McNAUGHT:—

No. 1234.	Lord of Might, our land's Defender. Coronation Hymn ... ... ARTHUR SULLIVAN	1d.
,, 1244.	Let not your heart be troubled (S.A.T.B.) MYLES B. FOSTER	1d.
,, 1253.	This is the day. Coronation and General Thanksgiving Anthem ... ... BRUCE STEANE	2d.
,, 1255.	I love my Jean ... ... H. ELLIOT BUTTON	1d.
,, 1256.	God save the King ... Arr. by EDWARD ELGAR	1d.

BACH, J. S.—"Sleepers, wake." A Church Cantata. For Soprano, Tenor, and Bass Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra. 6d.

—— "Jesu, priceless Treasure." Motet. For Five Voices. 6d.

ELGAR, EDWARD—"The Dream of Gerontius." Set to music for Mezzo-Soprano, Tenor, and Bass Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra. Choruses only, 1s. 6d.

HANDEL, G. F.—"The King shall rejoice." Coronation Anthem. 3d.

SULLIVAN, ARTHUR—"Festival Te Deum" and "Domine, salvum fac." For Soprano Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra. Organ and Military Band, ad lib. 1s.

TEN NATIONAL HYMNS. For Children's Use at Coronation Festivals. 2d.

URSWICK, CHRISTOPHER—"My Paradise." Song. For Contralto or Baritone. The words written by L. D. (after Anacreon). 2s.

—— "The Wheel of Fortune." Song. For Contralto or Baritone. The words written by Lord TENNYSON. 2s.

WANLESS, THOMAS—(in C minor). The Litany. Edited by JOHN B. LOTT. (No. 585. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 4d.

WAREING, HERBERT W.—Coronation March. 1st Violin, 6d.; 2nd Violin, 6d.; Viola, 6d.; Violoncello, 6d.; Basso, 6d.

WELCH, H. T.—Vesper Hymn ("Grant us, Lord"). On Card, 1d.; 6d. per dozen.

WHITE, MARY LOUISA—"A night's rhapsody." Part-Song. For Two Female Voices. 4d.

WILLGOOSE, FRANK—"God be merciful." General Anthem. 2d.

REDUCED PRICE.

REDMAN, DOUGLAS—"Cor unum, via una"—The High School for Girls' Cantata. 1s. 6d.

TWO Extra Supplements are given with the present number:—

1. A Portrait of Henry Smart. From a Photograph by John Fergus, Largs, N.B.
2. Coronation Anthem: 'This is the day,' by Bruce Steane.

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	3	0
Three Lines	0	3	4
For every additional Line	0	0	10
Half a Column	2	0	0
A Column	4	0	0
A Page	7	10	0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.

A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To ensure insertion in proper position Advertisements for the next issue should reach the Office NOT LATER THAN MAY 20.

CONTENTS.

	Page
Henry Smart (with Special Portrait)	297
The Foundling Hospital and its Music (Illustrated)	304
Handel's 'Messiah'—The New Edition by Professor Prout	311
Occasional Notes	313
Church and Organ Music (with Illustrations)	316
Reviews	318
Obituary	328
'Merrie England' at the Savoy	328
Royal Choral Society	328
Royal Academy of Music	329
London Concerts	329
Choral and Orchestral Societies	329
Competitions	330
Music in America	331
,, Vienna	332
,, Birmingham	332
,, Bristol and District	333
,, Dublin	333
,, East Anglia	334
,, Glasgow	334
,, Gloucester and District	334
,, Liverpool and District	334
,, Manchester	335
,, Northumberland and Durham	335
,, Sheffield and District	336
,, Yorkshire	336
Miscellaneous	337
Foreign Notes	337
Correspondence	338
Brief Summary of Country and Colonial News	339
Answers to Correspondents	341
Music published during the last Month	341
Anthem for Advent or General Use—'If a man die, shall he live again.'—Charles Macpherson	321

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

Published on the 1st of every Month. Price 1½d. Annual Subscription, including Postage, 2s.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW for MAY contains:—

General Notes.
Elementary State-aided Schools and Singing.
The Harmonization of Melodies in Four Vocal Parts. By Cuthbert Harris—(Finish of Course).
Death of Mr. Luther Hinton.
Musical Festivals and Competitions.
The Tonic Sol-fa College Examination, 1902.
Music in Scotch Training Colleges.
School Music in Ireland.
Songs presented at the Chester Training College Examination, 1901.
London Union of Training College Clubs' Annual Concert.
Theory Questions.
Performances of "Princess Zara."
Miscellaneous Items.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

The MAY number contains the following music:—
"Little Miss Muffet." Round. For Three Voices. By F. Nesbitt.
"The Maybells and the Flowers." Two-part Song. By Mendelssohn.
Sight-Singing Tests.
Also, Extra Supplement, containing "Coronation Day." Unison Song. By Percy E. Fletcher. (No. 677 of Novello's School Songs. Price 1½d.)

The Music and Exercises can always be obtained separately. Price 1½d.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Just Published.

FULL SCORES
OF THE
FOLLOWING WORKS
BY EDWARD GERMAN.

	s.	d.
BOURRÉE AND GIGUE ("Much ado about nothing")	7	6
GIPSY SUITE (Four Characteristic Dances)	10	6
MASQUE ("As you like it")	7	6
OVERTURE to "Richard III."	7	6
PAVANE ("Romeo and Juliet")	3	6

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Just Published.

CORONATION MARCHES
FOR THE PIANOFORTE
SELECTED AND ARRANGED BY
H. ELLIOT BUTTON.

BOOK I.

Coronation March	Meyerbeer
Triumphal March	Beethoven
His Majesty, the King	F. H. Cowen
Coronation Song	Eaton Faning
March (from "Moses in Egypt")	Rossini
March (from "Scipio")	Handel
Cornelius March	Mendelssohn
March of the Men of Harlech
King Edward VII. March	H. Elliot Button

BOOK. II.

King Edward Coronation March	Alfred Hollins
Coronation March	Edward German
The British Grenadiers
March ("Let the hills resound")	Brinley Richards
March (from "Abraham")	Molique
The Empire Flag	A. C. Mackenzie
March of the Israelites (from "Eli")	Michael Costa
Empire March	Percy Jackman

Price One Shilling each Book.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Just Published.

CORONATION SONG-BOOK
FOR SCHOOL FESTIVALS.

CONTENTS.

King Edward VII. March (Pianoforte)	H. Elliot Button
The Empire Flag	A. C. Mackenzie
Let the hills resound	Brinley Richards
The Minstrel Boy	Irish Air
Sons of Britain	Thomas Facer
Children's Coronation Song	G. W. Torrance
Rule, Britannia	Dr. Arne
Heaven bless our Lord the King	Cuthbert Harris
Bonnie Dundee	Scotch Air
Coronation Day	Percy E. Fletcher
March of the Men of Harlech	Welsh Air
God prosper him—our King	J. Barnby
O lovely Peace	Handel
God save the King	Dr. John Bull

Price One Shilling.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Will be published on May 14.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS
With ad lib. parts for two Trumpets (or Cornets) and Tympani
COMPOSED IN CELEBRATION OF THE CORONATION OF
HIS MAJESTY KING EDWARD VII.
BY POPPLEWELL ROYLE
(A simple Festival Setting).
Price Threepence; ad lib. Accompaniment and Parts, One Shilling.
London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Just Published.

FROM THE GREEN HEART OF THE WATERS
TRIO FOR S.S.A.
NYMPHS' SONG (FROM "ULYSSES")
THE WORDS WRITTEN BY STEPHEN PHILLIPS
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR.

Price Threepence.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

SEA-KINGS. Effective Part-Song (National words) for Men's Voices. By J. J. Jones. Price Twopence.
London: Weekes and Co.

THE OLD FIRM.

P. CONACHER & CO.,
Organ Builders,
SPRINGWOOD WORKS,
HUDDERSFIELD.
TWO GOLD MEDALS.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,
ORGAN BUILDERS,
PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.
(ESTABLISHED 1841.)
Specifications and Estimates sent free.

ORGAN for SALE. Two manuals, pedals, and bourdons. 12 stops. Compass, CC to G. B. Williams, 2, St. Jude's Villas, Meeting House Lane, Peckham, S.E.

TWO-MANUAL and PEDAL ORGANS, at Bargain Prices for Cash. A 160-guinea "Bell," 2 manuals and pedals, for 65 guineas; a £276 two-manual and pedal "Mason and Hamlin," 23 stops, 13 sets, 75 guineas; a three-manual and pedal ditto, 21 sets, 30 stops. Also several large Organs and Harmoniums, by Estey, Bell, Karn, Alexandre, Debain, &c., at one-third usual price. Every instrument guaranteed. Packing or carriage free. Inspection invited. Messrs. Stagg and Sons, 56, Red Lion Street, Holborn

TWO- and Three-manual CHURCH ORGANS, 12 and 27 stops. Great organ and pedals. Tubular pneumatic, modern compass. Estimates free. W. E. Richardson and Sons, Central Organ Works, Hulme, Manchester.

STUDIO ORGAN. Three manuals and pedals; also Student's Organ, two manuals and pedals, and two hydraulic blowers, FOR SALE. Willis, 2, Church Row, Aldgate, London, E.

SMALL PIPE ORGAN, 6 stops, with pedals. Removed to make room for large organ. The above small Organ is in excellent condition, and is enclosed in general swell. Price, £30. Further particulars, apply E. Whomes, Bexley Heath, Kent.

FOR SALE, Three-manual ORGAN, built by Jardine. In good condition. Pedal, 2 stops; Great, 5 stops; Swell, 8 stops; Choir, 4 stops; usual couplers. Price, £250. Apply, Vicar, Staincliffe, Dewsbury.

ORGAN, 3-Manual, by BEVINGTON, FOR SALE. This fine instrument, formerly in the Church of St. Mary, Moorfields. Full particulars on application to L., care of H. S. Reeks, 54, Paternoster Row, E.C.

ORGANS (New and Second-hand) for SALE. Various prices. Instruments built for Church or Chamber, from £50, on up-to-date principles, at Bedwell and Son's, Cambridge Organ Works, Cambridge.

RELIABLE SECOND-HAND ORGANS for SALE. One, Two, and Three Manuals and Pedals. Prices from £45 to £500. Particulars on application. Gray and Davison, 6, Pratt Street, Camden Town, N.W. Organ Builders to Her late Majesty the Queen and H.R.H. Prince Consort. Established 1750.

MODERN-BUILT ORGANS for SALE.—Three Manuals (CC to G) and Pedals (CCC to F), 34 stops (open for inspection in London Church), £420. Three-manual and Pedal Chamber Organ. Height, 10 ft. 10 inches; part pneumatic. Open to offer. Two manuals and pedals, 15 stops, each, £175 and £150. One manual and pedals, 7 stops, £17. Inspection invited.
Eustace Ingram, Organ Builder,
Only Address, 361, Liverpool Road, London, N.

FOR SALE, a large 3-manual CHURCH ORGAN. Now in use at St. John's Church, Hove, Brighton. 36 stops. Handsome case. Built by Hedgeland. Cost about £800; offered for £100. Apply, Mr. Ernest Holmyard, Mus. Bac., Oxon., 37, Ventnor Villas, Hove, Sussex.

ORGAN FOR SALE, 22-ft. high, 13 wide, 9-ft. deep. Provision for 22 stops; swell complete; most of great also; 16-ft. Pedal Pipe; keys ready for choir. No agents. For particulars, apply to Mr. James, Emerson Cottage, Brampton, Huntingdon.

9 GUINEAS.—AMERICAN ORGAN (list price, 20 guineas), 11 stops, including two knee-stops and the beautiful solo stops, voix celeste and vox humana; two octave couplers, handsome high case; in use about four months; ten years' warranty; easy terms arranged. Packing and carriage free. Approval. Full price paid will be allowed within three years if exchanged for a higher-class instrument. D'Almaine and Co. (established 117 years), 91, Finsbury Pavement, E.C. Open till 7. Saturdays, 3.

ORGAN PEDALS to PIANOS.—New method of Attachment by TUBULAR PNEUMATIC. This action surpasses all mechanical actions for prompt and Organ-like Touch. It is less expensive, easier to attach, and does not injure the most delicate Pianoforte. Prospectus and price list free. Apply to Norman and Beard, Ltd., 11, Queen Victoria Street, E.C.

CHRISTOPHE HARMONIUM. 6 sets of Reeds in treble and 4 in bass. Burr Walnut case. Perfect condition inside and out. Price £22. Apply, E. Whomes, Bexley Heath, Kent.

VIRGIL CLAVIER for SALE. Splendid condition; equal to new. A bargain. Apply, J. T., 96, Meldon Terrace, Heaton, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

15 GUINEAS.—PIANO ("Empress" Model), solid iron-frame upright grand (list price, 35 guineas); full compass, full trichord, French check action, &c.; in handsomely carved walnut wood case, four feet two inches in height; in use only six months; sent on approval, carriage paid, to any part of the United Kingdom; ten years' warranty; easy terms arranged; full price paid will be allowed if exchanged for a higher-class instrument within three years. D'Almaine and Co. (established 117 years), 91, Finsbury Pavement, City. Open till 7. Saturdays, 3.

DOUBLE-BASS for SALE. 4 Strings. Good condition, with case, £20. Apply, by letter, Walker, 13, Stafford Mansions, Albert Bridge Road, S.W.

ORGAN.—Offers are invited for a good 2-manual CHURCH ORGAN. Great organ, 12 stops; swell organ, 8 stops; pedal organ, 3 stops; couplers, &c. The organ is to be disposed of at a moderate sum in consequence of the proposed erection, at an early date, of a larger instrument. Inspection invited. Church situated in the West End of London. Full particulars may be obtained by written application to Mr. Geo. H. Halliday, 29, Chesterton Road, North Kensington, W.

In the Press.

POSTHUMOUS WORKS BY JOHANNES BRAHMS
ELEVEN CHORAL-PRELUDES
FOR THE ORGAN
(Op. 122)
IN TWO BOOKS.

Book I.—Price Four Shillings net.
Book II.—Price Four Shillings net.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

In the Press.
WILL BE PUBLISHED IN MAY.

THE FULL ORCHESTRAL SCORE
OF
THE DREAM OF GERONTIUS
COMPOSED BY
EDWARD ELGAR.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Dedicated by kind permission
To His Grace The Duke of Rutland, K.G.

GOD SAVE THE KING
For Voices, with varied Accompaniment for Pianoforte or Organ
By SAMUEL REAY, Mus. Bac., Oxon.
Price Sixpence.
London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Will shortly be published. Price 4d.

Dedicated by special permission
To His Grace The Archbishop of York, Primate of England.
A CORONATION ANTHEM
COMPOSED BY
SAMUEL REAY, Mus. Bac., Oxon.
London: Patey and Willis, Berners Street, W.

MAY THE KING LIVE. ALLELUIA! CORONATION ANTHEM. By Thos. Smith, Composer of "O worship the Lord," 35th Ed.; "Thou crownest the year," 42nd Ed., &c. 3d. To be had only from the Composer, Music Warehouse, Bury St. Edmunds.

GRAND CORONATION PROCESSIONAL, "Brightly gleams our Banner." Composed by R. Gould Thorne. Price 2d.; per dozen, 1s. 6d.
London: Novello and Company, Limited.

In the Press.
THE DIOCESAN CHANT BOOK.
London: Novello and Company, Limited.

ANTHEMS FOR ASCENSIONTIDE.

*Move all praise and all majesty ... ... Mendelssohn 1½d.
*Achieved is the glorious work ... ... Haydn 1d.
*Achieved is the glorious work (2nd Chorus) ... Haydn 1½d.
*All glory to the Lamb ... ... Spohr 1½d.
Awake up my glory ... ... M. Wise 3d.
*Christ became obedient unto death ... ...J. F. Bridge 1½d.
Christ is not entered into the Holy Places ... Eaton Faning 1½d.
For it became Him ... ... Oliver King 1½d.
*God is gone up ... ... Croft 4d.
*God, my King ... ... Bach 1½d.
Grant, we beseech Thee ... ... H. Lahee 1½d.
*Hallelujah unto God's Almighty Son ... ... Beethoven 3d.
*How excellent Thy Name, O Lord ... ... Handel 1½d.
If ye then be risen ... ... J. Naylor 3d.
If ye then be risen (Two Parts) ... ... Myles B. Foster 3d.
In My Father's house ... ...J. Maude Crament 3d.
In that day ... ... George Elvey 8d.
It shall come to pass ... ... B. Tours 1½d.
*King all glorious ... ... J. Barnby 6d.
*Leave us not, neither forsake us ... ... J. Stainer 1½d.
Let not your heart be troubled (Double Chorus, unaccompanied) Myles B. Foster 3d.
*Ditto (Four-part arrangement, with organ) Myles B. Foster 3d.

*Let their celestial concerts all unite ... * ... Handel 1½d.
*Lift up your heads ... ... Handel 1½d.
*Lift up your heads ... ... S. Coleridge-Taylor 3d.
*Lift up your heads ... ... J. L. Hopkins 1½d.
O, all ye people, clap your hands ... ... H. Purcell 3d.
*O clap your hands ... ... J. Stainer 6d.
O clap your hands ... ... T. T. Trimnell 3d.
*O God, the King of Glory ... ... H. Smart 4d.
*O God, when Thou appearest ... ... Mozart 3d.
*O how amiable ... ... J. Barnby 3d.
*O Lord our Governour ... ... H. Gadsby 3d.
O Lord our Governour ... ... Marcello 1½d.
*O risen Lord ... ... J. Barnby 1½d.
*Open to me the gates ... ... F. Adlam 4d.
*Rejoice in the Lord ... ...J. Baptiste Calkin 3d.
The earth is the Lord's ... ... T. T. Trimnell 4d.
*The Lord is exalted ... ... J. E. West 1½d.
The Lord is King ... ... H. Gadsby 6d.
The Lord is King ... ... H. J. King 4d.
*Unfold, ye portals ... ... Ch. Gounod 6d.
Where Thou reignest ... ... Schubert 3d.
Who is this so weak and helpless ... ... Rayner 2d.

 Anthems marked thus () may be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. to 2d. each.

ANTHEMS FOR WHITSUNTIDE.

And all the people saw ... ... J. Stainer 6d.
And suddenly there came ... ... Henry J. Wood 3d.
And when the day of Pentecost ... ... Charles W. Smith 3d.
*As pants the hart ... ... Spohr 1½d.
*As the hart pants ... ... Mendelssohn 1½d.
Behold, I send the promise ... ... J. Varley Roberts 4d.
*Come, Holy Ghost ... ... T. Attwood 1½d.
Come, Holy Ghost ... ... J. L. Hatton 4d.
Come, Holy Ghost ... ... George Elvey 4d.
Come, Holy Ghost ... ... C. Lee Williams 2d.
*Eye hath not seen (Two-part setting) ... Myles B. Foster 3d.
*Eye hath not seen (Four-part setting) ... Myles B. Foster 6d.
Give thanks unto God ... ... Spohr 4d.
*God came from Teman ... ... C. Steggall 4d.
*God is a Spirit ... ... W. S. Bennett 6d.
*Great is the Lord ... ... W. Hayes 4d.
*Grieve not the Holy Spirit ... ... J. Stainer 3d.
Happy is the man ... ... E. Prout 8d.
He that dwelleth in the secret place ... ... Josiah Booth 4d.
*Holy Spirit, come, O come (Ad Spiritum Sanctum) G. C. Martin 1½d.
I was in the Spirit ... ... Blow 6d.
*I will not leave you comfortless ... ... Bruce Steane 2d.
*I will pray the Father ... ... Rev. G. W. Torrance 1½d.
*If I go not away ... ... Thomas Adams 1½d.
If ye love Me ... ... C. S. Heap 1½d.
*If ye love Me ... ... W. H. Monk 1½d.
*If ye love Me ... ... Tallis 1½d.
*If ye love Me ... ... R. P. Stewart 1½d.
If ye love Me ... ... Herbert W. Wareing 3d.
If ye love Me ... ... Bruce Steane 2d.
In My Father's house ... ...J. Maude Crament 3d.

It shall come to pass ... ... G. Garrett 6d.
*It shall come to pass ... ... B. Tours 1½d.
Let God arise ... ... Greene 6d.
Let God arise ... ... T. T. Trimnell 4d.
*Let not your heart be troubled ... ... H. G. Trembath 3d
*O clap your hands ... ... J. Stainer 6d.
*O give thanks ... ... George Elvey 3d.
*O Holy Ghost, into our minds ... ... G. A. Macfarren 1½d.
*Oh! for a closer walk with God ... ... Myles B. Foster 1½d.
*O taste and see ... ... Goss 3d.
O taste and see ... ...A. H. Mann 3d.
*O taste and see ... ... Sullivan 1½d.
O Thou, the true and only Light ... ... Mendelssohn 2d.
O where shall wisdom be found ... ... Boyce 6d.
*Our blest Redeemer ... ... Rev. E. V. Hall 3d.
*Praise be the Lord daily ... ...J. B. Calkin 1½d.
Sing to the Lord ... ... Smart 1s.
*Spirit of mercy, truth, and love ... ... B. Luard Selby 1½d.
The eyes of all wait upon Thee ... ... Gibbons 4d.
*The glory of the God of Israel ... ... T. Adams 3d.
The Lord descended ... ... Hayes 1½d.
The Lord is in His Holy Temple ... ... J. Stainer 4d.
The Lord is in His Holy Temple ... ... E. H. Thorne 1½d.
The love of God is shed above ... ... S. Reay 3d.
There is no condemnation ... ... H. S. Irons 3d.
*The wilderness ... ... Goss 6d.
The wilderness ... ... S. S. Wesley 8d.
*When God of old came down from Heaven Rev. E. V. Hall 3d.
We will rejoice ... ... Croft 4d.
Whosoever drinketh ... ... J. T. Field 1½d

 Anthems marked thus () may be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. to 2d. each.

ANTHEMS FOR TRINITYTIDE.

*Almighty and everlasting God... ... ... Gibbons 1½d.
Ascribe unto the Lord ... ... S. S. Wesley 8d.
Behold, God is great ... ... E. W. Naylor 4d.
Beloved, if God so loved us ... ... J. Barnby 1½d.
Beloved, let us love one another ... ... Gerard F. Cobb 1½d.
Be ye all of one mind ... ...Arthur E. Godfrey 3d.
*Blessed is the man ... ... John Goss 4d.
Blessing and glory ... ...Boyce 1½d.
Blessing, glory ... ... Bach 6d.
*God came from Teman ... ... C. Steggall 4d.
*God so loved the world ... ...Matthew Kingston 1½d.
Grant, O Lord ... ... Mozart 1½d.
*Hail, gladdening Light ... ... J. T. Field 2d.
Hail, gladdening Light ... ... G. C. Martin 4d.
He in tears that soweth (s.s.A.) in Key of A ... F. Hiller 1½d.
He in tears that soweth (s.s.A.) in Key of A flat ... F. Hiller 1½d.
*Holy, holy, holy ... ... Crotch 3d.
*How goodly are Thy tents ... ... F. Ouseley 1½d.
*How lovely are Thy dwellings... ... ...Spohr 1½d.
*I am Alpha and Omega ... ... J. Stainer 1½d.
I am Alpha and Omega ... ... J. Varley Roberts 3d.
I beheld, and lo! ... ... Blow 6d.
I know that the Lord is great ... ... F. Ouseley 1½d.
I saw the Lord ... ... J. Stainer 6d.
I will magnify ... ... J. Shaw 3d.
I will sing of Thy power ... ... Greene 4d.
*I will sing of Thy power ... ... A. Sullivan 1½d.
I will sing unto the Lord ... ...H. Wareing 3d.
*In humble faith ... ... G. Garrett 1d.
*In Jewry is God known ... ...J. Clarke-Whitfeld 1½d.

In sweet consent ... ... E. H. Thorne 3d.
In the fear of the Lord ... ... J. Varley Roberts 3d.
Let the peace of God ... ... J. Stainer 4d.
Light of the world ... ... E. Elgar 3d.
*Lord of all power and might ... ... William Mason 1½d.
Ditto (men's voices) ... ... J. Barnby 2d.
*Lord, we pray Thee ... ... J. Varley Roberts 1½d.
O Father blest ... ... J. Barnby 3d.
O joyful Light ... ... B. Tours 3d.
*O Lord, my trust... ... ... King Hall 1½d.
*O taste and see ... ... J. Goss 3d.
*O taste and see ... ... A. Sullivan 1½d.
O taste and see ... ...A. H. Mann 3d.
O where shall wisdom be found? ... ... Boyce 6d.
Ponder my words, O Lord ... ... Arnold D. Culley 1½d
*Praise His awful Name ... ... Spohr 2d.
Rejoice in the Lord ... ... G. C. Martin 6d.
*See what love hath the Father ... ... Mendelssohn 1½d.
Sing to the Lord ... ... Mendelssohn 8d.
*Stand up and bless ... ... J. Goss 4d.
Teach me Thy way ... ... W. H. Gladstone 1½d.
*The Lord hath been mindful ... ... S. S. Wesley 3d.
*The Lord is my Shepherd ... ... G. A. Macfarren 1½d.
The Lord is my Shepherd ... ... J. Shaw 3d.
The Lord will comfort Zion ... ... H. Hiles 6d.
Thou shalt shew me the path of life ... ... Alan Gray 1½d.
We have heard with our ears ... ... H. Aldrich 1s.
Whatsoever is born of God ... ... H. Oakeley 3d.
Who can comprehend Thee ... ... Mozart 3d.

 Anthems marked thus () may be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. to 2d. each.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED
AND
NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

ANTHEMS FOR WHITSUNTIDE.

RECENTLY PUBLISHED.

I WILL PRAY THE FATHER
COMPOSED BY
G. W. TORRANCE.
Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

OUR BLEST REDEEMER
COMPOSED BY
REV. E. VINE HALL.
Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

SPIRIT OF MERCY, TRUTH, AND LOVE
COMPOSED BY
B. LUARD SELBY.
Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

THE GLORY OF THE GOD OF ISRAEL
COMPOSED BY
THOMAS ADAMS.
Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

EYE HATH NOT SEEN
(FOUR-PART SETTING)
COMPOSED BY
MYLES B. FOSTER.
Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

I WILL NOT LEAVE YOU COMFORTLESS
COMPOSED BY
BRUCE STEANE.
Price Twopence; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.

IF I GO NOT AWAY
COMPOSED BY
THOMAS ADAMS.
Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

ANTHEMS FOR TRINITYTIDE.

RECENTLY PUBLISHED.

LIGHT OF THE WORLD
FINAL CHORUS FROM "THE LIGHT OF LIFE"
COMPOSED BY
EDWARD ELGAR.
Price Threepence.

BEHOLD, GOD IS GREAT
COMPOSED BY
E. W. NAYLOR.
Price Fourpence.

O JOYFUL LIGHT
COMPOSED BY BERTHOLD TOURS.
Price Fourpence.

I AM ALPHA AND OMEGA
COMPOSED BY
J. VARLEY ROBERTS.
Price Threepence.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

CANTIONES SACRÆ

MUSICAL SETTINGS
OF
THE ROMAN LITURGY
EDITED BY
DOM SAMUEL GREGORY OULD,
MONK OF THE ORDER OF ST. BENEDICT.

33. ADESTE FIDELES. The complete Text (8 verses), with a Prelude by Dr. F. E. Gladstone, and varied Accompaniments by H. B. Collins, Dom Samuel G. Ould, Sir Walter Parratt, Sir C. Hubert H. Parry, Dr. C. W. Pearce, William Sewell, Dr. A. E. Tozer, and S. P. Waddington 1s.
4. ADORAMUS TE, CHRISTE .. Mozart 2d.
22. ADOREMUS (FOR BENEDICTION) F. E. Gladstone 2d.
2. ADOREMUS (MOTET) .. C. W. Pearce 6d.
10. ALMA REDEMPTORIS MATER W. Sewell 2d.
27. AVE MARIS STELLA S. P. Waddington 6d.
11. AVE REGINA CŒLORUM W. Sewell 2d.
35. AVE VERUM (In the Press) .. E. Elgar 2d.
26. BENEDICTA ET VENERABILIS F. E. Gladstone 6d.
6. BENEDICTION SERVICE (UNISON) S. Ould 3d.
9. BENEDICTION SERVICE (UNISON) J. E. West 3d.
32. BENEDICTION SERVICE A. Zimmermann 2d.
29. COMPLINE HYMN .. .. .. S. Ould 3d.
3. DEUS MISEREATUR .. F. E. Gladstone 6d.
12. DOMINE, SALVUM FAC .. A. E. Tozer 2d.
30. DOMINE, SALVUM FAC .. .. E. Silas 2d.
34. DOMINE, SALVUM FAC .. .. Gounod 2d.
17. HÆC DIES .. .. .. F. E. Gladstone 3d.
7. HODIE SANCTUS BENEDICTUS P. Philips 4d.
20. LITANY OF LORETTO .. F. E. Gladstone 6d.
23. MAGNIFICAT IN A .. .. F. E. Gladstone 8d.
1. MAGNIFICAT IN B FLAT .. .. E. Silas 6d.
28. MAGNIFICAT IN D .. .. .. E. Silas 1s.
31. MAGNIFICAT IN E FLAT .. .. W. Sewell 4d.
15. MISERERE IN F .. .. F. E. Gladstone 3d.
16. MISERERE IN F SHARP MINOR F. E. Gladstone 6d.
25. MISERERE (GREGORIAN CHANT) V. Novello 3d.
19. O SALUTARIS HOSTIA .. F. E. Gladstone 2d.
8. REGINA CŒLI .. .. .. W. Sewell 2d.
14. RESPONSES AT MASS AND OFFICE Harmonised by S. Ould 3d.
36. SALVATOR MUNDI .. Dr. John Blow 4d.
13. SALVE, REGINA .. .. .. Schubert 2d.
5. SALVE, REGINA .. .. W. Sewell 2d.
24. SALVE, REGINA .. R. L. de Pearsall 3d.
18. SALVE, REGINA .. S. P. Waddington 4d.
21. TANTUM ERGO .. .. F. E. Gladstone 2d.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

Just Published.

ARTHUR SULLIVAN'S HYMN TUNE
BISHOPGARTH
Set to new words specially written for Coronation Services
BY MARY BRADFORD WHITING.

Price One Penny.
Words only, 2s. 6d. per 100.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEWLY ENGRAVED AND REVISED.
REDUCED PRICES.

SONGS
COMPOSED BY
Felix Mendelssohn-Bartholdy.

TRANSLATED BY LADY MACFARREN
AND
WILLIAM BARTHOLOMEW.

TRANSPOSED EDITION:
Price, in paper boards, 4s.; cloth, gilt, 6s.

EXTRACT FROM PREFACE.

"The present (transposed) edition contains not only all the songs composed by Mendelssohn—in addition to an air originally written for "St. Paul"—but five by his sister, Fanny Hensel. The latter (see pages 3, 6, 64, 68, and 72, of this volume) were originally published under her brother's name, and were included in his Op. 8 and 9, as she did not wish to court publicity as a composer.

"The translations have been made to agree with the Novello edition of the songs in their original keys; moreover, this reprint has furnished the opportunity for thoroughly revising the songs, and for so laying out the accompaniments that the notes assigned to each hand are now placed in their proper staves. This improvement, in the carrying out of which not a single note of the composer's has been altered, conduces to clearness and will greatly facilitate the important work of the accompanist."

